WOUNDED WILDER.

Dr. Howland of Washington, D.C., arrived here yesterday evening, and he is expected to take charge of the treatment of Mr. W. H. Miller, who was wounded last night.

The wounded man was shot in the arm and leg, and is in a critical condition.

He was taken to the hospital, where he was operated on by Dr. Howland.

The operation was successful, and the patient is expected to recover.

The man was shot while attempting to arrest a bank robber.

The robber was shot and killed by the police, who were pursuing him.

The man was taken to the hospital, where he was operated on by Dr. Howland.

The operation was successful, and the patient is expected to recover.
Gregg's Accounting

Wooded in the attic of the San Francisco apartment, the accounting firm of Gregg's Accounting was preparing for a busy day. The office was buzzing with activity as the team of accountants and bookkeepers worked diligently to meet their clients' deadlines. The atmosphere was one of concentration and efficiency, as each individual focused on their task, contributing to the overall success of the firm.

The team included experts in various fields of accounting, from tax preparation to financial planning. Their clients ranged from small businesses to large corporations, and each one required a unique approach to ensure accurate and timely financial reporting.

In the background, the sound of typing and phone calls filled the air, creating a rhythm that was both soothing and motivating. The office was a testament to the dedication and hard work that goes into maintaining a successful accounting firm.

As the day progressed, the team continued to work together, reinforcing their commitment to providing top-notch service to their clients. The atmosphere was one of collaboration and support, with everyone working towards a common goal.

Throughout the day, the team remained focused and productive, demonstrating their expertise and commitment to excellence. Their dedication to their clients and their profession was evident in every aspect of their work, making Gregg's Accounting a trusted name in the accounting industry.

As the day came to a close, the team reflected on the progress made and the successes achieved. While there would be challenges to face in the future, they knew that their teamwork and dedication would continue to drive their success. The atmosphere of the office was one of pride and accomplishment, as they looked forward to the next day and the opportunities it held.

In summary, the atmosphere of Gregg's Accounting was one of dedication, collaboration, and excellence, reflecting the hard work and commitment of their team. The office was a testament to the success they achieved through their expertise and dedication to their clients.

The Carlisle Victory.

The temptation, or rather a monster, at Carlisle, Tex., will make the liquor men of the South tremble. It has been the general belief in Kentucky that if the monster can be killed, all the other monsters can be destroyed. The monster is described as the biggest and the most dangerous ever seen in that state. It has been described as being capable of eating up an entire town in a single day. It has been estimated that if the monster is allowed to continue its feast, the entire state of Kentucky will be wiped out in a matter of weeks. The monster was first seen in the town of Carlisle, and it has been estimated that it has already destroyed over $50,000 worth of property.

The liquor monster has been described as being four times the size of a man, with a head like a lion and a tail like a serpent. It has been said that the monster is able to leap over fences and walls, and that it has been seen to leap over the top of a three-story building.

The monster was first seen by a group of children playing in a cornfield near the town of Carlisle. They were playing a game of tag, and as they were running through the corn, they suddenly came upon the monster. It was so large that it was able to cover the entire field with its shadow. The children were so frightened that they started to run, but the monster was too fast for them. It caught one of the children and carried him off. The other children were able to escape, but they were so frightened that they were unable to give any information to the authorities.

The monster has been described as being able to eat a man in a single bite. It has been said that it has already destroyed over 100 men, and that it has been seen to carry off several women.

The authorities are now making every effort to destroy the monster. They have set up a reward of $10,000 for the capture of the monster, and they are now offering a reward of $5,000 for the capture of the person who first gives information that leads to the capture of the monster.

Sheriff John W. Oglevie and Deputy Shimura Samura yesterday returned from Franklin where they were called out by the sheriff to aid in settling the trouble caused by the Crinoline women. The sheriff had all his rounds, shells for his gun and two pairs of boots, besides necessities to settle with the assaulting party.

The times were not as scattered during the trouble as were the people in Franklin. The work of settling here was in
