Utopian Growers Shell Hybrid Corn

Calloway county Utopian club boys who grew hybrid corn last year, and produced 40 bushels per acre on ground which produced 32 bushels of other varieties under similar conditions, Monday shelled their produce and had 60 bushels of corn produced on one and a half acres.

Corn of this type, Hybrid No. 69, was planted in Calloway county last year on 10 different farms and records kept showed the hybrid variety exceeded yields of any other variety by 20 per cent.

Like most hybrids, the corn will not produce true after the first planting, members of the Utopian club said.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Preaching by the pastor morning and evening. Subjects, a. m. "YE ARE FALLEN FROM GRACE," p. m. "THE FIRST AND GREAT QUIZ."

Sunday School with Bible teachers and officers every Sunday at 9:30. Classes for all ages meeting in separate class rooms with distractions locked out. Dr. Hugh M. McElrath, superintendent.

Training Union meets every Sunday evening at 6:15, with programs with deep conviction in them, true to Bible, because they are the Bible. Each Union renders an individual program in its own room separated from all others. There is a Union for each age, there is therefore a Union for you. R. W. Churchill, director.

Mid-week meeting every Wednesday at 7 o'clock. These meetings are for everybody regardless of whether or not they are Christians, church members. The members of the church with their families, friends, and neighbors are cordially invited to be present every Wednesday evening to enjoy the subjects and good fellowship.

The next CHURCH WEEK—FOR EVERYBODY will begin March 6th, continuing through March 13. A group of splendid men will be the speakers at this meeting. A later announcement will be made in due time giving the full program and the names of all speakers.

The church and pastor earnestly invite the people of Murray and communities to worship here whenever possible. A hearty welcome awaits every one.

Experiments show that baby chicks grown with the old hens, on uneven ground, lay only half as many eggs when mature as do baby chicks grown on clean ground.

E. J. Anderson, 76, Dies On Saturday

E. J. Anderson, 76, local farmer, died late Saturday night at his home on the Benton Highway four miles north of Murray after a several weeks' illness of complicatory diseases.

Anderson was buried at 2:30 Monday afternoon at Cole's Camp Ground. He was a member of the Woodmen of the World and was a follower of Methodism.

Survivals are his widow, Mrs. E. J. Anderson; a daughter, Mrs. Herbert Boggs of this county; two sons, Alvin, of Nashville and Marvin, of Cleveland; and one brother, L. C. Anderson of Calloway county.

Miss Whitnell Has Farm Bureau Post

Miss Frances Whitnell, stenographer and accountant in the Sheriff's office and formerly a clerk in the office of the county court, Saturday was elected secretary of the Calloway County Farm Bureau, succeeding Miss Margaret Purdon, who resigned the position more than two weeks ago.

Miss Whitnell will take over her new duties immediately.

Resolutions

To the President and members of the First Quarterly, Murray Station, Paris District, Memphis Conference, February 17, 1928.

Dear Brethren:

Our friend and collaborator, the late Judge E. P. Phillips, was for many years an honored member of this quarterly conference, serving the Church as superintendent and teacher in the Church-school as well as being a steward. In all of these relationships he was faithful and efficient.

No office of our church is of more importance than that of the steward, and it was as a steward that he gave us good service.

As a steward it was his custom to make his yearly contribution to the support of the church early in the year, thus making it possible for the pastor to be provided for when so many wait till the close of the year to make their payments.

At each communion service he left a substantial offering on the altar, to care for the worthy poor.

Generous with his own church, he has made contributions to most every congregation in Calloway County.

His life was one of integrity to the church and to the home.

In spite of the burdens of responsibility that he bore up to the time of his death, being at that time the County Judge of Calloway County and having other heavy financial responsibilities in caring for the interest of others, he found time to honor his Lord and his church by being present at the worship services at the house of God.

Not only was he present but his close attention to the preached word was an inspiration to any pastor.

It was his lot to be able to care for the official duties of his office up to the time of his death, so it was true of him that he ceased to labor as he ceased to live.

We shall cherish his memory and hope to meet him on the other side.

THEREFORE, Be It Resolved by this quarterly conference, that:

1. We extend our sympathy to the faithful companion and other loved ones of our departed brother.

2. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes and copies be furnished the press of Calloway County.

Signed:

J. Mack Jenkins, Pastor,
J. D. Sexton, Chairman of the Official Board,
Luther Robertson, Sec'y of the Official Board,
T. H. Stokes, Sec'y of the quarterly conference.

Crippled Children's Week Opens Easter in Kentucky

Two of 3,384 crippled children for whom a statewide campaign for $50,000 will be launched Easter Sunday by the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children. The campaign will be for a week following Easter. The child on the left is little William Jeffrey, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Jeffrey of Murray, who was stricken with infantile paralysis last summer.

COUNTY AGENT NOTES

Ton Litter Contest

County Agent Jno. T. Cochran has just received rules for the ton litter contest for 1928. Calloway county has produced three ton litters in the past two years and it is hoped that more farmers will be interested in the project in 1928. Below is a list of the rules and one's desiring further information should contact the agent.

1. Anyone owning a litter and agreeing to comply with the regulations herein mentioned may enter the contest.

2. Only litters fattened between February 1 and May 15, 1928, will be eligible for this contest.

3. A contestant may enter one or more litters.

4. Litters are to be fed 165 days from date of birth, but a litter may be sold any time and still remain in the competition. The weight at time of sale shall be considered as final, with the exceptions as provided in Rule No. 10.

5. Purebred, crossbred, grade or scrub litters may enter.

6. Each contestant shall keep a memorandum of the cost of producing the litter. It shall include the feed, the value of same, of the sow from breeding to farrowing; farrowing to weaning pigs, and of the pigs for the entire feeding period of 165 days; pasture charges for the sow and litter for the same periods; and labor.

7. All litters shall be entered with the County Agent or other representative of the Animal Husbandry Department.

8. Litters should be entered in the contest within 7 days after birth, within which time they will be inspected by a committee. Weights of litters are entered within this time the committee in charge must be satisfied as to the exact age of the pigs.

9. Litters will be weighed at 8 weeks of age; also at the finish, in the presence of the committee.

10. Final weights should be taken on 165th day, but may be taken 3 days before or three days after and weights adjusted accordingly. This weight shall be taken in the presence of a committee.

11. All awards will be made on the basis of weight only.

12. The cost records of litters must be in the Animal Husbandry office by November 15th, otherwise the litters will not be eligible for state competition.

$50,000 Goal Set For Crippled Fund

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 11.—A goal of $50,000 has been set for a statewide campaign to be launched Easter Sunday to provide additional money for hospital care, braces, crutches, and treatment for some of the 3,384 crippled children who are on the waiting list of the Kentucky Crippled Children Commission.

Lieutenant Governor Keen Johnson, in accepting chairmanship of a state-wide campaign, declared today that he strongly urges all citizens of Kentucky to contribute, and by thus supporting the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children in this campaign to assist in reaching more of the children who have been examined and for whom treatment has been recommended by physicians and surgeons.

Bart Peak, of Lexington, former district governor of Rotary, will be vice chairman of the campaign for funds.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Help A Child to Walk

There are 3,384 crippled children on the waiting list of the Kentucky Crippled Children Commission to whom treatment has not yet been given due to lack of funds. Although the state legislature has appropriated $85,000 a year for the next two years, the increasing needs partly caused by the infantile paralysis epidemic of last year are such that this amount will not make it possible to carry on the program needed.

The Kentucky Society for Crippled Children, a voluntary organization open to all who contribute to the crippled children's work, has launched a campaign for $50,000. The aim of this Society, the Rotary Clubs, American Legion, Parent-Teacher Association, Women's Clubs, Kiwanis Clubs, and many other organizations in sponsoring such a campaign is to make this effort as far-reaching as possible.

As long as there is a child in Kentucky who with treatment, surgery, hospitalization, braces, crutches or other assistance can be given a chance to walk, every effort should be exerted to extend a hand of assistance. The sentiment of the people has been demonstrated in local clinics. Doctors have given generously of their time, but funds are required for hospitalization, equipment and transportation.

Those who will join in this campaign will be helping children to walk.

Letter to Editor

Mr. Editor:

In a recent issue of your paper I noticed the passing of my good friend, Bobby Meador. As he was familiarly called by his many friends, I refer to him as my good friend. We were brought up together, we played together, we went to school together. I went to school with him and he went to school to me. He knew all that I knew and then some for he was ever moving up and on and out from one stage of greatness to another. His life was linked to mine. It is one of the majestic elements of life that one can live out beyond himself. We do this in the spirit and service that we manifest for others, and herein was the real greatness of Bobby Meador. He was great, not so much in intellect, not that he inhabited a sphere of thought into which others entered with great difficulty, he was small in his estimate of his powers, but he loved and he knew how to love.

He knew how to have friends, he drew people to him in the bands of love and fellowship. As I look at him from this distance, my whole life gathers around and about the community in which we were brought up together.

How dear to my heart are the scenes of my childhood.

In fond recollection present them to view.

The orchard, the meadow, the deep-tangled wildwood.

And every loved spot which my infancy knew.

The scenes of my childhood and the scenes of his childhood, the old mill and the bridge over which the cataraacts fell, the cottage and the dairy house and every loved spot which my infancy knew. I saw it all the last time I visited my friend; we talked it all over, we lived it all over again. Tears rolled down from his face as we bade each other goodbye. And many times—many times I feel now the presence of God and some day it will be "Good Morning" to Bobby Meador and "Good Morning" to all of you.

CARL B. KINGINS, Tax Collector

Murray Square

By JULIAN III

I never knew a man like George Bingham. Two weeks before his death when he was so sick he scarcely knew the days were passing the only way he knew how to be cheerful. To be understanding was the only thing he ever learned—and that was everything.

His 13-year old daughter Virginia—who sometimes wrote his column for him as the "Little One"—had bought him a valentine and meant to give it to him on Monday. When he was buried Monday, she put the valentine in his hand and let it go with him.

People all over America knew and regretted the passing of the man who had made their lives more livable. Hundreds sent telegrams and flowers. Edgar A. Guest sent a note of sorrow.

There must have been a need elsewhere for men who wrote beautifully, and George Bingham was the first to answer. I never knew Odd McIntyre, but like many others I felt I knew him in his works. America's great columnists are leaving one by one. There were Will Rogers, Arthur Brisbane, Don Marquis, George Bingham, and O. O. McIntyre. Upon whose shoulders will their mantles fall?

In the passing of greatness lies tragedy, pathos, inevitability, and something more than either. Tradition stays behind, and with it appreciation that sometimes swells to heroic levels. Thus were Arthur, Robin Hood, Nick Carter, Beowulf, and others born.

And so to the Rowletts who made manufactured tobacco a staple industry in Murray we pay a timely and fitting respect. Out of an era pulsing with the unrest of Civil War heat, Peter Rowlett brought a degree of stability to contemporary agriculture with his tobacco industry.

The people of Murray are sorry to see the exodus of the Rowlett family to Paducah, but are happy that in the period this county needed it most its service was best.

Murray High School, which began its season of all sports prospects for its best basketball team in years, seems docketed by misfortune. Phil Cutchin, captain and star player around whom the whole movement of his team sprang, his left ankle in the final moments of the Ballman game. The team immediately felt its loss, losing to Clinton the following week. With Cutchin again in the lineup, but still on a weak ankle, the Tigers did creditably against Pilot Oak, one of the strongest teams in the area. And then the county tournament came around, and Murray was doped to win. But on the eve of the opening game, Cutchin sprained his right ankle, and it was all over. New Concord, which Murray had previously beaten decisively, held the Tigers to 10 points and won 12-10.

It is not Coach Preston Holland's fault. He built his team around one of the best players the high school ever produced. No one could help it that Phil sprained his ankle. Maybe by request of the tournament time, the ankles will be well.

From one of the friendliest of all, Jane Martin, who colleged at Murray before she found opportunity in Chicago, came not long ago this beautiful expression of the cause of friendship: "But then, I bought a bit of love—friend—today. A new friend cost me but an understanding smile. I glanced and saw a smile of beauty in my way. And forgot the old pain for just a little while. . . . Well, yes, I bought a bit of love—friend—today. How well I'll paste it on the scar, I cannot say."

Her name was Alice Hattie. Each hour I looked forward to nights or even days when my parents would go to church, so that in that hazy, rambling tabernacle she and I could play, and I could see a breeze blow her yellow curls back from the clearest of blue eyes. Often we would wander into the court yard when the moon shone and the heavens dropped so close that the ghostly light of the Milky Way streamed over us like the train of a giant ship. Those were days when the darkness hid shadows that were more than mere residues of gloom, when monsters, huge and formless, stalked just beyond the circle of light within the trees. The nights were a world of wonders which we dared not explore, an atmosphere close and thick and heavy around us, incommensurable with daylight hours. We were three days old.

In the long halcyon days of Arkansas' summers, I sometimes followed my brother across the prairie to Black Fork and the Hurricane country. Cattle dotted the plain like red, and white flowers in a distant garden. But we would return to the river before nightfall. Even in the darkness the water gleamed silver and softly gurgling. It flowed on under the trees and on its surface was reflected the sky and leaning willows. Those were wonderful days. Near our house there was a meadow full of small flowers in bloom. The fragrance often blew over to us, a warm, pleasant, much stronger of evenings than by day. But the nights were the most unforgettable. Sometimes when I awoke the stars had wandered and the heavens were distorted—the black pool of night had shrunked all things—and I felt the earth as a forlorn globe hurtling endlessly through a spectral void. Out there was emptiness that was insupportable—the agony of all things that were not. I felt that by which life became the ghost of heaven. I had not yet reached the age of ten.

It is somewhere around 10 o'clock. The sound of cars is coming from the street. From the campy not far off comes the melody of a violin. How trivial, inconsistent, and insignificant thoughts are in comparison to reality! It is better to feel than to think. But the brooding curbs of uncertainty is dominant over impulse. Dreams would close my eyes and open my heart.

Dispelling The Fog

BY CHARLES MICHELSON
Director of Publicity, Democratic National Committee

Business generally, as distinguished from "Big Business," has its opportunity last week to present its views as to what government could do to improve economic conditions and to counteract the present recession. The big fellows in industry and finance had their shot at it, the important railroad people were scheduled, and it seemed only fitting that the average fellow in commerce should also be entitled to a hearing.

There was a natural difficulty in selecting a group out of the millions of dealers and manufacturers in 48 States, so the expedient was adopted of making up a list of those who had indicated sufficient interest in the situation to write to the President or to the Department of Commerce. There were thousands of such letters. Obviously, it was not practical to have all the letters come down to Washington. So there came up the problem of selection.

What the administration was looking for was a representative group. Had it been attempted to sound out in advance those chosen, the gathering would have been justly subject to the criticism that it was hand-picked, which would, of course, have destroyed its democratic complexion. So the names were selected more or less at random, except that the contents of the letters, where they indicated the character of the writer, was at least a partial guide. As most of these letters began with some such phrase as "I am a manufacturer of notions, employing thirty men," or "I am the owner of a store which supplies such and such a community," or "I am the president of a small corporation, dealing in," etc., there was a little information as to the status of the letter writers. No attention was paid to whether the body of the letter endorsed or assailed the government's policies. Obviously, among a thousand individuals picked in this fashion, there were bound to be a few cranks, a few violent radicals, and perhaps a greater number of hide-bound reactionaries. All sorts and conditions of people write to the President of the United States, whether because of grievance, real or fancied, or because of the great American instinct that makes a lot of men believe that they can see further through a "millionaire than anybody else," and declare themselves accordingly.

Net Result Good
However, the net result of the invitations to Washington was pretty good. The resolutions presented to the President were all sensible in presenting a point of view, and it is impossible that some of them contained at least the germ of an idea that will prove helpful. At all events, they are of a character that commands respect and merits consideration.

Unfortunately, the newspapers in their reports of the gathering emphasized the picturesque and the incongruous incidents, and so the country possibly got a very twisted idea of the deliberations of this business group. I cannot really complain because the members of the group are not in the picture. A newspaper reporter invariably writes with headlines in view, and there is more excitement in the suppression of a disturber than in the straight recording of ordinary proceedings. This circumstance may be regrettable, but it is quite understandable. We are familiar with the same sort of thing even in the deliberations of Congress. We all remember that the distributives of Huey Long, and before that the fulminations of Tom Heflin, got all sorts of prominence in the newspaper reports, even when the important legislation on which they were supposed to be speaking was barely referred to and in many cases got no mention at all.

CATCH COLD EASILY?

Greenville S. C. T. L. Key, 307 E. 4th St. Bridge Street, is a well-known condition, my appetite was poor, and I had one cold after another. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery not only cured my colds, but better in every way. Buy it at the nearest drug store or write to Dr. Pierce, Littleton, N. H., for a free trial bottle. See how catching colds are much stronger you feel after using this.

It all depends in estimating these things on the point of view as to the function of the newspaper. It is the paper's chief business to entertain its readers, or to instruct them. Judging from my own experience, I do not think that the circulation department of any important publication would have to think twice in answering that question.

At all events, the idea of the gathering was to get an expression from a vast group of our population (especially concerned with marketing and other elements of business) which had indicated that it had as much right to be heard as the great capitalists and corporation heads.

Finding the Solution

Naturally, pretty much every group looks at the problem of improving business from its own point of view, and that point of view, in the majority of cases, has a basis of probability in accomplishing the result. There is no doubt, for example, that universal high wages would, by refreshing and enhancing the public purchasing power, give a great stimulus to business. Do the other hand, the people who make and sell things put their problem first. They want the market established so as to be assured of high profits, as a precedent to high wages. The bankers want to feel certain that the enterprises they are called upon to finance will be successful before they let out any money. All these things are desirable, of course, but it is something new in our economic history for people to demand a governmental guarantee on their investments.

Successful men are rather proud of the chances they have taken to arrive. It is doubtful if any American fortune has had its foundation on such a principle. Robert Fulton took a chance on the first steamboat; the Vanderbilts took a chance on railroads; Henry Ford had no guarantee on mass-production of cheap cars when he developed Model T. Radios, telegraphs, telephones, air navigation, were all born out of the minds of men who had faith in their ideas and in themselves. The successors to these "rugged individualists" seem to have little of the quality on which were built the great American enterprises. Perhaps in these circumstances lies the answer to "what caused the business recession."

Sure-things are as scarce in business as at the race tracks.

Housing Follows Payrolls

A lot of misinformation has gone out regarding the request of the railroads for a modest increase in rates—an increase that seems absolutely necessary if this industry and the savings of investors are to be saved from ruin.

For example the statement has been made that "if freight rates are increased on building materials, the new government drive for low-cost housing is dead before it starts," because one-third of the cost of brick and tile consists of transportation charges.

According to Interstate Commerce Commission figures, the average wholesale value at destination of building tile and brick is $14.85 per ton, of which the freight rate averages $2.86 per ton—19.3 per cent, not 33.3 per cent. In a brick veneer house costing $10,000, there are approximately 70 tons of brick. If the proposed railroad freight increase is allowed, the increase in cost of brick in such a house would be about $28.

As a matter of fact, housing presents a remarkably good example of how little the requested 15 per cent freight rate increase would mean to the consumer. For most people, a house is the largest single expenditure made in a family's life time. If the rate rise goes into effect, it would increase the cost of the average $5,000 house in the United States about $43, according to the Association of American Railroads. That sum would neither start nor stop building a home.

At the ICC hearing on the freight rate increase, the vice-president of the Associated General Contractors of America—an organization which is certainly vitally involved with building, and has offices in 104 U. S. cities—testified in support of the railroads' request. Informed insignificant compared to the adverse effects on the country caused by near bankruptcy and paralysis of development in our greatest single industry.

Brooks Chapel

We have had a week of fine warm weather.

Very little tobacco was put out here last year. There may be a good crop put out this year as several plant beds are being burned.

Ed Chadwick and Toy Jones killed hogs last cold spell. They are prepared to obey the scripture, "If any hunger let him eat at home."

Mr. and Mrs. W. Daugherty and daughter, Mrs. T. Wyatt, and Mr. Wyatt and son, Mrs. Myrtle McClain, Talmadge Sims, Ed Chadwick, Toy Jones and others went to Benton First Monday.

T. A. Jones went to Gilbertsville on business last week.

Johnnie Ramsey and brother, Robert Burkeen, burned plant beds Thursday.

Mrs. Ollie Burkeen visited Mr. and Mrs. John Rudd of Independence last week.

Toy Jones and Ed Chadwick cut an old hollow oak tree for fire wood last week. They found three opossums but never counted the wampus and don't know how many millions there were.

T. A. Jones' fine sow has seven pigs.

Mrs. Mat Chadwick went to Murray on business Friday.

Preaching here every Third Sunday by the church pastor at 11 a.m. Mrs. Bell Jones sold 30 dozen eggs at Murray one day while they were 18 cents per dozen.

Mrs. Lettie Belcher of Paducah visited—her sister, Mrs. Mollie Jones, and family here Sunday.

IN LOVING MEMORY

In loving memory of my dear sister, Novelle Parker, who passed away one year ago February 14, 1932.

'Tis lonesome here without you, Dear sister, and sad the weary way, For life is not the same dear Since you were called away. You will never be forgotten, Never shall your memory fade, Sweetest thought shall ever linger Around the grave where you were laid.

The flowers we placed upon your grave may wither and decay, But love for you who sleeps beneath Will never fade away.

Scraps Of Thought

By Linda

A witty student who was angry with a teacher for "popping" an unexpected Monday morning test began writing crazy answers to questions he couldn't answer correctly.

In answer to "What is life?" he wrote: "Life is one darn thing right after another."

Somewhere I read an article that said, (and I'll admit—proved) that boys have better manners than girls.

Personally speaking, we girls learned what to say and do, but we never learned when and where.

Never shall I forget one time when three little girls came to play in our yard and one had to go home before the others did.

Ash she was leaving she asked me to come to see her. I liked her alright, but I was too interested in the game the other two kids started to be polite.

I said, "Well," and kept on playing.

After the other two left, mother gave me a good scolding. "From now on when someone leaves and asks you to come to see them you say, 'Thank you. You come back.'"

"And when you go some place and they ask you to come back you say, 'Thank you. You come to see me.'"

Mother's tone sounded like she meant every word of it, so I tried awfully hard to remember. Well, I did remember, and how!

Next day mother sent me to the grocery. The clerk handed me the things and said,

"Come back."

"Oh, thank you," I smiled politely. You come to see me!"

Black cats still hear my list of things to worry about. The little black kitten died, and I rejoiced too soon.

Only two days later another black cat came to live with us. I had always thought, "Where there is a will there is a way" but there seems to be an exception to this case.

Federal Housing is Explained by Administrator Stewart McDonald

Notices were sent out by Federal Housing Administrator Stewart McDonald today to over 7,000 lending institutions throughout the United States authorizing them to begin making modernization and repair loans under Title I of the National Housing Act Amendments of 1938, recently approved by Congress and signed by President Roosevelt on February 3, 1938.

Persons, partnerships and corporations are eligible to borrow money under the modernization and repair credit plan. The borrower must have an assured income, demonstrate his ability to repay the loan, and own the property to be improved or have a lease on it running at least six months longer than the term of the loan.

Amounts up to $10,000 may be borrowed to repair or improve existing structures and amounts up to $25,000 may be borrowed for the erection of new structures. Repayment of the loans may be spread over a period not to exceed five years for modernization and repair work and not to exceed ten years for the erection of new structures for residential use. Banks and other lending institutions will be insured against losses up to 10 per cent of the total loans they make under the new Title I program.

If the loan is made for the purpose of building a new home, security will be required in the form of a mortgage or deed of trust covering the property improved. In addition, there will be certain general construction requirements which will assist in protecting the investment of the home owner.

The provision for these new homes costing not in excess of $25,000 under Title I should not be confused with the plan of home ownership sponsored under Title II of the Act. Facilities afforded under Title I are intended primarily for those citizens who live on farms, or in rural areas or in the marginal zone surrounding the larger cities where the standards established by the mutual mortgage insurance system are not applicable.

Authority to insure modernization and repair loans was provided in the original National Housing Act of 1934, but after being extended twice by Congress was permitted to expire on April 1, 1937. Up to that time the Federal Housing Administration had insured more than 1,450,000 modernization and repair loans amounting to over $580,000,000. In addition, it is estimated that the Federal Housing Campaigns sponsored by the Federal Housing Administration generated several times that much modernization and repair work which did not show in its own records.

Total claims paid by the Federal Housing Administration up to January 15, 1938, were $13,416,420.75 under the modernization and repair program. Through recoveries and claims reinstated amounting to $6,556,826.53 the net loss sustained up to January 15 under Title I was reduced to $6,859,594.22, representing a net loss ratio of 1.22 per cent.

Originally $200,000,000 was made available by Congress to meet losses on modernization and repair loans insured under Title I. At the suggestion of the Federal Housing Administrator this amount was later reduced to $100,000,000. Only a part of that will be needed to liquidate all claims growing out of operations up to April 1, 1937, so that no additional authorization will be required at this time.

Under the modernization and repair program prior to April 1, 1937, approximately 60 per cent of the total dollar value of the notes insured was used to finance additions, alterations or repairs and the remaining 40 per cent

Yes, it seems like Old Man Winter is playing a joke on February as I am sitting out on the porch. The birds are singing and the grass is getting green, the flowers are coming out to fight, and the fruit trees are budding fast—it looks like spring is almost here, but I have another guess coming for I fear Old Man Winter will see us again pretty soon and give us ice houses to live in and the singing birds a different song to sing.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Simmons and daughter, Lucille Simmons, and "Uncle Jeff" Stubbfield were callers of Mr. and Mrs. Elmus Mitchell Sunday afternoon.

Well folks, I just learned Jess Dick has installed a new radio. That doesn't leave but four or five without, one new in Macedonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie Osborn of New Providence spent the first of the week with Mrs. Osborn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmus Mitchell of Macedonia. Mr. Mitchell is very ill at this writing.

Bob Albritton spent Monday in Paris, Tenn., on business. Mrs. Vella Lax and daughter, Bettie Faye, and aunt, Lucie Housden, were dinner guests of Mrs. Viola Hague Tuesday.

Miss Mary Mitchell, Miss Eran Williams and Miss Bettie Lax were callers of Miss Lucille Simmons Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmus Mitchell and son, Clyde, and Clay Wiseheart were in Murray Tuesday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hutson and Mrs. Bill Simmons were in Murray Wednesday.

Mrs. Eva Hutson and son, Joe Max, spent Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Cassie Hendon.

Miss Maryville Simmons was dinner guest of Miss Betty Joe Lax Sunday.

"Aunt" Fannie Wiseheart was able to spend Sunday with her son, Pete Wiseheart, and Mrs. Wiseheart.

Rudy Hendon, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Simmons and son, E. H., were at the Mason Hospital Saturday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Simmons are under the treatment of Doctor Fisher and both are slowly improving.

B. C. Lax was a caller at the Johnnie Simmons home Sunday afternoon.

"Aunt" Pat Christman is slowly improving.

Miss Pat Weatherspoon is on the sick list.

"Sweet Pea" I am sorry I missed you and little Rubie Fay at the hospital Saturday morning. I would have been glad to see both of you.

"Popeye" what is the matter with you that you missed so many letters to the good old Ledger & Times. We all missed them.

Good night to all. I will see you next week.—Kentucky Bell.

Such beautiful, warm, and sunny weather makes one think that spring is here, but I'm afraid the frogs that are making such melodious music now will be peeping through "glass" before it's time to plant gardens and raise chicks.

The men of the community are busy cutting stovewood and burning plant beds, while the women are still occupied with friendship quilt blocks.

"Aunt Doan" Blalock is improving slowly from an infected foot.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Byerly of Detroit, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Boyd and Mr. and Mrs. Lennis Byerly.

Mr. and Mrs. Colton Morgan, Detroit, Mich., are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pentrus McDougal.

We were very sorry to hear of Ray Lassiter losing his beautiful residence by fire the past week. Mr. Lassiter resides in Detroit at the present. It was a great shock to Mr. and Mrs. Lassiter as they were planning to return to their home to make a crop this year. They have our deep sympathy in their loss as well as Clyde Steele who lost his household goods in the fire.

Mrs. Harley Childers of Metropolis, Ill., has been visiting in the home of J. M. Rolfe for the past week. While here she had a quilting and quilted a beautiful friendship quilt that her friends in this community had pieced for her.

John McCusison and family have moved from Detroit to the home of his father, R. D. McCusison. Mr. McCusison returned to Detroit the past week to complete business arrangements. John says there's no place like home and old Kentucky.

The play which was presented by the young folks of this community at Outland school, was a great success. It will be given next Saturday night, February 19, at McCusison school house. The title of the play is "The Little Clothoppper." Everyone is invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray Roberts have moved to his father's place at Portertown.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Monon were guests in the home of G. M. Thurman the past week-end.

KENTUCKY 4-H CLUB NEWS

Clothing projects have been receiving major attention in Breathitt county this winter, and comprise one of the most successful pieces of club work ever attempted in the county. A county-wide clothing show will be held in March.

Two carloads of calves will be purchased by Washington county club members, to fatten for the annual show and sale at the Bourbon Stock Yards in Louisville.

Practically all project work for girls is already under way.

The year's program in Marion county includes a spring rally, a fall achievement day, community club picnic, entries in county and state contests, and an enrollment goal of 225.

Franklin county farmers have organized a committee to help club members purchase calves to feed for the state cattle show and sale. It is planned to obtain financial assistance from a production credit association.

Hopkins county plans for the year: 12 clubs, 500 members; spring rally, April 10; 40 pigs for swine show; local, district and state fair exhibits and demonstrations; county achievement day in fall; quarterly conferences of county leaders and officers.

Fifty-nine Todd county boys grew 28,716 pounds of burley tobacco which they sold for $5,155 net. Twenty-five boys produced 1,000 pounds of one-sucker tobacco which they sold for $723. James Coleman received 10½ cents a pound for his one-sucker crop, the highest price.

Twenty-seven boys in Fulton and Hickman counties will grow an acre each of hybrid corn. Ten will raise beef cattle, 12 own brood sows and 22 will fatten hogs.

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of our darling sister, Mrs. Charlie Parker, who passed away February 14, 1937. One year has passed since that sad day.

When our darling sister passed away, God called her home, it was his will.

But in our hearts she liveth still. 'Tis loneliness here without you, we miss you more each day.

For life is not the same Since you were called away. You shall never be forgotten. Never shall your memory fade. Loving thoughts shall always linger.

Around the grave where you were laid. Sleep on dear sister.

On this earth we'll meet you no more.

But some sweet day we'll meet again.

On that happy golden shore.

Written by a brother and sister, Hugh and Fay Adams.

Several Grayson county herds are being established or enlarged in a program to develop beef production in the county. Only purebred stock are being bought. The success of cattle feeding by 4-H club members has done much to interest farmers in beef cattle.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

Sunday, February 20, 1938

At the morning hour the pastor will preach on: "The Progress of Man" from the text: "He went out not knowing whither he went." That was true of Abraham in the long ago and it has been true many times since.

At the evening hour the pastor will preach on: "Some Mistakes of Good People."

The Good Lord has favored us with some wonderful weather and a mild winter, so that we have been able to move along and do our work without let or hindrance. Surely, in gratitude to him, we should come to his house of worship and honor him who has done so much for us.

At a recent meeting it was stated that 40 per cent of our membership attends the worship service at the house of God. What of the other 60 per cent?

Why have they joined the church? Possibly to be buried, with a big funeral, from the house of the Lord.

Our Church-school is making the best progress for some months and we look forward to the time when all of our people shall be members of the Sunday school. Why not?

Your children and young people will enjoy the work in their own meetings.

You owe it to your children to see that they have this opportunity for Christian development.

Again we urge the strangers coming to Murray to "line up" with the church of their fathers and mothers. You can do them no greater honor.

Freeland News

I could easily look back in the other paper last week, because I'm saving every one of the Ledger & Times papers. I'll probably look over them again some rainy day. I'd get a lot of kick out of seeing all the news. Now for a few lines of news.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Simmons of Freeland were the week-end guests of Mrs. Simmons' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Vaughn of Buchanan.

Raphael Maynard of Cedar Knob spent Friday night with Speight and Brent Williams of Frog Creek. Karrette Williams delivered a load of tobacco Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Nolen Simmons of Paris, Oren Simmons and daughter, Sue, were the Monday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Warlick Hutson and son, Max, and "Aunt Jess" Simmons of Macedonia.

Say, Sweet Pea, how would you like for Mrs. Ruth Maynard to bring that "bulldog" they have when she comes to visit you?

Mrs. Rhoda Williams and Brent Williams spent Monday night with Mrs. Gerrie Williams and sons, J. C. and Ronald, Mason of New Providence.

Miss Dolie Maynard of Cedar Knob was the Monday evening guest of Miss Eva Mae Williams of Freeland.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Williams and children of Cedar Knob spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. John Ferguson.

Miss Lovelle Oliver of Hazel, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Noah Maynard and children, Ollie and Raphael of Cedar Knob, returned to her home Sunday.

Mrs. Thela Wachtel of Murray, who has just returned from a business trip to Chicago and to visit her daughter, Laura, Ury and Mr. Ury, spent Sunday with her elder daughter, Mrs. Ruth Maynard, Mr. Maynard and children, Dolie and Raphael of Cedar Knob. Also Vernon and Herman Maynard of New Concord were guests in the Maynard home.

Aunt Fannie Wisehart of Macedonia spent Monday evening with Mrs. Annie Willis of the same district. That was the first time she had visited any of her neighbors since suffering from an attack of rheumatism last November.

James and Wilma Jean, children of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Elkins of Blood River, have scarlet fever. We wish for them a speedy recovery and it is our hope that no one else catches this disease.

Henry Hutson is improving from a recent illness.—Aunt Cindy.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Mind" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, February 20.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For who hath known the mind of the Lord? or who hath been his counselor?" For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things" (Romans 11:34, 36).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mind is God" . . . and with one Mind and that God, or good, the brotherhood of man would consist.

of Love and Truth, and have unity of Principle, and spiritual power which constitute divine Science."

Farmers in the Soil Conservation project in Hopkins county are planning to set about 30,000 trees as a soil conserving measure. Most of the trees will be black locust, which are one of the best soil-binding trees, although some ash, oak and other hardwood varieties will be used.

Kirksey Kinklets

Spring with its genial warmth has come and the frogs, birds and doves seem to enjoy themselves during this pretty weather.

Farmers are making plant beds preparing to make another crop but Congress has them puzzled about their crop. Everything seems to be in a state of confusion, even in Congress they can't seem to agree on any one thing. A house be divided against itself, that house cannot stand. Mark 3:25.

Mrs. Charlie Pierce is some better at this writing. She is still at the hospital.

Verge McCallan of Kirksey spent a few days in Detroit the last week.

Novice Gopeland, son of Jack Copeland, opened school at Murray College last Monday.

Mrs. Green Casper passed away last Friday night. She was buried at Mt. Carmel Church Saturday evening. Services were conducted by the Rev. Castleberry of Benton.

Simons Dunn of south Marshall county shot himself Thursday morning. He died a short time afterward. The cause is unknown by the writer. The children, who were away teaching school, were notified. He was buried at Mt. Carmel Saturday evening. The pastor was in charge of services.

The Rev. G. C. Hesson filled his regular appointment at the Holiness Church Third Sunday. Dennis P. Alexander, wife and daughter, Miss Dorothy, of Evansville, Ind., were present at the Urell Perry funeral last week. Harper Tucker and wife spent the past week visiting relatives and friends in Texas.

Attending the three funerals at Mt. Carmel the past week we find the road north of Kirksey in bad condition. They are cut up and many places the axle of a car drags. There is also two or three culverts near the Hallet Dunn place that are in bad shape and should have attention at once before something serious happens in crossing them. I hope our new county judge and magistrates will look after the north end of the highway that runs through Kirksey and use their influence in bringing about the completion of this highway.

Claud Tucker, wife and two daughters, Ruby June and Jean, visited Mac Boyd's family last Sunday.

RICHMOND, Ky., Feb. 15.—For the second consecutive year the Eastern State Teachers College will be host to the K.I.A.C. basketball tournament to be held in the Weaver Health Building on the campus in Richmond, February 24-26. Charles "Turkey" Hughes, acting head of the physical education department of Eastern E. McDonough, has been busy for some time with the making of plans for the tournament. Murray's Thoroughbreds, leaders of Kentucky basketball teams, will play Eastern on Friday, February 26.

Across the River

Now haven't we had another lovely week of weather for February. A few plant beds have been burned and several women around have ordered baby chicks, but it that ground hog saw his shadow it's inevitable that more bad weather's around the corner.

Last week-end we went to Murray and the hubby stayed to see Murray beat Bowling Green while I went down to McCuiston to see the play, "Aaron Slick From Punkin Creek." We then spent the night at my dad's and mother's.

Oury, Wilma and Gene returned with us via Scott-Fitzhugh bridge. The little niece and nephew stayed until Friday with us, returning with their mother and dad. Mr. and Mrs. Otis Lovins, who with Mr. and Mrs. Noble Lovins spent Thursday night with us. They all went to Dover Friday and visited the Ft. Donelson Park. Locks and cemetery.

R. B. Kirksey has spent the past two week-ends in Murray visiting his student wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Spiceland attended the ball game at Murray last week-end. Loyd brings his Tolu team to play Linton Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Cethey are at home after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Spiceland of Akron, Sunday.

Measles are getting scattered around in these parts they say. We hear that Ewell Herndon and "Spunk" Vincent now have them.

My! When I recall how six of us went through a siege of them. I'm truly glad one can't get them often like the itch, though people may not have the itch in this modern age.

I hear that Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt McClure are the crowing parents of a future might be president.

Let's hope they don't spoil the little chap.

Master Boise Rogers visited his grandparents in C. C. last week. He has one neighbor who, though she laughs at his home-sickness, knows how to sympathize with him as he tries to get adjusted to his new surroundings.

Mrs. Manuel Spiceland was the lucky winner of the Aladdin lamp drawn at Hutchins school recently but she had two such lamps so gave this to Brother John Outland, her pastor. Well done, I say even if such chance drawings are a form of lottery.

I hear that Mrs. Elba Bailey has already been dismissed from the hospital. Am glad she recuperated so soon. It's bad enough to have to be confined to bed in winter but when spring time's just around the corner—well, the big outdoors has an irresistible call. Yes, and there's another primeval instinct women have along about now and that's the house cleaning urge. The bright sunshine and fresh air somehow makes us want to move, acquire dust and start all over again.

Much as modern magazines deride the old fashioned furnishings and cluttered rooms it never can be said that those old soap and sand scrubbed floors and walls were not clean after our mothers had set everything out doors and scrubbed and scalded the whole place. No wonder those mothers with such few conveniences then, acquired such toil worn hands and stooped shoulders. The washings they hung on lines and fences were snowy, too.

Reminiscing, I wonder how those mothers remained so cheerful with so many dresses and starched shirts to iron every week, besides having so much else to do.

My little old mother had another birthday to carry her farther into the sixties last week but she still takes pride in starching the shirts, asking nothing in return only that her boys keep their characters as spotless as their clothes. Really is there any greater reward for years of house cleaning, cooking and laundering than viewing at last stalwart sons and loyal daughters who face the world proudly and unafraid of any haunting past or uncertain future, boys and girls who choose their associates with as much care as they choose their clothes, and whose names are never called only with respect and reverence.

Yes, though children may never be able to bestow other presents upon their mothers, they have given her the most valued returns for her sacrifices who give her the soul satisfying knowledge that wherever they are, they are keeping themselves unspotted from the world. And well I know that so long as time lasts, mothers will still continue to cheerfully do their scrubbing rounds of cleaning, cooking and washing, happy in serving those they love. So at this house cleaning season I believe it would be a good idea for each of us to take a heart cleaning day off, and from attic to cellar clean out all the cobwebs of passion, covetousness, envy and discontent, sever every alliance with disreputable companions, wash and air every uncertain thought, then, with heads up and eyes bright, rested, and sparkling, march out to face another spring time, clean, inside and out—Chatterbox.

TO GEORGE BINGHAM

It must be that the good there is in earth
In some men grows much faster than in all.

For love in you seemed bigger than the rest

And made you more than just a simple man.

You were so kind you never knew a thought

Which had as source a syllable of wrong.

You were too big to do a little thing—

But little things grew big through knowing you.

There were the people on the streets you met

Who knew your smile and went away content.

There were your children who were part of you

Who took you with them in the charm they spread.

The characters you made were living proof.

That still on earth the soul of beauty lives—

Your simple faith lived in the human heart

And brought the world that knew you priceless gain.

O God in Heaven, give us strength to be

Like this one was whom Thou hast called to Thee!

Edward Freeman

County Farmers

Hear Accountant

Thirty-five farmers were present here Saturday in a special farm accounting demonstration conducted by R. E. Proctor, head of the farm management extension department of the University of Kentucky, in the office of County Agent J. T. Cochran.

Proctor demonstrated the use of simple accounts as a means of improving farm incomes. More than 40 farmers in Callaway have agreed to keep farm account books during 1938.

PENNEBAKER TO GET Ph. D.

Prof. G. B. Pennebaker, instructor in the department of biological science since 1933 at Murray College, is scheduled to receive his Ph. D. degree from the University of Wisconsin this spring. A native of Carlisle County, Mr. Pennebaker was a student of Murray in 1924 and 1926.

Majoring in education and minoring in botany, he took his A. B. degree from the University of Kentucky in 1928. He received his M. S. degree from the University of Kentucky with a major in botany and a minor in zoology. For his major work and minor work during his study for his doctorate, Mr. Pennebaker chose genetics and zoology, respectively.

BETTER BUY BUICK ON EASY GENERAL MOTORS TERMS

WEIGH the new cars dispassionately in the light of what they offer and the facts stand boldly forth as these:

Buick is the ONLY car on the market today offering the efficiency of valve-in-head straight-eight design—modernized with the phenomenally efficient new DYNAFLEX principle of combustion.

Buick is the only car your money can buy with the marvel-ride of TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING — springs of stout, shock-smothering coiled steel that lessen skid-risks, lengthen tire life, actually make the whole car more directable.

Buick is the only car with the safety of Unisteel Body by Fisher — plus the blessed quiet and peace of Silent Zone Body Mounting.

Buick is admittedly the best looking car on the market — chosen as such by popular vote with a greater margin over its nearest competitor than any other car enjoys!

Buick's performance is easily the most outstanding on the road — for soaring, thrilling lift and power it doffs its hat to no other car even approaching it in size and comfort.

Such are the facts, and on them you can well decide, "Better buy Buick!"

But they do not end the tale. There are two points dealing with figures still needed to complete the full picture of Buick value:

— Buick is not only the lowest-priced straight-eight of its size on the market — But Buick actually lists at lower figures than do some sixes!

Check the facts, check the figures. We know where you'll find yourself in the end.

In a Buick dealer's showroom getting the dope on his easy terms!

"Better buy Buick!"
