FULTON BULLDOGS DEFEAT MAYFIELD

The Fulton High school Bulldogs closed a successful season here on Tuesday afternoon, defeating the Mayfield Cardinals 19 to 6 in the homecoming game. Mayfield had won seven games and lost only one previously, and was slated to defeat Fulton by a good margin.

The Bulldogs, led by "Butch" Nelms, end, and "Hot" McClellan, halfback, played a brilliant game. Fulton's first touchdown came on the last play of the first quarter when, having advanced from their own 38-yard line, Nelms passed to McClellan, who scored. The try for the extra point was blocked.

Jack Tosh, Fulton tackle who played his 18th consecutive game Tuesday without missing a minute, recovered a Cardinal fumble on the Mayfield 48 in the second quarter. Nelms, Spence and Moore advanced the ball to "Sug" Willingham who made the touchdown. Agin the extra point try failed.

In the fourth quarter, two line smashes picked up 7 yards and Nelms ran 32 yards to the Mayfield 12. Three plays took the ball to the Mayfield 5 and on fourth down McClellan scored standing up. Nelms kicked goal and Fulton led 19 to 0.

Mayfield scored late in the fourth quarter after successive passing from McClain to Pharris, and the game ended with Fulton in possession of the ball.

Fulton led in first downs, 11 to 4; in net yards from rushing 176 to 66. The Bulldogs completed 6 out of 11 passes for 95 yards and Mayfield 2 out of 13 for 30 yards.

The Bulldogs had their best seasons for several years, winning 6 out of 9 games. They defeated Martin, Marion, Union City, Trigg County, Lexington, Tenn., and Mayfield. They lost to Paducah, Murray, and Russellville.

U. S. LEADERS URGE STOP TOKYO-BERLIN

Leaders in all fields of endeavor throughout the United States believe that this country should take a strong stand against the new pro-Nazi Japanese Cabinet and go to war if necessary, according to a recent survey made by Ulric Bell, Chairman of the Fight for Freedom Executive Committee.

Wires sent by Bell to prominent citizens all over the United States received the following response: Burke Baker, businessman, Houston, Texas: "Thoughtful people with whom I have talked here today agree that firm stand by our Government in dealing with Japan is imperative. We urge a strong stand supported by action."

Dr. W. C. Johnstone, President George Washington University, of Washington, D. C.: "Our position is stronger now than any time in the past two years. We can afford to let Japan know we are not bluffing. There are no gains appeasing a weak opponent."

The Rt. Rev. Henry W. Hobson, Cincinnati, Ohio: "Japan has been Hitler's cats-paw for a long time. We can be thankful that our administration is preparing to take a strong stand against Japan. That is the only policy which will prevent her from further aggression."

Ward Cheney, businessman, New York: "A Japanese navy spokesman said today that Japan's fleet was 'itching for action.' If that's the way they feel about it, certainly we don't want to frustrate them. Let's start the shooting now."

Henry B. Cabot, Boston, Mass.: "I hope our Government will make it clear to Japan that our guns are loaded and that we are not afraid to use them."

John Steinbeck, author, California: "Japan seems to be studying the Italian strategy and she might receive the same reward. Adolf Hitler, Son of Heaven! Beware, uber alles!"

Burgess Meredith, actor, Spring Valley, N. Y.: "The stooges have moved in—the Nazi playwright has penned their lines."

Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, Retired, Newport, R. I.: "I feel we should maintain our policy of the open door, a free and stable China, justice to all nations, and maintenance of our rights in the Far East even if this policy leads to war."

MORTGAGES BEFORE CHRIST

The oldest investment in the world is the real estate mortgage. In ancient Babylon, 2100 years before Christ, in the reign of King Hammurabi, money was loaned on real estate.

He who has taught only himself had a fool for a master.

For Freedom!

On October 10, 1941, the following resolutions were passed at the final session of the "Continental Congress for Freedom," held under the auspices of the Fight for Freedom Committee in Washington, D. C.

We feel that in these resolutions lies a message of historic importance to the people of 1941 America. We print them, therefore, without further comment.

RESOLUTION NO. 1

Our mightiest armament is the idea that is America—the concept that men are created equal. This idea has been the birthright of all in our land, the goal of all in many lands. It has lighted the way of mankind for more than a century and a half. It is a moral force greater than any army or armada. Brought to bear, it always has and always will make tyrants blanch.

We assert that unflinching allegiance to this concept of freedom is our certain way of crushing the Nazi onslaught upon it. Allegiance to it means willingness to fight and die for it. There is no cut-rate choice between freedom and slavery, and we know by the grief we witness that half the world is already enslaved.

As delegates to the Continental Congress for Freedom, we pledge ourselves, our hearts, our lives to the preservation of the American idea, and pray that it will pervade the world.

We rededicate ourselves to the proposition that our democracy at home must ever be strengthened by practical devotion to its principles. We declare that this is a two-front struggle in which our example in the practice of democracy is as vital as our share in the actual conflict. We say that we cannot oppress our neighbor at home, impose unjust burdens upon the weak, seek material advantage in this emergency, allow politics to sway us, or permit religious or racial prejudice to divide us, without sharing part of the guilt for the plight of mankind. We will tolerate no touch of the fascist spirit in America.

We therefore call upon all our fellow citizens and upon the Congress from this moment forward to bear these high considerations ever in mind. We call especially upon our representatives in Congress to be representative in truth in both this sense and in the sense of showing courage in facing the awful facts of our time. We submit these considerations to our Commander-in-Chief and pledge to him our support in his leadership of the fight for freedom.

RESOLUTION NO. 2

We ask for the immediate repeal of the Neutrality Act because it is helping Hitler to win this war. We have never urged action against Hitler by saying such action would keep us out of war because we honestly feel that any effective resistance against Nazism means war. Now in urging the repeal of the Neutrality Act we know that when our ships, loaded with American goods, are taken into belligerent ports by the American fleet, Hitler will fight back. This will mean war and a declaration of war will and should follow. We believe that unless we act soon it will be forever too late, because Hitlerism cannot be beaten by halfway measures and the fight for freedom cannot be won by the half-hearted.

RESOLUTION NO. 3

LET IT BE THE SENSE OF THIS CONGRESS THAT WE DECLARE WAR ON NAZI GERMANY.

New Legislation Supports Prices of Needed Foods

Kentucky farmers who volunteer their help in producing the increased quantities of hogs, eggs, evaporated milk, dry skim milk, cheese, and chickens sought in the 1942 Farm Defense Program will have the protection of new Federal farm legislation against price collapses for these particular commodities, M. D. Roysse, Chairman of the State Agricultural Defense Board pointed out this week.

The new act of Congress, known as the Steagall amendment, requires that whenever in the present emergency the Secretary of Agriculture finds it necessary to encourage the expansion of the production of any non-basic agricultural commodity, he must issue a public notice calling for the expansion.

The same law also directs him to use funds available to him for the disposal of agricultural commodities so as to support a farm price for the commodity of not less than 85% of parity. Before the Secretary can discontinue a price-supporting program, he must give sufficient public notice of the termination to permit producers to make readjustment in production, Mr. Roysse said.

Secretary Wickard has already given public notice covering, until December 31, 1942, hogs, eggs, evaporated milk, dry skim milk, cheese and chickens. The basic commodities—corn, cotton, wheat, tobacco, and rice—are supported through loans at rates based on 85% of parity.

"This new development is proof that the national farm program can be used to protect the income and security of the farmers who answer America's call for greater production of the vital foods," the State Board Chairman commented.

"Fortunately, that protection is not required now, because the farm prices of every one of the non-basic commodities listed is well above 85% of parity level, but farmers can plan their 1942 production in the knowledge that prices can and will be supported, should it become necessary."

that can be made in the cropping plans that will reduce the labor load next spring.

Adjustments include early plowing on land that will permit; using oats and other small grains to replace a part of the corn; reducing, or renting out if necessary, some high-labor requiring crops, such as cotton and tobacco; using thin corn land for peas, beans, sorghums, and other forage crops that do not require cultivation; rearranging fields, if necessary, so as to utilize livestock for grazing crops.

In advance of peak labor periods, arrangements might be made to recruit additional labor from school boys and others not ordinarily considered farm labor. Farmers with only a few workers to supervise may find it profitable to plan the work so as to "make a hand" more of the time themselves, and thus speed up getting the job done. Surplus WPA labor, in rural areas, may be hired by farmers by notifying the county agent.

LIBERAL FEEDING OF COWS NOW WILL INCREASE PROFITS NEXT WINTER

The amount of milk produced on Tennessee farms next winter will be determined to a large degree, by the feed cows receive between now and winter, states C. A. Hutton, U-T Extension dairyman.

Cows which go into winter in a poor run-down condition are apt to be poor producers during the winter months. Short fall pastures, due to the extensive drought throughout the State, have already resulted in decreased milk production where farmers have not fed liberally, he said.

Many farmers, however, who are already supplementing short pastures with liberal grain feed and hay or silage, have been able to maintain good milk production. Liberal feeding at this time is not only profitable now, but is also essential for profitable production next winter.

Only one state in the entire country has been assigned a higher goal than Tennessee in the increased milk production in the National Food-for-Defense Campaign. If Tennessee reaches the goal practically all of the increase will have to come as a result of better feeding and care of the cows now on the farms. Liberal feeding now is the most important thing that can be done toward reaching our State Goal and producing milk at a profit.

A good grain mixture should be fed at the rate of one pound of the mixture for each three pounds of milk produced. Where silage and good legume hay are fed a good mixture is equal parts of crushed corn, ground oats, cottonseed meal and wheat bran—ground barley may be used instead of corn and ground oats may be used instead of wheat bran. Peanut meal, soybean meal or linseed oil meal may be used instead of wheat bran. Peanut meal, soybean meal or linseed oil meal may be used instead of cottonseed meal.

Priority System Extended

In order to assure adequate copper supplies for defense needs and avert a threatened shortage of 750,000 tons next year, the use of copper as a component in more than one hundred types of non-defense articles has been restricted by 40 per cent for the rest of 1941 and prohibited entirely after the beginning of January, states the current issue of The Guaranty Survey, published by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

The list of uses for which no copper, brass or bronze will be made available in 1942 is divided into seven categories. The Survey continues, including buildings, supplies and hardware; house furnishings and equipment; dress accessories; jewelry, gifts and novelties; burial equipment; automotive, trailer and tractor equipment, and a miscellaneous list covering a wide range of items. In addition to these specific curbs, a reduction of 30 per cent is ordered on non-defense items not included in the list; and the use of the metal in construction, except for wiring, is prohibited.

The saving, based on the current rate of consumption, is estimated at 200,000 tons next year; and the restrictions are expected to stop a rapidly expanding use of copper that would have required 500,000 tons more. Copper production next year, even with an estimated 10 per cent expansion in domestic output and importation of 650,000 tons of ore, is not expected to exceed 1,650,000 tons. Primary defense needs will require at least 1,050,000 tons and essential civilian uses about 250,000 tons, leaving 350,000 tons available for all non-critical uses, as against a demand that has been mounting toward 1,100,000 tons.

Several further extensions of the priority system have been announced. Copper scrap, including brass mill scrap, has been placed under full priority control. At the same time, priority control over nickel was extended to March 31, 1942. Later, all supplies of lead, both domestic and imported, were made subject to priorities; and it was announced that all lead released by the Metals Reserve Company, a Government agency that is now the sole domestic importer of pig lead, will be allocated by the Director of Priorities.

An even more important step was taken last month when an order was issued placing iron and steel scrap under full priority control.

This action was taken, according to Government officials, to meet a situation that threatened shutdowns or curtailment of operations by steel mills working at full capacity on defense contracts. The order authorizes the Director of Priorities to issue specific directions for deliveries of scrap metal. Beginning November 15, producers, brokers and consumers will be required to make monthly reports showing inventories and other pertinent data. These reports are expected to be made the basis of a general policy for the distribution of scrap under mandatory orders.

To assure producers and wholesale distributors in general of sufficient maintenance and repair materials and operating supplies to keep their plants in good running order, the Supply Priorities and Allocations Board has granted a preference rating to all normal orders for such supplies, including fuel. The rating applies not only to governmental units, charitable and educational institutions, and hospitals, but also to all firms engaged in manufacturing, processing, fabricating, warehousing, wholesaling, transportation, printing, publishing, radio broadcasting and communication, telephone and telegraph communication, and petroleum production. Retail establishments are excluded, for the time being at least, because of "administrative difficulties inherent in operating a maintenance and repair plan in that field."

A series of industrial and regional "clinics" at which business men can obtain information on the principles and application of priorities has been announced. Representatives of the Priorities Division will appear at meetings to be held in various cities to explain policies and answer questions. The plan is designed primarily to obviate the necessity for individuals and groups to go to Washington for needed information.

TOWN WITHOUT BARBER

It's going to be a tough pull for the 250 residents of Keystone, Ind., unless they get a barber quick. When Keystone's only barber left to take a position in a larger town, citizens formed a "House of David" club and swore to forego shaves and haircuts until some barber "took pity" on them.

Kindness is the golden chain by which society is bound together.

NATIONWIDE FARM MACHINERY REPAIR DRIVE LAUNCHED

Farmers Urged to Order Repair Parts Early Due to Shortage of Steel and New Equipment

A nationwide farm machinery repair program designed to help farmers meet prospective reductions in new farm machinery in 1942 to make more steel available for other defense needs has been launched by the United States Department of Agriculture.

USDA Defense Boards, comprised of U. S. Department of Agriculture representatives in all States and counties have been directed by the Secretary of Agriculture to assist farmers in the program to repair their farm equipment by the end of the coming winter.

As an initial step in the campaign, all farmers contacted in the current sign-up campaign for the 1942 Food-for-Defense Program, will be urged to check their machinery and to order needed repairs at once. Plans for carrying out the repair program will be made by State and County USDA Defense Boards in cooperation with county Agricultural Extension agents.

Not only will there be a smaller amount of farm machinery manufactured in 1942, but there will also be less fence wire, steel fence posts, nails and other iron and steel materials available for farm use.

To offset these shortages as far as possible the Government plans to make enough metal available so that farmers can obtain parts with which to repair used machinery. Much machinery that normally would be discarded must be used in 1942 and maintained at maximum efficiency if the food production goals are to be reached.

PLAN AHEAD TO MEET FARM LABOR SHORTAGE

With every effort now being made by farmers to produce more milk, meat, eggs, fruits and vegetables, farm operators may well expect a shortage and higher prices for both labor and machines.

In order to best meet the emergencies that will arise, some forethought in planning is in order. Just as soon as crops are harvested the farm equipment should be checked, and needed parts secured so that repairs can be made during the rainy days ahead. Thought should be given to the adjustments

SO YOU WON'T TALK ...EH?

THEN, I will. I'll tell you something nobody else in my house ever talks about.

Right in this house under my mom and pop's fingertips is the biggest bargain in town—but do you suppose they ever mention it? I hear 'em rave about the swell bargain they got in a dress or a suit or something, but gee whiz, they never say anything about electricity.

Listen, do you know that electric rates for houses are about half what they were when my sister (she's thirteen) was my age? You bet your boots. We're getting twice as much for our money when we press a button now as we did then; and that's the best bargain in the house.

Of course, the bill hasn't come down because I hear mom and pop say when sister was my age they didn't have so many nice electric things. So we are using more electricity. But twice as much electricity for the same money is still our best bargain and I want somebody to TALK about it.

THE LAW AND THE PROPHETS

The printed page in earlier times had a fascination for people that it rarely has today, although we teachers of language are often conscious of a print-worship that is provoking and amusing. "If it is in print, it is so" might very well have been the doctrine of teacher and student alike when I attended the country school. We knew no way of distinguishing between the poorly informed author and the scholar. Our textbooks were usually the work of mere hack writers, who could turn off a book on history or mathematics or geography equally well. A few of our books, such as McGuffey's readers, were of high type. Since we memorized most of our texts from cover to cover, it was hard to convince us that they were any less true than the Ten Commandments. I can recall how hurt I was when one of our teachers brought another history to school besides the one we studied and showed us that certain statements made by our sacred text were not accepted by other book-makers. For days we were in a quandary, afraid to give up what we had learned with such great difficulty and yet seeing in bold type statements the exact opposite of our cherished learning. The fallibility of human beings had begun to dawn on us, that is, some of us, but it took many years to convince us that all human knowledge has a flair for inadequacy.

Every semester I teach people in grammar, people who have already done two or three years of college work. About half the time of the course must be spent in breaking up the blind faith in some elementary textbook in grammar that these students studied in the grades and have not seen since then. Prepositions at the end of sentences, perfectly good since the earliest English was written down, scare my students almost as badly as so-called prepositions without objects. Dogmatic assertions made by some hack-writer a century ago, because they got into print, reappear as the Law and the Prophets. Even when these assertions are manifestly absurd, only a small percentage of my students will believe their own eyes and ears.

Though I have rarely taught history, I know that this worship of an older textbook is prevalent in that field. An eighth-grade textbook, naturally very short and immature, becomes the basis for all future judgments, no matter how many extensive works may be read. I once had a class with a mature man under a teacher who was later the president of Swarthmore College. This teacher, a brilliant graduate of Oxford and a scholar in the field where he was teaching, was embarrassed almost daily by the student's quoting a high-school history of English literature written by a pleasing but biased and narrow high-school teacher of Louisville. I still doubt whether the student ever learned anything new about Chaucer and medieval literature under this eminent scholar.

My contact with biology through a life-long study of birds has brought me against many a queer thing printed in a book and believed as gospel by the owner of the book. Just this week I was told as if it were from Mount Sinai itself that hummingbirds migrate by hiding themselves in the feathers of ducks and geese and thus hitch-hike their way north or south. When I appeared skeptical, the people who had seen it in a book gave me a real look of pity; the very idea of my not believing what was down in black and white! A few days ago a college senior read an article by some ignoramus denying the theory of glaciers and forthwith accepted the childish arguments, though he had at his immediate fingertips all the best and most scientific works on glaciers. It was in print; therefore it was Law and Prophets combined.

School mer throughout the nation are making a splendid contribution to the safety movement. Every school, even the small country school, is adding its bit to the safety education that children need. The proper way to walk along public roads, the correct way to cross streets, and even the proper method of handling an automobile are topics of discussion and instruction. Many cities are getting the dual-control car for driving instruction, and high school students are receiving this type of training from police departments. This is practical instruction in safe driving and should be helpful in years to come.

The automobile driver, however, who has graduated from all of these instructions and feels he is the most nearly perfect driver on the road is the one who needs to be frequently reminded of safe driving habits. He should constantly apply the principles of good driving and set an example of courtesy and of careful driving.

SILO SIMPKINS SAYS

Now is a good time to spread some lime. Business experts say now is a better time to pay than to go into debt.

In our Defense Program, farmers in the furrows are as necessary as troops in the trenches.

Four-H club members will be urged to grow an extra pig in 1942 to meet defense food needs.

During the 17th Century gallant young men delivered growing tomato plants to wives or sweethearts as tokens of love.

High farm prices won't pay for heavy soil losses. The deep-furrow seeder helps prevent erosion on rolling land. Prices are low. Ask the man who has used one.

Wanted: 9,000,000,000 pounds more milk; 500,000,000 dozen more eggs; 8,000,000,000 more hogs; 3,000,000,000 more cattle; by the United States of America for Defense use.

Birth of a Blues Singer

by
Mary Maxwell

I got one of the greatest kicks of my life out of an idea that occurred recently to a close friend of mine from my home town of Weatherford, Texas.

Back in 1936 I ran a dancing school in Weatherford and once a year I invested practically my whole bankroll to get to Hollywood, allegedly to learn the latest dance steps but actually to see if—by accident—I could step into a picture.

Universal finally gave me a test but I overdid it a little. Somebody gave me a pair of false eyelashes that were so big you could almost do a fan dance with them by opening and shutting your eyes. They made me blink and weep. And when Buddy DeSylva, who gave me the test, saw the results, he wept too—but offered me a job—as a singing and dancing teacher.

This lasted about twenty minutes and I was plenty disgusted, so much so I took a job in a Hollywood nightclub. As luck would have it, an influential New Yorker by the name of Donald Shaw introduced me to my first chance—a chance to sing a song called "My Heart Belongs To Daddy," for Lawrence Schwab, all because the star who was to play the lead, June Knight, dropped out of the cast to get married.

I believe that I always will regard June Knight's marriage as one of the happiest events of my life. After the critics and public were so swell to me in "Leave It To Me," Paramount offered me a contract in Hollywood, and since then I have been constantly in film work.

Remembering all too well the heartaches, the countless days, weeks and months of discouragements and the hopelessness of sitting alone on a dock waiting for my ship to come in—when my friend from Weatherford recently suggested that I finance a vocal scholarship with my teacher, Helen Cahoon, for some unknown in a chorus, nightclub, modeling or other professional fields, I hopped right on to the idea.

As a result, by the time the new Bing Crosby picture "Birth of the Blues" opens at the New York Paramount Theatre (I am also in the picture) some girl from the hundreds who auditioned in this contest will be introduced from the stage and will be presented with this scholarship before the most important showmen, newspaper critics, movie and radio talent scouts in the nation.

She will have an opportunity to cut down the number of heartaches she otherwise would have to go through to get this splendid recognition. So too will the other girls who compete in this contest be heard over the New York radio station WMCA, and sixty other stations through the courtesy of Radio Newsreel.

For while only one of the girls can win the contest, many of them will win recognition and jobs, and will be given a chance to parade in the spotlight before people who can do much for them, and maybe finally can achieve their ambition. In my next story I will tell about some of the girls who have been auditioned—what they do, what they hope to do and what they hope to be some day.

A man should keep his friend- Knowledge is like money—the ship in constant repair. more a man gets, the more he craves.
The man who pleases where he goes—can go where he pleases. To be conscious that you are ignorant is a great step to knowledge.
A jealous man always finds more than he looks for.

CONSTRUCTION WORK ADVANCES AT GILBERTSVILLE

GILBERTSVILLE, Ky.—Preparations are advancing rapidly to put the navigation lock at the Kentucky Dam in operation.

The lock structure is practically complete. The great steel permanent gates have been installed and the work now in progress consists mostly in completing the installation of the necessary machinery to operate the lock, and a general clean-up and check-up in the lock construction area.

Both upstream and downstream from the navigation lock large earth dikes at present block the boat channel so as to keep the lock construction area clear of water from the river. A portion of this dike is being removed by a hydraulic dredge and as soon as a sufficiently large opening is made in the downstream dike for the dredge to pass through, the dredge will proceed through the flooded boat channel and the lock to the upstream dike. The dredge will then remove the upstream dike and then resume operations on the downstream dike until the boat channel is free of obstructions to navigation.

As soon as the navigation lock is put into operation, river traffic will use a new navigation channel in the Tennessee River which skirts the construction work on the dam and around an island in the river immediately behind the dam construction area.
