Carbon Monoxide Reported Causes Death Of Local Pair

Death from carbon monoxide poisoning an exposure is listed as the cause of the deaths of former South Fulton policeman Parker McClure and Mrs. Geneva Terrell, whose bodies were found on Cook's Lane, about seven o'clock last Thursday.

Fulton County Sheriff Joe Campbell, authorized to investigate the deaths in the absence of Coroner Don Chaney reported that McClure's body was found slumped on the floor beneath the steering wheel of a Buick automobile parked on a side road off Highway 94. Mrs. Terrell's body was found on the ground beneath the car door opposite the driver's seat.

Roland Carter Awarded Funds For Higher Study

Roland Carter, senior, chemist and biology major, Fulton, has been awarded an assistantship of $3,000 plus tuition at the University of Tennessee.

He also has been awarded a $200 scholarship for use in graduate school from the Alpha Tau Omega Foundation Fund.

This scholarship is based on scholastic ability and fraternity participation.

For three summers Carter has served as a trainee in the department of pharmacology at the University of Tennessee in Memphis.

He is president of Beta Beta Beta, a member of the Student Affiliates of American Chemical Society, corresponding secretary of Alpha Tau Omega, and past president of the German Club. He was chosen for "Who's Who in America Colleges and Universities" this year.

Mr. Campbell said that the coloration of Mrs. Terrell's body indicated that she became asphyxiated with carbon monoxide poisoning, attempted to get out of the car, became unconscious, and apparently died from exposure.

The sheriff also reported that the window near the driver's seat was down, further indicating that the former policeman also attempted to revive himself.

Mrs. Norman Bennett, who lives west of Cook's Lane where the bodies were found gave this account of the tragedy:

She said that she and her husband Norman noticed a car parked on a side road off Cook's Lane about 6:30 P. M. Wednesday. They did not pay too much attention to the vehicle she said, except that the right flicker light was blinking. The Bennetts were on their way to the One and All Club.

On their return from the club about 8:45 p. m. Mrs. Bennett said that the car was still there, the right flicker light was still blinking, but that the front door on the side opposite the driver's seat was open. Mrs. Bennett said that she and her husband attached no particular significance to the car still parked there. "There are cars parked along that lane all the time," she said.

Thursday morning, Mrs. Bennett said, when her husband was on his way to work at the Gulf Distributing Company he noticed that the car was still parked there.

Here's A Christmas Story For Those Whose Season Is Not Jolly

This issue of the News comes to you on Christmas Eve morning. The deepest and sincerest wishes in the combined hearts of all four Westphelings go out to you for a very happy Christmas. 'Tis the season to be jolly, the song says. I cannot help but know, that in spite of the fact that the newborn Christ would want happiness to prevail everywhere, the blessings of life are not always distributed evenly among God's children.

Where there is poverty, sickness, grief and loneliness the gayety of the holiday season will be an added burden. For them we print the words of Paul the Apostle to the Galatians:

"Let us not be weary in well doing," he wrote, "for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not."

In this connection I am going to reprint here an article that appears in this month's Reader's Digest. Though it may not be quite legal to print the article, I am going to do so, if the message contained in the story lifts just one heart to a little more happiness, a little more courage during this sacred season. Here's the story:

By Fulton Oursler

Some years ago there lived in an English city a man whom I shall call Fred Armstrong. He worked in the local post office, where he was called the "dead-letter man" because he handled missives whose addresses were faulty or hard to read. He lived in an old house with his little wife, an even smaller daughter and a tiny son. After supper he liked to light his pipe and tell his children of his latest exploits in delivering lost letters. He considered himself quite a detective. There was no cloud on his modest horizon.

No cloud until one sunny morning when his little boy suddenly fell ill. Within 48 hours the child was dead.

In his sorrow, Fred Armstrong's soul seemed to die. The mother and their little daughter, Marian, struggled to control their grief, determined to make the best of it. Not so the father. His life was now a dead letter with no direction. In the morning Fred Armstrong rose from his bed and went to work like a sleepwalker; he never spoke unless spoken to, ate his lunch alone, sat like a statue at the supper table and went to bed early. Yet his wife knew that he lay most of the night with eyes open, staring at the ceiling. As the months passed, his apathy seemed to deepen.

His wife told him that such despair was unfair to their lost son and unfair to the living. But nothing that she said seemed to reach him.

It was coming close upon Christmas. One bleak afternoon at work Fred Armstrong sat on his high stool and shoved a new pile of letters under the swinging electric lamp. On the top of the stack was an envelope that was clearly undeliverable. In crude block letters were pencilled the words: "SANTA CLAUS, NORTH POLE." Armstrong started to throw it away when some impulse made him pause. He opened the letter and read:

Dear Santa Claus:

We are very sad at our house this year, and I don't want you to bring me anything. My little brother went to heaven last spring. All I want you to do when you come to our house is to take Brother's toys to him. I'll leave them in the corner by the kitchen stove; his hobby-horse and train and everything. I know he'll be lost up in heaven without them, most of all the horse; he always liked riding it so much, so you must take them to him, please, and you needn't mind leaving me anything, but if you could give Daddy something that would make him like he used to be, make him smoke his pipe again and tell me stories, I do wish you would. I heard him say to Mummy once that only

Judy Neely Hurt In Game, But Team-mates Carry On

The crowd fell silent last Friday night in the South Fulton gymnasium as a semi-conscious Judy Neely, stellar SF forward, lay injured on the floor.

For a full 30 minutes she was there before a doctor and ambulance could be found to take her to the hospital.

Saturday morning, South Fulton girls Coach Catherine Roberts told The Union City Messenger X-rays showed no broken bones and it now appears she will be alright.

The coach had first thought Judy's back was broken after she said she had no feeling in her legs.

Following the second quarter accident, a badly shaken South Fulton girls team fell to Atwood 49-35. The Devils also fell 63-54. Judy, one of the most outstanding cage players in the county, was injured in the first part of the second period. Coming in for a layup, she tripped and fell striking her head on the floor. She struggled to her knees, and then as her coach came onto the floor, she collapsed in Coach Roberts' arms.

Coach Roberts, thinking the girl's back was injured halted play and refused to move the girl until the doctor and ambulance arrived.

She was released from the hospital Friday night, but doctors did not permit her to go to sleep until 4 in the morning.

"I have nothing but praise for the rest of the girls, they came back on the floor and played their hearts out," Coach Roberts said.

Then picking out Bonnie Weeks, who suffered a knee injury last year and hasn't played since, Coach Roberts said "she showed tremendous improvement. She is a calm player and handles herself well." Through the use of a special knee brace Weeks is trying to make a comeback.

In the boys game, both teams seemed to be on a par—except for one thing. The Atwood center could not be stopped and scorched the basket for 36 points.

Leading South Fulton was Clayburn Peebles with 15.

Mrs. J. D. Golden Burned To Death In Home On Vine

A fire of as yet undetermined origin levelled the two-story frame house of J. D. Golden early last Thursday burning to death Mrs. Golden and inflicting second and third degree burns over twenty per cent of the body of Mrs. David Golden, who was in the house with her mother-in-law when the fire broke out. A chain of events indicates that the fire may have started from a leaking gas meter, which was being repaired by City of Fulton gas workers when an explosion was heard about 7:30 a. m.

An eye-witness to the holiday tragedy, Charles Ray, who lives next door to the Golden's gave this account to the News:

Jack Maddox and Roy Hood, employees of the City of Fulton's gas department were in the Golden garage helping Mr. Golden get his stalled Standard Oil delivery truck started. The city employees were at the Golden home digging into the main line of the gas system to cut off the gas supply to determine the cause of the leak in the Golden's meter.

An explosion, believed to have erupted in the Golden's kitchen was heard and flames started coming out of the house, igniting the structure almost immediately. Hearing the explosion Mr. Ray ran to the Golden home with the others and saw Joyce (Mrs. David) Golden trying to leave the burning structure. She succeeded in getting out and was taken to the Ray home next door. Her clothing was burned, her hands, arms, legs and face were burned badly. Mr. Ray hailed the first passing automobile and took her to Hillview Hospital where Dr. Andrew Nelson said that she was in serious, but not critical condition. She is being taken to Memphis for treatment by a plastic surgeon.

Meanwhile, Mr. Ray said, he had gone back to the back door of the burning house to try to rescue the elder Mrs. Golden. He said that he extended his hands to her, when he saw her in flames.

The production of Christmas trees has become big business within the last few years. In some areas Corporations have been formed especially for the production of high quality trees, which cater to the variety market in and near large cities. We here in Western Kentucky could do the same thing since we have a longer growing season than northern growers. There is a little more to the Christmas tree business than setting them out, then going back in a few years and harvest a first class tree for the American home.

The selection of variety is of prime importance and the Scotch pine is the favored one for the quality market. White pine is also used, however, it requires a little more work to keep it in shape. Other pine and spruce trees make fine trees but are much thinner and command a lower price. Red Cedar is still in demand but since it grows wild, does not sell well.

I would like to discuss Scotch pine today, from planting to harvest. First in planting, a spacing of about 5 feet by 5 feet will give you 1742 trees per acre. It is necessary to have high population at first because you will only have about 50 to 60 percent that will ever make a No. 1 tree. When the trees are two and three years old they will need a light pruning to control early spread. This is very important since buyers do not want trees that are as wide as they are tall. This has been one of the greatest faults of the Scotch variety, and it is really the responsibility of the grower, not the tree. Every year after the fourth growing season the trees will have to have attention. Some trees, about 10 percent will require very little work. 50 percent will have to have average pruning and 40 percent will give you a lot of trouble. There will be 20 percent of this 40 percent that will never make anything but greenery.

It is extremely difficult to tell someone just how to work a Christmas tree. I like to cut back to the old wood early in order to keep the shape narrow and make it fill in. Pruning is usually carried out in the spring, however, it can be done whenever you have time... just make sure it is done!

Remember, there is always a market for a high quality tree. They will now develop by themselves into a marketable tree, it takes a lot of hard work. It is worth it, however, to see the satisfied customers come back every season for their very special tree. Some growers let their buyers come into the fields and pick their tree in the fall. It is market and reserved until they are ready for decorating in the home.

Mountain Folks Erect Monument To Combs, In Appreciation For Progress

A 22-foot monument memorializing former Governor Bert Combs for his road-building progress will be erected on the Mountain Parkway.

Hazard Mayor Willie Dawahare, originator of the plan and prime mover of a money raising drive expects the $20,000 structure to be put up in the fall of 1964.

Architectural plans and a model of the Kentucky stone slab bearing the profile likeness of Combs have been completed by Louisville sculptor Don Lanham.

Dawahare hopes approval will be granted to place the monument in a parklike enclosure in the "Y" of the parkway near Campton, at the starting point of the Salyersville extension.

Highway Commissioner Henry Ward is understood to favor a location near or within a proposed motel-restaurant development on the parkway west of Campton.

Dawahare emphasized that the project is "strictly non-political." "For one thing, I am a Republican and Governor Combs is a Democrat," he said, "And we have waited purposely until Combs is out of office to make the announcement."

"Our only desire is to show appreciation to Governor Combs for the wonderful efforts he made for the mountain region, especially through his road-building program."

Once he conceived the idea, Dawahare won the support of business and political leaders in a wide area of Eastern Kentucky.

Mrs. Era Boone Ferguson, operator of Hazard Business College, agreed to serve as secretary and treasurer of the movement. She has handled the solicitation correspondence and is keeping books on the collections.

Nearly half of the $20,000 has been collected or pledged from friends of Combs, most of them in denominations of $100 and $200.

Dawahare said gifts will be welcomed from friends of Combs in any part of Kentucky.

They may be addressed to Dawahare or Mrs. Ferguson.

The monument will be made under a contract with Riehm-Gerlack Memorials, Inc., Louisville. Firm president Charles E. Riehm said the monument will be of native Kentucky stone which is harder than limestone.

It comes from the old Shaker-town quarry near Harrodsburg.

The carved panel and two beneath it will be tan granite from Georgia. The panel bearing Combs' likeness will measure 6 by 8 feet with Combs' head 5 feet high. On the other side will be a carving of a Kentucky frontiersman. A flagpole will top the monument.

with the door still open. Investigating, he found the bodies of McClure and Mrs. Terrell. McClure's arms were hanging out over the door board on the side of the car where Mrs. Terrell's body was found. Win Whitnel reported that the couple had been dead for "many hours," perhaps ten.

Sheriff Campbell brought both bodies into Hillview Hospital where Dr. Andrew Nelson reported both were dead on arrival.

Services for Mrs. Terrell were held Saturday at 2 p. m. at the Hornbeak Funeral Chapel, with interment in Fairview cemetery.

Mrs. Terrell is survived by her mother, Mrs. Nettie Miller of Fulton and a sister, Mrs. Beuton Lawson of Hampton, Virginia.

The McClure rites were held at 2 p. m. Saturday at Whitnel Funeral Home chapel. Interment was in Obion County Memorial Gardens.

MRS. GOLDEN—

about three feet from the door. The flames were so intense that Ray could not go into the house, he said.

The elder Mrs. Golden, in her middle fifties it was reported, apparently went into the house to call for help. Mrs. Ray, a telephone operator said that she answered a call on the switchboard only to hear moans and screams coming over the line. Realizing that the call was coming from Vine Street, Mrs. Ray reported the distress call to her service assistant, who immediately called for help. The fire department had already been called and was there within minutes after the alarm.

W. D. Powers, maintenance superintendent for the City of Fulton said that an investigation is being made. However, others indicate that perhaps fumes from the leaking gas meter had penetrated the house and that perhaps a match or cigarette lighter mightahad ignited the explosion. By-standers at the scene of the tragedy reported that Mrs. Golden had borrowed an electric heater to use until the gas was turned on again. While the report could not be confirmed, it is believed that the Golden had been without heat since Wednesday night.

Mrs. Golden, the former Fern Croft, was born in Texas Co., Oklahoma on December 6, 1909. She was 53 and the daughter of the late Joe C. and Lurena Finch Croft.

Besides her husband, she leaves a son, David A. Golden of Fulton; daughter, Mrs. Lurena Joel Gatlin of Paducah; three grandchildren; two brothers, James C. Croft of Fulton and R. W. Croft of Detroit; a sister, Mrs. Addie Hannah of Detroit.

She was a member of the First Baptist Church.

Funeral services for Mrs. Golden were held December 21 in Hornbeak's Funeral Home, with Rev. Kenneth Duncan, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating. Interment was in Oak Grove Cemetery.

Active pallbearers were Charles Ray, Charles Andrews, Carl Croft, Fred Nabors, Lorenzo Palmer and Joe Treas.

Obion Hospital Fires Three For Taking Obscene Photos

Three former employees of the Obion County General hospital have been arrested and charged in connection with taking and posing for obscene photographs, Obion County Judge Dan W. McKinnis disclosed.

Judge McKinnis said the trio was taken into custody last Thursday afternoon. All information, including a set of 16 photographs, has been turned over to county authorities, Judge McKinnis said.

Those implicated in the case are Dr. Black, Jr., 39; his wife, Mrs. Linda Black, 33, both of Rives, and Larry Andrews, 19, of the Old Lake Road.

Sheriff Chester Locke said the Andrews youth is charged with lewdness and disorderly conduct and was released from custody or

Mr. Black and his wife were still being held in Obion county jail today. Each is charged in two warrants, one charging contributing to the delinquency of a minor, the other with distributing obscene literature. Bond for each has been set at $2,500.

Judge McKinnis said the photographs were of a "pornographic and obscene nature" and involved all three of the defendants in the case.

The three were discharged from their duties at the hospital after copies of the pictures were brought to William Bennett, hospital administrator, and Gerald Freeman, assistant administrator, by another employee of the hospital. Judge McKinnis said a preliminary investigation shows the pictures, or similar photographs, "have been in circulation for at least several weeks."

SCATTERED PATTEN

About People and Things

Frances Copelen is a young lady we have known since she was a very little girl. She is the daughter of Nettie Lee Copelen, who writes periodically from the Rock Springs Community. Some day we are going to hear something pleasing from this young lady in the field of writing. She has been putting words into stories since she could scarcely hold a pencil. We have given her what little encouragement we could along the way. Recently when we were visiting some friends in the Fulton Hospital, Frances was a patient there. We had a little chat with her and she told us something very interesting. She told us that gathering a scrapbook on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, was the final chapter to a project she has been working on for years.

Frances has been working on a scrapbook of John F. Kennedy ever since he became a national figure. Rather startled that so young a lady could have acquired such a sense of history, we asked that she bring her scrapbooks into our office the first time she found a chance. She did on Friday. We don't know how everybody can get to view this magnificent piece of work, but it is for sure, that something should be done to put the works on display for all to see.

Frances has some photographs in color of the late President and his family that we have never seen published anywhere. She has done exhaustive letter-writing to everywhere, we imagine, to get photographs that obviously have not been for publication. A lovely photograph of Mrs. Kennedy with the two children, when the children were much younger, is one of the most beautiful ones we have ever seen. Frances has two autographed photographs from Mrs. Kennedy. They show the former First Lady as the world has come to know her, warm, gracious, charming and as we know now, majestic. We feel sure that these scrapbooks are priceless possessions. Yet, Frances let us have them to view since we share a mutual respect and admiration for the former first family.

In this connection we think it is rather encouraging to note that other youngsters realize the value of historical material. For the past two weeks, Johnny and Jack Bell, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bell of South Fulton have been coming into the office with a closely guarded envelope that they wanted us to see. No manner of conversation from Annabelle Edwards that we were busy when they came in daunted their spirits. They just kept coming back because they felt that they had something we wanted to see, and perhaps, to own. They were right.

The boys had a copy of the St. Louis Dispatch dated May 21, 1902. They said that their father found it somewhere and they thought that we would be interested in seeing it. They didn't know how much! It contains some historical news reporting that looks like history repeating itself.

The lead story on the front page tells that Cuba had become a free nation. It was, the paper said, the reatest day in the history of the land, marked by general rejoicing at Havana and other cities. It ided also, that "U. S. troops ave Havana." While we shudder the incidents at crime and violence in this day and time, the tuation didn't seem to be much ster then. Two stories, side by de, report that a farmer's son is id for murder and a 14-year old ry put an end to his life.

There are all kinds of interesting ories and advertisements in the per. For instance, the Famous apartment Store in St. Louis as selling cool, shirt waist suits, r just $2.45. You can't even get fresh breath of air for that ount now. You could also get

Hickman School Patrons Go Over Quota For Sports Stadium Drive

Members of the Hickman Civic Club did it! Their $4000 goal for the football-baseball stadium was met following a recent banquet. Donations are still pouring in, according to Elbert Burcham, Jr. who said donations over the $4000 figure will be used to have rest rooms installed at the local FCHS ball field.

He reported that a total of 230 tickets were sold by the Civic Club members with 185 persons attending the banquet. The grand total stopped at a little less than $5000.

Boyettes at Reelfoot Lake catered the dinner held in the FCHS

Gym and guest speaker was Ty Holland, athletic director from Murray. Organ music was enjoyed with Ronny Ward doing the honors. Later dancing was enjoyed in the cafeteria.

The local Civic Club voted to match the school board's goal of $4000 to put lights and bleachers and other equipment at the football-baseball field at FCHS. The club decided to hold the banquet to raise money.

Each and every member is overwhelmed with people purchasing the tickets and others donating to the cause. They are very appreciative, Burcham said.

Miss Alexander, Dwight Hart Wed In Baptist Church

Miss Virginia Ann Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Alexander, Route 4, Fulton, was married to Dwight Hart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arville Hart of Cuba, on Monday, November 25, 1963 in the South Fulton Baptist Church.

The impressive double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. James Allen Ferguson in the presence of the couple's immediate families. Nuptial organ music was provided by Miss Mollie Alexander, sister of the bride.

Attending the bridal couple were the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Kenneth Alexander, as matron of honor and the groom's brother, Stanley Hart, as best man.

The bride was a 1962 graduate from South Fulton High School. She received the honor of being the most talented girl in the class and was active in many extra-curricular activities. The groom was a member of the 1961 graduating class of Cuba High School and is presently employed by N. B. Wheeler and Sons Feed and Supply Company in Sedalia, Ky.

After a short honeymoon, the couple will be at home on Route 1, Lynnville, Ky.

Special Session Raises Judges' Pay, Fails On Vehicle Inspection Law

Kentucky's General Assembly has raised the pay for Court of Appeals and circuit judges and appellate commissioners and provided a separate ballot for their election.

A bill to require annual inspection of motor vehicles, previously approved by the Senate, failed to get out of the House of Representatives Rules Committee as the special session ended.

Gov. Bert Combs had called upon the legislators to convene in special session November 18 to consider adequate judicial pay, a change in judicial election methods and provisions for increased highway safety.

A judiciary and an automobile inspection bill were passed in the Senate and sent to the House. The Rules Committee there recommended passage of the judiciary bill but failed to do so for the auto inspection bill. The House approved the judiciary bill, 54-34, and sent it to Combs for signature.

The bill passed by only three votes over the absolute majority of 51 needed because the measure carried an emergency clause making it effective as soon as the Governor signs it.

The bill, after amendment by the House Rules Committee, sets up this annual pay schedule:

Appellate judges, $20,000, now $12,000; appellate commissioners, $17,500, now $11,500; circuit judges, $14,900, now $10,800.

The Court of Appeals has seven judges and four commissioners. There are 66 circuit judges in Kentucky. The raises would be effective January 1 for the Court of Appeals and January 6 for circuit courts.

The Senate had set circuit judges' salary at $15,000, but the House amended this to $12,500 base pay plus $2,400 for service by circuit judges as appellate commissioners.

Under the bill, judges will be nominated by party primary, and candidates may run in one or both parties as heretofore. Nominees will enter the November election under their party emblems. But the judicial election will be set apart on voting machines so that a straight party vote does not register for judges—a separate lever will have to be pulled to register a vote on the judicial ballot.

The automobile inspection measure would have required annual safety inspection of all motor vehicles in Kentucky at privately owned garages licensed by the State. Vehicle owners would have been required to have defects repaired at garages of their choice. The inspection fee would have been $1.50.

The House adopted a resolution to ask the Advisory Committee on Automotive Safety to study proposals for an inspection bill and report findings to the Legislature. The committee is part of the Legislative Research Commission. House Majority Leader R. P. McInerney, Lexington, said the 1964 General Assembly probably will be called upon to consider auto inspection proposals.

"From the FHS Kennel"

The Fulton Bulldogs closed their grid season with a 18 to 0 win over Trigg County this was the last game for eleven seniors, eight of whom were on the starting line up.

After three weeks of practice the Fulton five started the 1963-64 basketball season with a very decisive victory over Paducah Highman 75 to 54.

On December 6 Fulton City's rival, Fulton County, visited the Bulldogs. The Bulldogs were knocked off balance for the first three quarters and were able to cut the score at 35 all only at the end of the third quarter. Both teams matched play in the fourth quarter and at the end of regulation time the score was tied at 45 to 45. The Bulldogs came through in a three-minute overtime to edge out a victory of 53-49. The next night the Bulldogs went on the road for the first time and defeated Wingo, 55-36. The Bulldogs were glad to win this game because Coach Yates coached at Wingo last year.

The Bulldogs will participate in the Calloway County Invitational Tournament during the Christmas holidays.

When our coal trains reach out of sight, so you can see neither end from the middle, we're saving money for our shippers and for you.

Here's how.

Coal moves most economically at multiple car rates. This saves shippers money. Much of this low cost coal then burns to make lower cost electricity. This saves you money.

Figuring out more economical ways of handling loads for our customers is a big part of our work. Another is to keep trains, tracks and yards modern with new equipment. We've spent $34 million on improvements this year.

... and they sang praises

"And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

LUKE 2, 13-14

I personally have a poor singing voice... this may be one of the reasons why I have so much appreciation for those who have good voices and use their talent for the Lord. At every Christmas, church choirs put forth extra work and effort so that they may present to the world the wonderful story of the birth of our Saviour. I plan to attend these services, knowing that my heart and soul will be nourished and lifted high... won't you come too?

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Integration In Movies Working Report Shows

Integration is working out well in 29 movie houses in Kentucky, according to their managers, interviewed recently by the Social Research Service of the University of Kentucky.

A report compiled from the interviews is the fourth study of public accommodations issued by the Kentucky Commission on Human Rights.

The 29 theatre managers interviewed said their establishments have been giving service to all patrons for periods ranging from a few weeks to 12 years. Theaters which admitted white and non-whites, but on a segregated basis, were not included.

The report states, in part: "Almost all the managers were satisfied with the way the policy had worked out in general. Most seemed highly pleased. None expressed any considerable dissatisfaction."

"It was reported by more than five-sixths of the managers that the policy had worked out either better than they expected or, as they expected, quite well."

In releasing the study, Galen Martin, executive director of the Kentucky Commission on Human Rights, commented that the four reports, based on actual experience of public accommodations which have integrated, show that wherever equal service policies are given a reasonable trial, business does not suffer.

State Employees Sick Leave Is Upped By Combs

Changes in State Personnel Rules raising the maximum accumulation of sick leave for state employees from 60 days to 120 days have been approved by Gov. Bert Combs. The changes had already been approved by the State Personnel Board and Finance Commissioner David H. Pritchett, as required by law.

The new rules, effective January 1, were described by Personnel Commissioner Walter R. Gattis as "a long-term benefit for career employees who have more than five years of full-time service." At a rate of one sick day per month, employees can earn the new 120-day limit in 10 years.

Another change in the sick leave rule will reward employees for longevity on the job. Gattis explained that long-term employees who now have at least 10 years total service with the State will be credited with 10 additional sick days.

The Personnel Rules were also altered to eliminate dual compensation for employees receiving Workmen's Compensation benefits. Effective January 1 sick leave may be used to make up the difference between these benefits and the employee's regular salary.

A Christmas Prayer

Let us pray that strength and courage abundant be given to all who work for a world of reason and understanding; that the good that lies in every man's heart may day by day be magnified; that men will come to see more clearly not that which divides them, but that which unites them; that each hour may bring us closer to a final victory, not of nation over nation, but of man over his own evils and weaknesses; that the true spirit of this Christmas Season—its joy, its beauty, its hope and, above all, its abiding faith—may live among us; that the blessings of peace be ours—the peace to build and grow, to live in harmony and sympathy with others, and to plan for the future with confidence.

Hickman Courier Editorial well worth Your Close Scrutiny; It Applies To Any American Community

Ro Gardner, whose editorial page in his Hickman Courier always contains thought-provoking reading, has written a year end editorial that is nothing short of inspiring. Like most small town editors who often get exasperated with small town inertia and apathy towards moving ahead, Ro has frequently done some hard-hitting, vitriolic writing, letting the chips fall where they may.

More often than not, they have fallen on his head, knocking a severe blow to his enthusiasm and his intentions. That's the way it goes with all of us.

Starting out last week's editorial Ro took inventory of the accomplishments of his community. They were impressive indeed. With a pat on the back here and there, the editorial goes on to point up some observations about Hickman, that apply to almost every community large and small in America. Read the following excerpt from the Courier's editorial and see if you don't agree that it is well worth contemplating.

From the Hickman Courier:

"This is the irony of a community that has the friendliest people anywhere to be found in the world. When, as a community, we set our minds to something—there is nothing, or nobody, that can stop us. Yet among ourselves, on various community issues we have had some knock-down drag-out differences. We suffer often from the cancer of the mind which causes us to give little stings and mind them.

"WITH THE COMBINED ENERGY THAT WE WASTE IN HATING ONE ANOTHER, GETTING EVEN, BEING ENVIOUS, WE COULD CHANGE THE COURSE OF HICKMAN'S DESTINY — OR THE WORLD'S.

"Our problem in Hickman—as with many communities and states and nations in this world—is learning to live together in peace and harmony for mutual benefit. If we could wish for anything for the new year in Hickman—it would be that we would begin to make some real progress toward reconciliation—toward the solution of mankind's oldest, unsolved problem—human relations.

"We are all different, we have varying ideas and contrasting motivations. But thank God we still live in a country where people can have different ideas—where people can disagree without being violently disagreeable. And despite what Senator Thruston Morton and other Republicans have to say to the contrary—we think that the death of our late president, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, hasn't altered the fact one whit.

"AMERICANS HAVE DISAGREED—HONESTLY AND DISHONESTLY—SINCE THE FOUNDING OF THIS COUNTRY—AND NO ONE'S DEATH—HOWEVER MUCH WE MIGHT HAVE ADMIRER HIM—WILL CHANGE THE FACT THAT WE ARE STILL A STRONG DEMOCRATIC (IN PRINCIPLE, NOT PARTY) NATION.

"An illustration that comes to mind is a nearly violent hatred that we once nursed against a truck driver. It was eating on our insides like an apparently incurable cancer. Then a visiting minister preached a sermon on the principle that you don't have to LIKE a person to love him.

"Let's call the driver Mike—which is not his real name. From the love of Mike, we learned something about getting along with people—you get to know them better—and if you're not careful—you may end up liking someone you once hated with a passion.

"It is no easy matter—this reconciliation. Someone has to make the first move. And too often, we consider this simple little problem of getting along to be our most enormous problem. Someone has to make the first move.

"Perhaps if we all feel this way—our move will be simultaneous—with outstretched hand. It would be a nice start for the New Year."

Commercial Fishing Ban Still Prevails At Reelfoot

Sportsmen's groups won at least a temporary continuation of the ban on commercial fishing at Reelfoot lake at a Sunday meeting of the Tennessee Game & Fish commission in Nashville.

A local sportsman said he felt the sale of game fish has never benefited Reelfoot lake in any way. He said he felt the sale of game fish has been a detriment to tourist trade as well as to the 25,000 to 30,000 sportsmen who live in Obion, Dyer and Lake counties.

In Sunday's meeting the commission heard a report on a 10-day study of the lake by state fisheries biologists recommending commercial fishing to correct the steadily dwindling size of crappie pulled from Reelfoot. The board then heard protests from the Tennessee Conservation league and the Dickson Rod and Gun club.

The commission deferred action on the proposal that the ban on commercial netting and sale of crappie be lifted at Reelfoot.

The Dickson group renewed its request for a shutdown of commercial fishing on Kentucky lake during the February through April spawning season.

The group said it feared if the sale of Reelfoot crappie was approved, crappie from Kentucky lake would wind up in the same market through expansion of gamefish bootlegging.

Kentucky Lake Guide For '64 Now On Press

The new West Kentucky Guide booklet — formerly known as Kentucky Lake Guide — now in its 17th year of publication, is being prepared for 1964. The newest edition will be off the presses shortly after the first of the year.

Serving both host and visitor, the West Kentucky Guide is a combination souvenir booklet and advertising medium. In offering the visitor a valuable souvenir, the booklet tells the story in words and pictures of Kentucky Dam and Lake, Barkley Dam and Lake, national and state parks and all the various recreational attractions — plus some of the history of the area.

Anyone having historical facts relating to West Kentucky that are not now known to the editor is invited to pass on such information for inclusion in the 1964 edition.

Kentucky Lake Guide was originally published in 1948 soon after Kentucky Lake had become a reality and when there existed only a handful of boat docks and other small businesses catering to the tourists. It has been published annually since 1948.

Editor and publisher of West Kentucky Guide is Paul Abell, will offices in the Katterjohn Building, Paducah. Mr. Abell has experience in editing, publishing and advertising with newspapers and magazines in Kentucky over a span of 25 years.

No New Taxes Pledged Again By Breathitt

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt said today he stands on his campaign commitment of no new taxes.

The question arose after top state officials had told new lawmakers that the financial outlook was somewhat bleak and the budget would have to be watched sharply.

When Highway Commissioner Henry Ward drew a severe outline of highway department prospects, some observers felt that a possible increase in auto license, truck or related fees might be requested during the next legislative session.

Breathitt did not answer this directly in his statement because he did not give a specific definition of what he meant by taxes.

Breathitt's statement said nothing about the possibility of revising existing taxes.

Social Security Record Keeping Important Duty

Have you checked your social security account in the past three years? If not, you should, according to Charles M. Whitaker, social security district manager. He stated that it is difficult and sometimes impossible to correct an error that is discovered more than three years after an earnings report is due.

The social security record keeping system is simple, Whitaker added. A personal account is started for you when you get a social security card. Your account is credited with the earnings reported by your employers and the self-employment earnings reported by you on your Federal income tax returns. Future entitlement to social security benefits and the amount of payments will be determined from the earnings shown on your record.

Do These Disadvantages Outweigh Any Advantages Of Going Steady?

"From the FHS Kennel"
QUESTION: ARE THERE REALLY ANY ADVANTAGES TO GOING STEADY?

Ken Morgan: I'll agree that, to a certain extent, going steady at the high school age does have a limited number of advantages, but if you look at the overall situation with an open mind, you will have to agree that its disadvantages far outnumber its advantages. Going steady is fine and dandy as long as it lasts, but it hardly ever lasts very long and usually causes increased hardships when the two break up. Even if the couple should last through high school, college presents a new problem. When the two are separated because of college, the boy and/or girl misses much of the fun of college life because of no date while the other person goes through the same problem back home. Therefore, my opinion is that the advantages of going steady at our age aren't worth it.

Lynn Dallas: I'm not for "going steady" but I'm not against it either. If you go steady you can miss part of the fun in meeting new people and getting acquainted with them. Also if your steady is the jealous type, he or she can make your life miserable by flaring up at the slightest thing. On the other hand, if you go steady you can get to know what a person is really like. "Going steady" is a much debated subject, but in my opinion it depends entirely on the two individuals involved.

Miss Allen: Of course you can always be sure of a date for the Senior Prom or the after-the-game dance. But what if you hear by the grapevine that the football hero you have always wanted to date really wanted to take you to the dance?

You may be sure of a date for all the functions, but how are you going to know whether this is the boy or the girl, as the case may be, that you want for a life's partner? You know, there seems to be an unwritten rule of "hands off" for those who go steady. Other prospective dates consider you mortgaged property and lose interest. Many times a "steady" courtship will last through high school, eliminating any chance of going with others. When high school is over, the courtship is over and many enjoyable experiences with others are missed.

Many times "going steady" leads to very early marriages. Statistics show that one out of three teenage marriages fails, whereas one out of ninety college marriages does so. Is it worth the risk?

There are other inherent dangers in going steady which should be considered.

What do you think? Are the "advantages" worth the sacrifices?

Sid Allen: I think that there are not really any advantages to going steady. For instance, if you were going steady and your steady was sick for the dance Saturday night, then you wouldn't get to go because you couldn't go with anyone else. Therefore, I think there are not really any advantages to going steady.

First Team Consists Entirely Of Seniors

"From the FHS Kennel"

The football season is over, and the students at Fulton High are looking forward to basketball, another popular spectator sport at Fulton.

There are seventeen boys out for basketball this year, and the first team consists entirely of seniors. The members of the first team are Terry Beadles, Teddy Barclay, Gerald Bradley, John Shepherd, Duane McAlister, and Ward Bushart. This team could go a long way in the tournament at the end of the season.

Members Of Club Report On France

"From the FHS Kennel"

The French Club met December 4. Clay Platt, president of the club, opened the meeting. Judy Patton, program chairman, was in charge of the first program. Reports were given by various members on the French people.

Judy Patton reported on the ancestry of the French people and on Paris, the city of lights.

Carolinda Hales reported on the education of French children. French children must attend school if they are between the ages of six and fourteen. School is free. The French go to school on Mondays, Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays. They believe in a "split" week.

Margaret Poe made her report on the holidays of the French people. The holidays are much like our holidays.

After a short business discussion, the meeting was adjourned.

Local Schools Plan TV Use In '65

At the regular meeting of the Fulton City Board of Education on December 9 the firm of Edward T. Hannan of Paducah was employed as counseling engineers to make a survey for a TV system in the Fulton City Schools.

This project will probably be realized within the next year and a half, being dependent upon how soon the central distribution point is established for additional TV at Murray State College.

Safety Commissioner Lovern Warns Of Driving Hazards During Holidays

State Safety Commissioner Glenn Lovern called on Kentucky motorists today to "co-operate with driving laws and regulations to keep Kentucky's traffic death toll from soaring to a record high."

The worst traffic death total on record in the Commonwealth was set in 1953 and in 1955. In each of those years there were 862 traffic deaths.

Emphasizing that State Police will again be using radar and unmarked cars, Commissioner Lovern said all possible State Troopers will be on duty for the Christmas holidays. He said 12 persons might lose their lives during the holiday period. Last year 11 were killed.

"With Christmas less than a week away," Lovern said, "it's wise to prepare for your trip now."

According to the Commissioner, safe driving procedures are really no different around Christmas-time than at any other. He recommended driving according to conditions of the road and according to condition of the automobiles. "A posted speed limit of 40 miles per hour can be too fast if you're traveling on ice and snow—especially on a curve—and you do not have chains or snow tires," he said.

Other winter-driving tips offered by the Commissioner were:

1. Open the window slightly when driving on a long trip.
2. Keep your windshield clear all the time.
3. Check your headlights for proper angle of beam and use the low beam when driving while it is snowing. (This decreases reflection on the windshield).
4. Carry a bucket of sand in case you get bogged down in mud or snow.
5. Use snow tires or chains, if possible.
6. If you do not have snow tires or chains, use a back and forward rocking motion to get out of ruts.
7. Check electrical wiring for wear and tear.
8. If you find yourself in a skid, turn your front wheels in the direction of the skid. (Practice this until it becomes second nature to you, but practice when and where there is no traffic—NOT on the highways).
9. When you want to stop in a hurry, tap your brake gently but firmly with quick, successive taps or shift into a lower gear.

Holiday Hints For Safety Made Known

Your holiday buying may endanger your family's health if you fail to keep safety in mind. Here are a few tips on holiday safety issued by the Fulton County Health Department.

Be sure the Christmas tree you buy is fresh. A dry tree invites fire. Harry Barry, Fulton County Sanitarian, advises you to keep the tree outside until it's used. Then make a fresh saw cut across the base, so the tree can absorb water.

Place the tree securely in a steady holder containing water. Find a cool place away from any heater, TV, or curtains.

Make sure that the tree won't block an entrance or exit if it should topple.

Test your electric tree lights (never use lighted candles) before using. Don't let the light bulbs touch any greenery. Intense heat could cause a blaze.

Trim the tree with materials that won't burn. Avoid cotton, paper or other flammable materials.

Don't let metal foil icicles or tinsel touch a light socket or electrical cord.

If you have a metal tree, it is dangerous to use electric lights as trim. Faulty wiring could electrocute anyone touching the tree. Instead use colored revolving spotlights, above, below or to one side of the tree.

Curious children often find unexpected and dangerous uses for what parents supposed to be "harmless" toys. Harry Barry warns parents to "think a step ahead" of their children this Christmas.

Parents with children under five are specially cautioned against buying toys covered with paint containing lead. Be sure the toy is labeled: "Conforms to American Standard Z661-1955" for use on surfaces which might be chewed.
