1/2-Cent Per Gallon

Senate Panel Approves New Gasoline Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee voted today to raise the federal tax on gasoline by one-half cent per gallon to finance a series of tax breaks for energy conservation.

The additional tax, which would raise the federal levy on gasoline to 4.5 cents, would bring in about $500 million a year.

The money would pay for proposed tax credits for homeowners who insulate their homes or install heat pumps, solar or geothermal heating systems.

The committee also agreed to remove those and other energy tax incentives from the catchall tax bill now being considered by a Senate-House conference committee.

Instead, the provisions would be considered on their own merits in a separate conference. That could weigh against enactment of the energy-conservation taxes this year.

On Wednesday, their first day of work on the massive tax revision bill, the conferees extended existing general business tax cuts while deciding to restrict tax deductions for individuals using part of their homes for business purposes.

The conferees postponed votes on individual tax reductions and other major revenue matters and instead took up business and foreign income features of the bill.

As a step toward some tax simplification, the conferees approved a provision to allow taxpayers to deduct alimony payments whether or not they itemize deductions on their tax returns. Presently, this deduction is not allowed if a taxpayer uses the standard deduction.

The major business tax action involved two temporary tax cuts that the Senate had voted to make permanent. The Senate-House group decided to keep them on a temporary basis.

First, they agreed to extend the present 10 per cent investment tax credit through 1980. The 1975 Tax Reduction Act boosted the credit to 10 per cent for all firms for 1975 and 1976 only. Previously, it was 7 per cent for businesses and 4 per cent for public utilities.

The extension will cost the Treasury $1.3 billion in fiscal 1977, which begins Oct. 1, and will cost $2.2 billion by fiscal 1981.

The other temporary feature, designed to help smaller businesses, concerns corporate tax rate adjustments that the conferees agreed should stay on the lawbooks through 1977 at a cost to the Treasury of about $1.4 billion a year.

Under this provision, a business firm's first $25,000 of annual income is taxed at a 20 per cent rate, the next $25,000 at 22 per cent, and anything over $50,000 at 48 per cent.

The government, meantime, would gain about $220 million a year through the conferees' compromise plan to tighten deductions for taxpayers who do business at home.

It would mean a taxpayer could take a tax deduction for using part of the home on the job only if that part is used exclusively for business on a regular basis and only if it is the chief business place or site for seeing clients, customers or patients.

HART MEMORIAL PROGRAM — Family members of the late George S. Hart, officials of Murray State University, and officers of the Alumni Association were the principals at a dinner and program in his memory Tuesday evening on the campus. Shown (seated from left) are Mrs. Vernon Roberts, George Landolt, Debbie Landolt, Mrs. Lochie Hart, Mrs. Gene Landolt, Lore Landolt, and Gene Landolt, and (standing from left) State Sen. Pat McCuiston, Vernon Roberts, Dr. Constantine W. Curris, Richard Lewis, Calloway County Attorney Sid Easley, and Mancil Vinson. Guidelines for the Hart Memorial Scholarship were officially released during the program.

Guidelines For George Hart Memorial Scholarship Given

Guidelines for the George S. Hart Memorial Scholarship were officially released as the late Murray civic, political, and business leader was remembered at a dinner on the campus of Murray State University Tuesday evening.

Members of the Hart family on hand for the program sponsored by the University and the Alumni Association to recognize again the contributions made by Hart before his death in 1967 were:

His widow, Mrs. Lochie Hart; his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Landolt; three grandchildren, George, Debbie, and Lore Landolt; and his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Roberts, all of Murray.

They heard Hart, who served 20 years as mayor of Murray and 10 years as a member of the university board of regents, as well as many years as president of the Bank of Murray, described as a builder who valued hard work and who always demonstrated genuine concern for the common man.

Dr. Constantine W. Curris, university president, although pointing out that he did not know Hart, recalled how he heard him described soon after assuming the Murray State presidency in 1973.

"Someone made the observation to me that he was a man of power and prestige who chose to use that power and prestige in behalf of people instead of for his own advantage," he said.

Calling the Hart scholarship an "investment in leadership," Curris said he envisions it as an attraction for students who have the potential to follow the example set by Hart in serving others.

Curris added that he believes the Alumni Association scholarship program at Murray State to be "the finest in the Commonwealth of Kentucky, and I think it's going to get better."

Richard Lewis of Benton, president of the Alumni Association, paid tribute to Hart by marveling at "the hundreds of meetings he must have attended and the tremendous effort and sacrifice it must have taken to record the accomplishments he left for us."

Mrs. Hart, in a response at the conclusion of the program, said she knew her husband would be pleased with the program in his memory and with the perpetual scholarship established in his name.

A former member of the board of regents herself, Mrs. Hart, who served from 1932 to 1948 as secretary of the Alumni Association, pledged her continuing loyalty to Murray State.

Mancil Vinson, director of alumni affairs at Murray State, served as master of ceremonies for the program and introduced the guests. State Sen. Pat McCuiston of Pembroke, president-elect of the Alumni Association, gave the invocation, and Calloway County Attorney Sid Easley, vice-president, delivered the benediction.

Awarded for the first time in 1973, the Hart Memorial Scholarship is one of 20 perpetual memorial scholarships initiated by the Alumni Association since 1971. It is awarded on the bases of academic merit, extracurricular leadership, and financial need.

Hart served from 1940 to 1946 and again from 1963 to 1967 as a member of the board of regents at Murray State. A seven-story residence hall on the campus is named Hart Hall in honor of the man who was also a teacher and circuit clerk in earlier years.

Col. Lee's Cops Ham Prize At State Fair

Many Calloway Countians were on hand including Mr. and Mrs. Ray Broach and daughter Gale, for the 13th Annual Kentucky Country Ham Breakfast at the Kentucky State Fair in Louisville, Wednesday.

Col. Lee's Country Hams of Hardin copped three of the grand prizes, a giant silver pitcher for each. Fortunately Darwin Lee's wife and daughter were along and each could carry one. Mrs. Lee is the former Elouise Allison of Murray.

Despite taking more awards than all other producers in the state combined, the big one got away from Lee's by two points. Broadbent & Bingham of Cadiz took the single ham crown even though Lee's nabbed the Grand Champion group of four.

Records toppled on every hand as the big 17 1/2 pound ham was bought by Louisville Coca Cola Bottlers in honor of their 75th anniversary for $1,035 per pound! Total price for the big beauty was $18,357.57 — an all-time record. Last year's winner had sold for the highest price in world history — $841 a pound.

The crowd was the biggest ever too, 1150 persons were led by Gov. Julian Carroll of Paducah. That nearly doubled last year's 600 who paid $475 to eat ham, redeye gravy, biscuits, grits, scrambled eggs, fried apples, jelly, butter, and coffee or milk.

Helping cheer the Hardin firm to victory was Dr. Ray Moffield, president of the Murray Rotary Club. His daughter Ruth Ann, also made the trip.

All Schneider of the Galt House-Executive Inns pressed Coke for the prize, running the bid to $1030 before dropping out. Col. Lee remains the state's only producer to have won three grand championships despite finishing second this year.

Fire-Rescue Squad Names New Officers

Elections of officers for the Calloway County Fire-Rescue Squad were held Tuesday night, August 24. Max Dowdy was unanimously re-elected to the position of chief by the volunteers and Hal Winchester succeeded Jim Green as Assistant Chief.

Bernard Steen and Bud Miller retained their posts as captain and lieutenant of trucks, respectively. Steve Ladd was elected treasurer for a full term. Ladd has been filling the post for several months due to the resignation of Robert Trenholm earlier this year.

Sam Smith replaced Hal Winchester as secretary and Smith ran unopposed for reporter for the squad. Captain of water rescue went unopposed to Floyd Garland and lieutenant of water rescue went to Loyd Key. Both Garland and Key have been filling these positions for some months due to resignations. The new officers elected Ronnie Barnett to another term as engineer and training officer and Carl Hosford was appointed his assistant.

The new board of directors elected are: Floyd Garland, Hal Winchester, Bud Miller, Jim Green and Carl Hosford. Company elections left Bud Miller and Ricky Edwards as lieutenants of 'A' company and Jerry Edwards and Floyd Garland as lieutenants of 'B' company.

Steve Ladd, center, treasurer of the Calloway County Fire-Rescue Squad, receives a check for $50.00 toward the purchase of rescue equipment needed by the squad. Have Sisters Pay up To Patch Up Family

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My mother died 13 years ago, leaving two young daughters, ages 5 and 10. At the time, I was a young widow with two small children, but I took my little sisters into my home to love and raise with my own. Raising four children alone was a hard struggle, but somehow I managed it.

When my sisters were 18 and 23, I married a fantastic bachelor and we moved to another state. I left all my belongings in care of my sisters, instead of putting them in storage.

In the three years that I lived out of town, my Christmas gifts to my sisters were not acknowledged with as much as a "thank you" or a "Merry Christmas."

When I returned to get my belongings, my brother informed me that the girls had SOLD them, pocketed the money and spent it! I was so hurt and disillusioned I became physically ill.

Now that enough time has passed for me to "forgive and forget," the girls have begun sending me notes and cards. I'm still too hurt to answer.

My husband says if I respond, he'll divorce me. (He won't, of course; he just wants me to know how strongly he feels about this matter.) I hate family feuds, Abby, but I'm not ready to face them after what they did. Should I continue to ignore their letters? What should I expect of the girls if they try to make amends? I honestly don't know the answer to this one.

WHAT TO DO

DEAR WHAT: Apparently, you have not talked frankly with your sisters. If you are certain that the girls understood that your belongings were not to be sold, the only way they can make amends is to reimburse you for their full value. I think you will be happier in the long run if you don't close the door on them forever.

DEAR ABBY: Why would an impotent man hang around a gray-haired waitress who works at a truckstop when he has a faithful, nice-looking wife who's a good cook and still enjoys sex?

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: You've ruled out food and sex, so he must like her conversation.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "B in Roseman": When a man tells you you're too good for him, believe him. He knows himself better than you know him.

FOR FRIDAY, AUGUST 27, 1976

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES
(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) ♈
Avoid tendencies toward haste, emotionalism. Study proffered plans, proposals. New advances indicated, but don't lose interest in current projects.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 to May 21) ♉
Some strain in key associations indicated. Probe deeply to find the cause, the better to cope with it effectively. In any case, keep your sense of humor intact.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21) ♊
Normally, you are not easily deceived, but be especially alert now or you COULD fall for some slick salesmanship.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23) ♋
Store up sagging productivity, revise the format of programs which seem to get nowhere. A change of pace, direction, momentum may be the answer.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23) ♌
A day calling for good judgment. Don't sell any new idea short, and do look for good opportunities which may not be immediately obvious.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) ♍
You grasp ideas easily, see benefits to be gained where others only note the obstacles. Use your instincts NOW — and go forward!

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) ♎
Especially favored now: job and financial interests. Competition may be keen but, where you have the know-how, don't be afraid to get into the race.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) ♏
Mars influences indicate an extremely active day. Things should move briskly and you with them. Don't scatter energies, however.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) ♐
Several chances to do even better than usual. Take advantage of all worthwhile opportunities.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) ♑
An excellent day for making travel plans, whether for pleasure or business. Family concerns also governed by friendly aspects.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) ♒
A good day for trying to push through a unique program. You will get backing from those in authority — IF your approach is deferential.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) ♓
You could overstep limits now if too strong a desire for a certain attainment causes you to press beyond reasonable boundaries.

YOU BORN TODAY are unusually dexterous, both mentally and physically; are extremely practical and efficient — especially in emergencies. Your nature is a gregarious one, but you sometimes yield to moodiness — especially if you find that loved ones will not or cannot live up to your lofty standards.

Your moods also tend to be extreme — one day you will be highly imaginative and optimistic, the next completely lacking in vision and self-confidence. To attain the pinnacles of success which can be yours, it is imperative that you achieve self-mastery, that you learn to stabilize your emotions and strongly emphasize the philosophical side of your nature rather than the worrisome one. You are a truly gifted individual and, once having conquered self, can reach extremely high plateaus of success and happiness.

Craftsmen Register For Festival

Preregistration is now taking place for artists and craftsmen who wish to exhibit at the Kenlake Arts & Crafts Festival, according to Karen Cissell, executive secretary of Kentucky's Western Waterland.

The festival will be at Kenlake State Resort Park September 4 and 5, over Labor Day weekend. Hours of the festival are from 10 a.m. to dusk each day.

"This festival has always been a very popular event for those who exhibit," said Mrs. Cissell. "The last year the festival was held, approximately 150 exhibitors took part, and over 18,000 spectators came to view their work and to purchase the hand-crafted items on display.

According to Mrs. Cissell, musical entertainment will take place at the festival site during both days, and refreshments will be available.

The Kenlake Arts and Crafts Festival was not held in 1975, although it took place very successfully over Labor Day weekend for several years previously.

"The Festival is being sponsored this year by Kentucky's Western Waterland in response to numerous requests for the Festival to return," said Mrs. Cissell.

Kentucky's Western Waterland is tourist promotion organization for the Kentucky and Barkley Lakes region.

Coffee Cup Chatter

The first day of school can be a frightening experience for a young child but parents can help. Parents can prepare the child by talking about the school experience and by explaining what takes place in the classroom. Sometimes it is possible to take the child to the school grounds before classes begin and let him explore the classroom and perhaps talk to the new teacher on an informal basis. Children's initial reactions to school vary. Some have little trouble while others may cry or otherwise express their fears. It is usually best to let the teacher handle the situation. A parent should not linger too long; it is best to allow the child to get acquainted with the teacher and new classmates. Also the young child, who has a tendency to cling to his parents, may benefit from a preschool experience such as day care, nursery school or babysitting in order to help him experience a gradual separation from the parent. At any rate, parents need not worry too much if their child does not immediately become involved in school activities. It takes many children a few days or weeks to warm up to the new teacher and new situations. — Mrs. Sue Frasher, Bardwell.

Remove coffee, tea, wine and soft drink stains from washable fabric by soaking in an enzyme pre-soak product or oxygen bleach. Or, try a prewash soil and stain remover. Follow package instructions for correct use of product, then wash the garment. If the stain remains, launder again using chlorine bleach, if safe for the fabric. — Judy Hetterman, Hickman.

We don't want to start any rumors, but we understand that Woodward is doing an expose on Bernstein.

A novelist noted for his long-windedness sent a copy of his latest book to Ambrose Bierce. When the latter returned it, the novelist asked:

"What did you think of it?"

"I think," replied Bierce, "that the covers are too far apart."

Emil Ludwig's biography "Napoleon" received an unenthusiastic reception when it first appeared, but Horace Liveright, the publisher, promoted the book vigorously and before long it was on the best-seller list.

Ludwig was pleased that his book had caught on, but was disappointed by the puny royalties. When he brought this to the attention of Liveright, the latter explained, "I had extraordinary expenses. Emil, for advertising and publicity. It costs a lot of money to familiarize the public with the principal character in a book."

Ludwig was indignant.

"But, Mr. Liveright," he protested, "YOU didn't make Napoleon famous, I did!"

A writer of limited talent sent, unsolicited, the manuscript of his latest novel to Sir James M. Barrie for a reading. Accompanying the script was a note which read:

"I have submitted this, without success, to magazines, newspapers and publishing houses. Can you think of any other channels?"

To which Barrie replied:

"Have you tried the English Channel?"

The chairman of a charity drive, who had received a generous pledge from Mrs. Russell Sage, decided to ask her millionaire husband for an additional contribution.

Sage was not an easy touch, but the chairman hoped that when the financier learned of his wife's contribution, he would at least match her largesse. The chairman showed Sage the list of contributors, headed by "Mrs. Russell Sage—$5000."

"Is there anything you would like to add to this?" he asked hopefully.

"Yes, there is," replied Sage, taking out his pen.

The other waited expectantly for a check or a pledge. But it was not to be. Instead, Sage wrote "Mr. and" before his wife's name and handed back the list (Milwaukee Journal)

When Ruel Brown, Jr., of Toledo, found a six-year-old shoe-repair ticket in a pocket of an old suit, he called the store to see whether the shoes were still around.

You may not even like animals and your only concern may be that the animal is mauling the neighborhood and you are very angry at the person who was so irresponsible as to let the animal loose. If you do not like animals or are afraid of them but you do accept the responsibility to them and the community to get them to safety, then by all means call the Humane Society (753-3994) or the dog warden (through the police department or the Sheriff's office). Describe the animal well and give its last observed location.

If you are concerned enough for the animal's safety, the Humane Society encourages you to feed the animal until either its owner can be located or a new home can be found for it.

If it is a dog that has rabies tags the Murray City Hall can help you trace the owner through the tag number. The radio station and the newspaper will help you locate the owner or find a new owner. Their advertising is a public service and is free. The Humane Society has a list of people who want pets. Occasionally we will be able to find temporary homes for a dog or cat, but usually we like to reserve these homes for newborn or injured animals. We take most dogs to the City-County pound.

We have found that by using the free publicity as well as canvassing friends one can usually find a home for an animal in a short time. And there is a great deal of satisfaction in knowing that you have made both the animal and the new owner very happy.

Foster Homes Urgently Needed

Dear Editor,

Have you room in your heart? Room in your home? Have you thought about wanting to become involved but just did not know how? If your answers are yes to these questions, you could easily become a foster parent and share your home and life with children who need direction in their lives.

The Department for Human Resources, Bureau for Social Services, is searching for more people to become foster parents for children who need temporary care outside their own homes.

One of the most urgent needs at this time is to have more people who can offer substitute care for youngsters between the ages of 10 and 18. These youngsters come from varied backgrounds and have different needs and problems. They may be involved in pre-delinquent or delinquent behavior and need stability and order to assist them in preparing for the future or they may have medical problems. Some youngsters need special education and some need help because they are runaways or truant from school. They come from all walks of life but regardless of their backgrounds or their problem, they need a home.

Garrott's Galley Dam Disaster Out In Idaho Reunites Two Army Buddies

By M. C. Garrott

All of a sudden I'm writing a lot about floods.

When the big earthen dam on the Teton River in Idaho gave way June 5 and the wall of water it sent crashing downstream took nine lives, left 30 people missing and flooded 4,000 homes and businesses as well as 300 square miles of Idaho farmland, I wondered if an old Army buddy of mine had been caught up in it.

His name is Arthur Porter, and the last I had heard of him, he lived in Rexburg, some miles downstream from the big Teton River Dam which gave way so unexpectedly.

Arthur and I had become close friends while attending the Quartermaster Office Candidate School (OCS) at Camp Lee, Va., early in World War II. In fact, our bunks were side by side. Our common bond, however, was that we were both newspapermen.

We often talked about running a newspaper together after the war. He wanted me to join him after the war in Jackson Hole, Idaho, and run a paper there. Jackson Hole at the time was a resort area, and still may be. Some of the movie stars — old froggy-voiced Wallace Berry for one — had homes or ranches there.

We went our separate ways, though, on Army orders, of course, when we graduated and were commissioned. For a few years we kept up with each other by writing occasionally, but eventually lost touch. I often wondered what had happened to him.

Then one night recently our phone rang late one night and it was Arthur, calling from Rexburg.

The flood waters from the broken dam had gotten into his garage, and as he sorted out some soaked files, he had come across a letter I had written him in 1952. It had taken a bit of doing, but he had traced me to Murray.

We talked for almost half an hour. He is now retired, and he and his wife, Beth, have three sons, all of whom are in the family's business — a printing business which specializes in wedding invitations. Their orders come from all over the world. He had left the newspaper business soon after the war, and had built quite a business in the specialty printing field.

The flood, however, had hit them hard.

Arthur estimated it had caused more than half-a-million dollars' damage to their plant. "We had 45 presses in four feet of water before we knew it," he told me on the phone. "We didn't have time to save anything, it came so sudden."

He and his sons are cleaning up the mess, though, and are probably back in business by now. Meanwhile, we are looking forward to getting together somewhere sometime.

Beth and I are doing some traveling now that we've retired," he said, "and we just felt it would be nice to look up those of our friends whom we haven't seen for a long time." We haven't seen each other since 1942. I went to Camp Livingston at Alexandria, La. I don't recall where they sent him.

Meanwhile, Arthur and I are back in touch, so some little bit of good did come out of the dam breaking.

Let's Ask Questions About Those Numbers

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — As we in America become more dependent on computer-produced numbers to tell us the state of the economy, it behooves us from time to time to ask questions about those numbers.

If the numbers aren't correct, don't we risk making incalculably bad decisions? In investments, in tax policy, in politics?

As with any numerical products, the economic statistics that guide such decisions are only as good as the validity of the concepts involved, the correctness of techniques, and the quality of the raw data to be processed.

With this in mind, a person scanning the jobless figures for 1976 might have reason to pause and ponder. These figures, as popularly and officially used, are seasonally adjusted to offset temporary factors.

If we look at the raw data — that is, unadjusted — we find that there were 8,174,000 people without jobs in January 1976, but only 7,577,000 without jobs in June.

If we now look at the seasonally adjusted data we see a different story. In this column we find that there were only 7,290,000 without jobs in January, but that there were 7,426,000 unemployed in July.

Which way did unemployment go? Down, as in the raw count, or up, as in the seasonally adjusted figures? Do we accept the raw count, or instead, the formulation of the statisticians?

The official jobless rate is based on the adjusted figures. It is on this rate that governmental decisions are based, and the millions of voter and investor decisions.

It is also a rate that, based as it is on a somewhat arbitrary formula, at best is a good estimate. At the end of the year these adjusted figures are often raised, which is to say, corrected.

A simple set of numbers in the June 1976 issue of the Federal Reserve Bulletin also offers reason to reflect on statistical procedures. It refers to expansion in industrial production as an annual percentage.

From 1946 to 1963, the Fed reports, industrial production rose at an annual percentage of 4.2 per cent. And from 1963 to 1974, it states, the annual increase was 4.6 per cent.

But, combining the two periods the Fed reports that from 1946 to 1974 the annual percentage increase in industrial production was 4.7, a conclusion, you may note, that is greater than the components.

Moving on to the Index of Leading Indicators, we find here one of the most closely watched barometers of the economy — a barometer, not a thermometer — it is supposed to foretell, rather than measure past or present.

Beginning in late 1970, the index continued rising into the third quarter of 1974. Relying upon it, one economist after another forecast a continuation of expansion, even as the economy was falling apart.

Even the president of the United States was fooled or, to put it more accurately, his economic advisers were fooled.

These embarrassed economists were just too trusting. Pierre Reinfrat, the consulting economist, was too perplexed to let the matter rest and he thereby avoided some of the pits into which his colleagues fell.

Examining the figures, Reinfrat concluded that the problem had to be with the concept. Most of the numbers in the index, he observed, were in value terms, such as the value of new construction.

This being so, obviously the index was inflated as badly as the dollar which was used to measure its components. The index was rising, and pointing to further expansion, because prices for everything were rising.

Deflated, the index clearly and accurately showed that trouble was brewing for the economy, trouble that came in the shape of the worst recession since the Great Depression of the 1930s.

Moral: When we get so used to the numbers that we don't check them out we can get into an awful lot of trouble.

Let's Stay Well

Encephalitis Epidemic

By F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

While the potential danger of a "swine flu" epidemic this fall and winter receives much publicity, public health workers are busy giving attention to another group of viruses, which cause encephalitis. Encephalitis may flare up and peak during the summer and early fall.

Epidemics of viral encephalitis in the United States occur in cycles, often in several successive years. The reasons for such cycles are obscure. The outbreaks have taken place in about 20 areas in various parts of the country. The severity of the cases may vary, and deaths have been concentrated in Illinois, Mississippi, Indiana and Ohio.

Because of the spread of viral encephalitis last year, epidemiologists fear that outbreaks may take place this summer and fall.

The symptoms are often confused with other diseases, particularly in the early stages. Cases may begin like a cold or influenza with headache, general aching, a low-grade fever, and a sore throat. But signs of brain involvement may appear with drowsiness, confusion, stupor and even coma. Convulsions sometimes occur.

Most cases recover in several weeks, but the more severe ones (about 10 per cent) may show some permanent impairment of the nervous system. An occasional case is fatal. No medicine is effective in killing the virus, and supportive treatment is given.

The virus is not transmitted directly from one person to another. In other words, the disease is not contagious.

Authorities are uncertain how the virus spreads. It apparently infects mosquitoes, including our most common variety (culex pipiens). They transmit the virus to birds (particularly starlings and sparrows). Other mosquitoes pick up the virus from the birds by biting them and transmit the virus to humans. One family of viruses that cause human encephalitis is transferred through horses by mosquito bites in a manner similar to infecting birds.

Prevention consists of trapping mosquitoes, grinding them and injecting them into mice and duck embryos to see if the virus is present.

Birds are trapped and their blood studied. They are tagged and released. They may be retrapped and restudied for evidence of the virus.

Spraying of mosquito breeding sites with insecticides is important. Less spraying is required if rainfall is low. Small bodies of water should be drained to lessen breeding areas. People should avoid exposure by staying in screened houses, especially at night. No vaccine is available.

Many cases probably go unrecognized, but people who are ill during this summer and fall should consider encephalitis a possibility if signs and symptoms are unusual, persistent or severe, and they should seek early professional aid.

Q: Mrs. B.R. feels it is unfair and unjustified to keep communications closed permanently between a natural parent (mother) and her child who is placed for adoption. She requests comment.

A: Many aspects of life appear unfair to me and to a majority of other people, and it almost impossible to be fair to all parties in situations such as you mention.

Legal, moral and psychological reasons justify keeping the separation complete and the past buried. Admittedly, it would be consoling to a mother to know that her child is healthy, happy and well situated.

Occasionally, medical, hereditary and genealogical information might be important in certain cases. Most people with experience in handling such cases feel that complete and permanent separation is preferable and justified.

Q: Mr. D.C. asks whether heat or cold is preferable to use on a bruised area.

A: While medical opinion varies on this subject, I prefer cold. It relieves pain, lessens congestion and may reduce the rate of bacteria in the cooled area.

George Blanda

'World Not Going To Come To End Because I'm Not Playing'

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — "The world is not going to come to an end because I'm not going to play football anymore," says George Blanda, the flinty star waived by the Oakland Raiders after 26 seasons of professional football.

A hero to every aging would-be athlete, Blanda was placed on waivers by the Raiders Tuesday. He confirmed the story himself when word leaked out and the team refused to confirm or deny it until Wednesday.

He left camp here quietly Wednesday, saying goodbye to only a few players and friends. There was no cheering for the man who holds the all-time National Football League scoring record and the record for field goals.

But Raiders Managing General Partner Al Davis suggested that the team may have plans for Blanda's future. "It is a possibility that Blanda could play this year," Davis said. "I'm going to talk to him Friday. We've still got some things to discuss."

"I don't know if this is it," Blanda said. "I just want to get out of here now and go where I know someone cares about me."

Quarterback Ken Stabler, one of Blanda's closest friends, said he was surprised that Blanda was shuffled out with no fanfare. "When you've been what George Blanda has been, I thought there would be a big press conference and he would go out with glory. He deserved it."

"This makes the third time a team has declared me too old to play this game — only this time they may be right," said Blanda, who played with the Chicago Bears and Houston Oilers before coming to the Raiders in 1967.

He has scored 2,002 points — 653 ahead of his closest rival. His string of 201 consecutive extra points is the third-longest of all time. He is the oldest man ever to play professional football by nearly four years and has played 340 NFL games, the most of any player.

The Buffalo Bills cut down to the required 49-man limit by placing super running back O.J. Simpson and lineman Donnie Green on the "did not report" list.

Simpson has refused to play in Buffalo and has requested a trade to a West Coast team. Green, an offensive tackle, has asked to have his contract renegotiated.

So far, defensive back Bryant Salter has not reported to his new team, the Miami Dolphins. Washington had dealt Salter to Miami Tuesday for Jake Scott and an undisclosed draft choice.

"It's not quite clear what Salter's going to do," said Miami Coach Don Shula. "We want him down here as quick as possible. We'll give him a reasonable time to report."

If he doesn't report, the trade would be jeopardized.

The Dolphins Wednesday traded Don Testerman, a running back, to the Philadelphia Eagles for an undisclosed draft choice.

The New York Giants cut offensive tackle Willie Young, in his 11th year — longest in terms of service on the Giants.

The Los Angeles Rams cut wide receiver Earl McCulloch, formerly a track star at the University of Southern California.

Detroit Lions veteran defensive tackle Herb Orvis was suspended after an apparent confrontation with Coach Rick Forzano Wednesday.

Ali Leaving Show Low To Help Boost Ticket Sales

SHOW LOW, Ariz. (AP) — This White Mountain town's most celebrated guest won't be on hand when the Show Low Cougars open their 1976 schoolboy football season here against Payson Sept. 10 before going on the road the following week to tangle with the Snow Flake Lobos.

Muhammad Ali will be going East Sept. 6 — pulled away from the desire for privacy that brought him here by the promoter's need to sell tickets for Ali's heavyweight title defense against Ken Norton Sept. 28.

"Show Low is a fine place with very fine people, but it's just, too far from Yankee Stadium," John Condon, publicist for fight promoter Madison Square Garden, said Wednesday.

Ali said he would begin training Sept. 7 at Kiamasha Lake, N.Y., where he would live in private quarters under tight security.

The champion also had to come down out of the mountains today to make an appearance in Washington where he was to put on an exhibition Friday, address the National Press Club and attend a World Boxing Association dinner. He was scheduled to return to this 6,400-foot high community of 3,378 people Saturday.

But while Ali was to entertain the WBA, he said he was going to punish the rival World Boxing Council.

The WBC announced from Mexico City last week that if Ali beats Norton he must defend against George Foreman in 90 days or be stripped of the title.

"I'm gonna punish him for that," said Ali, his face folding into a sneer. "I made boxing the world over and they're gonna take the title like I'm ducking somebody. I don't need a title. I'm above the title."

"I ain't gonna fight in 90 days now. I'm gonna fight him in 91 days."

Norton, who won and lost 12-round decisions with Ali in 1973, also will be in Washington Friday and then switch his training camp from Gilman Hot Springs, Calif., to Grossinger, N.Y., Sunday.

"It might be over in three rounds," Ali said of the fight. "I ain't makin' a prediction. But it will end with the first combination."

"I'm the champion. You must remember that those two fights (the 1973 Norton matches) weren't for the title."

Ali is guaranteed $6 million, but a percentage deal could run his purse much higher.

New Orleans Chosen

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association has chosen New Orleans as the site for its 1980 convention.

The city's tourist commission said Wednesday about 1,200 delegates are expected for the Jan. 8-11 convention. The American Football Coaches' Association usually holds its convention in the same city on corresponding dates, but that group's decision has not been announced, a spokesman for the tourist bureau said.

Valets To Meet

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — Striking jockeys' valets were scheduled to meet today with track officials and a state mediator to try to revive the newly-formed union's stalled attempt to negotiate its first contract.

Fourteen members of Teamsters Local 814 threw up a picket line outside the historic track after the sixth race Wednesday, leaving the riders to prepare their own silks, saddles and other equipment.

It was not immediately known whether other union workers at the thoroughbred track would honor the picket lines.

Patrick Lynch, spokesman for the New York Racing Association, said the track would complete the final week of its month-long August meeting as scheduled.

Racers In Final Week Of Twice-A-Day Drills

"They're so bruised, battered, and tired from two-a-day practices and the hot weather and humidity it's hard to tell right now how well they're performing," Coach Bill Furgerson said of his Murray State Racers.

The Racers are in their final week of twice-a-day practice. Classes begin next week and the football season will begin Sept. 4. The initial game will be against Southeast Missouri in Murray's Roy Stewart Stadium.

"These two-a-days are a terrible grind on players," Furgerson said, "but we have so little time to get ready for the first game, we feel we have to stick with them. We'll have to use all of next week's sessions on our game plan for Southeast Missouri."

"We've had to do more basic work this fall than usual because we have so many inexperienced players whom we'll have to use. The defense, of course, is veteran but the offense is almost completely new."

"Despite their tiredness, we see some indications they're beginning to grasp what we're trying to teach, and I think we'll have every thing ironed out by next Saturday."

The Racers have scrimmaged heavily the last week and several of them are nursing injuries. However, only linebacker Steve Maxwell and offensive tackle Greg Haley have serious injuries. Maxwell may be lost for the season with a bad knee. Haley also injured a knee but is expected to return to the squad.

Players who have performed well in recent scrimmages are middle linebacker Kevin Whitfield, quarterbacks Mike Dickens and David Ruzich, defensive ends Jeff Parks and Bill Shannan, and defensive tackle Jeff Boyd.

Center Jim Jez, who transferred to Murray after being named an All-American at Ferrum (Va.) Junior College, graded highest of all offensive players in a game-type scrimmage last Saturday. He was successful on 75 per cent of his assignments. Guard Duke Willis graded 64 per cent and tight end David Thomas 59 per cent. Wide receivers Gary Brumm and Jeff Braaten also performed well.

Several freshmen have played well and will likely see early-season action. Among them are linebacker Tony Boone of Murray, running back Tim Gordan of Tompkinsville, and offensive tackle Keith Holder of Mayfield.

The game with Southeast Missouri will be Murray's first with the Indians since 1969, when the Racers won 34-14. The Indians lost their first four games last fall and then won their last seven and the Missouri Intercollegiate championship. They have 36 lettermen back from that team.

The Murray-Semo game will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Steve Thomas To Ride In Mini Championships

Steve Thomas of Murray has qualified to ride in the Mini-Cycle National in San Antonio, Texas, August 28 and 29, according to notification from the American Motorcycle Association.

The United States is divided into six regions and only the top six riders from each region can qualify. Thomas qualified third.

To qualify for the Nationals, Steve had to finish in the top six at three regional Moto-Cross races—one at Fairburn, Ga., June 27; one at St. Petersburg, Fla., July 4; and one at Louisville, July 17. Thomas finished first at Louisville.

Steve who is 5'6" and weighs a little over one hundred pounds is quiet and shy, but does he ever ride. He comes from a racing family with his dad, Kenneth Thomas, being a national champion in 1968 and former owner of Thomas Honda Sales, Murray. Also Steve has an uncle, a cousin, and a younger brother, Terry, who are avid motorcycle racers in Western Kentucky.

The Murray youth has encountered enough misfortunes in his racing career to swap tales with any other persons. He has had crunched collarbones and fractured arms and legs.

Steve said he enjoys racing, the excitement, the competition, and meeting other boys from all over the South.

Thomas rides a specially made cycle, a Honda 125 Elismore frame cut down with sleeve down engine. His dad, Kenneth, and John Hodge, special cycle mechanic, are the builders of this cycle.

Steve's mother, Sylvia, who is head of his fan club, says the whole family enjoys racing, camping, and meeting new people. Racing is what Steve wants and we want it for him, Mrs. Thomas said.

The family will be in San Antonio, Texas, this weekend for Steve to compete in the mini-cycle national.

Blass' Tips Help Kison To 3-0 Victory Over San Diego

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer
Steve Blass no longer is with the Pittsburgh Pirates; but the former World Series hero's presence still is evident—in the pitching of Bruce Kison.

Kison, remembering some tips given to him by Blass, fired a five-hitter Wednesday night, pitching the Pirates to a 3-0 victory over the San Diego Padres.

After striking out six and not walking a batter en route to his first shutout of the season, Kison, 10-8, said: "My changeup was going real good. I picked up that pitch from Steve Blass when he was with the club. It's taken me a couple of years to get the confidence to use it and now I use it in spots. Tonight, it worked very well."

Blass starred for the Pirates in the 1971 World Series against the Baltimore Orioles, hurling two complete one-run victories, one a three-hitter and the other a four-hitter in the decisive seventh game.

Kison, a 21-year-old rookie that year, also played an important role in the Series triumph, winning the fourth game with 6 1-3 innings of scoreless, one-hit relief. Since then, his major league career has been undistinguished.

Kison got the Padres to hit 10 ground ball outs, and all five hits off him were ground ball singles. All of the fly balls San Diego hit were weak.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Montreal Expos 3-1, the Atlanta Braves beat the Philadelphia Phillies 5-1, the San Francisco Giants whipped the New York Mets 7-1, and the Chicago Cubs downed the Houston Astros 5-1.

Dave Parker and Richie Hebner singled in Pittsburgh runs in the fourth inning and Richie Zisk homered in the eighth.

The Dodgers' victory, their ninth in the last 10 games, moved them within 8½ games of idle, first-place Cincinnati in the NL West. The loss was Montreal's 11th in a row—second longest losing streak in the major leagues this season.

Former Expo Jim Lytle had the winning hit for the Dodgers, a two-run single in the fifth inning, and Doug Rau scattered seven hits for his 12th victory.

Braves 5, Phillies 1
Two-run homers by Ken Henderson and Vic Correll backed the six-hit pitching of Phil Niekro, 14-9, as Atlanta handed Philadelphia's East Division leaders their second loss in nine games.

Giants 7, Mets 1
Ed Halicki spaced eight hits and struck out nine in beating the Mets for the fourth time in his career without a loss.

Garry Matthews paced the Giants' attack. He hit a solo homer in the first inning, then doubled to trigger a six-run sixth inning and capped the big inning with a run-scoring single.

Cubs 5, Astros 1
Chicago's Ray Burris hurled a seven-hitter, with four strikeouts and one walk, for his seventh victory in the past eight games and his 11th overall.

Bill Madlock supplied the batting power for the Cubs, drilling a two-run homer in the first inning and a two-run double in the second.

Nothing Said About The Grand Old Game Of Tennis

By The Associated Press
There's nothing said about the grand old game of tennis anymore.

Politics scored an ace in Philadelphia, where women's tennis teams from the Philippines and Hungary joined those from the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia Wednesday in withdrawing from the Federation Cup.

The Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia, protesting the appearance in Philadelphia of white supremacist countries Rhodesia and South Africa, were suspended from the 1977 Federation Cup and may be fined by the International Lawn Tennis Association. No sanctions were announced.

Ilie Nastase and Colin Dibley played a different kind of net game, engaging in a shoving match in South Orange, N.J., at the Tennis Week Open. No punches were thrown.

"He's a peasant," said Nastase, who eventually won the match 6-4, 6-3.

"That guy's got no class at all," said Dibley. "I have no respect for that guy at all."

The women's bracket of the Tennis Week Open was to continue today, with Dr. Renee Richards, the transsexual who has won her first two matches, meeting Kathy Harter in a quarter-final match.

President Ferdinand Marcos ordered the Philippines team home from Philadelphia. "This action is in keeping with policy of the Philippines government in support for the U.N. General Assembly resolutions on apartheid sports," a cable from Marcos said.

The Philippines' withdrawal moved England into the quarter-finals, joining Australia, West Germany, Switzerland and Denmark in the third round. Evonne Goolagong and Diane Fromholtz scored victories in Australia's 3-0 triumph over Belgium. West Germany beat Italy 3-0 and Switzerland and Denmark beat Canada and Uruguay, respectively, by 2-1 scores.

The United States team plays Yugoslavia Thursday night in a second-round match. Chris Evert will not be able to play in the match because of a sore right hand. She is undergoing treatment in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. and hopes to play this weekend in the $130,000 tournament.

The other U.S. players, Rosemary Casals and Billie Jean King, will play in the three matches. No substitutions are allowed in the Federation Cup.

The incident between Nastase and Dibley began was triggered by the following exchange between the two players.

"Hey, we're playing a tennis match," said Dibley after Nastase was engaged in conversation with a spectator. Nastase replied, "Yeah, but you don't play tennis good enough for me."

Dibley walked to the net, as did Nastase. They exchanged words softly, then Dibley pushed Nastase and Nastase pushed back. They both then returned to their respective baselines.

Committee Subpoenaes Dan Schorr

WASHINGTON (AP) — Risking a confrontation over freedom of the press, the House ethics committee has subpoenaed CBS correspondent Daniel Schorr to ask who gave him a secret House intelligence committee report. Schorr immediately reaffirmed Wednesday that he won't tell, and some ethics committee members said they are inclined to try to cite him for contempt if he doesn't.

Contempt action by the House could force a court decision on whether reporters have the right to refuse to reveal their news sources.

But the House could avoid the fight on grounds that there is simply not enough time left in the present session to press it.

Chairman John J. Flynt, D-Ga., said the committee voted 8 to 4 Wednesday to authorize him to subpoena Schorr and 8 to 3 to subpoena three other witnesses to testify Sept. 15. Schorr has acknowledged that he is responsible for the intelligence committee's final report being published in the Village Voice, a New York weekly newspaper, after the House voted to keep it secret.

The House took that action when President Ford said the report contained classified information that had been turned over to the committee.

The ethics committee also voted to subpoena Clay Felker, publisher of the Village Voice, and Aaron Latham and Sheldon Zalaznick, employees of New York magazine, which Felker also publishes.

Schorr had said weeks ago that if subpoenaed he would not tell the ethics committee who leaked the report to him. He restated that position in Los Angeles Wednesday after the panel made its decision.

Muhlenberg Teachers Plan To Continue Work Stoppage Despite Board's Threat

POWDERLY, Ky. (AP) — Striking Muhlenberg County teachers plan to continue their work stoppage despite a county board of education threat to fire them if they aren't at work by Friday, a Kentucky Education Association spokesman said.

Gerald Jaggers, director of publications for the KEA, said the teachers voted "overwhelmingly" late Wednesday to continue their strike despite the board's "threat" to take punitive measures.

He added that KEA lawyers were to talk with teachers today to explain the legal ramifications.

The teachers' meeting was held after Mrs. Sandra Snodgrass, the president of the Muhlenberg County Teachers Association (MCTA), reported that teachers were told in certified letters from the county school superintendent that they will be fired unless they end a strike that closed schools Wednesday, the first day of classes.

There were, however, indications that the school board and the MCTA might be on the verge of resolving their most serious dispute.

The Muhlenberg County Board of Education voted Wednesday to order the teachers back to work. The board said teachers will face disciplinary action if they are not behind their desks by Friday.

After the board's ultimatum, Jaggers said that the MCTA received an "informal feeler that, in essence, the board would meet and confer with us. The teachers have been ready to sit down and talk with the board all along."

Mrs. Snodgrass said the teachers were "surprised, shocked and outraged" at the letters, in which the board said "they will terminate our certification and we will lose our tenure."

School board officials were not available for comment on how the board would replace the teachers if the strike continues past the Friday deadline.

The MCTA was formed last May, but the school board has so far refused to recognize it as the collective bargaining agent for the 204 member teachers. Mrs. Snodgrass said the teachers have voted overwhelmingly not to work until their group is granted recognition.

Teachers established picket lines

Monday and Tuesday in advance of Wednesday's opening day of classes.

Mrs. Snodgrass said that "only a few" of the county's 4,500 pupils were at school Wednesday and that those students left shortly after school opened because there weren't enough teachers available. She added that some teachers crossed the picket lines, but that "more than 150" members participated in the strike and managed to halt classes in all eight county schools.

Bill Wilcutt, assistant county school superintendent, denied that all schools were shut down. "We had pretty good attendance, I understand," he said.

KEA Executive Secretary Robert Summers said his group endorses the work action in Muhlenberg County. He said the MCTA has indicated a willingness for area ministers to mediate the dispute. He said the board has not responded to that suggestion.

Wilcutt said the board, while hopeful of a speedy settlement, "has taken the position they will not accept the teachers' association proposals. The school board objects to some proposals."

Letcher County Teachers Unsure On Extending Strike To Third Day Today

WHITESBURG, Ky. (AP) — Letcher County teachers were unsure whether to extend their strike into a third day today in the wake of a temporary restraining order that forbids further strike activity.

Letcher Circuit Judge F. Byrd Hogg issued the temporary restraining order Wednesday on a motion from the school board. The order enjoins the Letcher County Teachers Organization (LCTO) from further work stoppages and further prohibits teachers and other persons from maintaining picket lines at or near Letcher County school property.

Charles Vice of the Kentucky Education Association said that LCTO members were unsure whether to continue the strike in defiance of the court order.

"We aren't sure what they'll do," he said, and added that the KEA was "providing the individuals with legal advice as to implications" of the court order.

The strike was called when the Letcher County Board of Education board broke off negotiations on a contract with the teacher's organization, which had operated under an annual contract the past six years.

More than 100 teachers walked picket lines for the second day Wednesday in front of the county's 17 schools, closing five, according to LCTO Vice President Terry Cornett.

"We just want a resumption of negotiations," said Cornett. "Salary is not the issue. We have given up on that for this year, and have accepted what we were offered."

He said the current contractual roadblock "largely deals with class size, materials, things like that."

Cornett said the LCTO was upset because "we've had input into the system for six years, and this has been taken away."

Letcher County Schools Supt. Kendall Boggs agreed with Cornett that some 100 teachers picketed while another 150 went to work in the county's 5,200-student system.

"The only thing we're doing is trying to hold schools open," said Boggs. "The decision of the board at this time is not to reopen negotiations with the teachers."

Prior to the issuance of the court order, LCTO President Atwell Turner said that his group is "in this to win. I think we're winning so far, and we're not about to give up."

Viking Signal Could Point To Mars Life

By RICHARD SALTUS
AP Science Writer

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A Viking experiment has again given a signal that could mean Martian life, adding one more piece to a puzzle that seems to hint at a different answer nearly every day.

The outcome of a control experiment disclosed Wednesday "increases the chance" that soil taken aboard the lander contains

Louisville To Los Angeles Route Is Applied For

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — An application for permission to provide nonstop service between Louisville and Los Angeles has been submitted to the Civil Aeronautics Board by Hughes Airwest, an airline based in San Francisco.

If the CAB grants approval, Hughes Airwest could extend the service to San Francisco and other cities.

American Airlines has an application pending for a Louisville to Los Angeles route.

Breckinridge Named To Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — A caucus of Democrats on the House Agriculture Committee has named Rep. John B. Breckinridge, D-Ky., chairman of the subcommittee on forests.

Breckinridge will fill the vacancy left by the death in a plane crash of Rep. Jerry Litton, D-Mo.

life, said Dr. Norman Horowitz, a biologist on the Viking research team.

But the head of that team, Dr. Harold P. Klein, said there are still alternative explanations not pointing to life. He said that if the test results were not signs of life, then some very unusual chemical process in the sandy red soil is fooling the three biology experiments aboard Viking.

For 3½ weeks these experiments have been yielding results that one day make scientists gloomy and the next day optimistic — which, as Horowitz says, is the way science always works. The difference in Viking is that the public gets word of each step in the investigation.

Ordinarily, scientists work months or years to arrive at a conclusion before it is reported.

There remains one unavoidable fact in the tests: Viking's organic analysis instrument has found no organic matter in two samples of Mars soil. This bodes ill for the discovery of life, because on earth all living things produce organic matter.

"It won't be possible to establish a biological interpretation if we fail to find organic material on Mars," Horowitz said.

The results reported Wednesday came from the second running of a test to determine whether living things in a soil sample are taking carbon from the atmosphere to use as food or for growth.

On its first run, the experiment reported that something in the soil was using a small amount of carbon.

To test whether the activity was due to something living, another sample of identical soil was heat-sterilized to kill any life.

When the experiment was done on the sterilized soil, said Horowitz, the results showed little or no carbon taken from the atmosphere.

One conclusion could be that living organisms were active in the first test but were killed off by the sterilization.

But "since the signal is coming from a world that is still poorly understood," said Horowitz, it might be that a chemical process not due to life in the first test was halted by the sterilizing heat.

Commission Finds No Evidence Of Wrongdoing By State Police

By MARIA BRADEN
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—A special commission investigating handling of anti-busing protests by police in Louisville and Jefferson County has found no evidence of wrongdoing by the Kentucky State Police.

However, the commission found local law enforcement officers lacked training and equipment to handle the civil disturbances that erupted last fall, and that many became "overzealous in their suppression of incidents" during the demonstrations.

The seven-member panel was created by Gov. Julian Carroll Sept. 22, 1975, to look into allegations of misconduct by law enforcement officers. After investigating 29 separate complaints, the commission made several recommendations.

Some could be implemented immediately by the appropriate agency; others would require legislative action. A spokesman for the governor said he has not discussed whether he will include any of the recommendations in his call for a special General Assembly session later this year.

Carroll said the commission's report should "show us the hopelessness of a recurrence of these kinds of confrontations."

"We know there are legal methods of demonstrating one's discontent with government, and there are standards that must be followed in police response to public demonstration."

One recommendation referred to the Justice Department said all law enforcement officers in uniform should be required to wear badges or nameplates for identification when on duty. Where wearing such a badge might pose a danger, the name should be sewn on the uniform, the commission said.

The recommendation stemmed from the fact that many of those who complained said they could not identify the officer or officers involved in alleged wrongdoing because they were not easily identified.

The panel said both citizen and police rights were violated during the protests.

It recommended that those complaints be resolved through the courts.

However, the panel also said there should be a better system for processing individuals accused of offenses during the civil disturbances. It recommended that uniform procedures be established to process citizens complaints

"which will deal fairly and impartially with both the accuser and the accused."

The commission said that, where possible, alternatives—such as payment for claims on abusive action by police—were referable to litigation.

In regard to local police, the commission suggested upgrading minimum educational levels for entry into the force. It said riot control training should be made mandatory for all Kentucky police officers and that training programs should emphasize the "human aspects" of law enforcement. The panel also said that despite instances of apparent misconduct, most law enforcement officers and agencies conducted themselves with "dignity and professionalism during a very difficult situation."

Group Protests Speeding With Rolling Roadblock

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Stephen Long and five friends drove the 50 miles of Interstate 94 between Ann Arbor to Detroit today at 55 miles an hour, the legal speed limit.

They drove the entire distance two and three cars abreast and when they got to Detroit, Long estimated, about 600 cars were backed up behind them.

He said he wanted to protest the way motorists ignore the speed limit, wasting gasoline in the process.

The group, with signs declaring "Stay Alive at 55" and "Gas Shortage," left Ann Arbor shortly after 7 a.m. on the two and three-lane freeway.

Four miles later, they had a following of 45 cars and trucks and the rush-hour pavement was getting crowded, Long said.

It got so crowded, he said, that some motorists began passing on the shoulders of the road.

"It was really hairy," the 23-year-old Long said after reaching Detroit. "It was amazing how obnoxious people were."

Lt. Robert Pifer, commander of the Ypsilanti State

Police post, said the protest was legal since motorists have "a right to drive 55. That's the speed limit, even if it's in every lane."

Kidnap Suspect Is Arrested

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A 25-year-old Louisville man accused of kidnaping another man, locking him in a car trunk and driving him to Indianapolis has been arrested, the Federal Bureau of Investigation says.

Michael A. Allen was being held Wednesday in lieu of $25,000 bond, an FBI spokesman said. A preliminary hearing is scheduled Sept. 3, he added.

If convicted, Allen, who is also charged with the theft and interstate transportation of a car, faces a life sentence, a $5,000 fine or both, the spokesman said.

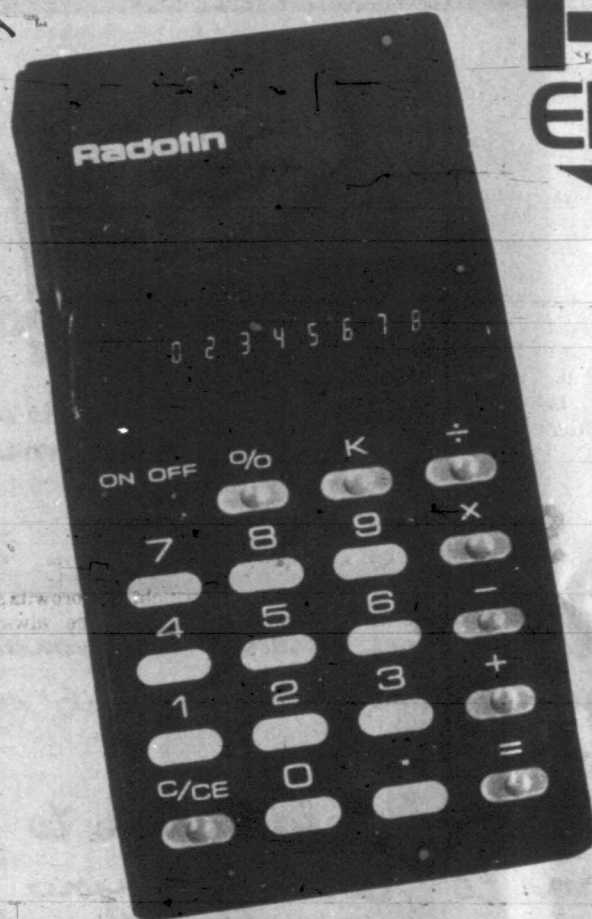

Allen is charged with kidnaping Marshall L. Stansberry of Jefferson County on July 11, the FBI said. The spokesman said Stansberry was able to free himself by using tools that were in the car's trunk.

Biggest Trade Deficit In Two Years Reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another big surge in oil imports contributed to the biggest U.S. trade deficit in nearly two years in July, the Commerce Department said today. Imports exceeded exports by $827 million.

The July trade figures appeared to put an end to administration hopes earlier in the year that the nation would have a trade surplus in 1976.

The Commerce Department said today the nation could end the year with a trade deficit of $3.2 billion, the second highest on record, if present trading trends continue.

The agency said a major factor in the July deficit was a 7.5 per cent increase in petroleum imports, and that the over-all oil import bill totalled $3.1 billion.

The increase in oil imports in July was $527 million on a dollar basis, which compared with a $517 million rise in June. U.S. oil imports have jumped sharply as the nation's economy has recovered from the recent recession.

The over-all volume of trade in July set a new high, with both exports and imports exceeding the $10 billion level, the first time they have done this simultaneously.

Exports totalled $10.022 billion and imports reached $10.849 billion.

The July trade deficit of $827 million compared with a deficit of $377 million in June and was the largest monthly deficit since $883 million in August of 1974.

If the United States continues to run substantial trade deficits this year, it could bring additional downward pressures on the U.S. dollar since a trade deficit means more dollars are flowing out.

Fatal Nickel Level Found In Disease

FARMINGTON, Conn. (AP) — The discovery of potentially fatal levels of nickel in tissue samples taken from victims of legionnaires' disease "certainly strengthens the possibility" that nickel carbonyl gas caused the illness, says a medical researcher.

Dr. F. William Sunderman Jr., who heads a team of scientists at the University of Connecticut, said Wednesday night that a two-week study had found significant traces of nickel in tissue taken from the kidney, brain, liver and other organs of three victims of the disease.

Sunderman said the results "came out quite well in terms of supporting the role of nickel carbonyl gas" as the possible cause of the disease, which has killed 26 persons who attended a state American Legion Convention in Philadelphia July 21-24.

The number of people known to have contracted the as-yet-unidentified disease rose to 176 on Wednesday.

State health officials confirmed that J. Bruce Rogers of Moorestown, N.J., had been hospitalized in critical condition with the disease. Rogers, the manager of a Philadelphia hotel, attended two sessions of the Legion convention.

Sunderman said nickel levels found in tissue samples from victims of the disease were five to eight times higher than the levels found in control samples from persons who had died of other causes.

The nickel concentrations in the legionnaires' disease specimens were "within the range we've had on fatal nickel poisoning cases," Sunderman said.

He declined to reveal the exact concentrations of the substance.

Morton D. Rosen, Pennsylvania's deputy secretary of health, said that the findings were being analyzed by state health officials and by investigators at the federal Center for Disease Control (CDC) in Atlanta.

CDC researchers have also found high nickel concentrations in tissue samples, Rosen said. But he said that the CDC tests were not yet complete.

Rosen said investigators were prepared to launch a study of how the victims might have been exposed to nickel carbonyl gas, a substance commonly used in the manufacture of plastics and synthetic rubber.

Sunderman, who has studied nickel poisoning for 15 years, said the only known cases of nickel carbonyl poisoning have resulted from industrial exposure.

He said, however, that the highly toxic, odorless gas can be given off through the burning of pressure-sensitive copy paper, such as that used for application forms.

"Maybe a stack of the forms was burning in an incinerator and the fumes were picked up in an air duct," he suggested.

He said he had proposed the theory to Pennsylvania health authorities. But he said he had no evidence such forms were used or burned in the vicinity of the convention hall or the hotels where the legionnaires stayed.

Michigan To Sue For Damages From 19,000 Acre Forest Fire

SENEY, Mich. (AP) — The U.S. Forest Service has a policy of letting fires that start naturally burn themselves out, but a small lightning fire it let burn is now sweeping through 19,000 acres of wilderness in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources said Wednesday it will bill the federal government $100,000 for state fire fighting costs and will go to court, if necessary, to collect the money.

The assistant director of the department, Wayne Tody, said the state will also demand damages for some 7,000 acres of state land now burning along the borders of a federal wildlife preserve.

Forest Service spokesman Mike Hathaway said the agency decided to let the fire in the Seney National Wildlife Refuge burn when it started in the last week of July. Federal officials defended the decision, saying the fire posed no threat to valuable resources or populated areas.

"A small fire is considered a good thing because it eliminates over-mature growth and dead logs and brush," said Arnold Hartigan of the U.S. Department of the Interior. He is in charge of the fire fighting crews.

But the Upper Peninsula is suffering its driest summer since 1936. Last weekend, drought conditions combined with rising winds to fan the flames out of control.

Department of Natural Resources officials said Wednesday the fire now threatens 100 square miles of state and federal land. Fire fighters said it would be at least Saturday before the fire is controlled. The National Weather Service predicted continuing hot weather and no rain for the area until at least Sunday.

No populated areas are threatened by the flames, but the Seney refuge is the nesting grounds for thousands of Canada geese and other birds, including rare bald eagles and sandhill cranes.

Nearly 500 federal fire fighters from Alaska, Idaho and the Eastern states flew in Monday to join state crews slogging through the waist-deep bogs. Some 220 more have been called in and were expected to arrive Thursday.

Gov. William Milliken has declared a state of emergency in the area, authorizing the call-up of National Guard units, if needed, to assist the fire fighters.

Thick, choking clouds of smoke have drifted as far as Milwaukee, Wis., and weather satellite photographs show a cloud of smoke stretching more than 100 miles from the fire. The Seney refuge is about 450 miles northwest of Detroit.

Ford, Carter Representatives To Begin Arranging For Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although some major legal issues remain unresolved, representatives of President Ford and Jimmy Carter are ready to begin arranging details for the proposed debates between the presidential candidates.

Emissaries from both camps planned to discuss specifics today with officers of the League of Women Voters, which has offered to sponsor the series of televised debates.

The Federal Election Commission, meanwhile, also planned to meet to discuss the claim by some staff attorneys that the debate format proposed by the league might violate federal campaign financing laws.

Peggy Lampl, executive director of the league, said this legal uncertainty looms as the biggest potential obstacle to the debates.

"It deeply concerns us," she said. "Not only could an adverse ruling by the election commission upset our plans, but it could preclude any appearance by presidential candidates before private organizations in general."

Daniel Swillinger, assistant general counsel for the commission, has claimed that the league-sponsored debates could violate the provision that forbids presidential candidates from accepting private contributions once they have agreed to accept public financing of their campaigns.

Both Ford and his Democratic challenger have gone the public-financing route, with each expected to get about $21 million in tax funds.

The league estimates that the debates will cost $150,000 — most of which it plans to solicit from labor unions, corporations and other groups.

President Ford, who laid down the challenge to debate Carter in his acceptance speech at last week's Republican National Convention, announced Wednesday that Dean Burch and William Ruckelshaus would represent him in the negotiations over the debates.

Burch, a former chairman of the Federal Communications Commission and deputy director of Barry Goldwater's 1964 presidential campaign, has served as an adviser in the President's re-election campaign.

Ruckelshaus, who quit as deputy attorney general in 1973 rather than carry out the order of former President Richard M. Nixon to fire the special Watergate prosecutor, is a lumber firm executive in Tacoma, Wash. He has not played an active role in Ford's campaign.

Carter's team of negotiators is headed by Jody Powell, the former Georgia governor's press secretary and a top adviser.

The League of Women Voters had proposed four debates — three between Ford and Carter and the fourth between GOP vice presidential nominee Sen. Robert Dole and his Democratic counterpart, Sen. Walter Mondale.

Ford, however, has suggested four 90-minute debates between himself and Carter, with the first on either Sept. 8, 9 or 10, dealing with national defense policy. The other debates should be on domestic, foreign and economic policies, he added.

George Troutman Takes Victory In Balloon Championship

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Knowing which way the wind blows at which altitude is the key to success in hot-air balloon racing, Mike Ehrler explained.

The Louisville balloonist was watching George Troutman, far below, who was bringing his balloon in for a victorious landing Wednesday night in the 1976 Kentucky Balloon Championship.

Troutman, also of Louisville, had found a breeze near the ground that carried him to a landing within a few hundred feet of the lead balloon in the hare-and-hounds race.

Mike Wahl and John Freeman, two other Louisville pilots, had landed earlier, but Freeman was in an adjacent field and Wahl was in a field across the road.

And in a hare-and-hounds balloon race, victory goes not to the swift but to the most accurate.

The hare balloon, piloted by Dave Theil of Indianapolis, Ind., left the Kentucky State Fair and Exposition Center shortly before 6:30 p.m. EDT.

The other dozen balloons in the race were allowed to take off, three at a time, at about 10-minute intervals.

It appeared Theil was headed for home. His balloon caught a light breeze from the southeast and slowly shrank in the distance as he headed north over Louisville toward the Ohio River.

By the time all the other balloons were in the air, Theil was over his home state heading for Floyd's Knobs, a row of low hills about five miles north of the Ohio River town of New Albany, Ind.

The balloonists observed smoke from factory chimneys and checked the drift of the other balloons to find the direction of wind currents at different altitudes.

A blast on the propane burners in the mouth of the hot-air bag changes the altitude of a balloon.

Ehrler said his balloon—a double-burner model bearing the orange cow insignia of Ehrler's dairy stores and dubbed the "Udder Delight"—will climb as fast as 1,000 feet per minute or, if the air in the balloon is fully cool, drop at up to 1,200 feet per minute.

The balloonists sought altitudes where they thought the winds would carry them toward the hare balloon. At times, there were balloons at various heights, going in all directions.

Ehrler fired his burners until the Udder Delight reached 3,000 feet. With the burners off, the ride was silent. Traffic noise was almost inaudible, though barking dogs and shouting children could be clearly heard.

By 7:15 p.m. the Udder Delight was crossing the Ohio River. The hare balloon had disappeared in low clouds and haze, but at 7:25 a message came on the two-way radio that "the hare balloon is on the ground."

By the time Ehrler sighted the hare balloon, Wahl was setting down in the field across the road and Freeman was gliding in for his landing.

The other balloons stayed up in the air, bobbing gently up and down as their pilots sought favorable winds.

Troutman shortly discovered the current that brought him in low over the barn roofs and treetops for his victorious landing.

Ehrler, winner of the 1974 Kentucky Derby Festival Balloon Race, jockeyed his balloon expertly up and down.

He brought it down to 300 feet, but the wind was going the wrong way. He took it up to 3,000 again and started in the right direction.

Unfortunately sunset, the prearranged landing deadline, came as he began his descent, heading for the field where the still-inflated hare balloon sat as a target.

Ehrler used some of the last of his propane to lift over some power lines and a factory and set his balloon down in a field about a mile short of the hare balloon.

"These winds are crazy," Ehrler said. "Today it's strictly by luck. Anybody that wins it and denies that is a liar."

But his remarks upon landing showed he didn't fully believe it.

"If we'd just had a little more time and a little more fuel we could have done it," he said.

Weight Guesser Fairly Accurate At State Fair

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Vincent Padgett took 10 people in a row out of the sweltering midway multitudes the other day and guess their weights to within three pounds.

Padgett does that for a living. He operates one of Tony Cifietto's three weight-guessing stands at the Kentucky State Fair.

"Guess your weight for a dollar. Win a prize if I'm wrong," Padgett repeats into his microphone. He keeps it up all day and all evening.

At the end of the Kentucky fair, he and the other weight-guessers will load their stands, heavy Toledo scales and public address systems on a truck and drive to the Maryland State Fair, where they'll spend another 10 days.

By the end of October they'll have worked at fairs in Virginia and South Carolina as well, Padgett said.

"Guess your weight within three pounds. Win a prize if I'm wrong," he repeated over the public address system.

Up stepped Beverly Jutz, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jutz of Louisville.

Padgett squinted and looked her up and down.

"One twenty-seven," he said. "Step up on the scale."

The scale said 133. On the scale, Beverly had her back to him, and Padgett glanced down.

"Now I see what was hidden before," he teased, and sent her to search among his stuffed animals and dolls for a prize.

"I do better than that most times," he said. "I hit a streak the other day and got 10 in a row."

What's the secret? There isn't any, Padgett said.

"I just guess. I've been doing it on and off now for about three years, and practice helps."

"I had a guy the other night who wanted to take over. He wanted to guess my weight for a dollar so we set up a little wager."

"I took his money," Padgett said.

Even though he buys his stock of prizes and splits his take 50-50 with the owner, he makes "good money," Padgett said.

He may not get rich, he added, "but it's nice. You get to see a lot of different people and a lot of different places."

Pike County Tax Decision Approved

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Russell McClure, state secretary for finance and administration, has approved Pike County Fiscal Court's decision to use coal severance tax funds to purchase heavy road equipment from the second lowest bidder.

In July, McClure refused to release $552,635 after Pike County Fiscal Court awarded the contracts to Wayne Supply Co. of Louisville, even though a bid submitted by Kentucky Machinery Inc. of Louisville was $24,606 lower.

Kentucky Machinery's bid for eight graders and eight loaders came in $37,751 lower after the items were read-vertised.

McClure, in a letter to Pike County Judge Wayne T. Rutherford, said he was approving release of the coal tax funds on the second time around because Pike County officials had adequately shown that the Wayne bid was the "best."

A special meeting of the Douglas Civic Improvement Club will be held Monday, August 30, at seven p.m. at the Douglas Center.

All members, young and old, are urged to attend, a club spokesman said.

Teachers Of Calloway Schools Plan Program

The Calloway County teachers met at East Elementary School prior to the opening of schools in the Calloway County School system for the purpose of updating and improving professional performance for students of the 1976-77 school year.

Edward Curd, county school supervisor, served as co-ordinator and the in-service program was presented by members of the school system who had previously been oriented during the summer.

Ron McAllister, principal of Calloway County High School, opened the meeting with the invocation and Mrs. Linda Feltner served as chairperson of the program.

William B. Miller presented the new superintendent, Dr. Jack Rose, who welcomed the teachers and introduced other new personnel in the system. Dr. Rose expressed his appreciation for being a part of the system and pledged his support in keeping the educational program of Calloway County one of the best in Kentucky.

Following the introductory remarks by Mrs. Feltner relative to the program, the faculties of each of the elementary schools and the high school assembled as units for orientation regarding improvement of professional performance.

Mrs. Margaret Crawford led the group session for the Southwest Elementary teachers, Mrs. Pat Seiber for the East, Mrs. Linda Feltner for the North, and Mrs. Sue Adams for the Calloway County High School teachers.

The teachers enjoyed a catered lunch with salads and desserts furnished by the East lunchroom personnel and drinks and doughnuts provided by the Board of Education. Afterwards, a meeting of the Calloway County Teachers Association was held with Carmon Parks, president, presiding.

All teachers expressed concern for self-improvement in the profession, with emphasis on helping the student, a spokesman said.

Huddleston To Offer Resolution

WASHINGTON (AP) — A resolution urging President Ford to prohibit American airline companies from serving countries which harbor hijackers will be offered today by Sen. Walter Huddleston, D-Ky., and several other senators.

"We will never eliminate international terrorism until those countries which allow it to happen are made to suffer for their actions," Huddleston said.

Huddleston said the resolution also encourages the president to "withhold, revoke or impose conditions" on the operating authority of any airline that does not maintain adequate security against hijackers.

Professional Secretarial Course To Be Offered At Murray State

A special evening course, designed for professional secretarial development, will be offered at Murray State University during the fall, 1976, semester, Dr. Jules Harcourt, chairman of the Department of Business Education and Administrative Management, has announced.

This course, listed as "Professional Secretarial Development, CPS Review I," will be offered Thursdays from 6:00 to 9:00 p.m. in Room 201 of the Business Building, beginning with registration August 30.

It will cover one-half of the material content for the Certified Professional Secretary examination, and will be team taught under the direction of Dr. LaVerne C. Ryan, an assistant professor in the department, Dr. Harcourt said.

The examination's remaining contents will be covered in "Professional Secretarial Development, CPS Review II," to be offered during the spring, 1977, semester.

Tuition for the three-credit-hour course will be $54 per semester, or $18 per credit hour, or $108 for the complete review of the CPS examination requirements.

Both sections of the course may be taken for graduate or undergraduate credit on a pass-fail basis.

"This is a secretarial review for anyone who wants it, and enrollment is not limited to members of The National Secretaries Association," Dr. Harcourt emphasized, adding, "nor will anyone taking it be required or obligated to take the Certified Professional Secretary examination because they took the course."

Admission forms may be obtained by writing or calling the registrar's office at the University, and it is suggested that admission applications be filed as early as possible in order to assure that the course will be offered.

Based on an analysis of secretarial work, with emphasis on judgment, understanding and administrative ability gained through education and work experience, the secretarial course will review such business areas as:

Environmental relationships in business; business and public policy; economics of management; financial analysis and the mathematics of business; communications and decision making; and office procedures.
