Dr. Walter Lackey Marries a School Girl.

Dr. Walter Lackey went to Russellville Sunday morning, slipped a pretty student from the female college and with her eloped to Clarksville. They were joined in wedlock at 11 o'clock that night. The young lady's name was Miss Beanie Potter, of Bowling Green, and belongs to one of the best families in the State. Dr. Lackey is a prominent young physician of Pembroke.

BITING AND BUTTING.

Negroes Had a Fist and Skull Fight.

One of the most terrific fist and skull fights that the police have heard about for years happened at an early hour this morning. John Nance and John Anderson, both colored, had a quarrel about the former's wife. The men began scuffling and the combat was long and bloody. They mashed each other's faces, kicked, bit and butted. In the struggle every piece of furniture in Johnson's restaurant, on Seventh street, below Main, where the fight happened, was turned over. The men hammered each other with bare fists at first, but each succeeded in getting hold of iron weights and were striking out with these when the police arrived.

The fighters were separated and put under arrest. The case was tried this morning by Judge Hanbery, who fined each $25 and costs.

COMMENCEMENT.

South Kentucky College Students at the Opera House.

The commencement exercises of South Kentucky College took place Tuesday in Holland's Opera House, and a large crowd was in attendance. The program was one which showed the 60th anniversary of the marriage of his father and mother, both of whom are enjoying good health. The family connection is a large one and all of them who are able will probably be present.

The program was opened with a feeling prayer by a visiting preacher, Misses Crumbrugh and Collins then played a pretty duet on a piano.

Mr. J. P. Slayden then delivered the salutatory, taking as his subject "Life and Works of Edgar Allan Poe." The speaker proved himself an orator of no mean ability. His address was interesting. Following his speech was a sweet song by Miss Hattie Gooch, and an instrumental duet, the performers being Misses Wood and Crumbrugh.

The quartette warbled a merry selection, entitled "Your Necktie is Up Behind." This song was one of the features of the evening.

Miss Hattie Gooch read an essay upon music. This subject was handled in a pleasing way, and the reader was made a recipient of several handsome bouquets.

The next three numbers were of a musical nature, and the applause of the audience proved that the selections were pleasing. Misses Smith, son, Aden, Collins and Prof. Ward rendered "Prayer and Praise." Misses Jones and Gooch played "Lullaby." "Blindfold" and "Misses Dickey, Jones, Gooch and Waddell played "Der Teufelchen."

Mr. Thomas C. Jones spoke the valedictory. His address was attentively heard by the audience. He has an easy stage appearance and talks fluently.

After a chorus by a number of the students the President presented diplomas and conferred degrees. Mr. J. Paul Slayden and Miss Pauline Crumbrugh received the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Mr. Thomas C. Jones received the degree of Bachelor of Science, and Misses Daisy Wood and Hattie Gooch Bachelors of Literature.

Benediction followed and the entire affair was dismissed.

FIRED ONCE.

Charlie Lewis' Aim was True.

SMITH BEARS A BULLET.

Terrible Result of the Renewal of a Quarrel.

As the result of a renewal of a quarrel, Mr. John W. Smith, of Elton, was shot.

The victim of the unfortunate shooting was occupying a chair in a barber shop in Elton late Wednesday afternoon. Charlie Lewis, a well-known young man, entered the place and Mr. Smith had no time to open the door for over a year, owing to a disputed bill.

Mr. Smith was drinking and was carrying a bottle of beer in his hand. He approached Smith and asked him to take a drink. The latter declined, and Lewis, after using several insulting expressions, left. He returned to the front door of the building shortly afterwards and when Smith started away from the shop, he was shot.

Mr. Smith, telling Lewis that he wanted nothing more to do with him, pushed the boy from the doorway. Lewis whipped out a revolver and fired. Smith fell like a log with a bullet abraded his heart.

A crowd quickly gathered and the wounded man was carried into the shop and medical assistance summoned. The physicians dressed the wounds and after Mr. Smith was in a degree eased he was carried to his home.

Lewis surrendered himself to the police and was placed under guard. All last night Mr. Smith was thought to be fatally wounded. About eleven o'clock this morning he rallied considerably, and at noon to day he was thought to be out of danger.

As soon as the physicians announced that the patient would doubtless recover, Lewis applied to the County Judge and was granted bail. His bond was fixed at $2,000, which he gave without difficulty.

The victim of the shooting is one Elton's best citizens, a well-to-do and highly respected gentleman. He is about forty years old and has been engaged in the livery business for about ten years. He was well acquainted in Hopkinsville where he is related to a number of people.

Charlie Lewis is the son of a leading merchant. He is not more than twenty-two years old, and is known as a wild, dare devil fellow; but, despite his dissipated habits, he is very popular in Elton.

The shooting has caused a great deal of excitement in the little town. It is one of the most serious affairs that the place has known for years.

Another Account

From a gentleman who was in Elton at the time of the shooting further particulars of the affair were obtained:

Over a year ago, Lewis hired a buggy and horse from the Smiths. The young man drove to this city and while here became very drunk. He was exceedingly disorderly on the streets and the police made an effort to put him under arrest. When the officers approached the buggy, Lewis lashed the horse and drove rapidly out of town. He was followed by a posse. The posse caught him but the Elton men had the advantage of a good start and easily disarmed his pursuer.

When he drove down into Elton the horse was nearly dead from the trip. The animal's back was covered with whips and the driver's cruel blows. The livery man was an indignant of the treatment of the animal that he slapped Lewis and kicked him down.

Wednesday Lewis, according to the Elton gentlemen, was intoxicated and walked into the barber shop in which Mr. Smith was shaving. When the door of the shop was opened, Lewis remarked that the old grudge must be settled at once and before Smith could defend himself the report of the revolver sounded and the livery man fell.

A CARD FROM COL. J. STODDARD JOHNSTON.

To the Democracy of Kentucky: Having been unable to make a thorough canvass of the State as I have wished, I take this method of soliciting the nomination for Secretary of State from the Democratic State Convention, to assemble in the city of Louisville June 25, 1905. My first vote was given in Jefferson county in 1855 for Beverly L. Clark for Governor, and William Preston for Congress, and ever since I have been a Democratic voter and worker. As Chairman of the State Central Committee and editor of the Frankfort Yeoman, I have given the best years of my life to the service of the party, and never sought office at its hands except as a candidate for Governor in 1875. I was Secretary of State by appointment, under Gov. McCreary's administration, and my record is known. I honored with the nomination and elected I promise a faithful and efficient discharge of the duties of the office.

J. STODDARD JOHNSTON. Louisville, June 14, 1905.

THE BOSTON STAR

Says Dr. Kustmann's great book on diseases, its causes and home cure, with fine colored plates, is the best work ever published. A copy will be sent free to anybody who sends three cent stamps, to Postmaster, to A. P. Ordway & Co., Boston, Mass.

If Mr. Fred A. Wallis were willing, all it is time would be taken up in making speeches before the various Endeavor societies of the State. As a recognized leader of the State, he is requested almost daily to address some assembly. This week he has been requested to talk at Paducah, Princeton and Trenton.

The fortieth annual meeting of the Kentucky State Medical Society was called to order today at Hotel Latham. The chief topic for discussion and papers of the afternoon session will be diphtheria, eminent physicians from various portions of the State having been assigned at the last meeting to handle different phases of that subject. It is confidently expected that there will be from 300 to 400 doctors present at the meeting.

The third bi-monthly meeting of the Homeopathic Medical Club was held today in the office of Dr. Young with Dr. W. M. Hill in the chair. The subject under discussion was Exanthema which was opened by a paper by Dr. Young. The Club with Dr. C. D. Ellis, of the Cleveland Medical University, were entertained at dinner at Hotel Latham by the resident physicians. There were present Dr. C. D. Ellis, of Cleveland, O., C. G. Wilson, of Clarksville, Tenn., J. J. Backus, of Graceland, B. F. Felix, of Cereale, Graceland, D. A. Amor, of Cobb, and T. McKelvey, of Elton.
