Willis Hears KEA Plea For $10,500,000

Doran States Money Wanted For Current Year

INTERVIEW IS SECRET

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 6.—(AP)—A request for $10,500,000 to increase salaries of Kentucky school teachers will be taken under consideration by Gov. Simeon Willis.

The governor gave that promise yesterday after he met with a delegation from the Kentucky Education Association.

The meeting was behind closed doors, with newsmen barred.

The KEA delegation asked the governor to call a special legislative session to provide $10,000,000 more for grade and high school teachers' pay and $500,000 for faculties of the State university and the teacher colleges. It was estimated that $500 a year could be added to each teacher's pay.

After the meeting the governor's Executive Secretary, Forest Hume, issued a statement for him, which said:

"The directors of the KEA presented the reasons for their request. The governor took the matter under consideration and when a decision is made, they will be advised, and it will be made public. Until that time no statement can be made."

W. P. King, executive secretary of the KEA, told newsmen the governor has said he will give immediate and sympathetic consideration to the request.

Adron Doran, president of the KEA and a Democratic member of the State House of Representatives from Wingo, said the money requested would be for the 1947 calendar year. The next regular session of the legislature opens in January, 1948, but Doran explained it can be asked for additional funds to complete biennium ending June 30, 1948.

Meanwhile, John Fred Williams, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, said Kentucky had boosted her financial aid to teachers by more than $10,000,000 during the war. He added, however, that teachers' salaries are still far from adequate.

Williams said the total amount budgeted by local school districts with state aid for 1942-43 was $17,700,000 and for 1946-47 it was $27,900,000. He said federal aid, in addition to state and local support, will be needed to meet the teacher-salary problem in Kentucky.

The superintendent of the Daviess county school system, Fred Taylor Burns, said at Owensboro last night he sent a telegram to the governor urging him to call a special session of the legislature for the purpose of working out means by which salaries of Kentucky teachers may be increased. A committee of teachers appeared before the Daviess county Board of Education at its meeting Tuesday night asking 10 per cent salary increases, retroactive to Jan. 1.

Turtles Ready To Run Tonite

Derby Will Be A Feature Of Cub Scout Carnival At Science Hall Gym

Past time for the Turtle Derby at tonight's Cub Scout Carnival at Science Hall gym will find some 15 hard-shells ready to crawl (pardon, gallop) toward possible fame and glory. Most stables are loath to divulge very much advance information about their entrants, and so far as is known now the race is going to be pretty much of a toss-up.

The Turtle Derby, however, will be just one of several attractions at the Carnival, proceeds of which will go to the Cubs.

The South Fulton school orchestra, directed by Ed Eller will present a 15-minute program at 7 o'clock.

Among other Carnival features will be a minstrel show by Den 1, directed by Mrs. Gene Moon, and various games and amusements by the Cubs of Den 2, directed by Mrs. Vernon Owen.

Freeing Of Bridge At Obion To Save Drivers $90,000.00

Union City—The toll bridge at Obion, which was freed this afternoon when Gov. Jim McCord signed the measure passed by the Tennessee house and senate to suspend collection of tolls at these bridges for four years, has been collecting an average of $250 a day, or over $90,000 a year from motorists, according to S. D. Clemmons, chief toll collector at the bridge.

It is estimated that the freeing of all eight toll bridges will save motorists a total of $4,250,000 annually.

Blood On Snow Leads To Killer In Love Triangle

Morgantown, W. Va., Feb. 6.—(AP)—Bloodstains in the snow on Cheat Neck mountain's bleak summit led police to the body of Jesse L. Rodeheaver, a 65-year-old mountaineer, described as the dead man's rival for the affections of a widow, charged today with murdering Rodeheaver with a borrowed shotgun.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Charles Whiston said Charles Casteel had signed a statement detailing how he saw Rodeheaver enter the home of the widow, Mrs. Nellie White, then borrowed the shotgun and ordered Rodeheaver out of the widow's house and up the mountain.

They stopped at Casteel's house for a drink of water, the deputy quoted Casteel as saying, then continued to march to the top, where Casteel shot his rival through the head.

U. S. Insists Arms Cut Body, Atom Commission Be Separate

New York, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The United States held firmly today to its demand that a proposed arms limitation commission must not overlap on the assignment of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission.

An informed source disclosed the American stand as six United Nations Security Council delegates went into closed session. They are attempting to untangle a council snarl on the proper way to begin studying arms limitation and reduction of armed forces.

The delegates are attempting to write an acceptable resolution creating arms limitation commission and defining its duties. This commission would bring back to the council recommendations for reducing the world's arms and armed forces.

It was said that the United States would abandon its demand that a special committee of the council be set up to write rules for the commission in favor of a Belgian compromise.

Fulton Junior Conservation Club Is Formed

Will Teach Boys How To Enjoy, Save Game, Fish

OFFICERS ELECTED

A Junior Conservation Club has been organized in Fulton this week, under sponsorship of State game conservationist officials who are convinced that the best way to insure survival of Kentucky's wildlife and forests is to teach boys of high school age to love the out-of-doors.

Officers of the club elected at its first meeting this morning are Tip Nelms, president; Lloyd Grimes, vice-president; Mac Nail, secretary and treasurer; and Jerry Lowe, sergeant-at-arms.

Wilson Ganitt, high school principal, will be the club's supervisor. J. P. McClintock, Clinton game conservationist, attended the club's organization meeting today.

The boys will learn to bait cast, hunt, trap and shoot. Conservationists will be held and prizes awarded to the best bait casters, best hunters, and best wing shots and riflemen. Prominent hunters and fishermen will be requested to teach the boys wing shooting and to give lectures on fishing tackle and how to use it.

They will be taught to identify wildlife tracks and fish on sight.

Contests will be held in competition with other clubs, and the Fulton boys are hoping that local sportsmen and businessmen will cooperate by helping them obtain money to buy fishing tackle, targets, clay pigeons, and other sporting supplies.

The club is not being organized solely to provide a "big time" for the boys, it was emphasized. Boys wishing to become members are reminded that the main purpose of the organization is to help preserve wildlife and forests. Therefore, part of the program includes liming and stocking of ponds to increase fish production. The club will cooperate with farmers in this project if they receive the right to fish as a reward for working on farm ponds.

If farmers will provide lime and seed, they soon can have fine fishing in their ponds, club members said. The lime fertilizes the pond to produce microscopic growth on which the fish feed, and certain water plants provide excellent food and cover for the fish. Plants such as cattail and bullrush, sowed around ponds, also stop erosion and keep the pond from filling up.

A trip to Reelfoot Lake is planned later this year to give the boys a chance to apply their newly-learned fishing knowledge.

Tennessee Acts To Increase School Funds By $14 Million

Nashville, Feb. 6.—(AP)—A general education bill to provide about $14,000,000 more per year for Tennessee schools was fast on the way toward becoming law today as the 76th general assembly tackled other, more controversial, legislation.

The administration had some new legislation of its own, following up a promise to seek additional taxes, besides the sales tax it sponsored, to get new revenue for expanded state functions. It had ready for introduction in the legislature bills to:

Double the gallonage tax on whisky, now $1. This would, it is figured, practically double the present intake of about $2,400,000 per year.

Double the tax on beer, now $1.70 per barrel of 31 gallons. The present collections are about 1,400,000, somewhat less than half of which are turned back to counties and cities.

Lever a tax on chain stores according to the number of stores in a chain. The intake, it is estimated, would be about $285,000 per year.

Except for a slight burn suffered by Mrs. Beard, no one was injured.

Happy Day! Forecast Is Fair, Warmer

State Emerges From Coldest Blast Of Winter

RELIEF ON THE WAY

Fair with rising temperature was forecast for Kentucky today as the state emerged from the coldest blast of the season.

The frigid wave, which pushed the mercury down to withering distances of zero, had gripped the state for two days, bringing with it such a heavy demand yesterday for natural gas that several industrial plants in Western Kentucky were forced to close.

Consumers in the Somerset area complained to state authorities that many homes were without heat.

Temporary layoffs of nearly 5,000 workers in General Electric plants at Owensboro, Bowling Green, Henderson and Tellico City, Ind., and the Westinghouse Electric plant at Owensboro were laid to heavy demand for gas by domestic consumers.

The plants at Owensboro were scheduled to resume operation today, however, and others are expected to reopen as soon as the weather moderates.

A light mantle of snow and ice covered most of the state during the cold spell, except in areas around Paducah and Bowling Green. Travel was hazardous in spots.

Lowest official temperature recorded during the past 48 hours was at Lexington, where the thermometer dipped to two degrees above zero. Numerous other communities reported readings under 10 above.

UK Field House Bids To Be Opened Feb. 20

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 6.—(AP)—Opening of bids for first work on the field house to be erected at the University of Kentucky has been postponed until 3 p. m. (C. S. T.) February 20.

They were to have been opened today, but at the state engineering division here it was explained contractors had asked for more time to figure costs, and that deferment also might result in more bids.

Fire Destroys Beelerton Home

The Fulton fire department was called to fight a blaze at the home of Harold Beard on Dr. R. L. Bushart's farm, near Beelerton, this morning, but when they arrived the flames had destroyed the house.

Origin of the fire is unknown, as no one was at home when it started, but it is believed to have been caused by an oil stove. The entire household furnishings of Mr. and Mrs. Beard were destroyed, as was the furniture of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. McClure. The household effects of the McClures were stored in one room of the dwelling.

Except for a slight burn suffered by Mrs. Beard, no one was injured.

Eisler Denies He's Biggest Red In U. S.

Won't Take Oath At Hearing On Un-Americanism

CITED FOR CONTEMPT

Washington, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Gerhard Eisler refused to tell a house committee under oath today whether he is the "No. 1 communist" in America, but former associates—including one who said she is his sister—declared he was for many years Moscow's top agent here.

Shouting that he is a "political prisoner," Eisler threw into turmoil an inquiry by the House un-American activities committee into communist operations in the United States.

He refused repeatedly to take an oath to tell the truth. Finally, the committee cited him for contempt. Conviction by a jury would carry a possible penalty of $1,000 fine and a year in jail.

Federal agents took Eisler away, to go to Ellis Island, N. Y. He is charged with violating the immigration laws. Then, in succession, these witnesses took the stand:

William Howell, negro, he said he was Georgia-born, joined the communist party in 1929, broke with it in 1935. He declared he had known Eisler in Moscow and in Detroit under such aliases as "Edwards" and "Brown" and that Eisler was for years an agent of the communist international.

Ruth Fisher of New York City. She testified her real name is Eisler and that she is a sister of Gerhard Eisler, but has not spoken to him for years because she regards him as "a most dangerous terrorist both for the people of America and the people of Germany."

Between puffs as she chain-smoked cigarettes, Miss Fisher said Eisler was known in inner communist circles as "Gerhart" but added that he had "used many other names" in the course of his work.

(The committee is the international communist party controlling group.)

The pale, defiant little man snarled protests when Chairman Thomas (R-NJ) asked him to swear to tell the truth. He repeatedly refused.

Finally, Thomas told Eisler to "step aside," meaning to leave the witness stand.

The committee promptly voted to cite Eisler for contempt. That is a charge which must be tried before a jury.

Jobless Pay Claims Decrease, Commission Says

Claims of Kentucky veterans for unemployment benefits during the week ending Jan. 25 reached the lowest total recorded since January, 1948. The Kentucky Unemployment Compensation Commission reported today.

Claims for the week covered in the current report numbered 34,969, a decrease of 6,758 from the previous week's total of 41,727.

At the Mayfield U. C. C. office, serving Fulton county, there were 647 state claims, 154 interstate claims, and 179 veterans claims, for a total of 1,784.

The Leader is pleased to announce that a new telephone, No. 1300, has been installed in its office and is now in use.

Many of our readers and patrons have told us that they have been unable to telephone this office during the "busy period" of 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. each day while there was only one telephone in use. We believe this situation will be corrected by the installation of the new line.

We should like to suggest that those who wish to report society and personal news, or who want information about subscriptions, call 30, our old number, first. Then if that line is busy, call 1300.

For calls about advertising, job printing, and news other than for the society page, please call 1300 first, then 30 if 1300 is busy.

In this way, we feel that we will be able to serve you better, and more quickly.

Special Session Needed

School people throughout Kentucky should join the Louisville board of education in petitioning Governor S. S. Willis for a special session of the state legislature to deal with the problem resulting from previously inadequate teacher salary schedules. The general assembly can and the present unhappy state of affairs quickly and to the satisfaction of everyone.

There have been reports that the governor is in sympathy with the teachers in their present plight but has been hesitant to call the General Assembly into extra-ordinary session and thus provide an opportunity for certain potential gubernatorial aspirants to use the occasion to further their political ambitions. However, the inadequacy of teachers' salaries is not a political matter. It is a social problem that demands immediate action.

Kentucky teachers have been at a disadvantage for years. The salaries of the teachers are among the lowest in the country. In one of the few in the country not in session, forty-five of the forty-eight state law-making bodies are meeting and, in virtually all of them efforts are not being made to deal with this problem on a state-wide basis.

In other states, various moves are on foot to take teachers' salaries. Two bills designed to accomplish this purpose are pending in the Indiana legislature; one would double the present minimum of $1,200 annually and the other would provide a blanket increase of 25 per cent. A move is underway in West Virginia with administration and bi-partisan support to raise basic teachers' salaries from $30 to $40 per month, plus additional increases of $1 to $2 per month, based on years of service. Texas is planning to put $75 per month in the pay envelope of every teacher. Other states reported taking steps to meet the problem of inadequate teachers' salaries include: Tennessee, Colorado, Idaho, California, Oregon, Georgia, Pennsylvania, Missouri, Connecticut, Montana, Illinois, Ohio, Iowa, Maine, Massachusetts and Kansas.

State action on this problem obviously offers the only reasonable solution. Local school districts in most instances simply are unable to pay enough to put teachers in effect to bring teachers' salaries to levels in line with those in other occupations requiring comparable education and skill.

The answer, obviously, lies in a special session of the Kentucky legislature which, by augmenting school funds, could enable the various districts to meet this problem until the 1948 legislature can provide a permanent solution. We know of no better use to which part of the state's general fund surplus, which presently totals more than $20,000,000, could be put. (Owensboro Messenger).

Traffic Tribulation

Seattle, (AP)—The light changed, and there he was still kissing the girl, traffic policeman S. J. Stevenson told the court.

"She had her head on my shoulder. She was asleep," replied 22-year-old Charles W. Clapper, 61 student charged with reckless driving. "I just leaned over to look at her. Going to marry her, I hope."

Commented Judge Roy Degrief: "You're liable to have a serious accident. The fine will be $15."

France Absorbs Saar

By J. M. Roberts, Jr.

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Although it has come about gradually and with less fanfare, French control of the Saar has become as much of a fact as has Poland's acquisition of German territory beyond the Oder.

The tone of one paragraph in France's memorandum on the Ruhr to the big three powers makes it clear that she doesn't intend to accept any argument on the point. She said:

"The basin of the Ruhr represents 90 per cent of the steel, 72 per cent of the cast iron, 74 per cent of the coal and 69 per cent of the rolling mill products remaining in German territory when account is taken of the eastern amputations and the attachment of the Saar to the French economy."

As a matter of fact, France completed the "attachment" some time ago through extension of her customs boundaries to the Rhine. Administratively, of course, she was already in control under the occupation agreement which she and Russia have both been inclined to interpret unilaterally.

France also proposes to play a big hand, perhaps the biggest, in an internationalized Ruhr, but that is another story.

International control of the Saar after World War I meant, practically, French control. The coal mines, which have produced as much as 15,000,000 tons annually, were French owned. But the people for a thousand years had been German. Nearly a million of them lived in the small area, 90 per cent working then as now in industries which closely complement France's own economy. In particular, the Saar's coal and Lorraine's iron ore go together like ham and eggs.

The people voted in a League of Nations plebiscite to return to Germany in 1935, thus giving Hitler a cue for his re-entry into the Rheinland and adding vastly to his war potential.

Germany bought back the French coal holdings for $35,000,000 and agreed to pay, in addition, 2,000,000 tons of coal annually for five years. The war stopped shipments with about 3,000,000 tons still owing.

In absorbing the Saar now, France obtains coal reserves estimated at, nine billion tons together with one of the world's most congested industrial areas. The population averages about 1,000 to the square mile, compared with about 660 for Rhode Island.

If France makes the annexation stick, however, it will not be all gravy at least for a while. She herself is short of food, and the Saar is almost entirely dependent on imports. Also, she is taking over nearly a million people of whom about only one half of one per cent speak French, reminding that the area was a familiar battlefield for the armies of the Romans, Charlemagne, the Germans and Napoleon long before Patton's Third Army ripped the Germans to shreds there in 1945.

Family Ties

Los Angeles, (AP)—Seventeen-year-old Anastasia Bajenoff, in order to marry, became the ward of her future mother-in-law. She went to superior court and had Mrs. Marjorie L. Spurlin appointed her guardian so, they testified, Mrs. Spurlin could give permission for marriage of the girl, a minor, and her son, David, 23.

They met in Shanghai when Spurlin was in the army. The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arcadius Bajenoff, still reside in China.

One's A Crowd

Pasadena, Calif. (AP)—Her husband, Willard, insisted that she do her reading in a closet so his slumbers would not be disturbed. Mrs. Margaret Lorraine McGranahan charged in a suit for divorce from the 28-year-old salesman.

"It gets crowded in a closet, even when you're alone," she told the judge, who granted her an interlocutory decree.

Tearful Time

El Paso, Tex. (AP)—Police answering a call on White Oaks street found the neighborhood literally crying for help.

Investigation showed that boys playing on a vacant lot had stumbled across more than a dozen tear gas canisters, presumably old army equipment.

The boys broke several, and the wind did the rest.

Fortunate's Over Age

Philadelphia, (AP)—Fortunate Fratto took the army at its word.

Urged to enlist in a letter, Fratto applied for duty as a drillmaster.

The recruiting officer, however, turned him down.

Fratto, who listed service with the Italian Army in Africa during World War I, is 85 years old.

From Paris, France, comes word that utopian models will get more pay as soon as the bare-chested ladies complain of goose bumps.

Miss Mary Martin, as chairman of the program committee for the Art Department will present Mrs. Joe Barlow who will review "This Little Pig Stayed Home." Mrs. Page gave this review before the Paducah Woman's Club and it was considered one of the best programs they have had. Mrs. Page is well known in club circles, serving at the present time as treasurer of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs.

Miss Nell Warren, vocalist, and Miss Rachel Williams, pianist, also will assist with the program. The State Federation in cooperation with the General Federation of Women's Clubs has asked that the local club contribute to UNRRA school supplies to be sent to the children of China, Korea, and Ethiopia, those countries still receiving aid from UNRRA. The needed articles are pens, pencils, crayons, notebooks, pads, scissors, and all kindergarten supplies.

Atomic Secrecy Charged With Infringing British Press Rights

New York—(AP)—Nature, British official science journal, that under Britain's new Atomic Energy Act her physicist have lost the right of free publication.

Under the act the Minister of Science must rule on what nuclear energy information and secrets can be published.

A British act seems to go against the McMahon Act that does the McMahon Act that American Congress passed last summer. Under that act the Atomic Energy Commission has the duty of saying what can be published about atomic energy, with heavy penalties, and extreme cases the death penalty for violation.

committing an offense.

Liberalization Is Planned

The Minister of Supply has said he intends to issue an order freeing most of the tools of the physicist's trade. A cyclotron is one of the tools.

Nevertheless, Nature asserts that it still will be possible that because of restrictions of this act research workers of foreign countries would be excluded from university laboratories where nuclear work was in progress.

The publication concludes that the losses to scientific progress by such restrictions far outweigh any loss through leakage of information.

Basic Work Hampered

He says that "legally it is that Rutherford's experiment on the disintegration of radium, if done today, would be subject to the act as 'planting the production of atomic energy.'"

Rutherford's experiment was one of the great milestones in the history of science. It was the aid of some radium he used nitrogen, and got a new particle, the proton, which is one of the three units which all matter is made of. He declares that under the act Rutherford would be an agent for production of atomic energy.

Therefore, a life investigator who talks another on a new feature cyclotron, or who wrote a book on it, or any journal thing—the paper, would be

Not that I don't like youngsters. Got a couple myself. And Glenn Ford's 19-month-old Peter hardly could be cuter. Sitting there surrounded by his parents and his stuffed animals, tinkling his toy piano. It's just that it's a lousy time to interview his old man.

Glenn Ford is a tough interview at best. A nice guy, but inclined to conversational sallies like "yup," "nope," and "yeah. I think so." We had settled ourselves in his den and Glenn had just referred to his latest release, "Gallant Journeys," as a "turkey."—I admired his honesty—when the still men appeared and said it was time for Glenn to get his green jacket on.

The Fords moved into their two-story Beverly Hills mansion a few weeks ago from a previous hillside residence above the Sunset Strip. "Oh, oh," their former letter carrier told Eleanor, "that mailman you'll have to 'Beverly' is a grouch."

So he proved to be—at first. Eleanor asked him why. "Aw, these wealthy people around here won't let me park my car in front of their houses to cat my luncheon," the motorized mailman replied.

Eleanor told him he was welcome to park in front of the Fords' any time—and to come in for a drink of water or a cookie or a pear. Now he waves gallantly to her, tells her stamps and is otherwise accommodating.

Wednesday afternoons, the nurses' day off in Beverly Hills, Eleanor takes Peter to the public park and gabs with Hedy Lamarr, Ann Rutherford, and other mothers. The Fords' social life consists in part of Saturday night poker parties—poker, that is, for the men, and talk for the ladies.

Washington Letter

By Jane Eads

Washington—For years physicists and other persons who make a business of probing world-shaking problems have been trying to find a way to prevent earthquakes.

No one has ever approached an answer, and the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey wants us to know that it makes no claims either on how to prevent earthquakes or to predict them.

Comdr. Elliott B. Roberts, in charge of the Division of Geomagnetism and Seismology of the Survey, says that all it can do is to state "probabilities in certain areas as against 'improbabilities in other areas."

More specifically, the Coast and Geodetic Survey for the past three years has had a representative working throughout the American republics to "encourage expansion and more effective cooperation" in seismological investigations.

Physicist Franklin P. Ulrich is the representative. One of his jobs has been to discuss with engineers and architects the program in the United States for adequate earthquake resistant construction and to assist the various republics in obtaining information on the subject.

He says it has been estimated that approximately 50,000 persons have been killed annually during the past 100 years in earthquakes, mainly because of poor construction.

He adds that there is no doubt that much of the property loss, which has run into billions of dollars, could have been avoided by building to withstand earthquakes.

Currently under discussion is the possible formation of a central seismological (earthquake recording) organization in the Western Hemisphere and the setting up of a permanent international organization to assure continuity of its program.

Mr. Ulrich says that at the present time a construction boom is in progress throughout practically the entire world, and the available information on earthquakes is not sufficient for the officials who have to include provisions for earthquake-resistant design in the building codes.

The most notable earthquake zone is around the entire border of the Pacific ocean. Another is in the region of the Mediterranean and eastward through the Near East and India.

But, says Comdr. Roberts, earthquakes have occurred in all parts of the earth during the past year.

The most important of these originated four miles off the coast of the Dominican Republic last Aug. 4. Many casualties were caused by a resulting tidal wave, which swept away an entire village on a low coastal level. Of approximately equal importance was an earthquake April 1 in the Aleutian Islands. This set up long-range tidal waves which were recorded on gauges in various parts of the Pacific basin and did extensive damage at Hilo, Hawaii.

Daring Jumps Worry Cowboy, But Naturally Rider Stands On Two Steeds As They Hurdle Car

FEARS QUICK STOPS

Denver—Dick Griffith has been trick riding since he was big enough to straddle a horse, but he's a worried cowboy when he thunders across the arena with one foot planted on one horse, one on another, and soars into the air over an automobile.

"The main danger is that they'll hesitate at the car, I'll go over without them and then they'll come on over and land on top of me," explained the 33-year-old Scottsdale, Ariz., cowboy between shows at the National Western Stock Show where he presented his new stunt for the first time.

They Spill Rider

The jumpers—2,500 pounds of handsome horseflesh—are connected only by the reins Griffith holds. On their second try at the stunt before the stock show crowds, they refused the jump, split apart and dumped Griffith between them. But he remounted, calmed them with a few slow turns around the arena and then drove them to and over the barrier safely on another try.

The horse-wise cowhands who make the rodeo circuit, with Griffith agree that as long as his luck and nerve hold he has just about the most spectacular act in the game.

Trick riding is old stuff for Griffith.

His dad, Curiel Griffith, was a trick rider, and had Dick following in his hoofprints on the back of a Brahma calf when he was six. By the time he was nine, Dick had his first trick riding championship and they've been coming his way ever since. His most prized title is the international trick riding crown won in London in 1934.

Griffith is equally at home on the back of a Brahma steer. He was the champion steer rider five years, the last time in 1946. He still rides the Brahmas in rodeos where he doesn't give his new trick.

That makes him solid with the other cowhands.

"I Didn't Realize Importance Of Health Department Work"

By Ouida Jewell

A few days ago, I stopped by our local health office for a chat with my friends, Mrs. Grace G. Cavendar and Mrs. Eula Gordon. From curiosity, I asked about their work. Until then, I had never realized what important work our local office of the County Health Department was doing for our community.

Mrs. Cavendar told me that Fulton county was one of the first counties in Kentucky to have a full time health office. As a rule there is only one health office in a county, but Fulton county is one of the few to boast two, one at the county seat, Hickman, and one in Fulton.

Part one of their program is the control of communicable diseases, such as venereal diseases, children's diseases, tuberculosis, typhoid and whooping cough. Blood tests are given free.

The County Health Office also works in cooperation with the Sanitary Department, which regularly inspects restaurants, hotels, milk plants and the city's disposal of garbage. In charge of this work is Harry Barry, sanitary inspector of Fulton county, whose office is in Hickman.

The Fulton county health service, which is maintained by the federal government, the state and the county, is given to everyone free of charge.

Another part of Mrs. Cavendar's work consists of the delivering of birth certificates, which the mothers so value. Upon delivery of these, Mrs. Cavendar offers advice to the mothers on preparing their children for school. The aim of the health department is to immunize all babies, at the age of six months, against the children's diseases.

Mrs. Cavendar and Mrs. Gordon also work in cooperation with the Cripple Children Commission of Louisville, which holds free examinations in Paducah twice a year. Transportation for the cripple children from Fulton to Paducah is also a free service.

After examining the cripple child in Paducah, the doctors from the Cripple Children Commission decide whether the child can be cured. If so, the child is then sent to their hospital in Louisville for treatment. These treatments are also free, unless the child's parents are financially able to pay.

The Health Department's X-ray Mobile Unit, which X-rays

Mrs. Cavendar said, "Our paramount need at the present time, is a good garbage disposal for the city."

Sports Roundup

By Jack Hand

For Hugh Fullerton, Jr.
New York, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Babe Ruth, the man who saved baseball in the dark days after the Black Sox scandal, "celebrates" his 52nd birthday today in the quiet of a downtown hospital room. His lifetime ambition of managing a big league team probably never will be realized. Although The Bambino remains a very sick man, despite encouraging reports from his bedside, baseball should reserve a place for him in its promotional department. No other individual could do more to combat juvenile delinquency by attracting the youth of America to the playing fields.

Sudden Thought Dept.
If Arturo Godoy should happen to tag Joe Louis on the whiskers during their Mexico City exhibition Friday, the search for a heavyweight challenger would be over. However, they are going to use 14-ounce gloves and the South American must wear a head protector to avoid damaging the champ with an accidental butt. Asked if he might be planning to get over a sneak punch, Arturo protested, "No no. She only exhibition." Remember too, that Arturo had two shots at Joe in honest-to-god title shots, and didn't come close in either.

Mike Gonzalez can't get back to organized baseball unless he sells his interest in the Havana Club of the Cuban Winter League, according to Commissioner A. B. Chandler. That doesn't seem likely as the Cuban loop has been coming money this winter, drawing as many as 45,000 fans for a recent duel between Max Lanier of the Al-mendares and Freddy Martin of Gonzalez team. Down in Cuba, where Mike is a national hero, they can't understand the ban. Chandler will be asked to explain more fully when he visits the Dodgers' Havana camp during spring training. "Happy" has a very good answer.

First touch of spring on a near-zero morning: Arrival of a red-white-and-blue roster from the New York Giants. Polo grounds customers will be glad to know the 1946 cellar club wasn't the worst in history. In 1899 they finished tenth. Prize pitching rookie is a 28-year-oldster named Larry Jansen who comes up from San Francisco with a 31-6 win record.

Keep The "Cat" Away

Ted Williams (right) of the Boston Red Sox, puts up his hands to ward off a mock pitch from Harry (The Cat) Brecheen of the St. Louis Cardinals at the Annual Baseball Writers' Dinner in Boston. Brecheen struck out Williams in the 1946 World Series. The "Cat" will leave soon for St. Louis to discuss new contract terms.

Rupp Brags on "Dream Team"

UK Mentor Says He Has A Team Without Misfits; Equipped To Play Better

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 6.—(AP)—A "dream team" on the basketball court, comparable in many respects to the baseball Yankees in their heyday—that's Coach Adolph Rupp's opinion of his University of Kentucky basketball team which has won 21 games and lost only one this season.
Rupp is convinced he has a team without a misfit, "composed of players adapted to the positions in our style of play." Asked what makes his team tick, he answered:
"Heads, hearts, heights and speed."

Then the coach added: "We can rebound and we have the speed. We have a bunch of clever kids and they possess a fine spirit."
Asked what the team does differently than others, he answered: "Nothing. It plays straight basketball but is equipped to do a little better than some."
"I was reading the other day about the old New York Yankees. The players rarely spoke to each other during a game. They just walked to the plate and knocked the ball away."
"Our team is equipped much the same way in basketball. We go into a game, get the ball any way we can and fire away when we have the opportunity."
Speed is one of the team's top qualities. Paced by Ralph Beard and Ken Rollins, two fast guards, the Wildcats literally stampede when they gain the ball.

The team is adept at getting the ball. It takes the ball away from opposing players as often as it gains possession on rebounds. Each man is ready at all times to intercept a poorly timed pass.
And on the defense, the team sticks like thick syrup.
The only team to beat Kentucky this season was Oklahoma A. and M., which employed a slow type of game. Rupp called this type of play the "most effective" against the Wildcats.
He added, however, that stalling tactics won't always work against his team, and pointed to Kentucky's record, which speaks for itself.

It has been estimated that the lowest pay level in the armed services during World War II—$50 a month with various other financial advantages—was the equivalent of $2,700 in civilian life.

McWhorter of Rives held the honors for his team with 11 points for the night.
Moore, Angel forward, scored more than half the points for her team, finding the basket for 14 counters. Elam, forward, was high scorer for the Rives girls with 9 points.

Coach Rupp Says He Won't Consider Pro Offer Just Now

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 6.—(AP)—Adolph Rupp, basketball coach at the University of Kentucky has declined to consider an offer to coach a Louisville professional team at this time.
Rupp said last night that a "very attractive offer" had been made by a delegation of men representing the proposed team, but that he told them he was interested now "only in directing my entire effort toward bringing the current season to a successful conclusion."

The coach added, however, that "you can not dismiss a fine offer without giving it some consideration. I told them there would be plenty of time to give it due consideration after the season is over."
Mr. and Mrs. Born Neely left yesterday for Paducah on business.
