FULTON, KENTUCKY, FRIDAY, JUNE 30, 1944.

NUMBER TWENTY-FOUR

State Democratic Convention Gives Roosevelt Support

Barkley Endorsed For Vice-President As Running Mate To Fourth Term

The Kentucky State Democratic Convention Tuesday instructed Kentucky's twenty-four delegates to the national convention for President Roosevelt for the fourth term, and to support Senator Alben W. Barkley for Vice President if he allows his name to go before the convention beginning July 17 at Chicago.

J. Lyter Donaldson, Carrollton, was elected chairman of the State Central Executive Committee, succeeding Thomas R. Underwood of Lexington. Former Gov. Keen Johnson, Richmond, was re-elected national committeeman, and Mrs. T. C. Carroll, Shepherdsville, was renominated national committeewoman.

The twelve delegates to the national convention from the state at large will have one-half vote each. They are Senator Barkley, Senator Chandler, Johnson, Donaldson, Mayor Wyatt, Thomas S. Rhea, Kilgore, Myers, Mrs. Paul Jonas, Mrs. Ruby Laffoon, Mrs. R. G. Williams, Jr., Mrs. Fred M. Vinson.

Other delegates to the national convention were named at district conventions preceding the state convention. Each of the nine districts were allowed two votes. List of such delegates from the First District:

Flavius B. Martin, Mayfield; Roy M. Shelbourne, Paducah; Frank Stubblefield, Murray; A. C. Burnett, Cadiz; Mrs. Frank Stubblefield, Murray; Mrs. Harry Lee Waterfield, Clinton; Mrs. Roy Evans, Mayfield; Mrs. Edith Lawrence, Cadiz.

As presidential electors for the state-at-large, the convention named Judge J. R. Layman, Elizabethtown and Mrs. Victoria Arnold, Floyd County. Alternates were: Mrs. Ed Gatliff, Williamsburg and Judge Samuel Wilson, Lexington.

Presidential electors named at the district conventions are from First District: R. O. Wilson, Smithland; alternate, Pierce C. Lackey, Paducah.

Of forty-four members of the state central executive committee, eight were named by the convention from the state-at-large, and four each by the nine district conventions. The new committee takes office July 2 upon expiration of the four-year term of the old committee. The new committee follows: State-at-large — Holland Bryant, Paducah; Mrs. Merle Howerton, Ashland; Judge Joseph P. Goodenough, Covington; John S. Milliken, Louisville; E. J. Felts, Russellville; Mrs. Joe L. Goodman, Glasgow; Mrs. Laura Blackburn, Versailles, and Mrs. Violet Connally, Hazard.

First District — Kent Hamblin, Fulton, Frank Bassett, Jr., Hopkinsville; Mrs. George Hart, Murray, and Mrs. Tom Cochran, Jr., Marion.

CHARLIE D. PROVINCE AWARDED MEDAL

Staff Sergeant Charlie D. Province, 22, of Fulton, Ky., waist gunner on a Fortress of the Eighth AAF Bomber Station in England, has been awarded an Oak Leaf Clusters to his Air Medal, equivalent to another award of the Medal.

The award was for meritorious achievement while participating in bombing attacks on targets in Nazi Europe.

Sgt. Province is the son of Mrs. Evie D. Province of 23711 Annapolis, Dearborn, Mich. He was attending high school before he entered the AAF, October 23, 1942.

LAMB POOL HELD AT FULTON, JUNE 13

The second lamb pool was held at Fulton at the I. C. Railroad Pens, June 13, according to H. J. French, President. Over 500 lambs were received and sold at auction from Fulton and surrounding counties. Choice lambs sold at $15.50 per hundred weight.

The next sale will be held at the same place on Thursday, July 6.

County Democratic Convention Held In Hickman Saturday

Delegates To District-State Convention Were Named; Instructed To Vote As Unit At Louisville

The Fulton County Democratic Convention was held Saturday afternoon at the court house in Hickman, when delegates and alternates were named to the district and state convention, which was held in Louisville, Tuesday, June 27. Fulton county delegation cast 18 votes at the meeting.

E. J. Stahr, Democratic executive chairman of Fulton county, called the meeting to order. J. Paul Bushart, was nominated and elected chairman of the convention and C. P. Mabry of Hickman was elected secretary.

Delegates and alternates to the state convention were elected as follows:

Delegates—J. A. Whipple, Kent Hemby, E. J. Stahr, Elmer Murchison, M. B. Shaw, C. K. Davis, T. A. Prather, J. Paul Bushart, Sam Steele, Mrs. J. C. Scruggs, Mrs. J. L. Hagman, Bill Browning, Billy Blackstone, Chas. Gregory, Tom Hale, K. P. Dalton, Nell Johnson, Elizabeth Hutchens.

Alternates—Judge Homer Roberts, Onley Johnson, J. E. Atteberry, C. N. Holland, C. P. Mabry, W. T. Shanklin, M. E. Shaw, Fred Stokes, Ben Barnett, Harvey M. Pewitt, Dr. Robert Bard, Miss Martha Smith, Mrs. J. D. Hannephin, Joe Clapp, Rupert Browder, Dr. W. D. Henry, O. G. Howell, J. P. Callahan.

The convention adopted a resolution endorsing Franklin D. Roosevelt for re-election as president of the United States, Alben W. Barkley, U. S. Senator and majority leader, was praised and commended for his faithful service, and delegates to the state convention were instructed to work for the endorsement of Barkley as a candidate for the vice presidency.

Noble J. Gregory, Congress, man from the First District, was commended for his service in Congress; and E. J. Stahr, who is a candidate for Circuit Judge of this district, was endorsed and praised for his efforts in interest of his party and his service as an able statesman.

HICKMAN ORGANIZES YOUNG MEN'S CLUB

The Young Men's Business Club perfected an organization at Hickman last week, when they met at the old Elks club. The following officers were elected: Carl H. Bryant, president; Charles Fethe, first vice president; T. N. McCoy, second vice president; A. F. Durham, secretary and treasurer; Archie Kemp, assistant.

Harry Barry, John Mayes, A. F. Durham, T. N. McCoy and C. K. Davis, were named as committee to draw up by-laws.

I. C. C. EXAMINER WOULD DROP HICKMAN N. C. & ST. L. BRANCH

A press release from Washington stated that an examiner for the Interstate Commerce Commission recommended that the commission permit the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railroad to abandon about sixteen miles of track between Union City and Hickman.

Abandonment of this section of the N. C. & St. L. was opposed by the Railroad Commissions of Kentucky and Tennessee, and by the city of Hickman.

TEN CANDIDATES SEEK BARKLEY'S SENATE SEAT

Wednesday of this week, seven Democrats were seeking nomination to the United States Senate seat now held by Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Paducah.

Four Republicans were entered for their party's nomination. Two Barkley opponents filed before the deadline at midnight. In some quarters, Barkley is expected to appear as vice-presidential nominee.

Fulton County Reaches Goal In 5th Bond Drive

Goal of $299,000 Has Been Topped, But Bond Buyers Are Determined To Set Example

Bond buyers of this county are to be commended for the fine support they have given the Fifth War Loan drive, by topping the goal of $299,000 last Saturday. Fulton county has always been able to raise its quota in all bond sales, but it now looks like the figure will reach somewhere between four and five hundred thousand dollars before the drive is completed on July 10.

Fulton county was among the first eight counties in Kentucky to attain its quota, according to J. S. Bate, Jr., executive manager of the War Finance Committee for Kentucky.

A late report obtained Thursday from Clyde P. Williams, local war bond chairman, indicated that a total of $355,000 has been purchased in Fulton county so far.

W. S. Moultrie Killed When Struck By Train

William S. Moultrie, 64, local dairy operator, was killed instantly last Friday afternoon at 2:05 p. m., when his car was struck by Passenger Train, No. 25 at the Coal Chute crossing north of Fulton. Mr. Moultrie was going to the Newton farm just off the Clinton road, and apparently did not see approaching train. Engineer John Caspell said that Mr. Moultrie drove up on the crossing and when Mr. Caspell saw the car, it was too late to bring the train to a stop. W. J. Hatcher, was the conductor on the train, which was enroute from Chicago to New Orleans.

The body was taken to Troy, Tenn., former home of Mr. Moultrie, where funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. at the Methodist Church. Interment was in the Troy cemetery.

Mr. Moultrie leaves his widow, Mrs. Cora Moultrie, two daughters, Mrs. Kenneth Roberts of Troy and Mrs. Wilbur Motter of Troy, and a sister, Mrs. George Kendall of Hornbeak. He was a nephew of Mrs. J. L. Hornbeak of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Moultrie moved to Fulton over a year ago, and purchased the C. L. Newton farm, north of the Fairgrounds, where he had been operating a dairy. He was a member of the First Methodist church of Fulton.

PIPE LINE GAS STATION DESTROYED BY FIRE

The Pipe Line Service Station, located on the lower end of Lake street, was completely destroyed by fire Monday morning about 11 o'clock. Origin of the fire was unknown, but the fire had gained such a headway, that when the fire engines arrived, little could be done towards saving the building.

The firemen of Fulton and South Fulton got the fire under control and prevented explosions of the huge gas tanks and kept the fire from spreading to the nearby buildings.

It is estimated that the fire did about $1500 damage. Work was started immediately on rebuilding, and George Dodds who owns the station and has it leased, stated that he was going to finish the job just as soon as possible.

Sportsmen Meeting At Mayfield, July 11th

Sportsmen of First District will meet at the court house in Mayfield, July 11 at 7:30 p. m., for the purpose of nominating a wild life director. Five names from this district will be chosen and submitted to the Governor.

The Department of Game and Fish has rallied this meeting John M. Perkins is director, Harold Browning, commissioner and Earl Wallace, supervisor of the First District.

Miss Dolores Caldwell of Memphis spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Caldwell.

Tomatoes Ready To Pick and Wrap

R. W. Shirer, agricultural agent for the Illinois Central System; Boy Funchess, in charge of packing; and Chap Taylor, secretary-manager of the Tri-County Growers Marketing Association, Wednesday the tomato field of Hugh Speed near Pilot Oak. Other growers were visited Thursday near Hickman.

Members of the greenwrap association report that their tomatoes are getting ready for picking and shipping. Equipment for classing, waxing and wrapping has been installed at the sheds in Fulton, and operation started Friday, according to Mr. Taylor. The first car of tomatoes is expected to roll out of Fulton Saturday. The crops of most growers seem in good condition and a good yield is expected.

Any member desiring information may contact Mr. Taylor or Mr. Funchess at the sheds in Fulton.

Hayes Bryan Burned Monday Morning

Hayes Bryan, veteran Kentucky Utilities employee, suffered severe but not serious burns at 10:30 Monday morning in the utility plant on Walnut street. He was taken to the Fulton hospital and was not able to tell a clear story of what occurred, but it is believed that some sort of explosion occurred and he was attempting to cut off certain switches. He was able to call the business office on Lake street and report that he was burned, asking that some one be sent there at once. Manager Ford Lamsden and other employees rushed there and carried him to the hospital.

Mr. Bryan is plant engineer, and there had been some interruption of power a short time before this accident.

Lewis Browder At Americas, Ga.

Aviation Cadet, Lewis W. Browder, arrived at Southern Field May 24 with Class 44-K, reporting from the Pre-Flight School at Maxwell Field, Ala., for primary flight training. The primary training detachment here is operated by the Graham Aviation Company, Inc., of Pittsburgh, Pa. Major Clarke Simonds of Providence, R. I., is in command. This training detachment is one of many similar training schools under the supervision of the Army Air Forces Eastern Flying Training Command with Headquarters at Maxwell Field, Ala.

A. C. Browder is the son of Mr. E. L. Browder, of Route 4, Fulton, Ky. After completing primary training there he will go to a basic school for further training.

Republicans Name Dewey and Bricker To Carry Banner

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York became the Republican nominee for the Presidency this week, with Gov. John Bricker of Ohio the vice presidential nominee.

In an ultimate victory next November, Dewey voiced the utmost confidence, saying that if the political wheel of fortune brought him the presidency, the military conduct of the war "must remain completely out of politics."

Gov. Dewey assailed the New Deal dissension and hammered at an Administration he said had "grown old in office," become tired and quarrelsome. "I come to this great task," in speaking of the presidency, "a free man. I have made no pledges, promises or commitments, expressed or implied, to any man or woman. I shall make none, except to the American people."

"To the Americans of every party I pledge that on Jan. 20 next year our Government will again have a government of the ablest men and women to be found in America. Its members will expect and will receive full delegation of the powers of office. This election will bring an end to oneman government in America. To Americans of every party I pledge a campaign dedicated to one end above all others—that this nation under God may continue in the years ahead a free nation of free men." In his acceptance speech he pledged to win the war rein the freedom at home.

WHAT IS AMERICA?

By RUTH TAYLOR

What is America? What is the intangible thing that binds people of all creeds, all nationalities, into one homogeneous whole?

The answer was given in this morning's metropolitan newspaper by two of the greatest living Americans—two men whose lives have been devoted to their country, whose talents have ever been at the call of their fellow citizens, whose unselfed devotion to the ideals of democracy have never been questioned.

First Harlan Fiske Stone, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, in accepting the degree of Doctor of Laws from Yeshiva College a Jewish Theological Seminary, said:

"Man lives by symbols. Truly these are times of shifting standards and moral confusion. This is due more than all else to the fact that man, despite his struggle up from barbarism is not yet willing to accept the truth, that there can be no civilized society, there can be no peace or happiness among men, unless all men enjoy freedom of the spirit of mind, and unless we preserve intact our capacity for moral indignation against cruelty and injustice and the urge to give it vigorous expression."

The same night Bernard Baruch in accepting the annual award given by The Churchman, an Episcopal paper, expressed the same idealism and faith in the American spirit in these words:

"In another day Cicero said the proudest boast a man could utter was 'Civis Romanus sum' (I am a Roman citizen.) It is my prayer that our conduct may always be such as to carry greater praise in the accolade: 'I am an American.'"

"One last word. Some ask why we fight? This is my answer: 'Ancient Rights, unnoticed as the breath we draw, Leave to live by no man's leave, underneath the law.'"

That is what America is—a homeland for all who believe in the Fatherhood of God and in the Brotherhood of Man for those who have high courage, who stand ever ready to lift their voices against injustice, to fight cruelty and to demonstrate in their lives friendship for their fellow men. This faith made America. Through this faith America grew. By this faith America will live.

And what greater calamity can fall upon a nation than the loss of worship.—Emerson.

The only true method if action in this world is to be in it, but not of it.—Madame Swetchine.

The bodies of men, munitions, and money may justly be called the sinews of war.—Sir Walter Raleigh.

It is the hardest thing in the world to be a good thinker without being a good self-examiner.—Shaftesbury.

DOWN OUR ALLEY

Kentucky will be a power in the national election, for this state undoubtedly will be a battleground. Kentucky has two distinguished sons, one in each party, eminently qualified for the Vice-Presidency, Barkley or Willis for Vice President—what a battle royal this would present in November in Kentucky. There is now doubt because Kentucky is a border state, that the party which nominates a Kentuckian this year will have a decided advantage in this state. Some politicians believe as Kentucky does, so probably will go the nation.

The war goes well with our side. Despite great losses of life we must go on—to Victory. It is encouraging to know that the end is not so far away as it seemed to be less than a month ago. There must be no weeping about Finland and difference of opinion between the Chief of the American Government and the Chief of the French Liberation Forces. Confusing inconsistencies in the political situation must not make us forget that "Victory is our business."

On all sides we hear predictions when the war in Europe will end. Much of it is just wishful thinking. Despite the fact that we know Germany has been weakened by onslaughts, the German people are still standing up for Hitler and ready to die rather than surrender. As long as conditions remain this way, so long will the Allies have to battle furiously for every gain made, and so long will thousands of our boys die on the battlefronts. A battle is never won until the last blow is struck—a ball game is never over until the last ball has been pitched.

In the not too distant future Americans will have the privilege of electing a new President. Our sole purposes are in the welfare and progress of our own United States. Every forthright American is opposed to undemocratic reforms and legislation that is patterned after communism and socialism as practiced in the countries of Europe. It is time for every one to raise their hands and before God and their fellow countrymen swear to defend and protect the Constitution of America, and strike down the aims and plans of Sidney Hillman, Browder and Bridges. The time has come for all Americans to realize the dangers of the situation before it is too late.

According to the records Hillman failed in his efforts to overthrow the Czar Government of Russia and came to America when he was 20 years old. In this country he became an aggressive labor politician and a former high Federal office holder. He is now engaged in raising approximately five million dollars, and Eugene W. Castle, a man without political ambitions, says it is for the "sinister purpose of regimenting Americans at the ballot box to perpetuate the present Federal government." Castle calls for "Freedom from amateurish management, bureaucracy, pressure groups and from violation of States rights. But, we do not wish to provide more freedom for foreigners and less freedom for Americans."

Chief Justice Stone of the Supreme Court seems to find difficulty in establishing order in the opinions of his eight Associate Justices as they engage in rearranging constitutional guide posts.

American families report an extremely short supply of wash boilers, carpet sweepers, tea kettles, lawn mowers, alarm clocks, garbage cans, radio tubes, window screening, electric heating pads, frying pans, extension cords, wash tubs, etc. The business man who can be the first to provide these shortages will have a gray hair.

The two branches of Congress have stepped out and taken charge of postwar reconversion instead of leaving the job to countless Administration agencies, and this is most encouraging. The Senate and the House are planning effectively against any repetition of economic chaos, and piloting an orderly return to postwar days. This is a tremendous job, and it places the responsibility on Congress to restore employment to returning soldiers and sailors, and reestablish the basis for sound relations between employers and employees.

TIDBITS

BRANCH WATER

Just why branch water came to be the symbol of shoddiness or weakness I do not know, but I am often reminded of the effectiveness of the figure that the folk use: "As weak as branch water." I have heard it applied to coffee, cider, and stronger drinks. I have heard people who were scared say that they had felt as weak as branch water. I have known it to be used to refer to almost anything, liquid or solid or gaseous or mental. And the people who heard understood that the thing being compared was inferior or weak or ineffective.

Many people had inadequate supplies of water to use in the home. A cistern or two or a poor well or clothes and scrubbing the floors did not furnish enough water for a spring too far from the house just drinking and washing dishes and Hence a branch might be used in season for the extra supply. Rarely was this source of supply drunk, but occasionally it was necessary to drink it. If you have ever drunk out of branch, particularly when a lot of surface drainage was still to be found in it, you know how flat and unpalatable the water can be. I have sampled every type of water, from spring branches and sloughs, and ought to know the taste. Generally that was before the deadly contents of surface water that has come from the premises of barnyards and houses. Of course, nobody drank from a branch thought much about the possible hidden effect of the water; the taste, supposed to be a guide to drinkers generally, was all that mattered.

Did you ever drink coffee that tasted like branch water? I have done that many a time. However, some of the coffee I have drunk in my time was good in proportion to the small amount of the coffee beans used, if they were really coffee beans. People I used to know boiled the coffee grounds over and over, so that coffee as weak as branch water was weak sure enough.

Boiled custard was and is an old standby as a desert. At Christmas and other festive seasons even the dry families thought it perfectly all right to "spike" the custard with whiskey or wine or alcohol. The less dry people sometimes wryly describe the stuff as weak as branch water after they had consumed two or three glasses of the spiked beverage; not to the hostess, of course, but to each other where nobody else could hear.

Somehow I like best the use of the figure to put into its place some nonsensical policy issue a degree as weak as branch water. When wrong needs to be hit squarely between the eyes, branch water is too weak and ineffective. When our country or its policies are endangered, it takes something with more kick than branch water to keep the country from going to the howl. I wonder why some honest politician does not adopt the branch as an emblem? I suppose he could add the old Green "Noting too way" as a sort of motto. Anyway, all of us country boys of middle age would see the point if branch water were used as a symbol of weakness and ineffectiveness.

LETTER SHOWS HOW OUR

BOYS FIND CHRIST

Dear H. L.:

Isn't the Lord good to us, Hardy? At times I actually feel like shouting, I'm so happy with my Saviour. Christ has been so true to me during the past few months even though I have failed Him many times. At times I feel as though I can just reach out and touch Him. He seems to be so close. I guess I told you about the experience I had on the train a couple months ago, didn't I? This experience really proved to me that God was real. I'll never forget as long as I live. That was one time that I both feared and loved God at the same time.

I've found it pretty much the way you have, H. L., in seeing visible results in lost souls being won to Christ. We must continue to keep pressing forward for Christ because we are promised that His precious word won't return to Him void. When I was in boot camp in January I never had much of an opportunity to talk to the lost in a private room where we could pray, but I talked to several boys there about their lost condition. Several of the boys accepted the Lord as their Saviour or at least they pretended to even though we didn't pray over the matter with the Lord. Due to this reason has hhhhhhh the reason that we didn't pray over the matter, I am not sure that they were saved. Only they and God know this. But whether they were saved or not, they certainly lived a better life after our little talk together.

One day I had a boy to come to me around chow time with tears in his eyes, saying that he wanted the Lord as his Saviour. There was no quiet place for us to go to pray, but I told him in as simple a way as I knew how about our dear Redeemer. I believe that this boy accepted the Lord that morning, but as I said before, only he and God know for certain. I tried to hold our Chaplain wouldn't let me because there were too many Catholics and Jewish people represented some meetings in our barracks but there. He said that they would object. I believe that we would have seen some real results there if we could have held a few meetings. The last night I was there, I passed out around 30 to 40 new Testaments in about two minutes. There wasn't a person in the barracks who didn't want one of the Testaments but I didn't have any more. They almost had a fight to see who would get the Testaments.

Since I left boot camp I have only talked to five kids who have accepted the Lord as their Saviour. Of course, I have talked to several boys who were Christians and yet they didn't behave themselves as such. I have talked to two of these who agreed to stop their drink-smoking and other bad habits they had fallen into. Of course a lot of these boys have paid little attention to what I said. Just last week I passed out some Profanity tracts to all the boys in our section for them to read in their spare time. Of course a few of them took them to heart and have cut down on their profane language, but a few of them are still making fun of me for doing it. They called me Deacon Hoit. Halo Hoit, Saint, Billy Sunday, and every other kind of name that they could think of. Last week they wrote all over the front blackboard in our class about me being a Christian. One of the signs was making fun of me passing out the Profanity leaflets, while another sign said: 'Let Deacon Hoit pray for you. Price 5c.' I really did regret it that they did like they did, but I just acted like I didn't notice it. I also prayed over it much that the Lord would see fit to glorify His name instead of disgracing it. And as result, He has stopped nearly all of the fun making and the biggest majority of the boys are treating me better than they ever treated me before. I might be able to lead some of these boys to Christ after all. I know I will if God is willing. I want your prayers Hardy. Please pray that I shall be able to glorify our Lord's precious name instead of hurting it.

I'm only going to be here for around five more weeks and during the two months I've been here I haven't led any of the sailors to Christ. That is, in our school here. Of course, I have written a few letters to some boys who I am praying for daily, that they might be saved. One of these boys I wrote to a sailor who I was in boot camp with. He made fun of me when we were camping together because I was a Christian. He couldn't believe that Jesus was born from a virgin. I sent him a lot of proof on that subject a few months ago. He wrote me right back and said that he couldn't deny the facts that I sent him and he now believed completely in the Lord Jesus Christ. He asked me to tell him how to be saved. I wrote him back and told him the simple story of Christ. I have not heard from the boy since then. I don't believe he has received the letter as yet because they don't get their mail when they're out at sea until they reach the U. S., or some other distant port. I imagine they only get their mail around once a month. I'm sure that this boy will be saved because he has already told me that he believed in Christ. Please pray for this boy as well as for the other boys, who I have written concerning salvation.

That just about rounds up my experience with the lost since I've been in the Navy. It's a mighty small experience, but I'm sure the Lord will use me more in the future. We must pray for each other, H. L., that we might both be able to win many of our friends to the Lord. They need Him so badly. I can hardly wait until I get out to sea. I hate the sight of water, but I know that I'll find a group of boys there who are more serious about their lost condition, due to the fact that they are in danger. I've been reading a bunch of stories here lately about the way God has helped the boys out at sea. I want to get out there so I can prove to those lost boys that God will protect them no matter where they go. It sure is going to be wonderful to see our blessed Lord pull us through battles safely. We're going to really have some wonderful experiences with our Lord when we get over there in the big fight, aren't we, H. L.? We'll have to admit that it's hard to see any visible results with the boys when we witness on this side of the water, but when we get over yonder where the bombs are bursting, I have a feeling that we shall be able to see the Lord lead many to His bleeding side through us, as His servants.

I'm enclosing a clipping concerning the vision of Jesus. It's the only copy I have, so if you would like to copy it you can, but I would like it back as soon as possible because several others have asked to see it. I guess you receive the Three Links from Murray don't you? The one of May 7 had a write up in it about you.

Thanks for your advice, Hardy. I'm sure the Lord will show the way if we pray more. But as I said before during the last day or two the boys have started treating me different. Thanks to your prayers on the matter.

I'll try to write Anna Lou if I can find time. We were prayer mates in Murray for a while. Well, H. L., it's time for bugle, so you know what that means. May God continue His blessings upon you, this has been my prayer. I know the Lord has been using you in a great way in your witnessing for Him and I'm sure He is going to use you even more so in the future, let's not forget to pray for one another. As ever in Christ.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Folks like to do business here

Sam Abernethy's little old store does a heap more business than most folks suspect. All because Sam has an almost child-like faith in humanity.

Take last Thursday when he had to leave his store half full of customers to help Bert Childers repair his tractor.

"Sorry to leave you, boys," he said, "but Bert's knee-deep in hay. You know what you want and where to find it. Help yourself and pay at your convenience."

Later Sam told me he'd been doing business that way for over forty years.

"If folks had more faith and tolerance in the other fellow," he said, "they'd come out better in the end."

Reminded me of Bill Webster who's favorite drink is butter-milk but who claims a man has a right to eat and drink whatever he chooses—in moderation.

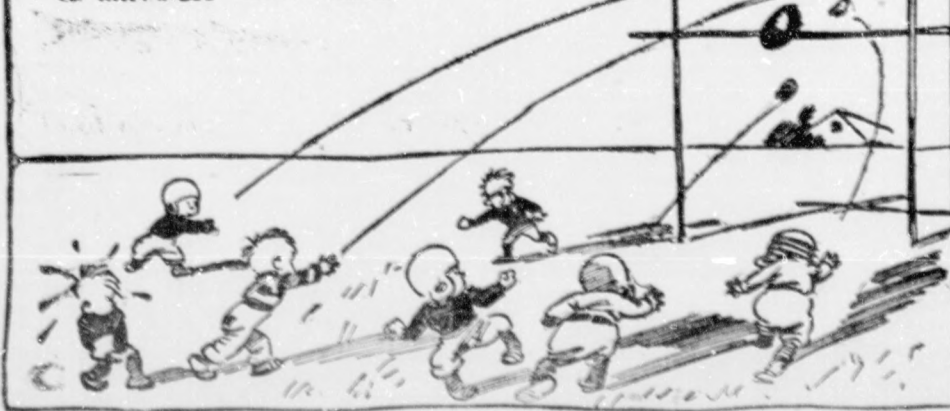

And from where I sit, that's how things ought to be.

Magic Words

By J. J. O'DONNELL
McClure Syndicate—WNU Features.

THE Coast Guard officer shook his head. "The British are careful when they hire."

Mark swung the launch to avoid the big ferryboat. "I got to know the crews better than the officials."

"Maybe I need training as a ship chandler," the officer grinned. "You're sure this cook is a spy?"

"No sir, I only told the commandant I was suspicious."

"And you also said the man knows it."

"Can't prove it, but those accidents came too fast."

The officer said: "Once a week some housewife in Norfolk reports a spy. We're used to it."

Mark's nostrils flared. "So I'm crazy! But being gassed is no joke. When I jumped off that chain I went looking for the cook—all the way down to the hold. When I opened the bulkhead door I smelled gas. You know—they get rid of the rats that way. All of a sudden the door started to slam, and I had to hit it with my shoulder quick—or be locked in."

"That would have been curtains for you."

"Right—and my lad was on the other side of that door."

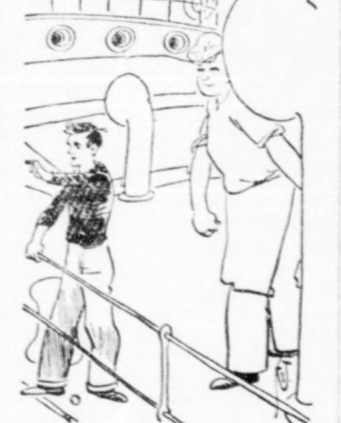

"What did he say?"

"Got kinda red and stammered something about the door should be closed."

"Listen, son, you haven't much to go on. I'm doing this because I'm on assignment. Has he filled his order yet?"

"The captain has to O.K. it. I'm to pick it up today."

"All right. While you talk to him I'll ask the captain to help me search his cabin—and I hope you're right."

"You can see those flags from here."

The stocky, kindly captain shook his head. "Nothing there, boy," he said.

Mark's eyes were pleading. "But I know there's something wrong. Did you look well?"

"So well we didn't pass up so much as a tobacco crumb."

Earnestly Mark said: "Captain, do you know the skipper of that British tanker yonder?"

"Indeed. He served under me as first mate."

"Please, sir, we've got to make this man give himself away. A friend of mine in that crew has been all over the world. He'll be able to wigwag a message. If I'm wrong the signal won't mean anything."

"Mystery, eh? Come along then, we'll have a try."

When they returned to the freighter, Mark turned anxiously to the captain. "Is your mate still checking that list of provisions with the cook?"

"I fancy he's finished now."

"Good, that means he hasn't seen the Coast Guard officer. Will you please keep out of sight, sir?" He swung on his heel and hurried to the mate's cabin and met the cook at the door. He tried to appear casual, though the words began to trip over his tongue. "Oh, hello—say, while I was waiting, I saw somebody on that tanker wigwagging."

The cook sneered. "Kid games, eh?" He stalked up to the deck—then he froze. "Who is that man in uniform?"

Mark dropped his voice. "That's a Coast Guard officer. Said he had to see the captain right away."

The suspect slipped behind a ventilator. "Know what he wants?"

As if he hadn't heard, Mark said: "You can see those flags from here. Can you tell what they say?"

The man's black brows came together as he looked. Mark watched his body stiffen and his eyes shrink to pin points. He whirled to run and Mark sensed his purpose. He yelled breathlessly: "Captain—quick, grab him." But the wary skipper and two crewmen had him before he reached the companionway. Mark ran up excitedly. "Captain—his shoe. The sole's loose."

It took only a second to extract the telltale identification card. As they dragged the culprit away the Coast Guard officer turned to Mark. "Son, how did you trap him?"

Mark grinned expansively. "Just my friend say, 'Officer coming to arrest you. Destroy your papers.'"

"But surely he didn't fall for that—anybody could read it."

The captain's eyes twinkled. "Not he way this lad did it. Seems his friend is something of a linguist. He said it in German."

PAUL PLEADS FOR A RUN-AWAY SLAVE

LESSON TEXT—Philemon 4-21.
GOLDEN TEXT—Be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving each other, even as God also in Christ forgave you—Ephesians 4:32.

Brotherhood is one of those fine qualities or impulses of the soul of which men like to speak when all is fair and prosperous, and promptly forget in times of distress and struggle. That is just where Christianity shows forth at its best, for it is in the hour of need, sorrow, or affliction that real Christian brotherhood shows its depth and durability.

Paul was in prison when he wrote to Philemon. The one of whom he had deserted his master and probably defrauded him (v. 18). He had been converted, and now was being sent back to his master. So we have three Christian men dealing with a very delicate matter, and providing us a picture of brotherhood in action. We learn that it is—

I. Courteous (vv. 4-9).

After a fine spiritual salutation, Paul enters upon an appeal to Philemon which is a model of tact and courtesy. One could wish that those who think that being faithful to the Lord and true to His Word means being blunt and unkind, would learn of Paul.

First he lets Philemon know of his prayerful interest in him. Paul had been praying for him, that's why he could say such a helpful word. Praying for our fellow man prepares us for genuine brotherly love.

Then he recognizes Philemon's goodness, and his effective testimony for Christ. This is an excellent approach to the making of a request, but be sure that it was not empty or hypocritical flattery. We do well to recognize the fine qualities of our Christian brother, and we could profitably speak of them more than we do.

Then Paul was ready to make his request. See how nicely he does it. He skillfully reminds Philemon that he might make some demands, and especially in view of his age and his imprisonment. But he will not do so, rather he says, "I beseech thee." There is fine Christian courtesy.

II. Considerate (vv. 10-15).

Paul, the aged prisoner, had found in his new convert, Onesimus, a real helper. He would have liked to keep him. In fact, says he to Philemon, Onesimus could do for me the things you would want to do if you were here (v. 13).

Undoubtedly Paul could have been sure of the willingness of Philemon. He could have assumed that the request would be granted. And in any case, Philemon did not even know where Onesimus was, so why not keep him?

True Christian consideration respects the personal rights and the property rights of another. We must not assume, or demand, or put pressure on anyone (v. 14) to get what they have or to draw out their service.

Another expression of consideration is found in verses 15 and 16. Philemon had lost a hitherto slave, now he is receiving back a Christian brother. No worker will give less in service, and no master will demand more, because the two are both Christians. We need to recognize that fact, for all too often men presume on their relationship as brethren. But the fact that they are Christians should make a great difference in their attitude toward one another.

III. Cooperative (vv. 17-21).

Partners share the benefits and the burdens of their joint enterprise. Partners in the gospel, like Paul and Philemon, shared not only spiritual blessings, but also the responsibilities. Paul was presenting such an item to Philemon in the return of Onesimus. Something had to be done about the debt of Onesimus, his failure as a servant. Paul says, "Charge it to me, your partner."

It has been pointed out that there is here a blessed example of the important doctrine of imputation, which is the "act of God whereby He accounts righteousness to the believer in Christ," because He "has borne the believer's sins in vindication of the law." So we note that verses 17 and 18 perfectly illustrate imputation.

Paul's promise "I will repay it" (v. 19) was the legal phraseology of a promissory note in his day. It was a bonafide partnership transaction, yet it was coupled with a reminder of indebtedness. Everything Philemon had and was he owed to Paul; but, says the latter, "I will not speak of that now." Consideration again, but opening the door wide for Philemon's cooperation.

No right thinking person is content always to be on the receiving hand. The humblest recipient of favor or the smallest child who feels the love of another wants to respond. The considerate friend will, therefore, not always insist on giving, but will graciously (like Paul) open the way for cooperation, for partnership.

The old adage, "My feet are killing me!" literally applies to thousands of Americans each year, the National Safety Council reports. Two-fifths of all traffic deaths deaths were to pedestrians in 1943. Two out of every three pedestrians were killed while violating the law or engaging in some obviously unsafe act.

SAFETY FIRST IS THE RULE FOR GOOD HOME CANNING

"Safety first" is the rule for homemakers to follow in putting up what might be as canny harvest of vegetables. This year, more than ever before, it is necessary that every jar of canned food keep. There is little danger of spoilage, if foods are properly prepared and directions followed says Catherine Thompson, county home demonstration agent.

A pressure cooker is recommended by the college for canning all vegetables except tomatoes. While the hot-water-bath may be used for both vegetables and fruits, it is particularly recommended for tomatoes and fruits.

Home canners are again warned against oven canning. Even when the oven thermometer registers high, distribution of heat is likely to be uneven and the food in all the packed jars may not reach the boiling point. Hence, bacteria are not killed and spoilage results.

It is also pointed out that there is danger to the homemaker who does oven canning. The breaking of a single jar may cause the explosion of all, the oven may be wrecked, and the canner injured.

Also frowned upon is the canning of fruits and tomatoes in an open kettle, as bacteria may get into jars before they are sealed. Mold on canned fruit, as frequently reported to the college last year, was the result of this method of canning. Processing in the hot-water bath for a short period following open-kettle canning, as indicated on the canning schedule, eliminates this danger.

Every canner throughout the county is advised to follow the timetable for canning as given in the free leaflet, "Can Fruits and Vegetables for Victory," which may be obtained from the Home Agent's office, either by mail or visit.

Some homemakers find it difficult to figure out the number of jars of vegetables they can expect from a certain number of bushels of the fresh products.

Here is a chart of some commonly canned vegetables which will be helpful to those homemakers with a canning arithmetic problem:

- Beans, lima, in pods, 1 bu. (52 lb.) yields 6 to 8 qts.
- Beans, snap, 1 bu. (30 lbs.) yields 15 to 20 quarts.
- Beets, without tops, 1 bu. (52 lbs.) yields 17 to 20 quarts.
- Greens, 1 bu. (18 lbs.) yields 6 to 9 quarts.
- Peas, green, in pods, 1 bu. (30 lbs.) yields 12 to 15 quarts.
- Squash, 1 bu. (40 lbs.) yields 16 to 20 quarts.
- Sweet potatoes, fresh, 1 bu. (55 lbs.) yields 18 to 22 quarts.
- Tomatoes, 1 bu. (53 lbs.) yields 15 to 20 quarts.

The Home Of Tomorrow Is The House With A Future

MANY prospective builders are wondering what the Home of Tomorrow will be like. Will it be streamlined? Will it be revolutionary in design? Will it be built of glass and plastics with a lot of chromium trim? Maybe—but the general thinking is that the outside as well as the inside will be similar to the homes built in 1940 and 1941.

Many new materials have been developed since the war began and peace time production will bring many more. These new materials may influence outside design and appearance.

There will be changes, but to a large degree they will be on the inside, so the home-of-today can become the home-of-tomorrow with some remodeling. The changes will improve living, will increase comfort and convenience, will combine beauty and service to make the house really a home. Outside design of a residence is largely a matter of taste and opinion, but comfort, convenience and livability are a matter of building into the house those things that science has provided.

Many Labor Savers

ON the way are such labor savers as (1) the precipitron, which extracts the dust particles from the air to lessen the frequency of cleaning; (2) air conditioning or forced ventilation to keep the home cool and comfortable on hot, sultry days; (3) electrically heated, lightweight blankets in place of heavy bed clothes, to assure comfort and save energy on winter nights; (4) television for education, news and entertainment.

Fluorescent lighting in coves, in valance boxes, or recessed in the walls or ceilings, behind glass or plastic, to give soft, well-diffused light, will add beauty and utility to the home. There will be lighting to keep the glow of bright daylight in the home long after the sun has gone down. There will be sun lamps and germicidal lamps to provide energy rays, and germ killing ultra-violet rays, for the health of the family.

Heat Lamps In Walls

INFRA red lamps, recessed in the walls, will supply, at the snap of a switch, the warmth needed on chilly mornings when the house furnace is not in use.

Deep freeze refrigeration units will be available for storing frozen foods so as to reduce the number of trips to the stores. These and other appliances and equipment for comfort and convenience will be ready shortly after the war.

We are coming into an automatic, therefore an electrical, age in which there will be less drudgery and greater comfort, health and convenience. Thus, wiring of the Home of Tomorrow becomes a most important factor.

These electrical devices can only be used, either today or at a date in the future, if the house is adequately wired to serve them. Your house wiring is the nerve center of your home. Wire must be large enough to carry the amount of electricity needed to operate the devices.

See Local Manager

ELECTRIC ranges, roasters, home conditioning units, water heaters and many other appliances will find their way into your home-of-tomorrow if your house is wired to meet those needs.

Adequate Wiring costs very little additional and pays for itself many times in good service, lower operating cost for electrical equipment, usefulness, and resale value of the home. Before you build or remodel, plan for adequate wiring.

Our Local Manager, at the office where you pay your local service bills, will be glad to supply you with the details of adequate electric wiring, without cost or obligation.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"I can't think of anything else you'll need for your Victory garden, Judge...you've got pretty nearly everything."

"I think so, too, John. Ever get your nephragus patch going?"

"I gave that up last year, Judge. Tried it six years in a row with no luck. Just haven't got the right soil, I guess?"

"Well, I think you're wise, John...no use keeping on trying things you know won't work. Just like prohibition. State-wide prohibition has been tried in this country seventy-two times in the last ninety years. It has been adopted forty-seven times in the past thirty-three years and discarded everywhere except in three states. Same thing was tried in eight provinces in Canada and in Norway, Sweden, Finland and Russia but it was an admitted failure and universally abandoned.

"The reason is prohibition does not prohibit. All you get is bootleg liquor instead of legal liquor, plus no end of crime and corruption."

CRUTCHFIELD BOY IN INVASION OF EUROPE

Ensign Eugene A. Waggener, U. S. N. R., husband of Joyce Bondurant Waggener, participated in the invasion in Europe, June 6th. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Waggener of Crutchfield, Ky.

His letter to homefolks June 7th states: "I am worn out. I have had no sleep for 48 hours and have been through one the biggest invasions in history. It was hell on earth. I am safe and unharmed and am very fortunate. Too bad everyone could not have been as lucky. It is nerve wrecking. You probably saw my ship on the screen as we were in plain sight of the beach.

How are things back home? It must be swell. People can't realize how thankful they should be to be able to live in peace.

On June 11th he writes: "If you can realize what a loss of sleep, plus the noise of bursting bombs, exploding shells, gun fire, droves of planes, and etc., can do for one then you will know how tired I am. I am in the middle of it almost of the time as that is the purpose of my ship, Landing Ships, Tanks (LST).

This is certainly no picnic over here but things are going well so far. I could tell you things that would make your blood run cold. I am very lucky so far and well as can be.

I feel all of your prayers very much and that means more than anything over here. I will try to get some souvenirs from the beachhead when things calm down a little. I walked a short distance on the beach of France but things were not so hot that one could not think of souvenirs.

Good-night and sleep good. What I wouldn't give for a good night's sleep in my bed back home. I hope it won't be long until I'll be seeing you.

World's of love,
EUGENE

Can Enjoy Meals Now And Thanks Retonga

The Relief Retonga Brought Her Is One Of The Greatest Blessings Of Her Life. Declares Mrs. Jackson. Sleeps Fine; Pains In Shoulders Relieved.

"For the first time in about two years I am eating anything on the table and enjoying every meal, and Retonga deserves all the praise I can give it," happily declares Mrs. Anna Jackson, well known and highly respected resident of 809 Essie Ave., S. E. Atlanta, Ga. Discussing her case Mrs. Jackson, gratefully continued.

"For about two years it seemed to me I went down hill all the time. I became very nervous, my sleep never seemed to refresh me and I would get up tired and worn out. My appetite was so poor that I never wanted to eat and the little I did eat tortured me with indigestion and gas in my stomach. I was a perfect slave to laxatives and I felt miserably weak and discouraged.

"I can never thank Retonga for the relief it brought me. I enjoy every meal, and I sleep splendidly. I was bothered with pains in the muscles of my back, but this too has been relieved, and so has the sluggish elimination. I feel like a different person. It is a pleasure to tell others about Retonga."

Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to Vitamin B-1 deficiency, constipation, insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, and loss of appetite. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at DeMyer Drug Store.

JUDGED BEST In Nationwide Contest

REDDY KILOWATT, your electrical servant

And Much of the Credit Goes To You Customers

OUR little publication, Kentucky Utilities News, which you have been getting with your electric service bill each month for the last two years, has just received the national award as the best of its kind put out by any electric company in this country in 1943.

The award was made by the Public Utilities Advertising Association, Inc., of the Advertising Federation of America, at its annual convention in Chicago, June 6-8. The judges were among the nation's leading advertising experts, none of them in the utility business.

Naturally, we are very happy to receive this recognition. But we feel that much of the credit is due to you customers who read Kentucky Utilities News last year and suggested improvements. Please keep the suggestions coming. This little paper seems to be the most practical way to tell about 115,000 of you each month—

1. How to conserve critical war materials by the proper care of your electrical equipment.
2. How to use your electrical service and appliances most efficiently and economically... for convenience... for comfort... for health... for saving labor.

HURRY UP, AMERICA! GIVE HIM YOUR ANSWER!

the Fifth War Loan Drive ends July 8th!

AMERICANS!

You in the factories. You in the offices. You on the farms. You in the homes.

You cannot—you must not—fail to get behind your fighting man in this supreme, heroic hour.

He knows what's ahead.

Bloody, bitter fighting... superhuman toil... hardship... pain... perhaps death.

He's facing it. He'll keep on facing it, as long as there's breath in his body and blood in his veins.

But he wants to know what's behind him.

And you have only a few days left to give him the answer.

That answer will be written in the final figures on the Fifth War Loan Drive.

For this is the crucial, the all-important Drive. Never has the need for War Bond buying been so great.

To make the Drive a success, you—and everyone else—must buy at least twice as many Bonds as you bought in the last drive.

If you haven't yet bought your full share, DO IT NOW! The time is short! Make YOUR supreme effort in HIS supreme hour!

Remember—a soldier, your soldier, is waiting for his answer.

What will it be... from you?

And here are 5 MORE reasons for buying EXTRA Bonds in the 5th!

1. War Bonds are the best, the safest investment in the world!
2. War Bonds return you $4 for every $3 in 10 years.
3. War Bonds help keep prices down.
4. War Bonds will help win the Peace by increasing purchasing power after the War.
5. War Bonds mean education for your children, security for you, funds for retirement.

DEATHS

W. L. JOYNER

Walter Lee Joyner, 69, prominent Fulton citizen and owner of Joyner's Taxi Service, passed away Monday night about seven o'clock at the Fulton hospital following a week's illness. Mr. Joyner had been ill for about 10 days, but Saturday night his condition became worse and he was taken to the hospital Sunday morning. Funeral services were held by the Rev. Walter E. Mischke, pastor of the Methodist Church, in the Hornbeak Funeral Home, Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Interment by Hornbeak's was in Fairview cemetery.

The deceased was born in Henry County, Tennessee, but moved to Fulton with his family when he was a young boy. He was married to Nettie Exum in 1901 and to this union two children were born, one of whom, Fred, died in infancy. Mr. Joyner was a member of the First Methodist Church here. He also held membership in the Woodmen of the World.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Nettie Exum Joyner, one son, Wade Joyner of Macon, Ga., two grandchildren, one brother, Irvin Joyner of Fulton, two sisters, Mrs. Ada Thompson and Mrs. Ida Pegram of near Fulton.

Active pallbearers were: A. G. Baldridge, T. J. Kramer, H. H. Bugg, Rupert Stille, Commodore Maynard and Ernest McCollum.

SAM BYRD

John Samuel Byrd, 90, one of the oldest citizens of this section, died Tuesday around noon at his home on the Fulton-Clinton highway, north of Crutchfield. He had been in failing health for sometime.

Funeral services were held at Union Church by Rev. E. C. Nall and Rev. Joe Gardner of Milan, Tenn. Interment by Hornbeak's was in the church cemetery.

Mr. Byrd was before his retirement one of the prominent farmers of the community. His wife preceded his death 23 years ago, and his children also preceded him in death. He leaves nine grandchildren, four of whom are in the armed forces; James Byrd of Italy, William Byrd at Recife, Brazil; Robert Byrd at Camp Blanding, Fla., and John Marshall at Camp Lee, Va. Eight great-grandchildren also survive. Mrs. Milner Byrd is a daughter-in-law of the deceased and Tom Latta is a brother-in-law.

MRS. M. P. MORRIS

Mrs. M. P. Morris, eldest sister of Guy Gingles of this city, died Tuesday afternoon in the Mason Hospital in Murray, after a long illness. Funeral services were held Wednesday at Murray.

Mrs. Morris is survived by one son, Pat G. Morris of Chicago, and several brothers and sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Gingles attended the funeral.

MRS. RUBY BARBER

Mrs. Ruby Davenport Barber, wife of Clemmie Barber, died last Friday morning at her home in St. Louis, Mo. She was 37 years of age.

She is survived by her husband and two children, Junior Barber and Mrs. James Madding.

FULTON SERVICE CLUB

DOING GOOD WORK FOR BOYS STOPPING HERE

The Fulton Service Club, which has the backing and support of the Young Men's Business Club, has been doing some fine work for the boys in service who happen to stop over in Fulton.

The various voluntary workers, and especially the ladies, deserve much credit and commendation for the fine job they are doing here.

The Kentucky State Fair will be held August 28 through September 4 at Churchill Downs, for the first time since 1941 when it was postponed because of the war.

These Boys Have Faith In Us And We Must Not Fail!

By R. M. WATT

A FEW days ago I got a letter from my boy who is a prisoner of war in Germany. It was a great relief to know that he is safe and well, after the months of anxiety that followed the report, "missing in action."

But what affected me most was my son's enthusiasm about what he is going to do after the war. He aims to come straight back to Kentucky and take up farming. It seems that most of the boys in the prison camps keep their spirits lifted by planning for the days when they are home again.

They Believe In Us

THIS shows the faith they have in every one of us to do whatever is necessary at this time to bring about the quick defeat of Germany and Japan. We are proud of our boys overseas. They are writing a magnificent record, both as fighters and as men of good will among the people of many countries. We must not let them down in their belief in us.

There is no danger now that the United Nations will lose the war. But there is plenty of danger that the war will be prolonged for months by the selfishness, indifference and false optimism of American civilians. And every day the war is prolonged, thousands of fine American boys will be needlessly killed—or wounded, crippled and blinded.

How We Can Help

WHAT can you and I do about it? Each one of us can sacrifice a little more and buy at least one extra bond in the FIFTH WAR

LOAN. In our respective communities we can go out and work to put the Fifth War Loan farther over the top than any previous loan has gone.

Then, when the news is flashed to the far places of the earth that this bond drive is the biggest success of all, our boys will know we are with them in spirit on every battlefield, every ship, every bomber and fighter plane. They will know we are supporting them to the limit. The enemy will know it, too—and know the terrible day of reckoning is very close.

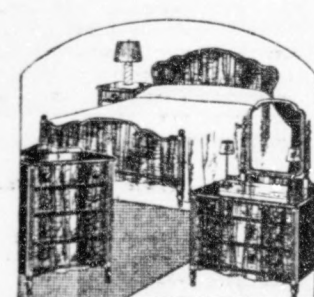

Dollars Save Lives

THE Fifth War Loan goal is $16,000,000,000. This money will prevent the loss of hundreds of thousands of our men by death and mutilation. It will be used to pay for the mountains of tanks, guns, trucks, planes, bombs, ships, etc., required to carry on the war. Our army, navy and air forces are expending these materials at a fantastic rate in order to save the lives of our fighters.

Only a few more days remain in the Fifth War Loan drive. Buy an extra bond today. Help shorten the war. Remember what a privilege it is to be a freeborn American in this beloved and fortunate country of ours.
