White Squirrel Is Killed In Calloway County By Hunter

Ever see an albino (white) squirrel?

Urey Houser, who has an electrical shop in the Dycus Hardware store, was showing the white squirrel around Benton's Court Square last Friday.

The squirrel was killed on the West Fork of Clark's River in Calloway County by Brooks Doore, who lives close to Houser near old Backsburg off the Brevens-Mayfield Road.

Two or three years ago, a white squirrel was killed in the same section of Calloway but the carcass was not kept and few persons believed white squirrels existed in this section.

Attorney Joe Asher explained why the squirrel was white: "Somebody shot at it when it was a baby and scared it so badly its hair turned white."

Contract Awarded Perry To Build Courthouse Annex

Bids were opened last Saturday on the construction of the new annex to the Marshall County courthouse. Hal Perry was low bidder, with a price of $119,850.

Second low bidder was Charles E. Story, with a price of $121,000. Third was Seth E. Glem, of Paducah, $131,535.

Bids were opened by Fiscal Court at a special session held in the Circuit courtroom. Contractors and a handful of spectators attended the session.

Members of Fiscal Court had put aside $100,000 for the project, and had hoped the bids would stay close to that amount. Very little discussion was necessary for acceptance of the low bid.

The new courthouse will be two stories in height and will be approximately 30 by 90 feet. The new structure will be heated with natural gas. The old building will continue to be heated with a coal furnace. A new county jail with quarters for the jailer will occupy the top floor of the new annex.

In fact, the necessity for a new jail was a primary factor in Fiscal Court's decision to build the courthouse annex. Grand juries for some time have been reprimanding Fiscal Court on the condition of the present jail, located in the basement of the courthouse.

Construction work on the new annex started this week.

Lowly Tin Can Is Celebrating Its 150th Anniversary

LEXINGTON—This year, 1960, is the sesquicentennial of the tin can. The familiar metal container that we take so much for granted is celebrating its 150th birthday.

King George III granted a patent to Peter Durand in 1810 for his invention of the "tin canister." This one invention has had a big effect on the life of every one. Americans use more than 42 billion cans every year. More than 135 industries pack about 2,500 different products in metal cans.

Durand developed his "tin canister" as a container for preserved foods. Now, every 24 hours, people in the U. S. open over 60 million food cans. More than 3,500 canneries in this country use about 20 billion cans a year to process everything from Boston baked beans to chocolate covered ants.

Do you think you don't "live out of a tin can?" Just count the

Exchange Student Tells Rotary Of Swedish Customs

George Dalgren, a freshman student at Stockholm University, was guest speaker last Friday night at the Benton Rotary Club's weekly meeting.

Dalgren, an exchange student who has been visiting Paducah Rotary Club members for eight weeks, discussed both Swedish and American customs, dwelling largely on governmental functions.

He said American television commercials and programs amazed him most. In Sweden, he said,

TV is controlled by the government and there are no commercials. However, each TV owner must pay a fee of $3 per year on his TV set.

He also said that Americans go to church in greater numbers than Swedes. He said in Sweden, almost entirely a Lutheran nation, only 3 percent of the population attend church.

Dalgren will return to Sweden next week.

Mrs. Elsa Chandler Warren and Mrs. Gania Wyatt spent Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Holt in Hardin and attended church at the Methodist church.

Uncle Ned From Dogtown

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I was reading a piece last night in a magazine where this perferer of economics — whatever that it — claims Americans has developed a whole new field of thought in this country. He says we now got Government by the people, and the people, and for the farmer.

Farmers and ranchers has got to gamble their whole way through life, gamble again their wishes. Day by day and year by year, ever more they make a gamble.

Half the time the bottom has fell out of the market when he gets ready to sell. The boll weevil or the blight may get him or except that may be a flood, a drought, dust storm, or a wind-storm that ruins his crops. Too much rain can ruin his plantings, disease can get his hogs.

A farmer or rancher don't never know the odds, has no control over nothing, even over the price he'll get for his stuff. They is playing again the elements, insects, disease, and the Wall Street manipulators. I'd say off-hand that all gamblers is pikers alongside the farmer and rancher.

I'll bet this perferer wouldn't know a dirt farmer if he'd meet one in the street and I don't think he's be proper authority to write on the subject. He probably don't know anything about what he eats from meal to meal except that his old lady has to thaw it out afore she cooks it.

This feller didn't have a word in his piece about foreign aid, but the paper has carried the figures showing 4.7 per cent of our present budget goes for farm aid and 4-3 per cent for foreign aid.

In other words, the taxpayers in this country is spending about as much helping them foreign countries as they is on helping the farmer and rancher here at home. We've got Congressmen and Senators in Washington holler-ing fer more foreign aid and complaining about price supports fer the farmer and rancher. The two don't make sense, Mister Editor. If they'll cut out that 4.3 per cent fer foreigners I'll vote to cut out the 4-7 per cent fer farmers and ranchers.

That's a fair proposition and I aim to write my Senator and Congressman and ask fer their views on the proposition.

And besides, I don't think foreign aid is gitting us any friends no place in the world. The only kind of thanks we're gitting from them foreign countries living on our money is hearing 'em say "nice doggie" until they can find a rock.

Yours truly,
Uncle Ned.

Watermelons And Cantaloupes Can Be Frozen, Stored

Lexington—Go ahead and buy that big watermelon—even if your family is small. Watermelons are inexpensive now and, if the entire melon isn't eaten, you can freeze what's left. Yes, even melons can be put in the home freezer for later use, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The ripe watermelon flesh may be cut into cubes or balls, placed in freezer containers, covered with sirup and frozen. Cantaloupes also may be frozen successfully.

Think what a treat melon balls from your freezer would be for Thanksgiving or Christmas dinner. Cut the melon in half, remove the seeds and peel. Cut the peeled melon into cubes or cut in balls the size of large marbles, using one of the small spoon-

Pack the melon into freezer containers and cover with cold sirup, made of 1 cup sugar to 2 cups water. Leave enough head-

Kentucky Antiques Are Wanted For Waveland Museum

Lexington—Wanted: An adze, some harnessmaker's tools, apothecary's bottles, fireplace utensils, some dress bonnets.

Object: To put in a house as use items or furniture.

Retrospection? Not at all, since the house is the University of Kentucky's Waveland Museum featuring items of Kentucky life from pioneer days to just after the civil war.

Hambleton Tapp, curator of the museum, says that now that Waveland Museum house has been furnished and decorated with appropriate Kentuckiana items and relics, additional Kentuckiana items are needed for a new section of the museum, the slave quarters.

These quarters, in a building adjacent to the main house, are now being renovated. They will be furnished and stocked with typical Kentuckiana items to demonstrate, as Tapp says, of the early Kentuckians lived and worked, as well as guaranteeing preservation of valuable relics through the years.

Waveland was built late in the 18th century by a kinsman of Daniel Boone, a man named Bryan. The farm eventually was purchased by the University of Kentucky for an experimental farm.

Two years ago the house was turned into a Kentuckiana museum.

Tapp pointed out donated items are children's and tagged with the donor's name.

He can be reached at Waveland Museum, Higbee Mill Pike, Lexington, Ky., or through county agents.
