Food Tax Lifted;
Poles Pay In Cash

R. W. Fitch, of the year's events, was an important one. It was the year when the Food Tax was abolished, and the farmers were able to pay for their products in cash. The Food Tax was a tax on food, and it was a tax that was very unfair to the farmers. It was a tax that was based on the amount of food that the farmers produced, and it was a tax that was very unfair to the farmers.
