Education Worldwide

Fourth in A Series of Articles in Observance of American Education Week

By State, Lee Clement; Senior, South Fulton High School

The United States is one of the greatest, not the greatest, nation in the world! At that, that is what we boast. Yet our percentage of illiteracy is higher than that of any other leading nation.

What then is the explanation as to what has caused the present day crisis? The best and the simplest of answers is sleeping. A vast percentage of those who have the world in their hands now, have rusty, unused brains.

While they sleep, a wide-awake generation of young boys and girls are growing up and waiting for them for the answers to their questions. Many of these questions will go unanswered because they do not have the time or patience to answer them.

One of the questions asked most is, "why do we study about the past?" They are usually told, "It's just a part of your education." What the younger people would like to know is whether they really know the answer? Do they not realize that in the pages of our history are the records of what many nations have done?

But the United States, in this age of guided missiles and world-girding planes carrying atomic bombs, already has determined to build military bases in Northern Canada as soon as that country will agree. The U. S. military frontier now lies in the south seas, in North China, in Alaska and the Arctic, in the North Atlantic and along the Elbe. If Antarctica proves to be a necessary segment, then it will be made to fit.

The United States prepared her troops for the most unbelievable short length of time. Why? It was because she was awake. She had to do something because she had realized the sudden idea that the continuation of her same path was not preventing progress from stepping on her toes as well as Japan's, she was awakened by Germany's sudden blow, and by Japan's sudden attack. We proved that we had thousands of people capable of clear thinking under adverse circumstances.

In the light of this, why should we fall asleep and wait until some other nation has enough power, even though it is a despised people, back of it to again awaken us to fight another war? Is it not plausible to believe that a nation which can so capably carry on a war can also operate without so much violence during peace time? Does it have to be a "have-to" case for us to cooperate?

The key to lasting peace is ours in an unobtainable cooperative world. Can we not make ourselves and those of other countries so that all will understand and know that it is our duty to ourselves and to the generations to come to work out a plan for peace and hand it down to them?

Our place to find this key for we know because of the past world wide war better than anyone else ever will, for we experienced it. Can we not study these causes and work out a plan to prevent such things ever happening again? That is the key we must find, the basic cause of all wars are somewhat alike.

An Important Mission

By J. M. Roberts, Jr. (Subbing for MacKenzie) AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Dispatch of a 4,000-man naval expedition with 300 scientists to Antarctica makes it obvious that the United States is at last taking seriously the possibilities of that vast area which explorers have hardly touched.

Although it is described officially as a training project, there is a great deal more involved. When the navy sent a task force into the Arctic it was a navy proposition, assigned to naval problems. The Byrd expedition, considering that its manpower is spread over 12 ships, evidently is more of an operational project, with the navy assigned to plant a scientific colony and feed it with information.

Antarctica, which has had a few narrow lines drawn across its vast face by previous expeditions, is to be criss-crossed by carrier planes equipped with all sorts of scientific detectors. Not only the contours are to be mapped, but more particularly what lies under them.

Admiral Byrd has denied that this is a search for uranium, but of course won't pass up any if he comes across it.

There is no indication that Antarctica is considered important militarily, although the fact that the British sent an important and secret expedition there during the war hints of things not immediately evident to the layman. The fact that Russia also is sending an expedition probably means only that she is demonstrating that if others show too much interest in the Arctic, she can do a little reaching, too. There may be, too, information in the Antarctic which would help her in her remarkable development of the northernmost reaches of her own country into a habitable, economically valuable area.

But the United States, in this age of guided missiles and world-girding planes carrying atomic bombs, already has determined to build military bases in Northern Canada as soon as that country will agree. The U. S. military frontier now lies in the south seas, in North China, in Alaska and the Arctic, in the North Atlantic and along the Elbe. If Antarctica proves to be a necessary segment, then it will be made to fit.

The Byrd expedition, also serves to remind of another interesting result of learning how to control atomic fission.

From now on it will be unsafe to permit any spot in the world to remain unexplored. And exploration now means not a mere trek which maps salient features and turns up the living habits of both flora and fauna. Exploration now means that no source of uranium or thorium can remain undiscovered, because of the danger to the world of such hidden deposits.

Babb Sure Of Federal Funds For State Employment Service

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 14—(AP)—Belief that federal funds will be available to carry on Kentucky's employment service was expressed by unemployment compensation Commissioner Director H. A. Babb today after winning the first round of a court fight.

Circuit Judge W. B. Ardrey ruled that a 1946 legislative act, making the service independent of Babb's commission upon its return by the federal government was unconstitutional.

The service, taken over by the federal government as a wartime measure, is to be returned to state control by tomorrow. Word came from Washington today that due to Kentucky's failure to submit a plan no federal funds would be granted to operate the employment agency.

Babb said he was conferring here today with J. K. Johnson of Cleveland, federal regional director of employment, and Charles Nowacek, representing the social security administration, and added: "We are ready to meet the emergency. We are going to come to a definite decision."

He said he expected to announce it during the afternoon. The resignation late yesterday of W. H. Fraysure, who headed the employment service when it was a state agency and continued in that capacity when it was federalized for war, will not complicate the situation, Babb said. Fraysure had offered to aid in turning over the agency to the state.

The 1946 legislative act provided that the service become a unit of the state industrial relations department, instead of being part of the unemployment compensation commission, and that all federal employees of the service be taken into state service.

Judge Ardrey declared the general assembly "not only attempted to create a new agency, but it went further and attempted to staff this newly created agency complete, down to the office of janitor, with federal employees."

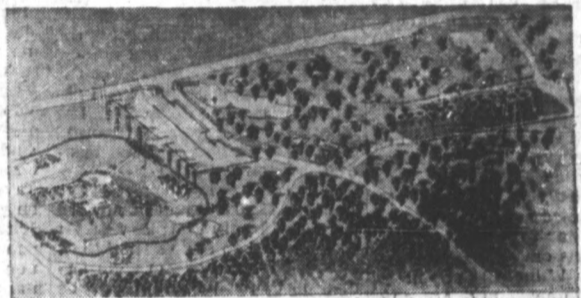

He added that the act attempted to make it impossible for the commonwealth to "demote, discharge or withhold compensation of any of its own employees."

JOY FOR A GREEK FAMILY

YOUNG MISS GREECE—and her sister, too—eagerly watch grandmother Kakavia of Corinth open a Greek War Relief Association 35-lb. food parcel. Any American, like the generous person who helped $1275 to the Association in New York City and that night his order is telegraphed overseas. In a few days a hungry Greek family is eating nutritious, staple foods. In addition to the parcel service, G.W.R.A. launches this winter a $12,000,000 fund-raising campaign to build 40 health centers; to house and feed 2,750,000 war orphans; and to supply a warm, noonday meal to almost 2 million hungry school children.

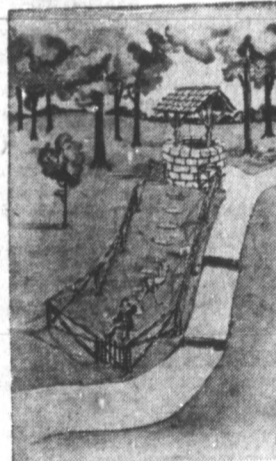

Santa Claus, Ind., Prepares For Annual Christmas Mail Rush

Santa Claus, Ind.—With Christmas less than two months away, this famous little hamlet is getting ready for what promises to be the biggest influx of mail and tourists in its unique history.

Long popular as the home of the cherished "Santa Claus" postmark, the local postoffice is already shifting into second gear for its annual deluge of mail. Last year, the biggest yet on record, well over 1,000,000 letters, postal cards and gift packages were ushered through this postoffice which is no larger than an average size corner drugstore.

And this year promises to break all existing records. But, to hear Oscar Phillips, genial Santa Claus postmaster, tell it, you'd think it a jolly pastime. Of course, Oscar isn't by himself when the Christmas rush rolls around. Last year, he hired more than a dozen extra workers, a number that has grown annually since the first big Yuletide mailing in 1927. Too, the Santa Claus American Legion Post 242, commanded by Jim Yellig—the "Santa Claus of Santa Claus Land"—takes over the pleasant task of answering children's letters to Santa Claus from almost every state in the Union.

Santa Claus works hard at its postoffice. In fact, the government has contributed greatly to its fame. By a courtesy custom of the Postal Department, all letters, unstamped or otherwise, addressed to Santa Claus, are sent to the local office instead of the Dead Letter Office. Thus it has become Uncle Sam's official Santa Claus headquarters.

Santa Claus this year has a spanking new attraction—a Santa Claus Land children's park and joy center that's open every day of the year. It's a landscaped 40-acre wooded area on which Louis J. Koch, an Evansville, Indiana, manufacturer, has

Ormsby Village To Stay Separate School District

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 14—(AP)—A 1946 legislative act making Ormsby Village, the Louisville and Jefferson County Children's Home, an independent school district was upheld by Circuit Judge W. B. Ardrey here today.

His ruling was given in a test suit filed by H. V. Bastin, supt. of the home, against state supt. of public instruction John Fred Williams. Bastin's petition stated Williams had declined to recognize the home as an independent school district and had refused to furnish it free text books and other necessary class room material.

BROADWAY

New York—(AP)—Some of the folk who go to first nights on Broadway out of sheer love for the theater received an object lesson in how not to act at an opening when the latest Noel Coward play "Present Laughter," opened at the Plymouth.

A Noel Coward first night always brings out the dressiest Broadway and Park Avenue residents, plus many persons who are the mannerisms of the social set. The result was a sea of black ties and ermine with a few top hats and tails in evidence, even a few of the normally unimpressed critics and columnists affecting the vichyssoise-and-caviar, or soup-and-fish.

At every opening, there are always a few extroverts, including one critic, who insist on arriving late. When seated, the ladies usually have feathers or orchids on their heads that block the view of those behind.

This very thing happened to a critic the opening night of the Coward show. The lady swept regally by her seat and called back over her shoulder that she was sure the orchid wouldn't bother anyone. The young lady escorted by the mink-bedecked exquisite on the shoulder and announced that the flower, reaching up a good eight inches above her head, indeed was distracting her.

"I'm sorry," said the fashionable belle, "but I simply can't remove it," turning back abruptly as if so dismiss any further mention.

"But you'll have to," insisted the girl, who needed a periscope to see the stage.

"I won't," the lady said. "Well," said the now exasperated and all-but-segregated young lady, at whom was drawn the attention of her neighbors for twenty feet in each direction, all of whom were rooting for her by now, "if you don't remove that orchid I'll rip it off."

The flower-bedecked fashion plate thereupon embarrassedly left her seat, quickly ran up the aisle and returned in five minutes with the flower attached to her purse. The young lady and her neighbors turned happily

7 POINTS to remember in making Coffee

- Use enough coffee. A heaping tablespoon to each standard measuring cup of freshly drawn water is the proper proportion. After-dinner coffee or iced coffee should be double strength.
- Make fresh coffee every time. Never re-heat coffee, and be sure to keep it hot until served... which should be as soon as possible after preparation.
- Always scald the pot. Each time before using the coffee pot it should be rinsed with boiling water.
- Keep coffee-making equipment clean. Wash your coffee maker often with fresh, clean water... never in your dishwasher. If you use a brush to scour the pot, use that brush for the coffee pot exclusively.
- Use the correct grid for the method you use in making your coffee.
- Don't buy too much coffee at a time, so as to have it always fresh. And, remember... coffee, like perfume, tends to evaporate if left exposed.
- Use the brand that best suits your taste... GRAND PRIZE, TAST-GOOD... EARLY BREAKFAST. In these three brands you will find coffee as hot, best... each different in aroma and flavor. Valuable coupons in each package of GRAND PRIZE and TAST-GOOD

Is of Vital Importance

In 1946

Our schools and colleges are called upon to assume many new tasks in serving the peacetime needs of our country. The development of the understanding necessary to maintain friendly relations among the nations and of the leadership essential to give effect to the purposes of the United Nations are major duties. Life accepts the invitation to visit schools this week and find out how we can help to prepare children for living in the atomic age.

HOLLYWOOD

By GENE HANDSAKER

Hollywood—(AP)—It seems only yesterday that "flappers" and "vamps" rolled their stockings, danced the Charleston, and used expressions like "absolutely" and "banana oil!" But it was 1928, when fellows wore bear-skin coats and crooners sang "voo-dee-o-do" through megaphones—an era now appealingly recaptured in the color movie, "Marge."

As in "Centennial Summer," 20th Century-Fox again asks you to look upon exquisite Jeanne Crain as a Flain Jane. Her only boy friend is a sniveling, clumsy-witted high school campus poet (Alan Young).

Jeanne wears cotton stockings and blue middies, and her bloomers have a way of falling down at the most awkward times—at school, on the skating rink and dance floor. On the debate team she argues, with gestures, the affirmative of the day's hottest international issue—should we take the marines out of Nicaragua? Her tragedy is that she hasn't a date for the senior prom; and it is presented so poignantly that you really care.

So-called "At the Movies" "At Sundown," "Avalon," "Ain't She Sweet?"—enhance the nostalgic mood. A capable cast includes Glenn Langan as a professor of French, and Lynn Bari as the librarian. It is Miss Crain's best acting job to date, and Radio Comedian Young's movie debut plainly indicates more screen work for him.

High school campus sequences were filmed at the University of Nevada, at Reno, in 35-degree temperatures last February that made the Southern California troupe shiver. University students were used as extras. Rudy Vallee made a special recording of "My Time Is Your Time" for a phonograph record used in the picture.

Thirty-year-old Keenan Wynn plays gray-haired Frank Morgan's father in M-G-M's "The Cockeyed Miracle." Both are spirals. Wynn, a New England seafarer, preceded his son in death by 50 years. Both can walk through walls, and Wynn, by straining, calls down rainstorms.

Their problem is to straighten out the tangled lives of the relatives they left on earth, who can't see or hear them although the audience can. Grandson Marshall Thompson wants to be a shipbuilder. Richard Quine is a young geology professor too absentminded to propose to Audrey Totter. This moderately funny comedy is Quine's first picture after two years in the Coast Guard.

May Be Selected U. N. World Seal

Flushing Meadows, N. Y.—The United Nations may soon have an official emblem and seal. Although U. N. has been using the now familiar design—a map of the world as seen from the North Pole, surrounded by crossed olive branches—since the San Francisco Conference in 1945, the emblem has not been approved officially by the General Assembly. It was originally designed by the United States Government for the identification button used at San Francisco.

The Assembly, now in factoring the problem of an official emblem and seal. It is, of course, free to select any design.

In addition, Secretary-General Trygve Lie has proposed that the Assembly pass a resolution to protect the name "United Nations" and the emblem from unauthorized use.

BERLIN FIRM 'POURS' NEW SHOES
Berlin—(AP)—Shortage of leather for shoes has forced Germans to look for substitutes.

A Berlin firm now is "pouring" approximately ten thousand pairs of shoes monthly, using a substitute substance called igolite, which is made of coal, lime and chemicals. It is waterproof and pliable.

The entire shoe, including the laces, is made of the product.

LOVE IS A WONDERFUL THING, SOMETIMES
Olney, Ill.—(AP)—John E. Boatman and Laura M. James gave their ages as 76 as they applied for a marriage license. Deputy Clerk Myra Piper said Boatman was asked if "it isn't a little late," to which the bride-elect readily admitted her intended was "old enough to know better."

Restless Beer-Loving Ghost Loses His Haunted Ale House

Kumba, Cameroon, East Africa—(AP)—The ghost with a taste for beer, which had been disturbing travelers for nearly thirty years, has been left homeless by the demolition of an old rest house here. Tradition had it that it was the restless spirit of a former German district officer, notorious for the iron hand with which he ruled the people of the Cameroons.

Known before World War I as the Johann Albrechtshöhe station, the haunted house served as the Prussian-like officer's quarters, district office and military barracks. It was built 1,200 feet above sea level, on the lip of a drowned volcano crater, with a wide lake 300 feet below.

In more recent years, the building was turned into a rest-house for visiting government officials.

But so many visitors were badly frightened by the creaks and groans of the ancient timbers that the place received a bad name. It was said that the only way to get a good night's sleep was to place a bottle of beer under a glass on a tray shortly before midnight. This seemed to satisfy the thirsty ghost, for he left the occupiers in peace in the morning, according to the story, the bottle was found empty, the glass encrusted with dried froth.

Editor-Artist Breaks Record
Self-Taught Louisiana Man Has Nine Personal Exhibits, At Same Time

AP New Orleans—(AP)—Some artists live a lifetime to have one man show, and few have had four exhibitions at one time. But Ralph Brewer, Alexandria newspaperman-artists, has done all that in one year. His exhibitions were held at the Louisiana Art Commission, Baton Rouge; State Fair Exhibits building, Shreveport, and the Bunkie, La., Community Civic Club.

A knife and brush floral and landscape painter in his spare time, he set a goal of starting or finishing one picture a day. Native of Bryan county, Ga., he worked on the Charleston, S. C. News and Courier, Macon, Ga., Telegraph, Athens, Ga., Banner, Augusta, Ga., Chronicle, Birmingham, Ala., News and New Orleans States before coming to the Alexandria Town Talk as managing editor.

Taking up art as a hobby, he was persuaded by a fellow newspaperman, Melvin O. Frost, of the New Orleans Times-Picayune, to let him tell the world about his work. A committee of three New Orleans art critics saw his pictures and invited him to hold a one-man show at the Delgado.

"Since then things have been happening and I am bowled over," said the 45-year-old father of three sons, the eldest in the Navy.

LAW PROTECTING SNAKES GETS WINKED AT
Gallatinburg, Tenn.—(AP)—Poisonous snakes in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park are protected by law, but you aren't likely to be prosecuted should you kill one.

That, says Park Naturalist Arthur P. Stupka, is the attitude the government takes toward a statue protecting all wild life native to the park. Timber rattlers and copperheads roam the area.

Strikers Burn Studio Vehicle

Latest Outbreak Of Violence In Hollywood Strike Is Investigated

By The Associated Press
As law enforcement officials in Hollywood investigated recent bombings in connection with a two-month old strike at studios stemming from AFL jurisdictional dispute, there was a new outbreak of violence today.

A driverless bus, stolen from number of the vehicles to studios, was set afire and rolled through a service station and into busy Beverly Boulevard before it crashed into three parked cars. Studios have used similar buses to carry non-strikers through picket lines. No one was injured. Later police said a bundle of burning newspapers had been tossed on the porch of the studio worker.

The threat of a strike against New York City's unified transit system appeared ended today as day workers of the CIO Transport Workers Union approved the union's executive board's decision to withhold strike action.

Union spokesmen indicated night shift workers, in a vote today, would take similar action. The strike threat diminished after the 33,000 employees of Municipal Subways, elevated and surface lines were assured payment of $6,000,000 in retroactive wage raises.

There were no indications of immediate settlement of two continuing disputes, the 25-day strike by 1,400 AFL pilots against the Trans World Airline, and the 100-day walkout by CIO United Auto Workers against the All-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. plant at West Allis, Wis.

Three Kentucky Colonels Appointed By Gov. Willis

Breckenridge Is Suggested Site Of U. N. Headquarters

Henderson, Ky., Nov. 14—(AP)—Nearby Camp Breckenridge, a military reservation of 2,000 acres now on a standby basis, was proposed by civic leaders here today as a permanent home for the United Nations.

The proposal was suggested by R. T. Wittinghill of Morganfield, retired teacher and civic leader, who was named head of a committee to offer the proposal to UN authorities. R. H. Verell, president of a Morganfield civic club, said Wittinghill would contract other similar groups in Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois to solicit their support for the suggestion.

Camp Breckenridge was built at the start of the war, was used as a training ground for the army and later was used as a camp for war prisoners. Its barracks, other buildings and facilities are idle now and less than 100 persons, civilian and military, are employed at the post.

Bourbon Farmer Is Found Dead In His Tobacco Barn

Paris, Ky., Nov. 14—(AP)—Joseph Henry Williams, 51, farmer of the Little Rock section of Bourbon county, was found shot to death today in his tobacco barn. Sheriff J. M. Leer said the wound was self-inflicted.

The sheriff said Williams had been in ill health and despondent in recent weeks. A pistol was found near the body and one bullet had been fired into the head, the sheriff said. No inquest will be held, he added.

Survivors include the widow, a son and three daughters. Funeral services will be held here at 10 a. m. Saturday.

From The Press Box

High school football rivalry is as American as apple pie and is largely responsible for each school's "big" game of games from one year to the next.

Sometimes, this rivalry gets out of hand, and degenerates into name-calling by otherwise staid, solid citizens, and other manifestations of poor sportsmanship when the home team comes out on the wrong end of the score.

Judge Prefers Old Document

E. C. O'Rear Believes All Defects of Constitution Still Can Be Remedied

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 14—(AP)—Arguing against the proposed new constitution for Kentucky, former Appellate Circuit Judge E. C. O'Rear now practicing law in Frankfort declared:

"I have heard no criticism of Kentucky's present constitution which can not adequately be cared for through the means of amendment."

In addressing the weekly meeting of the Forum Club here last night, Judge O'Rear traced the historical background of the constitutional privileges enjoyed by Americans today, and asked:

"What would be the response of millions of people of the world today presently denied Democratic rights, if they had the opportunity to live under the law of our present constitution?"

In response to a question as to whether the $5,000 a year constitutional maximum paid the judges on the state's highest court was adequate, Judge O'Rear declared there are compensations other than monetary for service on that bench, and added:

"It is noteworthy that there are always applicants of competence to fill all these positions in spite of the salary so often complained of."

Army Is Seeking 25,000 Officers, General States

In the greatest peacetime expansion of its officer corps in history, the U. S. Army is now seeking candidates for 25,000 regular army commissions in the grades of second and first lieutenant, captain, and major.

Major General Edward F. Witsell, the adjutant general, announced today.

The expansion is designed to bring the army's regular officer strength to 50,000 as authorized by Congress in August.

Former officers of the army who have served since December 7, 1937, whether or not they previously applied during the office-procurement program conducted earlier this year, are eligible for appointments. Rank will be based either on length of actual commissioned service since December 7, 1941 or on "constructive service", whichever is the greater, the latter representing the number of years, months and days by which the age of the applicant exceeds 25 years.

GI Still Wants To Play Football

New York—(AP)—The GI still retains his desire to play winning football and most of them are doing just that, says Lou Little, Columbia's veteran coach of 17 seasons with the Light Blue.

"Any boy who was a good football player when he went into service will be a good player again," says Little. "However, the GI can't stay away from the game more than one year. Two or three seasons away from any sport, and you've lost something."

"It is good to see that the GI still retains the winning spirit. Even those servicemen who are 24 and 25 are playing good football. They never lose the desire for athletics. It's a last war."

Sees Evidence Of True Faith

Dr. Harold Stonier Tells Louisville Civic Club Of American Faith In Future

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 14—(AP)—Dr. Harold Stonier, executive manager of the American Bankers Association, said here today that the people of the United States have "a basic faith in the future," despite the many problems of labor, production and prices facing the country.

Speaking before a Louisville civic club, Dr. Stonier named "the labor question" as one of the year's unsolved problems. "There are some who feel," he said, "that labor must get its share now and assure itself of its permanent stake in the future by way of strong totalitarian organization and high rates of wages enforced by strikes."

"Others feel that 1947 must bring about a solution to the strike problem, either by labor-management consent or by government action."

The speaker said "some labor organizations are getting too strong for their own good and exercising their strength too vigorously and too promiscu-

For their own good.

Dr. Stonier's address was delivered at the association opened a three-day meeting of its agricultural commission here. Delegates representing approximately 11,000 country banks in the United States were in attendance.

Man Poisoned, Burned Before Terrified Boy English Woman Admits Putting Poison Into Meal

CHARRED BODY FOUND

Brecon, Wales, Nov. 14—(AP)—A gruesome account of a man's death from rat poison and the burning of his body before the eyes of a terrified boy was read today as Elizabeth O'Brien, 39-year-old housekeeper, went on trial for murder.

"I didn't mean to kill him, but just make him ill enough to keep him off myself and Johnny," Mrs. O'Brien was quoted as saying to police who questioned her about the slaying of her employer, William Lucas, 49, last April.

Prosecutor Herbert Glyn-Jones

said Lucas, described in his opening statement as "justful and quarrelsome," had threatened Mrs. O'Brien and Johnny, her son, but the woman feared going to the police lest Lucas tell them she had been "on the streets."

Mrs. O'Brien, who pleaded innocent, sat tense and pale as the prosecutor read a statement which he said she had given to the police after Lucas' charred body was found at his secluded Welsh farm home.

"I put some rat poison in his dinner. I asked him how he liked his dinner and he said it was very tasty."

Two days later, she said, Lucas died.

"I dragged him into the scullery. I built wood all round his head and poured coal oil over the body. I opened the windows and set a light to the body."

"While he was aight Johnny came down and saw the burning. He screamed out and said 'mummy, mummy, mummy. Don't burn me, mummy.'"

Witnesses testified at a preliminary hearing that Johnny enraged Lucas by cutting his cane into bits.

Washington, Nov. 14—(AP)—Hans Thomsen, German Charge D'Affaires in the capital before the war, arrived by army plane today to testify in a grand jury investigation of perjury charges arising from the 1944 trial of 30 Americans charged with sedition.

The former diplomat, a military prisoner, will be returned to Germany after his grand jury appearance.

Columbians, Inc., Threaten Atlanta Newspaper Editor

Atlanta, Nov. 14—(AP)—Editor Ralph McGill of the Atlanta Constitution said in his daily column today that two youths about 19 years old, members of Columbians, Inc., came to his office and threatened to "fix" him unless he ceased criticizing the new anti-negro organization.

"The two shabby, illiterate young toughs tried very hard to glare and look hard," McGill wrote. "They appeared to be tough enough to take part in a night assault on an unsuspecting citizen and they threatened me, with orders that no more criticism of their order be made."

"They were illiterate and un-informed enough to be taken in by smart operators who prey on suckers. x x x when they threatened me too much I ordered them out."

Since 1900 there have been about 23,000,000 fires in the United States.
