Winter Returns Thruout State; Roads Are Icy Near Blizzard Conditions In Plains States

EUROPE COLD, TOO

Slippery roads and streets throughout Kentucky presented motorists with a traffic hazard today and there was no indication of immediate improvement in travel conditions. Snow and ice were reported general over the state, with the snow ranging from a trace to as much as four inches in the extreme eastern portion of Kentucky.

The section east of Pikeville reported the heaviest snowfall and it tapered down to a trace at Fulton, Bowling Green and other cities in western Kentucky. Rain was reported in scattered areas.

Corbin had a snowfall of 2 1/2 inches and Louisville recorded 8 of an inch during the last 24 hours.

Temperatures generally were a little higher today but still below the freezing mark. Overnight lows included 17 degrees at Frankfort, 17 at Louisville and Bowling Green, 21 at Ashland, 28 at Corbin and 29 at Pikeville.

Roads were hazardous in and around Fulton, Corbin, Ashland and the entire eastern part of the state.

The weather bureau predicted a light snow in Kentucky tonight, with continued cold weather tomorrow.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—(P)—Near blizzard conditions prevailed in the Dakotas and Minnesota as winds of from 40 to 60 miles an hour carried a fresh mass of cold air from Canada into the benumbed midwest region. The storm roared westward to the Rockies and spread out over the north central states. Sharp drops in temperature were predicted for the entire area over the weekend.

Federal forecasters said that there was not much new snow in the storm, but the winds of gale velocity drifted old snow and threatened to impede transportation.

At Jamestown, N. D., the temperature tumbled to below 15 below zero and winds of 61 miles an hour whipped up snow to make visibility only 1-1 1/2 of a mile. Conditions in many parts of the Dakotas and Minnesota were nearly similar, the weather bureau reported.

London, Feb. 7.—(P)—The government announced today that electricity would be cut off Monday from industries in the London, Birmingham and Manchester areas of Britain, largely because of an acute shortage of

Driver Held After Accident

Negro Cabbie Arrested En Route From Here To Paducah; Struck Auto

Paul Nunley, negro driver for a Paducah cab company, was severely injured at about 10:30 yesterday morning near Mayfield his automobile collided with a turn in the highway near the Graves County airport. The auto overturned several times.

McCoy Tarry, basketball coach, saw the injured man, administered first aid, and took him to a Mayfield hospital for treatment.

Nunley left Fulton at about 9:30 yesterday morning. Highway patrolmen reported that his automobile collided with a car driven by Delbert Gillum, state highway employee, about three miles south of Mayfield on Highway 45. Gillum was uninjured, but damage to his car was estimated at about $100.

Patrolmen stated that hit-and-run driving charges will be brought against the negro.

Manufacturing Crowds Farming As Kentucky's Chief Provider of Jobs, Committee For Ky. Says

Louisville, Feb. 7.—Manufacturing—which employs more than 126,000 workers in Kentucky—is now the state's second most important provider of jobs, according to Dr. W. Scott Hall, of Transylvania College, who has just completed a "Report on Manufacturing" for the Committee for Kentucky.

Dr. Hall presented the final revision of his new report to the Board of Directors of the Committee for Kentucky and representatives of the Committee's 79 member organizations, in a public meeting Thursday at the Henry Clay Hotel in Louisville.

Dr. Hall disclosed that agriculture is still Kentucky's chief provider of jobs, but he emphasized that greater industrial expansion is highly possible.

Most promising on the list of new or expanded industries, Dr. Hall stated, are cigarettes, coke and other by-products, men's clothing, light machinery, shoes, pottery, fertilizer, meat packing, timber products and milk products.

Actually, however, Kentucky holds a mediocre position as an industrial state because she is in between two superior regions—the North and the South.

Dr. Hall observed that "our closest approach to superiority" is a large supply of labor close to northeastern markets and manufacturing centers. Offsetting this has been the fact that northeastern industry has attracted Kentucky labor instead of labor attracting industries to Kentucky.

"Some of these influencing factors are being favorably changed," Dr. Hall declared.

"The skill and education of our workers, freight rates, highways, and knowledge of industrial opportunities and our presentation of them to industrialists recently have been improved or are in the process of improving."

"Small changes should bring relatively large increases because while we do not have outstanding superiority, neither do we have outstanding inferiority that would exert a sharp repelling force. Small changes may convert a mediocre position into an acceptable one."

Dr. Hall said that "Kentucky is the nation's largest producer of unrefined whiskey."

In cigarette manufacturing, North Carolina enjoys advantages over Kentucky because of nearness to raw materials, history and policies of leading companies, cheap labor and nearness to market, Dr. Hall said.

"But Kentucky's disadvantages can be over-emphasized," he went on. "The demand for a stronger cigarette, that is use

State's Attorney Observes His 75th Birthday At Work

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 7.—(P)—Assistant Attorney General M. B. Hollifield observed his 75th birthday today, interrupting his work only to receive congratulations.

He has been a member of the staffs of Kentucky attorneys since 1928 with one four year lapse. His duties include that of counsel for the State Railroad Commission in the fight to give Kentucky and all the south equal freight rates.

Hollifield was born in Graves county, was graduated in law at Cumberland College in Tennessee and has practiced law since 1896.

of a larger proportion of burley, or the development of a lighter burley could eliminate the disadvantages."

In presenting the case for industrial expansion, Dr. Hall declared that industry provides jobs, enlarges the tax base, furnishes a market for raw material and provides a balance in economic life.

Industrial skill in Kentucky has improved materially, Dr. Hall said, because of experience gained in war factories and through the Vocational Training for War Production Workers program. This program spent $3,900,000 in Kentucky, or $62.19 for each 1939 Kentucky manufacturing worker, compared with the $37.47 national average.

Kentucky enjoys an advantage in water transportation, is rich in raw materials, has satisfactory electric light and power facilities and "excellent" fuel supplies, he noted.

However, Kentucky is "woefully deficient" in knowledge of cost factors, search for low cost opportunities and forceful presentation of this information to prospective industrial concerns.

Dr. Hall said. Formation of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce and the Kentucky Development Association is helping to change this, he said.

Truman To Be Asked To Run

Hannegan Says Party Is Ready To Support Him; GOP Prepares Its Reply

Washington, Feb. 7.—(P)—A broadside of Lincoln Day addresses seemed likely today to provide the Republican reply to a declaration by Democratic Chairman Robert E. Hannegan that his party is ready to call on President Truman to seek reelection.

Hannegan's statement, made at a New York dinner for postal supervisors, was said by White House Secretary Charles G. Ross to have been made without Mr. Truman's knowledge.

But there seemed little doubt the pastmaster general and national chairman spoke the wishes of the party's high command when he asserted after praising the President's handling of foreign and domestic problems:

"We have gone far and fast but the task of leading us to peace and plenty is not accomplished in a day nor a year. Truman has proved himself fit for the job. Until that work is finished America will give him the support and loyalty that he deserves of us through the years ahead."

Hannegan later replied "yes" to a question whether it was his intention to throw Mr. Truman's hat into the 1948 Presidential ring.

Most Republicans have thought for some time that President Truman is certain to be the choice of the Democrats in the party's 1948 convention. Accordingly, their strategy has been to try to outshine his administration with their own handling of Congress and gubernatorial offices.

Carroll Reece, Republican national chairman, brushed aside Hannegan's remark with the comment that "it is again the voice of Hannegan but the hand of Pendergast."

The Pendergast organization in Kansas City which gave Mr. Truman his start in politics was made a prime campaign issue by the Republicans last fall.

The authority's breakdown by states on where the Japanese went when they left the relocation centers includes:

Hall Shelton Is Producer

Former Fulton Resident To Give Shakespeare's Dramas In N. Y. City

Hall Shelton, who was reared in Fulton and who visited in the city last summer, has recently written Fulton friends, that he had secured the services of a celebrated London company to produce a repertoire of Shakespearean plays in the Century Theater of New York City, beginning Tuesday, Feb. 18, and continuing for at least a three-weeks engagement.

The company stars Donald Wolfitt and Rosalind Iden, who have distinguished themselves in the London theatre. The group of plays includes "King Lear" and "The Merchant of Venice," neither of which has been included in a Shakespearean group in New York in the last 30 years.

Productions of "The Merchant of Venice" have decreased with the feeling that no play should be produced which was felt to discriminate against any race. In this play the Jew, Shylock, is made the butt of Christian enmity because he demands a pound of flesh from the merchant, Antonio.

Mr. Shelton attributes his fondness for Shakespeare to an interest which was fostered in his high school literature class then taught by Miss Betty Davis the present Mrs. Carl Hastings.

Gromyko May See Austin

Private Meeting On UN Differences Said Likely Before Committee Group

New York, Feb. 7.—(P)—The deadlocked United Nations debate on arms reduction machinery was interrupted temporarily today to give the United States and Soviet Russia a chance to settle their differences in a private talk.

Members of a six-nation security council committee suggested this procedure after they had sought unsuccessfully for two days to reconcile the views of the two big powers as to how the council should approach the arms reduction program.

Although no definite meeting between U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin and Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko was scheduled when yesterday's meeting ended, the committee decided to meet again at 2 p. m. C. S. T. today, leaving the morning free for the suggested private talk.

A member of the American delegation said last night that Austin was willing to meet Gromyko and would take the initiative in arranging a conference. Earlier Gromyko had said he was ready to talk with Austin but expressed doubts as to the value of such a meeting.

Yesterday's seven-hour closed session of the committee left the delegates agreed on a number of minor points, but still far apart on one big issue—how to define the relationship between the proposed arms commission and the present atomic energy commission.

UK Needs More Money From State's General Assembly, Dr. H. L. Donovan Tells Co-Op School President Featured Speaker At Farm Leaders' Luncheon Today; Summarizes Services Of University

ASKS OTHERS TO JOIN HIM IN FUND PLEA

The University of Kentucky needs additional appropriations from the Kentucky general assembly to serve its rapidly-growing student body and the people of the state, Dr. H. L. Donovan, UK president, told members of the Fulton Cooperative Association at a luncheon meeting in the basement of the First Methodist church today.

Returned veterans, "the best students we have had in the history of the University," he said, are entitled to better buildings and living facilities than those enjoyed by inmates of our state prisons and mental hospitals.

Dr. Donovan announced his intention of going before the General Assembly to ask for a larger university appropriation and urged the farm leaders from five Purchase counties who attended today's luncheon meeting to make similar requests of their state representatives and senators.

"I am not asking you for a gift," the educator emphasized. "I am asking for an investment—an investment which will return the biggest dividend you have ever received."

Dr. Donovan was introduced by J. C. Bondurant, Hickman, J. B. McGeehee, Fulton county Farm Bureau secretary, was master of ceremonies.

The luncheon followed reports on Cooperative and general agricultural activities given this morning at the Fulton city hall. Farmers and university extension officials from Fulton, Hickman, Carlisle, Ballard and Graves counties attended. This afternoon the visitors planned a tour of Mr. McGeehee's Kentucky 31 fescue and Ladino clover fields, and an inspection of Ladino clover on E. E. Kline's farm.

Interested in Farming
In his address to the farm leaders, Dr. Donovan told them that he was a farmer, "and proud of it," that he was vitally interested in farming.

Commenting on UK's enrollment, Dr. Donovan said there were 7,000 students there now, 4,400 of whom are veterans, and that some 3,000 were turned away this year because there was no place for them to live.

He predicted that the enrollment may reach its peak at 10,000, and believes that it will never be less than 8,000 afterwards.

These students are living in what we have been told is an atomic age, the UK president continued, but the discovery of how to use atomic energy is not our secret weapon. "Our secret weapon," he declared, "is the men who made the atomic bomb—learned, scholarly, educated men."

Education, which has been the cheapest commodity in Kentucky, will make us intelligent enough to use atomic energy properly; education will create wealth, he said.

Before the speaker was introduced, all alumni of the University were asked to stand and give the year in which they were graduated.

This morning's program at the city hall included:

A report on the wool association by J. R. Davis, Carlisle county agent; report of the Ladino clover committee by R. D. Taylor, Co-op secretary; a report of the lamb pool and the Fulton Cooperative for 1946 by Mr. Mr. Taylor; discussion of Ladino clover and Kentucky 31 fescue production by William C. Johnson, agronomy department, University of Kentucky; and "The Production of Good Seed," by B. W. Fortenberry, secretary of the Kentucky Seed Improvement Association.

Stassen, Taft Clash On Secret Strike Vote Plan In Senate Labor Committee Hearing Today

Washington, Feb. 7.—(P)—Congressional argument over new labor laws produced a clash of views today between Harold E. Stassen and Senator Robert A. Taft who brushed off as "trivial" a proposal by the former Minnesota governor for a secret vote of workers before a strike.

Stassen, an open bidder for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination, was a volunteer witness before the Senate Labor Committee of which Taft, also mentioned as a White House possibility, is chairman.

In calling Stassen's idea "trivial," Taft commented that in such a vote the workers "do not go against their leaders."

"If you believe in democracy of workers, you must have confidence in a secret ballot," Stassen flared.

The Senate Committee is studying a wide variety of proposals for new labor laws, but contemplates no decisions before next month.

The Stassen-Taft incident contributed to enlivening a Capitol Hill day during which there were such other developments as these:

Senators Vandenberg (R-Mich) and Millikin (R-Colo.) sought through a public, formal statement to head off a move by some Republicans for repeal of the reciprocal trade agreements act.

They suggested some objections raised to it could be met if the administration took steps to recall or modify any tariff reductions proved damaging to American industry. They expressed belief President Truman would give this plan "serious consideration," and said he could do it under present law, proposals for new labor laws, but

Under the program, the state department negotiates agreements with other nations for reductions of tariffs.

Former congressman Robert Rampeck, testifying before the Senate Commerce Committee, argued it would be a "costly mistake" to set up a government air safety board separate from the Civil Aeronautics Administration. Such a board has been suggested to the committee, now studying ways to increase safety of air travel. Once a Democratic congress member from Georgia, Rampeck is now vice president of the Air Transport Association.

Stassen, in testimony to the Labor Committee, said union leaders have "abused" their power, but cautioned Congress against "going too far" with restrictive legislation.

Here's Hoping—

After a conference with a Kentucky Education Association delegation from which newsmen were barred, Governor Willis announced through his executive secretary that he will give "immediate and sympathetic consideration" to the request for $10,500,000 to increase salaries of Kentucky school teachers.

The KEA has asked the governor to call a special session of the legislature to provide these funds, which would add an estimated $600 to each Kentucky teacher's salary annually.

The school people, their friends, and everyone interested in Kentucky's educational system and Kentucky's children, hope the Governor's "sympathetic consideration" will result in a positive stand in favor of the KEA proposals. Kentucky's per capita expenditure for public school students is and has been near the bottom of the heap compared with the other states. Many of these other states have made provision this year to increase teachers' salaries and to up the overall amount appropriated for school purposes. To borrow the former slogan of the Committee for Kentucky, it's time to "Wake Up, Kentucky."

Training Sportsmen

The Junior Conservation Club organized for local boys of high school age is a most commendable project that will be of great benefit to the members and to all who enjoy hunting and fishing, and life in the great outdoors.

The boys will learn to hunt and fish under direction of older, more experienced sportsmen. They also will learn to conserve wildlife and forests, in order that the supply of game and fish will continue to increase and provide more pleasure and recreation for others.

The club will need financial assistance to purchase supplies and equipment, and they are counting on support from Fulton businessmen and sportsmen. When the time comes, give them a helping hand. It will be well worth your while.

Just One Day Early

A subscriber called us yesterday to inquire about this somewhat startling statement which appeared last by itself on page 2 of the Leader's Feb. 5 edition:

"His attractive brunette wife is on the edge of the arena each time he makes the jump, and admits she 'sweats him out'."

For this lady's information, and to satisfy the curiosity of anyone else who read the paper closely, these lines were intended as the last paragraph of a story on page 3 of the Feb. 6 Leader, headlined "Daring Jumps Worry Cowboy—Rider Stands On Two Steeds As They Rumble Car."

Merely a case of our getting the cart before the horse (story).

With The Fourth Estate

Ramblings By Henry Ward

The announcement by Philip Ardery that he will not make a race for a state office this year, himself but will give his support to Harry Lee Waterfield in the Democratic campaign for governor has a deep significance for those interested in the inside story of Kentucky politics.

Ardery is one of the most promising of the young Democrats. He comes from a family with a long and successful record in state politics. His father is circuit judge in the Pacific-Frankfort district, and was the Democratic chairman in the first of President Roosevelt's campaigns. His mother is one of the most active of the Democratic women of the Sixth District.

Ardery made an excellent record in World War II. Entering service as a private, he earned his wings and came out as a lieutenant colonel in the Air Force. He was a leader in the Allied bombing of the Rumanian oil fields and in other action in the European theater.

In his first entry into politics himself last year, he came within 10,000 votes of winning the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator, and it is generally conceded that he would have been a much stronger nominee for the Democrats than John Young Brown turned out to be.

Ardery's endorsement of Waterfield is significant for several reasons. In the first place, it is a part of the pattern which is being developed in the Democratic primary race. That pattern seems to give to Earle C. Clements, Waterfield's opponent, the support of the old-line machine of state politics—the remnants of the Tom Rhea organization, the backing of an element of the Democratic organization in Louisville that plays politics for the sake of politics.

Add to this backing for Clements the support of the private utility interests of Kentucky. From friends of this group probably will come his greatest financial support—for the utilities look on Clements as a good friend and on Waterfield as an avowed enemy.

Are Reds Stalling?

By J. M. Roberts, Jr.

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

With several countries insisting that they cannot move toward disarmament until they know what is being done toward collective security through the United Nations military committee, that group, and particularly its Russian members, are taking a lambasting for inactivity.

Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate, is demanding a report "showing exactly how and why" the committee has been obstructed. Sir Alexander is believed to be acting under instructions from Foreign Secretary Bevin, who is reported much discouraged over progress toward a U. N. military force. The inference is that some delegation within the committee is recalcitrant and, since one of the western powers asks the question, that delegation must be the Russian.

But that isn't the complete truth. The Russians did delay, between March and September, their "statement of principles" which the committee had asked of all members. When they did present it, they were criticized for "not saying anything."

A careful investigation has failed to reveal where any of the others "said anything" either, when they reported in April, but the Russians got the blame and it has clung to them.

Since September, however, the committee's stalling has been unanimous. The truth is that, lacking directives from the Security Council, the military men have no means of knowing where they are going or what they're supposed to do when they get there.

There's a situation in the U. N. which produces stalling in the whole security field for the time being.

The Security Council, of course, is not charged with making peace, but with enforcing whatever peace is handed to it by the foreign ministers council, which is itself a long way from the end of its job. The military committee is charged with recommending to the Security Council the force it will need to police whatever peace is finally agreed upon. To expect it to act at this point is like asking a military staff to prepare for war in a country of which it has never heard, of which no maps are available.

The committee has been working behind its activities are known, even though one an elaborate screen of secrecy, but some of delegation (the Russian) once quit speaking to another for a week because of a relatively minor leak.

No general agreements have been reached, not even on the procedural methods the committee will use when it does get down to work.

Everything said in committee meetings must be translated in all four languages of its big five membership—Russian, English, French and Chinese. This drags out sessions interminably.

Not knowing what even its first limited objectives will be, the committee has not gotten around to anything like a determination of what size security force will be needed, of what it should be composed, where it should be based, how it can be provisioned or how it can be commanded.

The general goal is for an armed force which will, after the nations have contributed their shares, permit them to disarm as individuals except for small internal forces.

There are strong indications that, until this goal is reached, all the talk about general disarmament will produce nothing. In fact, one delegation expects to suggest in the Security Council soon that disarmament talk be dropped until collective security becomes a fact. The suggestion will likely come from one of the very small powers, but there is some indication that the U. S. will get behind it. That may be one reason the U. S. is insisting on going ahead with atomic control negotiations without bothering with general disarmament until the foreign ministers complete the peace.

Unusual Shortcut

Oklahoma City.—(AP)—Next time a building-scaling interne at St. Anthony's hospital recedes to take the short cut home, he's going to forewarn the police, he told Policemen R. S. Riley and Wayne Phillips.

The policemen spotted the interne climbing down the wall of the hospital. When they stopped to question him he explained that if he returned to his quarters by the usual method, through the corridors, he had to walk nearly a block, but by jumping out the window he had only a short distance to go.

Airpower Effective

Verona, Mo.—(AP)—C. E. Atterberry and Glen Calhoun are firm believers that the best way to rout the enemy is through air power.

The pair marked up five victims in their latest raid, making a total of 18 wolves they've shot from an airplane since the first of the year.

Sports Roundup

New York, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Local sports hear that Leo Durocher has been invited by Commissioner Happy Chandler to drop off at Cincinnati and have a long, quiet chat with him on his imminent trip east.

Navy's once-beaten basketball team, sparked by Kenny Shugart of Cheyenne, Wyo., is reported to be anxious to play in the NCAA championship tournament at the Garden next month. Coach Ben Carnevale calls Shugart (5 ft. 9 in.) "the greatest small player I've ever seen."

Veck's Tracksters set new attendance records for professional football in five cities last season, in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and Los Angeles. Whatever else the Cleveland Indians do this year, they should win all the between-game track meets that Bill Veck, Jr., can line up for them. George Case and Johnny Rucker must be the fastest pair of outfielders on any big league club.

Statistical Uplift
Baseball box scores are due for a slight face-lifting this season, the result of a poll of the nation's sports editors by the Associated Press. The editors were asked if, instead of the time-honored line "x-batted for Gilhooley in 9th," they would prefer to be told exactly what the pinch-hitter did, for instance "x-struck out for Gilhooley in 9th." Even though fewer than 100 responses have been received so far, the vote is in favor of the innovation so one-sided—about 8 to 1—that it's evident it will be welcomed.

Dixie For Durocher?
If by any chance the Brooklyn Dodgers ever should require a new manager, local observers have a strong feeling that Dixie Walker is in line for the job. The "people's cherche," as his title implies, is a powerful character in the borough across the bridge. Ray Blades, now a Dodger coach, would be Dixie's main rival for the post.

Suggests Tourney Among 8 Best SEC, Southern Teams

Atlanta, Feb. 6.—(AP)—A suggestion that the eight top teams in the Southern conference and the eight best in the Southeastern conference meet annually in a southern championship basketball tournament was made today by Radio Sportscaster Ernie Harwell of WAGA.

Harwell pointed out that the annual tournament of the respective conference settle the issue on "sudden-death" basis, with the 20 or so games the teams play prior to that meaning nothing more than a series of exhibition tilts.

"Neither the annual Southeastern conference meet nor the Southern conference tournament packs the wallop the old Southern tournaments held here used to have," he said. "A

Western Takes Eastern 81-47

Toppers Start Slowly, But Rally To Coast In No College Tilts Tonight

Western State Teachers College handed Eastern State Teachers basketball team its second defeat of the season in a KIAC game played at Bowling Green last night, 81-47.

Coach Ed Diddle's Hilltoppers started slow, but after they got going, poured in basket after basket. Eastern took an early 6-0 lead and held on to their margin to within six minutes before the end of the first half. At that time, however, Western went ahead 19-17 and in the final six minutes of the half, scored 22 more points. Western led at the half 41-22.

After the second stanza was only five minutes old, Western's lead had soared to 50-30 and five minutes before the final whistle led 70-40.

It was Western's 14th victory in 17 starts. For Paul McBrayer's Maroons, it was their second loss this season in 18 starts. Ray was high point man with 11. Substitute Center Bobby Coleman led for the losers with 14. Union College traveled to Bristol, Tennessee, to defeat King College 47-39. King led at the half 18-16.

No college games as scheduled in Kentucky tonight.

combined tournament, with the site alternated between the conference, would provide a real Southern champion, especially if the double-elimination pattern were followed.

"The present Southern tournament perhaps has an edge on the Southeastern for interest, for the latter has resolved itself into a race with Kentucky battling the other eleven teams each year."

Henderson, Murray Considered Best In W. Ky. Tourney

Madisonville, Ky., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Henderson and Murray teams were considered favorites by observers in the first postwar basketball tournament of the Western Kentucky High School Conference opening here today.

This afternoon's opening contest matched Madisonville and Marion. Murray was scheduled to meet Bowling Green in the second tilt.

Tonight's pairings pit Henderson against Mayfield and Providence against Fulton.

Semifinals will be played tomorrow afternoon, beginning at 2 p. m., with the championship game scheduled for 8 p. m. tomorrow.

Teams Hard On "Foreigners"

Colleges Have Won 70 Games, Lost 26 Against Foes From Outside State

The University of Louisville and Eastern State Teachers posted perfect marks today to lead the Commonwealth's Collegiate basketball clubs to a respectable record of 70 victories against 26 defeats in interstate competition. That's a booming .729 average. The record was made by 11 of the state's 12 clubs, with only Transylvania not engaging an out-of-state foe.

Behind the pace-setting Cards, unbeaten against eight "foreign" foes, and the Maroons, unbeaten against six, comes the University of Kentucky, which has won 20 of 21 games against outside competition.

Wesleyan, with no wins and three setbacks, and Berea, zero and one, bring up the rear.

Tonight's schedule finds four Kentucky teams meeting out-of-state opposition. Three of the games are in Ohio. Centre plays at Wilmington, Georgetown at Cedarville and the University of Louisville meets Ohio University at Athens. Morehead State Teachers College is host to West Liberty.

No Kentucky clubs played last night but the University of Louisville's "B" team defeated Lindsey Wilson, 49-47, at Columbia.

Louis Meets Godoy Tonight

Will Fight 10 Rounds In Mexico City; Both Men Said To Be In The Pink

Mexico City, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis and Chilean Arturo Godoy, twice a contender for the world title, meet for the third time in a ten-round, no-decision bout tonight inaugurating Louis' Latin-American exhibition tour.

The scene is the new 60,000-seat building and promoter Gene Lucas has high hopes of a sell-out that might result in a gate of $400,000.

Both were pronounced in "good shape." Louis has been in training here for more than a week, while Godoy arrived only three days ago. Godoy says the mile and a half altitude doesn't bother him, but Louis admits it affects him "just a little."

The fight will be in two-minute rounds instead of the regulation three.

Louis has impressed Mexicans as a fine fighting machine, supremely confident and thoroughly relaxed, while Godoy seems to be more the nervous type. Both have given fans the impression they will put on more than the usual exhibition.

Louis said in typical Louis fashion "I'll fight like always," while Godoy declared "if I don't win I'll give him plenty of trouble." In their two previous meetings, both title bouts in 1940, Louis won a decision in 15 rounds and later scored an eight-round knockout victory.

"Monk" Oldham Set Shot Artist For MSC Quintet

Murray, Ky.—One of the best set shot artists on the Murray State Thoroughbred cage squad is Herman "Monk" Oldham, former Male high school star.

The 21-year old forward from Louisville has scored 91 points for the Thoroughbreds this season on 37 field goals and 17 free tosses. Most of his goals have been scored from far out on the court on set shots.

"Monk" stands 6 feet 3 inches tall and is a veteran of the Merchant Marine. Last year he played for the Eastern Maroons but transferred to Murray at the beginning of the fall quarter last year.

Coach John Miller is counting upon Oldham to come through in the KIAC tournament to be held in the Armory at Louisville on Feb. 20, 21 and 22.

Wall Street Report

New York, Feb. 7—(AP)—Scattered rallies edged forward in today's stock market although many industrials still were handicapped by profit cashing on the lengthy recovery. Dealings slowed after a fairly active start and the direction was a trifle cloudy near midday. Bidding again was based on tax hopes, the better labor situation and the feeling of some that any economic recession would be relatively mild. Fractional improvement was recorded for N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Kennecott, General Electric and Montgomery Ward. Occasional stumblers included Bethlehem, American Telephone, Western Union "A" Sears Roebuck, Boeing, American Can, Anaconda and Standard Oil (N.J.). Bonds were narrow and cotton futures steady. Mr. Warren Anderson, manager of the Kentucky Utilities of Clinton, Ky., was a business visitor in Fulton today.

coal aggravated by a 10-day cold wave.

Fuel Minister Emanuel Shinwell also told the House of Commons that domestic consumers could have no electricity between 9 a. m. and noon, and 2 and 4 p. m.

This was a drastic blow to the production-for-export drive which the government holds vital to Britain's recovery from the war. It came just six weeks after the nation's coal mines were taken under public ownership. Shinwell said he hoped the restrictions would last no more than three or four days.

A Definition of Our Town

Somebody defined our town just the other day as "A place where the people talk about you behind your back, and come to wait on you when you're sick."

I've got to admit there's something to it. A lot of our folks are inclined to be pretty outspoken and quick to criticize... even about little things, like a woman's hat, or a man's preference for a glass of beer, or the color of Cy Hartman's new barn.

But when anyone's in trouble, those differences and points of criticism are forgotten... and folks become neighborly and helpful, like they really are.

From where I sit, criticism never did much harm to anybody, so long as folks don't let it guide their actions... so long as they respect our individual preferences, whether they apply to hats or beer. That's the way it is in our town, anyway, and I hope that it's the same in yours.

HOW GENIUS WITH A CHARRED STRING LIGHTED A WORLD FOR BETTER LIVING

In Thomas Alva Edison's laboratory a bell jar was pumped free of air. In this vacuum a charred cotton string was suspended from two thin wires. Edison closed the switch that sent electricity through the string. It glowed brightly. The electric light was born.

The light which came out of vacuum built the great electric industry of the United States, an industry that today gives the American workman more cheap electric power than is available in any other nation. Because of this abundance of power, American workmen produce more goods, earn more money, and work shorter hours than any other men in the world.

We have a new world. We Americans have developed it ourselves: with initiative, with courage, with intelligence and ingenuity, and with hard work.

Thomas Edison grew up in a young nation accustomed to hard work and few comforts. He slaved because he knew the world would welcome something better. We, his followers, feel that it is our responsibility to protect and expand the usefulness of his contributions.

Thomas Edison's genius contributed to the welfare of all mankind, and on February 11 the world will commemorate the 100th anniversary of his birth.
