FULTON, KY., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1941.

NUMBER FORTY-SIX

NEW CITY OFFICIALS ARE INSTALLED MON.

The Fulton city council met in regular session Monday night, with Mayor Paul DeMyer and four councilmen present. Bert Newhouse and H. H. Bugg were not present. All unfinished business was completed and instructions were given to pay all bills.

Robert Lamb, chairman of the local civic defense program, stated the purpose of his organization and outlined their plans. The city group gave its approval of this work.

T. T. Boaz, who has served on the city council for twelve years, was sworn in by Judge Lon Adams as mayor, succeeding Paul DeMyer, who has served four years on the council and twelve years as mayor. Mr. Boaz, popular local grocer, opposed Raymond Peoples in the August primary and was duly elected in the November election.

Councilmen sworn in by Judge Adams were: Charles Gregory, Frank Brady, James Meacham, J. L. Jones, Smith Atkins and R. C. Pickering. Mr. Pickering was the only old councilman reelected.

Committees were appointed for the new term as follows: Finance, Smith Atkins, chairman, J. L. Jones, R. C. Pickering; Water works, R. C. Pickering, chairman, Frank Brady and James Meacham; Cemetery, James Meacham, chairman, R. C. Pickering, Smith Atkins; Police and Fire department, T. T. Boaz and all councilmen; Street, Frank Brady, chairman, Charles Gregory, Dr. Jones; Utilities, Dr. Jones, chairman, Smith Atkins, Charles Gregory; Sewer, Charles Gregory, chairman, James Meacham, Frank Brady.

First Aid Courses Make Progress Here

Much progress is being made in giving Red Cross First Aid courses in Fulton. To date seven courses have either been completed or are now in the process of being completed.

Courses and their instructors are: Miss Elsie Bruer, South Fulton school; P. H. Shelton, telephone office; Bill Houston and Robert Burrows, South Fulton fire department; Clifford Shields and Mrs. Henry Edwards, Kentucky Utilities office; Lowell Williams, James Meacham and Hendon Wright, a junior course for Boy Scouts.

This course is very instructive to those taking it, enabling them to give First Aid in case of accident or emergencies, in saving of lives and prevention of deaths. The course would also be very beneficial in the civic defense program in National emergency, in case of flood, war, fire or tornado.

Boy Scouts Will Gather Old Papers

Local Boy Scouts will start gathering old papers, magazines and junk in a few days, according to William Henry Edwards, scout official. Many requests have come to Mr. Edwards and to The News office by local people, who wanted to know who was collecting these old materials in Fulton.

Old papers, magazines and junk are being collected by Boy Scouts and other organizations throughout the nation. The proceeds from sale of materials will be used by the Scouts here, and materials gathered will be an aid in the national defense program.

Building And Loan Re-elects All Officers

The Fulton Building and Loan Association held its annual stockholders meeting Tuesday night and reelected all directors and officers for the coming year. Directors are: Joe Browder, Abe Jolley, Max D. McDade, N. G. Cooke, Joe D. Davis, J. E. Fall, Leon Browder, Hoyt Moore and Bob White.

Officers were then elected by directors as follows: Joe Browder, president; J. E. Fall, secretary and treasurer; W. C. Reed, assistant secretary-treasurer; Ernest Fall, Jr., assistant secretary-treasurer. Miss Anna Lou Caldwell was re-elected bookkeeper.

The financial report was very good, showing a nice increase over last year and that this increase has been steady since 1937. During the year 44 loans have been made, valued at $53,800. Free installment stock sold during the year totaled $52,100 and the amount of free stock matured was $63,000. The total of loans matured during the year was $52,000. While it is probable that the amount of new homes built next year will decrease, the association is in good condition and expects that business will be fair and prospects are good, since present homes will probably be improved if new ones cannot be built.

SOUTH FULTON SPLITS WITH DYER TEAM

The basketball teams of South Fulton high school split a double header with the Dyer high school teams here Tuesday night. The South Fulton boys lost 28 to 24, but the local girls won 39 to 27.

In the boys game the Red Devils were handicapped by the loss of Paul Harwood, last year's star who is ineligible for the year, and McConnell, the only other regular left from last year's champions, fouled out before the half. However the local boys put up a splendid fight and in the last few minutes of play it seemed that they would win.

YMBC Would Bring Good Cheer To Unfortunate

"If you have any old toys around your house that have been discarded by your children, you can help a good cause by giving them to less fortunate children of Fulton," chairman of the Old Toys Committee of the Young Men's club declared this week. This organization is endeavoring to gather up all old toys, repair and distribute them to children of needy families this Christmas.

Around town you will see jars on the counters of various business places asking, "Mister, can you spare a dime?" Money collected for this charitable purpose will be used in this program to make Christmas bright and cheery for unfortunate children who do not have the advantages that your child may have. Citizens are asked to respond cheerfully to this most worthy cause.

Something Should Be Done About Small Loan Sharks

We have been reading with interest the efforts being made by State Senator E. D. Stephenson of Kentucky to bring about some action that will protect the many thousands of people of this state who negotiate small loans. Senator Stephenson said: "A Kentucky law fixing interest rates on small loans is an abomination for it permits interest up to 42 per cent a year."

Kentucky has a law which permits interest up to 31-2 per cent a month on loans up to $150.00 and 21-2 per cent on loans over that amount.

Action to correct this Shylock law that allows persons obtaining small loans to be fleeced at such outrageously high rates of interest. We have seen these loan companies' methods of doing business, and have felt for a long time that they were taking advantage of an unjust law to charge unfair rates of interest.

Life is made up, not of great sacrifices or duties, but of little things in which smiles and kindness, and small obligations given habitually, are what win and preserve the heart and secure comfort.

WAGES AND PRICES

There is a growing feeling in Congress that some form of wage control must accompany price control.

Two wage control proposals have so far been made. One would impose a definite ceiling on wages, as of a given date, and would impose the same kind of ceiling on prices at the same time. The other proposal is more elastic, and would give the Price Administration authority to control wages when it believed that further increases would be of an inflationary character.

There is obviously room for disagreement as to the details of wage control legislation. There is, however, no ground for believing that anything resembling workable price control can be effected if wages are permitted to soar without restraint. The price trend today is to a large extent the result of the many wage increases. The cost of both farm and industrial labor is reaching near-record peaks—and this is directly reflected in the wholesale price index. Retail distribution, led by the chains, has been doing a splendid work in absorbing as much of the price increase as possible, and in holding retail price boosts to the minimum. But the merchandisers can't do the impossible, and today retail prices are necessarily going up.

Secretary Morgenthau has warned the country of the imminent danger of real inflation. The country's industries, in both the producing and the distributing fields, are doing all they can to hold down prices. But so long as wages and all other costs move uncontrolled to higher levels, these efforts cannot achieve full success. If industry is forced to accept rigorous price control which will greatly limit freedom of action, labor must expect the same thing.

MENACE TO LABOR

The troublemakers in the ranks of labor would do well to read the Gallup poll which was recently released.

The poll asked this question: "Are you in favor of the closed shop—that is, requiring every worker in a company to belong to a union before he can be hired?"

Seventy-seven per cent of those queried answered No. Only 13 per cent answered Yes. The balance of 10 per cent was undecided. In short, sentiment against the closed shop was in the overwhelming ratio of six to one!

The important part of this is that the bulk of major union disputes of late have dealt with the closed shop issue. When wage and hour issues are involved, government mediation boards exist to protect the worker against exploitation and unfair treatment. What union leadership wants is a closed shop which will prevent any man who doesn't pay tribute to a union from getting a job and earning a living.

The continual strike threat in the coal mines supplying the nation's most basic defense industry, steel was over the closed shop issue. The head of the mine workers has defied the government of the United States and told it, in effect, to accede to his demands—or else!

The temper of the American people is clear. No group, whether it be labor or capital, can be allowed to imperial this country. No group can put its own selfish interests ahead of the nation's safety. It is unquestioned that the bulk of workers in this country are loyal and patriotic. They want to work, and they know that today wages are at record levels. But a few troublemaking union leaders stop them.

The radicals in the labor movement are digging unionism's grave. Let them remember the President's words—"That small minority is a menace to the true cause of labor itself, as well as to the nation as a whole."

COOPERATION PAYS

Agricultural marketing cooperatives are the farmer's most effective representatives.

Back of them are decades of preparation for the kind of emergency the farmer confronts today. These co-ops have developed trained and expert staffs. They are fully conversant with the ins and outs of every farm problem. They are known and respected in governmental circles. They have a vitally important knowledge of markets and distribution. There is an established, long-range policy which is not changed by the fluctuating tides of politics.

They have a tough job on their hands today. Farm costs for labor, materials, supplies and taxes, rise. In many instances, they are rising faster than the prices the farmer receives. Agriculture is going through one of its most trying periods—and the marketing organizations are fully proving their worth.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

The kindred problems of inflation, taxation and cost-of-government are causing many a congressional headache these days. Few senators or representatives seem to have yet decided what can be done to help solve them.

Prices are now going up with extreme rapidity. President Roosevelt recently said that inflation has set in, and other major figures in the government have said the same thing before. A legion of economists have urged that Congress take steps to control prices. But so far the lawmakers have shown amazing agility in dodging the issue. Price-fixing is an extremely ticklish proposition. It would directly affect millions of voters. If it is to be successful, it must be accompanied by wage-fixing. So, from the point of view of men who must depend on votes to hold their jobs, it is dangerous medicine. On top of that, there are a thousand and one different proposed schemes for price control, and no one knows which might be workable.

We have only just begun to suffer the burdens of taxation that war and defense spending will make inevitable. The new tax bill is the heaviest in our history. Yet it is designed to produce less than $4,000,000,000 a year in additional revenue, and defense and aid-to-democracies appropriations now total close to $70,000,000,000. The President has said that the government's cash income must be increased, and Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau has urged a bill which would impose on both individuals and businesses a tax load infinitely greater than that they are now paying. The feeling grows in official circles that some form of payroll tax may have to be levied, and that this may be accompanied by a law to compel forced savings. Heavy taxation is urged as a weapon against inflation on the ground that it reduces purchasing power and lessens the ability to buy. The bill which Mr. Morgenthau recommended involves a straight 15 per cent tax on all salaries and wages.

The cost-of-government issue is coming into the limelight now. The hard fact is that the war spending has been piled on top of record-breaking non-war spending in which no important cost reduction has been made anywhere. For instance, appropriations to aid farmers, youth, reliefers, and others are still at the depression peaks. Leading congressional fighter for non-defense economy has been Senator Byrd of Virginia. Mr. Byrd is a 100 per cent supporter of the anti-Hitler program, and at the same time he believes that the regular cost of government should be pared to the limit. He is head of a senate committee which is now trying to find ways and means to reduce the non-defense budget. Secretary Morgenthau recently appeared before this committee and testified that, in his opinion, very large cuts could be made in practically all non-defense departments. He did not estimate the total that could thus be saved. However, sometime ago he forecast that a reduction of at least $1,000,000,000 a year was possible. Other authorities have estimated that a cut of $2,000,000,000 or more is within reason, in non-defense spending.

Congress has been entirely occupied with foreign policy during the past year, at the expense of domestic policy. In a time such as the present, with public attention focused on a war which extends over three-quarters of the world, it is easy for Congress to take the line of least resistance and do little or nothing. But the heat is being turned on now, and some of the turners are men high in Administration circles. This country has not yet adopted a fiscal policy, a wage policy, or a price policy suitable to the times. We are far behind England in that respect. It looks as if Congress must really get down to cases and grapple with economic problems which are of direct concern to every citizen of these United States.

The tone of the German press has undergone a curious change. For instance, in a recent article propaganda director Goebbels seemed actually pessimistic as to Germany's chances. He didn't say that in clear words, of course, but the intimation was that the Reich had a mighty tough job on her hands and that victory was far away.

It is generally believed in military quarters that the blitz technique has finally failed. It worked with France, Poland, the Low Countries and elsewhere. But it didn't work with England. And it isn't working with Russia.

The war is becoming more or less stabilized. It is turning into a war of resources. Hitler's prime concern now is to organize German-controlled Europe into the vast producing machine that the Nazi armies need. And the democracies' prime concern is to outproduce him in all fields.

Mr. Churchill's recent statement to the effect that the British air force is at last equal to Germany's is not regarded as braggadocio by those who have access to the facts. England has done wonders in building up air power, and American aid is substantial and increasing. The democracies are gaining ground now—but they have a long way to go still. Hitler's land forces are still the best equipped and best trained on earth.

Double for Your Money

that's about the bargain electricity under business management gives you today

REALIZE what a swell bargain you're plugging into every time you use electricity these days?

It's very likely that you don't realize it because the residential rate has been reduced gradually over the past 10 to 15 years. And your bill is probably about the same as it was.

That's because, although the price of electricity has been cut about half, you are probably using a lot more electricity than you did. Most families are. Today homes have refrigerators, toasters, washing machines, ironers, vacuum cleaners, radios—some or all of which you may not have had 10 to 15 years ago.

How does it happen that today you get about twice as much electricity as you used to get—for the same money?

The answer is that it didn't just "happen." This reduction is the result of business management of the electric companies. Your electric company and its employees. The same people who are constantly working to improve your service so that every year it is better than the year before—the people whose aim is to keep on bringing you more and more of the benefits of electricity at less and less cost.

TAXES AND THE FINANCIAL OUTLOOK

The people of the United States were brought one step closer to the point where they must actually assume the direct and immediate financial burden of the defense program when the new revenue law was enacted, states the Guaranty Trust Company of New York in discussing taxes and the financial outlook in the current issue of The Guaranty Survey, its monthly review of business and financial conditions in this country and abroad.

The country is now confronted with the heaviest tax load in its history, yet one that falls far short of measuring the current money cost of rearmament, The Survey continues.

Need For Non-Defense Economies

In view of the fact that the unprecedented tax burden imposed by the new revenue act will come far short of meeting our Government's financial requirements, the need for substantial curtailment of non-defense costs is particularly urgent. The law itself contains a recognition of this need: a committee is established to survey the whole field of Federal expenditure with a view of recommending the elimination or reduction of all non-essential spending. This apparent in the legislation is a promise that, supplementing the sound and conservative tax policy that it embodies, there will be a reduction of unnecessary portions of the taxpayers' load.

The compelling requirements of the present emergency do not alter the fact that non-defense spending represents the main unsolved problem of public finance in the United States. Emergency deficits can be faced with relative complacency, since they are essentially temporary. But it must not be forgotten that the defense program is only a year old, whereas the Federal budget has not been balanced for eleven years.

Whatever may be the peak sums that taxation will have to furnish during the current war period, effective resistance to unwarranted demands of pressure groups will remain a major necessity. Group subsidies, supposedly temporary, threaten to become permanent. In the face of the largest employment in the country's history, the Government is still carrying a heavy burden of relief. At a time when agricultural income is at the highest level in many years, higher farm subsidies are being granted. A social security burden has already been assumed that will make incalculable financial drains in future years, but further broad extensions of the system are being planned. Such tendencies, if uncured, will perpetuate the habit of deficit financing, with its menace of ultimate financial chaos. In the struggle to defend its free institutions, the nation cannot afford to continue the fiscal laxity that constitutes one of the deadliest threats to their preservation.

Broader Tax Base

The most significant feature of the law, in some respects, is its broadening of the base of the income tax on individuals, effected by the reduction of exemptions to the lowest levels in their history. This change, it is estimated, will approximately double the number of persons paying Federal income taxes. The contribution of the new taxpayers to the increase in revenue resulting from the reduction of exemptions will be comparatively small; by far the greater part of the additional amount will be contributed by those previously taxable. The broadening of the income tax base, nevertheless, constitutes an essential step in the development of sound fiscal policy.

The sharing of the visible forms of taxation by several million additional families will undoubtedly encourage the maintenance of national solidarity of purpose and unification of effort in the present emergency. Although such achievements are not statistically measurable, their importance will not be less on that account.

Further broadening of the distribution of the tax burden is provided by the new law through the sharp increases in individual income tax rates in the lower brackets. Surtaxes are now imposed on all taxable income, with the result that the total tax rate on the lowest range of such income is more than twice as high as heretofore. In this way, the millions of persons with moderate incomes, who always have constituted the great majority of income taxpayers and have necessarily provided the great bulk of income tax receipts, are now made in even greater degree the mainstay of Treasury revenue.

Especially gratifying is the law's adherence to a standard that requires chief reliance upon taxation rather than loans in providing for the needs of the Treasury, however broadly expanded those needs may become. Under any emergency conditions that now even seem probable, no budgetary program inconsistent with this basic principle can adequately safeguard the nation's financial structure.

Most of the funds obtained by the Government during the World War were raised by borrowing. In the fiscal years 1917-18 and 1918-19, total taxes equaled only slightly more than one-quarter of the expenditures, about half the proportion indicated for the current fiscal year. Some of the unfortunate results of financial practice in the previous war-time emergency, with its enduring legacy of swollen debt, should provide a warning of mistakes that could be repeated under existing stresses — mistakes that would be especially dangerous at present because of the very high level at which the national debt stood at the beginning of the emergency. On June 30, 1940, the debt totaled $42,971,000,000, as against $1,225,000,000 on June 30, 1916. The present base of the taxes applied to individual incomes is much broader than that during the World War period and can be a further valuable aid in the management of emergency finance on a national scale.

E. B. RUCKER, Pastor

Greeting to all the people, as we enter a New Conference year.

After having been with you for one year I am in a better position to serve you; and this is my purpose. If you will cooperate with me we can plan our work, and work our plan.

One thing is very essential to our success, it is our reading matter. I am hoping to see you soon in your home, and one thing you be ready to try with me this year—that of reading the Christian Advocate. We can get the paper for $1.50 a year if 5 per cent of the active members subscribe. This means 31 subscribers. I have run over the homes that should have the Advocate and find there are twice this many, but you may stall the plan by excusing yourself. A 32 page Christian magazine for 52 weeks for only $1.50. The regular price is $2.00.

Lets boost our church schools, prayer meetings, young peoples work, Society of Christian Service, and church services by taking an active part in each. It will mean a deeper Christian experience for all.

Our new District Superintendent, Rev. Robert Clark, is calling us together December 9 at First church, Fulton, for the District set-up meeting. If you hold any position in the church or if you are really interested in church work make your plans to be present. It will look bad if our charge fails to show up well with the meeting being so near us. Services begin at 10 o'clock.

Our First Quarterly conference will be at Dukedom January 21.

Services Sunday, 11 o'clock at Bethlehem, Rice City 3 in the afternoon. Take notice and be present.

He who has no inclination to learn more will be very apt to think that he knows enough.

Under the supervision of Miss Warren, the hot lunch program is progressing nicely at Welch. We have had some interior decorating done in the kitchen. The entire walls of the basement have been painted, a new ceiling has been put in and patriotic decorations have been arranged. We now have three cooks and a helper at Welch. Mrs. Lorene Rushing went to work last week. We are glad to have Mrs. Rushing with us. She is industrious and is of great help to the other cooks. In fact, we have three splendid cooks, who can bake sweet potato pies that will melt in Russell Puckett's mouth.

Money Talks

By
Frederick Stamm, Economist
Director of Adult Education
UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

Several days ago the House of Representatives defeated a bill to freeze wages, rents, and prices at their present peaks until 1943. This bill, sponsored by Representative

Albert Gore of Tennessee, was too severe for most of our political leaders.

Congressmen from the farm belt argued against the bill because it regulated farm prices; one congressman from the industrial area voted against it because "it would put industry in a strait jacket;" pro-labor leaders were opposed because it would stop higher wages.

While Congress argue all kinds of inequalities are cropping up in our economic life. The dairy, beef, and hog producing regions are prospering, for the prices of these products are up sharply. The tobacco, cotton, and wheat regions are not faring so well, for the price of these products has not increased to any extent. Yet the farmers of these sections are paying as much for the manufactured products that they buy as the farmers of the dairy, beef, or hog sections.

Then, too, the wages of the city workers have risen much faster than those of the small town workers. In many of our smaller communities, wages have not gone up as much as five per cent. With the cost of living increasing each month, you can readily see the unfavorable position these people are in today.

Let me cite one more example. I noticed recently that the Office of Price Administration in Washington recommended that the retail price of new automobiles be fixed at present levels. Now why should this be done if it does not also fix the wages the automobile dealer pays his mechanics, the rent he pays for his salesroom, the price he pays for his gasoline and oil? Why regulate one or two prices and let the rest run wild?

Officials in Washington realize inflation is disastrous economically. They realize that it should be stopped, but they lack the courage to act.

War and the preparation for war calls for stern measures. Congress recently passed the stiffest income tax bill in our nation's history. This tax bill will cut down the savings and undoubtedly will affect their economic and social life. It seems to me a price and wage control law is no more of an economic "straight jacket" than many other laws which have been passed. If we are to have any semblance of economic equality, we must have a strict control of all prices and wages.

In seven years, since the legalizing of beer, the brewing industry has paid state and federal taxes of $2,000,000,000, or about $600 a minute.

FOOD FOR FREEDOM PROGRAM MAY MAKE HISTORY, EVANS SAYS

AAA Administrator, Just Back From Britain Asserts English Must Have American Food To Survive

Food production by American farmers in the months ahead will decide the course of history, R. M. Evans, national AAA administrator, told an audience of farmers and consumers at the State Fair Grounds in Louisville, Wednesday, November 12.

"The strength of America, the strength of Britain in the war on aggression, and the strength of America's hand at the peace table depend upon the food from farms of the United States," Mr. Evans said.

The AAA administrator has just returned from England where he studied the British food situation.

"Britain never produced more than one-third of her own food needs," Mr. Evans said, "And now even with her own food production stepped up to maximum levels she cannot hold out against Nazi aggression without increased food supplies from America."

Pointing out that this is a war of production, Mr. Evans emphasized the importance of a statement made to him by British labor leader Ernest Bevin that "if you give us plenty of meat from America, we will increase industrial production from 15 to 20 per cent in 30 days."

The AAA administrator said Bevin told him British miners often have to lay off one day a week to recover their strength.

"This illustration from the British labor leader made me realize how fortunate we are in regard to food and feed supplies," Mr. Evans asserted. "Without the Ever-Normal Granary of our farm programs," he said, "the 'Food for Freedom' program now getting under way could not be started."

"Farmers are rallying this fall to the 'Food for Freedom' program," Mr. Evans said. "This gigantic production plan for 1942 is the farmers' answer to the call for the greatest production in history. It is carrying forward the policy that is and always has been a fundamental part of AAA action since 1933—the policy of balanced abundance."

"Today balanced abundance is taking on an even greater meaning. More than ever before the nutritional needs of our people are being considered in the production plans of farmers the country over. Today as Americans are able to buy more food, the farmer is acting to stay ahead of increased buying power. And at the same time the program is providing us with a foundation for the post-war era. If we have the foresight to use it, I am confident we can match agriculture's surplus capacity with increased consumption of food to raise the nutritional standards of our people."

"Consumers in this country today have no fears of food shortage," Mr. Evans continued. "The farmers' program to convert our vast reserves of feed into food and the use of our farm resources for such production is the nation's assurance of plenty. But to produce this plenty, farmers must have fair prices. Farm prices are better today after a long period of low prices, but they are not unreasonable high. According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the average factory worker in the first ten months of this year could buy 27 per cent more food for his dollar than he could in 1929. Furthermore, it must be remembered that farm prices are only one item in the cost of food."

While speaking primarily of food and its vital importance in national defense, the AAA administrator also described the part tobacco plays in maintaining British morale.

"From the way people in England grabbed whenever I offered a package of cigarettes, you might have thought a smoke was more precious than a steak dinner or the eggs and milk we are sending them," he said.

While supplies of tobacco now moving to Britain are mainly flue-cured, Mr. Evans said, Burley growers can expect a healthy situation because of the increase in domestic consumption of cigarettes, which tends to reduce somewhat the large stocks of Burley on hand.

Cigarette consumption is at a record level, more than 10 per cent higher in the past 12 months than in the previous year.

"Loan rates for Burley, fire-cured and dark air-cured leaf will be 85 per cent of the October 1 parity price," Mr. Evans pointed out, "under legislation approved this summer." Loan rates offered on the 1940 crop were at 75 per cent of parity.

"America today faces critical times," the administrator warned. "The strength of our nation is being tested as never before. Agriculture is meeting that test. There is little need for me to repeat that agriculture is the best prepared of any industry in the nation. I have yet to hear a responsible person say that agriculture has not provided enough and more than enough food and fiber."

"And the Farm Defense Program was designed to help farmers while they are helping the fight for freedom. The program is based on good solid farming practices and will not create the havoc and unorganized ruin that resulted from the farm effort during the first world war."

"I was particularly impressed to find English farmers are recognizing the need for a post war plan of action," the AAA administrator said. "Many of them recognize the importance of world agreements for surplus crops like wheat, cotton and tobacco. They realize that although they are not a surplus country they have a vital stake in a fair break for other producers on whom their country must depend for supplies. These are problems that will have to be worked out by the time peace comes, and the English agree with us that now is the time to get busy."

The AAA administrator's address in Louisville was one of the first of a series made since his return from the British food survey. Attending the meeting were farmers and consumers from Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois and Tennessee.

Labor disgraces no man; unfortunately you occasionally find men who disgrace labor.

A Package Wrapped....

We are drawing near the end of a momentous year in American history. Because 1941 was expected to be fraught with dangers, the railroads approached it with more than a little apprehension. And indeed there were some persons who genuinely doubted that the railroads could do the job that lay ahead of them.

Yet somehow THAT JOB HAS BEEN DONE, complicated though it has been by the demands of national defense, rapid and often unpredictable turns in traffic, quick calls for rate readjustments, priorities on railway materials, bumper crops, lack of storage in critical places, strikes and threats of strikes.

Our Illinois Central pledge for 1941 was that we were ready for action and wide awake at the switch. Money has been spent, methods improved, sweat raised to make that pledge come true. We have worked hard—all of us—and we all take pride in the accomplishments of our service.

To our customers we say:

ABOVE ALL ELSE, we want you to know how MUCH your patronage has meant to us, how sincerely glad we have been to contribute to whatever satisfaction the year has brought you.

We extend our thanks and season's greetings through the continued performance of complete and satisfactory transportation. Ours is a package that will be WRAPPED IN GOOD WISHES, loaded carefully and delivered on time.

Conservation Rates For 1942 Program Announced By AAA

Rates for determining the special crop payments of Kentucky farmers in the 1942 agricultural conservation program have been announced by the state office of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. The payments will be made on tobacco, wheat, cotton and on corn and potatoes in commercial areas.

Based on each farm's normal production on allotted acreage for each of the crops, the rates are: Burley tobacco, 0.7 cent a pound; dark fire-cured tobacco, 1.4 cents a pound; dark air-cured tobacco, 0.9 cent a pound; wheat, 10.5 cents a bushel; cotton, 1.25 cents a pound; corn (in commercial area only), 8 cents a bushel; and potatoes on farms with commercial allotments, 2 cents a bushel.

The rates for all of these crops except wheat are slightly lower than the 1941 rates. Because of the reduction in wheat allotments for 1942, the conservation payment rate for wheat has been increased from 8 cents a bushel this year to 10.5 cents a bushel for 1942.

These special crop payments are one of two types which may be earned under the 1942 agricultural conservation program. Rates for determining soil-building payments the other type provided in the program, were announced earlier.

A new feature of the 1942 program requires that a minimum amount of soil-building work be carried out on a farm before the farmer is eligible to receive full payment for complying with acreage allotments for tobacco, wheat, cotton, corn and potatoes. The minimum of soil-building work required is an amount sufficient to earn the full soil-building allowance for the farm or an amount equal to the special crop payment, whichever is smaller.

Breed Sows Early To Get High Pig Market

Hog growers are reminded by J. S. Robinson, swine specialist with the U-T Agricultural Extension Service, that it is now time to breed sows and gilts for early spring litters.

Having spring pigs farrowed early enables feeders to get them on the high fall market in late August and early September, Robinson says. Then too, emergency food needs make it highly desirable to get pork into consumptive channels as early in 1942 as possible. The floor under hog prices will be maintained by the Government through 1942.

Hog growers are cautioned against being misled by the temporary demand for heavy weight animals. In face of the need for more pork for this country and the British, the U. S. Department of Agriculture announced it would support the market for heavier-weight hogs. Department officials point out that this situation is only temporary. They say there is nothing to justify a change back to the extra-big type hogs of a few years ago.

In the first place, experiments reveal that the medium-type hog gains just as efficiently, if not more efficiently—and matures a couple of weeks sooner than larger hogs. In the second place, hogs that finish at lighter weights produce the type of cuts domestic consumers prefer. And these medium-type hogs can carry economically the additional weights needed for the present emergency. So stick to medium-type hogs that finish at 225 to 250 pounds and have one-and-one half to one-and-three quarters inches of back fat, or enough fat to make a firm, marketable carcass, Robinson says.

NOT SOLVED

The fact that farm income for 1941 will reach the highest total in many years, is being widely publicized.

However, that doesn't mean that all is well with agriculture. The farmer's cost of labor, materials and taxes is also reaching record levels.

The upshot is that the farm problem is not solved. Farm organizations, such as the agricultural marketing cooperatives, still have a big job to do. The farmer remains in an unfavorable position in comparison with industry and labor.
