Combined Fund Drive Near $4400; Leaders Pleased

Although failing to meet its $8000 quota, Mrs. Hendon Wright, Chairman of the first Combined Fund Drive, reported that she and her workers are well pleased with the approximately $4400 raised through radio auctions and other special events. While all of the money has not been collected, it is believed that the five groups participating in the drive will receive approximately $850 each, after expenses.

The groups who will receive the monies are: The Clothes Bank, The Twin City Youth, Inc., the libraries in Fulton and Hickman, the Fulton County Polio Chapter and the Lion's Club City Park Fund.

Mrs. Wright was high in her praise of the cooperation lent to the drive by many local leaders in both Fulton and South Fulton and by the hundreds of residents who patronized the auction and other events to reach the amount raised.

From Frankfort, Kentucky comes the political quip of the week: "Republicans sure can't make up their minds. In 1960 they fought like mad to keep a Catholic out of the White House. Now they want a Nunn in Frankfort."

President Kennedy's physical fitness program makes me madder every time I read something about it. Somehow or other I think if little Caroline and Jack, Jr. were just a little bit older, say thirteen and fifteen for instance, the President would exert every energy to promulgating a program for walking just one-fifth of a mile, instead of the fifty-mile bit that he's advocating.

I'm convinced that the automobile industry, and its allied trades, are aiding and abetting the rearing of a whole generation of would-be cripples. Used to be when a two-car family was a status symbol. Today, two cars for every family is not only a "must" it's a grave necessity. Mothers joke a good bit about running a taxi service each day, but for me it hasn't been very funny these past two weeks while Paul has been at Reserve Officers' Camp at Fort Gordon, Ga. He drove, which left me with one car, and one chauffeur, and that driver was me.

Before Paul left, we had a little family conference with a full attendance... the four of us. The departing officer organized "his company" so that the responsibility of running the house and the paper would be distributed in three equal parts. He went so far as to tell the children not to be so demanding about being driven here and there. He said and I quote: "On mornings when the weather is not so bad, walk to school, so your Mother will have one less trip to make." I might say here and now that there was no promise forthcoming from the other two attendants at the meeting.

I appreciate their honesty. Not one time have they violated their intent to have the no "walkie-walkie" campaign go on without interruption. You may know that we have one child in High School and one in Carr Elementary. From our approach to these buildings we reach Carr Elementary School first. That's why Mary Jo sits in the front seat and R. Paul sits in the back. She gets out first, and I would say there's another 150 yards to the other school, yet we have to drive that far and make another stop. It would be unthinkable for both of them to get out at one school or the other and walk the respective distances.

I don't want you to think that I'm too critical of our two. I see the same thing happen every morning with other families. It just beats me how a parent in this day and time, with one car in the family and four children ever does anything but load and unload youngsters from morn until night.

The other morning as I deposited my cargo at school I chuckled to myself as I drove away from the high school building. By the time I got home I was looking pretty silly laughing out loud all by myself. The reason for the laughter is simple. Have you ever seen the faces of the drivers of those "private" school busses each morning? Most of them are women. Most of them have been up for an hour or more. Most of them have been scurrying around solving the "what to wear" question; coaxing the small fry to eat a good breakfast; cooking same;

Skit, Re-enacting First P-TA Meet Presented At South Fulton Program

PTA Founders Day was observed by the South Fulton PTA on Friday, February 15. The president, Rev. Hulon Allen, presided during the business session, after which he introduced Mrs. David Phelps, program chairman. Mrs. Phelps presented an original skit, written and prepared by Mrs. W. B. Ennis, of the English Department. This was a re-enactment of the formation of National Congress of Mothers in Washington, D. C. on February 17, 1897, the organization later being called Parent-Teachers Association. Taking part in the skit were Mrs. Ennis, Mrs. Mac Burrow, Mrs. Billy Milner, Mrs. Lester Betty, Mrs. Eugene Bard, Mrs. Frank Barber, Mrs. Edward Hailey, Mrs. James Robey and Mrs. R. T. Bodker.

Prior to the program, past presidents of the South Fulton PTA were introduced and presented with corsages of red and white carnations. They then passed behind a heart-shaped picture frame, outlined in white lace and red hearts. For the deceased past presidents a vase of white roses was placed in the frame.

A beautifully planned tea was held in the home economics room after the meeting, honoring the past presidents. A beautiful birthday cake, carrying out the Valentine motif, was baked by Mrs. Oden Fowler. The tea was in charge of Mrs. James Holt and Mrs. Virgil Barker and they were assisted by Mrs. Robert Thompson, of the Home Economics Department, and Misses Monette Oliver, Sandra Speed, Judith Davis and Marilyn Mills, students of the department. Mrs. Shelton presided at the register.

New Action By Garment Workers Union Could Cause Loss Of Members' Jobs Here

Civic and union leaders in the twin city area expressed concern today over the action taken by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers union to stop the sale of garments made in the unionized Fulton, Kentucky and Dickson, Tennessee plants of the Henry I. Siegel Company. The union has been erroneously stating that garments manufactured in the plants are non-union made. In the twin city area, where nearly 1400 union members make their home, one union leader said: "If this campaign succeeds it could result in substantial loss of employment in this community. It puts the union in the position of fighting its own members." The long-time union member was commenting on an article that appeared in the Daily News Record of New York, a garment manufacturing trade paper.

The New York newspaper quotes the following statement of policy announced by Amalgamated Clothing Workers at its convention in Miami Beach:

"Until now the union has been advising retailers and consumers that the coats the company sells are made in non-union shops."

Now the stores and public are being told that the pants are also being made in non-union shops."

(Coats made under the Siegel label are manufactured at the Martin Manufacturing Company whose workers are union members.)

The union, rejected at the South Fulton plant in an election conducted by the National Labor Relations Board, and recently rejected for the third time by the Sewell Manufacturing Company in Georgia, is waging a campaign in many communities across the country urging consumers not to buy HIS (Siegel's label) garments. In commenting on the action taken by the ACWA union in Miami a union member told the News:

"We cannot understand such underhanded action on the part of the labor union which is supposed to have the interest of its members at heart. We feel that the workers in the Siegel pants plants in Dickson and Fulton should protest against the action of the union as it is certainly against their own best interest."

The Dickson and Fulton plants employ nearly 700 union members. The largest majority of them are in the Fulton plant.

Hinge Factory Seeking State Aid To Locate

On a motion submitted by Paul Kasnow twin city residents at a called meeting of the Citizens' Advisory Committee Monday night went on record "as approving action taken by the industrial committee of the Fulton-South Fulton Chamber of Commerce and that any further details be worked out by that committee."

The meeting was called by Advisory Committee Chairman Mrs. Lorene Harding to discuss the proposal made by Miss Pijie Jackson of Phoenix, Arizona to locate a hinge factory here with local financing.

Miss Jackson, owner of an invention patented to the Twinset Hinge Corporation, is in Frankfort discussing the possibility of locating in some Kentucky city, if the legal and financial aspects of the industry can be accomplished.

Miss Jackson had previously appeared before the industrial committee, W. P. (Dub) Burnette, president of the local civic organization said Monday: "We didn't close the door."

Valentine Day 63rd Wedding Day For Shupes

Mr. Shupe is a retired section foreman for the Illinois Central Railroad and worked at the Fulton Theater for a number of years after retiring from the railroad.

The couple has three children: Harry Wayne Shupe, an Illinois Central conductor at Memphis; Mrs. Nell Odenburg of Detroit, and Mrs. Allen Shelton, of Champaign, Illinois; also two daughters who are deceased.

BULLDOGS LOSE TWO

The powerful Fulton quintet found themselves with an off-night last Saturday as they bowed to the Mayfield Cardinals 32-27. The Bulldogs, who have been hitting near 50 per cent lately, bucked a meager 20 per cent. Mayfield did hit better, for they connected 32 per cent.

Johnny Covington with two points was Fulton's only score the first quarter, compared to Mayfield's ten points. Mayfield continued their tight defensive game to the second quarter and they held a double lead on the Bulldogs as the whistle designating the halftime sounded.

In the third and fourth quarters the Bulldogs seemed like they might pull out, since they finally found themselves with the lead. However, with their many floor mistakes the Bulldogs couldn't hold out and finally fell to the Cardinals by five points.

Setting the pace for Fulton were Don Burnette and Ken Allen with 12 and 11, respectively. John Shepherd was sick with the flu and missed the night's action.

Without three of their first five players and without their head coach, the Fulton City Bulldogs held the Ballard Memorial Bombers to a meager 14 point victory. Johnny Covington, Kenneth Allen and Coach Chester Caddas were all home Tuesday night with the flu. John Shepherd was out of town due to a death in his family. Big Don Burnette and Terry Beadles, only two FHS regulars, played an outstanding game. Burnette, tall center for the Bulldogs, scored 14 points in the first quarter with a total of 27 for the entire game. Dwain McAllister came through with eight and Terry Beadles and Ward Bushart both hit five.

This was the worst defeat the Bulldogs have suffered all year. The final score of the last game of the season for Fulton was 64-50.

TOURNAMENT AT CARLISLE

The Bulldogs' next game will be Thursday night, the second game of the First District Tournament at the Carlisle County Gym. On February 28, Fulton will play Hickman County. The first game of the Tournament will be on Wednesday night and will see Carlisle County and Hickman Riverview clash. Fulton County will play the winner of this game on Friday night.

The championship game will be Saturday night March 2. All games start at 7:30 P. M.

The Regional Tournament will be at Murray State College the following week and will begin on March 5.

On the tournament scene at Palmersville the South Fulton Red Devils were conquered by a power-packed team from Dresden in the semi-finals. In the other game Friday evening Martin defeated Union City 58-41.

Fulton Woman's Club Takes Lead In 'Stars In My Crown' Promotion

The Board of Directors of the Fulton Woman's Club took the lead in publicizing the outdoor drama to be presented in the new amphitheatre at Kenlake this summer. Appearing before the executive board on Monday, Mrs. Hendon Wright, public relations representative of the drama group sponsoring "Stars In My Crown" by Dr. Kermit Hunter, presented and the club accepted a proposal that would have members of the local group write to their out-of-town friends and relatives to tell them of the project. Mrs. Wright estimated that with 100 percent cooperation among the members, this would mean a total of almost 500 letters being mailed. Mrs. Wright will present the same proposal to civic, cultural and educational groups all over the state.

Dr. Hunter, the nationally known playwright and author of the first outdoor drama in Western Kentucky, will appear before the Woman's Club on Friday, March 1. The program will be in charge of the Drama and Literature Department of the club.

"Stars In My Crown" is the name of an old church hymn. Someday the title of that song may be used to sing the praises of a dedicated group of West Kentuckians who worked untiringly to bring a major tourist attraction to Kentucky and to the Mid-west. "Stars In My Crown" is the title of the play selected for an outdoor drama that will be presented this summer in the new amphitheatre now under construction at Kenlake Hotel, near Murray.

The project to establish the amphitheatre, to form a non-profit group to underwrite the proposed production and the decision to instruct Dr. Kermit Hunter to write the drama has taken nearly a year of tireless, and sometimes discouraging work to bring the vast project into being.

But the presentation of an outdoor drama in the amphitheatre is now a reality. It departed from the "dream planning" stage on Saturday night January 5 when the trustees of the Western Kentucky Productions Association instructed Dr. Kermit Hunter to prepare a second draft of his play, "Stars In My Crown."

The action by the board of trustees came after a script committee, headed by Lon Carton Barton of Mayfield, requested that Dr. Hunter be allowed to continue to write the drama has taken nearly a year of tireless, and sometimes discouraging work to bring the vast project into being.

Moral Decay Tampering With Soul Of America

Last week one of our readers sent us an article that appeared in the Masonic Home Journal. The reader said that the article so impressed him and his family that he would be glad to publish the article as a "paid advertisement" in this newspaper. After reading the message written by Jenkin Lloyd Jones, editor of the Tulsa (Oklahoma) Tribune we could not conscientiously quote an advertising rate for the publication of the article.

Editor Jones, a member of the Unitarian Church and a past president and director of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, undoubtedly felt the frustrations that all editors do, at some time or another, at the apathy among most Americans to exhibit the courage necessary to maintain our way of life.

The address we reprint herewith was delivered by Editor Jones before the American Society of Newspaper Editors. We reprint it, not in the hope that our readers will storm our doors to correct some of the situations mentioned in the article that are our local problems, too! We do so in the hope that just a few families will find the courage to stop the violence and cynicism that is "tampering with the soul of modern America."

Here is the article. It is not delightful reading, we can assure you.

"Who Is Tampering With The Soul Of Modern America?"

TELEVISION

We are drowning our youngsters in violence, cynicism, and sadism piped into the living room and even the nursery. Every Saturday evening in the Gunsmoke program, Miss Kitty presides over her combination saloon and dance hall. Even the five-year-olds are beginning to wonder what's going on upstairs.

LITERATURE

The fast buck boys have succeeded in convincing our judges that there is no difference between a peep show and a moral lecture. The old eye-poppers which tourists used to smuggle back from Paris, France under their dirty shirts are now clothed in judicial blessing. A Chicago judge has recently issued a blanket injunction against any one who might try to prevent the sale of Tropic of Cancer to children. Lady Chatterley's Lover and Ulysses are on the paperback shelves right next to the comic books. They can close the bookstalls on the Seine. It's all over at your corner drugstore where the kids hang out.

Don Maxwell of the Chicago Tribune last year asked his book department to quit advertising scatological literature by including it in the list of best sellers. The critics and the book publishers have denounced him for tampering with the facts. I would like to raise a somewhat larger question:

OUR SOUL

Who is tampering with the soul of America?

For nations do have souls. They have collective personalities. People who think well of themselves collectively exhibit elan and enthusiasm and morale. Where they low-rate themselves as individuals they will not long remain the citizens of great nations.

medical sociology at Adelphi college, in a recent article in This Week magazine, says it's time for a new kind of Kinsey Report. She asserts that the late Doctor Kinsey produced a report that was heavily loaded by exhibitionists and that did immense damage to America by peddling the impression that sexual self-discipline neither exists in this country nor is it desirable.

Generally, she says, those parents, who are afraid to lay down the law, have the most miserable children. Children, she points out, want honest direction and a set of sensible rules to live by. Where these are denied them on the fantastic theory that it's no longer scientific to say "No," the kids often develop subconscious anxiety. Much juvenile delinquency springs from a deep hunger for rules. It is a masochistic effort to seek punishment. The child, says Doctor Deschin, abhors a world where everything goes.

Or, as my tough-minded old grandmother put it, "The youngster who doesn't know that there's a Lord in Israel bounces around in a limbo where there is no gravity. If you think he's happy you're crazy."

ADVISED

The time has come to dust off the rule book. The game is unplayable if you're allowed two strikes or six, if you can use a bat or a cannon, and if some days you can have three men on third and other days there isn't any third base at all. We have to stop trying to make up our own rules.

And that goes for all of us. It's time to quit seeking learning without effort and wages without work. It's time we got mad about payola. We should ask the Lord's forgiveness for our inflated expense accounts and quit pretending that goonery is a human right.

Do not let me overdraw the picture. This is still a great, powerful, vibrant, able, optimistic nation.

But there is rot, and there is blight, and there is cutting out and filling to be done if we, as the leaders of free men, are to survive the hammer blows which quite plainly are in store for us all.

We have reached the stomach-turning point. We have reached the point where we should re-examine the debilitating philosophy of permissiveness. Let this not be confused with the philosophy of liberty. The school system that permits our children to develop a quarter of their natural talents is not a champion of our liberties. The healthy man who chooses to loaf on unemployment compensation is not a defender of human freedom. The play-wright who would degrade us, the author who would profit from pandering to the worst that's in us, are no friends of ours.

It's time we hit the sawdust trail. It's time we revived the idea that there is such a thing as sin—just plain old willful sin. It is time we brought self-discipline back into style.

ACTION NEEDED

So I suggest:

Let's look at our educational institutions at the local level, and if Johnny can't read by the time he's ready to get married, let's find out why.

Let's look at the distribution of public largesse, and if, far from alleviating human misery, it is producing the sloth and irresponsibility that intensifies it, let's get it fixed.

Let's quit being bulldozed and bedazzled by self-appointed long-hairs. Let's have the guts to say that a book is dirt if that's what we think of it, or that a painting may be a daub if the judges unwittingly hang it upside down. And if some beatnik welds together a collection of rusty cogwheels and old corset stays and claims it's a greater sculpture than Michelangelo's David, let's have the courage to say that it looks like junk and may well be.

Let's blow the whistle on plays that would bring blushes to an American Legion stag party. Let's not be awed by movie characters with barnyard morals, even if some of them have been photographed climbing aboard the Presidential yacht. Let us pay more attention in our news columns to the decent people everywhere who are trying to do something for the good of others.

In short, let's cover up the cesspool and start planting some flowers.

LAMENTATION ENDED

Well, that's the Jeremiad.

But I am fed up to here with the educationists and pseudo-social scientists who have underrated our potential as a people.

I am fed up to here with the medicine men who try to pass off pretense for art and prurience for literature.

I am tired of seeing America debased in the eyes of foreigners. And I am genuinely disturbed that to idealistic youth in many countries the fraud of communism appears synonymous with morality, while we, the chief repository of real freedom, are regarded as being in the last stages of decay.

We can learn a lesson from history. Twice before our British cousins appeared to be heading into a collapse of principle, and twice they drew themselves back. The British court reached an advanced stage of corruption under the Stuarts. But the people rebelled. And in the wild days of George IV and William IV it looked as though the British were rotting out again. But the people banged through the reform laws, and under Victoria went on to the peak of their power.

In this hour of misbehavior, self-indulgence, and self-doubt let this be the story of America. Unless I misread the signs a great number of our people are ready. Let there be a fresh breeze, a breeze of new pride, new idealism, new integrity.

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of the Civil War day by day in Kentucky, as reviewed by the Kentucky Civil War Commission.

By JOE JORDAN

(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week, the House of Representatives of the Kentucky legislature voted down, 40 to 36, a motion that it adjourn on the 17th until the 19th, to permit the Democratic Party state convention to use the chamber on the 18th. According to Collins' "History of Kentucky," it was the first time in the history of the state that use of the hall had been denied one of the major political parties.

On the appointed day, when 200 Democratic delegates from 40 counties (out of 110 then existing) assembled at Frankfort to nominate candidates for governor and other state officers, they convened in Metropolitan Hall. As soon as the meeting had been called to order by Capt. John W. Leather of Kenton County and before it could proceed to organize, it was interrupted by Col. E. A. Gilbert of the 44th Ohio Infantry, commander of Union Army forces at Frankfort. He read what he called "General Order No. 3," forbidding the Democrats to hold a convention.

The Union commander, whose troops were lined up in the street outside the hall with bayonets fixed, announced that any further business of the convention was "arrested." Col. Gilbert told the Democratic delegates that if they nominated candidates, the candidates would be arrested, and if elected, they would not be permitted to hold offices. His adjutant made a list of those present. Gilbert said those who were not Frankfort residents, members of the legislature or officers of the state government must return to their homes and refrain from "sedition and noisy conversation."

The next day in the House of Representatives, Dr. A. B. Chambers of Gallatin County moved to dispense with the rules to permit him to present a petition setting forth the happenings at Metropolitan Hall and seeking legislation to conserve the constitutional right of citizens peaceably to assemble and the rights of suffrage and free speech. The motion lost on a tie vote, 40 to 40.

Col. Roy S. Cluke of the Eight Kentucky (Confederate) Cavalry, with 750 of Brig. Gen. John Hunt Morgan's troopers, during the week under review crossed the Cumberland River on a raid into the Bluegrass Region. The men were put across the river in boats and the horses were made to swim. It was so cold that eight horses chilled to death immediately upon emerging from the water. Union troops at Somerset left as Cluke approached, and he captured Federal stores there. An enemy force surrendered at Mt. Vernon; the Confederates pressed on to ward Richmond over wretched roads, in a blinding snow storm. A Federal garrison evacuated Richmond before the Rebels could get there. Major Theophilus Steele with three companies overtook the rear guard at Combs Ferry and harassed the retreating column all the way to the outskirts of Lexington. Cluke moved out of Richmond the night of February 22, crossed the Kentucky River at Boonesborough and on the 23rd took Winchester.

THE LOOM OF TIME

Man's life is laid in the loom of time To a pattern he does not see. While the weavers work and the shuttles fly Till the dawn of eternity.

God surely planned the pattern: Each thread, the dark and fair, Is chosen by His master skill And placed in the web with care. He only knows its beauty, And guides the shuttles which hold The threads so unattractive, As well as the threads of gold. Not till each loom is silent And the shuttles cease to fly, Shall God reveal the pattern And explain the reason why. The dark threads were as useful In the weaver's skillful hand As the threads of gold and silver For the pattern which He planned.

YOU SAVE MONEY!

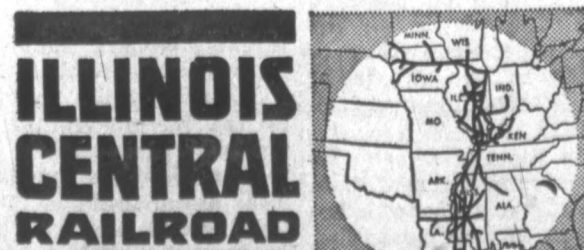

We help most families in Mid-America save money. It's hard to beat the prices we charge for moving most of the things a family buys.

The more business we handle, the more you save. Last year we did more freight business than in several previous years. More shippers used our services and found them better and more economical.

This year we plan many improvements. These will cost us about $32 million. We'll add new locomotives and thousands of new freight cars, many of them special cars that do the best job of handling certain kinds of freight. We'll put about $7 million into other improvements that will help trains move faster and more dependably.

This year's improvements are the latest in a long range program into which we have put $450 million since World War II. This program is good for us and helps make living better and more economical for every family in Mid-America.

Diary of Doin's

(Items gathered along Fulton's merryway for your pleasure and your scrapbook)

Webster describes "crewel" as a slackly, twisted worsted yarn used in fancy work. "Creweling" then, is the art of embroidering with said yarn and the custom is almost three hundred and fifty years old. In this day and time it seems ultra-modern to resurrect the old-fashioned customs, so creweling bids well to sweep the country by storm as has hiking long distances. On a Sunday afternoon recently we stopped in to see our good friend Elsie Weeks to visit for a spell and left wishing we could learn to thread a needle. Elsie and another good friend, Maurine Grisham were poring over a beautiful piece of linen cloth, or maybe it was quill, on which had been transferred a pattern of the "tree of life," an age-old replica usually identified with "creweling."

It is for sure that our inquisitive mind interrupted their pleasant task, but as usual we went right on asking questions. Maurine has already finished one bit of embroidery and covered a chair and she was helping Elsie with the proper embroidery stitch color scheme to use on Elsie's material also for covering a chair. Maurine is currently working on some draperies for her home; the way we see it, if we were doing the embroidering, we would take another three hundred years to finish a tea napkin with all that involved bit of handiwork.

The ladies told us that Katherine Atkins was something of an authority and an expert at "creweling" as she is at most everything else, so we called Katherine to ask more about the art that can't be found much in the dictionary.

We learned that creweling was popular for about sixty years, from 1650 to 1710. Some historians say that the period was from the restoration to the death of Queen Anne. The yarn is applied with a simple chain stitch and most patterns are designed to resemble serpent-like tree trunks, with mounds of earth around them. Some other patterns of modern design depict full trees with beautiful foliage and even have animals wandering around the tree. It all seemed highly complicated and difficult to us, but one thing is for sure, as time goes on, it will be no unusual sight to see ladies waiting for children, in doctors' offices, and almost everywhere stitching a branch or two to finish their grueling, we mean "creweling" project.

Ask these ladies about it. You no doubt will have to, after you read this explanation we have given you about the sixteenth and seventeenth century object of affection from milady.

THIS IS NOT FOR PUBLICATION; But one of our favorite people, Ella Doyle, passed through Fulton last week en route to Mis-issippi to visit with her mother, Mrs. Myrtle Doyle. Ella stopped by for a brief visit with some friends in Fulton and from them and from a short note from Ella we learned that this capable young lady is certainly enjoying her year of study at the University of Illinois. Ella is now doing her own 15-minute television show each Friday night as part of her studies and reports that she's having an exciting time interviewing many national celebrities. She has had interviews with Everett Dirksen, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas (Paul, we imagine), Norman Thomas and others. Says she: "I loved it."

Ella has also written and produced a 30-minute program for the educational channel in Champaign. No telling where that gal will end up in the broadcasting field, but we have a pretty good idea... on the top rung of the ladder. At the Kennel banquet last Saturday Mary Hughes Burrow and your diarist sat next to each other and what a wonderful time we had talking about that Doyle girl who was a one-time News reporter and WFUL commentator. Indeed, we'll always be proud to say "we knew her when."

Can't imagine anything that would be more glamorous than to make a debut in the enchanting land of Hawaii. That's exactly what Paula Joann Durbin did on February 9 at the Army Debutante Ball at the Fort Shafter Officer's Club in Honolulu, Hawaii. Paula is the daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Paul Durbin, popular former Fultonians, and the niece of Mrs. W. H. Purcell of this city. Paula was a little girl when the Durbins left Fulton and it's hard to imagine her as all grown up "coming out" on the social scene in Hawaii.

Paula, one of the twenty-four Army daughters debuting at the ball sponsored by the Hui-o-Wahine Officers' Wives Club, was presented to General James F. Collins, Commander in Chief, United States Army Pacific, and to Mrs. Collins.

White and pink, floral and tulle arrangements decorated the club lani with white mums and plumarias forming an arch about the stage where the debutantes were received.

A graduate of Brent School, Baguio, Philippines, Paula attended the University of California where she received a scholarship award for being first in the freshman class of '61-'62. She is presently attending the University of Hawaii as a language major. Before entering college Paula taught English for one year on Saigon, Vietnam.

Colonel Durbin is now stationed at Shafter, Hawaii.

Visiting relatives in Fulton from last Friday through Monday were Mrs. Edwin Cook Rice of Springfield, Mo., Mrs. D. K. Galtney of Corinth, Miss., and Mrs. Lillian Cook Cate and children,

Korean Missionary To Be Principal Speaker At WSCS Meeting In Paris

Miss Helen Rosser, R. N.

Miss Helen Rosser, a native of Macon, Georgia, retired on November 1, 1961, with over 35 years of experience as a missionary in Korea for the Woman's Division of Christian Service. Miss Rosser will be the featured speaker at the annual meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service in Paris, Tenn. on March 11.

Miss Rosser studied at the Breneau College Conservatory and at Scarrit College and also took Nurses Training in Christian Church Hospital, Kansas City, Missouri, and received a diploma in 1924. She took Public Health courses at Vanderbilt University. She was commissioned and went to Korea in August 1924.

From 1924-28 Miss Rosser took language study and was a nurse in Ivey Hospital, Sengde. From 1928-30 she was superintendent of nurses at Ivey Hospital. From 1930-40 Miss Rosser did rural Public Health work and district evangelistic work. She trained Korean nurses in hospitals and taught them Public Health Methods and Practices. In addition to lecture and classroom instruction, she did group teaching and home visitation and conducted well baby and maternity clinics.

Ronnie and Mary Ann, of Nashville.

Mrs. Rice and Mrs. Galtney were at Park Terrace, and Mrs. Cate and children were guests in the home of her father N. G. Cook. This was a special visit to Mr. Cook and all, as well as their cousin, Gertrude Murphey, spent most of their time in Mr. Cook's home.

Two Hickman couples celebrated their golden wedding anniversaries on Sunday, February 17. Mr. and Mrs. Clem Cooley observed this anniversary at the home of their son, James, and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Amberg in their home in Hickman.

On February 26 Mr. and Mrs. Finley Black, also of Hickman, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary in their home.

It's always nice to hear from a very dear friend. Violet Johnson is certainly that to us. We are sorry that she has been ill and confined to Jones Hospital, but she is at home now and feeling better. Violet asked us to thank all of you nice people for the many cards, letters, visits and flowers she received while in the hospital. She is grateful for your thoughtfulness and wishes she could tell each of you "thank you" personally. At the moment that's hard to do, so she is using this means as a card of thanks.

When people get that bowling bug, they get it bad. And there are some gals who are smitten with a bowling disease that borders on the dangerous. A couple of weeks ago ten local bowlers got into Martha Stinnett's big station wagon of sorts, and took off for Sikeston, Missouri to participate in an invitational tournament. They bowled all afternoon in the various categories, ate supper and bowled some more. They called themselves calling it "quits" for the day at nine p. m. and went to the motel to hold a post mortem on how they had fared in the competition.

Well, they were all sitting around the motel rooms, rehashing their scores and first thing you know they all decided to go bowling again. That wasn't a bad idea, but it was a little out of the ordinary as far as we see it. You see, it was twelve o'clock midnight when they made that decision, but that didn't matter.

They bowled from midnight until three in the morning. Went back to the motel, held another post mortem until five a. m., slept a little and were back at the bowling alley by ten a. m. that day.

Chris Brooks reported that Zane Taylor had a good score, but the rest of them just had fun.

Besides Chris, Martha and Zane others making the trip were: Jean Brockwell, Jo White; Frances Kelly, Betty Parks, Gene Ivester, Jewell Myatt and Gertrude Bennett.

The Drama and Literature Department of the Woman's Club met at the club house on February 19.

W. L. Cottrell's Carr Elementary sixth graders presented a puppet show, "The Snow Witch," a special project of that class. Artists for the show are Terry Smith and Tina Jolley, who painted all the scenery. About twenty of the sixth grade pupils took part in the show.

40 Years Ago, Farmers Found How to get More For Their Seed Dollars

• Back in 1923, many farmers were not satisfied with the seed available to them. Frequently it was poor seed. Poor crops and poor returns often resulted. Farmers finally solved the problem by organizing Southern States Cooperative and supplying themselves with the good seed they needed. Today, 40 years later, on some farms, seed may still be a limiting factor. The solution is still the same: To make top profits, you plant top-quality seed. Southern States top-quality Seed.

By Mrs. Harvey Vaughn

Several from this community attended the boys' basketball district tournament at the Palmersville School gymnasium. Some very fine games were played during the week, with South Fulton and Union playing for the consolation trophy, and Martin and Dresden for the championship on Saturday night. After a very exciting game with a double overtime being played, Martin was the winner by two points.

The Irvin Brundiges have enjoyed the past two weeks with a visit from their son Harold, who had not been home in three years, and their son Bobby Joe, who had not been home in seven years. Harold and wife returned to California.
