Severe Storm Hits Campbell, Two Counties

Army Post Lists $250,000 Damage; Only Two Injured

HOUSES DESTROYED

Hopkinsville, Ky., Dec. 30—(AP)—Scattered wreckage of several army buildings at Camp Campbell, at least one demolished farmhouse and several wrecked barns were left today as results of severe wind-storm which cut across southern Christian and Todd counties yesterday.

Damage on the army post alone was estimated at $250,000 by Maj. Gen. Jens Doe, camp commander, with the destruction to farm property and electric power and telephone lines to be added to that figure as soon as estimates can be made.

Despite the widespread damage wrought by the storm, slight injuries to two persons were the only casualties reported.

Lt. F. W. Conrad, of Columbus, Ohio, who went unscathed through 45 months of service overseas during the war, was treated at the Camp Campbell Hospital for cuts and bruises on his forehead and a left eyebrow nearly shaved off. He was sleeping in a house trailer when a tree fell upon it. His wife, who was with him, was uninjured.

Billy Jones, the small son of William Jones, a civilian butcher employed on the post, suffered a bloody nose, the hospital reported. The boy said a concrete block struck him.

General Doe reported that four army buildings were demolished, including an ordnance building, ordnance shop, a laundry and a warehouse in which was stored surplus property belonging to the war assets administration. The commander said 15 other buildings were damaged heavily and many others damaged to a lesser degree.

General Doe said that most of the W. A. A. surplus property was destroyed and listed army losses as 100 trucks, several passenger automobiles, miscellaneous equipment, and a considerable amount of telephone and power wiring on the post.

Likewise, civilian-owned telephone and power wires and poles were down through a narrow strip running roughly east-to-west just north of the Kentucky-Tennessee border.

Third Party Issue Raised

Henry Wallace Speaks At Organization Meeting Of 'Progressive Citizens'

New York, Dec. 30—(AP)—The possibility of a third party on the American political scene was raised today in the wake of speeches by Henry Wallace and others at a meeting called to organize a new political action group, the Progressive Citizens of America.

Formation of the new organization was voted yesterday by 300 delegates from 21 states, representing 10 groups with a claimed membership of 15,000. Included were the National Citizens political action committee, the Independent Citizens committee of the arts, sciences and professions, and eight smaller groups.

Wallace, who was not elected to any position by the delegates, attacked the records of both major parties and asserted: "Progressives want a genuine two-party country and not a country operated by a fake one-party system under the guise of a bi-partisan bloc."

The former commerce secretary asked for a clear definition of political issues and said he would prefer "the election of an out-and-out reactionary like Taft (Sen. Robert Taft-R-Ohio) in 1948 to a lukewarm liberal."

The convention adopted by a unanimous vote a statement declaring it could not "rule out the possibility of a new political party whose fidelity to our goals can be relied upon."

New Visitor For Local Veterans

H. E. Perryman Replaces Willard Gunn On Weekly Trips To This County

Effective Tuesday, Jan. 7, 1947, the regular weekly Veterans Administration visits to Room 202, post office building, in Fulton will be made by Harry E. Perryman, it was announced this week by Wilson L. Gunn, VA representative who previously served this area.

Mr. Gunn is being transferred to Paducah in line with the VA's policy of giving its contact representatives broad experience in dealing with veterans' affairs. Mr. Perryman, he said, has been handling similar matters in the Paducah area and is well qualified to serve Fulton county ex-servicemen and women.

Local veterans and their dependents are invited to consult Mr. Perryman regarding their eligibility for any benefits administered by VA. His visits will continue on the same schedule as those of Mr. Gunn, 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. each Tuesday.

More Cold Weather Coming, U. S. Weather Bureau Says

The nation could look forward today to a continued influx of Siberian air with the U. S. weather bureau's promise that it would be the better part of a week before sub zero temperatures moderate appreciably.

"There's a lot of weather around," the forecasters said. "It's settling down pretty well all over the country and behind it is a lot more of the same air with temperatures in parts of Canada as low as 45 and 40 below zero."

'46 Big Year For Tourists

First Postwar Year May Have Set New State Mark For Travel, Watkins Says

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 30—(AP)—Belief that Kentucky's first postwar tourist travel equaled or possibly exceeded all previous records was expressed by State Highway Commissioner J. Stephen Watkins today.

Since last Jan. 1, he said, 97,469 maps, state park maps and informative folders were mailed on request of prospective tourists. In addition, the department's new division of public information sent informative material to travel agencies and chamber of commerce.

"If everyone came to Kentucky, who requested maps and travel information," commented Commissioner Watkins, "the travel dollar helped materially to swell Kentucky bank deposits."

Russell Dyche, state park director, reported that 331,761 persons visited Kentucky's state parks in 1946, and predicted more would do so in 1947.

The project will cost about $285,000.

GOP Discounts Tobey Query

Continue Plans For New Organization Despite Challenge Of Authority

Washington, Dec. 30—(AP)—Senate Republicans went ahead with plans for election of officers today despite a challenge from Senator Tobey (R-NH) of their authority to act until Congress actually meets.

Informed by reporters of Tobey's stand, Senator Taft (R-Ohio), chairman of the Steering Committee, replied: "I have no doubt of the right of the elected Republicans to caucus in advance of taking their oaths and decide what they are going to do."

Taft said, however, that committee assignments could not be settled until later. Tobey had objected particularly to agreeing on them at an afternoon (1:30 p. m. CST) meeting.

Tobey argued that the rules of the Republican conference, (organization of Senate G. O. P. members) provide for the election of conference chairman and appointment of a new Steering Committee and committee on committees only after the new session of Congress has convened. The 80th session starts Friday noon.

Taft, who probably will also head the new Steering Committee, presided at a two-hour session of the outgoing steering group this morning as plans were laid for the general conference of 51 Republican Senators and Senators-elect this afternoon.

Knutson Still Wants Tax Cut

Minnesota Representative Hasn't Budged An Inch; Asks 20 Per Cent Slash

Washington, Dec. 30—(AP)—Despite protests from both Democrats and fellow Republicans, Rep. Knutson (Minn.) declared today he has retreated "not one inch" in his drive to cut individual income taxes by 20 percent "across the board."

Returning to Washington to assume the chairmanship of the potent House Ways and Means Committee, Knutson said he will call the committee together very shortly to tackle the tax-shrinking job.

"This tax reduction should be done and can be done," the Minnesota lawmaker declared. "We're living in an unusual age if people don't want their taxes cut."

Moreover, Knutson outlined two other major considerations for committee attention:

1. A searching investigation of administration foreign trade and tariff policies by the new, Republican dominated Congress.

2. Liberalization of the Social Security laws. Knutson said some 20,000,000 workers now are denied coverage, including self-employed, farmers, domestic workers and professional people.

"We may find that the solution is a program for voluntary participation," he added.

Rookie Foils Holdup Men

Hamilton Field Air Corps Private Trades Shots With Gunmen Until MP's Come

Hamilton Field, Calif., Dec. 30—(AP)—An air corps rookie on guard duty at Hamilton Field Air Base was credited today with saving a $250,000 payroll in a gun fight which broke up an attempt to burglarize the base finance office.

It was the second time within two days that burglars had undertaken a raid back and forth on an army post in the San Francisco area. The first burglary Saturday was successful, $4,500 being taken from a safe in the Presidio finance office.

The attempt at Hamilton Field, 18 miles north of San Francisco, was foiled by Pvt. James M. Hill of Robinson, Ill., who exchanged shots early Sunday morning with a gang of six gunmen and held them off until military police came to his aid.

On guard duty, Hill heard the glass smashed at the finance office and rushed around the building to investigate. He almost ran into two of the burglars, who fired at him with pistols. Hill fired back and, taking cover behind some GI cans, found that four more gunmen were shooting at him in the dark.

His ammunition lasted until MPs in Jeeps arrived. The gunmen then escaped. There is a possibility that one was hit, for he was seen to stumble as he fled.

Obion Offered UC Airfield

County Court To Be Asked To Accept Gift Jan. 6; May Purchase More Land

Union City, Tenn.—County Judge Andrew L. Burrus said Saturday that the Obion county court at its meeting Monday, Jan. 6, will be asked to adopt a resolution accepting Embury Ridge Field as a gift from the federal government.

Announcement was made Friday by H. W. McMurray, regional director of the War Assets Administration at Nashville, that the federal government has agreed to give 767.8 acres of the airfield, including two steel hangars and six smaller buildings, to Obion county to be maintained as an airfield.

The gift comprises all of the airfield except about 100 acres, on which are located the barracks, administration, hospital, dining room and other buildings enclosed in the circle drive at the airfield, and land lying just south of the dining hall.

The county is negotiating to purchase this remaining part of the airfield from the government.

The sharp eyes and natural curiosity of a Kentucky mountain farmer more than 50 years ago today are benefiting livestock raisers all over the State.

That farmer, the late William M. Sauter, first noticed the possibilities of a new variety of grass now hailed by agronomists as a "wonder" crop—Kentucky 31 fescue.

It is really a remarkable grass—as astonishing as lespedeza was, according to E. N. Fergus, agronomist in charge of pasture and forage crops at the Kentucky Experiment Station. "It is going to make Kentucky green in winter—as well as summer."

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 30—(AP)—Harry Lee Waterfield, Clinton publisher and speaker of the Kentucky House of Representatives, resigned today as Democratic state director of organization.

Fats Collection Down In November

Waste fats collected in the Fat Salvage program in Kentucky in November totaled only 25,889 pounds, a drop of 2,536 pounds below collections for October, M. D. Royse, state director of the Production and Marketing Administration, said today.

This drop in used fats salvage is hard to explain, with increased amounts of meat now on the market and with farm butchering swelling the amount of available fats, Royse said.

Stores throughout Kentucky now are paying eight cents or more a pound for waste fats, Royse said. No reports have been received on December collections, he stated, but it is hoped that recent price increases will bring in larger amounts this month.

Firemen Overcome By Mysterious Gas From Store Blaze

Atlanta, Dec. 30—(AP)—Authorities sought a clue today to the type and origin of fumes which overcame 75 firemen, sending 52 to hospitals, while they fought a stubborn basement blaze in a drug store for eight hours early Sunday.

As the gases poured up from the smoldering sub-floor stockroom, the firemen dropped one by one. At least 27 received emergency treatment at the scene at one time, but there were no fatalities.

"Every time the wind tossed the smoke at a fireman, he then spoke at a fireman, the smoke went down," commented assistant Fire Chief F. J. Bowen. "It had a sweetish smell."

Army-Irish To Cancel Grid Series After 1947

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 30—(AP)—The Army and Notre Dame have agreed to suspend temporarily their football series after the 1947 game, the Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C., president of Notre Dame, announced today.

Both stated that the United States plan conformed fully with the general assembly resolution.

Mr. Alexander, Canadian-born, of Great Britain, Dr. Quo-Chi of China and Dr. G. Becher of the Netherlands, also expressed full approval of the Baruch plan.

Alexandre Parodi, of France, told the commission he agreed with the substance of the plan but would prefer that the actual word "veto" be left out of the punishment section without changing the intent of that part.

Bus Strikes Cow, Four Are Injured

Bowling Green, Ky., Dec. 30—(AP)—Four persons were injured, none seriously, when a Greyhound bus, containing 14 passengers, went into a ditch after striking a cow, the state highway patrol reported.

State Highway Patrolman George Lindsey said he was told by the bus driver, O. L. Slevick, Louisville, that the cow walked directly into the path of the bus and he could not avoid striking it. The bus remained upright, the officer said.

Deplorable Vandalism

A deplorable outbreak of vandalism has been reported by several private individuals and public officials in recent weeks. Typical of the destruction of property committed recently was the breaking of some 15 or 20 windows at Fulton high school and Carr Institute. The windows were broken by deliberate hurling of rocks and coal, apparently at night or early in the morning. A similar wave of school-window breaking was reported during the summer months.

While the schools probably suffered more financial loss than any other institution or place of business, most residents of Fulton could cite other instances of vandalism.

It is probable that small, school-age boys are the culprits. If so, they are not entirely to blame. Parents have the responsibility of teaching their children to respect the property of others. It is immeasurably better for children to be taught what is right and what is wrong at home, rather than to be allowed to "run wild," and sooner or later be arrested and punished.

Gunn Going Soon

A few weeks ago Mr. Wilson Gunn, VA committee representative, sent us a story saying he was being transferred to Paducah, and would not consult with veterans and their dependents at the Fulton post office after his current visit. Shortly afterward, Mr. Gunn learned that his transfer had been delayed, and advised us to that effect.

With apologies to the ghost of Joe Miller, we headlined this second story Gunn Falls to Go Off, and waited to see if Mr. Gunn, a most likable fellow, would notice it. He did. He seems that the VA representative was greeted by smiles and snickers when he made his regular rounds in Fulton the next Tuesday, and by the time he got to the Leader office, he wanted to know forthwith who had "head him up."

A headline writer on the Louisville Times, however, went the Leader one better. The Times reprinted the comment of a Lexington newspaper columnist on the Leader's Gunn story, and over this: "except 'was the best transfer' and 'amputation in Gunn.'"

Seriously, we regret to learn that Mr. Gunn's transfer to Paducah will be effective early in January, as is announced in a store elsewhere in today's paper. It is a well-deserved promotion for him, and we congratulate him on it. But we'll miss his cheery smile and friendly greeting each week.

Experiment In Democracy

By Sam Dawson

Dawson, AP staff writer who substitutes today for Dewitt MacKenzie, covered the December 11 revolt in Venezuela and made a study of political and economic conditions in the South American Republic.

New York.—(AP)—Venezuela's 14-month experiment in Democracy has survived the tests of bullets and ballots, but it still has two big obstacles to overcome.

The great mass of the population needs education in Democracy. Many of the people seem to have little conception of what Democracy means and how it operates.

Also, the "outs" have powerful friends at home and abroad, especially within the army, where many officers giving lip service to democracy still appear to believe in the right of the military to rule.

Leaders of the Dec. 11 rebellion were army officers who sided the Oct. 18, 1945, revolution which ousted Gen. Isaias Medina Angarita and put the present liberal Junta into power. They fought for Democracy in that uprising, but when President Romulo Betancourt's Junta showed that it intended to educate Venezuelans in self government looking toward civilian control, as in the United States, these same men plotted the overthrow of the Junta and the return to army rule.

They failed through bad planning and ineffective execution. How many of their same still hold high rank in the army and in the government probably is giving Betancourt some anxious moments.

In 14 months, however, the Junta had made progress in its closely associated tasks—improving economic conditions and of creating a people, accustomed for centuries to rule by dictators, to the ways of Democracy.

Betancourt's Junta at the outset upped the annual budget from $175,000,000 to $300,000,000, putting emphasis on schools, sanitation, roads and housing.

This was no PWA project to make work for the idle. The idea was to lay the groundwork

With The Fourth Estate

RAMBLINGS

By Henry Ward

The campaign which will produce Kentucky's next governor will get into full swing during the coming week, for the week will begin with a meeting of the Democratic state central committee which will provide an excellent opportunity for a lot of political maneuvering.

The meeting of the committee will be highlighted by the resignation of Harry Lee Waterfield, of Clinton, as its state organization chairman.

Waterfield submitted his resignation several months ago when he decided to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1947, but there has not been a meeting of the group at which it could be accepted.

That action will put Waterfield into a better position to advance his candidacy for governor, since he hesitated to do too much about it while he carried the title as the Democratic committee's organization chairman.

Waterfield has held that job since 1944, and has devoted a lot of time and energy to it. It has been his task to try to keep alive Democratic organizations over the state between elections to the end that work might be done for the benefit of Democratic nominees.

He has devoted more time to the job than he should have, considering his personal interests, for the position carried no salary and most of his expenses in connection with it were not even paid.

The meeting of the state committee is regarded as a means of giving prospective candidates and their friends a chance to feel out what sentiment seems to be in all sections of the state.

There are four members of the committee from each of the nine congressional districts—two men and two women from each—and eight members from the state at large. First District members are Kent Hanksy of Hickman, Ben Adams of Hopkinsville, George Hart of Murray, Mrs. Tom Cochran, Jr. of Marion, and Holland G. Bryan of Paducah.

I believe I am safe in saying that all five members of the committee from this district will go to the Louisville meeting prepared to say to anyone who happens to ask that they believe Harry Lee Waterfield would make the Democratic a good nominee for governor.

Waterfield has strong backing in other districts of the state, too, judging from reports from several of them.

for transforming an oil-wealthy but otherwise undeveloped Venezuela into a modern Democracy.

Venezuelans tell you that the projects have been run with a minimum of graft—as far as is known—although they add that the habits of centuries are hard to break.

The cabinet is "a young man's government"—one cabinet member is still in his twenties, others are in their thirties and forties.

This had the advantage of bringing young blood and energy into the task of welding a Democracy. It also brought inexperience. Many of the Junta's mistakes are traced to that.

Because of their inexperience, they kept on many of their predecessors in subordinate posts in the ministries. These men are charged with giving loyal aid to the Junta during working hours, and then are allowed after hours to be active workers in the Copel, the conservative party of opposition.

The Junta has loudly proclaimed its stand for freedom of thought, press and expression. El Copel has its daily paper in Caracas and an announced program of building up a conservative party to win office by ballots, not bullets.

There is a communist daily in Caracas, and on posts and buildings throughout the country "Vota Rojo" (vote red) is proclaimed in red paint. This was during the recent election of members to a constituent assembly which now is drafting a new constitution. The communists won two seats.

The Junta's own party, Accion Democratica, won overwhelmingly in what is advertised as the most Democratic election ever held in South America.

One gray-haired woman told me: "the Junta was smart. It gave women the vote, and of course we voted for it. Women elected this government."

Shortcomings of the Junta's execution of policy seem to stem not from lack of good intentions but from ingrained habits of the lesser officials and those who deal with and through the government.

BY EWING GALLOWAY

Having no private press agent to extol little things I do, I must be excused if I seem immodest in reporting on the 52 newspaper pieces I wrote and the Committee for Kentucky syndicated in 1946.

Let me say at the beginning that it was a labor of love. And, assuming for the sake of contrast that, as George Bernard Shaw puts it, silence is the most perfect expression of scorn, the response of the press of the state and of notable individuals has been something to feel cheery about.

In the first few weeks sixty or more dailies and weeklies printed my pieces and the end of the year saw upward of eighty papers using them.

One very important reason to write to please my employer. At least I would have to strive to avoid displeasing him. I am virtually my own boss. That's hunky-dory, isn't it?

Of course I try to avoid conflicts with the policies and purposes of the Committee for Kentucky. That is easy because we are pursuing the same objectives. The relationship is doubly satisfactory because the fine work of the Committee is my main source of inspiration. In other words, we synchronize. Through 1947 the Committee for Kentucky's work in arousing public opinion and leading it in the right direction will increase in power and effectiveness. Issues will be clarified, made more concrete. There will be opposition, which will be welcomed, because real progress can come only through free and open discussion.

One of my own personal hopes for the ensuing year is to see more Kentucky newspapers in the fight for better things, particularly better schools, better health service and public welfare, cleaner and more progressive local government. And I believe we'll see them fight as they fought before.

The work of this column has to be general, of course. But I'll always be looking for stories about what individual communities are doing to better themselves.

One of my fondest hopes is that I'll be instrumental not so much in finding local leaders but in helping them find themselves.

Wishing you a
NEW YEAR.

In the same friendly spirit with which we served you in 1946

we stand pledged to serve you in 1947.

With grateful acknowledgement of past favors we extend to all the season's greetings.

In Governorship Dispute

Melvin Ernest Thompson, (above), Lieutenant Governor-Elect of Georgia said in Atlanta, Ga., the people of Georgia "expect me" to become Governor next month. The Governorship for the four-year term starting in January, 1947, was left vacant by the death last Saturday of Governor-Elect Eugene Talmadge. ### Daisy's Just Overwhelmed

Fast-Moving America Has Fascinated French Singer
Who Is Learning Slang
By Lee Branham

AP Newsfeatures
New York—Daisy Dax, blonde, leggy, Amazon-statured singer from the Paris Folies Bergere, is overwhelmed by fast-moving America.

She engaged in an argument with United States Immigration authorities during which she was detained two days on Ellis Island, appeared at an immigration hearing, was involved without injury in a motor car accident and a hotel fire—not to mention intensive rehearsals every day and night club dinners with different escorts every night.

The accident occurred when a Belgian Consulate official took her to dinner one night, but no one was hurt. A little smoke poured into her 21st floor room at the Lincoln Hotel during a pre-dawn fire on the 13th floor. Cautiously she mentioned her social activities—as if to imply the hope that her fiancé, a dentist in Paris, wouldn't mind. In mixed French and newly-acquired English, she explained: "I want to see as many of your wonderful American shows as I can."

Daisy—called the "French Lana Turner" by one newspaper—was imported by Lou Walters, impresario of the Latin Quarters here and in Miami. After an engagement at the Miami night club she expects to appear in New York.

Daisy displayed distress over pictures taken aboard the Queen Elizabeth upon her arrival, one of which showed her posed on a bed with nothing apparent between her and the camera except a blanket—which left exposed a most generous portion of her anatomy. The pictures appeared in some New York newspapers and in at least one magazine.

Now she desires less stress on anatomy. She is, she emphasizes, a singer. Somehow the impression had circulated that she was some kind of a strip-tease dancer.

"Non, non!" she chattered. "Not a dancer. I sing 'rhythm' songs—with l'accent Anglaise!"

Daisy, who says she's 23, says she finds American girls "very beautiful," but declines all comment on impressions of American men.

With amazing rapidity, she is learning to speak "American."

Texas Pastor Directed
His Team To Crown In YMCA Junior Conference

AP Newsfeatures

San Antonio, Tex.—Age isn't the only thing the Rev. Wade S. Hopkins has to worry about in his junior conference football team. Height and weight also must be watched.

The Rev. Hopkins, pastor of the Highland Park Baptist Church, has just finished coaching a team to the Bexar County

Y. M. C. A. Junior Conference championship—and he loves his work.

"Football practice gives the boys something to do after school hours," he says. "As a result, there is less time for them to get into mischief."

The minister played football in high school in Wisconsin and in junior college at Marshall, Tex.

Boys in the Y. M. C. A. can be no more than 14 years of age, 61 inches tall and 105 pounds in weight.

There was a time when one of his stars outgrew the league's physical limits and had to quit the team. He was a half-inch too tall.

And boys who eat a lot may give the minister some worries. But he doesn't recall any player having to forego his candy and ice cream cones to stay within the weight limit.

Playing cards made from cellulose nitrate sheets are being manufactured—they will outlast 50 decks of ordinary cards.

Washington Letter

By Jack O'Brien

New York—By some curious, unfortunate sequence of events, the mere mention of the word "Brooklyn" is enough to send almost any audience into unbridled laughter. Caricatures of Brooklyn residents in the movies, on the stage, night club floors and the radio constantly depict the citizens of the Flat-bush borough as guttural wise guys whose ultimate cultural conversation concerns the lineup of the Brooklyn Dodgers, voted in a meaty fiction which changes ciphers to cinders and stars to fairs.

That Brooklyn has no interest in culture is a statement which, according to Julius Bloom, director of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, is a nasty, ridiculous canard.

A full century B. D. meaning before Durocher, the folks across Brooklyn Bridge were doing something about their cultural tastes, Bloom pointed out. In fact, what now is the largest, the largest and oldest organization of its kind, opened its doors as an Apprentice's Library, and the prominent members of what then was a small village trundled wheelbarrows from house to house to collect books for the new venture.

"We started our job of editing working boys with a collection of 724 books, 180 pamphlets, and 50 readers," said Mr. Bloom, who uses "we" with a benevolent possessiveness which completely transcends the fact that he wasn't there at the time. Brooklyn quickly learned about the library and its popularity grew apace until shortly it was serving more than apprentices. In 1940, after absorbing an organization known as the Brooklyn Lyceum, it was given its present name and really started looking on all four cultural butters.

From then on a period of steady growth continued which by the turn of the century had assumed mass proportions.

"We were doing practically everything cultural one would expect to find in any city," Bloom explained. "Library, concerts, lectures, courses for adults, museums, botanic garden, children's museum and so on."

Some 400 separate events are presented annually at the Academy of Music alone, covering every phase of public cultural interest.

Since the Institute is the oldest and largest organization doing its type of far-flung artistic and scientific work, it is an eloquent and permanent rebuttal to the folks who think Brooklyn is simply a low-comedy community dedicated full time to hoping for next year's National League pennant.

Stettin's Transformation
Essen, Poland—(AP)—This once great German port city, formerly called Stettin, is almost completely Polish. Authorities estimated 103,000 Poles now live here and all but 9,000 Germans, chiefly aged men and women and children, have been expelled to Allied zones in Germany, and the 9,000 will be repatriated soon.

Louisiana "Monstrosity," Or Old Capitol, Still Standing

By Conrad Manley

AP Newsfeatures
Baton Rouge, La.—Louisiana's old state capitol, burned during the Civil War, nominated for dynamiting by Mark Twain in 1882, and supplanted by Huey P. Long's modern 34-story skyscraper capitol 13 years ago, is still going strong.

The ancient pile of brick and masonry, now nearing its centennial, is being turned into a memorial of World War II, in which all veterans' organizations of Louisiana will have their state headquarters.

Mark Twain was not the only critic of the building's architecture, described in the guide books as being "in the Tudor-Gothic tradition."

In his "Life on the Mississippi," Twain declared that "this little sham castle" would probably never have been built if Sir Walter Scott "had not run the people mad with his medieval romances" and suggested that it would be better to let dynamite finish what a charitable fire began rather than restore it.

The structure, overlooking the Mississippi, is four stories high and is surmounted by four battlemented towers, once topped by elaborate cast-iron turrets. Foliated traceries adorn the doors and windows and are repeated in the design of the cast-iron fence which encloses the terraced grounds.

The building has a colored glass dome and windows and other baroque ornaments are used in the old house of representatives and senate chambers. In its heyday, the executive offices were equipped with furniture which had been shipped from Europe to the Emperor Maximilian of Mexico, but which arrived after his overthrow.

James H. Dakin, architect and building superintendent of the capitol, in a diary recently added to Louisiana State University's archives, declared:

"I have avoided the use of the Greek or Roman orders of architecture for the capitol because we should accomplish only what would unavoidably appear to be a mere copy of some other edifice already erected and often repeated in every city and town of our country."

In spite of being condemned as an architectural monstrosity and as "a mixture of Gothic, Moorish, and all the known architectural styles of the world," the old capitol, completed in 1850, will continue to serve the state of Louisiana and its people.

Going To Mars? Beware Meteors

However, Chances Of Space Ship Exploding Are Slight, Scientist Says

AP Newsfeatures
Cambridge, Mass.—If dangers of interplanetary travel are worrying you, take heart. You could ride the 5:15 commuters' space boat to Mars all your life and the chance of hitting a meteorite would be very remote.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple of the Harvard College Observatory figured it out and decided the actual mathematical chance of having a fatal accident with a meteor is this:

Assume you owned a spherical pressurized space vessel 12 feet in diameter and covered with a skin of steel 1-4 inch thick.

If you observed sensible rules, didn't try to buzz Venus and avoided known meteor streams, you could float around for just about 50 years without being involved in collision with a meteorite large enough to blow up the ship.

When you awaken on New Year's morning may you awaken not only to a day of happiness, but to a whole year of happy days. We welcome the New Year and take this opportunity to greet all our friends.

Kozy Korner Grill

thick sheet of metal surrounding the 1-4 inch skin of the ship, at one inch distance. This, he said, would dissipate the penetrating power of a meteorite several times larger than one corresponding to one of the eight magnitude.

But suppose a meteor the size of a pea struck?

It would be all over in a flash. "It would completely destroy the vessel," said Dr. Whipple.

Rides His Bike 34 Miles Daily At Delaware U.

Riverside, Del.—A 37-year-old Delaware university freshman pedals 34 miles daily to and from classes on a bike but is 27 years older than its rider.

William R. Lusby is enthusiastic about the vehicle, equipped with hand shifts which give it three speeds; a hand brake; side mirror and two 1892 wheels equipped with special hub caps, bristling with 1,000 separate parts.

"It's my choice of transportation," says the freshman who lives here 17 miles from his school.

Bicycles have been part of Lusby's life. In 1923 he was junior state cycling champion of Delaware and was one of two of the state's representatives in the national racing championships in Chicago.

He is a veteran of the Army Air Forces and is studying music.

Mrs. Bill Parrott has returned to Detroit after a visit here with Mr. and Mrs. Clay Parrott and with W. C. Summers and Mrs. Summers of Clinton.

Rev. John Robinson of Madisonville will preach at Salem Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. L. A. (Sara) Shupe, English teacher, entertained the Fulham seniors Friday night with card games. The hostess, assisted by two juniors, Betty Jane Armbruster and Dot Wilson, served refreshments to the following: Misses Marilyn Brown, LaJesh Bynum, Sammie Jean Wilson, and two girls from Hickman (whose names we failed to get). ## Radiant Living Devotional studies for training the spiritual life. Arranged by Rev. J. C. Matthews.

"Then said Jesus unto his disciples, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me." (Matt. 16:24).

"If you crown Jesus King, He will demand implicit obedience. There is something more. He will expect you to seek daily orders from Him, and be in constant communication with Him, through every day. It will mean total abstinence from all things which hinder your loyalty. I have known men and women who have agonized for weeks before they could do it. You say, 'It is going to cost.' Yes! but it is infinitely worth while. Think of the joy, think of the gladness. If I had a thousand lives, Jesus Christ should be King of them all.—W. W. Martin.
