WAR CHEST DRIVE GETS GOOD SUPPORT

The drive for War Chest funds begun by the local Red Cross chapter on Monday, has received splendid support from the people of Fulton so far. In a drive for $2,000 the amount had totaled $1,229.16 Thursday morning. Joe Davis is chairman of the drive, assisted by Mrs. Hazel Scruggs, executive secretary.

The people of Fulton have cooperated splendidly so far but the goal of $2,000 has not yet been reached. The residents of Fulton and the entire county are urged to contribute liberally to this national cause.

Fulton has never failed in reaching its Red Cross goals and workers in this drive are positive that they will not fall short now.

In the annual Red Cross Roll Call, conducted in November, the goal was 750 members and the city went over the top in this effort.

Those who wish to contribute to the War Chest Fund may leave their donations with Mrs. Scruggs at the Woman's Club building, at the City Coal Co., or at The Fulton County News office. 13TH DISTRICT TO HAVE AERIAL POST Patriotic citizens of the Lone Oak community met with J. D. McGehee and R. L. McNatt Monday night to discuss plans for an aerial observation post as outlined by the Army Air Corps. This aerial post and others like it, are being organized throughout the nation as detective points to ward off enemy planes that might be attacking cities, industries or munition plants within the mainland.

The exact procedure of the observation posts has not been definitely concluded but will depend upon the intensity of the emergency that may develop during the war. All posts must have one observer on or near the posts at all times in case of air operations. The main observer will also have a group of subordinate observers to assist him at all necessary times in detecting potential enemy aeroplanes.

The observation post in the 13th district is to be located south of Lone Oak school on the farm of W. W. Marr, who is to be the main observer. Organization of these aerial posts is being executed by the American Legion.

"Even though there is no immediate need for these posts, the Air Corps desires to prepare for extremities even though they may never come," J. D. McGehee said. "They want a nation bristling with difficult problems for the enemy; a nation united in purpose, strong in determination, and an untiring faith in the principles that make for our present way of life."

"In order to accomplish this and succeed in preserving our long cherished way of life," Mr. McGehee continued, "we must one and all sacrifice—sacrifice services, money and even our lives, for everything we have in common is at stake. Every thread which runs into the nucleus of our lives is being shaken by the thunderbolts of war and the hurricanes of disaster at home and abroad. We must come to the realization that we are in a world-wide conflict that has been in the making since World War No. 1, and one that is not likely to be solved in a very short period. It is too late to argue and discuss the merits or demerits of war. It is no time to talk higher wages and shorter hours. It is high time that we conclude that this is our war and attack when humanly possible every task assigned us in a spirit of co-operation. We hope that the observation posts will never have to be used, but let us be ready in case of necessity. We should present a united civilian population ready to march bravely with our fighting forces, carrying on at home, in this most hectic and discouraging hour."

Garlan Linder of Water Valley was seriously injured Saturday morning when the car in which he was riding with Zera Morris, also of Water Valley, was struck by a train on the crossing near the cemetery.

WELCH SCHOOL NEWS

In spite of the war with all of its excitement the school children remain very near normal and are preparing for "Santa Claus" in their own fancy way. Shopping is little above par in this particular school, I would think, since the principal has granted permissions for the past two weeks to children in all grades to go with their mothers, guardians or what have you, to Fulton, Mayfield or some other nearby business center.

The school is now making a drive to sell the idea of buying Savings Stamps. We do not know exactly how such a program is going over, however we feel that it should go over quite nicely since it not only teaches the youth to be thrifty and at the same time helps to carry on a program that is defending their way of life, their schools and their homes. We have concluded the Junior Red Cross Drive after receiving six dollars as a contribution among the school children. We probably will have to make another drive later due to the seriousness of the late happenings.

Ball games at Welch have been below normal for the past few weeks due to the fact that most of our players have been ill with the mumps and measles. Tuesday night Welch went to Chestnut Glade to play the undefeated Rompers of Mr. Bruce's. Friday, Dec. 19 Welch goes to Stella Ruth; Tuesday night Dec. 23 Welch goes to Atwood after turning out for the Christmas holidays. The Christmas program will be held at ten a. m. Tuesday and school will reconvene Jan. 1, 1942, on Thursday.

FULTON CIRCUIT

E. B. Rucker, Pastor

Last Sunday was a Red Letter day at Wesley church. There was a good number present and in a mood to worship. The church decided to adopt the envelope monthly offering system to take care of salaries. Those present were very enthusiastic about the plan. A package of twelve envelopes was given to each family or member, there will be packages for those who were absent. Put your offering in envelope with your name and amount thereon and bring it to the church.

Wesley has a fine lot of members and a promising church, so look out this year for Wesley.

On the second Sunday in June we hope to have a hymecoming and dedication of Wesley church. Write the friends away and let all the church prepare for a great occasion. We hope to have Bishop J. L. Decell with us at that time.

The pastor has Christmas envelopes for all the membership of all the churches. This offering is for Benevolences. It is expected that every member make an offering and should this not amount to what is accepted by First Quarterly conference, there will be another every-member offering at Easter time. So fall in line and get some of our finances out of the way so there will be no jam as last year. This, if you will accept and do, will make you happy, and pave the way for a revival of old time religion in our midst.

The pastor is eagerly endeavoring to get our people to subscribe for the Christian Advocate. If only 16 will subscribe, you can get paper for $1.50 per year. It is heart-breaking to hear the excuses made by those who care so little for spiritual development or enlightenment of the church's action. Radios, newspapers, magazines, farm helps, but nothing to develop the soul. Think on these things and see if it isn't positive inconsistency to be too stingy to subscribe and read Christian literature. Poor unfortunate children raised in professed to be Christian homes with no witness as regards Christian reading.

Sunday morning will be regular preaching service at Dukedom with service at 2:30 in afternoon at Pleasant Hill. Be on hand on time. Bring your hungry heart to the House of God for worship. Let the Spirit of the Christ lead you to greater sacrifice, and nobler stewardship this year.

Three hundred pennies were tendered in the county clerk's office, for a marriage license in Nashville. The applicant who came from another state to claim a Nashville bride, was informed that the desired license costs $5 in Tennessee and he added two one-dollar bills.

Deputy Clerk Dan Lynch, who presides over "Cupid's Desk" in the county clerk's office laboriously counted the brown coins and found the total was two pennies over par. So the license was issued, the surplus refunded, and the applicant went joyfully on his way.

Asked where he got so many pennies for such a purpose, the groom-elect smiled cheerfully and replied, "I've just been saving them up to pay for a wife."

'Old Christmas' Is Best Despite Modern Trends

Modernistic art and architecture are very fine, but an old-fashioned Christmas is still the best. Using the traditional colors of red and green as a basis, the occasion can be brought up-to-date with pretty modern angels and worldly gnomes of plastic, tin and wood.

Ideas for decorating the house require forethought and planning, even though the job itself must wait for the final hours. Home decorators offer a few suggestions which will help homemakers to plan more attractive Christmas decorations.

GOLD STANDARD—Broad, gold Christmas ribbon will be the motif, looped extravagantly in swags over the tree and caught up with clusters of big gold Christmas balls strung together. Light this tree with all gold lights. Repeat the theme of gold ribbon swags and gold balls for table, mantel and window decorations.

SILVER BELLS—Shining silver bells of all sizes spangled thickly over the tree will be different and festive for Christmas, especially with garlands of little shells painted silver and strung together. Or have evergreen wreaths with silver shells worked into them instead of the usual holly berries or pine cones.

FLASHES OF RED—An evergreen tree splashed with huge red artificial poinsettias made into garlands, strings of cranberries, especially red glass balls, then all white lights would be very festive indeed, especially if complemented over the house with evergreen boughs tied with white ribbon and clusters of big red poinsettias.

DELLA ROBBIA—An old idea that has a classic enduring beauty is the use of small, perfect, real fruits entwined with Christmas greens to make garlands and wreaths for Christmas decorations. Especially decorative is a wreath like this made on a stout frame inset with candleholders and suspended from above by stout cords of ribbons.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT INTERRUPTS WAR

Despite the horror and suffering among World War soldiers, the spirit of Christmas was not kept out of the trenches.

In "A German Deserter's War Experience," the author, an anti-government Socialist, tells of a Christmas celebration on the Argonne front.

"Christmas in the trenches! It was bitterly cold. We had procured a pine tree and decorated it with candles and cookies.

"At midnight the whole line of German soldiers began to sing Christmas songs in chorus.

"The French left their trenches, and, quite overpowered with emotion, stood with caps in hand. We exchanged gifts with the French—chocolate, cigarettes, etc. They were all laughing, and so were we; why, we did not know.

"All around silence reigned. The charm continued, and one scarcely dared to speak. Suddenly a shot rang out, then another. The spell was broken. All rushed to their rifles. Our Christmas was over."

TOO BUSY

"I shall hope to catch you under the mistletoe Christmas eve."

"If you do, I warn you now, I'll be too busy to see you."

First Settlers in Virginia

Had a Joyous Christmas

Although thousands of miles from their native homes, the first Virginians did what they could to observe Christmas day. But there were no women, no children and no families in those first few years.

Despite this handicap, Captain John Smith writes "that the first Christmas was very merry. The extreme wind, rayne, frost and snow caused us to keep Christmas among the savages where we were never more merry, nor fed on more plenty of good oysters, fish, flesh, wild fowl and good bread, nor never had better fires in England."

CHRISTMAS TELEPHONE CALLS PILE UP TOO!

Stores can spread their Christmas rush over several weeks, but we have to handle an avalanche of long distance calls on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day.

This Christmas, though during the year we have built many additional thousands of miles of long distance circuits and greatly expanded switchboard facilities, there will still be more calls made on Christmas Day than the lines can carry.

This year, more telephone people than ever before will work Christmas Eve and Christmas Day, serving you, doing their level best to complete your holiday calls. Every available circuit will be in service. But, despite our best efforts, there are sure to be delays and disappointments.

If your calls get caught in the rush, please remember the difficult conditions under which telephone folks will be working to get your call through.

"Johnny,

where'd you GET your gun?"

FROM the supply sergeant, of course. He got it from the Ordnance Department—and they got it from a factory. It's the finest Army rifle in the world.

But before one factory wheel could turn—for the first model or the finished job—there had to be power—and most of it is electric. Electric power helped put your Garand in your hands, Johnny.

It takes a tremendous lot of power to make all the guns, tanks, planes and ships we need—but America has a lot. Power reserves, built up in advance by business men who manage America's electric companies, have been able to meet almost every defense demand overnight.

We're glad we can help, Johnny, by doing our share. We're glad to pledge our cooperation with you and the government—to make America so strong it can remain forever free and unafraid.

New Yardstick Set For Good Nutrition

The new "yardstick" for good nutrition set up for the United States marks an important milestone in nutrition progress, says Miss Maude Guthrie, U-T Extension nutritionist.

Home economists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture have translated the yardstick in terms of a master plan for the daily diet. This plan which was set up to allow the homemaker herself to make choices within important food groups is as follows:

According to this master plan, the following should be included in each day's diet: Milk, for a growing child, 3-4 to 1 quart; for an expectant or nursing mother, 1 quart; for other family members, 1 pint or more. Tomatoes, oranges, grapefruit, green cabbage, raw salad greens, 1 or more servings. Leafy, green, or yellow vegetables, 1 or more servings. Potatoes and other vegetables and fruit, 2 or more servings. Eggs, 1 a day (or at least 3 or 4 a week.) Lean Meat, Poultry, Fish, 1 or more servings a day. Cereals and bread, at least 2 servings of whole-grain products or "enriched" bread. Fats and sweets, some butter or other vitamin-A rich fat every day. Other fats and sweets to satisfy the appetite.

This yardstick was worked out by a committee of leading nutritionists as a guide to improving the Nation's food habits. It sets a goal toward which to aim—an adequate diet for everyone in the country.

Although most homemakers will never use the yardstick in its original form, it can be of invaluable help to them. For nutrition leaders in every section of the country are interpreting this scientific yardstick into terms of common foods. They are adapting their interpretations to suit different localities, different seasons of the year, and different food budgets, Miss Guthrie said.

Higher Farm Prices and Cost Expected In 1942

The year 1942 promises higher prices and higher total incomes for Tennessee farmers than was the case in 1941, states Frank Joyce, assistant economist with U-T Agricultural Extension Service.

This is expected to result from continued domestic demand for farm products, commitments of the Lend-Lease Bill, and from price-supporting activities of the Federal Government. Farmers are being asked to increase the production of certain farm products needed to feed this Nation and her allies.

The expected total production of farm products will be the largest in history. Offsetting higher farm income will be increasing costs of things which farmers buy, but all of the increased income is not expected to be wiped out in 1942 by rising costs of farming and of living on the farm.

Relatively high prices for most farm products are expected to continue throughout the war period. Increasing returns to farmers will enable many to pay debts rapidly, to make needed farm improvements where materials are available, and to save something for the expected "rainy day" when the war is ended and the demands for farm products falls due to unemployment and other aftermaths of the war, Joyce says.

During the war prosperity, many farmers will find it difficult to obtain sufficient labor, farm machinery and other supplies on the priority lists. Since this condition faces farmers in 1942, plans should be carefully made in advance to meet labor peaks and to reduce needs for labor.

NEEDLE IN HOSPITAL

Technicians, armed with an electrocope, are looking for $700 to $800 in the Chicago Presbyterian Hospital vaults, but so far it has evaded them.

The $700 to $800 represents a needle containing 12 1-2 milligrams of pure radium which was lost when attendants, preparing to thread it, dropped it.

England has a floating crane that can lift up to 150 tons and weigh them while in the air.

Wickard To Review Goals Japanese Attack Moves

Moving swiftly to adjust the Food-For-Freedom program to war developments, Secretary Wickard today called on Department of Agriculture Bureau and agency heads to reconsider 1942 production goals with a view to increasing them when necessary.

Unable to leave Washington because of the war crisis, and compelled to cancel a scheduled address before the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation in Chicago, Secretary Wickard addressed the nation's farmers over the National Farm and Home Hour.

"The treacherous action by Japan," Secretary Wickard said, "has served to completely unite the American people in their thinking and in their action. We are facing the gravest hour of our history fully aware of the strength of our enemies and fully confident of our own ability to destroy them. We enter this struggle equipped with greater reserves of food, feed, and fiber than at any other period of our history. The United States and our allies can count on agriculture supreme effort in the face of difficulties, to keep on turning out what our defense requires, at the time it is required, in the quantity required."

The Food-For-Freedom program, in which farmers are now indicating the extent of their voluntary participation in a nation-wide sign-up campaign, was originally based on the needs of the United States, the need of Great Britain, and the food needed to build a stockpile of foodstuffs in this country for use when the war is over.

Any changes that may be necessary as a result of developments in the Pacific will be decided by the Department experts in consultation with farmer representatives throughout the nation.

Star of the East

Star of the East, that long ago Brought wise men on their way Where, angels singing to and fro, The Child of Bethlehem lay— Above that Syrian hill afar Thou shinest out, tonight, O Star!

Star of the East, the night were drear But for the tender grace That with thy glory comes to cheer Earth's loneliest, darkest place, For by that charity we see Where there is hope for all and me.

Star of the East, show us the way In wisdom undefiled To see that manger out and lay Our gifts before the Child— To bring our hearts and after them Unto our King in Bethlehem!

—Eugene Field.

Mistletoe Loses Charms When Berries Are Gone

In the language of flowers, Mistletoe means "give me a kiss." This has its basis in a Scandinavian myth. And from this old tale we derive our custom of kissing under the mistletoe.

As it hangs upon the chandelier or in the doorway, each lad may claim a kiss from the maid who chances beneath it with this provision: that the lad remove a berry to give to the maid, until, at last, when no berries are left, the bough loses its spell and no more kisses are then available.

The story continues "that the maiden who receives no kisses under the mistletoe will not marry that year."

MIKE TELLS SANTA— DELIVER—OR ELSE!

Mike's letter contained a long list of things desired, and added: "You better bring all this stuff or I'll beat you to a pulp."

SERVICE DELUXE

A Tulsa, Okla., housewife became mildly indignant when, preparing giblet gravy to go along with turkey—she discovered that no liver accompanied the fowl.

She immediately got on the telephone to tell the turkey raiser out in the country what she thought of a person who would deliver a turkey without any liver.

The abashed poultryman went out and killed another turkey, then drove 10 miles into town with his liver for the housewife's waiting giblet gravy.

War with the Axis Powers means industrial readjustment in the United States on the largest scale ever attempted.

If we are to produce the things needed to defeat the enemy, we must reshape our American industrial machine. This will not be an easy task. It means an unheard-of expansion of certain industries, a strict rationing for others, and a complete shut-down for a very few.

War with the Axis Powers will be a war of great distances. This means we must produce unlimited quantities of bombers and bombs, shells, ships, oil, and gasoline and maintain far-distant bases from which these units may operate. It also means the maintenance of an army far in excess of our present force. We must adequately arm our enlarged military force.

These are the reasons American products from factories, farms, mines, and forests must go into wartime production.

Many materials which are now hard to get will become practically non-existent for civilian use. It is a certainty that very little steel, copper, tin, aluminum and a wide range of chemical products will be used for consumer goods.

The automobile industry will become totally a war industry. Passenger car production, now cut by 50 per cent, may very likely disappear altogether.

The Government has ruled that consumers can buy no new tires or tubes from December 11 to December 22. Raw rubber comes from the East Indies. It is now an open question of how long the Government can permit the manufacture of tires for pleasure cars.

By next year, it may be very difficult to buy radios, radio tubes, refrigerators, and other household electrical appliances. The electrical manufacturing industry is at present devoting 50 per cent of its capacity to production and it may be expected to do even more.

To defeat the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo Axis will require the diversion of from two-thirds to three-fourths of our industrial facilities to munition making. We must expect civilian curtailment of industrial goods to levels below those experienced in 1932 and 1933.

CATS MUST WORK

Cats in London may have a milk ration only if engaged in vitally important work—catching rats and mice—the House of Commons was told today by Maj. Gwilym Lloyd George, parliamentary secretary to the food ministry.

Even on this basis, supplies cannot be guaranteed, he said in announcing the ministry's ruling, so it may become a question of less milk and more rats.

Safetygrams
BY FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

The holiday season—the happiest season of the year—is with us, and it should be a happy one. Yet because of our own carelessness, in thousands of American homes Christmas time will be a very sad and dreary affair.

Why? Because somebody failed to exercise the proper caution and care in handling an automobile. Accidents are sad affairs at any time of the year, but when most of the community is enjoying the spirit of Christmas and you and your family are in the midst of a bad accident, Christmas can be very dreary.

The National Safety Council is recommending that we "give courtesy for Christmas," and that is my recommendation to you also. Be a courteous driver and be safe.

The best throw of the dice is to throw them away.

NO CLOSED SEASON ON SHOOTING JAPS

The State Department of Conservation in Nashville recently ruled that there's an "open season" on Japanese, and that it requires no license to shoot them.

Someone in the department, while in a playful mood, sent a customary requisition through to the State Purchasing Department for 6,000,000 licenses "good for hunting Japanese," to be sold at $2 each.

The requisition, after reaching Purchasing Agent A. A. Jean, came back to the department penciled: "Requisition void. There's no closed season on shooting Japanese."

WHO AFTER WHO—BEAR OR HUNTER?

Game Protector John Hopkins sent this report to the Pennsylvania Game Commission:

A hunter sat on a rock, ate his lunch and smoked three cigarettes. He arose and walked away. Tracks in the light snow showed a bear had crawled out of a hole behind the rock, followed the hunter for 100 yards, turned and lumbered off.

They hurt themselves that wrong others.

SNOWBOUND CHRISTMAS

BY CLYDE WILSON

Bill Yardley poked a tentative eye outside his blanket. It was daylight, at last. Across the tiny cabin Jim was snoring quietly, his measured breath almost drowned by the roaring wind outside.

Bill's eyes surveyed the cabin with its old stove and rickety furniture. Cozy enough, perhaps, but this was no way to spend an entire winter, even for the sake of geographical accuracy. Several hundred miles to the south, in Winnipeg, the government office was waiting for early spring when Bill and Jim could finish their surveying assignment and bring back a report.

The pilot dumped overboard a huge bundle.

Ahead, meanwhile, were two months of this maddening snowbound silence.

Bill's glance drifted to the calendar. Suddenly he caught his breath—"Jim!" he shrieked. "Wake up! Wake up! Do you know what day this is?"

Jim groaned, stirred a bit, and answered sleepily.

"Tuesday, ain't it? And so what?"

"Jim! It's Christmas Eve!"

A few minutes later they found themselves staring blankly out the window, almost wishing they'd never discovered it was Christmas.

It was kind of childish to let on that you cared, Bill thought. So he put on his parka and headed for the door.

"Let's forget it, Jim," he advised. "I'm going to look at our traps and get some fresh air. Be back soon!"

It was no picnic, trudging through knee-deep drifts for two hours. To make it worse, the traps were all empty. Even the animals were staying inside in this weather.

"Wonder if they'll miss Christmas, too?" he mused as he neared the cabin.

Suddenly he heard a faint hum in the sky. It grew nearer. Unmistakably a motor—an airplane!

Bill raced for the cabin door. "A plane, Jim!" he cried. "Get some black smoke going up the chimney!" Then he raced out to the clearing.

The pilot saw him gesticulating wildly, or else he saw the fresh black smoke over the cabin. The big ship circled, flew off to the north, turned and came back, flying low. Over the clearing it almost stalled as the pilot dumped overboard a huge bundle that plummeted into the snow almost at Bill's feet. Then he waved and sped away.

They got it inside, somehow, though they wanted to open the bundle right where it landed. Once the rope was torn loose an oilskin pouch flew out. A note was inside. From the boss:

"In case you boys have forgotten," it read, "tomorrow's Christmas. Herewith the makings, including some presents your families asked us to send along."

Bill and Jim looked at each other, then they cheered.

"Merry Christmas!" asked Bill. "Why, it's the best ever! Wait'll you taste this turkey!"

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

53 Sundays in Year

According to the Gregorian calendar, every year has 53 days of the one it begins on. Generally speaking, the year contains 53 Sundays every five or six years. This occurred in 1928, 1933, 1939, and again in 1944, 1950, 1956, 1961, 1967, etc. The United States naval observatory points out that in any continuous series of 28 years, five have 53 Sundays, unless the series includes a year whose number ends in two ciphers without its being a leap year, as in 1700, 1800, 1900. When leap year begins on Saturday, two of the six-year periods fall consecutively.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Old-Time New Year Serious

Oldtime New England was serious on New Year's, as witness the title of a book published there in the year of 1702 by one Richard Standfast: "A New Year's Gift for Fainting Souls, or, a little handful of cordial comforts scattered through several answers to 16 questions and objections: As also doubting Christians invited to Christ."

Chinese New Year's Greeting

The Chinese New Year's greeting is "Sui-hi," or "May joy be yours."

PADDLING APPROVED FOR REFORM SCHOOL

Governor Holland and three other state cabinet members, all former school teachers, recently approved the disciplinary paddling of boys in the State Industrial School at Marianna, Fla.

It was their answer to the charge by Mrs. C. S. Thompson of Wauchula that her son, James, 14, was whipped with a three-inch board.

LADY DRIVER, TOO

The T. C. Prathers often park their sedan so close to the house that the car top is a convenient utility shelf—right out the kitchen window.

Mrs. Prather stopped and got out to see why everyone was staring at her when she drove downtown. A fresh-baked chocolate pie was on top of the car. She'd placed it there to cool.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY

When customers refused to enter the elevators at a downtown department store in Kansas City, the manager investigated.

Soon everything returned to normal.

Smiling elevator operators who had been mistaken for Japanese wore tiny American flags and cards which read: "I'm a loyal Filipino."

HOMING PIGEONS

Homing pigeon lofts are being established at all new Navy lighter-than-air stations.

THEATRE CRIES HUSHED

Utah Writers' Project discovered theatre-owners in 1862 solved the "crying baby" problem with this sign displayed over the boxoffice: "Admission—Adults 35c, Babies in Arms, $10."

SOUTHERN CROSS

The "Southern Cross" constellation of stars is visible in the United States only at the southernmost points, but due to the wobbling of the earth's axis, it will, at a future date, be seen as far north as Quebec, Canada.

SEASONAL HAIRCUTS

The sound of the first whippoorwill in the spring and "sorghum-making" time in the fall herald a semi-annual event for R. H. Griggs of DeKalb County, Ala. Those seasonal signs mean it's time for him to get his hair cut. "Uncle Rip" as he is known throughout the county, will not have his hair cut but twice a year.

Obeying the law may keep a person out of jail, but it won't always keep him out of accidents. Being legally careful is not enough.

I have driven with men in communities where the speed limit was 30 miles an hour; those drivers felt that they were within their legal rights to drive at that speed. However, if traffic on particular thoroughfares had been heavy and pedestrian traffic had been crowded, driving at thirty miles an hour would not have been within the law of common sense.

Regulate your driving to meet conditions. Adjust your temper and your driving habits so that you will be a sensible driver rather than a legally safe driver.

FRESH snow crunched under Dick Wright's shoes as he stomped into the waiting room.

Old Peter was still there, still minding his telegraph key as he had when Dick was a boy. But now it was Christmas; now Dick was home from the city, a successful young architect.

As he walked up to old Peter's grilled ticket window, Dick recalled the last time he stood in this station. Two and a half years ago, it was, the day after Jean had left for New York in search of a career.

"Just can't stand Marysville," she had told him. "You'll understand, Dick, won't you?"

He had forgotten as best he could. Nothing in Marysville for him then, either. There had been a quick decision, a closing of half-open doors, a tearful good-bye to his parents and then—off to the city. It was odd how a blow like that could give a fellow determination. Today, just 30 months later, he was coming back home with a career already carved out.

Old Pete looked up from his sheaf of train orders.

"Well, Richard!" he cried. "Glad to see you, boy, and a Merry Christmas! Your folks know you're comin'?"

"Merry Christmas to you, Pete!" Dick answered. It was nice, at that, to see a familiar face. "Mind if I use your phone? I caught an early train and Dad wasn't expecting me until tonight."

A few minutes later the old family car was carrying him home. His Dad looked older, and a mite wor-

"Heard from Jean, son?" he asked. "Something was on his mind. Heard from Jean, son?" he finally asked.

"No, Pop," he answered truthfully. The house loomed up ahead now. "Why do you ask?"

"Oh, just wonderin', son, that's all. Forget it. There's Mother wavin' at us up yonder!"

But Dick couldn't forget it. Marysville and Jean were like ham and eggs. He thought about her when he stopped at the drugstore that night—they used to drink sodas there.

Maybe Dick was looking for more of those memories next morning when he started out alone on skis for Murray's hill. They used to play there in the winter, he and Jean.

"Forget it, you imbecile!" he snapped at himself. "That's a closed chapter in your life!"

It was a couple of hours later that he saw her. Skiing down Murray's hill for the last time he rounded Horseshoe bend to find Jean directly in his path! There was a shriek, a thud, and then four feet sticking out of a snowdrift.

"Jean!" he cried, unstrapping his skis and running to help her. "Are you hurt?"

It was rather unromantic, perhaps, pulling her out feet first. But she laughed at him and fell down again, pulling him after her.

"You're going to get your face washed for that, Mr. Wright," she cried.

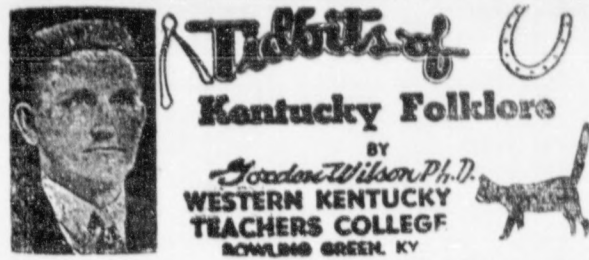

He came up sputtering to find her suddenly serious.

"Dick dear," she said, "I was wrong. Mother wrote that you'd be home for Christmas and—well, I had to come too. It's you and Marysville that I want, not New York. This morning when I saw you going past our house, I somehow knew that I should go with you. Not just today, Dick, but always!"

It was like ham and eggs, Dick thought, only the next day was Christmas—and, Christmas meant turkey!

Beginning of the New Year
Various dates were used in different countries, for the beginning of a year, but America followed the English custom of using the date of most early Christian countries—about the beginning of the ecclesiastical year. The Gregorian calendar, establishing January 1 as the beginning of the year, was adopted by England and her colonies in 1752.

THE BIG ROAD

A few days ago I inadvertently mentioned the "big road" and had to take a few minutes to explain to my students under twenty-one what that phrase used to mean to us who lived in the country. At least I went through the motion of explaining and succeeded satisfactorily so far as I was concerned, but I am still doubting whether more than one or two of the students caught on. You see, we oldsters and our younger friends rarely speak the same language. The big road was the main road in a community, even though it might look pretty small to drivers of cars today. The roads that led from it to the farmhouses were "little roads," I suppose, but no such term was used. The King's Highway sounds no larger in Great Britain than did "big road" to us.

Fortunately, I lived only a short distance from the big road that ran from Fidelity to Tennessee River. Our small boxed house stood on a hill overlooking the big road for a considerable stretch. Thus the passers-by could remain under our scrutiny for a period of minutes, long enough for us to decide who they were and, for my brother who liked horses, to identify their livestock. By sitting out in the yard in the summer under the old hickory tree and doing their sewing or canning or apple-peeling, the women folks could keep an eye on the road without seeming to be too curious about the doings of the rest of the world. Only a strange nag or vehicle would cause a complete stoppage of labor. The "little field," as we called the one between us and the road, rarely grew corn, which would have shut off some of the view of the road. Builders of houses in those times, without saying anything about it, undoubtedly had an eye on the big road in locating the houses.

Living on or near the big road conferred a certain kind of distinction that is hard to describe today. The exact reverse of this coveted condition was to live "back of somebody's field." When I was driving in Quebec Province a few years ago, I was struck with the nearness to the King's Highway of the French peasants' cottages. It actually seemed to me that the road often had to bend to keep from hitting them. The farms often extended back from the road for miles, with numerous places more desirable for houses than those used; but the road was the avenue of life and must be hugged close by the abodes of people who love their kind and who seem to have no liking for loneliness.

Some strange bits of injustice have been done by the state highway department, wholly unpremeditated. Many a house, in our desire for straighter roads and less dangerous curves, has been left off the main line. A family I used to know owned a big farm near the Mississippi but for some reason had, in the early days, built their house under a hill and far from the road. The mother of the family kept insisting for years that Jim build a new house up by the highway. Jim, in the days of his prosperity, finally yielded to his wife's plea and erected a really excellent modern dwelling right by the big road. Within five years the state highway department, in locating a new cement road, left the house a half-mile back across the fields. Jim, though still a prosperous farmer, is now too old to attempt a further effort to stay by the side of the road. He and his wife, by sitting on the front porch and straining their eyes, can see the cars whizz by, but all the details of who are driving them and the state they come from are lost. It is too bad that they could not have prophesied where modern traffic wishes to find its way.

USDA Announces Tobacco Loan Program

Rates To Average 85 Per Cent Of Parity, Burley Association To Handle Loans

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced that the Commodity Credit Corporation will make available a loan and purchase program for the 1941 tobacco crop at loan rates averaging 85 per cent of parity or approximately 20 cents per pound for Burley.

Loans on Burley tobacco will be handled by Tennessee Burley Tobacco Association, recently organized by the State Farm Bureau in cooperation with the marketing department of the U-T Agricultural Extension Service.

Under the plan farmers will offer their tobacco for sale in the usual way. It will be Federally graded and sold at auction. If the price paid is less than the loan advance on that particular grade, then the farmer can place his tobacco with the Association, receive a non-recourse loan on day of sale, with no membership fee being required, states W. P. Ridley, Sr., president of the Association.

This floor under the market will be available on all warehouses in the state cooperating with the association, with every farmer cooperating in the AAA's tobacco program eligible for full participation.

When selling their tobacco farmers should compare the price received for each basket with the loan advance available, and then take whichever is higher President Ridley advises.

TOO MANY JOKES MAKE FIRE CHIEF CARELESS

Fire Chief Manuel G. Riggs of Hayward, Cal., is so genial that when friends tell him his house, his automobile or his fire engine is on fire, he knows they are just joking and he gives a knowing wink.

But when an autoist persisted in following him for two blocks and telling him his car was on fire, he decided to get out and tell the man that "enough is enough." Instead, he blushed and hastily extinguished the smoking insulating wires that were just starting to blaze.

NO NEED TO SHOP FOR ARMY GIFT NO. 1

The press section at Fort Riley, Kan., conducted a poll to determine what soldiers wanted for this Christmas. The root of all evil won—hands down.

The preferences, in their order: Money, cigars, stamps, subscriptions to hometown newspaper, cookies and candy.

If you have a shirt in mind—make it a white one, they suggested. Stripes and polka dots are against regulations with the uniform—on or off duty.

PRIVATE RETURNS—A. W. O. L. 22 YEARS

Twenty-two years after he left Fort Pherson at Atlanta, Ga., with a 10-day leave, a private reported back in.

The sergeant of the guard took down the data.

"Left Camp May 19, 1919; 10-day pass. Reported back Dec. 2, 1941."

Officers withheld the private's name at his request, but it was learned he was a prosperous mechanic who "again wants to serve his country."

BAYBERRY CANDLES For Christmas

This young lady is not going to use her sprig of berries for decoration. She is doing what hundreds of housewives around the East coast line are doing during the Christmas season—preparing to make bayberry candles. The berries are boiled for their wax, which is purified and made into the candles that give off the distinctive aroma when burned.

Here you see a phase in the mass production of bayberry candles for the Yule season. Great bunches of wicks are dipped simultaneously until they are of desired thickness.

A Christmas Carol

By Henry W. Longfellow

I hear along our street
Pass the minstrel throngs;
Hark! They play so sweet,
On their Hautboys, Christmas songs!
Let us by the fire
Ever higher
Sing them till the night expire!
In December ring
Every day the chimes;
Loud the gleemen sing
In the streets their merry rhymes.
Let us by the fire
Ever higher
Sing them till the night expire!
Shepherds at the grange,
Where the Babe was born,
Sang with many a change
Christmas carols until morn.
Let us by the fire
Ever higher
Sing them till the night expire!
These good people sang
Songs devout and sweet;
While the rotters rang,
There they stood with freezing feet.
Let us by the fire
Ever higher
Sing them till the night expire!
Nuns in frigid cells
At this holy tide,
For want of something else,
Christmas songs at times have tried.
Let us by the fire
Ever higher
Sing them till the night expire!
Who by the fireside stands,
Stamps his feet and sines;
But he who blows his hands
Not so say a carol brings.
Let us by the fire
Ever higher
Sing them till the night expire!

Bethlehem Unchanged

In Twenty Centuries Bethlehem, "royal David's city," is still a city set on a hill. It is about six miles from Jerusalem. It is a city of flat-roof homes which look cozy enough, and its narrow streets have an air of friendliness. More Christians live in Bethlehem than in any other town in Palestine. On its hillsides you may still see shepherds with their flocks, while blinking overhead are the everlasting stars.

Play Safe With Good Seed, Obion Farmer Says

When you plant a crop, it pays to use best seed obtainable, Fenner Heathcock, extensive farm operator of Obion County, told those in attendance at the recent annual meeting of certified seed growers held in Nashville.

Mr. Heathcock explained that he produced Tennessee certified hybrid corn for use on his own farms and for sale. He also purchases certified oats, barley, and rye for planting because he has found that the value of increased yields more than offsets additional cost. This kind of seed does not scatter noxious weeds over his land and he can safely save his own planting seed for two or three years before buying certified seed again.

In producing a crop, every farmer has certain fixed costs regardless of yields. The use of the land, machinery, labor, fertilizer, etc., are about the same whether high yielding or low yielding seed is planted. The proportionate cost of good seed to the total cost of production is so small that one cannot afford to take a chance with seeds of unknown yielding ability.

Mr. Heathcock pointed out that some farmers thought good seed was just clean, bright seed that germinated well; however, he has found variety and adaptation to soils and climate the most important things to determine when buying seeds. Farmers were urged to plant only seeds of varieties recognized by the Certification Committee of the Tennessee Crop Improvement Association.

Christmas Customs Based on Tradition

Many of the Christmas customs familiar to Americans today had their origin far back in history. How several of our favorite customs were started many years ago is explained in the articles below.

Christmas Cards

Credit for the creation of the original Christmas card is given, by some, to Sir Henry Cole, who, in 1846, suggested the idea to J. C. Horsley of London. One thousand cards, printed by lithography and colored by hand, were published. It was in 1860 that the cards first became a major problem for delivery.

Santa Claus and St. Nick

Patron saint of children, merchants and mariners in Russia, Greece and Naples, Santa Claus can trace his origin to this spirit, St. Nicholas, in whose honor feast days have been held for centuries. A San Claus day was formerly observed by New York Dutch settlers and later combined with Christmas.

Christmas Gifts

The custom of exchanging gifts and enjoying merry times during the winter holidays springs from heathen antiquity. During gay celebrations the Romans gave gifts. This custom was continued during the approach of Christianity, but the heathen significance was dropped and the gifts became known as Christmas presents. On New Year's eve in France, children's presents, (terrennes) are distributed. England, Germany, Italy and the U. S. A. exchange their gifts at Christmas.

Wassail Bowls

For many centuries, good wishes have been expressed around the wassail ("Health to You") bowl. It was in medieval times that wassailing became a Christmas feature. During the time of Henry VII, a steward, entering the room with the wassail bowl, would cry three times, "Wassail." The monasteries called their punch bowl "poeculum caritatis."

Christmas Menu Features

Roast Turkey, Nutbread

Mothers throughout the country who are the "official" cooks of their households are again faced with the annual problem of selecting a Christmas menu. While something "special" is expected for dinner, the other two meals need not be elaborate.

Here is a menu for the day which will prove popular, but entails a minimum of work in the kitchen:

- BREAKFAST
Orange Juice Waffles
Grilled Sausage Cakes
Coffee Honey Milk
- CHRISTMAS DINNER
Clam and Tomato Juice Cocktail
Roast Turkey, Giblet Gravy
Celery Dressing
Mashed Potatoes
Buttered Green Beans
Calavo and Grapefruit Salad
Assorted Relishes
Cranberry Sauce Hot Rolls
Fruit Cake
Coffee Milk
- SUPPER
Nutbread Sandwiches
Mixed Vegetable Salad
Fruit Gelatin Dessert
Tea Milk
