South Fulton Factions Lose Write-in Campaign Shuffle

In spite of a quiet, but vigorous write-in campaign on the part of two separate South Fulton political factions, the voters in that Tennessee city reaffirmed the results of the primary in October when they went to the polls on Tuesday. While his backers revealed that O. L. Lamascus took no part in the write-in campaign to defeat incumbent Mayor Milton Counce, 221 persons cast their vote for him. Counce defeated Lamascus in the primary by 37 votes. It was one of the closest margins by which Counce has ever been elected to the office which he has held for six, two-year terms. He begins his seventh term.

At the same time, two write-in candidates for City Councilman, who purportedly would have lined up with the Counce faction had they been elected, got defeated in the write-in bid. J. D. Faulkner, who ran as an independent in the election on Tuesday, was defeated for the post as he was in the primary election. M. M. Matlock, whose name did not appear on the ballot in the primary, but who received more than 150 write-in votes then, was similarly defeated Tuesday. He too, ran as independent in the general election.

According to reliable reports reaching the News, one faction allegedly sought to have O. L. Lamascus as Mayor with Harold Henderson, Arthur Matheny, John Bland and B. B. Jones as Councilmen. The other faction allegedly was lined up to have Mayor Counce serve with M. M. Matlock, J. D. Faulkner, Bobby Matthews and Rex Ruddle.

In an interview with one of the victorious councilmen Wednesday the candidate said: "The election is over. All of us sought to elect what we thought would be a harmonious group of officials to work with. The people have made their choice. The next thing to do is to forget the election and all of us start working together on January first for the good of South Fulton and the twin cities."

Counce was reelected by a vote of 309 to O. L. Lamascus' 221.

Harold Henderson, Bobby Matthews, Rex Ruddle and Arthur Matheny were reelected to council posts. They were joined by John Bland and B. B. Jones.

The vote: Henderson 460; Matheny, 407; Bland, 390; Jones, 344; Matthews, 333; Ruddle, 314; Matlock, 262 and Faulkner, 219.

WELCOME!

The Twin Cities extend a cordial welcome to Dr. Lytle R. Behrends and his family. Dr. Behrends and his wife are chiropractors and will practice in the Graham Building in the office formerly occupied by the Department of Public Welfare.

AT MEETING!

Howard Bondurant, official delegate from the Fulton area, and Kenneth Houston representing the cooperative's retail outlet in Fulton, attended the 40th anniversary of at Richmond, Va., recently.

During those beautiful, sunshiny days of the summer, when the necessity to do certain "inside" jobs around the house became more urgent every day, I'd say to myself, "I'll do them when the weather is too bad to work in the garden outdoors." Then, when the bad days of winter came along, I'd be involved in some other more pressing activity and the "inside" jobs remained undone until the Spring when of course, I wanted to be up at dawn, and digging around in the flowers, weeds and dog pounds. As Paul and the children well know, the "inside" job was put off again until capricious Mother Nature brought winter on again. It's been going on like that for years.

Two "inside" jobs have been top on my winter agenda for much too long. Little by little, I have whittled away until I can see the light of day on one of them, but the dark day of despair is still on another of them. The one getting the preferential treatment is a compilation of some of the zaniest experiences of this hectic life of mine. Some of the most pleasant and hilarious stories have appeared in this column from time to time. A good deal of time has been taken going back through the files of the News. Other experiences, too ridiculous for a so-called intelligent newspaper editor to print are being put together. If the weather outside is frightful this winter, and the energy inside is willing, I'll have "Screws Loose And Fancy Free," well on its way to publication come the dogwood blossoms.

The other "inside" job that is even more pressing than the "Screws Loose" department is, bringing into current status our family scrapbook. That project is so far behind that now I can't tell the exact age of the children in the various photographs that we have and that I want recorded in chronological order. The children seem to remember better than I do, but there are so many pictures, so many clippings, so many mementoes that even at five o'clock in the morning I decided that it is a hopeless job. So you know what I've decided to do. I've decided to do something historic. This might be a suggestion to you also, if the weather gets too bad for outside activities.

I am going to get together a scrapbook of the tragedy that befell our Nation within the past two weeks. Most of us, of course have viewed the television and radio accounts of the tragedy, but many years from now, as our grandchildren review the history of our times, it may mean something to them to have them go back and read the billions of words and thousands of pictures that were published of the tragedy. I think that the Courier-Journal must have the same thing in mind. In the event that you do not subscribe to that newspaper, you may be interested to know that an eight-page section of the paper has been compiled contain-

Mr. Nathan Wade President
Banana Festival Inc.
Fulton Kentucky

Dear Nathan:

First pardon my delay in expressing to you, to the members of the committee, and to my many new friends of Fulton for all of the courtesies extended me on my visit during the International Banana Festival.

Frankly, Nathan, it is hard to find words to express my opinion of the wonderful job that you and your committee and all of the co-workers did for Fulton and South Fulton, and, of course, for the Banana Industry. This, to my mind, was outstanding; it was fabulous! I never dreamed that your people could put together in such a short time - such a magnificent performance. The decorations in both, Fulton and South Fulton, the beauty pageant, the parade, the banana shoot and the bake-off, were all outstanding, and, needless to say, that your success in securing the services of N. B. C. and Miss America added to your outstanding efforts. My congratulations, again, to the little girl who was responsible for N. B. C.

We, of the National Banana Association, are deeply appreciative to you and your committee for such a splendid job; of course, the help of Larry Metcalfe and John Bohan added, I am sure, to the overall outstanding success.

With warmest regards and best wishes to you and especially to your dear wife, I am,

Sincerely,
Ralph C. Lally

Railroad Firemen Demand 25% Increase In Salary

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen—the key operating union in the current work rules dispute—has served demands on the nation's railroad for a 25 per cent wage increase.

Also among demands served Sunday by the 78,000-member union were supplemental pensions and company-paid health coverage. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers previously asked the nation's railroads for pay increases.

In Washington, a spokesman for the American Association of Railroads said the organization would have no comment pending a study of the demands.

An arbitration board issued recommendations Tuesday that could involve the elimination of up to 33,000 firemen's jobs.

The five operating unions and the railroads were to settle wages and other issues between themselves under the Emergency Rail Arbitration Law passed by Congress in August to halt the threat of a strike then. The arbitration board was given only the firemen and train crew issues to settle.

Failure of negotiations could result in the dispute going back to Congress Feb. 25, the expiration date of the Rail Arbitration Law.

H. E. Gilbert, president of the BLF&E, said wage adjustments for locomotive engineers, locomotive helpers (firemen), hostlers and hostler helpers represented by the brotherhood were long overdue.

Gilbert said the last wage increase became effective March 1, 1961. He said the railroad industry is operating at near-peak prosperity despite official management statements to the contrary.

Included in the wage demands was a stipulation for a daily earnings minimum of $40 for engineers and $35 for firemen in all classes of road service.

School Leaders Favor Increase in Ceiling On Local District School Tax Assessment

W. L. Holland, superintendent of the Fulton Independent School District is among the prominent Kentucky School leaders who heartily favors an increase of the $1.50 maximum school tax which local boards can levy without formal approval by the voters. "The flexibility of property assessments is a constant problem with school boards," he said citing the fact that for the current school year the local board received $8000.00 less in tax money than the year before. Mr. Holland stated that the State school revenue program reduced the shortage, "but we are still several thousand dollars short of last year's revenue," he said.

The shortage was caused by a percentage decrease in the overall property assessment. Currently local property assessed for school taxes is 28.9 of the value of real estate, 27.9 for tangible property and 49 percent for franchise.

While the maximum that local school boards can charge for school taxes is $1.50 for each $100 of property assessment, the local school board is charging $2.00, under a Statute that grants them this rate for general school operations. The 50 cents additional was approved by local voters.

A little more than $1 in every $3 of school money is obtained on the local level, primarily from property and franchise taxes.

The Kentucky Education Association wants the 1964 Legislature to increase the $1.50 maximum school tax.

The Kentucky School Boards Association and the Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers want a $2 ceiling.

The proposed increase is tied to an assessment program. Statewide, property is assessed for taxation at an average of slightly less than 28 per cent of its marketable value. School interests want a stabilized assessment ratio, a minimum of 30 per cent.

Property in the state's most populous area, Louisville and Jefferson County, has been reassessed the last two years and brought to a 38 per cent ratio.

Kentucky's over-all bill for its public schools the last fiscal year was approximately $222 million.

Department of Education figures show $82.96 million came from local taxes.

The state put up $110.55 million, most of it under its minimum foundation program. The federal government contributed $6.77 million, the bulk to school districts near military bases and other federal installations. In such situations, the Federal government helps pay to educate dependents of its employees.

Breathitt Inauguration Promises To Top Records For Size Of Parade, Attendance

The inaugural parade for Gov.-elect Edward T. Breathitt Jr. is shaping up as the largest in history for an incoming governor.

R. S. Stokley, chairman of inaugural preparations, said 150 units, representing more than half of Kentucky's 120 counties, will march in the Dec. 10 parade.

When Gov. Bert Combs took office four years ago, there were 68 units to add fanfare to the ceremony.

The inaugural parade will start at 10 a. m. on West Main Street in downtown Frankfort, move west to Capitol Avenue and then march past the reviewing stand in front of the State Capitol Building.

It will set the stage for the swearing in of Breathitt as Kentucky's 47th governor.

Leading the parade will be a band from Christian County, Breathitt's home county. A band from Hickman County—home of Lt. Gov.-elect Harry Lee Waterfield—will be second.

After the parade is over, Christian Circuit Judge Ira Smith will administer the oath of office to Breathitt, a 39-year-old Hopkinsville attorney who defeated Republican Louie B. Nunn for the governorship.

Stokley and others in charge of inauguration plans are staying away from making a crowd estimate prior to the ceremonies. They estimated 100,000 would attend Combs inauguration, but less than half that number showed up.

But each inauguration gets bigger and bigger, and the Dec. 10 crowd probably will snap all records.

The crowd probably will see only a symbolic swearing in of Breathitt. If the governor-elect follows tradition, he will take the oath of office privately shortly after midnight.

Smith, 74, said he thought Breathitt would decide to be sworn in privately.

Smith nominated Breathitt's uncle, James Breathitt, for governor at the 1931 Democratic convention, which eventually chose Ruby Laffoon as the nominee.

Paducah Native Appointed Chief Breathitt Assistant

William E. Bivin, Frankfort, will be chief executive aide to Edward T. "Ned" Breathitt when Breathitt becomes governor December 10, the Governor-elect announced Sunday.

Bivin, an assistant to Governor Bert T. Combs, was executive assistant to Lieutenant Governor Wilson W. Wyatt before joining Combs' staff in 1962.

Breathitt also announced that Edward Fossett of Frankfort, chief administrative assistant to Combs, will remain as chief legislative aide through the regular session of the 1964 General Assembly.

Bivin was a legislative analyst for the Legislative Research Commission from 1957 to 1959 and an assistant State attorney general in 1960.

Bivin, 35, is a native of Paducah and a 1946 graduate of Paducah Tilghman High School. He received a bachelor-of-arts degree from Western Kentucky State College and was graduated from the University of Kentucky Law School.

As a fellow of the Southern Regional Training Program in Public Administration, Bivin did graduate work in political science at the Universities of Alabama, Tennessee, and Kentucky.

Governor Bert Combs Has Left His Footprints On The Future Of Kentucky's Great Progress

As the City of Frankfort, Kentucky bustles with the frenzy and enthusiasm preparatory to the inauguration of a new Governor, a quiet and unassuming family prepares to leave the Governor's residence to make their future home in Lexington, Ky. For the past several weeks now a small staff of workers has been packing the personal and private papers of Bert Thomas Combs, who has served the Commonwealth as Governor with distinction. The measure of that distinction, may not come in the immediate future, but there can be no doubt that Governor Combs fulfilled the concept of a statement that he made in March, 1960.

Said Governor Combs:

"I would like to leave some sort of track showing that I've been here."

Tracks he left, of that there can be no doubt. But it was not alone in Frankfort that he left them. From the Breaks of Sandy to Madrid Bend, the footprints of Bert Combs' program of growth are clearly planted in his every program of progress and development.

In the small cities and the large ones there is something to remind Kentucky citizens that "Bert Combs was here." And in the four long, arduous and hard working years that he was Governor there is no doubt that he was asked for more roads, jobs, and political favors than any other head of State in history. He perhaps travelled more miles by air and car, ate more barbecue, crowned more queens, attended more dedications and slept less than any public official in modern times.

The reason for this amazingly heavy schedule is because Bert Combs did not shirk even the tiniest request made of him. He welcomed it. He went out and looked for things to do as if to do what he advocated so many times during his two campaigns: "a day's work for a day's pay."

In many of his speeches Bert Combs often remarked: "I'd rather be an outstanding failure than a mediocre do-nothing." If he encountered failures, as surely he did in his various endeavors, it can never be said that he did so without at least trying to do what he believed should have, or could have been done.

Shortly after Governor Combs issued his anti-bias executive order be called this writer to ask what reaction the order was having in this section of the State. Knowing that he wanted to hear the real facts, instead of receiving some information that might have softened the impact of the criticism he was receiving, we told him:

"Your action may make you a hero when you're dead, but you're a rather unpopular gent in some quarters around here." When asked why he issued the order and if he was pressured to do so he said:

"No, I kept my own counsel. I have information that race demonstrations are planned in many sections of the State. I had rather take the criticism for issuing the order than to have our citizens witness riots and bloodshed."

Some observers point to the anti-bias order as a near fatal blow to the gubernatorial candidacy of Edward T. "Ned" Breathitt and an even more serious blow to the Combs image and record as a good and great Governor. But Bert Combs was not thinking of political immortality when he issued the order. He was concerned with the reputation of his beloved State and the welfare of a group of its citizens, whom he thought were entitled to equal rights under the Constitution of the United States of America.

The big programs of his Administration are monuments to his vision; the sales tax, mental health, education, road-building and tourist and travel programs have brought nationwide acclaim to the Commonwealth. But Bert Combs was just as concerned with "little things" to make a greater Kentucky as he was the giant sized pursuits.

He was just as keen on having Kentucky look beautiful as he was on having it move forward. Well do we recall the many times we strolled around the grounds of the executive residence and the Capitol to enjoy the hundreds and hundreds of flowers he had ordered planted there for all to enjoy. The floral clock, a sure target for political barbs, proved what Bert Combs felt in his heart that "a thing of beauty is a joy forever." Besides the beauty of the clock, the desire of visitors to throw coins into the fountain beneath the clock has given joy untold to underprivileged citizens, mostly children, in playground equipment, toys and improvements to many of the State's institutions.

While many newspaper stories during his term of office reported that "close advisors to the Governor said," the truth of the matter is that Bert Combs was something of a "loner" when major policy decisions were to be made. True, he discussed many important matters with his cabinet and close friends. But we came to know that Governor Combs had already made up his mind about many such matters before he "touched base" with a lot of people. He was the least buck-passing high government official we ever saw.

He was no "sectional" governor. Though he would have been immensely justified in greater improving the economy and living conditions of his eastern Kentucky mountains, to the exclusion of other programs in other parts of the State, Bert Combs distributed State programs as equally as was humanly possible. If future governors do as well, someday the eastern Kentucky region will be on a par with its more fortunate neighbors.

We think that a story we learned last week in Frankfort pretty well sums up the character and attitude of Bert Thomas Combs. His close associates were being besieged for gifts ideas to give the Governor as a token of the esteem in which he is held as a leader and a friend. Each proposal made to him received the same answer: "I don't need any kind of gift for doing the things I did. I only wish I could have done more."

There is no way to measure the greatness of Combs as a governor, or his loyalty to his friends and his Commonwealth. But so vast have been his programs for good, that Bert Thomas Combs may live to see the fruits of his labors come to him as a just reward during his life-time.

We hope so! He deserves every accolade that can come his way.

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of the Civil War day by day in Kentucky, as reviewed by the Kentucky Civil War Commission

By JOE JORDAN

One hundred years ago this week a detachment of 150 Confederate cavalrymen took Mt. Sterling, burned the Montgomery County courthouse and a separate building housing the clerk's offices, released prisoners from the jail, and "captured" 100 horses. (The word "captured" is quoted from Collins' "History of Kentucky.") That was all accomplished without a fight although, as newspaper accounts emphasized, an entire regiment of Federal troops was quartered "a mile and an eighth" from town.

That was the fourth time during the calendar year 1863 that Mt. Sterling had been in Confederate hands. On one of the previous occasions, in March, Col. Roy S. Cluke of Morgans command had taken it after four hours of hard fighting during which several buildings were set on fire to drive out their defenders.

Six officers of Kentucky regiments of the Union Army were dismissed from the service "on orders from Washington City." They were a major, a captain, and four lieutenants. Two had been accused of disloyalty; the others were charged variously with cowardice, drunkenness, or "abandoning company in the face of the enemy."

Brig. Gen. John Hunt Morgan and Capt. Thomas H. Hines, two of seven Confederate officers who during the previous week had escaped from Ohio state penitentiary at Columbus, were making their way through Kentucky, assisted by Confederate sympathizers in every county they passed through. A contemporary wrote of Morgan and his progress through his home state, "Everybody vied with each other as to who should show him the most attention . . . and young ladies of refinement begged the honor of cooking his meals." Among those who did not recognize the general traveling in civilian clothes, he sometimes passed as a government contractor buying cattle; at other times he said he was a quartermaster or inspector.

Back at Columbus, the Kentuckians who had not escaped from the prison when Morgan and his six captains left were put under stricter rules. Formerly they had been permitted to be together during the day and locked up in individual cells only at night. Now they were kept in their cells all the time except when they were marched to their meals and back, and they could not speak while at the table. The cells were so small that in each of them the bed took up half the floor space. Basil Duke, who was there, later wrote: "The only method we had of exercising was to step sideways from one end of the cell to the other. It was intensely cold."

Union Army soldiers were put on duty inside the prison, replacing civilians who had been prison guards when criminals were confined in the building and had stayed on when Confederate officers were sent there. Duke wrote: "None of us had imagined that we could welcome the presence of Federal soldiers with so much satisfaction. The difference in the tone and manner of the soldiers . . . made it a relief."

Questions And Answers For

VETERANS AFFAIRS

This year's income reporting time starts again in December for 22,697 disabled veterans and 17,296 dependents of deceased veterans receiving VA pensions in Kentucky. Olney B. Owen, Manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Louisville, Kentucky, explained today. Along with their November checks, all VA pension recipients will receive income questionnaire cards.

The early distribution of the questionnaires will enable those with fixed or no incomes to return the cards at once. Mr. Owen said. Those having changing incomes or earnings may have to wait until they receive a W-2 Tax Withholding Form from their employers in January. Persons on the rolls under the new pension law that became effective July 1, 1960, must also complete a net worth item required by law in addition to their income. Pension payments will be suspended if the completed forms are not returned to the VA by January 31, 1964.

As the cards are processed by machine, they should not be folded, trimmed, or mutilated. They should be returned promptly to the address shown in the upper right hand corner of the card. All blocks on the income questionnaire cards must be completed, and if there is nothing to be reported in any item, the word "None" should be written in that item on the form.

As compensation for service connected disabilities and service connected deaths is not based on income, those veterans or dependents other than dependent parents receiving compensation will not receive income questionnaires, Owen added.

Questions and Answers

Q—Why should veterans, physicians or others always have the veteran's C-number ready when writing or making a long distance call to the VA on behalf of a veteran?

A—There are many, many veterans with the same or similar names in the list of more than 22,000,000 veterans serviced by VA. With no information available except the name, it is difficult or impossible to identify the proper record or to locate the record in the files.

Q—Can a war orphan who has his entrance into training delayed or interrupted by military service have his completion date extended?

A—Yes. He has five years from the date of his first release or discharge from military service in which to complete his training.

Q—Which State has the most living veterans and which has the least?

A—As of July 1, 1963, California with 2,303,000 living veterans had the largest veterans population of the 50 states. Alaska with 24,000 had the smallest.

YOUR SOUTHERN BELL MANAGER

A HUMAN VOICE FIRST SPANNED THE ATLANTIC by radio telephone in 1915. The first satellite-transmitted telephone call crossed the Atlantic in 1962. Less than half a century separates these two "firsts" yet they represent greater progress in communications than in all the rest of human history. And we're still going strong. Every year brings new communications miracles to home and office!

THE BIG DAY IS ALMOST HERE. Plans are well under way for parties, dinners, presents, surprises of all kinds. And most of them mean lots of work for the lady of the house. May we suggest a very personal way to celebrate Christmas. No work . . . not much time required . . . very little cost. Telephone calls to friends and relatives near and far! Send your good wishes over the miles by telephone. The sound of voices we love is the very nicest kind of gift to give or to receive.

ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL would be interested in the things going on at Abilities, Inc., a manufacturing company near New York City. Every one of over 400 employees is handicapped in some way. The company originally started ten years ago with four employees with just one good leg and five arms among them! A big part of the work they do is for Western Electric, supplier of Bell System communications equipment. Mr. Bell's interest in helping the handicapped grew out of his work with deaf people. And out of this grew his interest in the whole field of communications.

MYSTERY. A woman in New Orleans couldn't understand why her friends complained that she often picked up her phone when it rang and then didn't answer. So she kept an eye on the phone. Seems that a cat whose naps were being disturbed had learned to knock the receiver off the hook with his paw, then take up his nap where he'd left off. The problem was solved when the bell chime was installed. Now the cat purrs when the chime chimes. Both lady and cat are enjoying the new sound of their telephone.

Your friends at Southern Bell hope you and your family have the Merriest Christmas and the Happiest New Year ever!

CLIPPING COWS FOR CLEANER MILK

The clipping of dairy cows is one of the essentials of dairying. Clean, pure milk can seldom be produced from udders with long hair. It is almost impossible to sterilize an udder with long hair in the short time most of us have in preparing the cows for milking. Most graded milk markets require producers to practice clipping, however, whether you are selling on the fluid market, for manufacturing milk or just using the milk at home, you should always clip the cows. It will result in a higher quality product!

All dairymen, whether large or small have problems in producing milk. Shall we look at some of the advantages of clipping and may be you will recognize some of your trouble spots. First, clipping reduces sediment by removing dirt catching and bacteria infested long hair; next, clipping lowers bacteria count. Long hair harbors bacteria as well as other foreign materials and the bacteria cannot be strained from the milk as would a leaf or stick that just happened to fall into the bucket. It just stands to reason that the shorter the hair, the fewer the bacteria can climb on. Clipping saves time and labor, because of the short hair, udders are easily cleaned with bacterial solutions. This makes the job of preparation much faster and easier. Clipping also aids in controlling lice. In tests made at the University of Wisconsin it was proven that over-all clipping was a step in the right direction in the lice control program. We do not clip all the cows in this area as they did in Wisconsin, we do, however, clip four stripes down the back of the cow. This, entomologists tell us, is the highway of the lice to moisture sources, and when the long hair is removed they leave.

Here are the areas of the cow most commonly clipped: First the tailhead and tail, cropping the switch about hock high; then the rear udder and the inside of the legs. Next clip as far as can be reached under the belly and fore udder. Now with the clipper on edge, mark a line from the milk well to the hook bone. Clip the flank and the three or four stripes down the back for Mr. Louse and you are through. Keep the clippers against the cow at all times and NEVER stand behind the cow... always to one side. Dip clippers often in a 50-50 solution of kerosene and oil. This will keep the blades clean and sharp longer.

Remember this, the cleaner the product you sell to the plant, the cleaner the product that goes on the market, thus a higher quality product for your company to sell. This will make your market stronger in this era of competition. Clean milk is just sound business in dairying!

Letters To Editor

Dear Mr. Wade,

I wish to thank you and everyone connected with the Banana Festival who were so nice to me. The Banana Festival was a big success. Thank you again.

Sincerely,
Carolyn Allen

Dear Mrs. Wade,

I want to say thanks for your part in the recent Banana Festival. I truly appreciate the opportunity to be able to have participated in this event. It was an event which I shall never forget. You are to be commended for the work you did in making the Bake-Off a success.

I am indebted to each of you.

Yours truly,
Lora Robbins
Paris, Tenn.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Westpheling:

I am sure, after all the praise and congratulations all of you so richly deserve, this note could not mean very much.

Through the thoughtfulness and kindness of Linnie Clark, I did make a supreme effort and arrived the day before the close of the Banana Festival.

It was a wonderful affair, and I can appreciate the time and energy it took to make it the huge success it was.

Ed Newman's radio broadcast the following Monday, reporting the festival, was very nice. It was adequate without being overdone.

Sincerely,
Elizabeth B. Browning
Memphis, Tenn.

Dear Editor:

Will you please mail us copies of your paper that contains the pictures and write-ups of the Champion of the Bake-Off Competition in the eBanana Festival?

May I take this opportunity to congratulate your city for sponsoring such an outstanding event.

Yours very truly,
Rube S. Smith

Henry County

Dear Sir:

Would like to congratulate all of you on the success of the festival recently held. The time and effort spent in the preparation must have been terrific.

The people of Milan, Tennessee were there two days, one for the talent contest and also for the street parade. We all came home talking about how very nice we all were treated. Your people were most friendly and helpful.

We are looking forward to being with you next year and wish for you even greater success.

Yours very truly,
Mrs. Carl Wirwa
Speech Instructor
Milan High School

Dear Mr. Wade:

It was my pleasure to be in Fulton on Saturday, November 9th to see and enjoy the activities of the day. What I saw was very good, including the fine and well-arranged parade for viewing.

I heard about the Banana Festival through a daughter who lives in Paducah and knows my desire and likes. A hobby of mine is making movie stories (colored & black and white) of many interesting events to show at class meetings, gatherings, and groups of various kinds.

I took some 200 feet of color film, largely of the parade, while I was there. I was informed by a gentleman at the city hall, however, that I should go to the yards to get a more complete story and to get pictures of incoming banana trains. He suggested that I follow the icing of cars and the processing of out-going cars and trucks, as well as traffic statistics to make the story interesting and educational.

Since I was there, I have found very few people who have ever given a thought as to the size of or handling of this enterprise. First, I would like to know if it is possible to visit the yards and processing plant of Fulton in order to take a series of pictures to go with what I have and to get more statistics on the operation to narrate the movie.

I would like for you to get this letter to the proper person or personnel in charge of this operation.

If the idea of my visiting the plant is agreeable with the management, what day would be best to get what we would like to have. Friday and Saturday would be best for me.

I would like very much to hear from you and the banana plant personnel manager.

Very truly yours,
Paul Baker
626 North Main Street
Harrisburg, Illinois

Dear Mrs. Westpheling:

I wish to thank you for sending me the photographs. I shall treasure them always and appreciate your kindness in sending them to me. I also appreciate the opportunity given me to have a part in your Banana Festival.

Mr. Wade, Mr. Martin, Mrs. McDade, Mr. Johnson, yourself, and each who had a part should be commended for the excellent job done in planning and carrying out these plans for a successful festival.

Sincerely yours,
Lora Robbins

Dear Jo,

We thought you might enjoy these prints of the "Banana Shoot."

What a huge success the festival was - "to all of you, a job well done."

Yours truly,
Tom and Betsy O'Neill

Legion Auxiliary Pays Tribute To Late President

A "pot luck" dinner was enjoyed by members of the American Legion and Auxiliary in the post home on November 25. Mrs. Ruth Hornbeak and Mrs. Ruth Netherland were hostesses.

The meeting was opened by members pledging allegiance to the flag, led by the president, Mrs. Anna Belle Edwards. Charles Reams, post chaplain, gave the invocation, which was preceded by a minute of silent prayer and meditation in honor of our late president, John F. Kennedy.

Mrs. Mavis Parker presented three of her students who entertained the group with piano and vocal numbers. They were Tommy Taylor, Pamela Grooms and Gail Wall.

Separate business meetings were held by the Legion and the Auxiliary and plans were completed for the Christmas party, after which games of bingo were played. The Christmas party will be held on December 16.

The Former Bess Clements To Have Important Post In White House

Pick up a list of the dozen or so people who compose the working staff around the Lyndon B. Johnsons and you will find the name of a graduate of the tough-political-training school that Kentucky conducts.

She is Bess Clements Abell, daughter of Kentucky's former governor and former senator, Earle C. Clements. She has been starry-eyed about the man who just became President ever since she was a high school and college girl and her father was majority leader Johnson's right arm in the Senate.

Officially, the 30-year-old Mrs. Abell is secretary to Mrs. Lady Bird Johnson. Actually, she has been a coworker with Mrs. Liz Carpenter in the multitude of arrangements that go with all the official, semi-official, and half-private social life that the Johnsons carried on while he was Vice-President.

Illustrative of Mrs. Abell's diverse duties is the fact that she was at the LBJ ranch 70 miles from Austin at the time the late John F. Kennedy was killed in Dallas. She had been part of the advance party that went to the ranch to prepare for the planned arrival of the President and Mrs. Kennedy and a large entourage, including the press.

Mrs. Abell and Mrs. Carpenter, who is a Jack-of-all-trades under the title of press secretary to Mrs. Johnson, have been responsible for many of the entertainment features and gimmicks that the Johnsons used to make vice-presidential dinners different.

The post of importance is a long jump from the 12-year-old girl, lonesome for her Morganfield schoolmates, who came to Washington with her father and mother when state senator Clements became a member of the House of Representatives in 1945.

Mrs. Abell attended Frankfort High School for a year when her father was Governor, but completed her high-school work at Ward-Belmont in Nashville. She received a degree from the University of Kentucky in 1954 in three years and a summer semester. There she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

Back in Washington after graduation, Bess Clements took a secretarial course and worked in her father's Senate office. There she met a man who was working for his stepfather briefly before entering a two-year army stint.

He was Tyler Abell, stepson of columnist Drew Pearson. His round of duties took him to the Kentucky senator's office. Just before his Army service began, he and Bess were married.

Their quick decision to marry prevented the extensive social functions that would have been the lot of a senator's daughter and the stepson of so prominent a journalist.

That distressed majority leader Johnson, who had come to regard Bess as one of his own daughters. When Tyler had a leave at the end of basic training, Senator and Mrs. Johnson were hosts at a large cocktail party at the Carlton Hotel.

During the remainder of Abell's military tour, Bess went with him. Being a crack secretary, she found no trouble landing jobs wherever he was stationed.

Out of the Army, Tyler got a law degree in Washington. A worker in the Johnson pre-convention campaign of 1960, Tyler, now 31, has been on the legal staff of the Post Office Department most of the time since the Democrats took over in 1961. He did a brief stint as Congressional liaison for the White House.

The Abells have two boys, a year-old Dan Tyler Abell, and a 3-year-old Lyndon Abell.

ing all the most momentous pictures and articles written about the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. The paper says that the section can be had by sending ten cents to their offices in Louisville.

Also Time magazine of last week had some remarkably outstanding pictures of the Kennedys. And only as Time can do, the account of the tragedy is pure rhetoric. This week's Time magazine contains many, hitherto unpublished stories of the late President's funeral, a warm and thought-provoking story about Mrs. Kennedy and some poignant facts about the life of Lee Harvey Oswald, the man who is accused of taking Kennedy's life and who also lost his own.

Life magazine presents some priceless photographs of the President's caravan approaching the death scene, as well as photographs of Mrs. Kennedy's heroic struggle to get help and then comfort her husband during his last tragic moments on earth. Both of these magazines should be contained in your scrapbook for future generations. Actually, the horror and the brutality of the Kennedy assassination will not be fully comprehended during our life-time. I hope that in this scrapbook I prepare for those who might remember Grandma Jo Westpheling, the heritage that John Fitzgerald Kennedy left us will be a guide to the manner by which they will love and serve this country.

The Carpenter's FRIEND

To build... one must have plans, and plans give exact measurements. The carpenter who makes careful measurements finds that the work is made easier. Careful measuring prevents waste... waste of time and materials. Therefore the measuring device is truly a friend to the carpenter.

The church wants to be your friend, and help you to a easier and better way of life. The Bible clearly gives us a way to measure life. Through many centuries man has found no better rules than those given in the Bible.

Attend church and receive the friendly welcome that awaits you.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Bulldogs Give Coach Yates Big Welcome By Taking Season's Opener

Fulton City's Bulldogs gave Coach Yates a big welcome as the new basketball coach by romping to a 75-54 victory over Paducah Tilghman.

The Fulton victory also spoiled a new coach's debut. Barry Thweatt, in his bow at the Tilghman helm saw his inexperienced Bluemen get as close to five points only to be massacred by a pro-like Fulton City explosion.

The win avenged a setback to Tilghman in the regional tournament finals at Murray last year and set the stage for what is expected to be another banner year of basketball at Fulton High.

Kennedy's Father Feared For Son's Life, Newspaper Editor Reveals

Charles J. Lewin, editor of the New Bedford Standard-Times, recalls a conversation he had with the late President's father, Joseph P. Kennedy, three years ago.

Lewin said that the elder Kennedy told him at the time—two weeks after the 1960 election—"every night I get down on my knees and pray to God that Jack can get out of the Presidency, that he won't have to assume office."

Lewin said: "I had telephoned my friend at Hyannis Port on that Sunday night to discuss with him the action of a group of politicians who were on their way to Palm Beach, Fla., to see the President-elect regarding the electoral votes of Louisiana.

"To hell with it," Joe Kennedy said, "if you have to make deals for these electoral votes, you couldn't get the right start with the American people. The Kennedys would never make such a deal."

Lewin also quoted Joseph Kennedy as saying at the time: "We have found out that the state of the country is so bad that I hope Jack never takes the Presidency. He could always remain as Senator."

Toddy Miles Is New President Of UC Chamber

Members of the Union City and Obion County Chamber of Commerce board of directors have elected Charles W. (Toddy) Miles III president of the countywide organization, to succeed Dave M. Shatz, president for the past year.

The election of Mr. Miles, four vice presidents and a treasurer came by unanimous vote. All new officers will be installed and begin their duties at the annual chamber banquet, set for Tuesday, Dec. 3.

Combs Praises Late President For State Help

"During this tragic interval in world history," said Gov. Bert Combs during a special halftime program at the Kentucky-Tennessee football game Saturday, "as the world mourns the loss of our leader, it is time for us to rededicate ourselves."

Combs, who joined University of Kentucky President Dr. John Oswald in the memorial to the assassinated President Kennedy, said there was a need to have "charity and understanding to the end that we may be better Kentuckians and better Americans."

He described Kennedy as "a good friend of Kentucky... and he will be sorely missed."

Oswald said, "This tragic loss has fallen heavy on the college-age youth because Kennedy symbolized their hopes and aspirations."

Prayers were led by the Rev. Donald Herren, pastor of the Southern Hills Methodist Church in Lexington.

While Tilghman came to life briefly in the second period the Bulldogs sported a look of confidence that was soon justified by an 11-point halftime lead. As the two teams trooped to the halftime dressing rooms, the scoreboard read Fulton 32, Tilghman 21.

Don Harris, Dave Gourieux and Ray Gregory ignited the Tornado somewhat in the third quarter and Fulton City's lead began to melt away.

But the Bulldogs tightened their defenses, sent Beadles after the ball and then on to the basket for score after score. Tilghman fans knew the end was near for their Bluemen when Fulton pushed its lead to 51-34 at the end of the third period.

Tilghman had its moments in the final quarter. Sophomore Norman Dunigan ignited a spark with a strong shooting display that may have earned him a right to some starting action during the season.

Dunigan came in to tally eight points in between Fulton baskets and enabled the Tornado to play on a near-even keel with the Bulldogs in the last stanza. Fulton outscored Tilghman 24-20 in the last eight-minute segment, however.

Beadles was easily the player of the game. Not only were his defensive efforts the sharpest by far, but his point total of 24 was over twice that of any Tilghman player.

Shepherd and Bushart gave Beadles strong support as they cashed in 15 points each, rounding out the double-figure attack by the winners.

Harris and Gregory each netted 11 markers and Gourieux chimed in with 10.

The game was the season opener for both teams.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jones and children, Freddie Ray and Edna Marie, left Saturday for their home in Akron, Ohio after a visit with parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Mathis, this village, and other relatives around this section.

Reverend Russell Rodgers filled his appointment at New Salem this past Sunday at 11 A. M. and also the evening service, which followed the Baptist Training Union. Last Monday, members gathered for a memorial service honoring the late President, John Fitzgerald Kennedy. Wednesday night, as the church met for mid-week prayer service, the newly-elected pastor, Reverend Rodgers, was given an old-fashioned pounding. Gifts and food were given in abundance and he and Mrs. Rodgers are most grateful.

Mrs. Mary Dunn is doing as well as expected at Lourdes Hospital in Paducah where she has undergone surgery on her hip. Her injury was sustained in a fall several days ago. All of her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Funeral services were held for Mrs. Kitty Farmer Estes at Doug Murphy Funeral Home in Martin, Tenn. this past Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock with interment in Tansil Cemetery, near Sharon. Mrs. Estes was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Farmer, who were former residents here. She survived by her husband, a brother of Neal Farmer.

Bro. Charles Wall filled his appointment at Knob Creek Church of Christ this past Sunday at 11 A. M.

News from the bedside of Mr. Luney Murrel of Akron, Ohio, is that there is no immediate improvement in the Veteran of World War I. He remains about the same. He has been in bed during the past several months. We extend every good wish to his bedside.

Geneva.—Fernando Alvarez, a 30-year-old Cuban librarian for the International Labor Office, was found stabbed to death in his Geneva apartment Monday.

Authorities refused to speculate whether politics was involved. They said Alvarez, nude, was stabbed four times in the chest and back with a long, sharp blade. The weapon was missing.

Hunting Seasons, Hindered By Drought, Amended So That Hunters Can Enjoy It

Hunting seasons that were interrupted by the recent fire hazards in Kentucky have been amended so that hunters will be permitted to enjoy the full number of days originally designated. Minor Clark, commissioner of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, reported today following a poll of members of the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission.

The archery deer hunting season which was due to close on November 15 but in which the hunters lost 15 days, has been extended from November 15 through November 20 with a later season opening on December 6 and extending through December 15. Hunting is permitted in the 48 open counties which have been previously designated.

The first phase of the squirrel season was due to close on October 31 but hunters lost 13 days. These days have been added to the end of the second phase of the season which opens in both the eastern and western zones on November 21. The new ending date for the western area is December 15 while for the eastern zone the season will end on December 31.

Twelve days were lost to the archery deer and turkey hunters on Kentucky Woodlands and this was compensated for by the addition of split seasons to open on December 7 and continue through December 7; reopen on December 7; and continue through December 14.

New dates for the archery deer hunt on Bluegrass Ordinance area near Richmond are as follows: November 16-17; November 23-24, and November 30-December 1, while the gun deer season on that area will be on December 7 and 8. The Ft. Campbell gun deer season has been reset for November 23 and 24 with either sex deer harvestable while the archery season on this area will coincide with the statewide season. Shooting preserves, which were due to close on March 31, will get an extension ending on April 14.

A primitive weapons season, on a designated area in Bath and Menifee counties, has been charged with the archery season extending from November 2 through November 29. The gun season for deer is unchanged, Nov. 27, 28, 29, 30 and Dec. 1. The squirrel season has been set for Nov. 21 through December 31, while the grouse season, December 1 through January 29, is unchanged. Only muzzle loading rifles and muzzle loading shotguns and long bows and crossbows may be used in this designated area. Two days lost in the dove season will be added to the second phase of the season if approved and signed by Stewart Udall, Secretary of the Interior.

Presenting . . . The South Fulton High School Senior Class

South Fulton Elementary In Fourth Year of Advanced Reading Plan

South Fulton Elementary School is now in their fourth year of an advanced reading program. Eight rooms of the 4th, 5th, and 6th grade participate in this program. This program was first started while W. L. Cottrell was Principal and has been advanced and improved by K. M. Winston, Principal.

Teachers participating are as follows: Mrs. Dessie Coltharp, Mrs. Mary Hawes, Mrs. Pauline Schwerdt, Mrs. Earline Holladay, Mrs. Virginia Hancock, Miss Katherine Bradshaw, Mrs. Carlene Jolley, and Mrs. Margaret Gray.

This advanced program is conducted four days a week, Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. At the beginning of each semester, reading achievement tests, such as Stanford, California, Bray-Votaw-Rogers, etc. are given to all students. After they are graded, the students are placed in the reading grade level that they might attain, all the way from 2.0 to 10.5 as were the scores this year. Suitable material for such of these particular groups has been purchased during the past four years. Probably the first 2 years, the program was more of a Joplin plan, but in 1962, S R A, Science Research Associates, laboratories were installed in several of the rooms, at a cost of $49.50 per laboratory.

The Civitan Club contributed $100.00 in 1962 which was used to purchase 2 laboratories. Mrs. Col-tharp's room and the Jr. Hi. was fortunate enough to have one each. Then the school purchased two more out of their internal funds and this year, the P. T. A. has ordered four more, which have not arrived as yet. Mrs. Dorothy Smith, who teaches the 3rd grade, purchased one last spring, which was adapted to her third grade group. When the last order is received, the school will be the proud possessor of eleven new labs. All of this material is in addition to the numerous texts that have been purchased locally for each room and the reading texts supplied by the county. These SRA reading laboratories are of various grade levels, such as III, IIG, IIB, IIA, IC, IB, etc. Also self-testing workbooks are supplied by each child and each laboratory is so arranged by colors that a child may read on his own level and compete only with himself.

The teachers and the students are enthusiastic about this program and the administration is well satisfied with this program because from one-half to one grade level improvement is seen each semester. According to Mrs. Coltharp, who is teaching second from the highest grade level in reading and who has had specialized college training in this field, she states that "when the program was first started in her group, four years ago, the same grade level group is reading 2 grades ahead".

The administration realizes that the program still has flaws but together with the teachers and students, new plans can be formulated to improve this program. South Fulton Elementary fully realizes that one of the most important things outside of teaching children their social responsibility in a free society and how to be a good citizen, is to be able to read.

JFK Promised Once To Break 20-Year Jinx

An author who was a friend of the late President said Sunday that John F. Kennedy remarked with a laugh in 1960 that if he were elected president he would break the chain of deaths of presidents elected in 20-year intervals.

Stefan Lorant said he brought up the subject in a visit with Kennedy in Washington before he was nominated.

Lorant said Kennedy chuckled and said:

"If I'm nominated and get elected I promise you I will break the jinx."

Lorant, a resident of Massachusetts, wrote "The Presidency," a historical account of presidential elections.

Starting with 1840, every President elected at 20-year intervals died or was assassinated in office.

scheduled to make speeches are the new governor, Waterfield and Combs.

Lt. Gov. Wilson Wyatt broke precedent by speaking at the 1959 inauguration of Combs, and Waterfield has decided to speak also. After the ceremony, Breathitt's first official act will be the swearing in of his adjutant general.

Breathitt will hold his first press conference as governor at 4 p. m. in the Senate caucus room.

From 7:30 p. m. to 10 p. m., a reception for Breathitt and Waterfield will be held at the State Capitol.

The inaugural ball will follow at 10:30 p. m. at the capitol. In addition, four inaugural balls will be held at various places in Frankfort.

VACCINE AGAIN

On Tuesday, December 17, all three types of oral Sabin vaccine will be given at the Fulton Health Department. Any persons who have not had the vaccine should call at the Health Department on that date.

SCHOOL LEADERS—

money comes from various other sources.

Dr. J. M. Dodson, executive secretary of the Kentucky Education Association, urged a higher local tax ceiling in a story in the KEA publication, Kentucky School Journal.

"The problem now has become critical. Most school systems in Kentucky are levying the maximum $1.50 tax rate and still are unable to provide the 'quality' in their school program for which the people of their communities are asking," he said in part.

Education sources said any figures comparing Kentucky's local rate with charges in other states would carry little meaning because of possible differences in the assessment ratio and the total value of property to be taxed.

These sources also gave no estimate of what revenue a $2 ceiling in Kentucky might add.

If approved, the law would be permissive rather than mandatory. Thus, a local board could determine its needs and to reach that goal set a tax rate at any figure below the ceiling. Some might charge $1.60, for example, others $1.75 and still others $2.

Actually, some school districts charge more than $1.50. Any excess, though, carries voter approval and generally represents a tax for a special purpose, such as underwriting a building program.

These taxes are for a fixed time and carry a specific rate. Dodson explained the state's share of school money had increased substantially, principally from the three per cent sales tax.
