Successful Elks Charity Benefit Dinner Now Planned As An Annual Event

Microfilm Center
Margaret I. King Library
University of Kentucky
Lexington, Ky.

A bountiful buffet of more varieties of delicious foods than anyone could have possibly sampled... a big, congenial crowd full of the gaiety of the holiday season... a stirring address by an able speaker who held the audience spellbound for over a half hour... all of these contributed to the outstanding success of the first

Elks charity benefit dinner last Friday night at the Park Terrace. It was such an enjoyable affair, the local lodge members stated, that it will surely become an annual event of each Christmas season in Fulton from now on.

Tom Waller, Paducah, noted speaker, lawyer and recent President of the Kentucky Bar Association, delivered an after-dinner address, being introduced by master of ceremonies Dr. R. V. Putnam.

"I believe God put in the heart of every human being a feeling of obligation for what somebody does for him," Mr. Waller said, in commenting on everyone's dependence on others for essential service from birth on through life. He mentioned a number of the things for which we are indebted to others, such as the building of churches and schools, of roads and hospitals, the bridging of streams, the establishment and preservation of law and order, and added that we often "have little time to waste of think over the thousands of years, the oceans of blood, the mountains of treasure, and the millions of lives required to give you these things to enjoy."

He continued by saying that we owe to those that are coming the same service rendered to us before we came.

"I owe to my children and grand-children—and you, too,— a wider road, a leveler road, a safer road, and bigger and better bridges."

Mr. Waller both opened and closed his remarks with a reference to Cain's question, "Am I my brother's keeper?" saying that the eternal answer is, "I am."

In the photos above taken at intervals as the crowd came through

Voice Of America Planning Banana Festival Broadcast

The Twin Cities' Banana Festival earned its "international" title Wednesday. The Voice of America, a State Department radio show, broadcast all over the world will feature the activities of the festival and pertinent facts about the banana industry in a five-minute tape soon. Milton Metz, of WHAS-TV in Louisville, the American correspondent for Voice of America has contacted a festival official for material to be incorporated in the broadcast.

Beaming its programs for listening primarily behind the Iron Curtain and other anti-American countries, the Voice of America attempts to show the citizens of those countries the American way of life. "Your Banana Festival, showing the vigor and enthusiasm of your people, is just the type of programs we seek to prove the American spirit of free enterprise and imagination," Mr. Metz told the Fulton News editor.

Mr. Metz had planned to tape a "live" interview with the Fulton editor, with the inauguration of Governor Edward T. Breathitt as a background, but technical arrangements could not be arranged for Monday. However, the special Banana Festival edition of the News, with other facts connected with the local phase of the banana industry has been sent to the Louisville correspondent for incorporation in the script.

The famed radio and television commentator Edward R. Murrow, is head of the Voice of America broadcast committee.

Southern Ends Plane Service To Union City

Quietly and without fanfare, regular airline service to Union City has ended. Southern Airways brought its Nashville-bound airliner into Everett-Stewart airport at 2:20 p. m. and the last plane, bound for Memphis, left at 8:44 last Friday night.

Southern Airways was directed by the Civil Aeronautics board a few weeks ago to end its stops, as of Dec. 1, in Union City, Dyersburg and Paris in West Tennessee, Clarksville in Middle Tennessee and Morristown in East Tennessee.

Union City and the other cities were required to board an average of no fewer than five passengers daily under the CAB's "use-it-or-lose-it" clause. Local officials said the poor schedule provided the Union City area by the airline made it impossible for Union City to measure up to the CAB requirements.

Bad Check Season Is On! Special Precautions Asked

This is the season for, among other things, bad check artists, and merchants of the area are being warned to be on the look-out for bogus check passers.

While there appears to be no evidence that any "epidemic" is on, merchants are asked to take precautions for special identification from unknown persons asking that checks be cashed for them. It is pointed out the techniques used are fairly standard and should serve as warnings to possible victims. These clues follow:

1. The bad check passer almost always makes a negligible purchase in an effort to get a substantial amount of money in change.

2. They usually dress in the mode of the usual customers of the store.

3. They almost always appear during rush hours or when the merchant has several customers in the place of business.

4. Several adopt some personal feigned peculiarity that will attract notice and divert attention from their face and general appearance.

5. They're usually "big talkers," with a line of "talk" that somehow inspires confidence in them.

The help of the public and in particular of retailers is requested in thwarting the practice and the arrest and prosecution of persons engaged in it.

New And Old, Joy And Sadness, Hope, Future. --- Inauguration Day

There is an aura of something old and something new about the inauguration of a new governor. There's that feeling of happiness and those pangs of sadness. There's that deep felt resolution to "keep the ties that bind" old friendships and the hope that the auspicious day brings new friends and other long lasting associations.

There can be no doubt that all these things passed through others' minds as fast moving jets streamed colorful smoke signals along the parade route. In some kind of rhythm with the beat of the drums, memories formed vividly as the parade wended its way to the reviewing stands, where the new governor sits in hope and the outgoing governor relaxes in retrospect.

Were these things not true, the industrialist and the coal miner, the general and the private, the "boss" and the "clerk" would not stand side by side each four years to bid farewell to a proven "man of distinction" and say hello to a dedicated, new leader.

Until last Saturday I had not intended to go to the inaugural ceremonies of Edward T. "Ned" Breathitt and Harry Lee Waterfield. With Christmas near at hand, guests coming for the holidays and a busier than usual time at the News office, I had dispensed with any notion of going. At least, those are the reasons I gave myself. I think the reasons were purely sentimental. The reason for the changed plans resulted from sentimental emotions on the parts of others, too.

A family of perfectly wonderful people, with whom I have had such a long, pleasant and devoted friendship for more than a decade, invited Paul and me to an inaugural day breakfast at the Governor's residence. Bert and Mabel Combs (I can drop the formalities now) said that the breakfast was planned for "some people we want to say an especial goodbye to." When close friends put an invitation that way, not sentiment, not duty, not chilly weather nor leaden skies should stand in the way. Yet, all of them would have conspired had not Hugh and Ann Fly and Barbara and Duck Smith come to the defense of our invitation by dropping what they were doing to drive me up there. Paul, as he is wont to do, declined the invitation with his usual kind remark, "somebody has got to mind the shop." Barbara could not rearrange her schedule, so late Monday afternoon the foursome took off for Frankfort. I shall be forever grateful to them for their consideration and their thoughtfulness in making it possible for me to enjoy "that something old and something new experience" at the Governor's residence.

I arrived at the Residence a little earlier than the appointed hour to help Mabel pack items that she could not possibly send away until the final hour. Going upstairs, I found both Bert and Mabel in some kind of diplomatic dilemma. Surveying the situation for a few minutes, I soon learned that a crisis had developed in guest room number nine. With patrolmen, servants and other members of the staff scurrying around looking for keys, I joined in to help, but the situation took a carpenter, not an editor.

Mrs. Wallace Barren, the wife of the governor of West Virginia, was "more than a little frantic" as she tried desperately to open the closet door. She had slammed it a little too hard and the lock jammed. There she was in her house coat, and her inauguration day finery locked in the closet. Her husband was "confined" to the bathroom while Governor Combs found a worn, old bathrobe to hand him while the door was being taken off the hinges in a desperate move to get them clothed before the other guests arrived.

Nobody, but nobody, knew a short while later that such distinguished guests almost missed the inauguration of their close friend, Ned Breathitt.

Other governors who were guests at the breakfast were Governor Terry Sanford of North Carolina and Governor Harold E. Hughes of Iowa. Mrs. Sanford, vivacious, charming and dynamic, is a Christian County native and an old-time friend of Governor and Mrs. Breathitt's. It was a special day for her to see her fellow Christian Countian achieve such a high honor.

City Commission, School Board Should Work To Review Property Assessments Next Year

In a front page story last week the News reported the concern among school leaders for local school boards to increase the maximum rate of property assessment in order to obtain more tax revenue with which to operate their respective systems. The maximum rate is now $1.50 per hundred dollars of assessment. The school officials, through their Kentucky Education Association, are seeking to raise the rate to $2.00 per hundred.

While the matter of increasing the maximum rate must be decided by the General Assembly, the average local taxpayer may find it hard to understand why such action is needed on the local level when ever increasing amounts of State and Federal revenue continue to be appropriated for educational purposes.

In discussing the matter with various school administrators and officials we find the answer fairly simple. While we have no intention of casting any aspersions on the integrity or ability of local tax assessors, it is obvious that while the ratio of property values in most communities in America remains fairly stable, even decreasing in many instances, the cost of maintenance and operation of school systems continues to spiral upward.

The situation appears to be in some kind of a stalemate. The increased "outside" help is funneled into funds to meet the increasing costs, while the local revenue is used to take care of the bare necessities of operation. Under these circumstances school administrators are constantly in the perilous predicament of "robbing Peter to pay Paul" with no surplus money for expansion or unforeseen replacements and repairs.

From our point of view it appears that the time is long past due for militant and courageous action on the part of local school people to demand a review of property assessments on the local and county level. The office of tax assessor, being an elective one, is hardly the place to look for a correction of the problem. If there is one thing a voter remembers more clearly than anything about a candidate at election time, it's the incident where perhaps the office-holder's action cost a few extra dollars a year in tax money.

This is not to indicate that the particular office-holder is derelict in his duty to assess the property, commensurate with other property of similar value. It's just that, we're in a vicious circle. The widows, pensioners, and low income property owners feel that they are carrying the tax burden, while their more affluent neighbors get something of a "free ride." The "able to pay more" group refuses to increase its assessment until it feels that the assessment is in line with the property owned by similar "able-to-pay" groups.

And on-and on it goes!

Educational leaders have come a long way in creating an awareness of the problems that face their school systems where teachers' salaries and student requirements are concerned. They are fully capable of explaining their needs and the great need for more local tax revenue.

A new City Commission takes office in Fulton next month. We hope that a sensible, equitable review of our property assessment is top on their agenda. We think that it is not beyond the realms of reason for all civic and cultural groups, working closely with city and school officials to bring property assessments into line on a voluntary basis without the necessity of a costly, sometimes inconclusive appraisal made by professional evaluators.

In connection with the increased assessment rate the News received this release recently from the Kentucky Education Association. It is self-explanatory.

The executive secretary of the Kentucky Education Association has called for an all-out effort to give local boards of education the authority to improve the quality of education through the right to levy higher school taxes. Writing editorially in the current issue of the association's official publication, Dr. J. M. Dodson says this is essential if local school boards are to "have the opportunity to provide the school program that is wanted and needed."

Dodson cites the KEA's 1964 Legislative Program as being designed to provide "more quality in our educational programs." He says that one point in that program is particularly important: "Permit school boards to increase local tax rates beyond present maximums, with provision that reduced assessment ratios will have no adverse effect on local school systems."

He goes on to quote specific points in the legislative programs of the Kentucky School Boards Association and the Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers which call for essentially the same action.

He concludes from this that the three groups most concerned and informed on school needs—teachers, parents, and administrators—are in agreement on the importance of this action. "If anyone should know what needs to be done to improve schools," he reports, "these groups should."

As Dodson points out, the KEA has been in the forefront for many years of the struggle to bring Kentucky schools up to the level of those in adjoining states. These efforts, in cooperation with other groups interested in better schools, resulted in the establishment of the state's Minimum Foundation Program and its adequate financing.

As the Legislature originally created it, the Foundation Program, according to Dodson, had two purposes:

(1) to guarantee a minimum program in every school system, regardless of the local ability to support schools; and

(2) to make it possible to go beyond the minimum in any school system where the people wish to do so.

He reports that increased financing by the state, especially through the sales tax, has brought about a drastic increase in the minimum program, with no increase in the required local contribution. However, increasing costs of instructional materials and reduced assessment ratios have reduced the amount available to the local board of education to put the "quality" into the local program.

Dodson replies to the argument that the people in a school system can hold a referendum and "vote" a tax rate beyond the present maximums with this rebuttal: "The general public is much more ready to accept a program which already is in effect than they are one which is put to them as a possibility when and if a tax increase is approved. Or, to paraphrase an old saying, 'a bird in the hand' is much more real and understanding than 'a bird in the bush.'"

He concludes with a call to teachers and others during the next few months "to bring forth the light of understanding on this problem, and to develop public acceptance of the idea that local school boards must have the opportunity to provide the school program that is wanted and needed."

STRICTLY BUSINESS

"What's this I hear about you arranging a 20-year mortgage on your house, Montmorency?"

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of the Civil War day by day in Kentucky, as reviewed by the Kentucky Civil War Commission

By JOE JORDAN

One hundred years ago this week the Kentucky legislature passed a resolution asking President Lincoln to order an official inquiry in the case of Maj. Gen. Thomas L. Crittenden of the Union Army, a Kentuckian. The legislators charged he had been "most unjustly" relieved of command. His corps had been routed by the Confederates at the Battle of Chickamauga in September.

A contemporary described Crittenden as having a "thin, staring face and hair hanging to his coat collar—a very wild-appearing major general, but quite a kindly man in conversation." He was a son of the Kentucky statesman, John J. Crittenden, who had died during the previous summer. A brother, George B. Crittenden, had entered the Confederate Army and also attained the rank of major general.

(Later, a court of inquiry would clear Thomas L. Crittenden, thus confirming the opinion of the legislature. After the war, he would continue to serve in the Regular Army until his retirement in 1881.)

"A further impressment of Negroes was made in this city on Sunday evening last," said the Lexington Observer and Reporter. "As the congregation of one of their leading churches was dismissed . . . a body of soldiers impressed the men, young and old, and marched them to the office of the Provost Marshal, whence they were sent to one of the jails . . . The object, it was stated, was to secure more labor for the military roads." The newspaper, which had taken a bold stand for the preservation of the Union from the very beginning of the national crisis, said if the policy of taking all able-bodied men for military purposes were continued, it might well be asked how the people could support the women and children and the "aged and decrepit" men who were left.

"The whereabouts of John Morgan seems to be as much a controversial point now as when he was in command of his Rebel followers," the Lexington paper reported. It ran a reprint of a story in a Cincinnati paper which said a squad of Cincinnati detectives had missed Morgan by only two hours at Leesburg, Ky. The Confederate general, who had escaped Federal custody in Ohio, was riding "in a buggy, with a female," and was accompanied on horseback by two of the Confederate captains who had fled prison with him, according to the detectives. A final paragraph said: "P. S. Since the above was written, there is a report that Morgan and the two captains have been taken."

The Observer and Reporter, however, quoted a letter received from "a highly respected gentleman of Cumberland County." Writing from Marrowbone, Ky., he said: "Gen. John H. Morgan and five of his officers have just passed through our little town, enroute for Tennessee, to cross the river at Mud Gap. They dismounted and warmed at the fire, inquired for Yankees first, and then for whiskey and Hostetter's Bitters. They rode all night. They seemed in a great hurry."

MAJOR POINTS AND MINOR, TOO

By Gordon M. Quarnstrom

It's about time: To begin planning for Christmas.

The Home Comfort and Advertisers' Delight is filled with gift suggestions.

And the kids are beginning to get excited. This will be a quiet holiday around our house . . . with both children married and 2,000 miles away, there won't be the usual batch of presents under the tree and the usual merriment during Christmas week.

This is a wonderful time of year to remember relatives and old friends . . . with a greeting letter, or a note inside a greeting card.

Ever notice how much more personal a card becomes when an old friend puts a little bit of news and a handwritten "thinking of you" note inside?

Holiday time should be safe driving time for everyone . . . holiday happiness can be spoiled for everyone through someone's carelessness.

Speaking of driving, we heard the other day of a Chicago insurance man who was hit head-on by another car which swerved out of its lane when both were going about 60 mph. Driver of the other car was thrown out and killed. The insurance man had heeded the warnings of the Allstate Safety Crusade and was wearing his seat belt. He did get a cut when his chin hit the steering wheel, but otherwise he was unhurt. The moral: Wear your seat belt whenever you're behind the wheel!

And remember INTERVAL . . . keep a proper distance from the car ahead.

Apt newspaper names: Orange (N. J.) Blossom, Bird Island (Minn.) Call, and Bountiful (Utah) Harvest. —From Jean Keys, Washington, D. C.

THEN THERE'S another new idea—that of solving the global population explosion by colonizing the other planets. It's described by State Department Official Richard Gardner as "curing overpopulation by artificial dissemination."

An Evanston, Ill., hotel, The Georgian, and the long-famed Multnomah Hotel in Portland, Ore., favorites of travelers for many years, are about to become homes for elderly people . . . changing times have brought changes in many hotels . . . one favorite in Concord, N. H., was an old folks home when we last visited there . . . and one in Frankfort, Ky., has been remodeled into a bank!

Things I Like: The downtown sidewalk phone booths in Salt Lake City and Cincinnati . . . so convenient! . . . the view of the Royal Gorge Bridge from the spot the Rio Grande RR train makes a 10-minute, sightseers' stop . . . dramatically beautiful . . . the Garden of the Gods at Colorado Springs, Colo . . . such spectacular examples of Nature's sculpture! . . .

Jokes, short poems and other contributions cheerfully accepted

... send to me at 7447 Skokie many friends to remember! Blvd., Skokie, Ill.

It's about time: To get at those Christmas cards.

Aunt Minnie . . . Uncle Ted . . . Cousin Fred . . .

So many relatives . . . and so

At our house there's always a last-minute addressing rush . . . as well as a package-wrapping and mailing rush.

Postmaster Treas In Good Advice To Early Mailing

Faced with the certainty that Christmas 1963 will set an all-time record for mailings of Christmas cards and gifts, Postmaster Joe Treas today requested public cooperation in his annual "Mail Early For Christmas" campaign.

The postmaster said these are the things to watch to be sure that every Christmas card and gift package will be delivered before Christmas Eve:

First, check over your Christmas card and gift list very carefully to be certain each address is complete with full name, street and number, city, state and zone or ZIP Code number.

Second, stock up soon on sturdy packing materials for your gift packages, including heavy wrapping paper, corrugated cartons, strong cord and paper adhesive tape.

Third, buy your postage stamps now. Be sure to use the colorful new five cent Christmas tree on your cards.

Fourth, procure free labels from your post office which read "ALL FOR LOCAL DELIVERY" and "ALL FOR OUT-OF-TOWN DELIVERY," so that you can sort your Christmas cards into two groups, with addresses all facing one way, thus insuring fast delivery.

Fifth, be sure that your full name and address is on all Christmas card envelopes and shipping labels and be doubly sure to include the ZIP Code number in your return address.

Mr. Treas especially requested that Christmas mailings be scheduled so that all cards and gift packages going to most distant points are mailed by December 10th. Those for local destinations should be mailed at least a week before Christmas, he added.

Federal Employment Tax For 1963 Reduced For Certain Employers

Under legislation approved by the President on May 29, 1963, the rate of Federal unemployment tax for the calendar year 1963 was reduced from 3.5 percent to 3.35 percent. The reduced rate will apply to wages paid on or after January 1, 1963.

Internal Revenue Service explained that the Federal unemployment tax is imposed on each employer who has four or more employees on at least one day in each of 20 weeks in the calendar year. The tax applies to the first $3,000 paid during the year to each employee. The amount of Federal unemployment tax payable by the employer is reduced by credits for his contributions to State unemployment funds. Returns for the Federal unemployment tax, Form 940, are due annually on or before January 31 of each year.

Internal Revenue Service stated that the reduction in the rate of Federal unemployment tax has no effect on the employer and employee (social security) taxes under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act which are imposed on employers of one or more individuals and their employees.

'64 Pontiac

Here's why you'll like it.

Here's why you'll tell other people you like it.

Wide-Track, for instance. Wide-Track is what does away with tilting your way around turns. Pontiac's smoother, quieter ride is another thing you might point out. A big 389-cubic-inch Trophy V-8 is standard in each and every Pontiac. You get to choose from 34 engine/transmission teams to harness all that power. (Happy choosing!)

Now then—on to more of the things that make the '64 Pontiac so thoroughly likeable. Frankly, we couldn't think of anything radical to do with this car. Oh, we made the styling even more stylish, as you can plainly see. We lavished even more care on the interiors. We even improved the light bulbs. But as for more vital things, why change? Improve, refine, sharpen—yes. Change—no. And you can tell that to your friends.

at the breakfast, or at the inauguration for that matter. Dr. and Mrs. D. M. Clardy, with their host and hostess Dr. and Mrs. Branham Baughman, were among those with whom I chatted. Mrs. Clardy is a sister of Doris Wiley's and she asked that I say "hello" to Doris, which I have already done.

The breakfast alone was worth every effort I made to get to Frankfort for inauguration day. How nice it was to reminisce with Wendell Ford and his lovely lady from Owensboro, with Ann and Bob Martin, now of Richmond where he is the distinguished Dr. Martin and the president of Eastern State College; with former Governor Lawrence Wetherby and his wife, Helen. I marvelled again at the fairest lady of Kentucky politics, Mrs. Ruby Lafoon of Madisonville, who was there with her daughter, Mrs. Lefoon is nearly 85 and looking her usual charming self.

Mary K and Louis Cox were there, with each greeting to their friends a warm and enthusiastic one. The Clarence Maloney of Hopkinsville, the Bill Youngs of Frankfort, the Wilson Wyatts, and others had some special event to remember, some special story to tell of the friendships of the past four years.

Of course, the soon-to-be inaugurated governor and the lovely new first lady Frances were there, as were the soon-to-be inaugurated lieutenant-governor and his charming wife, Laura. It was my pleasure to be breakfast partners of the Waterfields. We talked a great deal about west Kentucky and the bright future all of us envision with two great leaders of a State who claim this section as their homes. On my right was Betsy May, whose energetic husband Bill was having animated conversation with some of our other old friends, the Pat Sullivan of Frankfort. Mr. Sullivan is an old-time Frankfort resident and he delighted us with some of his memories of past inaugurations.

While the thirty odd guests were enjoying the traditional Kentucky breakfast of country ham, and all the trimmings, as they say, I took time out to say goodbye to some people who were at the Residence the very first day that the Combs family got there, and who have served the family devotedly and well for these past four years. For Ernest and Carl and Robert and the other servants inauguration day had a special meaning. They too, would be leaving to pursue other endeavors. Governor Breathitt has asked the police contingent at the Residence to stay on with the new first family. The Patrolmen seemed more than delighted at the new assignment.

As one writer said:

"The weather was chilly, a bit on the raw side, even. The sun came out feebly shortly after the parade started at 10 a. m., and snow melted in expanses exposed to it. A low but persistent cold wind punished those who came garbed too lightly."

It was a sweet kind of "punishment." It was the sharp nudge of tomorrow where the old order changeth to the new.

And Governor Breathitt summed up the awe-inspiring events of the day when he said: "This is not a day of exultation . . . of triumph . . . of unseemly rejoicing. This is a day of soul searching . . . a day of dedication."

In departing from his office Governor Combs said:

"I do not expect to stand here again; and, being only human, I look back today and wonder how history will judge us and our deeds, how well we have kept the faith, how Kentucky has fared under our stewardship."

I think his record answers Governor Combs' question far better than historians can write it.

KENNEDY MEMORIAL DAY IS URGED

HARRISBURG, Pa.—The Pennsylvania Senate adopted a resolution Monday urging Congress to set aside Nov. 22 as President Kennedy Memorial Day.

With JIM PRYOR

Agricultural Agent, Illinois Central Railroad

Retirement Plan For Farmers

Last year Congress made it possible for farm people to enjoy the privileges of a retirement plan and for other self employed persons. The new law passed known as the Tax Retirement Act of 1962, is one that permits you to set aside part of your earned income each year. For many years people who work in the city have enjoyed fringe benefits that included retirement plans and now our farm people may have the privilege of doing the same for themselves and their workers.

There have been reports on the law in various publications but only recently were the main regulations made available and for that reason, I felt the need for reporting on it at this time. It is a complicated law and professional advice should be received before a decision is made.

As to those who may participate; any self employed farmer who has "earned income". The law states that income must be a material income - producing factor such as investments in land, livestock, and machinery. Earned income can be no more than 30% of net profits. Persons whose income is totally gained from investments alone cannot set up a plan under this law.

Briefly, the law will allow you to claim a tax deduction on half the money you set aside for retirement. The maximum amount you can contribute to the plan is 10% of your earned income each year or $2500, whichever is less. This means a tax deduction of up to $1250 per year. Generally you can deduct all contributions for employees.

A farmer with eligible employees may make an additional voluntary contribution of 10% of earned income if the employees voluntarily contribute at that rate or greater, however, there is no tax deduction for additional voluntary contributions.

Down on the Farm

The Fulton News, Thursday, Dec. 12, 1963

tributions: If a farmer chooses to do so, a plan for retirement may be combined with Social Security for him and his employees in some circumstances where Social Security tax payments offset the contributions to the plan. In most cases farmers find no advantage in doing this. The new retirement act for self employed persons offers limited opportunities for farmers to set up retirement plans with some tax advantages. The new law can be help in cases where you want to set aside funds for retirement anyway. The tax savings would at least pay for the cost of setting the plan in motion for retirement.

Take this as a suggestion, provided you are interested in the new Retirement Act. Consult your Attorney for assistance and a thorough understanding of the Act, also for help in setting up a qualified plan. No doubt, you can receive from him the kind of advice you will need in making any final decisions for the Retirement Act as it applies to your case.

NEW CHEVELLE!

BY CHEVROLET

The kind of go—6 or V8—you'd expect from one of Chevy's great highway performers. Come on down and drive it.

The kind of comfort you'd expect in a large interior. Come on down and sit in it.

The kind of fresh styling—inside and out—that makes it the year's smartest surprise. Come down and stare at it.

New Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe

Now—Chevy spirit in a new kind of car!

We built this one to do more than just stand around looking beautiful. Held its weight down in the 3,000-pound range. Then built four lusty engines—two sixes and two V8's—with output all the way up to 220 horses*!

And if that makes you think this is one frisky car, you've got the right idea.

You've also got a roomy car here. Yet its 115-inch wheelbase keeps it highly maneuverable in traffic and very easy to park.

With its Full Coil suspension, it's got a ride that reminds you of the Jet-smooth kind the way it muffles noise and cushions bumps.

And the fine hand of Body by Fisher craftsmen shows up beneath this one's suave good looks, too.

Sound good? There's more. Like the fact that Chevelle comes in three series with eleven models—convertibles, sport coupes, sedans, wagons, even Super Sport models with front bucket seats. Like the fact that (and see if this isn't one of the nicest surprises of all) the new Chevelle comes at an easy-to-take price!

Like to hear more? The listening's wonderful at your Chevrolet dealer's—and so's the driving.

DETROIT NEWS

By Roy Maurer

Well, we finally got our first snow of the year. Sure was nice to see it.

Ann McDonald is still on the sick list, at home, feeling a little better. Ralph Kirby is at home, gets out once in a while for a drive. Francis McAlister has been at home for the last two weeks, not feeling too well.

Faith Church has purchased a new manse. The old one is to be made into more Sunday School rooms and Fellowship Hall. They also had a new organ donated to the church, which was badly needed, and the donor did not want his name mentioned. Thanks from all of us.

Berah Hampton celebrated her 79th birthday recently at her daughter's home, with all her children and grandchildren and many friends attending.

Mayme Phelps returned from her vacation, visiting her son in Columbus, Ga. and all her friends in Fulton, Ky. and surrounding communities.

Our Christmas program at church will be on to remember, as there is a lot of planning going into it, so we will all really know the meaning of Christmas. We will also have Watch Night service the last day of this month. We would like to see everybody and their friends there.

If you are in Detroit for the holidays, why not stop and attend these services and meet our pastor and a lot of your friends. There is no better place to be than church on Christmas and on New Year's Eve.

Some of you people have news so why don't you call me and let all of us share it with you. My phone is 839-3074, I'll be waiting for a call.

President Johnson Is Tall Texan In Ability, Experience, Persuasion

If President Dwight D. Eisenhower's record with Congress looked good at all—in getting things done and programs through—he owed a lot of thanks to Lyndon B. Johnson, the new President.

For six of Eisenhower's eight White House years the Democrats ran Congress and Johnson, a man of tremendous drive, ran the Senate. This tall Texan was the most effective Senate leader in the century, probably in history.

It was not the result of personality. He lacked the immediate charm of President John F. Kennedy. He was not a distinguished speaker. But he did his homework and did it prodigiously.

Because he is that kind of man, he will work enormously at the presidency. Any mistakes will be mistakes of judgment. They won't come from lack of trying.

He was a master of detail. He knew where every senator stood on every issue and, before voting time where every senator was or was going to be. He befriended all of them when he could and thus was able to expect their support when he needed it.

His egotism, and he has a lot of it, didn't stand in the way of his accomplishment. Because the egotism is a natural part of him, he carries it into the White House with him.

Just because of his egotism—because it makes success necessary for him—he will be hard-driven to succeed. When he is in charge, there is never any doubt who is boss. He showed this in the Senate.

While it was resented by some of his fellow-Democrats—particularly the liberals—it was one of the keys to his effectiveness. He can't leave this part of his nature behind him at the White House door, either.

Johnson, sensitive to criticism, will now, like any other president, get a lot of it. His Senate years prepared him for it, although he may not take it lying down.

Johnson proved himself a master of politics and of handling men in his Senate years. But handling foreign affairs has been outside his experience. He faces there a new challenge in which to prove himself.

Of all the leadership arts he used in the Senate—a place full of prima donnas with strong feelings on many issues—the one

Johnson used most visibly was compromise, like grease to get a bill through warring factions.

His technique was to get both sides to make some concessions, even though both sides were less than pleased with the result. For example: It happened once in a struggle between Southern Democrats and Northern liberals.

At the end the captain of the Southerners, Sen. Richard Russell, D-Ga., said it was a sad day. The captain of the liberals, Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., called it a victory for the South.

But it was Johnson—and no one but Johnson could have done it—who steered through the Senate the first two civil rights bills since Reconstruction days in the 19th Century. They weren't much, but they opened the door to stronger measures later.

Kenney this year wanted a stronger one. Johnson supported him. Since he is no longer in the Senate, one of the first big steps of his presidency will come on the civil rights issue.

Christmas Decorations Brighten Scene For Woman's Club Program

E. Shaw Robinson, Jr., teacher of Public Speaking and Theater at the University of Tennessee, Martin, presented students in a program, "Ask About The Star" at the Woman's Club, Friday afternoon. A large audience enjoyed the platform reading, which was from a sermon given several years ago. The reading was a dramatization of the Inn guests reaction to the Star at the time of the birth of Jesus, utilizing the beautiful music of "The Noel the Angel Did Say" by a quartet and two solos, "Sweet Little Jesus Boy" and "O man of the Drama and Literature Department, presided at the silver service during the social hour. Spiced tea, cookies, and decorated mints were served from a beautiful appointed table. The centerpiece was a silver bowl filled with permanent red roses, flanked by dark green tapers.

Little Star of Bethlehem. Students participating were Linda Martin, Millington; Charlotte Cunningham, Bruceton; Andy Gardner, Union City; J. T. Patterson, Memphis; Joe Stroud, Martin and Billy Redmond, Pineville, Ky.

The Drama and Literature Department were hosts of the meeting with Mrs. R. O. Brown, program chairman. The club home was most attractive with the Christmas decorations of red poinsettias, green magnolia leaves and red candles.

Hostesses were Mrs. Robert Graham, chairman, Mrs. Charles Rice, Mrs. Russell Rudd, Mrs. Robert Batts, Mrs. Smith Brown and Mrs. Norman Crittenden.

Mrs. Vyron Mitchell, president conducted the business session assisted by Mrs. Charles Pawlukiewicz.

THE SPLENDOR OF THE

Snow

Snow falls and puts a beautiful white blanket over the mountains, and even before this one is gone, others will fall. It will become deeper and deeper until the spring, when it begins to melt and provides life giving waters to many streams. These streams meet with others and become rivers and provide water for irrigation and lakes throughout our land.

Our Lord, Jesus has said that He will give to any that seek Him . . . "a well of water springing up into everlasting life." — John 4, 14

Attend church Sunday, hear God's word and share in the living waters that only our Saviour can provide.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Kennedy Infants Reburied Beside Their Father In Quiet Ceremony

Mrs. John F. Kennedy returned to a darkened hillside in Arlington National Cemetery last Wednesday night to bury the bodies of her two dead children at their father's side.

In a brief and moving ceremony, lighted by the eternal flame at the head of Kennedy's grave, two white caskets were placed beside the slain President. One contained the body of Patrick Bouvier Kennedy who died last Aug. 9 in the second day of his life. The other contained a sister who was stillborn Aug. 23, 1956.

White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said Mrs. Kennedy was accompanied by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, his brother, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and the former First Lady's sister, Princess Lee Radziwill.

Mrs. Kennedy knelt in prayer at the graveside ceremony conducted by the Most Rev. Philip Hannan, auxiliary bishop of Washington.

The two small caskets were placed on either side of the President. Bishop Hannan intoned the words of the 148th Psalm.

The Lord's Prayer was said, and the caskets, sprinkled with holy water, were lowered into the grave occupying part of a three-acre site set aside for the President.

Salinger said the bodies of the two small children were accompanied to Washington aboard the Kennedy family plane by Sen. Edward Kennedy.

Patrick Bouvier Kennedy had been buried at the Kennedy family plot in Brookline, Mass. His sister was buried at Newport, R. I. The plans for the burial were a closely-guarded secret.

JFK's Farewell To Infant Son Told By Cushing

Richard Cardinal Cushing has described the late President John F. Kennedy's tearful farewell to his son, Patrick Bouvier Kennedy, who died last August less than two days after his birth.

"I'll never forget the day we buried his little child from the chapel," the Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston said Thursday.

"Jack was the last to leave the chapel. I followed him.

"The little casket containing the body was at the head of the aisle. Jack put his arms around the casket as if he wanted to carry it with him. Then the tears watered his cheeks."

The cardinal, a lifelong friend of the Kennedy's family, officiated at Kennedy's funeral.

Fulton's Successful Banana Festival A Challenge To Other Cities

(Ed's Note: Within recent weeks, since our tremendously successful Banana Festival, we have encountered civic leaders from many many communities around us, and in other States, who ask the question: "How did you people promote such a giant activity?"

(In every instance we have answered simply: "Team work."

(A very fine writer, Robert T. Parker of Jackson, Tenn. who is travelling supervisor for the Big-Valu Super Market, commented on this question in his delightful column "Odds and Yens," published in a Henderson, Tenn. newspaper.

(We thought you might like to read his comments and to enjoy his fine style of writing. We have asked Mr. Parker to contribute to the News when time permits him to do so.)

They were on their way home to Water Valley, to Hickman, Paris, Paducah, Dawson Springs, Milan, Greenfield, Jackson, Henderson, dozens of towns. Tired feet from standing three hours along the city's streets, waiting for the parade to start. Then two hours of passing bands, clowns, floats, men on fine walking horses, pretty girls. Green banana stalks hanging from parking meters with only a box of banana peels on the sidewalk. Streets littered with drink cups, pop corn, film boxes, reminder of hundreds of pictures snapped as bands and floats moved by. Filling stations and other businesses open and filled with customers . . . stores and cafes packed with people hurrying to finish shopping and get on the road home . . . hospital-booths jammed with coffee drinkers.

End of the festival . . . end of a busy day for the planners, the participants, the spectators. End of a week's activity . . . of street dances, minstrels, contests, talent shows, archery contests, band concerts . . . a full week of carnival atmosphere and gaiety.

Carnival rides being dismantled . . . tents coming down . . . comments along the way, "Finest parade I've ever seen." "It's been a fine festival."

Yes, the scene was Fulton, Kentucky last week, where after many years of being distribution center for bananas, finally decided to let the world know about it. And for one full week they did, with newspapers, TV and radio. The whole town was decorated with bananas . . . on the light posts and hanging from parking meters. Employees garbed in South American dress. Banana Festival buttons . . . corsages for the ladies . . . banana ice cream . . . banana soda pop and even banana pan-cakes.

It was South Fulton, Tennessee and her twin city, Fulton, Kentucky joined together to bring reporters and cameramen from many cities, including a team from the Huntley-Brinkley news program and others.

The thousands of people who came to Fulton and South Fulton all week and then the almost uncountable crowds who came to see the finale, the parade, featuring Miss America, Miss Tennessee, Miss Kentucky and numerous Princesses, eliminated any possibility of the festival not being a tremendous success for those who planned it, those who took part and for those who came to see.

If Fulton can do it, why not Henderson?

Humboldt has its Strawberry Festival, Bells the Okra Festival, Paris the World's Greatest Fish Fry, Savannah the Catfish Derby. We are wondering if some Chester Countian could come up with an idea for such a promotion for Henderson and Chester County.

It is not only like a Mardi Gras in New Orleans or the Cotton Carnival in Memphis for fun, frolic and entertainment, but it is a boost for the merchants of the town. It brings thousands of visitors and shoppers.

Any ideas along the rural routes or the party lines? Let us hear from you.

Kentucky Guard Wears Mourning For Inauguration

Kentucky National Guardsmen who participated in the Governor's Inauguration parade Dec. 10, wore black arm bands in mourning for the death of President Kennedy, it was announced by Major General Arthur Y. Lloyd, The Adjutant General of Kentucky.

The decision that the Guard would participate had been withheld due to a teletype message from the Department of Defense which had asked that all Military honors, ceremonies and official entertainment be cancelled until the end of the 30 days of mourning for President Kennedy. Later clarification, though, stated that this was not intended to apply to "events of official ceremonial nature . . . for which commitments had already been made."

The decision to wear arm bands was made since the inauguration parade falls within the 30 days of mourning for President Kennedy. Nearly 500 Kentucky Guardsmen took part in the parade and ceremonies.

Kentucky's School Leaders Give Combs Thanks For Contribution To Education

Kentucky's school teachers and administrators, in a special program arranged by the Kentucky Education Association, have expressed their appreciation to Gov. Bert Combs for his contributions to education.

Dr. J. M. Dodson, executive secretary of the K. E. A., told 350 persons in the House of Representatives chamber recently:

"When the educational history of Kentucky has been recorded and placed in proper perspective, the administration of Gov. Bert Combs will stand out as an era when the youth of this state were given their long-overdue recognition, when teachers were recognized as an important segment of our society, and when public education was given foremost attention in the governmental affairs of our state."

Combs was presented with a silver platter inscribed, "Thank you, Governor Combs. Presented by Kentucky Education Association in appreciation of outstanding contributions to education in Kentucky, 1955-1963." He also was given a book which contained the signatures of all who attended.

As Mrs. Combs and their daughter Lois looked on, the Governor acknowledged the tribute by saying, "There is no group of people from which I would rather have an expression of appreciation." He added:

"If we have accomplished anything, we have proved that it is not political suicide for the legislature and the school people to say that we are going to have a good school system for our children. We knew this had to be done to give our children an opportunity equal to that of children in other states."

He urged the school people "to expand this beachhead until every child in Kentucky is provided with the best education he is capable of absorbing—which the Constitution and the Lord Himself want them to have."

Educational accomplishments during Combs' four-year administration include: a $154 million per biennium increase in appropriations for all public education; construction of 5,000 additional classrooms; creation of a Commission on Public Education which analyzed Kentucky's school needs; a $1200-a-year increase in teachers' salaries, and enactment of a Professional Practices act to regulate conduct of the teaching profession.

Others delivering tributes to Governor Combs included Dr. Richard VanHoose, vice president of the K. E. A. and superintendent of Jefferson County Schools, and Roy McDonald of C. E. A. president of the K. E. A.

Baptist Women Now Observing Week Of Prayer

Women in 1,500 Kentucky Baptist churches will observe December 9-13 as a week of prayer and study for foreign missions, according to Mrs. George R. Ferguson, executive secretary of the Woman's Missionary Union of Kentucky. The women of the churches, as well as the children and young people, will assemble each day to pray for Baptist mission work in 53 countries of the world.

In addition to study and prayer, the women will make their annual Christmas offering for foreign missions. The Kentucky goal for this year is $405,000. Baptist women throughout the United States have an overall goal of $11,850,000. This offering has been taken annually since 1888, and has been increasing at the rate of about 15 per cent each year.

These funds, plus receipts from the Cooperative Program each month during the year, support the work in 53 countries carried on by the Foreign Mission Board, Richmond Virginia.

Statue Of Goebel Removed Amid Varied Comments From Legislators At Assembly

The statue of assassinated Governor William Goebel, a half-century landmark in front of the Capitol, was moved last week without fanfare to the front of the old Capitol where he was shot in 1900.

A Highway Department crane arrived at the Capitol Monday morning. By noon the deed was accomplished.

"My God, Goebel is gone," said one legislator as he drove to the Capitol. The General Assembly has been in special session since November 18.

Goebel, a Pennsylvania native, lived in Northern Kentucky and that area's legislators had protested the proposed move. They expressed shock and displeasure — in a lighthearted way.

"I, too, was astonished," said Representative Russell Oelsner, Covington Democrat. "The first thing I saw when I came up the driveway was his little old soul on a poor old truck."

"I'm very sorry he is being moved... May his soul rest in peace. They could have at least used a limousine."

Goebel's statue was placed near the spot where a sniper's bullet felled him as he walked toward the Capitol in downtown Frankfort.

Nobody knows who fired the fatal bullet, although several persons were convicted and imprisoned in connection with the crime.

"I have been advised they have moved Mr. Goebel," said Representative Fred Morgan, Paducah Democrat, "but they left a hole big enough for... the Northern Kentucky legislators."

Representative Leonard Hislop, Somerset Republican, commented: "I think that possibly it is a good thing (Goebel) would have had to witness the inauguration of a man who some believe should not be Governor today."

Governor-elect Edward T. Breathitt, Jr., a Democrat, defeated Republican Louie B. Nunn last month by 13,000 votes of 886,000. A canvass asked by Nunn left the margin intact.

Hislop once suggested melting the statue for scrap. He said Goebel, a Democrat, really died before he was sworn in as Governor after a heated election contest.

The Democratic version is that Goebel took a deathbed oath after the Legislature declared him victor in the race against Republican William S. Taylor.

There is a Frankfort legend that the statue moved actually belongs in Frankfort Cemetery, where another bronze statue of Goebel marks the assassinated Governor's grave.

The cemetery statue depicts

Goebel in a forceful speaking stance, gesturing with one arm. The Capitol statue shows Goebel in a meditative pose, with head slightly bent and arms folded.

Legend has it that a mix-up occurred when the two statues, created separately arrived in Frankfort about 1914, and that inappropriate statues were erected at the two locations.

Highway officials had consulted with a Louisville engineering expert on how to move the statue safely. They appeared to have no trouble even with the 12-ton base which was moved separately.

The 133-year-old downtown Capitol has numerous Goebel relics, including the clothes he wore when shot.

Teen-Agers Can Work At Various Holiday Positions

Teen-agers can work in many types of jobs. Pat Melon, regional director of the U. S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, reminded employers interested in hiring young people during the Christmas holidays. The Fair Labor Standards Act, popularly known as the Federal Wage-Hour Law, sets standards for the employment of young people in jobs in interstate or foreign commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce.

One of the types of employment which is frequently open to young workers during the holidays is in retail stores. The Federal law permits 14- and 15-year-olds to work in a variety of occupations in retail, food service, of gasoline service establishments, provided they work no more than 8 hours a day or 40 hours a week during vacation periods. In weeks when school is in session, children of these ages may work on more than 3 hours a day or 18 hours a week. All their work must be done outside school hours and they may not work before 7 a. m. or after 7 p. m. Permissible jobs include selling, office work, window trimming, cashiering, bagging and carrying out orders, clean-up work, price marking and tagging, and kitchen work.

Named To Head Local Ministerial Group

Rev. W. T. Barnes, pastor of the First Methodist Church, was elected president of the Twin Cities Ministerial Association at a meeting on December 4.

Other officers elected were Rev. John Platt, Rector of the Episcopal Church, secretary-treasurer; Rev. Glenn Capperman, pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, chairman of the radio program, and Rev. J. Kenneth Duncan, pastor of the First Baptist Church, chairman of Parkway-Manor services.

A meeting will be held by the association on January 8 with officers of the churches bank for discussion of this project.

More Railroad Freight Business Predicted For State Reported

More freight business for railroads in the state was predicted in a two-year report of the Kentucky Railroad Commission submitted to Gov. Bert Combs.

Frank L. McCarthy, Lexington, is chairman. Other members are Wayne Freeman, Mayfield, and Robert Damron, Ivel.

Noting that "there is today little railroad passenger service available in the state," the report added that "the same is true, of course, in varying degrees in all other states."

Railroad operated 3, 121 miles of track in Kentucky, as of December 31, 1962.

A total of 168 matters were handled by the Commission in the two-year period from July 1, 1961, through June 30, 1963. Five of these were pending July 1, 1963.

These include such items as discontinuance of trains, offices, stations and certain services; various complaints and applications; and changes in rates.

The Commission reported it had spent 8 per cent less for personal services and 15 per cent less in operating expenses during the last biennium. Accidents totaled 71 during the period, 29 of these resulting in injuries to trespassers, six in injuries to employees, and 36 of these mishaps occurring at rail crossings.

Miss Combs points out that the seals not only make an attractive decoration for wreaths, cards and packages, but they also help fight tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases.
