IC Aid Sought To Quell Strife In South Fulton

South Fulton's controversy-ridden City Council appears to be headed for another court ruling to settle a dispute concerning the city's legal counsel and more private attorney's fees incurred to arbitrate public affairs. Having fired long-time city attorney Charles Fields, four city councilmen have hired Union City attorney Richard Fry as the official legal advisor. At the same time, Mayor Milton Counce, who says the City Charter gives him the power to employ legal counsel, has appointed another Union City attorney, Sam Nailling to rule on South Fulton's legal matters. At Monday's meeting Councilmen John Bland, B. B. Jones, W. W. Claiborne and John Freeman referred their legal questions to Fry, while Counce sought advice from Sam Nailling.

John Reeks, a South Fulton businessman petitioned Mayor Counce to refer the controversy to Obion County Circuit Judge Ethel Morris for a ruling. No action was taken on Reeks' motion since another motion was on the floor, which was not voted upon or rescinded. With an overflow crowd in attendance, and the usual confusion and animosity prevailing at the meetings, reporters could not determine the nature of the "lost in the shuffle" motion. Three of the councilmen who appear to have formed an anti-Counce faction are employees of the Illinois Central Railroad. The other member of the anti-faction, John Freeman, is a retired Illinois Central employee.

Meanwhile the $200 legal fee submitted by George Cloy, for private counsel to Councilmen Bland, Jones and O. L. Lamasus has not been paid by the City of South Fulton as a public debt. Although the check has been written, Mayor Counce has refused to sign it, indicating that it is a private indebtedness of the three men, and cannot be paid from public funds. The fee was incurred in an attempt to settle O. L. Lamasus as councilman to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Arthur Metheny. The Lamasus appointment was vetoed by Mayor Counce. Judge Morris subsequently ruled that Counce had no legal right to veto the appointment.

The News was reliably informed Wednesday that citizens on both sides of the border have appealed to Illinois Central officials to bring a halt to the apparent hostility among the railroad workers on the Council to the South Fulton City Administration and many of its appointed employees.

"The Illinois Central has been the backbone of the economy of the twin cities for many years," a prominent civic leader told the News Wednesday. "They have done everything possible to bring a good name and industry to our city. The constant squabble in South Fulton, with resulting headlines everywhere, undoes in an evening's meeting, what the IC has taken years to accomplish," he added.

Breathitt Sets Saturday For Library Meet

Governor Edward T. Breathitt has set Saturday, May 9, as the date for the first Governor's Conference on Kentucky Libraries. The one-day conference will be held at the Holiday Inn in Frankfort beginning at 10 a. m.

In addition to the Governor, who will speak on planning for better library and bookmobile services in Kentucky, Miss Margaret Wilks, State librarian, will present the State Department of Libraries' plan for using Federal funds under the recent Public Library Service and Construction Act.

How the time has flown. Though it doesn't quite seem like we moved here yesterday, when I stop to think about it, it doesn't seem like seventeen years either. And it doesn't to other people! The other day a lady came in from Dresden to talk to us about some printing. Said she: "How is your little boy?" I remarked that he was fine and she remarked that the last time she was in the office was shortly after we came here and we were sort of anticipating the arrival of our first born. About that time, R. Paul, (and incidentally he wants to be called Paul now) walked in and I introduced him to the lady from Dresden. She was shocked to see a living, breathing, six foot boy that belongs to us. I was glad Mary Jo didn't come in about that time. I don't think she could have witnessed the shock. Sadly, for us, not for them, they're not children anymore. At least they don't think so!

Wouldn't it be nice to look backwards over these seventeen years to think that our children are growing, our communities are growing and that our friendships have grown, without end. If we were in any other business but newspapering the latter group might be commensurate with the

Morse Hamilton Well And Happy; Writes Of Interesting Experiences In Europe

Editor's Note: Concern for the safety of Morse Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hamilton of Union City, grew hourly in the area a few weeks ago when an American identified only as a Mr. Hamilton was reported one of several Americans killed in a plane crash in a section of Italy where Mr. Hamilton had last been reported. It was several days after the crash before the Red Cross could assure his parents he was not a passenger on the plane. Mr. Hamilton heard of the concern displayed here and wrote the following letter to the Messenger.

Morse's father is an employee of Ferry-Morse Seed Co. Here's the letter:

The rumor of my death in the Mt. Vesuvius air crash and the subsequent and relieving news that I'm really still well alive have just reached me here in Europe. I want to thank you for having thrown open your wire services to assist my parents. For them the first rumor must have too closely compared with those briefly worded telegrams of 20 years ago: "Temporarily missing in action."

Indeed I have been in action, as I am a lighting man for one of Italy's leading theater companies. Together with four colleagues, 10 tons of stage equipment, at 11-12 hours a day, in Alpine snow and hot yellow Mediterranean sun we have put up Peter Howard's brilliant comedy "Through the Garden Wall" over 100 times in 40 different Italian cities in the last three months. Lots of action, hard work, but great fun!

This play of Peter Howard had been a big success here, Pina Renzi and the Pavese brothers, favorites in Italy, move their as-ciences from tears to stitches as only the Italians can. Moreover, the author chose a theme that is especially relevant for this country. The gist of the play is simple: A wall divides two families, divides two youngsters in love; Dr. Gold enters with the secret of going through the wall. But the significance is deep and provocative.

A wall divides the world. It runs through Italy and divides the strong Partito Comunista from the Christian Democrats. It runs inside parties. It separates the conservative Catholics from the liberals. The Moscow Communists from the Maoists. The industry North from the backward South. Perhaps it is because the play deals with an issue so vital to Italy today that it is so popular. They come on motor-scooters

Festival Official Makes Report On Washington Trips; Programs Aimed Toward Latin-American Friendships Told State Department

Mr. Joe Treas, President Int. Banana Festival, Inc. Fulton, Ky., - Tenn.

Dear Joe:

Having just returned from my second trip to Washington on two missions requested by our local Banana Festival Association, I am herewith submitting this report to you, the officers and directors of the Festival Association and the people of the twin cities as a "progress report" for this year's Festival.

First, let me say, that I have lived in several communities in these United States, all of them good and progressive ones. Yet, each time I return to our community my pride at being a local citizen multiplies many times over for being a small part of the working force of these twin cities. My unlimited pride stems from the fact that each day, each month, each year our reputation keeps growing as a community that is small enough to work together as a winning team, and big enough to tackle any job that makes our community a bigger and better place in which to live.

From the hallowed corridors of Capitol Hill, to the State Department, to the Pan-American Union, and in the countries to the South of us, people are getting to know us. Perhaps they have known for a long time those statistics contained in the World Almanac. But as a result of our tireless efforts to make life worth living for all 7000 of us and more, they look westward to a community where all its citizens are as one... sharing the task and the work load before us.

In the event that you chose to make this report public, from here on I think it apropos to write the report in the third person "we," for as you well know the trips to Washington were not to see what I could do for the Festival this year, but what WE might do to expand the activities of our Festival. The hope is, as you know to put together a program that would amalgamate the "coincidence of interests" between our community and those banana-producing countries whose exports have a bearing on our local economy primarily, and the economy of the United States generally.

I humbly appreciate the confidence the board has placed in me to entrust me with such an awesome responsibility. I have done my best.

Perhaps the general public would like to know that, following last year's highly successful Banana Festival, it was the consensus of the Banana Festival Board to project the program this year with the view toward doing what little our community could to making real friendships with our Central America neighbors.

In spite of the geographic distance that separates us, Fulton and the Central American countries where bananas are grown, are marvelously closer in feeling. Winds that bend the banana trees in Honduras are felt in the empty train yards in Fulton. Fog that settles over the lower Mississippi and tie up river traffic below the New Orleans port mean quiet nights at Fulton. Economic and political strife that might develop in any particular area hampering the manufacture of ice that is made in what Fulton people believe, is the world's largest onestory ice plant.

These facts have made Fultonians know that although their chief "import" is just six days away by transportation, it is perhaps years, maybe centuries away in understanding.

In this respect then, as the Board agreed, it was decided that the only way to learn whether we could contribute our little share to the foreign policy program of the Latin-Americas was to discuss the matter with the State Department in Washington. Our first mission was two-fold. First, it was necessary to know whether the State Department considered our proposed program a help or a hindrance to Latin-American foreign relations and secondly whether or not some of the programs discussed at our meetings could be undertaken with the working force in our twin cities.

It was with great encouragement that we returned from the first trip. Not only did the State Department feel that our program this year, with the Latin-American theme was commendable, but made many suggestions to us as to how it could be put into motion, implemented, and perhaps financed. Larry Metcalfe, public relations director of the National Banana Association was of inestimable assistance in making these first early contacts with us in Washington. And Ralph Lally,

World's Largest Spanish Class Goal Of Festival Planners; "Students" Learning

"Habla Usted Espanol?"

Si, un poco, but have you ever heard Latin-Americans speak with a Southern drawl, you all? Well, the time is not too far off when some 7000 people, give or take a few hundred babes in arms, will be saying right often, como esta usted, honey chile?

Learning Spanish is part of the Banana Festival's plan to conduct the world's largest Spanish class in preparation for a hospitable welcome for visitors from those Latin-American countries who have been invited to attend the 1964 event from October 1 through 3. Tuesday morning was registration day for the "students," (every resident of Fulton and South Fulton) who are urged to join the radio and newspaper classes to be broadcast and published each Tuesday and Thursday until Festival time.

Mrs. Mary Nelle Wright and Jose Otano, a former resident of Cuba began their first air class over WFUL Tuesday at 9:30 a. m. Otano is a teacher and a scholar, besides being a lot of other fine things, so Mary Nelle is sort of going to be the interpreter for the air classes.

The lessons will be published in the Fulton Daily News each Tuesday and Thursday. The News will carry both lessons in its weekly issue.

As is indicated in a story elsewhere in this issue, diligent efforts are being made to have this year's festival program a program of good neighborliness between this community and those banana-producing countries whose exports wend their way to Fulton. The program will be on a people-to-people level, so the first step to friendship is to remove the language barrier. And that's exactly what the Festival group intends to do from now on, in various ways.

Joe Treas, president of the Festival Association said that the Spanish classes can be much fun, and a great help at the same time.

WANTS TO LEARN!
Miss Mattie Milner of Hickman subscribed to the News this week. She says she wants the paper so she can get those Spanish lessons.

He urges all citizens, in both communities to absorb as much of the Spanish course as possible. The lessons on the air and in the newspapers will be simple. "Clip them and be faithful about your (Continued on page ten)"

Joi Lanes Reopen For Summer Play May 31; New Leagues Forming

Jet Lanes in Fulton will be closed for a three-week interval beginning Sunday May 10, reopening Sunday May 31.

The close-down interval will give the bowling lanes an opportunity to completely refinish all alleys, and give employees a summer vacation.

On Sunday May 31 the lanes will reopen for their summer bowling league schedules. For additional information and times see announcement elsewhere in today's paper.

Childrens' Day At Rotary Club Great Affair

Tuesday was "children's Day" at the Fulton Rotary Club, with each Rotarian bringing a child, and featured a musical program in which several of the children of the members participated.

The musical program, arranged by Mrs. Montelle Tripp, featured the following seven numbers, which according to members, was "the best musical program of its kind they had ever heard":

Piano solo, "Boating Song" by Walt Sensing, son of Rotarian Don Sensing.

Piano duet, "The Blacksmith Song" by Tom and Jim Powell, sons of Rotarian Flynn Powell.

Vocal and instrumental trio, "The Cat Came Back" by the Kiddle Katz, composed of Carmen Gardner, Bonita Burrow and Marilyn McKendree.

Piano solo, "Havana Holiday" by Meredith Miller, daughter of Rotarian Rodney Miller.

Piano solo, "Minuet in G" by Diane Foster.

Vocal and instrumental solo by Teresa Pennington, who also acted as mistress of ceremonies.

Piano duet, "Kitten on the Keys" by Rotarian Paul Westpheling and daughter Mary Jo.

Visiting Rotarians included David Knox, Martin; Harvey Koonce, Carbondale, Ill.; Bob Carman, Mayfield; M. F. Sanford, Clinton.

MEETING TIME!

The South Fulton PTA will meet tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 at the school. All members are urged to attend.

State Government Has Deluge Of Summer-time Applicants; Senator Brand May Have Answer

State Senator George Brand of Mayfield did not favor us, as he did the Hickman Courier, with a letter to the editor commenting on Governor Edward T. Breathitt's policy on summer employment of students in State operated facilities. But because we are in Senator Brand's senatorial district we are going to reprint the letter to the Courier, even if we are not one of Brand's current pen pals.

Here is the letter:

Dear Ro.

I see in the papers today where Governor Breathitt has laid down an ultimatum that no students can have summer jobs. Some more of his economic progress, I presume.

How cruel and stupid can one get—the average school boy or girl can work for the state and earn about $200 per month a total of $600 for the summer which could be the difference in getting or not getting an education.

This is the same crowd in Frankfort claiming a great interest in education but really more interested in taxes, rewriting the constitution and multi-million dollar bond issues.

Your friend,

George G. Brand

First District State Senator
Hickman—Fulton—Graves—
Carlisle—and Marshall Counties

It appears fairly obvious that Senator Brand is more than a little miffed at the Breathitt Administration. Were this not so, how could an allegedly intelligent businessman label as "cruel and stupid" the State's inability to hire every boy and girl who needs summer employment either for education, vacation or mad-money. Anybody with average intelligence knows that the growing desire of young people to work summers is a national problem of the greatest proportions. The Federal government has taken more than passing interest in the matter and is doing everything possible to find more jobs for those young people willing and able to work.

We have been reliably informed that Kentucky State government has more than 5000 applications on file for the few hundred jobs available in parks, highway, tourist and travel and many other departments. But State government is not alone in its receipt of a deluge of applications from students for summer employment. Here in Fulton, the railroad, Ferry-Morse Seed Company, the mills, and other plants have received more requests for summer employment than can be filled in a dozen summers.

Surely George Brand's busy and popular Dutch Mill Restaurant and Motel has received more than the usual requests for summer time jobs from boys and girls. And alas, here is the bright spot for West Kentucky young people in the pursuit of money for that hoped for and longed for education. George Brand will hire you, whether he needs your help or not.

As is indicated in the letter above, Senator Brand wants young people to make money during the summer, no matter whose pocket-book it flattens. So-o-o-o-o-o, it is our suggestion that any student who is unable to get employment with Kentucky's State government, apply in person to George Brand, owner and operator of Dutch Mill Restaurant and Motel, Mayfield Kentucky. Although Mr. Brand says that a student can work for the State, at about $600 for the summer, whether there are jobs or not, it should also apply that they can work for Dutch Mill Restaurant and Motel, whether there are jobs or not. Knowing how keenly, Mr. Brand feels about young people and education, he shouldn't mind one bit spending his own money for this worthy cause, no more than he minds spending our tax money for employment that is non-existent.

Senator Brand makes it abundantly clear that he is not interested in revising Kentucky's age-old Constitution; nor a bond issue to create more roads, more schools, better salaries and more industry that would ultimately create more jobs for these young people. He's interested in writing ridiculous letters that have no basis of fact.

Governor Breathitt's statement DID NOT say that no student can have summer employment with State Government. As a matter of fact Governor Breathitt's statement made it possible for more needy students to get employment. Breathitt said that relatives of high ranking State government officials would not be hired for the summer so that more jobs would be available for just plain, ordinary taxpayers.

It is regrettable that the Hickman Courier does not circulate widely in the other four counties of Senator Brand's constituency. Even the taxpayers that Senator Brand seeks to defend would notice from his letter that it was not written in a lucid frame of mind.

And we regret too, that the Fulton News does not circulate more widely in the other four counties. For we'd like more of Mr. Brand's constituents to know that we have a Senator who has an alarming disregard for our tax money and an even less regard for the programs of progress for Kentucky that will ultimately benefit those students Mr. Brand is allegedly defending.

If South Fulton Folks Aren't Tired Of City Government Fiasco, We're Weary Of Reporting

The South Fulton City Council staged another situation comedy at the South Fulton City Hall Monday night. It is fairly obvious that the residents must be enjoying the slap-stick performances of the seven characters, for the meeting was attended by a "standing room only" crowd.

If the law-abiding, clear thinking, conscientious citizens are not fed up with the adverse reviews received by their alleged city government leaders, one thing is for sure, we'd sick to the gills of having to report such almost illiterate proceedings of the council meetings.

Since the first of the year the two factions in the South Fulton Council have knifed and clawed at each other so much that the real reason for which they were elected (to represent the people) is only a by-product of the meetings. At first we thought that the ranting, raving and squabbling was the normal side effects of a power battle.

We have come to the conclusion now that struggle for control of the city is too good to hope for. The real thing that the good people of South Fulton should pray for is that the attention of some movie producer is not called to the South Fulton fiasco. What a motion picture title that would be... "It's A Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad, City."

Miss Margaret Lee Harrison was guest of honor at a delightful party given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Yewell Harrison, at their home in Highlands, celebrating her seventh birthday. Indoor games were enjoyed in the play room. The guest list included: Beverly Burgess, Katherine Pettit, Jackie Edwards, Peggy Hall, Peggy Adams, Jo Nell Wallace, Becky Wiseman, Becky Edwards, Charles Blinford, Jerry Pigue, Leroy Sawyer, Bobby Boas, Emmett Reeds and Gaylon Vaden. Nancy Adams and Miriam Watt sent gifts, but did not attend.

Mrs. Clifton Workman announces the marriage of her sister, Miss Pearl Smith of near Cayce, to Mr. James W. Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Walker, Maple Avenue, on May 2. Rev. R. D. Martin officiated at the ceremony, which was performed in the Baptist parsonage. The groom will enter the armed forces following his graduation from Fulton High School this month.

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of the Civil War day by day in Kentucky, as reviewed by the Kentucky Civil War Commission
By JOE JORDAN

One hundred years ago this week, county meetings were held throughout Kentucky to name delegates to a state convention of the Union Democratic Party, set for May 25 at Louisville. From newspaper reports about the county meetings, it was evident that the ones who referred to themselves as "Conservatives"—those opposed to President Lincoln's re-election—would easily control the state convention.

Those who favored Lincoln's re-election called themselves "Unconditional Union" men. By their opponents they were called "Radicals." Actually they were Republicans, for they were supporting a man who had been elected on the Republican ticket in 1860. But in 1864 "Republican" was an exceedingly unpopular word in Kentucky, and Lincoln's adherents shunned it.

The Unconditional Union men were greatly outnumbered at the meetings. At Georgetown, after the Conservative Union Democrats had named delegates to the state convention and had endorsed Maj. Gen. George B. McClellan for the Democratic nomination for President, a "Radical" gained the floor. He said so far as he could observe he and one other were the only Lincoln supporters present; he announced that they would hold a separate Unconditional Union meeting that night at the other men's office.

The Owensboro Monitor, reporting a Conservative victory there, commented: "There never was more unity among the people of Davies County than exists at this time. Probably there are not fifty men in the County of Davies who honor the Abolition policy that now prevails."

At Danville the Lincoln supporters had advertised that a separate meeting of their own would be held at the courthouse by the Unconditional Union men. The Danville Monitor reported: "Although considerable notice had been given and a great deal of drumming done to secure a large attendance, there was a most signal failure in this respect. By far the larger number in attendance were attracted by curiosity to see what such a meeting would do."

At Lexington, Mr. Lincoln's supporters had conducted a separate meeting earlier. On the day set for the county convention, Conservatives overflowed the hall and the Lexington Observer and Reporter said hundreds were turned away. "It may safely be assumed," the paper's editor wrote, "that nine-tenths of the people—and we have no doubt the same relative proportion exists throughout the Commonwealth—are fixed and unalterable in their opinions in opposition alike to the rebellion, which seeks the overthrow of the government... and to that equally radical revolution which seeks to subvert institutions rendered sacred and secure by that glorious Constitution which constitutes us one people." Here, too, resolutions favored McClellan as the Democratic nominee to run against President Lincoln that fall.

Please don't think this terrible noise is confined to just the downtown area. It is heard throughout all of Fulton and South Fulton. It is not only disturbing, it's disgusting, disgraceful and shameful for men who take so much pride in being called engineers. Some towns have noise ordinances.

Your editorial was wonderful except for one mistake. You put it in "The News." We all know about the noise, why don't you let Chicago know?

National Publication Overwhelmed At Magnitude, Color Of Festival

Page 3 The Fulton News, Thursday, May 7, 1964

The Banana Festival scored again in some massive publicity for the twin cities. In this month's Pure-Pak News, a national trade magazine the festival got three full pages of pictures in color as well as a great news story. Attractively printed, the feature is worth your reading. Here it is:

"I'm in Fulton, Kentucky, and they're hanging bananas all over town." This startling phone message came from Ken White, Pure-Pak sales representative.

"Oh?" we responded, did you want us to stop them or . . . ? He interrupted us with the explanation that the World's First International Banana Festival was in progress. This restored our confidence in his heretofore keen mental processes but a few pertinent question marks still loomed before us. If there has to be a Banana Festival, why Fulton, Kentucky? And, more important, what has it got to do with dairymen?

The next morning we were driving through the twin cities of Fulton, Kentucky, and South Fulton, Tennessee, combined population 7,000, where the bananas in question, free for the taking, were being hung on parking meters down the main streets by employees of the Pure Milk Company.

"Fulton has been planning an attraction of this kind for years," W. P. Burnette, Pure Milk manager, later told us. "The Fultons are the 'Banana Crossroads of America' and we want more people to know about it."

The Fultons have been a major distribution point for bananas for years. In the past decade more than 250,000 carloads or 5 1-2 billion pounds of bananas have been processed through the Fultons before shipment to markets all over the nation. The bananas come in via ship from Latin America to New Orleans, then by rail cars to Fulton, located on a rail hub. The carloads of bananas are either reloaded or heated, depending on the weather.

The week of November 4-9 was crammed with dozens of "banana-oriented" activities, including daily banana breakfasts, dances, carnivals, talent contests, a hootenanny, selection of Miss International Banana Princess and an inevitable Banana Eating Contest. But, the final day of the Festival was the day. At 6:30 a. m. Donna Axum, Miss America 1964 toured the Fultons after having been given the keys to the cities.

After lunch, hundreds of bandsmen armed with tubas, drums, bagpipes—milled around a traffic jam of parade floats. It would appear neglectful of W. P. Burnette that, while other Festival officials were busily engaged in guiding these ponderous floats into formation, he was making a pudding. But, we hasten to explain that this pudding was the largest in the world, weighing 2,000 pounds, and that Mr. Burnette and his brother, N. W. Burnette, Pure Milk owners, had their own problems deciding how to get this monster dessert on their own float.

The pudding was poured into a specially made plexiglass bowl and consisted of vanilla wafers, Pure Milk's delicious boiled custard and, surprise—bananas.

(Boiled custard is a popular drink treat in this area, similar to eggnog. Pure Milk Company pioneered its secret formula over twenty years ago. Every year 40,000 quarts of this almost unbelievably delicious custard are sold in cartons by this 100 percent Pure-Pak equipped dairy. Major distribution covers about eighteen counties, but it's also shipped as far as Mercer, California, New Orleans, Miami and Chicago.)

A fork lift truck picked up one end of the pudding at a side door and dragged it down a treacherous ramp toward the waiting float. Alas, the fork proved too short to lift the pudding. Boards, bars, belling wire, bones and muscle finally got it off the ground. As the rising semi-liquid mass of nutrients threatened to burst its container and flood the city, we tried to reassure the exhausted Burnettes that, in any case, the ensuing publicity would be monumental. Disconsolate, they countered, "A Sky Divers club has already volunteered to parachute into it. We want people to eat lots of pudding, but we don't expect them to drown themselves in it." Our retreat to higher ground proved unwarranted cowardice, as the pudding at long last was gently lowered onto the float.

For reasons too obvious for explanation, we were pleased that this and a second Pure Milk float both displayed a giant Pure-Pak carton, one publicizing boiled custard, and the other—homogenized milk. "Product-brand identification" was the succinct and wise comment of David W. Phelps, Pure Milk sales manager.

Armed forces jet formations zoomed overhead and the first brass band struck up "When The Saints Come Marching In," signaling the start of the three-mile-long extravaganza. Posted on a rooftop, we had an exciting view of the whole procession—colorful floats that would do justice to any big city spectacle—representing clubs, businesses, fraternal organizations—a cross-section of the Fultons. Two beautiful girls, Sue Ann Godderidge, National Dairy Princess, and Martha Ellen Truitt, Miss Tennessee, graced Pure Milk's dairy floats. And marching bands, dozens of them—school bands; Army, Navy, Marine National Guard Bands; cornets, drums, cymbals—all played the eye-watering tunes that make you want to salute. (It seems we heard "Dixie" more than once; no doubt an unnoticed duplication in the programming.)

At about 4:30 the parade was over and crowds gathered around the parked Pure Milk float for a free pudding. The first cupful was given to Miss America by the Dairy Princess amid the sporadic splashing of flashbulbs and the whirring of TV network newscast cameras.

Hours later, as we stole out of Fulton, we passed Dave Phelps, still dishing out pudding in the dark from the float that had won first prize.

Over the years the world has been blessed with the World's Largest Stove, the Largest Hairpin, the Largest Whiskey Bottle, etc. Like these, Pure Milk's Largest Pudding was a promotional gimmick, but with one important difference. It was completely functional, giving the dairy a great chance to have thousands of potential customers sample their product.

DUKEDOM NEWS

By Mrs. Hillman Westbrook

Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Woodruff are vacationing in Florida and were joined this week by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hastings and Roger for a few days of deep sea fishing.

Raymond Glover was hospitalized this past week, the result of stepping on a nail.

Mrs. Paul Hawks passed away on Saturday after a lengthy illness. Funeral was Monday at Jackson Brothers Chapel, with burial in Oak Grove cemetery. She is survived by her husband; two sons, Randall and Charles, now stationed in Texas with the armed forces; a daughter, Brenda, and her mother, Mrs. Tom Wheelis.

Mrs. Lora Westbrook of Dresden was guest teacher of the Christian Fellowship Class at Good Springs Sunday and brought a very helpful and timely lesson on "Christian Responsibility in the Public Schools."

Mr. and Mrs. Randall Brown are the parents of a new boy, born Monday morning.

Mrs. Tom Harris continues to improve, following surgery in Memphis.

Clarence Caahon was taken to Jones Hospital Sunday by Jackson Brothers ambulance.

Folks in Dukedom are happy to see Forrest Darnell able to be out and among them again, after his serious illness during the winter.

This week is being observed in many churches as Family Week and emphasis is given to the qualities that make a home what it was meant to be. Always one of these qualities has been honor for parents. God gave this command without any reservations or exemptions. It does not say parents must be worthy, it is not predicated on their goodness or even on their treatment of their children. It is an absolute. "Honor thy father and thy mother." My authority for these statements? Genesis 9:20-25.

All Area Teachers Invited To Civil Defense Adult Education Teacher Training Institute

A Civil Defense Adult Education Teacher Training Institute has been scheduled at Hickman Elementary School, Hickman, Kentucky, beginning on May 5, Tuesday evening at 7:00 (CST) PM, and continuing on the nights of May 6, May 12 and the 13th.

The purpose of this Institute is to train and qualify teachers to offer Civil Defense Adult Education Classes in the communities in which they live.

Any person holding a teacher's certificate, who is interested in receiving this course of instruction and becoming qualified as a Civil Defense Instructor, is invited and urged to attend.

Qualified teachers who conduct and offer the prescribed 12-hour course of instruction to adult classes will be compensated at the rate of $60.00 per class.

The course of instruction deals with the techniques of individual and family survival in this Thermo Nuclear Age and includes such subjects as: conventional weapons; the effects of nuclear weapons; chemical and biological warfare; bio-medical aspects of radiation; national, state and local planning for emergencies, the preparation and stocking of shelters; evacuation, etc.

Teachers who have already received training may wish to attend any or all sessions as refresher training.

Films and instructional materials will be furnished in adequate supply and without cost.

All interested teachers in the vicinity of Fulton County and neighboring counties are urged to attend.

P-TA Groups Install Leaders At Meetings

The following officers were installed at the Terry-Norman PTA meeting April 15: Mrs. George Brock, president; Mrs. Robert Rudolph, vice president; Mrs. Joe Sanders, secretary and Mrs. Frank Welch, treasurer.

On April 16, installed at the West Fulton PTA were: Mrs. John Covington, president; Mrs. Doyle Shupe, 1st vice-president; Mrs. W. O. Beard, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. L. M. McBride, secretary and Mrs. Bill Fenwick, treasurer.

Highway Department Extends Deadline

Numerous requests concerning the Highway Department's new technical training program for high school graduates has prompted the personnel division to extend the deadline for applying from April 15 to May 11.

The program, an eight-week training period covering mathematics, surveying, drawing, materials and related subjects, is designed to train highway engineering helpers. It will be held from June 8 to July 31, 1964.

The department will pay for tuition, and trainees will pay for room, food and supplies out of a salary of $230 a month. The trainees will receive the same salary after graduation. Thereafter, raises will be based on merit.

SUDANGRASS STILL BEST

Piper sudangrass, a summer annual much used for Kentucky pasture, still is the recommended variety.

Last year Piper was compared with seven other sudangrass varieties or sudangrass-sorghum crosses. Piper not only yielded best but was more disease-resistant and recovered more quickly after clipping (simulated grazing).

TERMITE SWARMING

Why do termites swarm? As the weather gets warmer, the temperature and humidity changes reach termite colonies in the soil. Some of the winged reproductive termites in each colony leave in swarms to seek living quarters elsewhere.

Termites live in the soil and the workers leave the colonies by way of earthen tubes, to feed on wood. They get essential moisture from the soil, to which they return constantly. For this reason, poisoning the soil is the most effective control measure. Termites are often mistaken for winged ants. Ants, however, have thin waists and two pairs of unequal-size wings while termites have thick waists and their wings are all of equal size.

4-H PEACE CORPS NEEDS VOLUNTEERS

If you have a farm background and experience in 4-H Club or FFA-FHA work, you may qualify for the 4-H Peace Corps, according to the National 4-H Club Foundation, which administers these projects under contract with the Peace Corps. Further information on the 4-H Peace Corps is available at your county Extension office or from the 4-H Peace Corps Project, National 4-H Club Foundation, 7100 Connecticut Ave., Washington, D. COMPANY'S COMIN' as the President of the United States, Lyndon B. Johnson, and the First Lady approach the hillside home of Tom Fletcher near Inez. Fletcher, his wife, and eight children received their callers on the front porch during Johnson's tour to Martin and Johnson counties. The Fletcher home is one of 1,603 Eastern Kentucky dwellings improved by non-repayable grants of $1,000 or less since November 1963. The program is administered by the Farmers Home Administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Many of the recipients qualified for the grants and loan programs were referred to the Federal agency by the Kentucky Department of Economic Security's field staff.

Down on the Farm

With JIM PRYOR

Agricultural Agent, Illinois Central Railroad

TREE PLANTING TIME

Kentucky forests today cover approximately 40 percent of the land area. This timber gives full time employment to over 20,000 people and well over 100,000 receive part time work in wood processing. The major problem now is to keep our woodland in desirable species and to replant old eroded land areas to trees. We say reforestation because at one time most of the farm land was in timber, and much of this land should never have been cleared.

Now comes the method of planting and down through the years this has been one of the main reasons for limited planting. Planting by hand is still accomplished by hand effectively, but survival is low where experienced planters haven't demonstrated how the job should be done. This article is not the place for a tree, planting demonstration, but I will give you a few points on some problems. The main cause of young trees mortality being high is that the person planting either not having a deep enough trench or dry weather. Now we can not do anything about the weather but we can correct the depth of planting, and care of trees before and during planting. When you receive trees for your farm and cannot plant them within 5 days, trench them in and wet them. The directions on the package will tell you how. If you will be able to plant in a day or two, store them in a cool dark place and wet the roots keeping them wet until they are planted. When the time comes for planting, NEVER LET THE ROOTS DRY! Once the roots hairs dry, the tree is dead and will not survive, even though the top of the tree still looks green.

In planting, make the trench or hole large enough for easy planting and be sure to pack the soil firmly with a sharp kick of the heel. If the root of the tree is too long for the planting tool, cut the bottom two or three inches to insure proper planting. If the tree is planted and the root turns back or 'J's' as we say in planting terms, it will live possibly a year or two then die. ALWAYS plant from a bucket of water or wet moss.

In order to help correct some of the planting ills and assist farmers in planting trees, the Illinois Central Railroad built a light weight mechanical tree planter. The first planter was built in 1946 and planted up to 1200 trees per hour. It is easily pulled by a farm tractor or with a three point hitch. The two man crew can plant in one hour, what it would take two men all day to plant properly. The mechanical planter will not plant gullies so there is still a little work to be done by hand. The same rules apply to handling trees with the mechanical planter as in hand work. The main difference is the fact that the planting depth at the end of the day is the same as when the first tree was set in the early morning. This gives us a more uniform stand of trees and is indeed much easier on the farmer doing the work.

Plans for the Illinois Central design tree planter may be obtained from my office here at Mayfield, Kentucky, free of charge. If you or your group is interested in building a planting machine, I will give you a planter to use as a pattern to go by during the off season.

This season of the year brings many useless and destructive fires. Many of them are deliberate at the first sign of spring. They not only get out of control and destroy much property, but they are also damaging where they are intended to do some good. No matter how much good one might expect when setting grass on fire in order to destroy last years growth that usually is determined as useless. This destruction cost everyone in many ways.

The burning of fields in the spring before plowing has become practice for many years for some people. This act has left some scars that will never heal, and turned into ash valuable organic matter and humus. These two items cannot be purchased in a bag of 10-10-10.

Shall we look into the field burning business and see some of the reasons it should be stopped. First of all if a fire gets out of hand, it becomes a possible killer. Only last week in our neighboring state of Illinois a man was doing his spring burning and when it was all over 190 acres had come under the flame. Had it not been for fire towers and fire wardens, the loss would have been much greater. Just what do we accomplish in burning a field anyway? The weeds are not killed as many think, in fact the fire seems to scarify the weed seed and next season there is a really big crop of weeds. Vegetation is the only method nature has in the conservation of the top soil, and rebuilding it for the future. When we burn a field we not only destroy the cover that could be turned under for added fertility but a very hot fire does destroy much of the fertility in the very top of the soil in the form of organic matter and humus. These two make the soil hold more water, make the soil warm early in the spring and improve the texture. Burning takes much of this away.

If we adopt an improved farming program and practice sound gardening and yard keeping, we can stop the destruction by fire.

When you feel burning is necessary, take a few simple precautions. First pick a day that the weather man says will not be windy. Next notify your fire warden and make sure the fire danger is low

REMEMBER WHEN?
Purely Personal: Nothing brings on more nostalgia in springtime than thoughts of what we did as a youngster 40 years ago... a hike into the hills above Spirit Lake, Idaho... a picnic on the banks of the Columbia River near the now inundated Wallula, Washington, and looking southward at the snow-capped Mt. Hood... the first spring dip in the old swimming hole... berry...

Central Homemakers Enjoy Buffet Dinner At Home Of Mrs. W. B. Sowell, 15 Present

Fifteen Central Homemakers enjoyed a buffet dinner in the home of Mrs. W. B. Sowell this week. The meal was prepared by the hostess and Mrs. Forest McMurry and consisted of baked cheese casserole, golden glow salad, marinated green vegetables and angel food cake topped with peaches, folded in whipped cream and marshmallows.

The leaders gave the group an actual demonstration of the preparation of the baked cheese casserole during the morning and explained how to plan, prepare and serve this well-balanced, inexpensive meal.

Mrs. Paul Garrigan was welcomed as a new member.

Four-Point filling station was chosen as the site for the club's dairy window exhibit in June.

Mrs. Luther Clark was appointed chairman of this committee, along with Miss Alice Sowell and Mrs. Bret Prather.

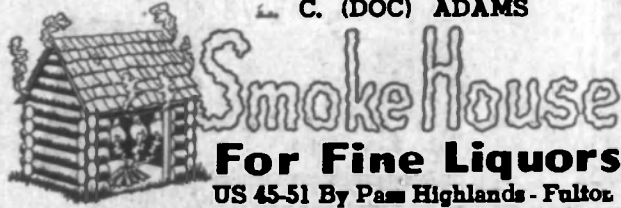

Mrs. J. P. Wilson completed the day's program with a report on the recent State Homemakers Convention in Lexington, which she attended as the club's delegate.

The May meeting will be in the home of Mrs. J. P. Wilson.

GOOD BUYS!

THE COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY THE SECRETARY OF STATE FRANKFORT, KENTUCKY

Official Certification of Candidates For Nomination at May 26th, 1964 Primary

To All County Court Clerks Of Kentucky:

I, Thelma L. Stovall, Secretary of State for the Commonwealth of Kentucky, do certify that the following are the names and places of residence of the persons who are candidates for nomination by the respective political parties for the offices of Representatives in Congress; and Judge of the Court of Appeals, in the Seventh District; Whose notifications and declarations are by law required to be filed with the Secretary of State, and which candidates are to be voted for at the Primary Election to be held on Tuesday, May 26, 1964.

In the preparation of the official ballots to be used at said Primary Election, the County Court Clerks will cause to be printed on the respective political party ballots, namely, the Democratic and Republican Primary ballots, the names of candidates herein-after certified. On the Democratic primary ballots, the County Court Clerks will cause the names of the Democratic candidates to be printed in the order herein certified; and on the Republican primary ballots, they will cause the names of the Republican candidates to be printed in the order herein certified.

On each ballot after the name of each candidate, the Clerks will cause a small square to be placed in which the voter may indicate the candidate of his choice. At the head of each ballot shall be printed "OFFICIAL PRIMARY BALLOT", together with the proper party name and emblem; on the back of each ballot shall be printed "OFFICIAL PRIMARY BALLOT", the date of the election and the facsimile of the signatures of the Clerk who caused the ballot to be printed.

There shall also be printed on the back of each ballot a blank line followed by the words "Election Officer." Ballots must be signed by one of the election officers.

Said Clerks will comply with Section 116.170 sub-section (b), KRS, which covers the use of the secondary stubs on the ballots.

Gospel Singing Is Enjoyed By Retired Workers

The West Ken-Tenn Chapter of retired civil service employees met Tuesday, April 14, at the First Methodist Church in Crutchfield.

The meeting was called to order by Rev. Davis of Kenton, who led in about thirty minutes of gospel singing of old-time songs. A ham dinner with all the trimmings was served at noon to the forty present. This dinner was served by the ladies of the church.

In the absence of the president, Clyde Howard of Kenton, vice-president, was in charge of the business session, following which the group enjoyed "story telling."

Among the visitors were Mrs. Smith, president of the Dyersburg Chapter, and Mr. Scruggs, president of the Paris Chapter.

Quill And Scroll Initiates Nine

In the last meeting of the school year, held at the home of Mrs. Charles Burrow, the Quill and Scroll, honorary journalism society of Fulton High School, admitted nine new members for the next school year. Students initiated into membership were the following: Betty Bennett, Sylvia Carden, Phyllis Crocker, Rodney Foster, Jeanie Hinton, Ronnie Homra, Sally Pirtle, Sara Jane Poe, and Carol Luther.

Members of Quill and Scroll are chosen from students enrolled in the high school who are of junior or senior classification. They must be in the upper third of their class in general scholastic standing, and must have done superior work in some phase of journalism.

Jane Warren, president of Quill and Scroll, presided over the business session. New officers for next year were elected as follows: Andy Batts, president; Sylvia Carden, vice-president; Sally Pirtle, secretary-treasurer; Sandra Cael and Rodney Foster, co-chairmen of the program committee. Activities of the year were reviewed and plans were made for the coming year. Following the business session, the members enjoyed a social hour.

FESTIVAL OFFICIAL: —

president of the National Banana Association also was in Washington on the first trip. The influence and prestige of Mr. Lally's organization, together with both Mr. Lally's and Mr. Metcalfe's knowledge and experience in dealing with officials and industrialists in the banana-producing countries, opened many doors for our association in Washington. To them we owe an everlasting debt of gratitude.

As you well know, the Festival Association felt it advisable to pursue some of the suggestions made to us in Washington on the first trip. Having put these suggestions on paper, while at the same time compiling an operational manual for presentation to the proper officials in Washington, he board again felt that it was necessary to present the plan of operation to the interested departments in Washington.

This time, Mr. Metcalfe and the festival's representative felt that much time could be saved if a meeting of representatives of all the governmental departments concerned with our possible program, could be arranged. Thanks to the tireless and efficient efforts of Mr. Langstaff, administrative assistant to Congressman Frank Albert Stubblefield, a top level group of officials gathered in the office of Senator John Cooper on Friday morning April 24 were Congressman Fats Evesset, Senator Thruston Morton's top aide, as well as top aides from Senator Cooper's office. Senators Cooper and Morton, and Congressman Stubblefield were out of town.

The director of television and radio for the Peace Corps was there, as was the director of foreign travel for the Military Air Transport Service. It was of tremendous value to have all these people gathered together at one time. In presenting the program we found out the things we can do, and the things we cannot do, to implement our local program with the Latin-American theme. Mary Nelle Wright, Mr. Metcalfe and this writer told the story of this year's Banana Festival to the group. If nothing else comes from that meeting there is one thing crystal clear; everybody, but everybody who attended that meeting seemed startled at the enthusiasm, imagination and willingness of one small spot on the globe — Fulton, Ky.-Tenn. — so eager and so undaunted to do a job that cities a hundred times larger would toss away as too big to undertake. The word even spread to the Costa Rican Embassy, that we visited, about how a small community in Kentucky and Tennessee was willing to roll up its collective sleeves to help do some little bit toward making friends with people unseen and unknown, but who need and want the friendship of a community like ours.

Capable, energetic and brilliant Larry Metcalfe felt that the second trip to Washington was successful in that we know now how to proceed in formulating the Latin-American phase of our program. But, as you well know, that in spite of the fact that we know how to proceed, it does not mean that we will be successful in all the colorful, impressive, yes, even spectacular programs being worked on by the Festival board. But, people in the twin cities know quite well, that nothing ventured is nothing gained. For we have ventured on many projects, won some and lost some, but the losses have only whetted our appetites to do the things we want to do.

Without elaborating, for fear that if the plans fall through, our people will be disappointed, plans in Washington appear to be going along well for high ranking representatives of American and Latin-American countries to appear at the festival. An exhibit of American and Latin-American arts and crafts, together with an Inter-American Music fiesta appear to be in the realm of great probability. A soccer team from Central America and machete cutters from banana plantations are being sought, together with some other colorful programs.

The Latin-American program is being planned expertly; yet you can be assured of the fact that a national TV network has already committed itself to doing a 30-minute show on the festival; that Miss America will be here; that the Banana-rama will be bigger and better than ever; that the parade will be so big and so beautiful it may just get started at Dukedom; that State and National officials will be here. But more than anything, from the interest and support given the Banana Festival by just everybody in the twin cities, even if all of us just get together, sing, dance, be merry and eat bananas it will be the "bestest," most colorful, the happiest local event held anywhere by anybody in this whole world.

Again, thank you for the opportunity to tell official Washington about our community. Some day the opportunity may come to send all 7000 of our ambassadors of goodwill to Washington to repeat the story, but since our budget, at this time, cannot afford such a worthwhile expenditure, accept the gratitude of this writer for the privilege of representing the International Banana Festival Association of Fulton-Ky.-Tenn. in Washington.

Cordially yours,

Jo Westpheling (Mrs. Paul)

MORSE HAMILTON—

(Continued from page one) and in Porches, wrapped in black capes or the latest Milan fashions. The communists sit next to the industrialists, the workers together with the bosses. They fill the beautiful old theaters built all over Italy to perform Verdi. They lean forward in the boxes and follow the play intently.

The last act is about God as a practical idea for all passionate men. We spoke with the local Communist leaders after one performance.

"The play was more than I expected. I was struck by the third act. This is what Russia needs." That is what one of them said.

If you think the folks back home are interested in Italy and the rest of Europe, I would be happy to send you on-the-spot observations from time to time. For now, all I can say is I'm happy to be alive!

other growths. But I'm sure that we have made some enemies and perhaps will make more, but that's a publisher's life and all our pley nor wit can change a bit of it.

It's a funny thing when I reminisce. Somehow I can't seem to think of anything unpleasant that has happened in seventeen years. I guess that all four of us are so completely happy that this is our home and that all of you live here, that everything seems completely all right with the world. If the folks who say I'm getting mellow with old age read this, they'll say I've really flipped my lid. Maybe I have.

Anyway thanks for putting up with us for seventeen years. If we ever get too obnoxious permit us the privilege of the guy who, having been tarred and feathered, was being run out of town on a rail. Said he, through the discomfort that he witnessed: "If it wasn't for the honor of the thing I'd just as soon walk." We'll ride out when you want us to!

SPANISH CLASS—

home-work." Mr. Treas said.

Besides the actual classes Mr. Treas suggested that in every home-room class each morning students should be encouraged to salute their classmates with a Spanish greeting. The students should also be encouraged to translate the names of their classmates in Spanish. For instance, one might say, "Buenas Dias, Juan, Anita, etc." As time progresses, they should learn full sentences of Spanish conversation that will be very helpful with our guests.

Club presidents are urged to call the meetings to order in Spanish. They are urged to address club members as Senor and, of course, the comparable greeting should apply in the many women's organizations in the twin communities.

It will be in the retail stores, offices and department stores that visitors will meet the greatest number of people. The clerks are urged to learn such basic Spanish sentences as, "What can I do for you?", "Can I help you?", "We are glad to have you here." They are urged to learn the Spanish words for the items sold in the stores and the prices. They are urged to learn, too, the meaning of those basic questions asked by the world over... "How much?"... "What size?"... "Can I try it on?"... etc.

Here is this week's lesson:

1.—Hable Usted Espanol?

Do you speak Spanish?

2.—Yea, (Si, Ua Pasa.)

(Yes, a little)

3.—Yo Hable Espanol

(I speak Spanish)

4.—Le Lee, Fere Ne Le Hable

5.—Necesito Practica

I need practice

6.—Usted Hable May De Pria
