THIS PICTURE WAS made about 12 years ago at a reunion of former residents of old Birmingham. The group is looking toward the spot on Kentucky Lake where the town of Birmingham once stood. The picture was sent to us by Lyda Heath Travis to illustrate the accompanying story on the Civil War.

Civil War Action Told By Ex-Resident of Birmingham

BY LYDA HEATH TRAVIS

In one of your editorials, you ask readers to write about the Civil War battles in Marshall County. You should ask the Arans and others from the western part to do that, and I hope they comply. My home was near Birmingham in the eastern part and though we had no battles, the stories told me are still vivid.

Today I feel impelled to recount three.

First, Shiloh:

My father, Hugh A. Heath, saw the gunboats steaming up the river and heard a man remark, "Going to be a big battle."

The next day, he, his father and a hired man were clearing land where Moore's Camp now stands for his father owned all the land around there. They heard the ominous roar of guns and the hired hand warned, "They're fighting." Though he was a big boy of 14 my father threw down his ax and ran crying in fright to his father. He had been told that war meant blood, men shot and falling off their horses to die on the ground. He couldn't imagine what glory there was in it and the utter futility impressed him. In later years he proved the best of arithmetic teachers for his little daughters, but he refused to read them a Civil War history. His people were not slaveholders as were the Stones.

Second: Sam Davis, the Nathan Hale of the Confederacy, whose father Charles Louis Davis, was a brother of my great-grandmother, Rebecca Davis. A painting of him and his scaffold occupied a whole page in a recent Life magazine. His statue stands on the Capitol grounds at Nashville and his home at Smyrna, Tenn., is a shrine. On the occasion of his hundredth birthday in 1942 I was invited to a dinner by the Memorial Association given at the Maxwell House in Nashville, but being the backwoods woman that I was, I didn't go.

I wasn't more than five when I heard my mother tearfully tell the sad story of her kinsman and it almost broke my heart. He was 21 and was with Colonel Moore's regiment when they were ordered to carry information about the Federal installations around Nashville. He came home one night and on the way was chased by a troop known as the Kansas Jayhawkers. He was riding one of his father's spirited black horses and as he sped by his pursuers in the night he slapped their horses in the face with his felt hat. He was captured near Paducah and the papers were found in his shoe. He was given a quick trial and as he refused to tell what he knew the papers he was hanged.

His parents heard by grapevine that a scout had been hanged and fearful it was their son Sam they sent their 11-year-old Oscar with a neighbor named John C. Kennedy to Paducah. Kennedy learned from the sad-faced Federal General that it was indeed Sam Davis. They dug up his body and brought it back to Smyrna where the father buried it in a rose garden.

My third reminiscence concerns my two grandfathers, M. E. Heath and M. E. Stone, their horses and the guerrillas.

M. E. Heath was a big landowner and timber dealer and was known as one of the cleverest business men in the Lower Valley. Shortly after the War, thieves known as guerrillas roamed the countryside stealing horses. Word came that they were coming to Birmingham. When they reached the Heath place high on the hill they found the horses in the stable they did nothing else but steal the best one and ride away while M. E. Heath and his son Hugh looked on.

But what did M. E. Stone, the farmer, do? When he heard that the thieves were coming, he took hair from the horses' tails, tied it around the hook thus crippling the horses. What use would a thief have for a crippled horse? They left them unmolested. The owner removed the hairs as soon as they were gone and his horses were well by the next day. My little sister and I used to take a delight in being told that story because it proved that farmers are smart.

I will close with this more modern item: I tell the girls in the office where I work that I refuse to read a word about Cuba. The first book I ever read was "Our War With Spain for Cuba's Freedom." That was in 1898. Oh, were we the generous ones then! Look at what they say now!

Southern Bell Improves Facilities In Marshall County

Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company has launched an extensive construction program in Marshall County to improve facilities for residents of that area.

The project, which will cost an estimated $32,000, will almost completely eliminate the old eight-party line. It will provide individual or two-party service for the majority of Marshall County customers served from the new Reidland office.

A spokesman for the company said eight-party and four-party lines in use in that county no longer provide for the increased needs of modern living.

Miles of new cable and many pieces of new equipment are being added to furnish the service. Reporting on 1960, Manager Arnold Wiley's year-end statement noted an increase of 150 telephones here. There are now 2,141 telephones in Benton and 72 per cent of Southern Bell's customers in Kentucky are on the direct distance dialing network.

3. That's Wide-Track balance (No other car has it)

Pontiac holds, hugs and hangs on to the road like no other car. There's no outside-of-the-wheels weight to cause lean or sway. More weight is balanced between the wheels for improved stability.
Another Wide-Track advantage: There's more room between the wheels to mount the springs, shocks and control arms at more stable angles to the wheels. This prevents drifting and wandering, allows Pontiac to track flat and level as it travels around corners and curves.

City Park Board To Sell Vitamins To Raise More Funds

John Sledd, distributor for Darolite in this area, has made a generous offer to aid the city park commission. John, a member of the City Council serving a fourth term and a very civic-minded person, has announced that the city park commission, consisting of Jack Proctor, Jack Perlman, Sam Myers, Chester Ray Powell, will sponsor the sale or distribution of Darolite and reap all the profits from the venture.

The park commission is doing an excellent job in running the city park and its members are to be commended, but it entails a lot of money (more than perhaps most of us realize). There is always a shortage of funds for an operation of this kind, and in order to boost it along the park board has accepted Mr. Sledd's offer.

Darolite is by no means a new product to this area. John has been associated with the company since 1957 and states that actually Darolite is a food supplement containing all the vitamins and minerals for which the necessary daily requirements for human nutrition have been determined.

When you purchase Darolite you not only get beneficial results for yourself, but you also boost the city park and help the commission to continue making progress. Contacting any of the board members or Mr. Sledd will be appreciated. The commission members serve without pay.

Ask Amy

BY AMY ADAMS

SHE WANTS TO BE DUMB, POOR AND HAPPY

Dear Amy:
I am nineteen years old and am being made to attend college against my own wishes. Do you think a person should be forced into furthering his education? I feel as though I'm wasting my parent's money!

This past summer I went steady with a boy whom I met at work. The main problem now is that he is attending school in another state. All I want is to be with him. I don't want to be smart and a millionaire! I just want to be dumb, poor and happy.

Disgusted

Dear Disgusted:
It's fine to know what you want but what does your steady want? Since he is the guy you want to be 'dumb, poor and happy' with, find out if he shares your feelings (or those of your folks). I suspect he wants to finish school and would think more of you if you did. Widen your horizons. There's an M.R.S. at the end of the rainbow!

Dear Amy:

I always read your column and I hope you can help me. I am sending you a clipping from my local paper. Amy, this is the kind of a man I am looking for. He signed himself 'Lonesome'. That's the way I am. I have been a widower two years (married one time). I would like to write to this man. I work every day and I seldom get out. I don't like to go alone. I live with my daughter and she and her husband go out a lot. I could go along but middle-age people just don't fit in the younger group. If you can help me, there will be an extra star in your crown because when God made the world, He made Adam and also He made him a help-mate. People weren't meant to be alone in this wonderful land of ours.

Lonely

Dear Lonely:
'Lonesome' did not include his name and address in his letter to me. Therefore I can be of no assistance to you or the hundreds of other women who wrote concerning him. Perhaps 'Lonesome' will read this column and fill in the details.

Dear Amy:

My mother and I are having a serious argument. She says that the average teen-ager should be in the house at 8 p.m. and I say the average teen-ager should be in at least 9:30 p.m. Since the curfew is 10:30 (in our town) I disagree with her very much. I live in a decent neighborhood. When I go out with my friends the most we ever do is take a walk to the library or we just walk around the neighborhood. We dress like gentlemen so the neighbors don't get the wrong impression. Please give me your opinion.

Almost everyone in my neighborhood reads your column so I hope you will print this letter in the hope that other teen-agers' mothers will realize this and treat us like young men.

Non-hoodlum

Dear Non-hoodlum:
It depends on the age of the teen-ager (you failed to tell me your age). Eight p.m. is late enough for 13 or 14 year-olds... especially on school nights. Responsible 15 to 17 year-olds should be given the privilege of returning home later. Boys with too much time on their hands have a knack of getting into mischief and this is what neighbors have in mind.

Dear Amy

We would like to know what would be the best appropriate (and modestly priced) present to give a girl who celebrates her birthday and her engagement on the same day. She is our God-child.

Mr. K.M.

Dear Mr. K.M.:
A piece of lingerie (which can be purchased for under ten dollars) is personal enough for her birthday and a nice addition for a trousseau.

PERSONAL TO Desperate:

He made his intentions perfectly clear. Unless you are willing to accept him on his terms (and I wouldn't advise it), leave well enough alone.

Please address all letters to:

4-H Talent Show Set For April 7 At Ky. Dam Auditorium

The 4-H District Council met recently at Mayfield, with five counties sending delegates. The first item of business to be discussed was the District Talent Show. The Marshall County delegates reported that Kentucky Dam Village Auditorium has been selected to have the talent show on April 7.

Each county in the district will have one group act and one specialty act. There will be a winner in the groups and specialty acts. Admission is free and a large crowd is expected.

The winner of the most outstanding County Council was announced and Marshall County took the honor, edging out Calhoun County who tied with Marshall in the balloting at the district meet. Both county records were sent to the state office for the final vote. McCracken County was the winner last year and was not eligible to compete for the honor this year.

New officers were elected for the year with Arnold Strache as president; Harold Ross, vice president, and Mrs. Hugh Jennings, secretary. These officers along with two delegates from each county will set dates for programs for this district and cooperate with the extension agents of the counties in carrying on all phases of 4-H work.

Mrs. Jimmy D. Lampley of Route 6 was a recent patient at the Lourdes Hospital in Paducah.

Whichever size you go for, you'll go better in a Dodge

Some people like full-size cars. Others prefer compacts. Either way, it's OK by us. We make both. Our standard-size car is the Dodge Dart. It is priced model for model with Ford and Chevrolet. However, Dart has features its major competitors can't match: A unitized, rust-proofed body.

Torsion-bar front suspension. And a new device called an alternator-generator that charges at idle, makes a battery last far longer than usual. There are 23 Dart models with Economy Slant Six or one of five V8 engines. Try the full-size Dodge Dart at your dependable Dodge Dealer.

On the right, Lancer, the new Dodge compact. It comes in six models: sedans, hardtop, wagons. With two engine choices: 101 and 145 h.p. Dodge Lancer is priced right down the line with Comet, Corvair and Falcon. It has a battery saving alternator-generator. A fully unitized, rust-proofed body. Want to know more? ## Uncle Ned ... From Dogtown

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Our new President says America has got to move ahead in the sixties. I don't know if it's ahead, behind, or sideways but we've been moving pretty fast now for a long spell.

They were discussing this movement ahead business at the country store Saturday night and most all the fellers had a item or two for debate.

Ed Doolittle, for instance, said the medical and dental professions was moving ahead real good. Ed said his old lady got a bill from her dentist, "To Professional Service $26." He allowed as how this dentist would have a fit if he got a bill from his druggist, "To Items $64.28."

It was agreed by one and all that doctors and dentists was getting too far ahead when they quit itemizing their bills. And Clem Webster noted that we'd moved ahead into a brand new economic system for the working man. It used to be, allowed Clem, that a working man set his pay at a figger he thought he was worth for a honest day's work. But now he sets it according to what he thinks his boss is able to pay without going broke.

The fellers agreed that if this trend keeps up, the store clerk will have to call the bank to see what you're able to pay afore he gives you the price on a pair of shoes.

And real move-ahead signs was noted by the fellers in other fields. Zeke Grubb said it used to be that country editors always run a page ever week telling the farmers how to farm, what to plant and when and how. Now, claims Zeke, the weekly newspapers is leaving such matters up to the city boys in the Department of Agriculture.

Bug Hookum noted that we'd moved ahead so far in the last 30 year in taxes that them fellers could now git blood out of a turnip.

But the greatest progress in the move-ahead program, according to Josh Clodhopper, was in the teen-age field. Josh said all juvenile delinquents was improved to where we ain't got nothing to worry about but problem children.

It's hard to predict where this move-ahead program will take us in the sixties but I'm all in favor of it. I see where one Congressman, for instance, is advocating we print our paper money in fancy colors so's it'll have more glamor to it.

Personally, Mister Editor, I ain't never saw a unglamorous $20 bill but if it takes it to move ahead they can print it in bed-room pink and kitchen yellow. And as we git ready to move ahead in the sixties, Ike goes back to his farm. Farming is the nearest thing to war a feller can find and I predict good ole Ike will be happy back there estimating and rotating his crops for Uncle Sam.

Yours truly,
Uncle Ned.

County Pupils To Get New Reading Method Shortly

Dr. Marshall Arnold, reading consultant of the SRA Reading Laboratories, met with about 25 Marshall County teachers last Thursday in the courthouse at Benton to discuss a device for the improvement of reading.

This SRA Reading Laboratory has been started in some of the county schools and officials hope it will be initiated in all of the schools soon, according to Miss Rozella Henry, supervisor of Marshall County schools.

This material enables each child to start reading where he is, and to move ahead as fast and as far as his learning rate and capacity will let him. With this material, the teacher can better meet the needs of the individual child.

In this program a student is given a placement test at the beginning to determine the level on which he will start his reading. The student reads a card, answers the questions in his record book, checks it and records his score. When the student finishes this level of reading he moves on to the next level.
