ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

This country is not just facing the most difficult problems and most momentous problems that a nation can possibly face, but is being submerged in a sea of consumer discontent and economic depression from which there is no immediate relief to be expected. Under the attack of the New Deal, the prosperity is waning, and the unemployment is on the increase. We are now in the midst of a great depression, and showing a rapid decline in consumption and production of goods. The government is taking the necessary steps to combat this depression, but it is not likely to be overcome. The crisis in Europe is also a contributing factor to the depression, as the international economy cannot recover until the peace of war is restored.

When the people are in need, it is necessary to provide them with the necessities of life. The government is taking measures to provide these necessities, but the problem is immense and cannot be solved without the cooperation of the people. The government is also taking steps to increase production and consumption, but it is not likely to be successful without the cooperation of the people. The government is taking steps to control the prices of goods, but it is not likely to be successful without the cooperation of the people. The government is taking steps to control the prices of goods, but it is not likely to be successful without the cooperation of the people.

T. V. A. Dam At Gilbertsville is Largest Federal Project East of the Mississippi River

We saw the beauty of the dam, a thing of wonder. Yet, it was only a thing. It could not compare to the beauty in the eyes of the man who built it, because he was not creating a dam, he was creating a nation. The beauty was in the eyes of those who would benefit from it, the beauty that was yet to come. The beauty of the future, the beauty of a nation transformed. And so, the dam was a symbol of what was to come, of what could be achieved. It was a symbol of hope, of progress, of a better tomorrow. And so, we must continue to build, to create, to transform, for the beauty lies not in the thing itself, but in the vision, the dream, the promise. For it is in the creation of these, that we find our true purpose, our true beauty. The beauty of the dam, the beauty of the future, the beauty of a nation transformed. For it is in the vision, the dream, the promise, that we find our true purpose, our true beauty. The beauty of the dam, the beauty of the future, the beauty of a nation transformed. Kentucky’s Rural Areas Gain

Most of the state’s new ruralites are not farmers. But non-farmers, who make up 60 per cent of the state’s population, are also moving to rural areas. This trend is particularly pronounced in the eastern counties, where the population is growing faster than in the rest of the state.
