B & PW Club Launches "Dollars For Scholars"

"Dollars for Scholars" is a project being sponsored by the Business & Professional Women's Club to help provide scholarships for students in the Fulton and South Fulton High Schools, who, without financial aid, would not be able to continue their educations. These scholarships will be awarded to students whose scholastic records place them in the upper half of the class.

Applications will be coded and judges will not know the names of any of the applicants. A dollar a year given by each citizen in the community will send a number of graduates on to higher education.

April 21-26 has been chosen as the week for a drive in the twin cities for this project. A house-to-house campaign will be made on Sunday, April 21. All persons contributing as much as $1.00 will receive membership cards. During the week various businesses and industries in the community will be called on by members of the Board of Directors of the Scholarship Foundation, soliciting contributions.

Mrs. Kellie Lowe, chairman of the project, urges everyone to contribute so that our deserving youth may be sent on to higher education.

well i see where Judge mouthy Bob Miller done come back to Fulton last week and laid another egg. This bein near Easter time, i guess its the time to lay eggs, but judge miller done laid so many eggs he orter take the place of the easter rabbit. the biggest egg he done laid so far was up in Looeyville when he told Adron Dorann he wanted to boot out Ralph Woods from murray state collidge and put Adron in last month. And then turn right around and tried to cover up by yappin down here about we oughtta keep schools out of pollyticks and Breathitt is not doin it. look whose talkin. What a egg to lay. aint that a joke.

now i think you orter tall mouthy bob one thing. He says we are millions of dollars in debt today and maybe we are but i don't reckon old slaphappy Chandler can do much about it. I do know that the teachers around here aint nearly as much in debt as they usedta be and they kinda like the idee of havin cash in hand instead of promises in the mouth. Untill the little Judge from the mountings come in as Governor they didn't get nothing but promises in the mouth. Nothin in the bank.

Now another thing i cant figure out about mouthy bob from Callaway county stickin up fer old Hap. Hap done twice kicked Callaway county in the teeth the last time he had a chanct and now old Bob is askin fer more, besides kickin the collige president a lick himmself. Im speakin of the times old Hap didnt help Frank Stubblefield when he run, and the time he made the Calloways mad as all git out when he laffed at W. Z. Carter when old WZ run fer that eddication office against Wendall Buttler.

Mizz editor you maybe a mite suprised how come I know all these facks but up here at Slapout they aint much to do fer us old folks but set around and watch ol Hap make a fool out of hisself. They ant no fool like a old fool. Uncle Si

Paducah Sun In Recognition Of Worthwhile Program of Twin Cities

By Henry Goodman, Sun - Democrat Staff Writer

"NOW Mr. Smith, what is the purpose of this ball game anyhow? Is it being played for your entertainment or does the Twin Cities Youth, Inc. program exist to further the development of character, manliness and physical fitness in your own son and his teammates?"

This angry-sounding episode—a fictitious one to be sure—might well take place at any time during the summer months at Fulton or South Fulton, Tenn., between a parent outraged by his son's failure to "knock the cover off the ball" and the team's manager. But such incidents rarely happen.

By now almost everyone thoroughly understands that the Twin Cities Youth, Inc. program of sports and recreational activities throughout the summer months exists solely for the participants and no one else.

Organized and chartered in 1962, the first year was a smashing success. It is reported that more than 500 Fulton young people participated, a figure far in excess of initial estimates.

Mainstays of the summer recreational program are softball for the girls and baseball for the boys. Each child in the community between the ages of eight and 17 can be placed on a team which is in a separate league established for youngsters his or her own age. Last year there were 30 teams in a total of six leagues.

Several more teams and perhaps two additional leagues—one for boys and one for girls—will be needed when the 1963 season opens June 3, officials say. While it is impossible to predict how many students will participate this year, Twin Cities officials expect a substantial increase over last year's 500.

The four boys' leagues are set up as follows: For eight and nine-year-olds there is the minor league. Ten, 11 and 12-year-olds boys play on Little League teams. The Pony League is next and it is manned by 13 and 14-year-olds. The Connie Mack League is for teenagers 15 through 17 years old. Girls' softball is organized into two leagues. There is the little girls' league for players eight through 12 years of age. For girls 12 through 17, there is the older girls' league.

Playing fields are located at the City Park and South Fulton Athletic Field. In order to provide the four needed diamonds, a minor league field was recently constructed at City Park. This addition provides a separate playing field for each league assigned to the park area.

Pony and Connie Mack League games are played on the athletic field at South Fulton High School. To Serve Wider Cross-Section

While baseball and softball have been the chief activities up to this point, efforts are being made to broaden the program in order to make it attractive and useful to a wider cross-section of Fulton youth.

For example, tennis has become popular with Twin City participants. This particular sport has required relatively little planning and coordination. Tennis seemed to grow along with the other scheduled activities.

Eventually such additional activities as swimming, a Little Theater group, square dancing and chess and checkers will become integral parts of the program.

Although nine of the 30 ball teams were outfitted with new uniforms last year, the total per participant cost for the entire summer schedule of events was only $4.60. This figure compares very favorably with the per person cost for similar programs in other cities and towns, officials said.

Actually such moderate operating costs are unusual. The nominal per person outlay was achieved through a combination of thrift and generosity. Participants are taught to care for their clothing and equipment properly so that maximum use will be achieved.

Donors are many in Fulton and the surrounding area, Twin Cities Youth, Inc., officials say. Participants in the baseball and softball leagues are requested to furnish their own shoes and gloves. To this point, however, no one has been turned away for lack of these items.

Merchants, businessmen and friends of the program have underwritten the purchase of these and other items of necessity when

The pictures illustrating the Fulton Twin Cities Youth, Inc. program and the "BYFY" talent show were taken March 29 at the talent show presented in the gymnasium of South Fulton High School.

participants could not secure them in other ways.

Structure Based On Corporate Form

The organizational structure of the program is based on the corporate form. This particular type of organization was adopted only after several years of effort to solve a number of thorny problems.

To begin with, before the present program came into being it became clear that the potential number of participants would expand to such a point that only a strong organization could support and coordinate it. The validity of this observation was proven in the very first year of operation.

Desire to perpetuate the program also bore heavily upon the selection of the corporate form. One of the difficult programs in youth activities programs is the matter of maintaining interest and uniformly high standards from year to year.

Founders came to believe that a

ENTHUSIASTIC TWIN CITY PARTICIPANTS — Fulton students between the ages of eight and 17 are excited about the Twin Cities Youth, Inc. program of athletic and recreational activities. Going into the second year of operation with improved playground facilities and a full-time park superintendent, officials predict that more than last year's 500 youngsters will take part in the program. Shown with the superintendent are students from both Fulton City and South Fulton high schools. The students are (back row) Jimmy Yates, David Brann, Duane McAlister and Clayburn Peebles. On the front row are Cheryl Underwood, Jerry Beadles and Judy Neeley.

Kentucky Educators, Meeting This Week-End Make No Pretense Of Wanting Present Taxes

The Kentucky Education Association is meeting this week-end in Louisville. There is no doubt that the forthcoming gubernatorial campaign in Kentucky will be discussed in public and private sessions. For the first time in the history of many Kentuckians leaders of education are marshaling their forces openly, and without fear, to elect candidates to office who will maintain and implement a tax structure that will keep the State moving toward the highest national average of excellence.

In many of the educational publications that cross our desk, the pattern is the same, as far as editorial policy is concerned. Teachers, and many school teachers, want no "secret plans" of financing school programs as part of a campaign platform. They want to know the truth, and they intend to get it.

This desire is made known clearly and to the point in a recent issue of the Kentucky School Journal. In case you think that the school people of Kentucky are giving only lip service to their wishes, read this hard-hitting forthright editorial.

An Incentive Stimulant

The 1964, eight-point, KEA Legislative Program, adopted by the 556-member Delegate Assembly in Louisville, January 5, 1963, reemphasizes the importance of a competent and dedicated teacher in every classroom. The request for a salary increase for teachers, and other benefits, is proper recognition of a basic and fundamental principal; that is, better teachers mean better schools.

If we really believe the well-established and often-quoted axiom, that the key to quality education is a competent teacher, then, the funds necessary to purchase these competent services in an open and competitive market must be made available.

The additional appropriations requested in the program actually are modest and realistic. The increase in salary allocations requested for teachers will not move Kentucky very far from the bottom of the list in average pay. The total additional amount requested represents only a four per cent increase in the part of the general fund dollar going to education under the present formula.

According to the most reliable projection estimates available, if the economy continues to advance at the present rate during the 1964-66 biennium, the increase in general fund receipts for the period will approximate $45 million. Our legislative program calls for an additional appropriation of $11.5 million for the first year of the biennium, and approximately $6 million additional for the second year.

The important point, however, is not whether or not our request for additional funds is in line, percentage wise, with the present formula, etc.; the fact remains that we must have additional funds to place a competent teacher in every classroom. Our society is obligated to provide something more than beautiful eulogies and reverent beatitudes for the noble efforts of teachers who guide the destinies of the precious lives entrusted to their care.

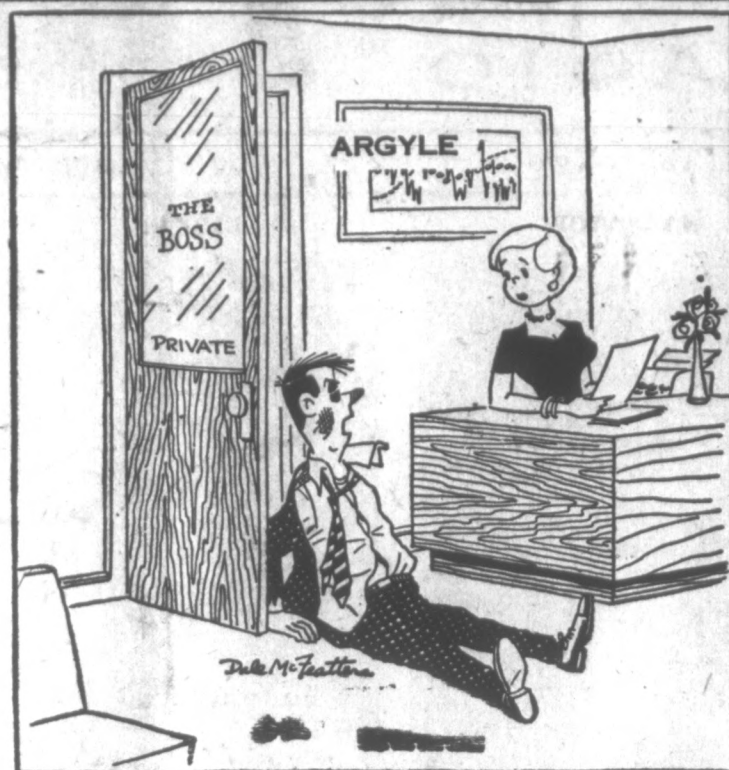

The importance of the role of the competent teacher, in providing quality education, cannot be over-emphasized. The additional pay requested for teachers will boost their morale, encourage them to render more effective services, and make teaching more attractive. They should welcome opportunities to participate in the promotion campaign, which will be directed from the educational district level, with the full cooperation of KEA officers and staff.

The plan for promoting the 1964 KEA Legislative Program will provide more opportunities than ever before for involving the total membership of a district in the campaign activities necessary to secure public support and candidates' pledges. The program must be properly interpreted and explained to the public; and informed teachers are the best and most effective campaigners because they have a contract in every home with school-age children.

Every member of the profession is obligated to become thoroughly familiar with the eight-point program, and to make sure that all of their school patrons and constituents understand it. Experience has taught us that if we give the public all of the facts, they will make wise decisions. It seems to be a human trait to be skeptical about those things which we do not understand fully. Therefore, we must make it our business to see that our proposed legislative program is properly understood by all candidates and the public.

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of the Civil War day by day in Kentucky, as reviewed by the Kentucky Civil War Commission

By JOE JORDAN

(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week Kentuckians were reading, many of them with a nay, Major Gen. Ambrose E. Burnside's "Order No. 38," which provided death penalties for a variety of offenses, some of which had not been crimes until Burnside issued the order. Collins' "History of Kentucky" called it a "savage and brutal code."

Among those for whom death sentences were decreed were "carriers of secret mails and writers of letters sent by secret mails," without discrimination as to the nature of the communications. Since thousands of Kentucky families had members serving in the Confederate States Army and letters to them could not be sent through the U. S. mails, those at home had been sending letters to the absent soldiers by entrusting them to persons who were going to Confederate territory and could post them for delivery by the Confederate States mail service. There were still many unguarded places where it was possible to go from Union into Confederate territory and vice versa. Now the possibility existed that the messenger might be captured, the letters seized, and the writers arrested and punished under Order No. 38.

The order also made it a capital offense to recruit soldiers for the Confederate Army, something which Confederate officers in uniform had been doing from time to time since the beginning of the war. Prior to the publishing of Order No. 38 those caught on such missions, if they were in uniform, had been treated as prisoners of war.

"Persons declaring sympathy for the enemy will be at once arrested with a view to being tried as traitors, and if convicted suffer death, or sent beyond our lines into the lines of their friends," the order said.

Gen. Burnside, whose mutton-chop side whiskers were to give him an enduring fame through the use of his name to designate patches of hair in front of the ears "burnsides" or "sideburns," had been made commander of the Union Army of the Ohio on March 25 and that made Kentucky a part of his military district. Within three weeks of assuming command he issued Order No. 38.

Burnside, a West Point graduate who had been appointed to the military academy from Indiana, after serving in the Mexican and Indian wars had resigned from the Regular Army in 1853 to manufacture firearms in Bristol, R. I., for he was the inventor of the "Burnside carbine," a breech-loading rifle. However, his Bristol Fire Arms Company had failed in 1860 and he had surrendered his patents to his creditors, who reorganized the firm as the Burnside Arms Company and during the war sold 55,567 carbines and almost 22,000,000 cartridges to the Union Army.

After the war, Burnside would be elected governor of Rhode Island three times and then serve in the U. S. Senate until his death in 1881. The Kentucky town, Burnside was named for him and also General Burnside Island, a state park.

Wives Dominate Sunday School

More housewives than any other occupational group are Sunday-school teachers in the Methodist Church, says a report to the denomination's board of education. It says housewives make up nearly 55 percent of the Methodist Sunday-school teachers, 28 percent of the teachers of youth, and 24 percent of the teachers of adult classes.

LITTLE WORDS

It was easily said-that unkind word
That fell from your lips at morn;
But you little thought as away it sped, It would tear some heart like a thorn.
You did not mean it-'twas thoughtless yes,
But it flew on its onward track,
And the prayers and the tears of all life's years
Can never bring it back.
It was easily said-that kindly word
That you spoke with a pleasant smile;
But it cheered a soul that was lone and sad
And it braved a heart for a trial.
The strongest monuments crumble and break
And into the dust decay:
But a kindly word will live on and on
Though the speaker has passed away.
Oh let us be careful of each small word we speak with but little thought
They will carry a message of love,
If we say the word that we ought;
And by and by, when our lips are mute
And our record of life is known,
The kindly words shall shine forth like stars,
From the good that you have sown.

Who will help you in the hour of sickness;
Who will lend you a dollar without deducting the interest;
Who will help you up hill when you are sliding down;
Who will defend you in the hour when others speak evil of you;
Who will believe in your innocence until you admit your guilt;
Who will say behind your back what he says to your face;
Who will shake hands with you wherever he meets you, even though you wear patches; and
Who will do all these things without expecting any return.

Diary of Doin's

(Items gathered along Fulton's merryway for your pleasure and your scrapbook)

Easter Sunday was one of those lovely, Spring days that you read about. Mother Nature cooperated with Dame Fashion and friends and relatives cooperated with each other in exchanging visits, greetings and happy returns of the day. Spring was bustin' out all over everywhere. More than any other time of the year Spring to us, has a connotation of coming alive again, of renewing and sharing friendships for another day, another year.

Nowhere was this feeling more prevalent than at the lovely Ernest Fall home on Third Street on Sunday. It was there that the spacious, hospitable rooms of that home were opened wide to have neighbors, many friends and relatives come in and share a very wonderful event with two of Fulton's most beloved and prominent people. The occasion was the fiftieth anniversary of Ellen and Joe Davis' wedding. Nowhere have we seen so many happy people, exchanging so many sincere greetings to this couple who have been leading citizens in the development of every phase of Fulton's family, social and civic life.

Ernest and Elva Fall and Charlotte and Robert Sanger were hosts and hostesses to "open house" Sunday afternoon honoring their mother and father. They might be called, for the record, the official hosts, but all around them were children, grandchildren, in-laws and great-grandchildren indulging in one all-consuming endeavor; that was to make this golden wedding day as happy and as memorable for Ellen and Joe Davis as any day could be forevermore. We might say, without fear of contradiction that the mission was accomplished.

For the occasion the Fall home was transposed into a greenhouse of friendship. In every direction, in every room, were breath-takingly beautiful flower arrangements, gifts from people who wanted to show Ellen and Joe, for real, "that every flower is a token of love". Yellow roses, yellow glads, yellow mums, yellow stock and yellow dutch iris, were almost everywhere, the color indicative of the golden milestone the couple had reached in their lives.

Ellen Davis was the former Ellen Kernachan of Sheffield, Alabama. She met young Joe Davis when she visited Fulton as a guest of her college room-mate Dulcie Murphy Alexander. Sara Morris Meacham was also her room-mate at Belmont College. It was on April 15, 1913 that Ellen Kernachan became Mrs. Joe Davis at a lovely home wedding at Bainbridge, the Kernachan family home. At the wedding was R. T. Kernachan, Ellen's brother, who was present on Sunday to reminisce of the happy event fifty years ago. Also here, for the anniversary was Mrs. S. G. Russell, Mr. Davis' sister from Oklahoma City.

Ellen Davis is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John S. Kernachan of Sheffield and Joe Davis is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Felix Davis of near Fulton. He has been active in business circles in and around Fulton all of his life. There's not enough ink or paper in the shop, we confess, to recount all the worthwhile endeavors both Ellen and Joe Davis have undertaken to make this community a better place in which to live. We might sum it up by saying they are good citizens. They have reared their children as good citizens. They have been the guiding influence in making their grandchildren good citizens, and more than that we cannot say, except to be redundant.

As we approached the Fall home on Sunday we could hear the laughter of good friends and relatives enjoying each other. In the dining-room "the bride's table" held as a centerpiece a handsome arrangement of yellow roses. Crystal candelabra flanked a huge tiered wedding cake. All around the table and assisting in serving the guests were friends and family making sure that the many friends who called got the kind of a reception found in truly hospitable homes.

Punch and cake were served the guests by Mrs. Charles Bowers of Savannah, Tenn., Miss Anne Fall of Lexington, Mrs. Maxwell McDade, Mrs. W. L. Holland, Mrs. Gilson Latta, Mrs. Ward Bushart, Mrs. Ward Johnson.

To make a perfect event more so, Dr. Joe Davis, Jr. and his lovely wife Marilyn and the children were here from Sacramento, California. Ellen had told us on an earlier occasion that the California Davises would be here in April, but she didn't tell us why. Now we know!

Dr. Joe and his wife entertained the Davis "clan" at a dinner at the Park Terrace Saturday night. There were about twenty guests at the party and the young Davises extended their gracious hospitality to include Mrs. Ernest Fall, Sr. and Mrs. Henry Sanger.

Sunday the senior Davises entertained at a luncheon at the Park Terrace. A friend told our diarist that it was the "sweetest sight you ever saw" to see that great big family, little ones and big ones, all having a perfectly wonderful time.

Out-of-town guests signing the register included—Rev. and Mrs. Loyal O. Hartman, Jr., Hickman, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hines, of Oxford, Miss., Mrs. Felix Bright, Nashville, Mr. and Mrs. James Walker Kerr of Union, Comdr. and Mrs. W. A. McMahan of Muskegon, Iowa, Mr. and Mrs. Fenner Heathcock, Union City, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Voorhees, Hickman, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Porter, Clinton, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Craddock, Clinton, Mrs. James Whipple, Hickman, R. ## Engagement of Miss Revell And Mr. Robert White, Jr. Announced

Miss Carley Sue Revell

Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Revell, of Louisville, Ky., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Carley Sue Revell, to Mr. Robert H. White, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. White, of Fulton, Kentucky.

Miss Revell attended Centre College and was graduated from the University of Kentucky, where she was a member of Chi Omega Sorority. She is a member of the Louisville Civic Ballet Company and teaches English at Durrett High School in Louisville.

Mr. White was graduated from the University of Kentucky, where he was president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity. He now attends Vanderbilt University School of Medicine and is a member of Phi Chi Medical Fraternity.

An August wedding is planned in the Broadway Baptist Church of Louisville, Kentucky.

City, Mrs. Henry Sanger, Hickman, Mrs. John Kizer of Milan, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hale, Hickman, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hale, Jr., Hickman and Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Hornsby, Hickman.

Another open house Sunday added even more happiness to the Easter Sunday parade of gatherings when Rev. and Mrs. John Platt received guests from three until five o'clock in the afternoon. Rev. Platt is pastor of the Trinity Episcopal Church here and the St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Hickman. Rev. Platt was ordained recently and the event served a dual purpose . . . to wish the family greetings for Easter and for the happy event in their lives. The Platts love Fulton and they never fail to show their appreciation for the cordial welcome that has been given them. Nor does Fulton fail to show them how happy we are to have them. The Platts have one son, John Clay, a sophomore at Fulton High School.

The Easter holidays provided good reasons for many of the homefolks to come back, even if for all too short visits. Jerry and Bill McMahon and their daughter Karen were here from Muscatine, Iowa. The McMahons visited with her sister Mrs. Ted Clark and other relatives and old time friends. Linnie (Mrs. Clark) said that the two and a half day McMahon visit was filled with visiting and visits. Jerry is the former Jerry Thompson, a Fulton native, so you know how much talk had to be crowded into that short span of time. We wish they could have delayed their visit until summer when Karen would be out of school and a longer stay would be possible. But Bill travels all over these United States and when he gets near enough to this neck of the woods, he manages to get in a short visit for his family. Everybody enjoys them. Their visits just aren't frequent enough.

Susan and Chuck Eves were home for Easter for a visit with her parents Ethel and Mac McDaniel and her sister Terry . . . the Robert Koelling family was here from Dallas to make the Clyde Williams, (junior and senior) families enjoy the holidays with greater happiness . . . the Hunter Whitesells were here from Frankfort . . . there were so many of the college students here for the brief vacation that it would sound like a "college bowl" to list them all . . . the Easter holidays were more eventful than ever for Susan Bushart whose parents made it known that she would marry RICHARD Cardwell come this August . . . everytime we think of that boo-boo we made in Susan's announcement we get cold chills, but the families appeared lismson, teachers. This was in observance of Teacher Appreciation Week.

Congratulations to Miss Rhea Looney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Looney of Denver, Colo., formerly of Fulton, on being named second alternate to "Miss Memphis" last week. Rhea is a sophomore at Memphis State and won the bathing suit, talent and personality contests.

corporate form of organization coupled with dynamic leadership would come nearer to solving this problem than anything else.

The expense of athletic programs is another reason for adoption of the corporate form. The Twin Cities program is financed through contributions and the sale of capital stock. For each $5 put into Twin Cities Youth, Inc., a share of stock is issued to the purchaser.

Officers and directors are Riley Allen, president; Randall Burckham, vice president; David Phelps, secretary-treasurer; and Charlie Pawlukiewicz, Louis Weaks, Elson McGuire, Paul Brand, L. M. McBride and Lonnie Harper, directors.

Officials are elected for one, two and three-year terms. Despite the complex details of organizational structure and financing the most important parts of Twin Cities Youth, Inc. are the young people of Fulton, Ky., and South Fulton, Tenn., and the activities in which they are encouraged to participate.

As president Riley Allen put it, "This program is for the kids." He went on to explain that while parents, friends and neighbors are always welcome and their encouragement and assistance badly needed, no one is permitted to interfere with the program nor the youngsters from the outside.

Competition is often keen between the teams and leagues and at times among individual players, Allen said, but it is competition generated by the sport and the players themselves, not by pressure from parents and friends.

When spectators begin to exert undue pressure on teams and individuals they are asked: "What is the purpose of this game and the entire youth program in Fulton? Is it to develop youngsters or merely to provide you with entertainment?"

Generally nothing more must be said. Not even coaches and team managers are permitted to over-pressure the teams to win. It is assumed that the best source of the desire to win is the players themselves.

With this approach in mind, Twin Cities ball players are taught from the beginning that it is their program and that each is responsible—more to himself than to anyone else—for maintaining the high standards already established and for improving them.

All Are Given A Chance To Play While every boy or girl is encouraged to play to the best of his or her ability, no one is forced to take a back seat because he isn't a natural athlete. To insure that everyone benefits from active participation, certain rules have been adopted.

The most important rule is that every member of a team who has attended the practice sessions regularly must be given an opportunity to play at least two innings in every game.

How are team members and managers selected? Probably by the most democratic method presently in use anywhere.

Team positions are filled before managers are assigned. During the period when team members are being assigned a great deal of effort is exerted to place some skilled and experienced players and some new or less adept ones on each team. Players are placed on the teams in a given league by a conference of all the managers in that league.

Since the managers have no way of knowing which team assignments they ultimately will get, there is no attempt to corner all the good players or to shy away from less skilled ones.

After the teams are made up, managers draw for their individual assignments. Each team's name is written on a small piece of paper which is put in a hat. In this way managers and players alike are often very surprised.

Among the advantages of this system of team and manager assignment are a wider circle of friends and acquaintances and more equally pitted teams which tends to intensify competition.

Organization Praised By Chief "With the approaches we have adopted," said Riley Allen, "we have had fewer misunderstandings with parents and others both in and out of the program than similar undertakings in other places."

Police and juvenile officers in Fulton indicated that the Twin Cities Youth, Inc. program during the summer vacation months can be credited with a marked decline in occurrences of juvenile violations of the law.

Fulton chief of police, Jean Smith, said, "We have the lowest juvenile crime rate of any town in Kentucky. Our kids don't get into trouble because they have too much to do. Most of the decline in juvenile violations can be credited to the fact that we have an organized and supervised athletics program during the summer months when school is out."

activities this summer are Charlie Thomas, principal of Carr Elementary School, and Jimmy Yates, a junior at Fulton High School. Thomas will be paid by the City of Fulton. Yates is employed by the corporation and will serve as assistant to Thomas.

What do the young people of Fulton think of the program of athletics? They think enough of it to exert a genuine effort not just to cooperate, but to earn money to further what has already been initiated in their behalf.

On the night of March 29 an estimated 157 students from Fulton and South Fulton High Schools as well as some elementary school

Philip Wayne Bennett, Fulton County
Student Nominated For NCTE Award

Phillip Wayne Bennett of Fulton County High School has been nominated for the annual Achievement Awards program, sponsored by the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE).

For the sixth year, the Council is conducting the Awards program throughout the nation to grant recognition to outstanding high school seniors for excellence in English. The writing abilities and literary awareness of each nominee will be judged by local and state committees. NCTE will announce the finalists at its annual Thanksgiving convention, and will send their names to every U. S. College and university with the recommendation that these students be considered for scholarship assistance.

Colleges and universities welcome the announcements of these superior students in English each year and honor the recognition extended to them. According to a survey just completed by the Achievement Awards program, 86 percent of the institutions polled take into consideration the award announcement when inviting, accepting, and recommending program finalists for scholarship aid. Reports of finalists from previous years show that 99 percent of them attend colleges of their choice and more than 70 percent of the total students honored receive scholarship aid averaging almost $1000 per year.

According to James R. Squire, executive secretary of NCTE, the Achievement Awards competition is part of a comprehensive program undertaken by American teachers of English from the primary to the graduate school to develop verbal competence. The Council through its periodicals, books, and committee reports seeks to contribute to a national educational program for improved instruction in English.

Phillip is also the recipient of another honor. He will attend the summer science institute for high school students, to be held at Murray State College June 17 through August 9. This is an accelerated course in physics, sponsored by the college under the National Defense Act and paid entirely by the Federal Government.

Phillip is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bennett, Route 1, Fulton, and a junior at Fulton County High School.

DETROIT NEWS

By Roy Maurer

The weather sure has been grand this Easter Week and all the girls from 6 to 66 were out in their new Easter clothes. And what an assortment of hats! They all looked good in any type hat they wore.

Our revival closed Saturday night. Rev. Jones, from Grace C. P. Church, was our preacher and those of you who did not hear him sure missed a wonderful service. Thursday night coffee and doughnuts were served in the Fellowship Hall after services, then we had a good song fest, which everybody enjoyed very much.

We still have a few sick folks. Joe Hutson is recovering very slowly after his second serious operation at Receiving Hospital. Ralph Kirby had another relapse and was rushed back to St. Josephs Hospital. James Garland, Charles Foster, J. B. Cunningham and Paul Drake are all back on the recovered list and back at work.

Our sympathy goes to Mrs. Ollie Minton in the sudden death of her husband, Kermit, who died April 1. The services here in Detroit were conducted by Rev. Donald Nunn and the body was shipped to Mayfield, Ky., for burial.

Mrs. Essie Turner is spending a few days with her sister in Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Miss Garet Hill is spending a week in New York City with her brother and will tell us all about it when she returns.

Mr. and Mrs. James Williams spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hays.

The two preachers and their wives had dinner Thursday at Roy and Lucille Maurer's home. As usual, Roy prepared one of his famous dinners, which was enjoyed by all.

Grace C. P. Church in Lincoln Park is building additional rooms and hopes to have them completed before their revival starts in the near future.

Come to church Sunday. There is no better way to start the week than by a visit to the Lord's house. Call me at 8393074.

Fulton County Agent's News

BY JOHN WATTS

SHRUBS

"Many ornamentals generally considered winter hardy in this area have been killed back to ground level by the hard winter. Such ornamentals include bush honeysuckle, privet hedge, abelia, crepe myrtle and other less tender plants in this category. They should be pruned back NOW to about 6 inches above the ground level. Roots of these plants are still alive and such plants will recover. If cutting back is omitted—as in bush (hedge) honeysuckle or privet—growth this spring will be very spotty and irregular. Only a few shoots will come out and hedges will have a spotty, ragged look this year."

ON MOWING THE LAWN

Cut the grass at least an inch and half high until June. After

June 1, raise the mower to cut 2 or 2 1-2 inches high. This makes it better for the bluegrass and worse for the crabgrass.

CHESTNUT GLADE By Mrs. Harvey Vaughn

The Cancer Crusade is expected to be conducted in Weakley County during the next two weeks. It has been planned for each home in the county to be visited by a volunteer worker and it is hoped that generous contributions will be made to this most worthy cause to combat the dreaded killer who has no regard for age in making its fearful attack. Most encouraging are the reports of those who are well aware that they are alive due to contributions which have been made in recent years. Very sad are the reports that we receive almost daily of those who have not received aid in time.

A general rain would be most welcome in this area, as some of the early plantings, including plant beds, are having to be watered. The small acreage of strawberries in this community seems to be looking right encouraging at this time, with expectations for ripe berries by May 1.

Mrs. Wilbur Jackson and Angie have returned to Lansing, Michigan, after a ten days visit with her daughter, Mrs. Johnnie Lee Simpson, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Foiles and sons, Alan and Gary, from Parsons, Kansas, spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. Opal Pounds.

Roy Nix is a patient at the Jones Hospital. It is hoped he is improving.

Mrs. Mary Terrell seems to be about the same.

Mrs. Wilmer Jones, from Mt. Vernon, Illinois, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Durrell Terrell.

YOUTH INCORPORATED

Students presented a "BYFY" talent show in South Fulton gymnasium. The letters BYFY means "By the Youth—For the Youth."

A total of 25 numbers was presented in the talent show.

All earnings from the sale of tickets to the talent show went to Twin Cities Youth, Inc. It will be used to support the heavy schedule of activities planned for this summer.

One interesting point to be made is that all of the students who performed in the talent show voluntarily purchased tickets at the door before going back stage to dress for their acts.

This included Mrs. Nelson Tripp who, as a music teacher, helped in the preparation of most of the musical numbers and generally coordinated and directed the entire program.

In February a series of basketball games between Fulton and South Fulton 7th and 8th grades was staged. Proceeds from these games also went to the Twin Cities program.

There is no question that Twin Cities Youth, Inc., will be heard from in the future. While none of the teams compete in district or state tournaments, it is likely that this municipal youth program will become a model for other cities to emulate.

'PETE AND REPETE'—Singing and playing their own accompaniment seems to come as easy to these two little girls from Fulton as walking. They are Benita Burrow (left) and Carmen Gardner. They call themselves, appropriately, Pete and Repete.

TALENT SHOW HIT—Fay Harwood brought down the house when she sang "Love Makes the World go Round" at the BYFY talent show. A popular Fulton student, Fay is active in the Twin Cities youth program.

Bruner Outlines TEPS Functions To Local Groups

Mrs. Lanette Allen, president, was in charge of the meeting of the Fulton City Teachers' Association, which was held in the Science Room on April 4.

Dr. E. F. Bruner, of Murray State College, acting chairman for the Teacher Educational and Professional Standards Commission, was the guest speaker, discussing the main functions of the T. E. P. S. Commission.

At the conclusion of his talk, he introduced Miss Pam Leiper, president of the Future Teachers' Association at Murray State College and recently elected vice-president of the State organization. Miss Leiper stressed the importance of Future Teachers' clubs in high schools.

Luxury Hotel At Benton Now Appears Likely

Conserving engineers were in Benton Tuesday to determine if a proposed convention-resort hotel on Kentucky Lake is worth a feasibility survey.

Ira Van Tuyl, an Evansville, Ind., oil producer and financier, declined to give the size of the planned hotel or estimate its cost. Reports have been that it would have 600 rooms and cost about $10 million.

Van Tuyl said he was the only one directly connected with the plan now but that other private capital would be brought into the project if the engineers — Theodore Mariani & Associates of Washington — gave the go-ahead.

"Our intentions are good and we're enthusiastic about this project," Van Tuyl said at Evansville Saturday, "but that's all there is now. We do know there is a great business potential in the Kentucky Lake-area and if we don't build this hotel someone else will."

The hotel would be located on a 100-acre tract Van Tuyl said he bought for $180,000 from an Indiana concern. He said the land formerly was owned by the estate of the late U. S. Senator and Vice President Alben W. Barkley of Paducah.

ARA Approves Loan For Benton To Make Clay Processing Survey

The Area Redevelopment Administration of the U. S. Department of Commerce has approved a technical assistance study to determine the feasibility of establishing an absorbent and bleaching clay processing plant near Benton, Kentucky, it was announced today by ARA Administrator William L. Batt, Jr.

A favorable report on the technical project could lead to the creation of new jobs in a plant processing firm that it will repay the cost of the study if it establishes a plant as a result of the study.

The complete project will include drillings, laboratory evaluation of the natural clays, and a detailed survey of present markets. The research study will also investigate potential new uses for the clay. The Bureau of Mines of the U. S. Department of the Interior and the Small Business Administration both reviewed the project proposal and made recommendations to ARA which led to final approval.

Benton is a part of the Paducah redevelopment area, which was designated under the Area Redevelopment program because of substantial and persistent unemployment.

NEWSPAPER STRIKES BARRED IN SWEDEN

Strikes directly affecting the publishing of newspapers in Sweden have been barred since 1957 by an agreement between employers and unions. The peace pact provides for a special arbitration court in case the parties should be unable to agree on wages and other conditions and even mediation should fail.

Don't Circle Your Do's

Using a circle to dot an "i" is a sign of snobbishness, Charles F. Martin of Springfield, Ill., told a meeting of the Oklahoma Chapter of Graphoanalysis here.

And Martin said the capital I is one of the best clues to personality, with a slope indicating a frightened child and a single upright stroke demonstrating strong character.
