Tragedy Comes Twice In Home Of Clinton Family

Miss Sandra Sue Cannon, 16, popular student at Hickman County High School, unexpectedly became ill and died Monday night. She was pronounced dead on arrival at Clinton-Hickman County Hospital.

Her great-grandfather, Noah Wilson, about 90, died Tuesday while being taken by ambulance to a Union City, Tenn., hospital from a Dresden, Tenn., rest home. He reportedly died of a self-inflicted knife wound.

Miss Cannon was visiting in a girl friend's home when she became ill. Cause of her death was not reported.

Miss Cannon, a senior at Hickman County High, had been a cheerleader for four years. Only last week she had been elected a "campus favorite." She sang in the Glee Club and had been a member of the Beta Club for four years.

School officials announced that a Hickman County-South Marshall basketball game scheduled for Friday night has been postponed until Feb. 28.

Funeral services for Miss Cannon were held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at Hopkins and Brown Funeral Home with Jim Cannon officiating. Burial was in Clinton Cemetery. Cheerleaders and members of the basketball squad of the high school were honorary pallbearers.

Survivors include the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Cannon, Clinton Rt. 1, and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Colie Aldridge and Mrs. Ollie Cannon, both of Clinton.

Mr. Wilson reportedly had been in ill health for some time.

He reportedly slashed his throat with a knife about 9 a. m. Tuesday. It was not believed that he was aware of his great-granddaughter's death.

Mr. Wilson was a retired farmer and once ran a grocery store at Kingston, Tenn.

The body was taken to Jackson Brothers Funeral Home at Duke, Tenn. Funeral arrangements will not be made until after the funeral for his great-granddaughter.

His survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Ollie Cannon.

Jottings

From

Jo's

Notebook

The "vigah" and hard work that energetic Governor Ned Breathitt intends to put into his new job was bustin' out all over Frankfort last week. On his first work day, the papers reported, the Governor was in his office at 6:30 a. m. By eight a. m., he had worked himself into an appetite and went over to the Governor's Residence for breakfast. There can be no doubt that the Governor had a hard time crossing the street to his residence, because state employees took him seriously when he said that he wanted State employees at their desks by eight o'clock, a. m.

In this connection I heard a story last week that has had me chuckling ever since. One state employee, whose duties make the eight to 4:30 p. m. regime more than difficult, decided to heed the Governor's warning on the first work day after inauguration day.

Going to bed shortly after dusk, the employee set the alarm clock for 6:30 a. m. When the gong blasted at that ridiculous hour, the employee jumped out of bed and cut the nuisance off, thinking that it had not been set right the night before. Going back to bed the employee decided to look at the time, just for the heck of it. To the employee's astonishment, it was indeed 6:30 a. m. Since it was still dark outside, the employee decided that he had had only a cat nap and it was six thirty in the evening.

Double checking, the employee went to the door and to his further astonishment found that it was the morning paper on the step, and not the evening one, as suspected. Taking a cold shower to be sure he wasn't dead, the employee was up and at 'em at 7:30 a. m., still dark in Frankfort. Befuddled, the employee looked up Capitol Avenue only to see automobiles, bumper to bumper, slowly wending toward the office buildings.

Couldn't be morning, the employee pondered! It's got to be night-time! All those cars must be headed toward the inauguration ball in the Capitol rotunda. Taking a good look at the motorists the employee decided, "couldn't be people going to a ball, they've got their work clothes on." Deciding to see for himself, the employee got in his car, fumbled around the dark dash-board to start the car, and waited at least fifteen minutes to find an opening in the traffic in order to head for work.

On arriving at his desk, the employee found the office force fully staffed. With few exceptions every desk was ornamented with a thermos jug and coffee cup. Thinking that only he had the vision to bring hot coffee to a cold office, the employee also put the thermos jug and cup on his desk. As though probing each incoming employee for security, the employee noticed each other person also smuggling in that energizing container of liquid.

When mid-morning regular coffee break came the clock-watching employee was compelled to ask for sick leave. The massive doses of liquid chloroform, and the equally frequent visits to the rest area, made doing a day's work for a day's pay, between eight and 4:30 p. m., a ghastly undertaking.

The story has a happy ending. The employee has asked for a transfer to an office overlooking the floral clock. Said he: "It's pretty. Besides that it makes me know my alarm clock ain't a cuckoo."

The News Reports...

SCATTERED PATTERN

About People and Things

That's exactly what this column is . . . scattered patter about people and things. Dairy of doin's went the way of all good diaries. When you get so far behind in those daily or weekly entries, you just give up the diary as a bad job and something you'll start again tomorrow, a la Scarlett O'Hara. In a column like this, we can jot down those items that we like to write about, and more than anything, when there's time to write them.

It seemed only yesterday that we apologized to you for not reporting all the Christmas parties being enjoyed around these parts. But our apology was extended a year ago; twelve long months, fifty-two jam-packed weeks, 365 frenzied days ago. We are in no better position to report them today, then we were then, so until life grants us the luxury of a society editor, or a feature writer, you'll just have to b with us.

We know as sure as anything that many homes around us will be gay and lively with Christmas guests. Yet, we seem to be hearing of only those who are making the exodus to visit with kith and kin away from here. Ruth Williams (Mrs. Clyde, Sr.) is going to Dallas, Texas to spend Christmas with her daughter Peggy Koelling and family. Gertrude Murphey is going to enjoy warm hospitality and cold weather in Chicago. . . . Kallena Durbin is going to enjoy both the warmth of family and weather when she takes off for Miami to spend the holidays with her sister and family. . . . Linnie

Clark, (Mrs. Ted) is already in Columbus, Ohio to start a long holiday visit with her sister, Mrs. Esther Rout. There'll be other comings and goings, but let's get on to something else, right now.

You see, the tour put everybody in that real holiday spirit. Decorated by the various Fulton florists, visitors got some real ideas about how to make their own homes more colorful and more inviting for the holidays. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Bertie Pigue was the "refreshment area" for the touring visitors. Like all the others, it looked like a holiday

A. C. Butts Was Pioneer Leader And Good Citizen

(By JO WESTPHLING)

For as long as the members of Fulton's business community shall live they will have an affectionate memory of a man who, despite his growing years, conducted his businesses with a concept as modern as tomorrow. That man was Arthur Cleveland Butts. Until his death few people knew what the initials "A. C." stood for.

This remarkably fascinating man, gentle, humble and soft-spoken was a shrewd judge of men, of business practices, of trends in the economy. Coming from the Mt. Moriah Community, to the "city", when farming was the number one industry in the area, he started a small feed store with his two sons, Aaron and Paul. From his vantage point in the urban area, he soon learned that feed was not the only commodity needed by the farm contingent of the area.

He soon started a feed mill, then a grocery store, and as the wants of his customers grew, he kept adding commodities so that when his clientele came to his concern they could save much needed time by getting nearly everything they wanted from "Mr. A. C. Butts."

He brought the qualities of honesty and integrity to his business, just as he shared them with his family and close friends. Though he shared the responsibilities of conducting his various business enterprises with his sons and his devoted wife, Miss Callie, and his employees, his capacity for command was always evident. He had

Clinton Plans Huge Fireworks Show Christmas

On Christmas Day from 7 to 8 p. m. a fire-works show will be presented by the City of Clinton. This is an annual event and this year the display of fire-works and aerial bombs will be much larger and more beautiful than before.

The bombs will be fired from anchored mortars back of West-side station and swimming pool by members of the city police. This is their contribution to the children of the area for their Christmas enjoyment. As children and parents look upward to see the bursting bombs, the police hope they will see higher into the heavens and think more about what Christmas Day really means to America.

Yes, There Is A Santa Claus; He Lives Full Time In Our Twin Cities

Years ago, Erskine Caldwell and Margaret Bourke-White collaborated on a book of photography, called "You Have Seen Their Faces." Had this famous pair been at the Elks' Club on Monday they could have published a sequel called "We Saw the Spirit of Christmas."

For indeed, the spirit of giving and receiving in all its Christian connotation was in the hearts of children and grown-ups when 57 young people were made happier because generous Fultonians contributed to the Elks' Club's first charity dinner.

Food pleasing to the taste of every child and clothing necessary to the comfort of their bodies was distributed at a luncheon of hamburgers and all the trimmings Monday at noon. It was the kind of party from which blessings come. It was arranged in a setting of song, and music, and story telling. It was a moving and compelling scene. And Sonny Puckett is the greatest living authority on the subject.

It is told that Sonny went to the Elks Club to take some music to his little girl Dana, who with Karen Taylor served as accompanist to the group singing led by Mrs. Dorothy Haddad. When Sonny saw the faces of the children from Terry-Norman, South Fulton and Carr Elementary Schools mirrored in the image of Christmas happiness, he left, came back a few minutes later and handed each of the children a one dollar bill to do with it what they wished.

That's Christmas in the twin cities. But a good meal, and Christmas carols and story-telling was not all that filled the hearts of the children at the Elks' party. After lunch the children were taken to local stores and outfitted in warm clothing and other wearing apparel. The local merchants contributed their share of Christmas by giving discounts on the purchases.

When the children were taken back to their respective classrooms they knew for sure that "Yes, there is a Santa Claus."

And he lives full time in the hearts of all twin citizens.

NO . . . PERIOD!

Live Nativity Scene Sunday At First Methodist Church Here

The Fellowship Class of the First Methodist Church will sponsor a live nativity scene on the church grounds Saturday, December 21, from 7 to 9 p. m., on Sunday, December 22, from 6 to 8 p. m. and on Monday, December 23 from 7 to 9 p. m.

This class is composed of young married couples who are active in all phases of church work. The members and their families will provide all the live characters and animals. The donkey is being furnished by Dr. John Ragsdale and the sheep by Mike Homra. Dr. C. E. Myers and Stuart Poston are the custodians of the sheep. The stable was built by Charles Walker, Joe Workman and Bill Robertson.

It is the desire of the class that their portrayal of the nativity scene will add meaning to the Christmas season. You are invited to drive by to appreciate this scene and to share in the feeling of the real spirit of this Holy time.

Governor Breathitt May Achieve National "First" In Having Three Capable Women In Cabinet

Governor Edward T. "Ned" Breathitt last week swore in a group of distinguished personalities who will serve as members of his official cabinet. It is interesting to note, that three members of his appointive official family are women. While we do not have any historical data to prove the point, we believe that this is the first time in the history of the Commonwealth that the distaff side has been so well represented in guiding the destinies of the affairs of State.

Specifically, Governor Breathitt has re-appointed Miss Cattie Lou Miller as Commissioner of Public Information; Miss Margaret Willis as State librarian and appointed for the first time, Miss Katherine Peden as Commissioner of the Department of Commerce.

Neither Miss Miller nor Miss Willis need an introduction to the voters and taxpayers of Kentucky. They have served in their present positions in other administrations and distinguished themselves by their abilities to perform the difficult duties incident to their departments. Miss Willis, an eminently qualified librarian has made many strides in bringing library service within the reach of many persons in the remotest reaches of our State. The expansion of the Bookmobile program and the assistance she has given small and large libraries is a monument to the love and dedication she has for her chosen profession.

Cattie Lou Miller, appointed as Commissioner of Public Information in 1960 by Governor Bert Combs, has done a magnificent job in that position. Having been closely associated with Kentucky State government since 1947, when she became an administrative assistant in the office of then Governor Earle C. Clements, Miss Miller's love for her State is matched only by the experienced effort she expends in getting America and the rest of the world to know and love it too.

The appointment of Katherine Peden as Commissioner of Commerce may give seasoned civic leaders in some industry-hungry communities an occasion to take a good look at this comparative new-comer to the Kentucky political scene. We not only suggest such a move, we insist upon it. For when the business, industrial and civic leadership of this State takes a reading on the accomplishments of Katherine Peden of Hopkinsville, they'll be more than pleased; they'll be enthusiastic.

For this dynamic, energetic and extremely capable young lady knows her way around these United States; she has visited and knows important people in all 50 States. At 35, she was the president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, an organization of 175,000 members. What's more she was the youngest president ever elected to the group. She was not elected to this high office by happenstance. She was elected because she was able to prove to some of America's most outstanding women executives and professional people that she knew what was expected of her. Moreover she had the confidence and ability to fulfill those expectations. She did, and exceptionally well.

She holds an office in the International Federation of B&PW Clubs and has served on the President's Commission on the status of women. You can't bluff your way into that kind of appointment. You have to perform and Katherine Peden did. She has represented America on some extremely important and sensitive assignments in 27 foreign countries.

For years she has been the guiding force in Kentucky broadcasting circles. Once, while Katherine was travelling all over everywhere in her position as national B&PW president we asked her "boss," Dutch Lackey, how he was getting along at WHOP in Hopkinsville without his general manager. To which Mr. Lackey replied: "She can sell more advertising and get more done between trains than most people can do spending 24 hours a day on the job."

Miss Peden is not going to administer the Department of Commerce between trains. She has relinquished the active management of WHOP to give full time to her cabinet post. What's more, she is going to have some tremendous assistance in her job since her long-time friend and schoolmate Governor Breathitt said that his primary objective is to get 75,000 new jobs for Kentucky during his term of office.

And, as if that news isn't encouraging enough to all of us who work for and long for that new industry, Lieutenant-Governor Harry Lee Waterfield is chairman of the Economic Development Commission, which is the vital link to all industry-seeking efforts in the State. Another extremely capable woman, Mrs. Ellis Merrifield of Louisville and Frankfort will serve as executive assistant to Mr. Waterfield. The invaluable experience Mrs. Merrifield gained working with former Lieutenant-Governor Wilson Wyatt, gives Kentucky the brightest hopes in its history to bring industry and more jobs to our State.

With this kind of leadership in the Department of Commerce we feel that our industrial hopes are in good hands.

Kentucky has achieved many "firsts" in progress within the past few years. There can be no doubt that it is first in giving positions of importance to capable women. And that ain't bad at all.

"Logic"

Problem: High price supports for growers price American cotton out of world markets.

Answer: Subsidize exporters so they can compete on the world market.

Problem: Foreign mills buy U. S. cotton at the subsidized export rate, make it into goods and sell them in this country, while U. S. mills have to pay the higher price-propped domestic rate.

Answer: Subsidize the U. S. mills by the somewhat oblique device of subsidizing cotton brokers. (The House has just voted to do just that.)

Problem: The foreigners might not like it.

Possible Answer: Subsidize 'em. (We wouldn't be surprised; the U. S. already subsidizes practically everything on earth.)

Problem: What about the American consumer who gets triply or quadruply stung by this ferocious political logic?

Answer: Who cares? He doesn't have a lobby.

STRICTLY BUSINESS

"Do you have an honorary membership?"

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of the Civil War day by day in Kentucky, as reviewed by the Kentucky Civil War Commission

By JOE JORDAN

One hundred years ago this week the Lexington Observer and Reporter printed an account of a "meeting of the citizens of Fayette County to devise means to avoid the draft called for January 5, 1864." During the Civil War "draft-dodger" was not the term of contempt it would become later; a man called for the draft who had the money could pay $300 for a substitute to go in his place, and a great many men escaped military service in that way.

"The courthouse was filled to overflowing," the Lexington newspaper said of the meeting to devise means of avoiding the draft. After considerable discussion, the group adopted a resolution calling upon Fayette County's representatives in the legislature to obtain passage of a bill "to tax the citizens of Fayette County a sufficient amount to pay a bounty of $300" for each volunteer needed to fill the county's quota.

President Lincoln had called for 300,000 volunteers for the Union Army. Kentucky had been given a quota of 12,701 and this had been split into county quotas. With reference to the January 5 draft, the proclamation had said, "Should the enlistments not amount to the required number by that day, a draft will be enforced to make up the deficit." It was this prospective deficit that the Fayette County citizens were concerned about—and so were men of military age in other counties.

A volunteer who was enlisting for the sake of the bounty—plus whatever patriotic motives he might have for going to war—could choose his regiment. Commanders of existing Kentucky regiments of the Union Army saw opportunities thus to fill vacancies in their ranks, and some of them were quick to advertise for such volunteers and to point to the advantages. For one thing, if a man fooled around long enough, he might get drafted, and in that case he would not get a bounty.

"The pay of a private is $13 a month, besides being well clothed and fed, the first month's pay in advance," said one such advertisement in the Louisville Journal. "If he be a good soldier, he may be pretty sure of soon being a sergeant or a corporal, of whom there are over 130 in every regiment."

A $60 installment of the bounty was paid at the time of enlistment. That, plus the first month's pay of $13 and a "premium" of $2, made $75 in cash that the recruit received immediately. The remainder of the bounty was payable in six $40 installments at the end of two months, six months, one year, eighteen months, two years and three years. The $300 bounty was for a "raw recruit." Another $100 was added in the case of a soldier who had served nine months or longer and was re-enlisting.

"There is also a good chance for a commission," the advertisement said. "Thousands of enlisted men have been commissioned since the war began."

MAJOR POINTS AND MINOR, TOO

By Gordon M. Quarnstrom

It's about time: To buy those last minute Christmas gifts.

Santa will be here before long.

But remember: Give in the proper spirit . . .

Too many people forget the true meaning of Christmas in the busy, commercial Yuletide whirl.

Time Magazine some weeks ago had an item about the two Detroit newsmen who made up appropriate names for reporters . . . such as Brown from The Sun, Sign of The Times, Sparkle of The Star, etc. . . but there are many more that could be suggested.

Such as Smart of The Intelligence, Trumpet of The Herald, Hold of The Record, Cider of The Press and Entry of The Ledger . .

As readers of Major Points know, I am fond of these name games . . . such as apt names for newspapers including these suggested by Marx Hyatt of Woodside, Cal.: Lincoln (Ill.) Monument, Bath (Me.) Towel and Cumberland (Md.) Gap. If you have some in mind, send 'em in.

The tobacco company president had just read of a man who had reached 95 years and who smoked three packages of cigarettes a day. "What a publicity opportunity!" he exclaimed to his secretary. "Get him on the phone for me at once." The secretary did, and the old gentleman was pleased to learn the tobacco company would pay him a handsome sum to appear in several promotion activities. "I'll be glad to do anything you want," he replied.

"Fine, fine," he was told. "Now, hire a driver and get down to our studio here at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow and we'll do a TV commercial."

"Nope," came the reply. "Can't do that."

"Can't do that? What do you mean you can't do that?"

"Well, I never stop coughing until after 11 in the morning."

A wonderful Christmas present for Mother would be a warm and thoughtful letter. Have you written to her lately?

An alert headline writer on the Chicago Sun-Times recently referred to TV as the "Tragic Lantern" . . . and a headline in the Boston Record-American said, "Marital Law Rules Viet Nam", which was a case of a not-so-alert proofreader . . .

Your Home Comfort and Advertisers' Delight welcomes contributions for Major Points . . . they may be sent to me at 7447 Skokie Blvd., Skokie, Ill. (which is the world's largest village, by the way).

Keep them brief . . . humorous as possible . . . no religion and no politics.

LETTERS TO SANTA CLAUS

"From the FHS Kennel"

Dear Santa Claus,
Why don't you install a 409 in your old crate so you could really bug out and make two trips to my house. Bucket seats ought to really give that sleigh some real class.

My Christmas list is somewhat short. I would like to have a personal telephone (so I can make calls to my girl-friend without eavesdroppers), a 1964 Chevelle, and $500,000 for gas that I use in that Chevelle. I'm sure you can fulfill my small and humble request.

Unselfishly yours,
Unselfish

P. S. Be sure to bring the teachers something special like a ten-cent cigar for Mr. Holland and Mr. Martin and a carton of Pepsis for all of them.

Dear Santa,

I am a student here at Fulton High and I am writing for some of my friends. Please send a certain Junior boy a girl from Clinton because he is tired of chasing SJC around for so long. Send another friend a girl from Water Valley because she doesn't have a phone and they have had a mix-up as a result. RW needs a girl from Dresden, for he hasn't had any luck with the Junior girls either, especially JD. AB is getting tired and wishes he hadn't been kicked out of the saddle, so see what you can do.

Leave Coach McCann a loud-speaker to use in study hall. Bring Miss Ward a new pink Riviera so she won't have to stop eating for 20 years to save up enough for the cost of one. If you could move Dukedom about 13 miles closer I'm sure TRB would be a good boy for the coming year. As for me, I don't want anything special but I can always use a new Sting Ray to run around in in my spare time.

Thanks for everything,

Dear Santa,

I am a sophomore boy in Miss Allen's homeroom at FHS. For Christmas I want a 1964 blue and white Super Sport Corvette Sting Ray with a 327 cubic-inch motor and fuel injector, a four-speed transmission, and a Hurst floor shift. I also want a pretty freshman girl and a little money for a date. Also bring Miss Allen a four-speed manual transmission for her Chevy II and a dissected earthworm.

Sincerely yours,
A Real Cool Cat

Dear Santa Claus,

I have been good in school most of the time. I have not chewed too much gum. I want a Thunderbird for Christmas.

Santa, some of my not-so-good friends also want you to visit. Mr. McCann has vowed that if he didn't receive a Tiny-Tears doll that even wets its pants. Miss Ward wants a nice young man with a good job. Mr. Snider wants a Little Tommy Tucker Doctor Kit.

Your Believer!

P. S. Send me some padding in case the teachers find out who wrote this.

Dear Santa Claus,

I am a little girl in the Junior Class and that is what I am writing you about. Isn't one year in this grade enough?! For Christmas I would like to have a free ticket to get out of the Junior Class and into the Senior Class. In order to perform this work of magic you may need the assistance of a few little helpers, like Mr. Sensing, Mrs. Robertson, and Mrs. Richardson. I will ask only one more thing. How about leaving ONE boy under the tree?

well man, that swinging ole time of the year when you pay us cool cats back for our deeds of human kindness has just about hit the scene. I know, brushman, that I have been so swinging that anything you hit me with would not fill me adequately. so, snow pile, i'll ask for great gifts for the learned ones, sic teachers. by the way, i'll clue you in on the word later.

would you please hit the following with the following: mrs. robertson, a 24 lb. box of assorted typewriter erasers; mr. holland, 20 tons of snow so he won't have any excuse for not dismissing school; mrs. demyer, one complete singer sewing course; mrs. richardson, a new test booklet for first year latin class as she must have worn the old one out; mr. martin, a new rabbit's foot and a new buckeye so his luck won't run out; miss allen, something real mean, i don't care what it is.

i would like the following to find under their lighted hardwoods: mr. snider, a gilbert home chemistry set with instructions for twelve easy experiments; mr. sensing, a tie with both ends the same and a sweater with no middle button; miss ward, a case of metrecow; mrs. burrow, a matched set of macbeth witches, mrs. steele, a book on "how to keep study hall for fun and profit;" and last but not least, coach mccann and coach yates, a subscription to "pingpong monthly."

well i think the people of knowledge have received their just rewards so i'll reveal the word for me, "THE PIT, BRING ME MY PENDULUM, SANTA; I WANT TO SWING." p. s. don't let wilfred die; well santa, fare-

"BIG DADD!"

Dear Santa,

My list this year isn't over 82 pages long, so I'll just pick out a few items.

You see, Santa, I attend Fulton High School, in body only. Could you possibly do a little carpenter work on the windows. Seems that if someone just squeezes the windows rattle so badly that I'm afraid that at anytime they will all fall out of the wooden frames. Could you possibly do me an enormous favor? Please, please bring Paul Westpheling a key to his chemistry drawer. I'm sure he's going to borrow Mr. Snider's and forget to return it.

Santa, do you deal in over-seas Christmas presents? If so, I have a friend who would like a trip to Japan. You see her boyfriend is in the Navy and he is stationed there.

As for myself, just a few little items: a 64 Sting Ray, a new wardrobe, and one million dollars in the Fulton Bank. PLEASE!! Put it in the name of "Wallas Ardnab." Oh! Just one more item—a tacometer. It's for a personal friend.

Thanks, heaps, for all the wonderful gifts you left last year. You're GREAT!

As usual there will be something cold and stale under the tree for you. Oh! Santa Dear, would you mind, ever so much, to take off your cute little black boots. You see, they squeak and wake me up every year. Thanks again.

Sincerely Yours,
A friend etc.

Of special interest to seniors is the following information recently acquired in the office of the counselor.

Information received in the counselor's office this month includes: Guide to College Majors, Colleges Classified, College Charts, Student Aid Annual, Student Aid Bulletin, and Vocational School Directory of the United States.

Probably the best source of information which we have also received this month. This is the Chronicle Career Kit which contains accurate and useful information about jobs and educational opportunities, scholarships in the various fields, college entrance requirements, and the expense of training for the work.

These career briefs contain descriptions of the work, personal requirements, job opportunities, salaries, working conditions, and areas of the country where employment is available.

Former Siegel Employee Killed In Auto Tragedy

Three persons, two brothers returning home after attending the funeral of their sister's husband at Rutherford, Tenn., and a bride of one week, died in a head-on collision about two miles north of Union City, on Highway 51, Saturday, December 14. A fourth person involved was seriously injured.

The fatalities were: Boyd K. Moore, 60, of Chicago, driver of one of the cars; his brother, Yates Moore, 58, of La Porte, Ind., and Mrs. Shirley Ann Raymer Osborne, 23, formerly of Fulton and who had lived in Farmington, Ky. since her marriage to Billy Osborne last week. She was a former employee of the Henry I Siegel Company.

Kenneth Humphreys, 21, of Chicago, nephew of the Moore brothers, was taken to Union City Hospital and is reported to have sustained chest and head injuries, a leg fracture, numerous other external injuries and perhaps internal injuries.

Mrs. Osborne was traveling alone.

The body of Mrs. Osborne was sent by White-Ransom Funeral Home to McDonald Funeral Home in Hohenwald, Tenn., for services and burial. The body of Boyd Moore was sent to the Anderson Funeral Home in Chicago and the body of Yates Moore was sent to the Karpis & Son Funeral Home in Rutherford.

Joe Treas Is Santa's Aide For Yule Mailing

Postmaster Joe Treas offered these helpful hints today on how to mail your Christmas cards and gifts to insure prompt and safe delivery before December 25th.

If you use the new five cent Christmas Tree stamps on your Christmas cards, they will be sorted and delivered first and, if you include your return address with your ZIP Code number on each card envelope, they will be forwarded in the event of a change of address or if they are undeliverable, they will be returned to you for correction of your mailing list. Also, remember you can write personal messages only on Christmas cards sent by First Class mail. Nothing but your signature is authorized on cards sent at the unsealed, third class rate.

The Postmaster warns against careless packing of your precious Christmas gifts. He says it is unbelievable how some people fail to use strong cartons, heavy wrapping paper and sturdy cord when packing their precious gifts for mailing. He requests that you take special care in packing breakable gifts - mark the cartons, "Fragile" - "Handle With Care" and be sure to put an extra label carrying the recipient's and your name and address inside of every package.

The Postmaster asks the co-operation of all business firms to delay the mailing of circulars and catalogs until after December 25th, to keep the mails clear for the Christmas rush.

Mrs. Burrow New Veep Of Terry Norman PTA

Students at Terry-Norman School presented the Christmas program at the PTA meeting on December 12. This program was under the direction of Miss Pauline Thompson. The devotional was given by Gail Yates and a playlet was presented by the fourth and fifth grades, with every child in school participating.

Announcement was made that Mrs. Alvin Burrow has been named vice president of the PTA, succeeding Mrs. Les Giddings, who resigned.

The Executive Committee of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Paris District met with Mrs. W. T. Barnes, Fulton, Kentucky, December 4, 9:30 a. m. Eighteen members were served delicious refreshments by the hostess as they arrived.

Mrs. J. B. Wilson, president, presided over the meeting and gave a report of the Conference Executive Meeting she had attended recently. Tentative plans were made for the District Annual Meeting which will be at the First Methodist Church in Dresden, Tennessee, March 3, 1964. Miss Margaret Elizabeth Boss, Lahore, Pakistan will be the speaker. She is a missionary now on furlough.

Mrs. Wilson gave dates for future meetings of the district and conference. Reports were given by all District Officers present. The next meeting will be with Mrs. J. L. Leggett, Paris, Tennessee, February 21, 1964.

Down on the Farm

With JIM PRYOR

For the 1964 crop year, a total 7.4 million acres of crop land will be released from conservation reserve contracts. This means that farmers can return released land to production or, to the extent eligible, place it under any land use adjustment from expiring contracts in any one of the next few years.

The release of this land from the conservation reserve to crop production could upset the entire farm economy in face of the already huge build-up of surplus crops that are on hand. Release of such land means that it will be returned to its original use and may be placed in such row crops as history indicates it can grow. Expiration of conservation reserve contract has implications for farm income as well as farm production as one can easily see.

Major row crops and small grains were produced on an estimated 63 percent of the 7.4 million acres prior to conservation reserve contracts. The remaining 37 per cent produced tame hay, minor crops, or was fallow before being in the conservation reserve program. During the 1963 crop year 25 million acres of cropland were of production under conservation reserve contracts. Feed grain and wheat diversion programs idled another 33.4 million acres. As a result of this 58.4 million acres of cropland held out of production, stocks of surplus agricultural commodities decreased.

Present legislation provides for an improved feed grain diversion program in 1964 in which farmers, having released land with a feed grain base, may participate. Present legislation does not provide for any wheat diversion program in 1964. Extension of the cropland conversion program to encourage continued land use adjustment on some of the released land is now being considered in Congress. If no cropland conversion program is adopted by the Congress for 1964 what farmers do with the released land will affect farm income, the supply of farm products, and the success of farm programs. If interested, it might pay you to write your Congressman and let him know how you feel about farm program needs.

4-H State Award Winners Gain Club Congress Trip

A coed who made a smart coat and dress ensemble for $41 and a youth who cleared $544 on his 4-H Club corn crop will be among four 18-year old Kentucky 4-H'ers who will soon be competing for 1963 national honors. They will vie for $500 college scholarships at the 42nd National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago Dec. 1-5.

Members of the quartet and their projects are Pamela Northington, of Calhoun, clothing; Joe Holman, of Russellville, field crops; Sally Chapman, of McHenry, safety, and Lawrence Durbin, of Paducah, automotive.

Miss Northington, a coed at the University of Kentucky, sewed her navy wool coat and navy silk dress as part of her college wardrobe. In state-wide competition the garments won first place. Coats & Clark Inc. will sponsor her trip to Chicago.

She began her clothing project nine years ago with a simple apron and now makes most of her clothes. She is the daughter of Leroy W. Northington.

Holman took top honors in the field crops project with his prize-winning corn crop that yielded an average of 143 bushels per acre. His trip was donated by Arcadian Products Department, Allied Chemical Corporation.

Holman also raises burley tobacco, using proper soil management practices learned in 4-H. He is attending the University of Kentucky on profits from his 4-H project. He values his beef herd at $9,500.

Miss Chapman, a freshman at the University of Kentucky, won the top safety award by organizing a Student Safety Council in her high school last spring before graduation.

The council urged a vigorous campaign to keep soft drink bottles in their proper place and staged a cleanup week in the high school to rid it of pos-

Betty Crocker Test Is Given To Girls

"From the FHS Kennel" The Betty Crocker Test was given to the senior girls who have studied home economics. This test was based on practical knowledge that a homemaker should have concerning home economics, science, and mathematics.

On the test the girls were asked to discuss in essay form "Why Is It Important for a Homemaker To Be a Mature Person?"

All of the tests are sent back to the Betty Crocker Foundation for grading. The girl making the highest grade in our school will receive a Betty Crocker pin. The state winner will receive a scholarship, and the national winner will receive a $10,000 scholarship.

This test is given annually, and any senior girl who has had Home Economics may take it.

Murray State Debating Team Presents Assembly

"From the FHS Kennel" On Wednesday, December 4, in the study hall the debate team of Murray State College gave an interesting debate on the question, Resolved: That the Federal Government Will Provide Further Education for Qualified High School Graduates.

Both the affirmative and negative sides presented very persuasive arguments. The students voted, and in a close decision gave the nod to the negative.

By Mrs. Carey Fields

Jerry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud McClain, is suffering from a siege of cold and thus indisposed, receiving medical aid at this writing.

Lee Peery went to the Obion General Hospital last week for his checkup and has returned home to Dukedom. All his many friends hope he will continue to improve.

Relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Fields have news from them since the break in the reservoir in Los Angeles the past Saturday afternoon. They report that they and their family are safe in their home, only 2 1/2 miles from the area destroyed by the deluge.

Miss Ruth Harris, her sister Mrs. Naomi Tuck and son Dickey will arrive this weekend from Tallahassee and Orlando, Fla. for a holiday visit with their parents, Rev. and Mrs. T. T. Harris and other relatives near here.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lassiter and sons, Mark and Stevie, of Martin spent Friday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Buton Lassiter.

Rev. Russell Rodgers filled his regular appointment at New Salem Baptist Church the past Sunday at 11 a. m. and at 7:30 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Mathis entertained Sunday at their home with a birthday dinner, honoring Mrs. Mathis and her nephew, Hal Bynum. At noon a bountiful repast was enjoyed by all the family. Gifts were bestowed upon the honoree and a delightful day was spent together.

Still, while I, with the nation, am mourning the death of our late president, John F. Kennedy, we pause to wish you a very Merry Christmas, that all may have "peace on earth and good will toward men."

Fulton High Cheerleaders Spend Busy, Rugged, And Exciting Life

"From the FHS Kennel"

When the students of Fulton High School follow their cheerleaders in yells to spur the Bulldogs on to victory, few know what preparation is required of these girls. Early in the summer the newly elected cheerleaders began to practice cheers and chants for the coming season. The first hectic, busy days came just before the first game. Uniforms have to be finished and cleaned, season tickets have to be sold downtown several afternoons after school, and, of course, there are the finishing touches to be put on the cheers.

Before a game the cheerleaders must spend time decorating goal posts or bleachers. Each cheerleader must take great pride in her personal appearance and attitude as a representative of her school.

During a game the cheerleaders lead the crowd in cheers to support the team. Actually, those six girls' minds are racing. They are busy thinking of the next cheer, the next chant, their appearance, and the game. Each chant and cheer must fit the situation in the game.

After a game these six weary, but excited cheerleaders leave the stadium or the gymnasium still happy that they are cheerleaders and are able to serve their school by aiding in a program to develop boys physically and morally.

Two Seniors Make Conference Team

"From the FHS Kennel"

At the close of a great football season, two members of the Bulldog Team made the West Kentucky Conference football team. They were Terry Beadles and Duane McAlister.

Beadles, the team's slippery quarterback, had a spectacular season. He led the team in rushing and passing. In 121 attempts Terry gained 1246 yards. This is an average of over 10 yards per carry. He also racked up a total of 116 points. Beadles completed 42 passed out of 78 for a total of 760 yards. He was also a great defensive player holding the defensive halfback position.

It has often been said that while Beadles runs around them McAlister runs over them. "Mac," the big, bruising fullback, took second place in rushing yardage. With 133 attempts, he gained a total of 916 yards. This was an average of seven yards per carry. He also scored 54 points. Perhaps the team's best defensive player, McAlister, playing linebacker, was always at the right place at the right time and usually made the tackles.

FOUNDATION

Our nation is witnessing a building boom, such as has never before been seen. Every day new foundations are being dug and laid. Any builder will tell you that it takes a firm foundation to support today's skyscraper.

Our Lord, in His sermon on the mount, compared those that heed His word, to the wise man that built his house upon a rock, and those that did not heed His word to the foolish man that built his house upon sand and it was washed away.

Build your house upon a rock...Attend church regularly.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

IT WAS "CHRISTMAS TALENT SHOW" TIME Tuesday at Carr Elementary, as a group of talented and eager eighth-graders, always ready to perform anywhere and anytime, put on a 14-act show for the rest of the school. In the above pictures, photographer went backstage and caught most of the "stars" awaiting their turns to wonderland. We were so sorry we didn't get to make all the homes on the list. Our young one was the accompanist for the Glee Club's participation in the Fulton School's Christmas concert and that was a "must" as you know. We did get to the Gilson Latta home, and it was also a thing of beauty to behold. Mary and Gilson's home is out of this world without any decorations, so you know what an imaginative florist can do with it. From all reports, all the other homes got superb rave notices. It was our misfortune not to have had the time to follow the crowds where other Christmas beauty was displayed.

Homes on the tour besides the ones mentioned above were those of: Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Crocker, Jr. and Mrs. I. M. Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Charles McMorris. Florists adding that touch of Christmas to these homes were: Scott's, Gillebrew's, Mac and Fay and Joy Lynn. Charles McMorris and Mrs. Rene Crocker put their own andiwork into being for their decorations.

As you know, we have a young lady in our household who is one of those teen-agers you read about. She stays on the telephone every waking moment she is not in school; she's into everything imaginable, and has lots of company . . . and among other things she takes dancing lessons. Each year we go through a sort of ritual with her. We try to explain that it's just another outside activity that takes away from her school work, etc. etc. etc. She wins, as all the rest of them do.

We make this explanation about dancing lessons in our household not to offend the many other children who labor with terpsichorean difficulties. But with Ruth Ann Burnette and Gail Bushart things seem to be different. If ever we have seen money well spent for dancing lessons it is with these two. Please don't get us wrong! Other viewers have seen other exhibitions and perhaps can make the statement we make above. It's just that we see Gail and Ruth Ann perform more than the others.

Ruth Ann Burnette, and Judy Merryman frequently perform a ballet number together. They are graceful, talented and charming. When Ruth Ann performs alone, she seems to be putting forth every effort to make up for her solo performance. Don't know what Ruth Ann plans to do when she's older, but a dancing career wouldn't be bad.

At the talent program presented Tuesday morning in Carr Elementary we were simply carried away with the dance number presented by Gail. In perfect rhythm, with delightful syncopation, Gail performed like she had been on the stage for years. It's no wonder that the school patrons and her classmates gave her a big hand, as they did the others, of course. And just so some parents won't think we're overlooking the talents of their youngsters, let us say this: Mary Jo Westpheling is our all-time, all-time favorite teenager . . . but a superior dancer she is not! (Anybody got a dog house handy?)

FHA and FFA Hold Joint Meeting

Fulton County FHA and FFA held a joint meeting on Thursday, December 12, in the gym of the Fulton County High School.

The program was given by FHA. The freshman girls were initiated and presented with red and white ribbon bows. At the close of the meeting cookies and punch were served.

SCHOOL TAX PLAN LOSES

Louisville — A proposed 39 cent property tax increase for Louisville schools was soundly defeated Tuesday.

Incomplete and unofficial returns from all but five of 26 polling places showed 24,369 opposed the tax and 14,413 were for it.

the inimitable characteristic to enlist deep and sincere confidence among people he came in contact with. He had an intense compulsion to assume his own responsibilities, not so much that he did not trust the judgment of others, but because if failure came he wanted to feel that it was his decision that brought it; if success came he was enthusiastic about sharing it with others.

We knew him well! We knew him so well that oftentimes we hated our busy lives because we could not spend more time absorbing his philosophies. We marvelled at the vision he had for his community. When community endeavors came along and he believed in them, as he did nearly always, it was not necessary to call on Mr. Butts for help. He volunteered and helped to influence others on the value of the project.

As a little boy he joined the Methodist Church. He was a loyal and devoted member. He had served on the board of the Fulton church and the church at Mt. Moriah for more than a half century. He was active in the Fulton Mormon B. Daniel Sunday School class. He set his own high standards for living with kindness and consideration for his fellow man.

For the past several months Mr. Butts was confined to the Park Manor Nursing Home. He was in apparent good physical condition when he arose Monday morning. He was stricken with a heart attack about nine o'clock and died suddenly.

Born in Obion County, September 29, 1884 he was married to Miss Callie Jones on December 24, 1903. Besides his widow, he leaves two sons, Aaron and Paul Butts; two grandchildren, Miss Ruth Louise Butts and Wendall Butts and two great grandchilddren, Michael and Debby Butts, all of Fulton. Two brothers and a sister preceded him in death.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 10 a. m. at the First Methodist Church with the pastor, Rev. W. T. Barnes, assisted by Rev. Kenneth Duncan, pastor of the First Baptist Church officiating. Interment was in Obion County Memorial Gardens.

W. W. Jones & Sons of Martin had charge of the funeral arrangements.

The hundreds of sorrowing friends and relatives who paid their last tribute of respect to this beloved citizen expressed thousands of words when they said simply: "He was a good man."

Police Seize Dukedom Men In Liquor Raid

Mayfield City police, the sheriff's department and A. B. C. agents from Graves and Calloway Counties had a busy day last Friday. The group made eight raids in which eight alleged bootleggers were arrested. Raids started soon after noon and lasted well into the late evening.

Two of the men are from Graves County. Their names were listed by Sheriff Dick Castleman as, Ewell Laird, Tenn. State Line Road near Dukedom, charged with illegal sale of alcoholic beverages in local option territory and possession of alcoholic beverages for the purpose of sale in local option territory. The other was Elmer Hooper, Tenn. State Line Road near Dukedom, charged with illegal sale of alcoholic beverages in local option territory. Their hearing was set for Wednesday in County Court.
