YMBC Plans Industrial Survey Here Group Is Picked By Club President To Make Report

WILL SPONSOR DANCE

The Young Men's Business Club voted last night to make an industrial survey of the city of Fulton to aid in its goal of obtaining new industries here. The survey, which will follow a form furnished the club by the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, is to be made by the following committee: Joe Hall, chairman; Ernest Fall, Jr., Robert Graham, Foad Homra, J. R. Hogan, Lewis Weeks, Grady Varden, Hugh Fly and R. E. Sanford.

The club secretary, Clifford Shields, showed club members letters from the Paducah and Louisville Chambers of Commerce and from the Kentucky Utilities office in Lexington, which suggested ways of presenting information about the city of Fulton to prospective new industries.

The survey committee was appointed by the club president, Robert Burrow.

The YMBC also voted to sponsor a Boy Scout benefit dance in the clubroom Thursday night Feb. 13, from 8 to midnight. Yewell Harrison and orchestra will play.

Tickets will be on sale by all YMBC members on and after Feb. 1.

Three new members were voted into the club last night. They are Aaron Butts, James Shankle and Joe W. Treas. Mr. Burrow also introduced Finis Vanden, Preston Watts, who recently became members.

Prior to the business session in the clubroom, 47 members enjoyed a chicken dinner prepared by the Cayce Homemakers and served in the Cayce high school dining room. A. J. Lowe, Cayce principal, was a guest of the club at the dinner.

Frankfort—No one is exempt from provisions of the new truck weight law, it was pointed out here yesterday by Clem F. Kelly, assistant attorney general assigned to the highway department. Kelly, in an opinion sent to Warren Humble, Frankfort, business manager of the Kentucky Association of Highway Contractors, said road builders under contract with the highway department must comply with the law.

Madisonville—Equipment is being received for mine rescue stations here and at Greenville. Harry Thomas, Lexington, head of the state department of mines and minerals, said each station will have an instructor in rescue work.

Frankfort—An order permitting sale of liquor and beer to continue in Floyd county pending final decision on the local option election held last Sept. 30 was issued yesterday by the Court of Appeals. Outcome of the election, won by dry forces, is being contested in the courts.

Prestonsburg—Illness of Defense Counsel Edward L. Allen yesterday caused the trial of Spurlock Damron to be continued to April 9. Damron, 38, of Princeton, is charged with the shotgun slaying of his stepson, Arthur Damron, 23, last Dec. 24.

Paducah—Ed Oliver, national representative of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motorcoach Employees of America, told City Manager Charles A. Williams yesterday "there has been no progress recently in the attempt to arbitrate the Paducah Bus Company-union dispute." Oliver said he felt the company is delaying settlement as long as possible. The dispute is over wages and working conditions.

Lexington—A 17-year-old University of Kentucky co-ed, Rachel Johnson, who had been missing since Sunday night, telephoned her mother at Vanceburg, Ky., last night to say she was enroute home "to explain." Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, dean of women, said she had been informed the girl telephoned from Richmond, Ky., and told her mother, Mrs. Samuel Johnson, she was leaving for home.

Court Hears Civil Suits

All Criminal Cases Listed On Docket Disposed Of; Indictments Returned

Fulton county circuit court continued in session at the city hall today with Judge E. J. Stahr presiding.

All criminal cases were disposed of yesterday, and the court this morning began the hearing of civil cases.

In the case of Harry Lee Bushart vs. L. O. Bradford, trial was continued to the next term of court when the parties involved were unable to agree on the selection of a jury.

The case of Jess Fields, et al. vs. Arkansas Fuel and Oil Company, is set for trial tomorrow. Flavius Martin will represent the plaintiff and Frank Carr is attorney for the defense.

Herman Johnson, colored, who is sentenced to a term in the penitentiary after being convicted of child desertion, had his sentence probated, and the penitentiary sentence imposed Monday on D. F. Nichols was likewise probated because of the ill health of the prisoner.

The grand jury, after returning 10 indictments, as yet undischarged, was dismissed.

House Shortage Said At Peak

Wilson Wyatt Believes Situation Will Improve; Sees Prefab Home Boom

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 29.—(P)—The nation is at the peak of its housing shortage, and from now on the situation will improve, Wilson W. Wyatt, former national housing expediter, said here last night.

Speaking to the Retail Merchants Association on "My Year in Washington," Wyatt declared that "prefabrication of houses will be the biggest new industry this country has ever seen."

The greatest hope the country has for overcoming the housing shortage lies in mass production and the construction of multi-unit housing.

Wyatt said, adding that prefabricated homes will make it possible to provide all the homes needed.

Wyatt recently returned to his law practice here after resigning his Washington post.

Durocher Gives Judge "Lip"

Says Judge Released A Transcript Of Meeting After El Paso Flight

Los Angeles, Jan. 29.—(P)—Leo Durocher, who has done a lot of talking back to umpires as boss of the Brooklyn Dodgers, has picked a new target—the judge who is threatening to set aside the California divorce granted last week to Movie Actress Laraine Day.

Durocher married Miss Day in El Paso, Tex., shortly after she obtained a Juarez, Mexico, divorce.

Superior Judge George A. Dockweiler, who a day earlier dissolved Miss Day's marriage to J. R. Hendricks, airport executive, has summoned her before him next Tuesday to show why he should not rescind the decree.

The loquacious Leo, who all along has been saying only "no comment," finally issued a statement. It was about Judge Dockweiler. He said the judge released to the public the transcript of a conference in his chambers with Laraine and Leo when they flew back from El Paso.

Leo didn't stop there. He said he and Laraine were "legally man and wife and we intend to remain so as long as we live."

Grass Fire Put Out

Boxer Before Grand Jury Appearance

Rocky Graziano (center), middleweight boxing title contender, arrives at office of New York District Attorney Frank S. Hogan, in New York, preparatory to appearing before Grand Jury investigating an alleged gambling ring. With Graziano are his manager, Irving Cohen (left) and his lawyer, Max Epstein. The District Attorney's office said questioning of Graziano was in connection with the cancellation of his scheduled bout with Reuben Shank, December 27.

Rumored Bribe May Cancel Zale vs. Graziano Title Fight

New York, Jan. 29.—(P)—A New York State athletic commission rule requiring a boxer to report any attempt to "fix" one of his fights raised the possibility today that the middleweight championship fight March 21 between Champion Tony Zale and Rocky Graziano might be called off.

The commission's rule 64 explicitly provides that a boxer, if asked to engage in a "sham or collusive contest," must report the matter.

Graziano will appear before

974 Coal Miners Died In 1946, A Record Low Total

Washington, Jan. 29.—(P)—The Bureau of Mines said today 974 men were killed in U. S. coal mining operations last year, a record low and the fourth consecutive annual decrease.

A bureau report estimated the 1946 loss of life rate at 1.64 per million tons of coal, the lowest in the statistical series starting in 1874.

It added that coal mine fatalities have been reduced successively each year since 1942 when 1,471 workers died.

In 1946, fatalities in bituminous coal mines were reduced to an estimated 800, or 136 less than in 1945.

Arlington Home Contents Are Lost In Blaze Monday

Arlington, Ky.—(Special)—Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Barnett's home and contents on Route 2, Arlington were completely destroyed by fire about 3 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Barnett had lit the stove and had gone into another room. When she went back into the kitchen, the room was a mass of flames.

It is thought that the blaze caught from the stove.

The loss, which Mr. Barnett estimated at around $6,000 or $7,000 was partially covered by insurance. The smoke house and coal house with their winter supply of coal also burned.

Stalin Expected To Ask Military Pact With Britain

London, Jan. 29.—(P)—An official source said today that the British government expected Prime Minister Stalin to call for a general military alliance between Russia and Britain to replace their present mutual assistance treaty.

The source added immediately that in principle Britain wanted "full cooperation" with Russia.

The present treaty provides for military cooperation between the two countries only in the event of aggression by Germany and her wartime satellites any time until 1952.

Although he said he could not prejudice any Russian elucidation of the "reservations" which Stalin had said "weakened" the existing pact, the informant emphasized there was no reason to believe Britain would turn down a request for a general military alliance.

The Ickes statement said:

"I do not intend to permit anyone to insinuate his proposals into affairs that are strictly personal and private."

The report about the files was passed along to newsmen by an interior department official who demanded anonymity.

Ickes noted in a formal statement yesterday that his case thus differs from that of Henry Morgenthau, Jr., former secretary of the treasury, who has been asked to return a "major part" of his 60,000,000 word diary to government files.

The request was made by Secretary Snyder, Morgenthau's successor.

"At least Secretary Snyder, of whom I have spoken disparagingly on more than one occasion, has had the manliness to do his own dirty work," the Ickes statement said.

House Foreign Affairs Committee Leaders Give Speedy Approval And Express Confidence In New Secretary

U. S. POLICY TOWARD CHINA "UP IN AIR"

Washington, Jan. 29.—(P)—Secretary of State Marshall today scrapped machinery he set up in an effort to unify China. He arranged for the prompt withdrawal of more than 9,000 Marines and Army officers and men from the strife-ridden land.

The possibility of an all-out civil war between the Chinese national government and the communist forces in North China immediately increased, in the opinion of diplomats here. The presence of the American forces in China, even though small, has long been regarded at the state department as a brake on hostilities.

Marshall's action, announced by the state department, left American policy toward China more or less up in the air and officials were unable to say what action would be taken next.

For the time being at least the next moves are up to the Chinese themselves—to fight out their differences or to try on their own to make peace.

Gets Quick Nod

Marshall's step got a quick okay on Capitol Hill from Chairman Eator (R-NJ) of the House Foreign Affairs committee, and Rep. Bloom of New York, the committee's top ranking Democrat.

Eaton said he and the committee "are 100 percent behind General Marshall and have absolute confidence in his judgment."

"He's the only one in a position to know what is best in that situation, and the country must trust to his judgment," Eaton added.

Bloom expressed belief that Marshall "understands the situation better than anyone else in the world."

"If that's his decision," Bloom added, "it is based on good judgment."

The state department announcement said that the United States is terminating its connection with the mediation machinery which Secretary Marshall established after President Truman sent him to make peace in China in December, 1945.

This machinery consisted of a "committee of three" of which Marshall was chairman and which had nationalist and communist members. It also included an "executive headquarters" shared by nationalist, communist and American

To Be Withdrawn

More than 1,000 army officers and men and 9,000 Marines are in the maintenance of the headquarters and the state department announcement said that "the American personnel involved in executive headquarters will be withdrawn as soon as possible."

This was authoritatively interpreted to mean that army personnel and equipment in the Peiping-Tientsin area would be pulled out first. Then the Marines, who serve as security and supply forces, would be removed. According to information here, this will leave in China only a very small force—estimated at 1,000 to 2,000 Marines. They are at Tientsin adding a navy training program.

Officials here noted that the presence of the American military forces in China has been attacked frequently by the Soviet government. On at least one occasion Premier Stalin himself said they ought to be withdrawn. Today's announcement thus should eliminate one point of Soviet-American friction.

The announcement was made here by Michael J. McDermott, state department press officer at 5:30 a. m. E. S. T., simultaneously with formal notification of the Chinese government and the communists by Ambassador J. Leighton Stuart in Nanking.

Only Few Told

Indicating the importance attached to the news was the fact that only four or five high officials were told about it last night, and these and the responsible information officers were pledged to secrecy so that the word would leak to Nanking prematurely.

Negro Drowns 3 Daughters In Well, Then Saves Self

Yackville, N. C., Jan. 29.—(P)—A 30-year-old negro was locked in jail here today on charge of hurling his three young daughters to their death in a well at their tenant farm home.

The negro, Gene Scales, according to an account given by sheriff's deputies by his wife, Ruth Louise, suddenly choked Monday night that "Jesus say we got to go," then cast his children into the well.

Scales followed them in, his wife said, and could be heard praying, shouting and singing. He later pulled himself out.

Synthetic Rubber Plant To Lay Of 150-200 Soon

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 29.—(P)—Officials of the duPont Neoprene plant here announced today that between 150 and 200 employees would be laid off because of reduced production schedule.

E. F. Riddon, plant manager, said reduced schedules have been "occasioned largely by the importation of increasing amounts of natural rubber."

Just Overwhelmed By Truman Party

Washington, Jan. 29.—(P)—Take it from Bernard "Toots" Shor, the Trumans there: a swell party last night.

The New York steak and chop purveyor and his blond wife were among 100 or so guests at a formal dinner honoring Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

With no deference whatever to his own famous eating place, Shor told a reporter later: "Best damned meal I ever had in my whole life."

Vandenberg, the president pro tempore of the senate, had a good time. So did everybody else.

But for "Toots" it was the "biggest thrill of my life."

Toots serves many notable in his restaurant. He's been around. But, as he sat down in the state dining room for a meal which included turkey and all the trimmings, he turned excitedly to a companion: "I'm too excited to eat, but I'm going to eat every bite of it."

Tuggle Thinks About Running

Lieutenant Gov. Says He Would Consider Entry If His Support Is Continued

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 29.—(P)—If present indications of support for him continue, Lieut. Gov. Kenneth H. Tuggle is "seriously thinking" about running for the Republican nomination for governor.

Tuggle let this be known yesterday in an interview here.

The lieutenant governor said "I had planned never to run for public office again, but with my friends out doing what they are in promoting my candidacy, I felt it necessary for me to make my position clear."

He said he had received numerous letters and telephone calls asking him if he was going to seek the governorship. Messages urging him to enter the race came from all districts, he added, but particularly from "influential leaders in the third, seventh and ninth congressional districts."

Tuggle told his interviewer "quite a number of persons close to the state administration want me to run" and described as "pretty general" the requests from party leaders that he make the race.

A Perilous Bypath

David Lilienthal, up for confirmation as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, is beset by querulous hectoring. He encounters it first from his old enemy, the frustrated spoilsman Kenneth McKellar. Then he must stand up to inquisitors among the Republican Senate majority, who scold him for a seeming neglect of military counsel on matters concerning atomic development.

We cannot help seeing a certain amount of irresponsibility in these turns of the hearing on Mr. Lilienthal's fitness. They lead us into bypaths, where doubts lurk. This country has come to find a large measure of security in taking for granted that we have a solid, bipartisan foreign policy. But there are implications of foreign policy in everything we do or say about atomic energy and, in particular, the bomb. Our attitude on these matters means all the difference in the world in the attitude of other nations, certainly Russia, toward our efforts in the field of international accord. Therefore, a question is raised as to the genuine stability of our understanding as to foreign policy and as to its strength against misunderstandings. And it may be suggested that tariffs and reciprocal trade agreements, which some Republicans are protesting, also are foreign policy.

Emerging from the White House door, Warren E. Austin asserts flatly that the United States policy for international control of atomic energy is unchanged. But the very insistence by Senators on greater military action for our domestic commission—an insistence apparently uttered in partisan context—makes one wonder whether our high commissions are not being somehow compromised.

The insistence seems a bit groundless, too, for that one must look for other motives. It is not as if Mr. Lilienthal or his associates had squandered considerations of defense. On the contrary, his response to the point was sound enough. In the words of the dispatch which led to the hearing, "Lilienthal stated his view that it would be foolhardy to disregard the paramount importance of the common security and defense in any program, including world conditions, for the development of atomic energy."

We find ourselves going back to the solemn conclusion of the article by the former Secretary of War, Henry L. Simons. The bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki, he said, "made it wholly clear that we must never have another war." This is the core—or in another view, the goal—of the only foreign policy that holds hope. Laboring the point of the bomb as a weapon, and raising it so insistently, will confirm misunderstanding. (Courier-Journal.)

Legal Bout

DETROIT.—(AP)—Mrs. Gloria Lee Deane today wrestled a divorce from her athletic husband Raymond whose knowledge of wrestling holds did not help him hold her.

Mrs. Deane told Circuit Judge Guy A. Miller yesterday that her husband frequently carried his college wrestling experience into his home life with "humiliating and painful results."

"Don't clamp a headlock on me," she told the court, "and then slip into a hip lock and then try the flying mare and he'd toss the light across the room. I always lost."

Tass Is Disturbed Again

By J. B. Roberts, Jr.

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Tass, official news agency, has renewed the Russian Press campaign against Great Britain over the Anglo-Soviet treaty in spite of Stalin's recent public acceptance of Foreign Minister Bevin's assurances.

It all started when Bevin made a speech saying "Britain does not tie herself to anyone," outside the United Nations framework, intending to convey that she was not ganging up with anybody.

Nobody was thinking of the Russian treaty at the time, but Pravda jumped on it as a repudiation. Bevin told Stalin that Pravda was drawing an unintended inference. Pravda repeated its charge. Then Stalin told Bevin he understood, but took the opportunity to add that, before the treaty could be extended, as suggested long ago by the British, it would have to get rid of some "weakening reservations."

Some foreign observers thought the Russians had leaped at an opportunity to stir up trouble for Bevin among the members of the labor party who have been criticizing him, and to drive a wedge between Britain and the U. S. Others were wondering if someone in Russia had been feeding the press a line which Stalin didn't like.

This latter idea was bolstered by memory of the recent cross-up between Red Star and Pravda. Red Star accused the allies of mis-handling and cowardice in conveying on the Murmansk route during the war. The British were indignant. Then Pravda put the screws on Red Star for inaccuracy, and more or less apologized.

Red Star's principal job is to indoctrinate political officers in the Russian army, whereas Pravda is largely devoted to expressions of high policy. Contrary to the general belief over here, neither consists entirely of articles dictated or specifically approved from above. Within general policy lines, the writers and editors have leeway, and therefore it is possible for them to go astray.

But the Tass follow-through, accusing the British of violating the principles of the treaty by working in bloc with the United States against Russia, now eliminates any possibility that the furor began with an inadvertent misinterpretation, and leaves open only the question of why the issue was raised on such a thin excuse.

An effort to embarrass Bevin and to pull England away from the U. S. stand as good reasons. Tass hints at another when it says "the time has come to stand by the spirit of the treaty, particularly by that part according to which both countries undertook to work jointly for the organization of the security and economic prosperity of Europe." That brings us back to the negotiations over Germany, and to the shock experienced by the Russians when the British and American zones of operation were merged economically with attendant political aspects. This also interfered with Russian reparations ideas and generally brought them up against a stronger front than they had previously encountered in Europe.

The "misunderstanding" gives Russia an opportunity to do some bargaining in this whole field. It seems pretty definite that she intends for it to come up at the Moscow foreign ministers conference. When it does, General Marshall will be ready with a revival of the Byrnes formula, embracing a four-way treaty for a 40-year plan of control for Germany.

A pot-luck supper honoring "the Dads" was enjoyed by the South Fulton PTA Monday night. The supper, given in the home economics building at the school, was well attended.

Following the supper, the meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. R. L. Harris. The minutes were read by Mrs. J. L. Grooms, in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Hugh Barnes.

An interesting talk on "Citizenship" was given by Mr. Claude Williams. Miss Allie Williams read the president's message.

A motion was made and carried that the PTA award a prize to the two pupils submitting the best essays to the contest sponsored by the Olson County Council. One prize is to be given to the winner from the seventh, eighth, or ninth grades, and another to be given to the winner from the tenth, eleventh, or twelfth grades.

Selection of the prizes is to be left to Miss Adams, who is in charge of the essays to be entered from South Fulton.

The yard improvement report was given by Mrs. Hugh Adkins. The president selected a committee consisting of Mrs. I. M. Jones, Mrs. Effie Speight, and Miss Margaret Gardner to decide upon suitable ceremony for the putting away of the school's service flag. She also related plans for the scrap book.

Mrs. Reid's room won the room-count award. The meeting was adjourned to meet the last Thursday in February.

New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—When the Major League baseball season opens here before the writers' annual Sunday, they'll hear a lot of serious talk and some very emphatic proposals about dealing with the problems of gambling and bribery. . . . Baseball has had enough experience with such things, dating back to the original pro league, the National Association, which broke up because wide open betting in the ball parks drove respectable fans away. . . . this time the writers want to make sure that they don't get into the same fix about boxing and pro football as they found themselves recently.

... another proposal they'll consider is one already aired by Larry MacPhail—that floors be set for the cuts of the winning and losing teams in the world series and that a rule be passed so that a liberal club owner couldn't hand out more dough to members of a losing team than the winners received.

A Lincoln, Neb., basketball fan, adding reports of a bit of punching between Oklahoma and Kansas players and a bit of shoving between Phog Allen and Sparky Stalcup to previous reports on Big Six court action, explains: "We Big Six fans don't even bother to go to boxing matches and more when we can see basketball, boxing, hockey and general mayhem all at once on the cage floor."

All-America Conference, National League May Go To Court About Daley

New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Overshadowing the strictly business phases of the meeting of All-America Conference club owners here today was the "Bill Daley case," and there was talk of a new legal clash between the infant pro circuit and the National Football League.

Daley was traded by Brooklyn to Miami late last season before the Miami club folded and its franchise was shifted to Baltimore for 1947. The big rubback recently conferred with Pittsburgh officials concerning a contract for next season, but more club, said Daley promised him he would not sign before talking to Baltimore officials.

Brooklyn club owner Bill Cox pointed out that Daley signed a two-year contract with Brooklyn last season. Under conference rules, when a club folds its player contracts automatically revert to the commissioner for reassignment. Daley was assigned to Baltimore.

When the NFL attempted to force Tackle Chet Adams to move with the Cleveland Rams to Los Angeles, the court ruled that since Dan Reeves, owner of the NFL club, changed the name of his corporation, Adams was free to sign with the AAC Cleveland Browns.

At the National League meeting in Chicago last week it was announced Daley could switch because his case was comparable to Adams'. The conference managers, however, don't believe the same situation applies.

Two more names have been added to the list of possible candidates for the AAC commissioner'ship vacated by the resignation of James Crowley.

Navy Coach Tom Hamilton and Columbia Mentor Lou Little were said to be in the running for the $25,000 job.

S. Fulton Boys Lose, Girls Win At Union City

The Fulton Pups lost by a scant two-point margin, 24-22, to the Arlington "B" team.

At Union City, the Angels led the Union City lasses all the way after the first quarter to win 29-23, while the Red Devils went down in defeat 54-29 to a red-hot Tornado team that wouldn't be stopped.

South Fulton will play the Bulldogs and Pups Thursday night in Fulton's new gym.

Last night's victory was the third in a row for the rapidly-improving Fulton Bulldogs. Their most recent triumphs were over Hickman and Cayce at home and away, respectively.

Billy Mac Bone sparked the Fulton offense last night with a total of 18 points, and Billy Joe Forrest was second high for the winners with 14.

The Bulldogs led 11-10 at the end of the first quarter, increased their lead to 23-24 at the half, and saw Arlington pull ahead 35-34 as the third quarter closed. The Fulton lads took over again in the last frame and piled up their five-point winning lead not a minute too soon.

Manan, center, led the Pups scoring with 8 points, but yielded high point honors for the game to Wortham of Arlington, who got 10.

Peggy Kirk Seems Woman To Defeat In Miami Tourney

Miami, Fla., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Peggy Kirk of Findlay, Ohio, is the woman to beat in the 15th annual Helen Lee Doherty Amateur Golf Tournament, now under way at the Miami Country Club.

Miss Kirk eliminated Louise Suggs of Lithia Springs, Ga. 2 and 1 yesterday in one of the most stunning upsets of the tournament's history.

Miss Suggs won the Doherty in 1945 and 1946 and holds the women's north and south and southern titles, but she couldn't match Miss Kirk's accurate chip shots yesterday as the Ohio star carded a 73, one over men's par for the 3,394-yard layout.

Miss Suggs shot a 38-38-76 to even women's par. Today Miss Kirk faces Mrs. Ruth Wilcox of Miami, who trounced Babs Ruppitt of St. Petersburg, 3 and 2, yesterday.

a 21-19 advantage as the fourth quarter began.

The Red Devils were in trouble all night, trailing from 7 to 31 points during the tussle with the Tornado. The scores by quarters (South Fulton first) 9-16; 11-20, 14-31 and 23-54.

Starters for the Devils were Haddad 3, Cates 3, Barnes 7, Kimberlin 9 and Wilson 1. Lewis, Elam and Kimbel substituted. The boys have now won seven and lost four.
