Graduates Urged To 'Learn A Living'

Summer graduates of Murray State University were urged to become truly educated individuals who "take seriously the obligation of learning a living" during commencement exercises here Friday.

Dr. Constantine W. Curris, university president, borrowed the "learning a living" phrase from a commencement address once delivered by the late Adlai Stevenson. He quoted Stevenson directly:

"We must no longer think of earning a living so much as learning a living, seeing our lives as chances not only to gain our daily bread and secure our physical survival, but as values of soul making."

Reiterating that basic theme to the class of 533 graduates, Curris challenged them to learn a living and to assist others in learning how to live in days ahead.

He told them that they are now or will soon confront the reality of both earning a living and learning a living. Then he expressed the hope that their educational experiences have made them "more capable, more sensitive, and more caring people who have learned to live with yourselves and others, and who have an understanding of how life gains meaning and purpose."

Curris invited the capped and gowned listeners to challenge themselves to stretch human minds, to kindle human hearts, and to instill in themselves and others the basic human values of honesty, integrity, appreciation, generosity, care and reverence.

"Touch the lives of other people, and in the process search for nobility in their character and strive for it (nobility) in yourself," he advised.

Curris was substituting for the originally scheduled commencement speaker, Miss Rubie Smith, who was unable to be on the program. Miss Smith retired from her post as chairman of the Department of Elementary Education in 1974 after 35 years on the faculty. She became the first and only woman to receive an honorary doctorate from the university that same year.

Cathy Brooks of Grover, Mo., and Jerry Mac Burkeen of Almo Route 1 were recognized as the top graduating seniors. She was awarded the B. A. degree in Spanish with a 3.96 of a possible 4.00 academic standing, and he was graduated with the B. S. degree in accounting with a 3.95 grade point average. They were the only summa cum laude honor graduates.

Six seniors were graduated magna cum laude (standings of 3.6 to 3.79) and 28 earned cum laude (standings of 3.3 to 3.59) honors.

The class included 183 bachelor's, 330 master's, 11 specialist in college teaching, and nine associate degree graduates.

Others who participated in the commencement program included the Rev. Charles L. Yancy, pastor of the Kirksey United Methodist Church, who gave the invocation and benediction, organist John C. Winter, professor of music, who played the processional and recessional, and Henry C. Bannon, associate professor of music, tenor soloist.

Dedication Of Sparks Hall Held On MSU Campus Friday

Dr. Harry M. Sparks, who served for six years as the fifth president of Murray State University, was called the "right man for his time" Friday as the university's Administration Building was officially named Sparks Hall in his honor.

Speaking at an outdoor ceremony on the lawn between the building and "Oakhurst," the president's home, Dr. Constantine W. Curris, who succeeded Sparks as president on Sept. 15, 1973, said:

"Dr. Sparks served the University during some of the most trying days in its history, and that service was rendered with dignity and with considerable progress at a time when many institutions stood still or slipped."

"He nurtured the development of Murray State from a college to a university — a development that required extraordinarily hard work and outstanding leadership, and in the process he gave that extra warmth and special humor that sustains us all through trials and adversity."

Dr. S. M. Matarazzo, a professor in the department of professional studies, in noting Sparks' leadership during the late 1960's and the early 1970's when student unrest and campus turmoil were commonplace across the country, said:

"He was publicly cursed, maligned, abused and threatened by students. Yet, he courageously and courteously listened, smiled, counseled and always was in control of every facet of the crisis."

More than 200 special guests were on the campus for the dedication activities, which also included a luncheon presided over by J. Matt Sparkman, who served as vice president for student affairs during the Sparks administration and who is now retired.

Also participating in the luncheon program were Robert Sparks, Lexington, a brother of Dr. Sparks; Harry M. Sparks, Jr., Frankfort a son, and Jack Gardner, Murray, a friend and associate of more than 50 years.

During his humorous remarks, Robert Sparks related at the luncheon how the former Murray president as a boy once hid his fish hooks in the cows' feed bin at the barn.

"By the time he came back for them, the cows had been fed," he said, "and Harry spent the next week out in the pasture looking for his fish hooks. Up until then, he had a habit of sucking his thumb, but after that he never did it again."

Dr. Charles E. Howard, Mayfield, chairman of the university's board of regents, presided at the dedication ceremony, and called Sparks "warmth and his ability and eagerness to communicate with others" virtues which "served him well during some of the university's most difficult and trying times."

Darryl Callahan, a student representative on the board of regents during the Sparks administration and now an attorney in Lexington, participated in the unveiling of a plaque which will hang in the lobby of Sparks Hall, and Matarazzo presented Dr. and Mrs. Sparks with an engraved plaque and a color picture of the building for their home on Kentucky Lake as mementos of the occasion.

Occupied in November, 1967, Sparks Hall became the university's administrative headquarters, replacing the structure known today on the campus as Wrather Hall, which had housed the offices of the president, the registrar and other administrative officials since 1924.

The six-story Sparks Hall was constructed by the Hal Perry Construction Co. of Benton at a cost of $1,308,514 and was financed by a $981,000 federal loan and the sale of university bonds.

The building, with 39,000 square feet of interior floor space, today houses the offices of the president and three of the university's vice-presidents and their staffs.

During Sparks' administration as Murray's president, seven major construction projects, costing more than $17,700,000 were completed. These included: Faculty Hall, an eight-story classroom building; Regents Hall, a 10-story resident hall for women; the 11-story Price Doyle fine Arts Center; an addition to the University Laboratory School; the Hancock Biological Station on Kentucky Lake; and Roy Stewart Stadium, an athletic-academic complex.

Three vice-presidents also were appointed, a new College of Fine Arts was established and four departments — sociology, anthropology, political science, journalism and Germanic languages — were started during his administration.

BUILDING DEDICATED — The administration building on the Murray State University was formally dedicated as Harry M. Sparks Hall in ceremonies on the campus Friday. The building is named in honor of Dr. Harry M. Sparks, fifth president of Murray State University. Dr. and Mrs. Sparks stand beside a plaque to be placed at the building with Sparks Hall in the background.

Joint Committee Holds Fate Of Far-Reaching Tax Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate-House conference committee holds the fate of a far-reaching bill that extends tax cuts for individuals and provides a variety of tax breaks for some of the nation's largest businesses.

The bill was passed 49 to 22 by the Senate on Friday night, nearly eight months after the House approved its own sharply different measure.

Sometime the week of Aug. 23, leaders of the Senate Finance Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee will start the tedious process of trying to reconcile differences between the two bills.

But one thing seems certain: The average taxpayer will face no increase in federal income taxes, at least until January 1978.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., who will head the House conferees, indicated Friday that he favors the general approach taken by the Senate on individual taxes, which was to freeze them at current levels through Dec. 31, 1977. The House bill would extend current tax cuts, originally enacted last year, only through the end of this year.

The individual tax cuts now in effect are worth about $180 a year to a typical family of four with an income of $15,000.

Extension of the individual tax cuts, along with across-the-board tax reductions that were voted for businesses last year, represents the major part of the 2,000-page bill voted by the Senate.

But the measure contains an estimated 300 other provisions.

There are special tax breaks for parents of college students, for housewives, the elderly and working parents, and a complete rewriting of the estate tax law.

There are across-the-board tax breaks for businesses, especially for oil companies, life-insurance companies, airlines, railroads and shipbuilders.

While the Senate bill is considerably more generous to investors and businessmen than is the House version, it still attempts to shut off some tax-shelter abuses and to ensure that all high-income investors pay some taxes.

The Senate bill seeks to offer specific tax relief to the parents of college students, by allowing them to take a special tax credit; to homeowners, by letting them deduct the cost of energy-related home improvements; to working parents, by simplifying and liberalizing tax benefits to offset costs of child care, and to homemakers.

State Real Estate Commission To Meet

Murray State University will be the site for a regular monthly meeting of the Kentucky Real Estate Commission on Thursday, Aug. 19.

Scheduled at 2 p. m. in the auditorium of the Special Education Building, the fact-finding session is intended to give the five-member commission and its staff an opportunity to discuss specific problems pertaining to real estate license law with both licensees and the general public.

Russell Spurlock, assistant professor in the Department of Accounting, Finance and Real Estate, said the meeting will be the second in recent years to be conducted away from the commission offices in Jefferson County. The first was held in Northern Kentucky in May.

Noting that the meeting is open to the public, Spurlock added that anyone from the West Kentucky area who is interested may attend. He said one purpose of the meeting will be to explain recent license law changes enacted by the Kentucky General Assembly.

Court Okays Park Board

The Calloway County Fiscal Court voted to accept a resolution establishing an independent board to operate the Murray-Calloway County Park at the Court's regular meeting Friday.

The board will be composed of 12 members with distribution divided equally between the city and the county. The County Judge will appoint six of the members of the board and the Mayor of Murray will appoint six of the members.

At least two of the members shall be Calloway County magistrates and two others shall be members of the Murray Common Council.

In other action, the board adopted a resolution enabling the Murray Comprehensive Care Center to establish a taxing district. No action was taken on a tax, however.

The court also appointed Billy Don Hamilton as dog warden for the county.

WATER IN YOUR BOILER

If your home is heated by steam in winter, now is the time to take a look at your boiler. There is a gauge glass mounted outside the boiler and the water in the vertical tube shows the level of the water inside the boiler. Generally the water should be about half way up in the glass tube, advises the Better Heating-Cooling Council. If you have a 'tankless' coil to heat domestic hot water, the boiler water level should be even with the top of the coil inside the boiler, as can be seen by the outside piping connections.

BAG THAT BRUSH!

You've been painting all day — you're exhausted — and you decide you just can't lift another brushful of paint. So you begin cleaning up and then discover that you're completely out of turpentine! There's nothing you can use to clean that brush! Here's a temporary tip to help you save the brush. Place it in a clean plastic bag and seal it well. This enables the brush to stay moist until the next day.

BRUSH DRIPPING PROBLEMS

To prevent your paintbrush from dripping, the National Paint and Coatings Assn. recommends you only dip the paint brush one-third of its length into the paint can, then tap out the excess amount on the inside of the container.

Mom Forestalls Hasty Marriage

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am an American serviceman who has been stationed in Korea for six months. The first week I arrived here I met "Sun," a beautiful Korean girl who was selling paintings for a church fund raiser. She is a deaf-mute, but we were able to communicate well enough to become better acquainted. We became inseparable, and within three months we knew we were in love.

I wrote to my mother asking for permission to marry Sun. (My father is deceased.) My mother wrote back saying she is against it. That is my problem, Abby. I am only 19 and cannot marry without my mother's consent until I reach 21. My mother says I am too young to marry, but I think her real reason is she doesn't want a Korean deaf-mute for a daughter-in-law.

Sun and I are very much in love. I know in my heart that we were meant for each other. Sun's parents are both dead, and I am all she has. I know she would make a wonderful wife. Can you help me?

SAD PFC

DEAR SAD: Talk to your chaplain. And consider this: A Korean girl with normal speech and hearing may have difficulty adjusting to a Western society, but a deaf-mute could be overwhelmed by the task. To bring Sun home as your bride could be terribly unfair to her. If your love was meant to be, it will endure until you are 21. Be patient.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 40 years, and all the years of my married life my husband has had other women. He never had the same one for very long, but it has been one after the other.

He has always been a loving and generous husband and a wonderful father to our children, and I know he loves me. He has never embarrassed me by going out in public with another woman, but as discreet as he was, somehow I always found out. I have asked him several times why he needs other women, because I am by nature a very affectionate person. He gets defensive and has no answer. I love him dearly and would never consider leaving him, but the older I get, the more it hurts. I am 60 and he is 63. Can you advise me?

TROUBLED AT 60

DEAR TROUBLED: You say you love him, and I believe you do. To "love" a person is to accept him with all his faults, weaknesses and imperfections. Don't dwell on his infidelity. (Who can know the most intimate needs of another?) No one has everything.

DEAR ABBY: What has happened to people? I work as a maid in a motel that is part of a very popular chain. We're full most of the time.

Our guests wouldn't think of having a cup of coffee and not leaving a small tip for the waitress. But the maid who cleans up their room never gets a thing.

I change the bed linen, scrub and disinfect the bathroom, pick up the soiled towels, and even gather up trash that's been thrown near, but not in, the trash can.

Sure, we get paid for what we do. But considering the way most people mess up a motel room, it takes a lot of extra work, so an extra dollar would be appreciated.

I hope you don't miss when you crumple this up and aim for your wastebasket, Abby.

JUST A MOTEL MAID

DEAR JUST: I aimed your letter at my typewriter—not my wastebasket. Perhaps a gentle reminder to all those summer travelers may help.

The Prudent Diet

The current agitation over fiber in the diet was sparked by the observations of Dr. Dennis Burkitt, a former medical missionary in Uganda, and a group of his British colleagues who have noted that African tribes exposed to Western influences have acquired the diseases of civilization along with changes in their diet.

Fiber has until recently received very little attention by nutritionists because it is the indigestible part of foods, which was thought to be of little value since it provided no nutrients. Mounting evidence of the connection between a low-fiber diet and disease is rapidly changing that.

The addition of refined foods such as sugar, white bread, fats and meats to the African diet has been accompanied by a whole list of hitherto rare diseases including colon-rectal cancer, diverticular disease, appendicitis, cardio-vascular disease, diabetes, gallstones, varicose veins, hiatal hernia, hemorrhoids and obesity.

Uganda, with a high-fiber banana diet, has the lowest rate of colon-rectal cancer in the world. The average African diet contains about 25 grams of fiber a day. A study of Norwalk, Connecticut, residents, whose diet contained only 2 1/2 grams of fiber a day, reported the highest incidence of colon cancer discovered thus far.

While researchers do not yet know all the reasons for these findings, they do suggest that the high fiber diet produces softer stools, which pass through the intestines more quickly. This gives harmful substances produced by the break-down of fats less time in contact with the intestinal walls and bacteria less time to multiply.

The consensus among medical scientists studying the data now available is that it is not too soon to recommend to the public what has been termed the Prudent Diet.

A sensible increase of fiber—in other words, plenty of fresh fruit and vegetables; whole grain bread and cereals instead of refined, white products.

A cut in fat consumption to no more than a third of total daily calories instead of the present half, with polyunsaturated vegetable oils balancing saturated animal fats.

A reduction of high-cholesterol foods.

A drastic reduction of sugar consumption, which is implicated in many serious diseases.

A wide variety of unrefined foods to provide all the essential nutrients and the different kinds of fiber which are thought to be important.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES

(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)

One of the few occasions when mixing business with pleasure could prove profitable. In fact, you may make an important business contact at a social gathering.

TAURUS

(Apr. 21 to May 21)

Keep your head and maintain the pace that's best for you. Don't let others sway you with ideas of doubtful worth—especially if they involve heavy spending.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Travel accented here. A short trip made on the spur of the moment could produce most interesting results.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

A day for compromise—not for stirring things up. Use the always reliable "velvet glove" treatment.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

You may not be aware of it yet but, within 48 hours, some unusually good luck is coming your way from a most unexpected source.

VIRGO

Great joy on the home front! Some important papers you thought you had lost or ac-

It may take longer to get things rolling than anticipated, but keep at it. And with no letdown in enthusiasm! Romance in high favor.

An "on-and-off" day, but you should come through handsomely if you stress your quietly clever manner of handling situations and your tact in dealing with others.

SAGITTARIUS

You may have to make some small concessions now, but this would be better than losing out altogether. Some nice benefits indicated.

Everything points to a most interesting and inspiring day. You should be filled with new-found optimism and confidence.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

You may make a new acquaintance or renew an old friendship. Look for those "small" blessings and gains so often belittled.

YOU BORN TODAY are one of the most dynamic individuals in the entire zodiacal spectrum.

A born leader, people follow you almost blindly, so it is important that you be extremely careful WHERE you lead. Good nature and magnanimity are also two of your outstanding traits and you are extremely generous with family and friends. However, you are inclined to "exact your price" from your beneficiaries—insisting, regally, that they bend to your will, even kowtow to you to a certain extent. Try to curb this trait since it is the one flaw which detracts from your otherwise magnetic personality. Fields in which you could be eminently successful: Business management, the theater, teaching, the law, art patronage or chemistry. HOW TO MAKE A SPRAY BOOTH

If you're planning to paint an object with aerosol paints, there is a foolproof way to keep paint off walls and floor. Make your own spray booth by removing one side of a large cardboard box. Place the object to be painted inside and spray with the container inside the box. Remember to turn off heating or air cooling units since air currents might deflect the spray.

HEARTLINE

HEARTLINE is a service for senior citizens of all ages. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write HEARTLINE, 8514 N. Main St., Dayton, Ohio 45415. Senior citizens will receive prompt replies, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: Through the years I have been fortunate enough to earn a very high salary. By the first or second quarter of the year I have earned the maximum amount taxed by Social Security and therefore pay no further Social Security tax for the balance of the year. Doesn't this result in reduced coverage for me since Social Security goes by wages reported each calendar quarter, and my wages are only reported for one or two quarters each year? — F. G. B.

ANSWER: No, your high earnings in a brief period of time do not effect your full coverage. If you earn the maximum creditable wages, no matter when during the year, all four calendar quarters are considered as covered even though no taxes are paid in some quarters.

For example, the maximum Social Security earnings for 1976 are $15,300 and no further earnings are reported nor taxes paid during 1976 after you earn this amount. If you reached this amount by May, all four calendar quarters of the year are considered as covered. This would also hold true if you had no earnings during the first three quarters of the year, but earned at least $15,300 during the October to December quarter.

For more and up to date information on Social Security, Heartline has developed Heartline's "Guide to Social Security." The book is in large print and easy-to-read question and answer form. To order send $2.00 to Heartline's "Guide to Social Security," Box 4994; Des Moines, Iowa 50306. The book is completely guaranteed and if you are not satisfied send the book back for a complete refund. Please allow 30 days for delivery.

HEARTLINE: I worked under Civil Service off and on. Am I eligible for a Civil Service Retirement benefit? — N. A.

ANSWER: To be eligible for a Civil Service Retirement benefit, a person has had to work at least five years under the Civil Service program.

HEARTLINE: Do health facilities have to meet certain conditions to take part in Medicare? — F. R. T.

ANSWER: Yes, to participate in the Medicare program health facilities must meet standards which help assure high quality health care. Also, these facilities must not charge you for services paid for by the Medicare program, and they must abide by title VI of the Civil Rights Act, which prohibits discrimination based on race, color, creed or national origin.

HEARTLINE: I heard that since Social Security numbers are now issued by a computer process, that the number is actually a code that tells certain facts about a person. If this is true, couldn't a person who knew the code determine these facts by knowing my Social Security number? — N. L.

ANSWER: Social Security numbers contain no secret code of any kind nor have they ever. The only significant number is the first three digits and that only reveals the broad geographical area in which the number was issued regardless of where a person was born or works.

Social Security numbers are issued by computer from a central point now only because of the very large increase in the number of district offices. This made it impractical for each office to maintain a sufficient amount of unissued Social Security cards.

Another advantage of issuing Social Security numbers at a central point is that the records can be easily checked to determine if the person previously had a social security number which they lost or forgot. The original number will be given to the person again which assures that all a person's earnings through the years will be credited to just one Social Security number.

This is very important since earnings all the way back to 1936 may be used for benefit purposes. However, if a person already has two or more numbers, the earnings can still be combined into one earnings record.

Isn't It

The Truth

My neighbor, the old Wyoming cowboy, has a name for any voter who believes what the politicians say. It is an epithet that he acquired for his vocabulary early in the half-century of his acquaintance with the anatomy of the horse — starting at the horse's mouth and progressing past the horse's neck all the way south to the point just north of the horse's tail.

Delivery of first class mail from coast to coast often takes a week or longer. Long ago, when mail was transported on railway mail cars of fast trains, and sorted en route, the time was four days and often less, and nobody bragged about it. We can't bring back the mail train but we can try to persuade the Postal Service to stop telling us about good service, and instead, give us a little of it.

Editorials and opinionated articles on this page are presented for the purpose of providing a forum for the free exchange of differing opinions. Letters to the editor in response to editorials and opinionated articles are encouraged.

The editors of this newspaper strongly believe that to limit opinionated articles to only those which parallel the editorial philosophy of this newspaper would be a disservice to our readers, therefore we urge readers who do not agree with an editorial stand or the ideas presented by an individual writer in a column, to respond with their feelings on the particular issue being discussed.

White Lightning

Did you ever wonder where the appellation "white lightning" as a name for moonshine whiskey came from? The area now known as Land Between the Lakes was once the site of numerous stills which turned out some of the better batches of whiskey during the Prohibition period and for many years thereafter. As one former "shiner" once commented, "It's a sight easier to haul out the corn in bottles than in ears — and a whole lot more profitable."

As much as 5000 gallons of whiskey a day were reported to have left the area around Golden Pond during the peak of the moonshine era in the postwar period around 1955, although it has been said that even more than that was produced during Prohibition. Occasionally, even today, stills are found in the area, although there supposedly hasn't been one in operation for a few years.

The term "white lightning", so the story goes, originated on Hardin Creek, in eastern Kentucky, around 1900, by a moonshiner named Gar White. It was said that a chemist in one of the legal distilleries ran an analysis on a sample of Gar's brew and came up with the following: it was almost three days old, 160 proof, and contained corn, weevils, wild yeast, sassafras, poke berries, coal oil, prune juice, wagon grease, slake lime, cow chips, and three mustache hairs. The chemist dropped his analysis, so he said, when the brew ate the bottom out of the test tube. It was claimed that this whiskey could be (and had been) used for dipping sheep, burning off tobacco beds, removing warts, and spraying privies, not to mention drinking.

It became known as white lightning the day that a revenue agent crept up on Gar running off a batch, arrested him and proceeded to try out the brew. The revenue agent sat down under a nearby tree; at the first sip of the concoction, supposedly a bolt of lightning hit the tree, knocking out the man and burning off his pants, socks, and shoes. After he came back to his senses, he went back to town to round up a posse and come back to arrest Gar, who had disappeared by that time. The agent is reported to have said that anyone making whiskey that strong needed to be hung, not jailed.

Gar White had disappeared for good, but the name "White Lightning" still clings to that whiskey made in the copper stills.

Just For Thought

BEND, ORE., BULLETIN — The cost of hosting the Olympic Games, or the Winter Olympics, either, simply has risen so high it is doubtful anyone can afford it.

The cost of getting ready for the whole spectacle in one location simply is too great. The Russians will go through with the 1980 Games. But no one is likely to bid for them in 1984 unless the system is changed so as to reduce the costs.

Montreal, this summer, may well turn out to be the next to last Olympic Games ever held.

Bible Thought

Enter into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise: be thankful unto him, and bless his name. Psalm 100:4.

If we thank other than The Lord God for what we have then we have indeed forsaken Him. God is our father, provider, protector and savior!

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Saturday, August 7, the 220th day of 1976. There are 146 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in History:
On this date in 1789, the U.S. War and Navy Departments were established.

On this date—
In 1782, George Washington established the Order of the Purple Heart.

In 1804, an American fleet bombarded the Mediterranean port of Tripoli.

In 1912, a Progressive Party convention in Chicago nominated Theodore Roosevelt for President.

In 1941, Soviet planes carried out their first bombing raids against Berlin in the World War II.

In 1942, U.S. Marines landed on Guadalcanal in the Pacific.

In 1945, the Soviet Union declared war on Japan — seven days before the Japanese surrender to the Allies.

Ten years ago: Seven American planes were lost while carrying out attacks against North Vietnam.

Five years ago: The U.S. Apollo 15 astronauts made a safe landing near their target area in the Pacific after their exploration mission on the moon.

One year ago: The lower house of India's parliament approved a constitutional amendment stripping courts of the power to hear the cases of thousand of people held as political prisoners.

(No birthdays of note in our files.)

Thought for today: Habit is the flywheel of civilization — Henry James, American philosopher and writer, 1811-1882.

Bicentennial footnote: 200 years ago today, the College of New York — now Columbia University — agreed to turn its telescopes over to George Washington to help him keep tabs on British forces gathering on Staten Island across the harbor from Manhattan.

Let's Stay Well

Relieving Ringing in the Ears

By F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

Ringing in one or both ears (tinnitus) is a common symptom, particularly among older persons. It can be disturbing to its victim and often resistant to treatment.

Tinnitus is usually characterized by a high-pitched, constant, persistent whine. This ringing may or may not be associated with some degree of deafness.

The University of Oregon Medical School established some time ago a special tinnitus clinic from which some good news comes for persons with this vexing disorder.

According to Jack Vernon, Ph.D., director of this clinic, suppression of tinnitus has been achieved in well over 70 per cent of the patients with this trouble. The key to the treatment is the use of ambient noise signals to mask the ringing in the ears.

Relief of tinnitus is provided for persons with normal hearing by a "Tinnitus Masker." It is worn like a hearing aid and emits a continuous masking noise in a frequency between 2,000 and 5,000 Hz (Hertz, a unit of frequency equal to one cycle per second). These frequencies do not interfere with speech reception by the wearer.

Persons who have some hearing loss associated with tinnitus often showed relief of the ringing when properly fitted with a hearing aid at the clinic. In rare cases, the tinnitus ceased completely after many months of use of the hearing aid.

At bedtime, when the hearing aid is removed, tinnitus often creates a problem before the person goes to sleep. The staff has found that relief can be obtained with a bedside FM radio which is tuned to static between stations, the sounds again masking the unpleasant ringing characteristic of tinnitus.

Q: Mrs. I. D. questions how a stroke can suddenly strike a healthy person, as appeared to happen in the case of Mrs. Richard Nixon.

A: While I don't know the exact cause in Mrs. Nixon's case, conditions prior to her stroke were not normal.

The most common cause of stroke is the build-up of a clot in an artery in the brain. Such clotting often is related to a slowing of the flow of blood through an artery outside the brain, such as arteriosclerosis and thickening of a carotid artery in the neck.

Before the onset of a stroke, lessening of the blood flow may cause episodes of dizziness, slurring of the speech and momentary difficulty in thinking.

These symptoms should be promptly evaluated by a physician. A less common cause of such a stroke is the rupturing of a blood vessel in the brain from hypertension.

Q: Mrs. B. S. has read many reports about the potential severity of "swine" flu and wonders whether it can be caught by eating pork from a pig who has or has had the disease.

A: Don't be confused by the name. The virus, which caused the severe pandemic of 1918-19 was thought to be similar to a virus which affects swine. The disease, like any kind of flu, is a respiratory illness transmitted from person-to-person. The virus is not transmitted by eating pork.

It is safe to eat bacon, ham, sausage or any other form of pork so far as so-called "swine" flu is concerned. The quality of the pork is unaffected by a virus infection, even if the animal had a case of the disease.

FISHING FOR BOTTLES

WASHINGTON (AP) — There was no urgent note from a shipwrecked sailor inside, but a bottle fished out of the Gulf Stream recently by a Florida teen-ager did contain a message — from the magazine "National Geographic World."

Fifteen-year-old Mark Cummings' discovery was the first of 1,000 bottles dumped into the ocean during May by the magazine. The bottles, placed in the water at the rate of 250 per week by the liner Song of Norway, were intended to help map the flow of ocean currents.

Each bottle contains a message in five languages asking the finder to fill out the enclosed cards and return them to the magazine's offices in Washington.

PERFECT NIGHT—Alan Gibbs had a perfect night Friday for the Murray Pony Leaguers. Here, he slams a double as the ball leaves the bat. He had four hits in four trips to the plate, with one of the hits being a homer. It was the second homer of the tournament for Gibbs. Murray won easily Friday, defeating Fort Riley, Kan., 16-0.

Morton And Montanez Combine To Lead Atlanta Over Giants

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Two teams fighting for fifth place in a six-team division must struggle each night to find motivation. That was no problem for Carl Morton and Willie Montanez.

Morton, a professional pitcher, wanted to prove he could pitch and Montanez, a professional hitter, wanted to prove he could hit.

They both proved their points Friday night and led Atlanta to a 7-0 victory over San Francisco, giving the Braves a two-game bulge over the Giants in the race for fifth place in the National League.

"Words can never express how trying this season has been," said Morton, who stymied the Giants on four hits to earn his second victory in 10 decisions. "I've never experienced anything like this."

Montanez, who was traded by the Giants to the Braves earlier this season, rapped out a home run and three singles while driving in a pair of runs to show up his old teammates.

Elsewhere in the NL, the St. Louis Cardinals downed the Philadelphia Phillies 6-2; the Chicago Cubs beat the Montreal Expos twice, 6-5 in 13 innings and 1-0; the Cincinnati Reds stopped the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-4, and the San Diego Padres topped the Houston Astros 9-3. The game between the New York Mets and the Pittsburgh Pirates was postponed because of rain.

Cardinals 6, Phillies 2
Willie Crawford's sacrifice

fly snapped a 1-1 tie and the Cardinals, taking advantage of reliever Tug McGraw's error, scored three runs in the seventh to put the game away.

The victory was the Cardinals' fifth in their last 16 games.

Terry Humphrey led off the sixth with a single, took third on Lou Brock's single and scored the tie-breaking run on Crawford's sacrifice fly.

Reds 7, Dodgers 4

Joe Morgan's leadoff homer, his 19th, triggered a four-run ninth inning that carried Cincinnati over Los Angeles and handed Rick Rhoden his first defeat of the season after nine straight victories.

Dave Concepcion's two-run single and Pete Rose's RBI single accounted for the other three runs in the inning.

The triumph increased the Reds' lead over the Dodgers to 11 games in the NL West.

Cubs 6-1, Expos 5-0

Rick Monday's 19th homer of the year, coming in the 13th inning, gave Chicago the opener and Jerry Morales' 13th homer, a leadoff shot in the ninth, was the only run in the second game.

The losses were the woeful Expos' fourth and fifth in a row.

Chicago righthander Steve Stones tossed a four-hitter to win the second game. He struck out nine and walked one.

Padres 9, Astros 3

Tom Griffin, an Astro two days ago, came back to haunt his old teammates with an eight-hit effort before being relieved by Butch Metzger in the seventh inning.

Griffin raised his record to 6-3 and Metzger picked up his 10th save of the season.

Buddy Allin Retains Lead In B. C. Open

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — Now that he's in the driver's seat, Buddy Allin doesn't intend to take any chances on blowing an opportunity to win the B.C. Open golf tournament, an event that could sharply change his future.

"There's lots of holes to play, in fact 36 of them," he said Friday after retaining his lead with a four-under-par 67 and a 36-hole total of 130, 12 under par.

Allin, with a victory in the $200,000 B.C. coupled with his triumph in the Pleasant Valley Classic Sunday, would automatically qualify for the World Series of Golf Tournament.

Going into today's third round at the par-71, 6,868-yard En-Joe Golf Club, Allin held a four-stroke lead over Ed Sneed and 25-year-old Bob Gilder, winner of the Phoenix Open. Sneed shot a second-round 66 and Gilder a 65 to give them 134 totals.

One stroke back at 135 were New Zealander Bob Charles, 66, and Jerry McGee, 70. Bob Wynn, with a 71, was next at 136.

Allin equalled the course record Thursday with a 63, and his total matched the season's low of 130 set by Roger Maltbie at Phoenix.

Lee Trevino made the cut even though he said after practice Tuesday he figured he might not.

Trevino, who missed eight weeks of play because of a back injury, posted a 142 with his rounds of 69-73.

Gilder, who had a 69 in the opening round, made his bid at the third hole Friday, getting a birdie there and following with two more at the next two holes and another at the eighth. He added two more, at the 13th and 18th.

Sneed, in with 68 Thursday, played the back nine first and finished his round with consecutive birdies on the last four holes.

He broke his drought at the sixth with a 30-foot putt and then hit a 35-footer on the seventh.

Murray To Play Central Illinois Tonight At 6 p.m.

Tough Murray Mops Kansas Team 16-0

By MIKE BRANDON

Ledger & Times Sports Editor

Basketball was invented in Kansas and the radio was invented in Murray.

Where was baseball invented? The way the Murray Pony Leaguers played the game Friday night, baseball just might have also been invented in Murray.

Murray continued its powerful hitting attack by clubbing Fort Riley, Kansas, 16-0 in abbreviated five-inning contest at the Murray-Calloway Park in the second round of the Southeastern Regional Tournament.

Thursday night, Murray cruised to an easy 13-6 victory over Marshall County while Fort Riley had reached the second round with a bye.

Again, it was Alan Gibbs, only this time, it wasn't his pitching arm that boosted Murray into the victory column. Gibbs had a perfect four-for-four night at the plate with a homerun included.

Righthander Grady Bostick started on the hill for Murray and was posted to a 10-0 lead after just two innings.

Manager Chuck Fowler then removed Bostick to save him for the remaining tourney games and brought in Craig Rogers to finish up.

Rogers, who had hurled the opening inning Thursday before giving way to Gibbs who stole the show with 15 strikeouts in the six frames, pitched the final three innings against Fort Riley.

Rogers fanned five batters, walked none and gave up just one hit, which was the entire total for Fort Riley.

Murray wasted little time in starting out. Leadoff hitter Eddie Requarth reached on an error by the third baseman. On the next pitch, Requarth took off for second where the throw went into center and the Fort Riley centerfielder muffed it. Requarth trotted all the way home and Murray led 1-0.

With one out, Gibbs connected on a solo shot to left-center for his second homer of the tourney. Rogers and Keith Edwards put singles together and Kelly White walked to fill the sacks for Murray.

Then with two out, catcher Fred Kemp laced a two-run single into right, giving Murray a 4-0 lead. Another run scored in the frame later on a passed ball.

In the second frame, Gibbs and Rogers had run-scoring singles but the big blow was a two-run double by Nicky Swift. Murray added two more runs in the third, the only RBI being on a fielder's choice by Rogers.

In the fourth, Murray put four more on the board to go up 16-0. Gibbs had an RBI double and Timmy Graham sent two men home when the Fort Riley centerfielder committed a two-base error.

The only hit of the contest for Fort Riley came in the top of the third with pitcher Mike Floberg hit a one-out single. James German came in and hurled the last two frames for the losers.

Gibbs' four hits paced the attack for Murray while Rogers had three. Also hitting safely were Keith Edwards, White, Swift, and Kemp.

Murray will play tonight at 6 p.m. against Central Illinois. The winner of that game is in the driver's seat and will be the only undefeated team left in the double elimination tourney.

But before the Murray game is played, a 3 p.m. contest will be played between Fort Riley and the team from Jasper, Ind.

Jasper survived in the loser's bracket in the second contest Friday as they won a 13-4 contest over Marshall County.

At 8:30 p.m. tonight, the loser of the Jasper-Fort Riley game will play the loser of the Central-Illinois-Murray contest.

One game will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday and if the undefeated team wins, the tourney is over. If the undefeated team loses, the championship contest will be played at 6 p.m. Sunday.

The winner of the Southeastern Regional Tournament will go on to Kankakee, Ill., and will be only four wins away from a trip to the World Series.

Our electric system is designed to handle one critical time of day—the peak-load period, the time when the most electricity is used.

You can help lower the peak by using your electric appliances late in the day. For example, operate your dishwasher, wash and dry clothes, and do baking after 7 p.m. This is when many offices, stores, and factories have closed for the day and are no longer using enormous amounts of electric power. By switching your demand for electricity to after 7 p.m., you would pick up where commercial customers leave off. This would reduce the demand and relieve some of the pressure for increasing generating capacity, which is the biggest cost in providing you with electricity.

Hassler Records First Win In Nineteen Starts For KC

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
Andy Hassler's on a winning streak—one in a row. That may not sound like much, but it is after you've lost 18 straight games. "I finally got the monkey off my back," said the Kansas

City pitcher after a 9-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox in the first game of a twinning doubleheader Friday.

Hassler was so elated over his first victory since April 29, 1975, that he celebrated with a bottle of champagne. "I think it was Hal McRae's doing," Hassler said. "It was a pleasant surprise."

By winning, Hassler averted tying the American League record of 19 straight losses, set by H. John Nabor of Philadelphia in 1916. The major league record of 23 was set by Clifton Curtis of Boston of the National League in 1911.

The Royals swept the White Sox with an 8-3 decision in the second game. Elsewhere in the American League, the Boston Red Sox nipped the Milwaukee Brewers 2-1; the Detroit Tigers turned back the Cleveland Indians 3-1; the Texas Rangers blanked the Minnesota Twins 6-0 and the California Angels defeated the Oakland A's 2-1. The Baltimore-New York game was postponed by rain.

Red Sox 2, Brewers 1
Carl Yastrzemski singled home Denny Doyle from second in the eighth inning to lead Boston past Milwaukee. Yastrzemski's hit broke a 1-1 tie and came with two outs and two men on, giving Tom Murphy, 3-5, the victory in relief of Rick Wise.

Milwaukee tied the game in the seventh inning. Tigers 3, Indians 1.

Dave Roberts, 11-11, pitched a seven-hitter while Rusty Staub, Ron LeFlore and Auerilio Rodriguez each drove in runs as Detroit snapped a five-game losing streak by beating Cleveland.

Staub had staked Roberts to a 1-0 lead off Jackie Brown, 7-7, with a leadoff homer in the fourth. Detroit added a run in the seventh when Tom Veryzer singled, stole second and came home on a single by LeFlore. Detroit added an insurance run in the eighth when Thompson walked with two outs and scored on a double by Rodriguez.

Rangers 6, Twins 0
Gaylord Perry handcuffed Minnesota on five hits and Texas cashed a Roy Smalley first-inning error into three unearned runs to defeat the Twins. The 37-year-old Perry worked his way out of a bases-loaded jam in the fifth inning and went on to his 11th victory against eight losses.

Angels 2, A's 1
California left-hander Frank Tanana struck out 13 batters and allowed only four Oakland hits as the Angels beat the A's on Bobby Bonds' eighth-inning single to climb out of last place in the American League West. Tanana, 13-8, recorded eight strikeouts over the first three innings in his pitching duel against A's southpaw Vida Blue, 9-10. Blue struck out eight and scattered seven hits in a route-going performance.

Soviets Take 99-79 Lead In Track Meet

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Writer
COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — It may be just another track meet at the end of a long Olympic year campaign, but the performances belie the expressed feelings of some competitors.

Nine meet records were shattered, six by Russian athletes, as the Soviet Union took a 99-79 lead over the United States after Friday's 17 events in the 14th track and field meet between the two powers.

With another 18 events scheduled today at the University of Maryland's Byrd Stadium, the American men led 59-46 and the Russian women held a runaway 53-20 advantage.

Even Dave Roberts, the Gainesville, Fla., medical student who narrowly missed a world record pole vault of 18 feet, 9 1/4 inches, said he found it difficult to "get up" for the Russians.

After setting a meet record of 18 1/2, Roberts tried three times to break his own mark of 18-3 1/2, set at the Olympic trials in Eugene, Ore.

With darkness approaching on a misty, muggy day, and some of the 10,000 fans lining the runway, Roberts almost cleared the bar on his final attempt.

Steve Riddick, who failed to reach the finals of the 100 meters in Montreal, upset Russian Valery Borzov in 10.15 seconds and also anchored the 400-meter relay team to a meet record clocking of 38.56.

Other men's records were set by American Mike Durkin, who won the 1,500 meters in 3:38.42, and Russian Alexy Spiridonov who upset teammate Yuriy Sedykh, the Olympic champion, with a hammer throw of 225-10.

The Soviet women, whose only loss to the Americans was in 1969, set five meet records in seven events and their task in the point race was made much easier when at least eight U.S. Olympians failed to show up.

"The girls just wanted to get home," said Martha Watson, the 29-year-old long jumper who was pressed into service as a sprinter. "They've been away from home since July 1 and were homesick."

The American women didn't figure to win even with their best, but they could have made the score closer and given the U.S. team a chance to lead in the combined score for only the third time.

Tatyana Kazankina, the Olympic 800 and 1,500 champion, and Faina Melnik, the world recordholder in the discus, led the Russian women in their assault on the meet records.

Miss Kazankina ran the fastest "metric mile" ever in the U.S., winning handily in 4:00.30. Miss Melnik, a 5-foot-9, 175-pounder, won the discus for the sixth consecutive time with a toss of 226-10.

The other records were set by Ilyina Nadezhda at 51.77 in the 400, Galina Filatova at 6-2 1/2 in the high jump, and the Russian 400-meter relay team with a time of 42.93.

American winners included Ben Brown in the 400 at 46.28, Charles Foster in the 110-meter hurdles at 13.48, and Craig Virgin in 10,000 meters at 28:35.12. Russian Viktor Saneyev, who won three consecutive Olympic triple jump titles, repeated in his specialty at 55-10.

Hunts Team To Capture Mixed Doubles

The husband and wife team of Eddie and Lanette Hunt combined their tennis talents to capture the mixed doubles club championship at the Murray Country Club with a 6-1 6-3 win over Charles Warner and Corrine Stripling.

The Hunt's had defeated Hal Houston and Mary Jane Jackson 6-2, 6-2, while Warner and Stripling were winning over A. W. and Edwina Simmons 6-2, 6-2.

Houston and Jackson had advanced to the semifinal by winning over Ed Chrisman and Linda McNeely 6-3, 6-2.

Play will begin August 10 and continue through the week for the Club Championship in the men's and women's singles with the men and women's doubles to be held during the week of August 16.

Kellner Wins

CRYSTAL BEACH, Ontario (AP) — Hakan Kellner of Sweden won the Shark sailing championship with a fourth place finish Friday in the sixth and final race on Lake Ontario.

Kellner had 19.3 penalty points, 10 ahead of Kalle Saarits of Oakville, Ontario. Kellner had two victories and three seconds.

Manager Eye Toronto

TORONTO (AP) — Toronto's new American League baseball team, which begins play next spring, has no players and no name, but has received 20 applications for the managerial job.

"We're not going to pick our manager until the end of the season," General Manager Peter Bavasi said Friday. "We want to see who is available then."

"But we've had at least 20 people who have the qualifications who have approached us. They include people who are managing major league teams now, some who are major league coaches and some who are managing in the high minors."

Represents Japan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Takashi Murakami, a 32-year-old Japanese golf pro who has played on the U.S. Tour, will represent the Japan PGA in the 1976 World Series of Golf Sept. 2-5 in Akron, Ohio.

Murakami was the leader of the Japan PGA Order of Merit as of Aug. 1 and has won $123,542.

Murakami is the fourth foreign player to join the field in the $300,000 event. The others are Allan Henning of South Africa, Bill Dunk of Australia and Hsu Seng-San of the Asian Golf Circuit.

Orr To Report

TORONTO (AP) — Bobby Orr of the Chicago Black Hawks will report to Team Canada's training camp Monday in Montreal for a medical checkup, Orr's lawyer Alan Eagleson said Friday.

Orr, who has not played hockey since Nov. 28 because of a knee injury, then will return to Orillia, Ontario, where he will continue to work out on his own for next month's six-country Canada Cup series.

Buffalo To Continue Efforts To Find Substitute For Orange Juice

By The Associated Press
The Buffalo Bills continue their almost impossible experiment today as they try and find a substitute for Orange Juice.

As any football fan knows, substitutes like grapefruit juice won't do because this Orange Juice is a very special one—O.J. Simpson.

The Bills have not been very successful thus far trying to find someone to replace Simpson, the National Football League's premier running back who has rushed for 1,000 or more yards four straight seasons.

Last week, in its first preseason game, Buffalo tried rookies Darnell Powell and Joe Lowery, and between them they gained 51 yards, only half the work Simpson usually does when he is in uniform. The Bills will try the pair again Saturday when they play the Cincinnati Bengals in Cincinnati.

The game is one of a full exhibition schedule that extends from Friday to Monday night. In two games Friday night Baltimore beat Washington 20-3 and San Diego defeated New England 26-17 at Norman, Okla.

In the only afternoon game today, Cleveland plays Atlanta at Stillwater, Okla. At night, Dallas plays at Los Angeles in a nationally-televised game at 10 p.m. EDT. Minnesota plays at Kansas City, St. Louis plays Oakland at Phoenix, New Orleans plays at Houston, Tampa Bay and Green Bay clash at Milwaukee and Chicago and Seattle oppose each other at Spokane, Wash.

On Sunday afternoon, Miami plays at Detroit and Denver at San Francisco, and then on Monday night the New York Giants play at the New York Jets and Pittsburgh travels to Philadelphia.

Simpson has been holding out because he wants to be traded to a West Coast team nearer his California home. The Bills apparently tried, but obviously have not yet worked out anything.

Cincinnati, which had one of the worst running attacks in the NFL last season, appears to have found its answer in two-time Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin of Ohio State. Griffin ran for 49 yards to help the Bengals beat Green Bay 23-17 last week.

In a number of the other games Saturday, the eyes will be more on young quarterbacks trying to rid themselves of that substitute tag.

At Los Angeles, Rams coach Chuck Knox no doubt will be focusing much of his attention on quarterback Ron Jaworski, who will be starting.

Kansas City coach Paul Wiggin plans to start veteran Mike Livingston, but also wants to get a good look at former World Football League star Tony Adams, who is scheduled to take over in the second quarter.

Bobby Scott gets his starting shot with New Orleans with Bobby Douglass in the wings and Archie Manning injured. Green Bay will get a second look at their new quarterback, Lynn Dickey.

Jim Zorn, a left-hander who was cut by Dallas last season, gets his first pro start for Seattle after he entered in the second half last weekend passed for two scores and ran for a third.

Wildlife Federation Calls Wetlands National Treasure

You've seen one wetland, you've seen them all. Right? Only if a bog looks like a bay, or a swamp like a prairie pothole. About all they have in common is water - and vulnerability. Wetlands can be very perishable, especially if they lie in the path of bulldozers or intrude upon farm fields.

Agricultural drainage, construction of roads, airports, and housing developments, flood and mosquito control projects - these have been among the enemies of wetlands. The growing national and world population can use more cropland, more houses, more roads, and all the rest. Dazzled by such prospects, it is easy for policy makers to overlook economic, spiritual, and recreational values of wetlands.

"Wetlands are among the richest wildlife habitats on earth," according to Thomas L. Kimball, executive vice president of the National Wildlife Federation, largest American conservation education organization.

There are 20 kinds of wetlands; from northern ponds full of melted snow to southern river bottoms covered by spring floods. Bogs, marshes (fresh water and salt water, coastal and inland), sounds, bays, potholes, and swamps are other common types of wetlands. They occur across the nation, most frequently in the upper north central and Great Lakes states, and from eastern Texas through the southern and eastern states, as well as along our coasts.

In the 1800s, the government viewed wetlands as a hindrance to agriculture and settlement, to be drained off or filled in as quickly as possible. By 1900, there were still about 127,000,000 acres of wetlands, but this had shrunk to 82,000,000 acres as of 1953.

Gradually, officialdom began to realize that wetlands were not a wasteland but a natural resource. They became aware that the potholes of the northern states and Canada were a vast duck nursery; that other waterfowl and other wildlife depend on wetlands for food, water, or cover; that land erosion increased as wetlands declined; that valuable firebreaks were vanishing; that cash crops like shellfish, blueberries, peat moss and others had nowhere to grow. Boca Ciega Bay off St. Petersburg on the west coast of Florida is a small but typical example of wetlands' economic clout. Dredging and filling so upset productivity that the bay's bait shrimp industry, worth an adjusted $265,000 annually in the mid-1950s, had dropped to about $130,000 in 1972.

And how do you measure the loss to those who use wetlands for recreation - the sportsmen, photographers, and bird-watchers?

Signs of a growing interest in the preservation of wetlands have begun to appear. More and more acres of wetlands are coming under federal, state, or private control, administered to aid wildlife tenants. Other programs have emerged, such as "404."

Section 404 of the 1972 Federal Water Pollution Control Act requires the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers to regulate the discharge of dredged or fill material into our waters. This gives the Corps the right to grant or deny applications for permission to dredge or fill, applications the Corps will consider on the basis of environmental, social, and economic impact.

Policy pronouncements by other federal agencies with wetlands jurisdiction show a growing concern for wetlands welfare. When wetlands prosper, the animal beneficiaries are legion: ducks, endangered alligators and crocodiles, beaver, bobcat, fox, mink, muskrat, nutria, opossum, otter, raccoon, skink, weasel, antelope, black bear, black-tailed and white-tailed deer, elk, moose, mule deer, grouse, Hungarian partridge, mourning dove, pheasant, quail, rabbit, snowshoe hare, snipe, squirrel, wild turkey, woodcock.

"The hard fact remains," Kimball points out, "that although the rate of wetlands loss has slowed, the nation still is losing wetlands. Constant citizen concern and alertness

Kentucky Squirrel Season To Open August 21

By John Wilson

Kentucky's squirrel season will open Aug. 21 and hunters are probably wondering what kind of season to expect.

A preliminary prediction from Harold Barber, the chief forest game biologist with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, is for good hunting statewide. Squirrel populations in east and central Kentucky are up somewhat from last year, and we have a repeat of 1975's good populations in the western part of the state.

The squirrels that hunters will be seeking on opening day are the result of last winter's breeding season, when there was an ample crop of acorns and other squirrel foods. This good mast led to a good survival rate and high reproduction, so there should be plenty of squirrels this year.

But Barber also voiced a note of pessimism. An unusually early spring followed by a late freeze, apparently caught many mast-producing trees in the bloom stage and may cause a very poor mast crop this winter. This may mean a low population for the 1977 season, but could work to the hunter's advantage this year.

With scant food supplies this winter, the squirrels will probably be more concentrated than usual. The hunter who can locate a stand of trees which did produce mast this winter will most likely find the squirrels there in abundance.

But squirrels are seldom concentrated early in the season. The opening day hunter usually finds that he has to do a lot more stalking than in necessary in November and December.

The fall foliage of August can also be handicap since it makes spotting squirrels difficult.

So if your early season hunting isn't as productive as you like, don't blame it on a lack of squirrels and give up. After the leaves have dropped and food becomes more scarce, look for stands of nut bearing oaks, beech or hickory trees, take a stand and sit quietly for awhile. Chances are, you'll find squirrels.

But however you find squirrels, you still have to clean them before they can be converted to stew. A pesky and persistent problem is getting hair on the meat (and later, between your teeth).

A good way to get rid of flying hair is to soak the squirrels in water before dressing them. Then keep a container of water, or a hose, nearby to wash off any hairs which get on your hands.

Even with these precautions, it's still a good idea to examine the meat carefully before cooking or freezing it, since stray hairs can impart off flavors to the squirrel.

After its August 21 opening, the squirrel season will continue through October 31. The second phase of the season will open November 18 and run through December 31, except for the December 4 through December 8 statewide gun deer season when all small game seasons (except trapping for furbearers) will be closed.

The daily limit on squirrels is six, with a possession limit of 12 after two or more days of hunting. A possession limit of squirrel or any other fish or game species can't be held in the field.

To help hunters plan vacations or long weekends around the opening dates of their favorite game species, the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife offers the following guide to the 1976-77 hunting seasons. Arnold L. Mitchell, Commissioner of the department of fish and wildlife, cautions that all hunters should check the complete regulations before hunting. Brochures detailing these regulations will be available in the near future and may be obtained from county court clerk's offices or from the department of fish and wildlife.

are needed to halt the trend and reverse it. It is fitting in this bicentennial year that America get behind this 'Save Our Wetlands' campaign. One thing the average citizen can do is look around his own area, see what wetlands are there, and find out from local or state conservation agencies what can be done to keep local wetlands from going dry forever."

Everyone is invited to attend a trap shoot scheduled for Sunday afternoon at 1:00 PM at the Bailey farm. The shoot is being sponsored by the Calloway County Sportsmen's Club.

Nature Magazine Lists Six Rules For Campers

This summer millions of Americans, young and old, will go camping. But unless they obey a few basic rules, many of them will suffer needless injury or pollute their campsites.

Helpful tips for careful camping can be found in the current (July) issue of Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine, published for children by the National Wildlife Federation.

"Have fun, but always remember that when camping, you are nature's guest," cautions Ranger Rick. "All campers should know how to take good care of themselves and nature."

Before you even set out on your trip, you should know a few standard rules to get you started on the right foot. Don't wait to pitch a tent for the first time until you get to a campsite—practice first at home. Your tent should be light and easy to set up. A good tent has ventilation for hot weather, keeps out the damp and cool air when the weather turns wet and cold, and is screened to ward off unwanted insects like mosquitoes.

An important decision in any camping trip is the selection of a campsite. Make your "home-away-from-home" in areas where flash floods are unlikely. If you pitch your tent in a low-lying area, you run the risk of winding up in mud or being soaked.

Ranger Rick lists six essential camping rules for those who want to be friends of nature:

1. Do not disturb trees, flowers, animals or rocks.
2. Be as clean as a cat. Go to the bathroom away from camp and away from water. Scoop a hole and cover it with dirt afterward.
3. Talk quietly so you don't wake up other campers.

4. Scoop out soil and make your campfire in the hole. Drown your campfire until cool to the touch. Then drown it some more and cover the ashes with the soil you dig up.

5. Take all your trash out with you.

6. Leave your campsite looking better than you found it.

Campers can avoid conflicts with hungry bears, porcupines and raccoons by storing food away from sleeping bags or tents. Since these animals might be attracted by the smell, food should be wrapped tightly in plastic and hung in sacks from a tree limb some distance from camp.

The National Wildlife Federation's children's magazine also lists a few pointers for hikers and backpackers. As in other outdoor activities, hikers should travel lightly, carrying only what is essential. A lightweight sleeping bag, sleeping pad, and cooking gear are necessary, as is lightweight food such as dried meats and vegetables, instant soups, powdered milk, and fruits in plastic bags.

Hikers who take time to look for trail markers and landmarks can avoid getting lost. You should always be prepared for a change in weather by carrying a rain parka or extra sweater. When hiking, be alert for ankle-twisting holes and eye-poking twigs. Avoid loose gravel and steep trails, and never trust an unsteady rock or branch—test it first. Carry a change of socks for when your feet get hot and put adhesive tape over reddened areas to avoid blisters.

The smart camper and hiker is one who knows how to turn back when he finds himself in unfamiliar territory. By carrying emergency high-energy foods such as chocolate and nuts, matches, a space blanket and whistle, the prepared camper can deal with the unexpected should he become disoriented or lost.

No matter how carefully you plan, warns Ranger Rick, things still can go wrong. But by observing the basic rules of careful camping, the good camper can avoid the pitfalls that await the careless and unprepared.

BIG GAME FIELD CARE

There's no sanctified method of field dressing a big game animal. There's a logical order, of course, in the steps you take. But most people even have slight variations on these steps. The things that everyone agrees upon, however, are these — common sense, care, cleanliness, a decent knowledge of the animal's anatomy and a sharp knife will result in a field dressed animal of top quality.

Since the insuring of fine steaks and roasts begins the minute you have your game animal, on this poster are a logical series of steps to take when dressing the animal. These steps refer to the dressing of a deer; if your trophy is a bear, elk, moose or other big game you will have to adjust accordingly.

Now... before you hang your bow in a nearby tree and pull out the knife, there are two mighty important steps you must take:

- 1) Make sure the animal is dead. It's totally senseless to wade right in without checking, and suddenly be slashed with a flailing hoof or tossing antlers. Poke the animal in the eye with your bow tip. If there's no reaction, you're almost ready to begin.
- 2) Tag the trophy, then begin field dressing.

1 Position the carcass with head slightly downhill, causing internal organs and fluids to gravitate away from the area of your first incision. Use rocks or small logs to prop carcass upright on its back; spread hind legs and tie one to a tree, rock, etc. to keep carcass positioned. On a buck, begin by cutting around penis sheath and testicles back toward pelvic area and the anal vent. Cut carefully around the genitals on both sides, deep enough to free the organs at the point where they attach to the body.

2 To free the anal vent and colon, use a very sharp knife and carefully cut around the vent to the blade scrapes the inside of the pelvic bone wall. This cut releases the colon from the body. At this stage, many hunters pull the lower intestine out far enough to tie it off with heavy cord or by knotting it, preventing spillage of excrement as the dressing process continues. Do not pull the colon loose from internal organs, however.

3 Open the body cavity with a shallow cut, starting either in the pelvic area and moving forward, or backward from the rib juncture. Pull up loose skin to begin cut, and use fingers of your free hand to guide the knife blade while pushing body organs out of the way. Near pelvic area, avoid puncturing the bladder. Belly skin will pull back, exposing stomach muscles. Make shallow, careful cut through them so intestines will be exposed. Insert free hand fingers into cut and pull muscles up.

4 When cut is completely through the stomach wall, turn the carcass so it now rests with head uphill. Loosen and roll out stomach. Save the liver and put in a plastic bag. Roll the carcass onto its back again and split the pelvic or arch bone to remove colon and sex organs (this step may also be done before opening the body cavity). Slice through meat to pelvic bone and locate the bony sutures. With the edge of a heavy knife or axe blade, plus a couple taps with a rock, open the bone suture and carefully split the pelvic bone. Remove all remaining organs at this end.

5 With a small knife, slice around the perimeter of the diaphragm, the thin fleshy wall between the intestinal cavity and the heart/lung cavity. If you are not saving your deer as a trophy, you may want to continue the body-length cut. Use a heavy knife of saw to more easily cut ribs away from breastbone. At the base of the neck inside the body, sever windpipe and gullet. Pull out heart, lungs, windpipe and gullet. Save the heart in your plastic bag.

6 Prop the body cavity open to help air circulation and cooling of meat. If you can't move the carcass out of the field by yourself, prop it up to enhance draining of any remaining blood or body fluids. If possible, hang it from a tree or tripod of poles by its front legs or antlers. If you can't manage that, drape it over a log or pile of rocks. Skinning in the field is a controversial subject. If it's extremely warm, skinning should be completed as soon as possible. Otherwise, wait until you return to camp, using the hide as insulation and to keep the meat clean until you get there.

Higginson-Henry Wildlife Area Quota Deer Hunt Scheduled

Higginson-Henry Wildlife Area, Route 5, Morganfield, Ky. 42437 and request an application for a permit, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

All applications must be completed and returned to the above address no later than noon September 4. A drawing will be held at the Union County Court House to select 300 hunters who will be mailed permits to participate in the hunt.

Hunters successful in the drawing should receive their permits by September 25. Unsuccessful applicants will not be notified except upon request.

The permit will authorize the hunter to hunt on a designated tract of the Wildlife Area both days or until he takes a deer during the two-day period. All hunters must register in and out of the area's check station each day.

Some Reagan Backers Say Strong Effort To Dump Schweiker Afoot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some of Ronald Reagan's key conservative backers say there's a strong, organized effort to dump his hand-picked running mate, Sen. Richard Schweiker, if Reagan captures the Republican presidential nomination.

Three congressmen, all influential Reagan backers, said Friday that if Reagan wins the GOP nomination at the party's convention some supporters may seek to have the vice presidential nomination decided by the convention delegates.

Meanwhile, President Ford is accelerating his search for a running mate. White House spokesman Ron Nessen said Ford associates today will begin contacting persons who have been recommended for consideration on a Ford ticket. "They'll be asked to keep the contact confidential," Nessen said Friday. He declined to indicate how many Despite assurances from Reagan and Schweiker, many conservative Republicans have voiced concern about the Reagan candidacy since the selection of Schweiker, owner of a liberal voting record while representing Pennsylvania in the Senate since 1969.

"There are telephone calls and letters criss-crossing this country like crazy," said Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina, a Reagan backer. "I could name you a hundred prominent Republicans who have said they are sticking with Reagan but Schweiker is another story."

Rep. Tom Curtis, Reagan's state chairman in Missouri, said he has discussed with other Reagan backers the possibility of an open ballot for the vice presidential nomination.

mass defection of delegates, an Associated Press delegate survey has shown. But nine days before the convention's start, Ford still is leading with 1,103 delegates to Reagan's 1,034. There are 122 uncommitted delegates, and it takes 1,130 for nomination.

The AP total counts only those delegates publicly stating a preference or legally bound — not those leaning toward a candidate.

Ford met with some delegates from South Carolina and Virginia Friday. One previously uncommitted South Carolina delegate, Raymond W. Silfy of Orangeburg, said afterwards he has decided to support Ford.

Reagan and Schweiker head into West Virginia today after chasing after delegates in Schweiker's home state Friday.
