Cub Scouts Visit Buried City and Columbus Park

Benton Cub Scout Pack 49 visited the Ancient Buried City at Wickliffe last weekend as a part of its observance of "My Home State" month. It was a cold, wet and snowy day, but no one suffered except the adults.

Most interest was shown, I believe, in the rock museum, where ray lights create many pretty colors for the rocks. The lights, in fact, even change the color of lipstick, white shirts, and glasses.

The Cubs just about bought all the souvenir shop's hatchets, chains, banners, and peace pipes. David Gunn filled his pipe with tobacco, and urged his Cubs to smoke the peace pipe with him. After visiting the buried city, they headed back toward Benton.

Calvert City Cub Scout Pack 65 will meet Monday evening, March 28, at 7 at First Presbyterian Church.

Famed Old Opera House At Paris, Ky., May Be 'Born Again'

Frankfort — The Paris, Ky., Opera House, where in its heyday some of the world's most noted actors trod the boards, has reached its three score and ten years and has echoed to the blows of the auctioneer's hammer. But the proud old structure may be renovated so that it can continue its theatrical career, since the Paris Lions Club is considering buying it for that purpose.

The Opera House's opening night presentation was "Rip Van Winkle" in 1890, starring famed Joseph Jefferson, who made "If I hadn't a seed ya, I wouldn't a knowed ya!" a standard Paris wisecrack. From then until the advent of the movies, this theater billed some of the best shows and performers on the circuit, for Paris was "a good show town."

If the old structure could recall its past, its reminiscences would include the gas-lit era of top hat and opera glasses, four-day "od-vil" acts, the can-can and the bunny hop and the San Carlo Opera Co.

In those days, going to the theater was a social event and patrons dressed in full evening wear. As they arrived in splendid carriages, the atmosphere was like that at opera time in Vienna or Milan.

Musical favorites like the "Isles of Spice," "Student Prince," operas such as "Carmen" and "Il Travatore," melodramas and chiller like "East Lynne" and "Hound of the Baskervilles," and extravaganzas like Gilbert and Sullivan operettas were presented. Well-known artists thrilled local audiences, players such as Maude Adams, Al Jolson, Marie Dressler, Will Rogers, Chauncey Olcott, the celebrated Irish tenor, Nora Baye and Jack Norworth, Ted Lewis, John Phillip Sousa and his majestic band.

Kentucky Farm Income Rises Five Percent

Frankfort—Cash receipts from farm marketings in Kentucky rose 5 percent last year, from $547,844,000 to $575,403,000.

In reporting the cash hike, Frank Lebus, Jr., of the Kentucky Department of Economic Development, stressed the role that diversified production and growth of Kentucky - situated agricultural product processing plants are playing in improving the state's farm economy.

"It is becoming increasingly apparent," Lebus said, "that Kentucky farmers are moving in the direction of a better balance between production of crops on one hand and livestock and their products on the other."

Lebus, director of the agency's Agricultural Development Division, observed that in 1959 cash receipts from livestock and products totaled $232,094,000, or 42 percent of all farm marketings, while crops brought in $293,309,000, or 51 percent, for a differential of only 2 percent.

"In 1955," he said, "the Kentucky ratio was 44 percent from livestock and 56 percent from crops, a 12 percent spread."

While cash receipts from farm marketings were up 5 percent in Kentucky last year, they advanced only 1.2 percent in the 8-state South Central Region and dropped 2.3 percent for the nation as a whole, Lebus pointed out.

He observed that crops brought in 13 percent more money than livestock and products in the southeastern states last year, but nationally the livestock categories led, accounting for 12 percent more cash than crops.

"The trend in Kentucky is now toward beneficial diversification and away from traditional dependence on such items as tobacco, corn and livestock for principal cash returns, Lebus asserted.

He said that growth of agricultural product processing plants in Kentucky in recent years has stimulated and expanded production of broilers and other poultry items, dairy cattle, truck crops, and timber products by providing additional new markets for farm commodities close to producing areas.

According to Department of Economic Development records there are now 1,652 manufacturing plants in Kentucky which process agricultural products. Lebus listed the types and numbers of such plants as: food processors, 550; tobacco manufacturers, 43; lumber, wood and related industries, 1,032; and leather, 27.

Additional stimulation of the Kentucky farm economy has resulted from presence in the state of other important marketing outlets. Among these, Lebus noted, are 219 tobacco warehouses, 64 local livestock markets, 18 livestock auction markets, and one terminal livestock market.

Goebel Lamb of Route 3 was a business visitor in Benton Saturday.

Teacher Appreciation

A Tribute To Our Teachers

Of the Past, Present and Future
No Finer Group Could Be Found

After all the fine things that our comments with respect to Teachers pause and pay tribute to their deserving through their teachings, so far and success of our children in the years to come.

Let us go back in our memories those golden days, which we now treasure as our lives — let us think of their patience and kindness, their scientific teachings that have solved our problems.

To those who have departed from our memories — to those who have disappointed them on a job well done, they have a key to glory in our successes.

The directors, officers, and members of the Benton City and County schools for the past year realize the tremendous responsibility upon you, in the education of our young people, the characters of our young people, fortunate to have such able talent — one — we know — we were all of them.

May we take this opportunity to charge of the many other schools have given us — we have rendered over the years, and want you to know give you a convenient and efficient pleasure, to a continuance of the we have had with you in the past.

Teacher Appreciation Week March 20-26

A Tribute To
Our Teachers

Of the Past, Present and Future.
No Finer Group Could Be Commended

After all the fine things that have been said, we wish to add our comments with respect to Teacher Appreciation Week . . . Let us pause and pay tribute to these fine characters, who are rendering through their teachings, so vital a contribution to the welfare and success of our children — our young men and women in the years to come.

Let us go back in our memories to our own school days — those golden days, which we now realize were some of the finest days of our lives — let us think of our teachers, bless them, of their patience and kindness, their interest in us and their conscientious teachings that have so ably prepared us to face life's problems.

To those who have departed this life, let us always cherish them in our memories — to those who have retired, let us congratulate them on a job well done — let us not forget them nor disappoint them, they have a keen interest in our progress, they glory in our successes.

The directors, officers, and employees of this institution, join in congratulations to you the officials and teachers of our City and County schools for the splendid work you are doing — we realize the tremendous responsibility that has been placed upon you, in the education of, and the vital part you play in molding the characters of our young people — our community is most fortunate to have such able talent in command — your job is a big one — we know — we were all once pupils ourselves.

May we take this opportunity to thank you, and those in charge of the many other school activities, for the business you have given us — we have rendered you many various services over the years, and want you to know that we pledge ourselves to give you a convenient and efficient service, and look forward with pleasure, to a continuance of the friendly and pleasant relations we have had with you in the past.

South Benton News

Well, I've looked at snow so long that I can hardly see good, but it certainly is a pretty sight.

The snow reminded me of one that fell Feb. 26, 1902. The snow was a big one, and the next night it rained and sleeted and turned real cold. Ice was almost a foot thick.

We didn't have ice skates on those days, but we skated on our shoe soles anyway.

The ice storm broke the trees all to pieces on our place.

I remember another big snow on Nov. 7, 1918. We had just moved into a new house. M. U. saw a man passing with a wagon load of pole wood, and he went out and bought it.

That night, a 16-inch snow fell. Drifts in some places were as high as my head. M. U. sawed up the poles and we burned them in our big fireplace.

We had a pretty tough time of it, but we were happy and didn't mind the hardships.

Rev. Johnson Easley of the Kirksey circuit delivered an inspiring sermon at Church Grove last Sunday night. Mrs. Easley came with him.

Mrs. Artelle Halton and daughter Ladonna, have been on the sick list, but are improved.

Little Miss Cindy Elkins of Parkview Heights has been sick of the measles.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Hamalton, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tom Halton and Stevie have returned from Texas, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Holley.

Hardin Halton has been on the sick list for a couple of weeks.

A large crowd attended prayer meeting Wednesday night at Church Grove. Mrs. Edgar Wallace conducted the services. Everyone said she did a wonderful job. I was sick and didn't get to go.

Sorry to learn of Mrs. Lucy Baker falling and breaking a hip. Get well wishes to you, Lucy.

Easter Seal Drive Begins Here; Closes On Easter Sunday

The 1960 Easter Seal Campaign will begin Monday, and will continue through Easter Sunday, April 17. Hatler Morgan is chairman of the Seal Drive in Marshall County.

Contributions to the annual appeal by the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children helps provide a varied program of care and treatment for children crippled by many causes.

This year, approximately 500,000 letters containing seals were mailed to residents in all of Kentucky's 120 counties. In addition to the mail appeal, volunteer workers throughout the state plan to hold special events to raise funds for support of the society's program.

Bearing the inscription "Easter Seals Help Crippled Children," the 1960 seals picture a boy and girl in leg braces and crutches, bright-eyed and cheerful despite their affliction.

The children on the seals are typical of the hundreds of handicapped youngsters who have received help at the Kentucky Society's six Easter Seal facilities during the past year, according to C. H. Edwards, state Easter Seal chairman.

Last year the society provided care and treatment for 3,662 children physically handicapped by accidents, birth defects or disease.

MACHINE PROVES CHIROPRACTIC PRINCIPLE OF HEALING

The electroencephalogram measures and graphs brain-waves or nerve current patterns. It was the first instrument of its kind capable of picking up multiple nerve currents at the same time. For over 20 years this ingenious, highly sensitive $100,000.00 mechanism has been in constant use in conducting chiropractic research.

Used to parallel the progress of the patient, it records positive evidence that abnormal chemical reactions and pathological

This was two years ago. Last week he was still working and feeling fine. Nature works wonders when she is not short circuited! We gave her a chance to work!

While our critics go about saying it can't be done, we have already done it. Results speak for themselves.

For your health and happiness sake, investigate. Your own successful case may some day appear in this column.

Crossbred Cows Are Two-Way Winners

A crossbred dairy heifer is likely to make more money for her owner than a purebred half-sister with a pedigree as long as your arm. They grow faster as calves and they produce more milk as mature cows.

Crossbreds in the University of Illinois dairy herd averaged 11.6% more butterfat and 2.4% more milk in their first year of milking than similar purebred cows. R. W. Touchberry, University of Illinois, scientist who conducted the experiment, declares, "The big increase in production may be because the crossbreds grow faster and are more fully developed at two years of age when they begin to produce. When you keep in mind that about 50% of all producing cows are either in the first or second lactation, early calving and production becomes very important."

Crossbred calves almost consistently gained faster during the first three years of their lives than their purebred half-sisters, according to a Massey-Ferguson research report. But by the time the cows were five years old the weight difference practically disappeared.

There are several advantages to faster growth. First, more rapidly growing animals usually need less feed to reach maturity. And, secondly, bull calves and cull heifers can be shipped to market sooner.

"Crossbreeding probably isn't for the top 10 to 20% of the purebred cattle breeders," says Touchberry. But it has advantages for some commercial producers. It is not a cure all and certainly isn't a substitute for proper feeding, sanitation and overall good management.

Medical reports show how folks over 35 can establish regularity

After 35, irregularity often becomes a problem. What you need is something that aids nature and helps establish regularity. Such an aid to regularity is the daily use of SERUTAN. Measured against Conshohocken, Pa., Pleasant Prairie, Kan., Kokomo, Ind., or any other of a thousand hometowns, New York isn't America. It's just about everything but!

Its ethnic conglomerate, its high rewards for the best brains and talent from all the continents, its seat of the United Nations, make New York a world city — the world's capital, really, of money and materialism. As one of many consequences, there are the ever increasing, ever higher soaring skyscrapers which are making of New York's principal borough of Manhattan one vast office-building complex.

Fifth and Park Avenues, for generations symbols of elegance and fashion, are becoming canyons of slab-sided glass and metal structures, 40, 50, 60 stories high; the old brownstone mansions vanish. It's biggest at its biggest: bedazzling, expensive — New York.

The evidence accumulates that the average American, however, is becoming less dazzled by bigness. The continuing success, for instance, of the smaller, unadorned but trim and economical Lark by Studebaker is proving this among the motoring public in every hometown in our land.

With all its glances and glitter, its sophistication and its showiness, New York is a city that every American should see at least once. It is exciting and stimulating, a continuous World's Fair. It is, as many an out-of-towner has observed, "a wonderful place to visit — but I wouldn't live there if you gave it to me!"

Aging Process Baffles Medical Science

Why do we grow old?
 No one really knows. The aging process is still a mystery to medical science. Adding to the puzzle is the fact that each of us ages at a different rate. Many factors, including heredity, are involved.

Dr. G. Halsey Hunt, of the National Institutes of Health, recently said in a conference on aging at Duke University: "There isn't much we can do about the underlying biological process until we learn a great deal more about it... We want to do everything possible to ameliorate the unpleasant factors of old age and to give elderly people the ability to perform at maximum power."

With our population of persons 65 years and over now at about 16,000,000, it is no wonder that many physicians are increasingly concerned with the problems of geriatric medicine.

Some of these problems can be helped with drugs, some cannot.
 Usually the general well-being of an older person determines his happiness. An "interest in life" is considered a valuable asset in coping with old age.

Degenerative conditions, such as cardiovascular diseases, are quite common among older people. Our bodies contain about 60,000 miles of arteries and veins, through which flows blood, the "river of life." Keeping the blood pipelines clear and flexible is a major medical problem.

For hundreds of years physicians have recognized the therapeutic value of moderate amounts of alcoholic beverage, especially when taken in a generally pleasing form such as cognac brandy. Science now believes that in addition to stimulating appetite, cognac serves to dilate the vascular system, which helps keep the blood vessels flexible. Many physicians also recommend this brandy in moderate amounts for older people suffering from hypertension, since it reduces tension and has a general tranquiling effect.

In the International Record of Medicine, Dr. Harold H. Left wrote:
 "In our treatment of various cardiovascular and circulatory ailments at this health center, we have had an opportunity to study the effects of cognac brandy on these ailments. In moderate quantities these spirits primarily stimulate and then relax the patient.
 Moreover, these spirits are 'salutary' and have a tendency physiologically to promote diuresis. In cases where appetite is poor, they improve the eating habits of the patients."

While many medical authorities recognize the beneficial therapeutic effects to be obtained from sensible use of cognac, they do not recommend its use in an indiscriminate manner. The best procedure is to consult your physician. Chances are he will permit moderate amounts of the brandy for medicinal purposes, if it is indicated.
