John Gill Signs As Manager Of Chicks For '47

Former G'hound Skipper Says He's Ready for Season

PROSPECTS ARE GOOD

Johnny Gill, manager of the Union City Greyhounds last season, signed a contract last night to be player-manager of the Fulton Chicks in 1947. K. P. Dalton, president of the Fulton Baseball Association, announced this morning.

Gill said he was in top physical condition, and wants to play in every game for the Chicks this year, Mr. Dalton added.

The new manager-outfielder has long been known in baseball circles as a capable man at the plate. A consistent hitter, his batting average last year was .378. He is expected to be a big factor in the Chicks' offensive play in the coming season.

Gill returned to his home in Nashville today. He will accompany a Fulton delegation to Bay St. Louis, Miss., to help select players for the Fulton team when the Memphis Chicks open their spring training camp there.

Among the players from last year's team to whom contracts are being mailed are Buck, third base; Propst, first base; Lis, catcher; Secret, catcher; Senwright, outfield; Lynch, pitcher; Engel, pitcher; Long, pitcher; and Peterson, outfield. Ireland, a pitcher, and Workman, an outfielder, may be added to the Chick roster this year.

Another highly successful season is in prospect for the Chicks, local supporters believe.

Much More Time To Play Checkers

Looking for a good job, with not too much work attached to it? We'd suggest you try for a spot on the Princeton, Ky., fire department.

The Princeton Leader reports this week that not one fire alarm was sounded during the month of January. This was an "unusual record," however, the Leader pointed out.

English War Bride Doesn't Miss Home Yet, Likes U. S.

Mrs. Florrie McClannahan arrived in Fulton Tuesday from her home in Leicester, England. She is the wife of Louis McClannahan, Route 3, Fulton.

Mrs. McClannahan stated that her trip from England to the States was very unpleasant, due to stormy weather and rough seas. She sailed from Southampton, England, to New York, where she landed at Staten Island. She then proceeded to Fulton by train. She was accompanied by her son, Brian Keith Harding.

Mrs. McClannahan is the daughter of Mrs. Florrie Harding of Leicester, England. She has two brothers, one of whom, a sailor, served in India and China and was wounded in action.

She and her husband met in Leicester, and were married in the register's office there. They'll celebrate their fourth wedding anniversary on Sept. 18.

Mr. McClannahan was in the service 44 months, serving overseas for 29 months. When discharged he held the rank of sergeant. He returned to the States Oct. 4, 1945, but his wife was unable to join him at that time.

The United States is "a wonderful place—especially Fulton," Mrs. McClannahan thinks. She doesn't miss England yet, she said.

The war bride likes her home in the country, and the folks she has met since coming here. She is now a patient at Haws Memorial Hospital, and praised the nurses and doctors highly. She plans to return to her home on Route 3 in about nine days.

Mr. McClannahan has two brothers and two sisters who live here.

Landlords Group Protests Control Of Rents By U. S.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 8.—(P)—A committee was named by protesting landlords here last night to fight against rent controls in Franklin, Scott and Woodford counties.

Speakers last night denounced rent control as unfair when other costs are up. Fielder termed it "legalized stealing and un-American."

Mess Sergeant Finds Civilians Really Like Mess

Manchester, N. H.—(P)—Stratton A. Kouskoutas, former Army mess sergeant, thought he was stuck with a truck.

When he was discharged after service in Europe, Kouskoutas bought an old GI ambulance with the intention of going into the wholesale provision business, but he couldn't find supplies.

So he installed hot plates, coffee jug and shelves for doughnuts, cakes and cigarettes. Now he tours the city dispensing hot dogs, hamburgers and coffee to chilled outdoors workers, filling station attendants and industrial plant workers.

Business is so good he's in the market for a bigger truck.

Harrison M. Robertson and John Hennessy Say They Are For Waterfield

Two active Louisville Democrats, John M. Hennessy and Harrison M. Robertson, have pronounced they would support Harry Lee Waterfield for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Hennessy, insurance man and local Democratic campaign chairman in three of the last four general elections, was signed with Waterfield in 1943 when the Clinton publisher and speaker of the House of Representatives was campaign chairman for Ben Kilgore in his unsuccessful race for the gubernatorial nomination. Kilgore is backing Waterfield.

Robertson, counsel for Brown Williamson Tobacco Corp., is a member of Louisville Mayor Field Taylor political advisory committee, and was state finance chairman in the 1944 presidential campaign and financial chairman for Philip P. Ardery in the Democratic senatorial primary last year.

Shy Mercury Drops Nearly Out Of Sight

Parts Of State Report Coldest Reading Of Year

3 BELOW AT HOPTOWN

The mercury struck new low marks for the season last night in several Kentucky cities and there still was no relief in sight from the current cold wave.

Hopkinsville reported an overnight low of three degrees below zero, one of the state's coldest spots. Corbin reached a new low for the winter, an even zero on the thermometer, with a snowfall of 3.6 inches.

At Ashland, the mercury dropped to two above, also a new low mark for the winter. Louisville temperatures dropped to four above and Madisonville recorded a five-degree minimum, both new records for the season.

Streets and highways were exceedingly slippery today and traffic was held to a snail's pace. Numerous minor accidents were reported, including 11 at Corbin which injured three persons.

The only traffic fatality reported so far occurred Thursday in Barren county, where Joe D. Tinsley, 22, was killed when his truck skidded and overturned.

The weather bureau forecast snow flurries and continued cold weather over the state tonight and tomorrow.

At Frankfort, the highway department reported dangerously icy roads in Eastern and Southern Kentucky. In the Somerset area, a half inch to an inch and a half of snow covered a film of ice, making travel extremely hazardous.

Snow drifts were being pushed up against main roads near Georgetown, Paducah, Cynthiana, Winchester and Midway, but the rest of central Kentucky reported generally fair road conditions. Low temperature overnight in Frankfort was two above.

Roads in northern Kentucky, where zero was recorded during the night, are clear or sanded, the report said.

Too Many Friends Spoiled The Lawsuit, Says Talmadge

Atlanta, Feb. 8.—(P)—Herman Talmadge charged today that a court decision holding him an illegal claimant of the Georgia governorship "was patently collusive."

Talmadge said in a formal statement the suit "was brought by friends, against friends, before friends, and for friends."

His attack was on the suit before Judge Claude H. Porter at Rome where the superior (circuit) court ruled yesterday that Talmadge's rival claimant, Lt. Gov. M. E. Thompson, was the legal governor. Judge Porter held that the legislature exceeded its authority when it elected Talmadge after the death of his father, governor-elect Eugene Talmadge.

Talmadge said he was informed "that as soon as the case was presented to him and before a hearing from the alleged defendant, the judge reached into his pocket and pulled out an opinion he had already written and proceeded to read it."

Talmadge declined to elaborate on his statement and refused comment when a reporter asked if he thought he would be subject to contempt of court.

Advised of Talmadge's statement Judge Porter said the court had no authority to inquire into sincerity of the suit. He declined further comment.

The decision in favor of Thompson came from Judge Claude H. Porter of the Rome circuit in his ruling in a suit which had been moved up from an original hearing date of Feb. 12.

Thompson himself heard of the judge's decision as he sat in Henry county superior court at McDonough where Judge Walter Hendrix was hearing Thompson's plea for an injunction to prevent Talmadge from exercising executive authority as governor. After listening to Talmadge's attorneys argue for a dismissal of the suit on several grounds, Judge Hendrix continued the hearing until 9 a. m. (CST) Monday.

Judge Porter held that Thompson, as lieutenant governor, became acting governor of the state when former Gov. Ellis Arnall relinquished the post Jan. 18. The jurist also declared that the state legislature had no authority to elect Talmadge governor.

Sen. Van'berg Says He Isn't '48 Candidate

Tells GOP Rally He Has No Wish To Enter Contest

FEELS COMPLIMENTED

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 8.—(P)—U. S. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) declared today, "I am not a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, don't expect to and have no wish to be."

Michigan's senior senator, here for an address before the state Republican convention, made his statement at a press conference and added, "but a man would be entirely numb if he were insensible to the compliment the suggestion implies."

Taking heed of reports that a native state would boom him for the presidential nomination, 1948, Vandenberg said in his speech at noon:

"The success of the Republican party is my only interest in 1948. I charge you to ignore all considerations of localized alliance, if such there be, and when the time comes, to join freely in the nationwide Republican quest for the best available next president of the United States."

The senate president turned to other issues, told the convention:

"Republicans intend to do something about this scandalous 'portal to portal' (pay) outrage which violates every American concept against ex post facto laws, which abuses the legislative intent of the congress, not a man of whom remote contemplated such perversion when the Wages and Hours passed, which threatens the competency of many a business and the jobs of its employees—to nothing of the treasury of the United States."

"Imagine what labor would do if the courts, in a reverse situation, were to find some excuse for employers to go back on the years and recapture some of the wages paid upon job long since finished and forgotten. The principle of the law cannot be allowed to stand, any sort of stable economy is saved America."

On world issues, Vandenberg said, "We shall not disarm alone. We shall take no sweetener at light for granted behind the curtain which still blacks out great sectors of the earth. But we will joyfully match the utmost limits of disarmament, which other great powers will go, if there be summary diplomas which guarantee against 'bad faith.'"

In the greatest exhibition of international good will since America began" Vandenberg said America is prepared to abandon the advantage of the atom bomb, if, as and when this renunciation is protected by totally improvable competent inspection and controls, if, as and when the world in general—and Soviet Russia in particular—agrees to swift and conclusive punishment which shall stop treachery at its source.

"This is our price; and price must be paid. We shall not trust alone to fickle words. Too many words, as at Yalta, at Potsdam and in Poland after very hour, have been distorted out of all pretense of integrity. We ask nothing for ourselves. We ask everything for peace."

That Man Is Here Again

Chandler still isn't satisfied with Clements' Waterfield for governor, announced a headline in last Sunday's Courier-Journal over an article by Mr. Robert L. Riggs.

Mr. Riggs, for the benefit of any readers who may not know him, is the newspaper's Washington correspondent who has the unusual ability to sit at his typewriter in the nation's capital and tell more about what is going on in the Kentucky grass roots than most of the on-the-scene political analysts.

For the purpose of bringing forth a candidate more to his liking, "Happy" has invited several Democratic politicians to meet at his home in Versailles tomorrow, February 9, Mr. Riggs continues.

This snafu strongly of the so-called "harmony" move, instigated in Louisville recently, in which some Democratic leaders sought to hand-pick a candidate for the November gubernatorial election and thereby avoid a heated primary battle among the Democratic aspirants for the nomination. Both Waterfield and Clements were skeptical of the "harmony" proposal, preferring to let the Democratic voters of the state make their choice at the polls rather than to have a small group of professional politicians do the selecting at this early date.

Chandler, who still believes he should be in the White House and nurses a grudge against everyone who has ever stood in the way of his political progress, is a hard man to satisfy. The $50,000 per year which he makes as a small commissioner doesn't keep him from wanting to have the Democratic national convention delegates bound to him in 1948—if there is a White House opening on the Democratic side then—or in 1952, the year his baseball contract expires, according to Mr. Riggs.

This is the same Mr. Chandler, by the way, who very recently told the press that he had no more political ambitions. The meeting in Versailles, of course, is not to be construed as reflecting any such ambitions—no, indeed, the people of Kentucky forget overnight what they read in their newspapers—do they, Mr. Chandler?

The baseball commissioner has demonstrated that not only does he still enjoy playing politics, but he delights even more in playing personal politics, as witnessed by his urging friends to vote against the Democratic nominee for the Senate in last fall's general election.

If "Happy" wants to keep on meddling in Kentucky politics, we wish he would be open and above board about it. We aren't smart enough to be a baseball commissioner, of course, but we do know when a man says one thing and does another.

As to the effect, if any, Mr. Chandler's opposition to Mr. Clements and Mr. Waterfield will have on the results of the primary and general elections, we hesitate to make a prediction. But we can't help thinking of the comment of a Purchase Democrat who read the news story headline about Chandler's dissatisfaction with the two Democratic candidates to the governor's chair, and remarked, "so what?"

Dear Me!

The society we'd most like to join is not as much the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, nor does it boast as formidable a name as the Society for the Preservation and Management of Barber Shop Singing in America. It's the Society for Abolishing "Dear Me!" Letters.

One of the Jones boys, E. Willis, to be specific, who lives in Chicago, got tired of tackling a "Dear Me!" in front of the name of a person he disliked, and started a one-man campaign to abolish the custom. The idea caught on like wildfire, he says, and converts are being added daily.

There's only one hitch. The thing could get out of hand. One can foresee the day when a letter from an angry subscriber would come with the "dear" and go a step farther—say, "Editor, The Leader, You Stinker."

With The Fourth Estate

SIDE WALKS CAN WAIT

A suggestion made in Frankfort yesterday that in some rural sections sidewalks be constructed along rural highways fascinates Messengers, and will bring wisecracks and writers of letters to this paper's Voice.

The People department who plead for rural highways—often, and very properly, the farm to market roads.

The late Frank G. Wake, Madisonville town man, was the first man we ever heard mention this matter of rural sidewalks, and he, a frequenter of the Tree of Knowledge which gather on Court Square, used to mention the matter, feigning seriousness, the bursts of anger it would produce among rural members of his audience. It was his fun.

Seriously, any place people walk is a place sidewalks are needed, but until a hundred miles or so of rural roads get Hop-along out of the mud, the sidewalks, Heaven, can wait. (Madisonville Messenger).

Balts Seek Freedom

By J. M. Roberts, Jr.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

A renewed propaganda campaign by representatives of the Baltic states operating in exile indicates an effort to bring their situation before the United Nations.

Latvians, Lithuanians and Estonians still operate legations here which are listed as officially recognized by the United States government, although the countries were annexed by Russia six years ago and actual trade with the area is handled through Russia's trading corporation, Amtorg.

The Lithuanians are particularly bitter, accusing the Soviets of deporting their fellow-countrymen for slave labor by the thousands and of practicing brutalities.

Russia occupied the Baltic states in 1940, following through on her deal with Germany for the division of Poland and her campaign for strategic position in Finland. She staged plebiscites which resulted in requests for incorporation of the little states into Russia, of which they had been a part from 1795 until they obtained their freedom during the 1918 revolution. After World War I they had been recognized as independent and became members of the League of Nations in 1921.

In the spring of 1943, when the Germans had taken over John Colburn, Associated Press correspondent, reported from Stockholm that only fear of Russia prevented an open revolt against the Nazis. He said the Germans, however, had been welcomed in the beginning as liberators.

"Now Germany is considered almost as great an enemy as Russia," Colburn wrote. For any country to consider Germany "almost" as great an enemy as someone else bespeaks a real grudge against the other fellow in those days.

Thousands of Balts fought in the Nazi armies against Russia because they feared the Reds. At the same time, their families at home were conducting a battle of passive resistance against the Germans, and in the forests men gathered by the tens of thousands to fight whomever necessary for liberty at the proper time. They were fed by the peasants despite stringent German requisitioning. But by the time the Russians drove out the Germans, guerrilla warfare was of no avail.

Every since the plebiscites, independence leaders among the Balts have looked to England and the United States for help. They had offered to revolt against the Germans in 1943 and 1944 provided only Russia would give assurance of postwar independence, and now they are demanding recognition for their anti-Nazi work.

The legal grounds they cite, of course, appear good. Their percentage of Russian population is small, and they have treaties to cite. But unfortunately they lie in an area which like parts of Finland, Russia felt she must fortify for self-defense. Their absorption by Russia is one of those things which happen when big nations get to trampling around. Since recognition of the Republics as independent has never been withdrawn, their renewed campaign, if it generates enough steam, could cause considerable embarrassment at Lake Success.

Calling All Cars!

Salt Lake City, (AP)—Except for that southern accent Utah state police might be chasing Virginia's criminals all over the bee hive state—and the officers blame it all on an atmospheric double-cross.

Every day Utah state police cars have been receiving Virginia's police calls.

"If Virginians didn't have a drawl, our cars might get confused," Patrol Inspector Rulon Bennion says. The two radio stations use the same frequency and a layer of gases at 22,000 feet deflects the Virginia broadcasts directly into Utah's network from 10 a. m. to 4:15 p. m. (MST) daily.

When the sun goes down and the gas cools Virginia fades from the network.

Close Race

Joplin, Mo., (AP)—Lieut. R. G. Sheppard, naval medical officer, raced the stork and won. Sheppard arrived an hour before his wife gave birth to a daughter at St. John's Hospital.

Plenty margin? Well, Sheppard started from Guam.

A Louisville lecturer believes many psychiatric patients got that way by taking themselves too seriously, and by "pursuing the dollar." But it takes so many dollars to make ends meet nowadays, Mr. Speaker.

"Freeze damages crops, chills Florida tourists"—news headline. How that got past the Chamber of Commerce, we'll never understand.

A Seattle citizen reports that a night prowler left a set of china choppers on his front porch. There, we submit, is a case the police can get their teeth into.

Sports Roundup

By Gayle Talbot
(For High Fullerton, Jr.)
New York, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Insiders say Fritz Crisler has accepted the U. of California football coaching post and that an official announcement will be coming up shortly. One of those "reliable sources" says the reason for the maestro's desertion of Michigan is connected with the phenomenal growth of Wayne Univ. in Detroit and the possibility that that institution will absorb the liberal arts school of its state-supported rival at Ann Arbor. If that occurred Michigan would be reduced to very small pumpkins in sports.
That "Loose Ball"
Capt. Walter Pate of the U. S. Davis Cup team has not forgotten the "loose ball" squabble in Australia, and the matter is due to be fought to a finish at the International Lawn Tennis Federation's meeting next month in London. The American delegation will insist that a rule be written to cover the point before this country defends the cup next summer—almost surely against Australia. It was the Aussie star, Jack Bromwich, who caused all the uproar at Melbourne by dropping a second ball on the court when he served, even though Bromwich claims, probably with justification, that the loose ball is more dangerous to him than it is to his opponent. The American still contend that the thing is a nuisance and should be eliminated.

He'll Be Missed
One of the most restless men in American will be sitting on a farm outside Buffalo about two weeks from now. Name of Joe McCarthy. It will be the first time in many a spring that "Marse Joe," one of the game's great managers, has found himself cast in the role of an on-looker. Baseball is a strange game, and this observer for one expects to experience a dull feeling that something important is missing the first time he sees that bench outside the dugout at St. Petersburg and Joe isn't sitting there. For a long time he WAS the Yankees.
In The Mailbag
From Texas Christian University's nothing-if-not-hot-honest publicity dept.: "With only seven games to go, the TCU basketball team appears to be headed for a perfect season of 24 defeats."—Bill Slocom, Jr., is resigning as special events director for CBS to devote his full time to writing books—Tommy Loughran, the former 175-pound champ, is the new owner of the Allentown entry in the Eastern Pro Basketball League—Wilmar Mareson, the stocky, Baylor flyer, will make his indoor debut against the east's best sprinter in the New York A. C. games next Saturday at the Garden.

Corbin Cager Is Dependable Murray Tho'bred

Murray, Ky.—Wid Ellison, former Corbin gridiron and cage luminary and now a senior at Murray State College, is rapidly rounding into shape and will undoubtedly see a lot of service in the remaining games on the Thoroughbred cage card and the Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference tournament to be held in Louisville Feb. 20, 21, and 22.
After spending a busy fall on the gridiron as Murray's outstanding defensive end, Ellison was a little late in coming out for the basketball squad and consequently a little slow rounding into top condition. Then an operation set him further back and only in the last week has he begun to flash his old form again.

Ellison served over three years in the U. S. Marine Corps during which time he had no opportunity to play basketball.
Never a high scorer on the hardwood, the 26-year-old Ellison has always been a great defensive player.

Deceptive Play Deceives Coach

Tacoma, Wash.—After an idle week, Coach Cliff Olson called his Pacific Lutheran College gridders back to practice. He instructed his varsity to run an end-around against the seconds.
They ran it. Well, they ran something. Olson charged into the line where left end Bob Andrews was lying prone.
"Andrews," he roared, "hide the ball. Anyone could see you had the ball on that play. You have to use deception."
"Yesir," said Andrews, "only I haven't got the ball. He's got it."
He pointed to a point 60 yards down the field where right end Paul Polillo had galloped unimpeded with the pigskin.

ing into top condition. Then an operation set him further back and only in the last week has he begun to flash his old form again.
Ellison served over three years in the U. S. Marine Corps during which time he had no opportunity to play basketball.

South Fulton Wins 2 Games

Cloverdale Girls Fall 19-17, Boys Lose 45-27 As S. F. Season Closes

The South Fulton Angels, playing one of their best games of the year, nosed out the Cloverdale sextet there last night 19-17 in a close contest that preceded the South Fulton boys' easier 45-27 triumph over the Cloverdale five.
These were the last regular season games for South Fulton. The girls play Wednesday night and the boys Thursday night in the first rounds of the Obion county tournament at the Obion high school gym.
Cloverdale's girls held a 7-5 lead at the end of the first quarter last night, and South Fulton tied it up 8-all at the half. Cloverdale pulled ahead 15-12 as the third quarter closed, but unable to stop the last quarter South Fulton drive.
King of Cloverdale was high scorer with 13, followed by Moore of South Fulton with 10.
The Red Devils limited the Cloverdale boys to 2 points in the first quarter and 2 more in the second while scoring 12 in each of the first two periods. They were leading 34-15 as the last quarter opened.

Mexicans Boo Louis-Godoy
Louis Surprises No One With Decision On Points In Take-It-Easy Fight
Mexico City, Feb. 8.—(AP)—World's heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis first exhibition with Arturo Godoy last night in his Latin-American tour drew a small crowd which expressed little pleasure and considerable disfavor.
The great 60,000-seat bull ring was about one-fifth occupied. There was no announcement of attendance or receipts but it looked as if everyone but the fighters lost money. They got theirs before they came here; Louis $50,000 and Godoy, Chilean champion, $10,500.
Louis and his trainers took passage on the first morning plane for San Salvador where Joe is to put on an exhibition with his sparring partner, Walter Heffer.
The heavyweight boxed 10 two-minute rounds with 14-ounce gloves. It was a tame affair which contained very little slugging and no damage. Godoy, who showed a tendency to stick close to the champion and prevent him from opening up, unofficially earned the sixth and eighth rounds by a narrow margin. Louis outclassed the Chilean during the rest, except for the first and third rounds which unofficially were called even.
The small crowd, lost in the huge, chilly bull ring, watched the early rounds with silence and then began to boo and whistle, shouting for the fighters to mix it up. Louis weighed 213, Godoy 210.

It's 15 Below In Moscow
Moscow, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The temperature tumbled to 15 below zero in Moscow today. Special workers and machines got busy at the task of clearing away the unusually heavy snow which fell in the last two days.

Religious ? Box

Charles L. Houser
More on the question of instrumental music in the worship.
There is neither commandment nor example to indicate that instrumental music was used in the worship of the New Testament church. Church historians, such as Eusebius, Neander, Mosheim, Jones, Schaff, and Fisher, make no mention of it for hundreds of years after Christ. When, and by whose authority, was it introduced?

"Pope Vitalian is related to have FIRST introduced organs into some of the churches of Western Europe, about 670;..." (The American Cyclopaedia Vol. 12, p. 688). "The organ is said to have been FIRST introduced into church music by Pope Vitalian 1; in 686. In 757, a great organ was sent as a present to Pepin by the Byzantine emperor Constantine Copronymus, and placed in the church of St. Cornelle at Compeigne. Soon after Charlemagne's time organs became common." (Chamber's Encyclopedia, Vol. 7, p. 112). "In the Greek church the organ NEVER came into use. But after the eighth century it became more and more common in the Latin church; NOT, however, WITHOUT OPPOSITION from the side of the monks..." (Schaff-Herzog Encyclopedia, Vol. 2, p. 1702). "Instrumental music is also of very ancient date, its invention being ascribed to Tubal, the sixth descendant from Cain. That instrumental music WAS NOT PRACTICED BY THE PRIMITIVE CHRISTIANS, but was an aid to devotion of LATER TIMES, is evident from church history." (Fesenden's Encyclopedia, p. 852, Art. Music.)

Hence, according to reliable history, it was more than six hundred years after the establishment of the New Testament church, before instrumental music was used in a service that was even considered Christian worship. Christ and his apostles did not command it, and the New Testament church did not use it. From the above quotations the observing reader can see from whom the various denominations borrowed this practice.

HOLLYWOOD

By GENE HANDSAKER

Hollywood — Some marriages do last in Hollywood. Cecil B. DeMille, when a 19-year-old, 320-a-week stage actor, proposed to Constance Adams, the daughter of a Trenton, N. J., judge, at midnight as the year 1899 was fading into the year 1900. Engaged two years—"people became engaged in those days," DeMille observes—they're in their forty-fifth year of marriage.

A Danish immigrant, Jean Hersholt, was staging a play in Montclair when he fell in love with Virginia Anderson, one of the actresses. Next April they'll celebrate their 33rd anniversary. In a town whose divorce courts seem at times like marital swap shops, now and then a well-publicized "idea marriage" actually does pan out.

Vilma Banky and Rod LaRouge — remember? — had "the most terrific wedding to date," as one historian pronounced it, 19 years ago. Sam Goldwyn gave the bride in marriage at the Beverly Hills Church of the Good Shepherd. Bridesmaids included Mrs. Harold Lloyd, Bebe Daniels, and Constance Talmadge. DeMille was best man. Ronald Colman and Harold Lloyd were ushers. "We were just lucky," says the blonde Miss Banky, plumper than when she co-starred with Rudolph Valentino, Ronald Colman, and Gary Cooper in silent pictures, but still a handsome woman. LaRouge is in the real estate business.

The movie's one-time "It Girl," Clara Bow, married Western Star Rex Bell 15 years ago and became the mother of two sons. On their ranch near Searchlight, Nev., Bell has told interviewers: "It's true that we miss Hollywood, but there's nothing like a home on the range."

Bell's actor friend, George O'Brien, has been married for 13 years to Actress Marguerite Churchill. Goldwyn's wife of 21 years, former stage actress Frances Howard, has an office and her own secretary at Sam's studio.
