Margie's Heart-broken Grandmother Says: 'EVERYONE HAS BEEN SO NICE'

Father Sends Editor-Son To 'Crazy House'

Sheriff To Stick With Tot's Case

BULLETIN: Latest word from Sheriff Ed Reeves as the Tri-State Defender went to press was that his men and volunteers "will stay right with the search for the child until something clears." Margie Net Benton has been missing from her grandparents' Cordova farm home since Tuesday, Oct. 15.

Silences Militant Miss. Paper

JACKSON, Miss. — Mississippi's only outspoken Negro newspaper publisher is confined to Whitfield Mental hospital here as a result of a lunacy affidavit filed by his foster father.

Arrington High, 45, editor and publisher of the sensational EAGLE EYE newspaper, a single sheet which did not pull its punches even in attacking the governor of the state, is being held for mental observation by state medical authorities.

His foster father, S. L. High, who adopted the man when he was eight years old, said that "he had no grievance against him, but had the mental observation for his general well-being."

LIFE THREATENED
Informed sources told a Tri-State Defender reporter that funeral director High said he was called last Friday by Attorney V. J. Stricker, Jr., of Jackson to sign an affidavit granting permission to examine the publisher.

High further stated that because of some highly inflammatory accounts against certain people of note in the Eagle Eye, plus lack of ethical common sense in relation to the community and to the cause of journalism, there were many protests made and threats against his foster son's life.

Before his present commitment at Whitfield Arrington High was formerly in a St. Louis mental institution for observation.

The single sheet has been published at Jackson for several years.

High, divorced from his wife, has four children.

He attended Tuskegee Institute, Piney Woods School, and Alcorn college. His high school diploma is from a Canton, Miss. institution.

He attended First Baptist church in Jackson.

Goal: 400,000 Signatures For Mallory Depot

Goal: 400,000 signatures to retain Mallory Air Force Base.

That's the aim of Veterans Benefit, Inc., and the group plans to issue that appeal in a rally on Saturday, Oct. 26, at 8 p.m., at Mt. Olive Cathedral.

The signatures are to be affixed to a letter which will be sent to Senator Estes Kefauver, Senator Albert Gore, Governor Frank Clement, Representative Clifford Davis and Representative B. Carroll Reece citing reasons why closing the base would be inadvisable.

The organization urges citizens interested in retaining the depot to attend the mass rally and co-operate when approached for signatures.

Right Great Wrong To Negroes, White Asks

Editor's Note: Mrs. Mary Ruth Trask, formerly of New Orleans, now living in Paramount, Calif., is a Southern white woman who says she feels heavily the weight of segregation. Several weeks ago, she made an appeal for the end of bias to leaders of fraternal organizations. This week she sends an open letter to the members of the Supreme Court of the U. S. and other fraternal organizations.

Honorable Sirs:

Some of you, no doubt, are members of some organization, other than your church, civic or social clubs. This is my plea to all organizations as Elks, Eagles, Lions, and Masonic Lodges, let's take the heart and soul of America out of politics.

What if we should gain the world and lose America?

Let us let Christ's command, "Love one another" rule instead of selfish will rule our great nation. Let's right a great wrong.

Let us all go out for freedom and brotherly love, and in doing so we will have proved to our nation, and all nations, we practice what we preach.

Students Take Lead

APPLIED CIVICS — Is symbolized in the pose of Mrs. A. McEwen Williams (left) and student election officials during last week's Student Council elections among Booker T. Washington High School's approximately 2600 students. The students used authentic voting machines obtained from the Shelby County Election Commission to do their balloting by classes, and participate in a "mammoth lesson in Civics."

Trap Set For NAACP Gets L. R. Groups

An ordinance passed last week by Little Rock's City Council aimed at the local NAACP chapter has boomeranged.

The new law requires "certain organizations" to make public names of their officers and members along with financial and other information; however, groups pinpointed to disclose this information were to be chosen by city officials.

Attorney General Bruce Bennett, originator of the idea that city governments pass the laws to curb NAACP's activities, was author of the bill.

MANN MOVES

The measure, clearly aimed at the NAACP, was adopted by the Council in the absence of Mayor Woodrow Wilson Mann. Acting Mayor Franklin Loy introduced the ordinance which passed without a single dissenting vote.

But upon the Mayor's return, the carefully made plans of the Council backfired.

Mayor Mann returned to the city and examined the newly-passed ordinance. Then he promptly removed the signature of Loy and placed his own on the bill.

ALL INCLUDED

The "certain organizations" the Mayor directed to submit the names of their members, officers, financial status, and other data?

The following segregationists' groups: Capital City Council (white); Central High Mothers club (leading white organization in fight to close down integrated Central high school); and Freedom Fund organization (a group which was founded to raise money to free agitators arrested for Sept. 23 violence which erupted around the school).

In line with the rest, the N. A. A. C. P. also received the order.

Offers Reward In Bomb Attempt

EASTON, Md. — (ANP) — The Easton Star Democrat, local white daily, posted a $500 reward here Thursday for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those persons figuring in the recent attempted bombing of the home of a Negro whose two sons are attending a former all-white school.

The paper announced the reward in a front page ad.

We Commend

(An Editorial)

Memphis, the Mid-South, and the nation have been treated to a needed heart-warming spectacle in the last few days.

It was the widespread search for the missing two-year-old Negro child who disappeared from the farm home of her grandparents early last week. From the moment Sheriff Ed Reeves' office was notified of the child's disappearance, every available facility was set in motion to find her.

Sheriff's deputies combed the area. White and Negro neighbors joined the search. More than two-score sailors from the giant Millington Naval base voluntarily aided in the search. They combed the area adjacent to the child's home thoroughly, going over well-nigh every foot of ground in field and woods.

The child had not been found over the week-end. However, the day-after-day search for her, the ease with which differences of race were forgotten, the general shift to humaneness, the evident concern and personal interest of Sheriff Reeves and his deputies, open the doors of hearts which warm to the light of understanding and greater Christian tolerance.

The sheriff, the sailors, the neighbors and others who joined in the mission of mercy are to be heartily commended.

Family Of Missing Tot

ALL BUT ONE — Sister and brothers of missing tot, Margie Net Benton, look up beseechingly at their grandmother, Mrs. Mordie Fletcher, of Cordova, as baffled as authorities about disappearance of little sister. They are, left to right, Willie James, 12, Willard Kenny, 11, Howard, 9, Ruby Jean, 6, Mrs. Fletcher (in doorway) and John Lee, 8. The older youngsters attend Mt. Pisgah School, and have been living with the Fletchers since Sept.

Sees Need, Will Fill It

Mrs. Josephine Childress Lindsey saw a great need in Memphis back in July of this year, and decided to do something about it. In August the first move was made; in September the second; now her goal is clearly in sight.

The need Mrs. Lindsey recognized was for a nursing home in the area for Negroes. There are 23 operating homes for whites; none for Negro blind, old, or bed-ridden patients.

She discussed the idea with her husband, Rev. W. L. Lindsey, pastor and organizer (1949) of Christian Union church, 743 Marble. He rallied to the idea.

BOARD NAMED

In August they purchased a home, she was informed that she wanted into a nursing home, a 12-room frame house at 497 E. H. Crump blvd., across from Martin stadium.

When she set about getting a permit to solicit funds to modernize and redecorate the house to suit the demands of a nursing home, she was informed that she would need a charter.

So on Sept. 16, a Board of Directors was formed and Atty. J. F. Estes was named legal counsel.

HISTORY TWICE

Rev. Lindsey will be the home's president and chairman of board of directors; Walter Childress, III, vice-president; Mrs. G. L. Goodman, second vice president; and Mrs. Lindsey, secretary-treasurer and founder.

Mrs. Lindsey, who made history several years back as the city's first trained and qualified Negro obstetrical nurse, said they have already been inspected by the city and are awaiting state inspection. Also needed is the charter from Nashville, which is pending.

To be known as Lindsey Nursing Home, Inc., Mrs. Lindsey expresses the hope that they can be operating by January, 1958.

NEEDS ARE GREAT

"But there is quite a lot to do. For one thing, the kitchen needs to be completely finished before anyone is moved in. Patients need and will get here, special care and we must have the facilities here to do it with," she said.

"A sprinkler system (fire system) is especially necessary because we have a frame building here. A bid of $5,878 for the sprinkler unit has been made which carpentry, masonry, plastering and painting that must accompany it," the practical nurse continued.

Lee To Speak At Meet For Editor Wilson

Lt. George W. Lee, Republican leader, will be among speakers who will pay tribute to Tri-State Defender Editor L. Alex Wilson Saturday night, Oct. 26 at Mt. Olive Cathedral.

Lt. Lee will also make an appeal for the retention of Mallory Air Force base, according to program chairman, Atty. J. F. Estes.

Atty. Estes says that the program is especially designed as a testimonial for the editor, but will serve the dual-purpose of appeal for keeping the base operated.

Other labor leaders who will appear include Harold Jamison; Henry White, field representative for National AFL-CIO; Clifton Satterfield, representing veterans; Mrs. Bertha L. Estes, president of the 11th district Women's Auxiliary of American Legion; George L. Hol-

Avoid Hectic Holiday; Get Inspection Now

Wise motorists interested in avoiding a similar occurrence of last year's Christmas holiday rush on automobile inspections are heading Inspection Manager Henry Hanson's appeal to have their cars inspected immediately.

Inspections are now running 15,000 behind schedule, and the manager forecasts a hectic holiday if motorists continue at their present pace.

Pro-Segs Battle In Vain, Historian Says

It's as certain as the four seasons — this integration in the South.

That, in effect, is what an outstanding Southern historian said here last week.

Digging deep into history for the conclusion that "segregationists are fighting a losing battle," Dr. Bell Irvin Wiley, author and Emory university history professor, cited for his Goodwyn Institute audience similar attitudes of Southerners throughout the annals of history.

"It was the same with the Southerners 100 years ago. They refused to roll with the punch when offered gradual emancipation. 'Never!' they shouted," Dr. Wiley pointed out.

'INVADED LAND'

Speaking on "The Invaded Land," the South of Reconstruction Days, he noted that hostile attitudes were prevalent in the South after the Civil War.

MARGIE N. BENTON MISSING

Chubby Margie Net Benton sat in the modest kitchen of her grandparents' farm home in Cordova Tuesday morning, contentedly munching a pear and talking "baby talk."

Her grandmother, Mrs. Mordie Fletcher, who was keeping her temporarily in the adjoining room sewing a garment for the child when she missed her voice from among her four brothers and sister who were with her in the kitchen.

ESTRANGED PARENTS, of missing tot, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Benton, who live in Detroit, are separated. Their daughter, Margie Net, was one of six children living temporarily with Mrs. Benton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Fletcher. Said Sheriff Reeves of the missing two-year-old tot, "This thing just has me baffled."

WELCOME HOME, "GATE-MOUTH" is what Memphis told Rev. Dwight "Gatemouth" Moore last Friday night at Elks Lodge, 401 Beale. Noted Memphis paid homage to the blues-singer turned minister during the Homecoming party. Rev. Moore, forced by whites to leave Birmingham after interviewing Judge Aaron on his radio show, came to Memphis several week ago. He has been retained by the Elks to head a mammoth membership campaign. Among outside in the backyard, they surmised. CALLED HER Mrs. Fletcher began calling: the children blended their voices in the call for Margie; Mr. Fletcher was in town.

Alarmed, some of the neighbors joined the call for the baby. They combed the surrounding area. The searchers increased.

After an exhaustive hunt by family members and neighbors, they returned home.

Laying outside the back door was the half-eaten pear the child had been nibbling.

THOROUGH SEARCH At press time, Margie had not been seen since.

The search for the child has been thorough since her mysterious disappearance. Negro and white volunteers, the Civil Air Patrol, the Red Cross, Millington sailors, sheriffs deputies, and Safety Council have roamed the area east of the Shelby County Penal Farm in search of her.

Said Sheriff Ed Reeves: "This thing has just got me baffled."

Said her grandmother, Mrs. Fletcher: "Someone must have taken her."

'CAN'T EAT' What has the family been suffering since the fateful Oct. 15? How has it interrupted their routine? What constantly runs thru the minds of the youngsters, 12, 11, 9, 8 and 6 about the little sister they called so "lovable?"

Mr. Fletcher, who had been keeping Margie since Oct. 12, appeared tired Saturday, the fifth day of the search.

"I just don't feel like eating, and sleep is out of the question," she said.

"But everyone has been so nice, it has helped a lot."

Sturdy Ruby Jean, 6, summed up the children's reaction: "If we could just find Margie Net, we'd be all right."

SEARCH CONTINUES Her disappearance was reported to Sheriff Ed Reeves' office at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday after Mr. Fletcher's return from town. She was wearing a red and black dress, brown sweater and blue house shoes.

Her father, Howard Benton, came down Saturday from Detroit, but could not stay. Mrs. Evelyn Ruth Benton, mother of the missing child, had not appeared at press time. The Bentons are separated. Margie's mother is the only child of the Fletchers.

Although authorities have expressed doubt about finding her alive unless someone took her from the house, the search continues.

Need

"There are so many old people now with nowhere to go, that we felt we need for such a move. We will take bedridden patients, old people, blind people. Our purpose is to prolong life. With good care and good food, it will make many of them live longer," Mrs. Lindsey said.

The group is soliciting single beds, bedside tables, dressers, linen, kitchen utensils and any donations from private organizations and individuals to help initiate this project.

Particularly well-planned for such an operation, a tour of the facilities revealed seven medium-sized rooms which will be used for patients, hallways, a room which will be converted into a living room and space for a chapel.

The state limits them to nine patients at the outset, but the lot in the back is large enough for "at least 10 more rooms," estimated Rev. Lindsey.

"This is not a denominational affair," Mrs. Lindsey pointed out. "Our Board of Directors will choose the nine most needy people who make application, then we will try to help as many more as possible as we expand. As it grows, I'm sure we'll be able to expand. I want it to go on. I

$4 Million To Be Awarded

EVANSTON, Ill. — The most intensive talent hunt in America's history began Tuesday, Oct. 22, with the testing of 300,000 senior students in 14,000 high schools. The examination, called the "Scholarship Qualifying Test," was the first hurdle in the 1958 National Merit Scholarship Program.

More than $4 million in Merit Scholarships, including those granted by some 70 business and industrial companies, was at stake.

Tuesday's test was a high level college aptitude-type examination, designed to measure the differences among students of high verbal and quantitative ability, and to predict their chances of success in college. Administration began at 9 a. m. and last for two hours.

The 7,500 seniors with the highest scores in the test will enter the Semi-finals of the Merit Program, where further selection will take place. The Semifinalists will be identified in early December, and the actual winners of Merit Scholarships, expected to exceed 800, will be announced about May 1, 1958.

The nationwide competition is conducted by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation of Evanston, Ill., on behalf of companies, foundations, professional societies, and even individuals who sponsor the awards.

Merit Scholarships are named after the companies and other private groups that provide them, the largest sponsor being the Sears-Roebuck Foundation, which awards 100 of these scholarships annually at a total investment of $500,000.

The sponsoring organizations include such nationally known names as International Business Machines, National Distillers and Chemical Corporation, F. W. Woolworth Co., Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., McGraw-Hill, B. F. Goodrich, Time Inc., Gulf Oil and many others.

John M. Stalnaker president of NMSC, in congratulating the high school principals responsible for the enormous turnout for Tuesday's test, pointed out the ever-increasing need for identifying and helping able young people.

"Events of recent weeks on the international scene have simply re-accented the importance of identifying and educating our brightest people. The snowballing demands for able and highly trained experts in all phases of our society, and the need to seek them out, leads us, inevitably, to our schools. Here, under development, are the scientists, engineers, and teachers who will determine what the future will be."

A Merit Scholarship provides its winner with the funds he needs to attend the college of his choice for four years. Family resources, summer earnings of the student, and college costs are all considered in determining the amount that accompanies each award. The grants to Merit Scholars vary from a minimum honorary award of $100 a year for the four college years to over $2,000 a year in case of great need. The average student's stipend is about $650 a year.

Each Merit Scholar selects the accredited college he prefers to attend. Since tuition does not cover the actual cost of educating a student, each Merit scholarship includes an educational supplement for the college to help it defray its costs in educating the Merit Scholar.

The National Merit Scholarship Program was begun in 1955, based on grants of $20 million for the Ford Foundation and $500 thousand from the Carnegie Corporation of New York. The program's nationwide search for students of high potential makes it possible for companies to devote their scholarship funds entirely to able students and colleges and avoid the overhead costs of holding separate competitions. About 1,400 Merit Scholars selected in the 1956 and 1957 programs are now in college.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT! LESS DEATHS IN '75; TWICE AS MANY CARS

A National Safety Council official predicted that 100,000, 000 motor vehicles will jam American highways in 1975 — more than half again as many as today.

Paul Jones made the forecast at the 45th National Safety Congress in Chicago.

He also said that cars will travel a little faster in 1975, but added:

"Believe it or not, the traffic toll will be smaller than it is now."

ACCUSED OF WILD PARTIES Their work in the area, aside from race relations, includes industrial relations, job and vocational guidance programs and health housing and the general welfare.

The leaflet denouncing the Urban League states that the body holds "wild interracial orgies." Point in reference is Beaux Arts Balls held in various cities only to assist in underwriting the organization expenses, one of the supplementary methods used by many leagues.

A high Urban League official stated last week in regard to one part of the leaflet's accusation which ties the NAACP and Urban League as having one and the same goal that "no intelligent Negro looks on the two organizations as having the same functions. NAACP IS PRESSURE GROUP"

The NAACP is definitely a pressure group working for betterment of the overall lot of Negroes by litigation in the courts.

The Urban League is a research organization and seeks through persuasion and cooperation to create better working conditions for Negroes.

Scripture—I Corinthians 8: 9:19-27; 10.

Gifts of food offered to idols were later sold in the markets. Paul advises the Corinthians not to eat such meat, not because it was evil, but because it might tempt weaker brethren to sin.

No temptation comes to a man but is common to all. Paul wrote the Corinthians. But God is faithful and will not tempt one more than he is able to resist, but will show how to withstand it.

Paul reminds the Corinthians that although their forefathers had pledged themselves to follow Moses, their divinely appointed leader, they displeased God by worshipping idols and other sins.

"Whatsoever ye do, do to the glory of God," admonishes Paul, but let no man seek his own good, but the good of others.

Wiley Crushes Arkansas 20-0; Nears SW Title

By JOHN HOWARD

The Wiley College Wildcats continued a threat in the strong Southwest Athletic Conference title race here Saturday night with a crushing defeat of the AM&N College Lions, 20-0.

Wiley's passing ace, Floyd Iglehart, along with backs Edgar Williams and Willie Hall darted and passed through the Lion's defense for the three touchdowns in the second and fourth quarter.

The first Wiley mark came in the first five minutes of the second quarter as the climax to a passing and ground drive that began late in the first quarter. Wiley's trio, Hall, Iglehart and Williams, moved the ball from Wiley's 39 to the Lions 10 in four plays. Then Williams smashed over from the three. Iglehart kicked through the uprights for the extra.

The second touchdown came seconds later from the Wildcats 29. Iglehart connected two long passes with ends Robert Thomas and William Sims to move the ball to the Lion's 30. On three downs Iglehart, Hall and Horace Ingram moved to the 6. From this point, Hall scored the second touchdown. Again Iglehart's kick was good and Long's crew led 14-0.

Late in the fourth quarter, Hall and Iglehart pushed the ball from the Wildcats' 32 to the forty inside State territory. Then Iglehart hit Hall with a short pass and Hall raced down the sidelines to the one yard line. On the next play, Hall scored around end. The kick was wild.

The Lions wasted a pair of scoring opportunities in the first and third quarters, having one pass intercepted in the end zone and another bounce off the finger tips of Lamar Stewart at the two.

Stewart, Shelby Cummings, Jerry Edwards and Sam Jones' work was tops for the Lions, while Herman Ellison and Arthur Jamison did a fine job for the Wildcats.

The victory gave Fred Long's crew their second game in the Southwest, and the Lions stand one victory and one defeat.

The Lions met Southern University at Scottsbluff, Louisiana Saturday and Wiley College will play Grambling College, October 21 in a nonconference affair.

Methodist Leaders Ask End Of Negro District

BALTIMORE, Md.—Abolition of the Central (Negro) Jurisdiction of the Methodist church was unanimously called for here recently, by ministerial and lay leaders of the denomination.

The occasion was one of the 24 regional hearings on the jurisdictional system in the denomination. The hearings are being conducted by the 70-member commission appointed at the Methodist General Conference in 1956, to "make a thorough study of our jurisdictional system, with special reference to its philosophy, its effectiveness, its weaknesses, and its relationship to the future of the Methodist Church."

LAWYER HEADS GROUP

The 11-member panel conducting hearings in the Central Jurisdiction are all from the other five jurisdictions of the church. It is headed by Charles C. Parlin, internationally known corporation lawyer of New York City, and a prominent Methodist layman.

The panels are fact finding groups which assemble information to report to the general commission, which will in turn make its first quadrennial report to the General Conference in 1960, which is scheduled to meet in Denver, Colo.

The following persons made statements before the Baltimore panel.

The Rev. James D. Foy, pastor of Asbury church, Washington; the Rev. Kelly L. Jackson, superintendent of the Washington District, Washington Conference; the Rev. Charles L. Carrington, pastor of Brooks Memorial church, Jamaica, N. Y.; Clarence Mitchell, head of the Washington bureau of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and a trustee of Sharp Street church, Baltimore; his wife, Atty. Juanita Jackson Mitchell, the Rev. Edward McGowan, pastor of Mount Zion church, Washington.

Also Mrs. Grace Plater, St. Johns church, Orange, N. J.; Mrs. Hester King of Beltsville, Md.; the Rev. Kenneth P. Barnes, pastor of Roberts Memorial church, Alexandria, Va.; Bernard Anderson and the Rev. Clarence Davis of the Asbury church, Broadneck, Md.; the Rev. Daniel L. Ridout, administrative secretary of the Baltimore Area, who was out of the city and whose statement was read by the Rev. Frank L. Williams, pastor of Metropolitan church, Baltimore, where the hearings were held.

Also, the Rev. Donald Ford, student at Howard university, Washington, an official of the National Conference of Methodist Youth, who spoke for that organization; the Rev. Levi B. Miller, Jr., executive secretary of the Washington Conference Board of Christian Education; the Rev. Joseph F. Haskins of Laurel, Md.; and the Rev. Richard H. Johnson and Horace N. McLilly of Ebenezer church, Washington.

The Rev. Mr. Miller's statement declared that the Central Jurisdiction "has served its purpose." He recommended that this unit be abolished and that the churches which comprise it be included in the existing geographical jurisdictions of the church. He gave as his two fold reason, the following:

REASONS GIVEN

1. The church can make a stronger witness in these days of rapid social change, and (2) that the administration of a racial jurisdiction is impossible in relation to our Methodist way of life.

The Rev. Jackson proposed dissolution of the Central Jurisdiction and the education of two new jurisdictions including the 17 Negro annual conferences which presently comprise it, on some geographical pattern similar to those which comprise the other five jurisdictions now constituted; let such white conferences as might wish to do so become a part of these new jurisdictions.

In this plan, he said, no man, church, nor conference will be placed in a jurisdiction against his will, or where he or it is not wanted.

The Rev. Mr. Rideout, an opponent of the entire jurisdictional system in the church since its inception in 1935 and the beginning of its structure in 1939, proposed abolition of the entire jurisdictional system.

Japan Leads In Shipbuilding

LONDON — (INS) — Japan, which was the world's leading shipbuilder in 1956, launched vessels totalling 1,725,000 tons gross during the first nine months of 1957.

Lloyd's register of shipbuilding showed the United Kingdom was second in launchings with 953,000 tons and West Germany third with 872,000 tons.

THE Pulpit SPEAKS REV. C. THOMAS PAIGE

"Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, FOR THOU ART WITH ME." So says the Psalmist. And so said one of my students a few months ago. We sat in the campus cafeteria and he was to go back home to preach that following Sunday. He asked me to give him a topic that might be fitting for the occasion. At that particular moment the outstanding Al Hibbler was singing "You Never Walk Alone." Out of my foolish moments I told him to preach, "You Never Walk Alone." He in turn asked me where I found a suitable scripture? I told him hurriedly the 23rd Psalm. Yea, though I walk through the valley and the shadow of death I will fear no evil FOR THOU ART WITH ME. We went on to discuss the every presence of God and in the interchange of ideas we had brought us out of what started off with mere foolishness.

Finally the day for the sermon delivery came and I went up to the locale with the young man. He looked out in the congregation and saw his teachers of yesteryears and reached over and whispered in my ear, "If I have never done anything worthwhile I must do it now, people from everywhere are here." Finally he was introduced and he got up and delivered one of the greatest sermons that I have ever heard. "You Never Walk Alone." This sermon made a lasting impression upon me. To see a young man who had expressed such confidence in me in getting him ready for such a big day in his life and then to see him rise to such heights made me feel very good.

GOODNESS SPREADS

But the goodness did not stop there, it went on. The sermon was so practical that it affected all of his hearers. Every time I think of him or he writes to me one thing stands out above everything else, "YOU'LL NEVER WALK ALONE." There are times in the lives of all of us humans when it seems that all is nothing but darkness and despair and life has nothing to offer but it is at this moment that we get a new glimpse of God and see that he cares for each of us.

In light of this why should people try to take things in their hands and try to solve their own problems? Why should we try to make our way out of the wildernesses we sometimes find ourselves? Is not God sufficient for all of our cares?

The Psalmist said yes, though I walk within the shadow of death God is there with me. What a consolation that should be to all of us. The Theologians say that God is omnipresent — that is, He is everywhere — so this being true all that we have to do on any occasion is to stop where we are and ask God for guidance in all walks of our lives. Through His direction we can find ourselves out of every ordeal we find ourselves. Oh yes, I fully realize that human nature will make us feel that at times we can rise up to every occasion but many times we find out that life is not so designed. Sometimes we need someone bigger than you or I who must enter into the picture and give life no meaning and new value. Whatever status man finds himself he must be in such a position that he can look up and there see God ever watching him.

Red Moon, Little Rock, Blow To U.S.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Clare Boothe Luce said events in Little Rock and the launching of the Soviet satellite are fundamental challenges "to America's pretensions to leadership of the West."

Speaking at the Alfred E. Smith Memorial foundation dinner in New York, the former Ambassador to Italy said:

"Taken together these two events have tended to destroy the image America has sought to project of herself in the eyes of the world."

"This was the image of a nation which wishes to be thought materially superior because it is morally superior; and morally superior because it is materially superior."

DEFEAT TO VICTORY

Mrs. Luce said the U. S. could restore that image and turn these avoiding partisan political recriminations, utilizing fully our skills and resources, and resolving to get on "with overtaking Russia like a United people. She added:

"This resolve can only be born of an utter devotion to freedom, a devotion which envisages sacrifice for all American citizens."

Mrs. Luce asked that all Americans who support racial segregation "lift their eyes as high as the Sputnik," adding:

"For that moon raises the real question: the question all Americans must soon answer."

"The question is not whether Central High will be peacefully integrated, but whether it — and every Central High in America — will be violently disintegrated — disintegrated by the warheads of

Jackson Humbles Alcorn A&M 40-0

JACKSON, Miss. — The occasion was the opening day of the State Fair. The fair opened with a parade up Capital st., led by bands of Jackson, Alcorn, and Mississippi Vocational. Other bands were the two high school bands of the city, Lanier and Hill, and Hazelhurst and Utica Institute.

After the parade pageantry, the center of interest was the big game between Jackson State and Alcorn A & M.

In the first period, after Jackson's kick to Alcorn and Alcorn's return to the 32-yard line, a saw-saw affair begun until Jackson's left half Maxwell Springs interrupted with one of his famous long runs. Spencer, Jackson fullback, carried it over for the first TD.

Extra Point-Try Failed

In the second period Spriggs got away again and went all of the way. Both attempts for extra points failed, so the half ended 12-0 in favor of Jackson.

Spriggs and Andrews of Jackson scored touchdowns and both tries for points were good. In the fourth period, McNeil and Cooley scored touchdowns and again both tries for points were good.

Briefly, that's the gist of Jackson 40-0 crushing defeat of 2 Alcorn.

Half-Time Activities

Glitter and glamour was all a sparkle during half-time activities with a theme of "Around the World In Ten Formations."

In a brief trip around the world, the Jackson band went to Spain and across the globe to far-off China.

The big 65-piece band was the feature of the half-time activities.

Hays Hopes For Peace In Arkansas

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Rep. Brooks Hays (D) Ark., expressed optimism after a White House conference yesterday over prospects for an early withdrawal of federal troops from Little Rock.

The Congressman, whose district includes the Arkansas capital, held another in a series of talks with chief Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams, an old friend.

Hays said conditions in Little Rock are being "rapidly stabilized," but declined to say flatly that local authorities are ready to take over responsibility for insuring peaceful school integration.

He dropped in for another conference with Adams on the situation before returning to Little Rock on Wednesday.

Hays will report on his meeting with Adams to a committee of 25 Little Rock business and civic leaders which is attempting to work out a peaceful solution of the federal-state clash.

Killings Ruled Murder, Suicide

UNION, Mo. — (INS) — A Franklin county coroner's jury has ruled that a 26-year-old Gary (Ind.) steel worker shot and killed his wife and her male companion near Pacific, Mo., last Friday and then committed suicide with the murder weapon, a high powered deer rifle.

Testimony at the inquest in Union Monday indicated that the slain couple — Mrs. Virginia Catherine Daugherty, 24, and William M. Lingle, 24, of East Peoria, Ill. — had been living together for a short time.

The coroner, Dr. Herbert Steinbeck, said the pair stayed first with a friend in Pacific, and then lived in a converted school bus at Catawissa, about five miles south of Pacific.

It was further disclosed at the inquest that the other member of the "triangle" Mrs. Daugherty's husband, John V. Daugherty, had inquired about the whereabouts of the young couple on the day of the killing.

Our Opinions

The Troublesome Middle East

Trouble is brewing in the Middle East, though there is a distressing tendency in the Western chancelleries to minimize its gravity. So apparent and irresponsible an attitude may conceivably give the impression of whistling in the dark. The situation, nevertheless, has reached a crisis stage and is fraught with imminent danger to the whole world. We may well be witnessing the opening scene of another tragic drama.

Egyptian troops of unspecified strength are poised on Syrian soil, facing neighboring Turkey. To counter that move on the military chess board, the Turks have reinforced their border patrol to full complement. But what is it all about? What has caused this strain in relations between Syria and Turkey? Why should America and Britain be drawn into the vortex of this spasm? These are questions which occupy the attention of the average citizen. The Turkish Foreign Ministry considers the Egyptian movements an attempt by President Nasser to topple Jordan into his hands and destroy the Eisenhower doctrine. Other sources contend that the surprise arrival of Egyptian troops in Syria was really aimed at Israel, which all Arabs vow to destroy.

Underneath it all stand out in bold relief certain pertinent facts in the present power-struggle. First of all, it must be realized that the problem of the Middle East is an Arab problem and not a Communist problem. Inept Western foreign policy may be driving Arab nationalism into the very arms of those from whom we are trying to save the Arab world.

In the second place, the fashion in which Britain manages to give way to the convulsive threat of Arab nationalism is one of the crucial problems of the Middle East and the Western world. All the oil of the area is located along the gulf coast or its immediate hinterlands. Egypt's great ambition is to control that oil and the leadership of all the Arab world. President Nasser is therefore exerting pressure constantly and everywhere in the Middle East to attain his goal. In Cairo, Radio Egypt has the strongest voice in the whole area.

In short, there is no government and no political leader in the Middle East today who can afford to stake his policies and his political life on solidarity with the Western world. The reason is that the West has not got a policy which supports Arab nationalism. Arab nationalism regards the West as its enemy — and nationalism is the ruling force in the Middle East today.

Behind all of this sword rattling of impoverished peoples in underdeveloped lands lies nothing but fear. The only glimmer of hope remains in a satisfactory settlement of the Israeli question which is the anvil upon which Arab nationalism is being forged.

Until the United States and Great Britain bend their joint efforts toward a solution of this problem, the Middle East will continue to be tempting grounds for Soviet intrigue. The Arabs will accept help from any quarters willing to advance their dream of nationalism. For they are genuinely and deeply afraid of Israel.

The Battle Against Illiteracy

The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization has just published a brochure with the intriguing title "World Illiteracy at Mid-Century." It is an ambitious survey to date of the status of the battle to spread knowledge of reading and writing. It deals with conditions in sixty-five countries.

The survey puts the total of adult illiterates at 700,000,000 or about 44 per cent of the world population 15 years old and older. By far the largest concentration of the unlettered is found in Asia and Africa, but the problem of illiteracy is by no means confined to those countries.

The brochure projects, as one of its major conclusions, the possibility that the total of adult illiterates may increase rather than decrease if the present rate of population growth is maintained. The only way to bring lasting improvement, the study says, is to provide more schools for children and to keep them in classes until they become literate. It is then necessary to insure that they remain literate by providing reading material within their financial and mental scope. Experience shows that reading and writing skills are lost if they are not exercised.

The race between population growth and the extension of literacy has produced a paradox in certain regions, where there has been a reduction in the rate of adult illiteracy but an increase in the total number of illiterates. The case of Brazil was cited, which succeeded in reducing its adult illiteracy rate from 65 to 51 per cent between 1900 and 1950, but saw the total of illiterates increase from 6,500,000 to 15,000,000 in the same period.

The statisticians estimate that about 2.5 to 5 per cent of the Soviet people—from 5,000,000 to 10,000,000 are still illiterate. For the United States, they estimate between 3,300,000 and 4,400,000 illiterates, comprising 2.5 per cent of the population. European countries with the lowest rates of illiteracy (between 1 and 2 per cent), include Austria, Britain, Denmark, Finland, Germany, Iceland, Ireland, Liechtenstein, the Netherlands, Norway, Sweden and Switzerland. This shows that half of the world still lives in darkness.

The People Speak

Education Needed is darkest before the dawn of and an aid to the advancement of civilization.
Dear Editor: American race re-better things. Currently, there seems to be a race or a war between education and destruction. We Americans have come a long way but we still have a considerable distance to go. — George Wesley Blount, 258 East Market st., West Chester, Pa.

SO WHAT . . . ?

"She isn't much at spellin'... But the boss likes 'ee her figure."

What Gloris White

Dear Editor: What's all this talk I hear about, keeping our white schools white, and our white race white? — and what's this I hear about there being white people in America? Where will we find them?

Are there any such people in the world? I have traveled the world over and I have never seen one. What color is white?
Is white the color of snow? "It is!" Well then, if snow is white, where on earth will we find people that color?

For instance if there was a race of white people in the world would you imagine them being less civilized than white animals that don't go around fighting animals that are not white?
Or would you, imagine them being less civilized than white fowls that don't go around pecking and spurring fowls that are not white?

Could you imagine them being less civilized than white mice that don't nibble on other mice because they are not their color?

But whites in America are doing that very thing and they are not even white.

They have hypnotized themselves into believing they are white. They are only another colored race which differs in color from

GHANAIANS IGNORE POLITICS, CONCENTRATE ON RAISING THEIR ECONOMIC LEVEL

RECENT CRITICISM IN THE BRITISH PRESS of the government of Ghana, W. Africa, headed by Dr. Kwame Nkrumah, stems mainly from the deportation of two natives of Northern Nigeria who claimed to be Ghana citizens and couldn't, therefore, be banned under the Deportation Act.

The Prime Minister's statement that the deportation was "necessary in the public interest" made headlines in the world press and focused attention on the economic, commercial and industrial status of Ghana today—how it is justifying its emergence as a sovereign state in the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Unmindful of the criticism directed against their political leaders, Ghana citizens are doing a commendable job developing the vast resources of the country and making commercial products, both for home consumption and for export to the farflung markets of the world.

African craftsmen, artisans, processors, small businessmen and others are combining their skills to increase production and raise the economic level of the country. Success of their efforts is due mainly to the help and counsel of the Industrial Development Corporation which is constantly planning new projects for the Ghanaians.

In Accra, chairman of the IDC is W. M. Q. Halm, who recently announced plans for new enterprises, which include a distillery, a starch factory, cold stores and deepfreeze units; prefabricated dwellings and cinema (movie) houses and a match factory.

The starch industry will be located in Southwest Ghana and some of the starch extracted from the locally grown cassava will be diverted to the export trade.

Success of Ghana's West African Pictures, Ltd., which showed a net profit of nearly $100,000, the past fiscal year, has resulted in an IDC plan to import three prefabricated movie houses to be erected in Accra, Tema and other large communities.

The match factory starts operation in November in the Kade district, the initial production expected to be 100,000 boxes of matches a day. Ultimate goal has been set as one-and-a-half million boxes daily.

IDC's 15 subsidiary companies and its affiliation with nine others, are today manufacturing a wide variety of products including saw lumber, soap, cigars and tobacco, nails, bread and cakes edible oils and fats graded stone and new and retreaded tires for both autos and trucks.

All Ghanaians receiving IDC loans for whatever purpose, are inspected frequently — like the U. S. Federal Housing Administration and other governmental agencies to be certain that all contractual obligations are fulfilled.

That's the Ghana of today. Ignoring politics, its citizens have the admirable qualities of perseverance and patience. They know there is no roses-strewn path to success. That which grows slowly "endureth to the end."

DARK Shadows by NAT D. WILLIAMS

Amid the tensions of the times it's a relief to note areas in which calm, steady progress is being made.

Take for example, the Memphis Recreational Department, in the matter of expanding its program to care for the recreational needs of local Negroes. Even the casually observant citizen cannot but note what the Department is doing. A case in point is its sponsorship and direction of last summer's first city-wide swimming meet for the devotees of the city's swimming pools used by Negroes. The event was significant . . . as well as educationally enjoyable. Ask some of the many who saw it.

Then the annually held Playground Festival which climaxes the summer playground season in the city's parks is something world writing home to tell the folks about. It points up the job doing in giving organized guidance and help in meeting the needs of young and old in the matter of recreation during the long summer days. Maybe you know some parents who took advantage of the Recreational Department's program which takes up so easily where the schools leave off during the vacation days.

ULYSSES HUNT
One of the latest manifestations of the progressive program of the Memphis Recreational Department is in their employing of well-known young Memphian, Ulysses Hunt, to head-up the work of the Department among Negroes. A better selection would have been difficult to make. As a native Memphian, Mr. Hunt knows the pulse of the town. He was an outstanding athlete at Manassas High and Le Moyne college. He was a member of the Booker T. Washington High school staff. As a teacher and artist he has earned distinction. And he is a man of creative ideas.

So, it's no surprise that one of Mr. Hunt's first proposals in his new job with the Recreation Department was the establishment of so-called "Pee Wee" football teams in the Negro elementary and Junior High schools of the city.

Mr. Hunt is fortunate in that his immediate supervisor is the popular and well-known head of the city's Recreational Department, Marion Hall, Mr. Hale might well be called the "Pied Piper of Memphis," when it comes down to the personal acquaintance and popularity he enjoys with the white and Negro youngsters of the city. Thousands of kids know him by sight and name, personally.

An he knows them, He's interested in them. So, it was easy to see why Mr. Hunt's project to introduce Pee Wee football in the long neglected athletic program of the Negro elementary schools won ready approval. Mr. Hale knows there are many benefits in schools, homes and community. Mr. Hunt jumped right into his program. Since the opening of the schools in September he has succeeded in getting at least four teams organized and playing. Now, at first sight this might seem just another another every-day achievement. But, it just so happens that it ain't.

There are such little matters of getting the heads of schools to consent to expand already crowded programs to include another school activity. A lot of the kids want to play, but parents have to be "sold" too. Then the school teams have to be equipped with togs and balls and other items connected with the sport. In short, Mr. Hunt multiplied the headaches of his job by hundreds when he sought to introduce another recreational and sports outlet for the Negro youngsters of Memphis.

This mention is made to wish him success. That's the least the rest of us can do for a man who evidences a willingness to help provide a needed service. Huh?

Opposes Press Martyrdom Of Segregationists

ATLANTA — (ANP) — The Atlanta NAACP branch, in a unanimously approved resolution here last Thursday, called upon the press of the nation to "refrain from attempting to make heroes and martyrs of those who are flouting the law of the land in Little Rock."

Pointing out that "certain segments of the press have sought to give some semblance of dignity and moral justification to those obstructions and violators of constitutional rights by publicizing them as 'outraged' citizens," the resolution said:

"A few misguided persons have advocated and participated in unlawful action in the Arkansas school integration dispute, thereby disturbing both local and national peace and tranquility."

THREE NEW BOOKS OF INTEREST

Julian Mayfield's new novel, well.

"The Hit," is the most interesting story of Harlem to come along in a long time. It's young Negro author has written a very effective first novel, capturing a great deal of the feel of certain segments of Harlem life and much of the atmosphere of Harlem streets.

The story all takes place on a single day, the day the number 417 comes out. It's hero is a man of middle age who pins all his hopes on someday hitting the numbers for a large sum of money. This day it happens to him. But old complications and new ones prevent the day, for him, from having a happy ending.

Interwoven with his own tale, are the stories of his wife and son, and his son's girl-friend. The characters are vividly drawn, the prose flows a reader's interest to the end.

"The Big Box Car" is a novel by a Southern white man, Alfred Maund, which possesses a kind of brutal power. In a series of tales told by seven riders in a box car rattling across Alabama, the ugly panorama of the degrading effects of Southern social mores unfolds. All the hurt and horror of poverty, race prejudice, and illiteracy underlie the stories. And one of the riders, who is white, tells a tale that shows that not only are Negroes behind the 8-ball of Dixie's stupidities, but most whites as

If you liked the film "baby Doll" you will like this novel which goes way out into the left field of the "Tobacco Roads" which the freight train in the novel traverses. Some of the scenes in "The Big Box Car" are unforgettable. For me, a Northerner, the net effect of the book was to make me wonder how and why anybody lives in the South under such conditions. I would take a big box car headed North.

"Color Scheme" by Beatrice Wright is a book of poems and, in its quiet simplicity, quite different from the novels of trial and turmoil describe above.

Published at $2.50 by the Pageant Press, 101 Fifth ave., New York 3, N. Y. (and I give you the address since books of poetry do not find their way always into book-shops) "Color Scheme" has a number of quite charming little poems, some witty ones, and a few beautiful ones.

Written by a Brooklyn woman of color, it contains poems that have mostly been previously published in Negro newspapers and magazines. But much of the poetry is non-racial in content, universal in meaning, and might be enjoyed by anyone. Some of the poems I like follow:

THE ETERNAL TRIANGLE
Knowing LOVE the way I do,
How can I live without you?

And this one of a grandmother seen through the eyes of a child:

How can I listen to my pride?
Knowing PRIDE the way I do,
How can I throw myself at your feet?

And she is putting them to bed

GRANDMOTHER'S HANDS

My grandmother folds her hands like this

When she sits down.

I guess they must be tired

And she is putting them to bed to rest.

But I do wish she wouldn't fuss and scold

When my hands are so very busy.

I don't mean to be upsetting things.

My hands just aren't tired yet . . .

Dope And Data

Governor Faubus of Arkansas was finally chased off the front pages of the newspapers by a Russian satellite last week. Although he continued to shoot off his mouth the nation was no longer listening. The beep, beep of a Russian machine way up in the heavens was making too loud a noise for most Americans to hear much else.

The impact of Sputnik on the American mind may be difficult to measure at this point, but we know it is considerable. I understand in Washington some reporters were asking each other, "How does it feel to be a citizen of a second-class power?"

I suppose it would follow that such a question addressed to a Negro might be stated as follows: "How does it feel to be a second-class citizen of a second-class power?"

The official Washington line, that the Soviets merely pulled a smart-aleck trick by getting into space first, is hard to swallow. I do not know what the future holds, but to permit the Russians to get the scientific and research jump on us must be regarded as an enormous loss of prestige for America in a period of international tension when we cannot afford such a loss.

In one respect, however, I am not surprised that American scientists have been outclassed in this field. For several years now our scientists and researchers have been harassed, intimidated, and regarded with so much suspicion that some of them must have felt discouraged. The witch-hunting, public trials and investigations in front of television cameras, may have helped to paralyze the initiative of those whom we must depend upon today.

The immediate reaction to the Russian space victory among most editors and news commentators was bitterly critical of our own policies in the Pentagon where of the chief responsibility for our failure seems to lie. Many commentators took the position that a vast shakeup in Washington is overdue.

I, too, think a shake-up is necessary, but I do not believe it should be confined to Washington. The whole American mind has got to be changed. The strutting boasting, white supremacy arrogance of the average American in a position of power becomes a silly, ridiculous pose at this point in history.

The flourishing of the big stick at home and abroad looks rather stupid today when the very space over our heads is dominated by Russian genius and ingenuity. Only the Negro has known humility in American society. Now we are going to have a great deal of company. From the tenor of the talk out of Moscow these days, the Russians are determined to make us respect them and respect their capacity for achievement as full fledged members of the human family.

Perhaps we in America may learn to drop our silly racial diffences in the national interest now that we are no longer the supreme beings of the universe.

In time of challenge and crisis, the nation cannot afford the crippling restrictions of racism.

It needs to exploit the full potential of its human resources in order to keep pace with modern Russia. This cannot be done in a system of segregation where artificial barriers limit the development of a people.

We are living in a time of revolution. Within a decade science has opened up the atom and put his handiwork into outer space. No age in history has discovered so much so quickly. In the social sciences, too, we are witnessing developments which, although less startling may be equally significant for the future.

The old colonial world is falling apart and the white supremacy philosophy upon which it was built is becoming a joke in Japan, China, India and other parts of the non-white world.

Even the so-called primitive people are in ferment. Socio-economic systems, socialism, capitalism, communism are all joined in a vast competitive struggle for supremacy. From any point of view the American way of life and all it signifies are being challenged as never before.

We cannot meet that challenge divided from within by irrational prejudices. Of course, Gov. Faubus and his kind don't care. To them prejudice comes first. None are so blind as those who will not see.

2-Time Loser At Peace In Study For New Way Of Life

NASHVILLE — You might say that James Price, 25, sophomore at American Baptist Theological seminary, is a two time loser whose strength remains the same or stronger as if he'd never known defeat.

Price's first lost came Oct. 1, 1949 when he was struck by a rapid transit train in Cleveland, Ohio, resulting in his becoming a paraplegic with only one arm (his right arm was severed above the elbow).

The second jolt came six years later when Price at last decided to turn his back on the world and study for the ministry at ABT seminary.

Of this experience, Price says, "I found peace, but I lost all of my previous friends."

FINDS NEW FRIENDS
But he adds, almost exultantly, "I found new . . . stronger . . . stronger . . . friends at the seminary."

Forgetting for always Price's losses — for he has forgotten them, as great as they were — the future of his existence can be predicted upon the basis of what he has "found."

The administration, student body, and faculty of ABT seminary have invested their whole confidence in this young man upon just this basis.

There's little room for doubt that their confidence is well placed. Following an extremely difficult period of frustrated readjustment in his young life, Price at first found reasons to seek Christ as a counselor — the way of a Christian. His life today indicates a large measure of success.

The initial discovery led him to seek training for the Christian ministry at ABT seminary, where he has found "peace" — "new, stronger friends" — in a community compatible with his life's whole new purpose.

FORGETS WHEELCHAIR
Price now spends his days — apparently oblivious of the wheelchair that forever supports his sitting posture — in this community which not only is equipping him with some of the very best training for the ministry available in this country, but among other young preachers-to-be who are considerate of his every need and even receive inspiration from his presence among them.

The young man like any other student at the seminary working toward a bachelor of theology degree carries a full schedule of courses. His classes, too, are in buildings, and upstairs, all over a 50-acre campus.

The courses are no problem because Price is an above average student who is stimulated by a fierce zeal to do his very best. The stairs pose no problem because his "new and stronger" friends carry him wherever and whenever he has to go.

His presence on the campus as a source of inspiration was described in this manner by the Rev. Otis Pickett, senior class member:

"It certainly gives us inspiration to see a man like Brother Price with courage and determination aspire for higher learning to carry the gospel."

Price, armed with his new findings as ABT seminary, says he has no fears of returning to the cold, hard world after graduating here. His desire for "higher learning" has already left aspirations for advance degrees.

Price was born in Chattanooga, Tenn., and lived in Chicago before coming to Nashville where he now lives with his mother during off school seasons.

Since the accident he has been a radio announcer, singer, and in 1954 auditioned for a now-famous Broadway musical show.

He dutifully relates this as a part of "my mixed up life" before "I realized there was something God wanted me to do."

500 Back Plan To Sell Two N. C. City Pools

GREENSBORO, N. C. — (INS) — More than 500 residents attended a public meeting Monday night at Greensboro, N. C., and strongly endorsed a suggestion made by some city council members that two public swimming pools be sold to prevent racial integration.

One of the pools, Lindley Park, has been used only by white residents. The other, Nocho, was used by Negroes.

Some members of the City Council first suggested that the public pools should be sold when the Greensboro Branch of the NAACP asked several weeks ago that the pools be integrated.

Officials said the NAACP later withdrew its request.

The city council then asked residents to express their opinion regarding the sale of the pools.

The council said it will announce its decision on the pools Oct. 31 or Nov. 4.

Sees Crisis Until Ark. Election

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. — (INS) — An attorney who represents the nine Negro students involved in the Little Rock integration storm says the crisis will continue until the 1958 Arkansas gubernatorial election.

Wiley A. Branton, of Pine Bluff, Ark., addressed a closing session of a two-day conference of the Illinois chapter of the NAACP in East St. Louis yesterday.

"The Negro students will not leave the school and the integration crisis will continue until the 1958 gubernatorial election," Branton, who is representing the nine students involved in Little Rock's Central High school situation, said a majority of white residents of Little Rock are in accord with the school board's considered plan of gradual integration.

However, he said they are fearful of what will happen when federal troops are removed from the city.

Branton charged that some Arkansas state officials have been attempting to persecute members of the NAACP by threatening them with suits for taxes in order to obtain the organization's membership lists.

SOCIETY Merry Go-Round

by MARJORIE I. ULEN

The recent salute to Memphis club and churchwomen by representatives of the Pittsburgh Courier provided impetus for an interesting Sunday afternoon and evening Sunday week. Veteran newspaper women, Evelyn Cunningham and Gladys M. Johnson, of New York City and Detroit respectively, carved a niche on the hearts of all whom they met... with their refreshing charm, friendliness and graciousness and because of the detailed and keen knowledge they had gathered of our city and its prominent women leaders.

THE PROGRAM

At Second Congregational church at 5 p.m., an excellent cross section of Memphis Maids and Matrons assembled for the relaxed and very different type of program provided by the committee members and Ruby Gadison, local Courier representative, who deserves endless credit for their excellent job of coordinating the many facets that made the affair indeed pleasurable. Committee members were Mesdames M. L. Adams, G. M. Bumpus, G. S. Young, Alma Booth, Addie Owen, Ethel Venson (who, though out of town was evidenced by courtesies extended the guests and her contributions to the lovely floral decorations) E. O. Rodgers, and Miss Willa McWilliams. Of these, Mesdames Booth, Rodgers, Young and Owens, along with Mrs. Addie D. Jones, were hostesses at the church.

Mrs. Leona Jamison Miss Gwendolyn Nash, Mrs. Marie L. Adams, Mrs. Meryl Glover, Mrs. Mertis J. Ewell and Rev. John C. Mickle, pastor of the church, contributed to the interesting program which was paced by Miss Harry Mae Simons as mistress of ceremonies.

RECEPTION FOLLOWS

Immediately following, the Faculty Lounge of LeMoine college's Brownlee Hall was the scene of the reception honoring the occasion. Beautiful Fall foliage and blooms highlighted the lovely lounge, and here again credit must go to Mrs. Lillie Matthews and Mrs. Venson. Delicious Frappe and Cookies were served, compliments of The Pet Milk Company, under the supervision of Mrs. Mildred Riley, consultant. Mrs. M. L. Adams introduced guests to the receiving line which included Mrs. Gadison, Mrs. Cunningham and Mrs. Johnson. "Jake" Gaither, Courier circulation manager, and Jimmy Johnson, busied themselves informally ferreting out more news about us, with conversations with many of the guests. Presiding at the punch table were Mrs. Hollis F. Price and Mrs. John C. Mickle. Reception hostesses were Mesdames Margaret Rivers, Jewel Speight, Cooper Taylor, Florence C. T. McCleaves and Miss Erma Laws.

Eagerly, we shall look forward to next April, where we're almost certain to find that Memphis will be well-represented in the array of data gathered about ideal club and churchwomen in the South and Southwest.

PRESS PARTY HONORS GUEST

Later the same night, Tony's Inn was the scene of convivial party tossed by Ruby Gadison and co-Courier representative, well-known Nat D. Williams, for members of the local press and radio. The feminine honorees were both pictures of ultra chic and smartness, heightened by double orchid corsages — white to complement Gladys' conversation piece black cocktail frock which was topped with a luscious white stole, and pale lavender to highlight the beautifully draped beige frock of Evelyn. Willa Monroe, close friend of Evelyn for many years sent one of the beautiful corsages. The interesting party proved the rapport of the Memphis representatives present, and was indeed an opportunity all of us wished could occur more frequently! Present were Thaddeus T. Stokes, editor of the Memphis World, Miss Jewel Gentry, society editor of the Memphis World, veteran newspaper man Lewis O. Swinger, Miss Willa Monroe and Mrs. Martha Jean Steinberg, both of Station WDIA, Miss Dorothy Butler and Henry Collins, both of the Staff of the Tri-State Defender. Cliff Metcalf, and the members of the Courier Caravan. Of course Nat Mr. WDIA himself, proved a wonderful MC, as he steered the joviality of the occasion into the channels of wisdom and wit — brightened of course, with his usual sage observations.

PARTY NEWS

A double surprise party was the order of Thursday night, when vivacious Juanita Aarnold cleverly plotted a surprise birthday celebration for her spouse, Johnny, and friend Ruby Johnson who is visiting from California, and whose birthday was only two days before Johnny's. Here was a situation which found each surprised person well aware that a surprise party was in the offering: Johnny believing that he was playing it to the hilt to keep Ruby from knowing she was to be feted... and Ruby working busy as a beaver to keep Johnny from knowing that he was to be surprised with a party. When the two entered the Aarnold's lovely home on Ioka — each contented that they had kept their charge safely out of the way of preparations... when familiar, "Happy Birthday to You" rang out it was no more than expected. However, when the refrain continued "dear Johnny" and then "dear Ruby," each one gave forth with a shocked, "Who, me?"

A succulent huge turkey was roasted to perfection... and a lovely dinner, ending with demitasse... and brightened with the contents of the well-stocked bar, provided wonderful fun for assemble friends of the two honorees. Ruby is the wife of Louis Johnson, Jet Mag. Circulation representative, who is also Twiffy Arnold's godfather, and with whom "Twiffy" spent the entire past summer. Present were Helen and C. C. Sawyer, Alma and Phil Booth, Charlesteen Miles and Elmer Hendavis, Aretta and Fleming Polk, Charlie Tarpley, Atty. Ben Jones, Helen Eldridge Tarpley, Marthar Anderson and Benny Tate, Eddie Richardson, Jewel Gentry, Mary and Jack Roberts, Jack LeFlore, Georgia and Andrew Dancy, Louise Davis, Allie Mae and Bob Roberts, Adelaide Settles and Mr. Swayze and Thomas Fitzgerald.

The same week saw natal celebrations for Camille Simon — Liz and "Monk" Simon's cute three-year-old, who had a joint celebration with petite and demure Peggy Prater, the fledgling of Helen and Edwin Prater. And Friday night Lorene Anderson Osborne gathered a few close friends and neighbors as a surprise in honor of her hubby, Fred's birthday.

More party news concerns the magic Mrs. Maridelle Reed must have been up on, to have planned such a lovely party on her beautiful lawn recently... blessed with first wonder-warm sunshine and later a mellow moon. The setting was indeed picturesque — with its willow trees and ivy and flaming salvia.

An elaborately baked ham, spaghetti, slaw, spiced peaches, stuffed celery and a variety of cocktail tidbits presented a lovely sight at the well appointed table. Guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Moore, Jr., Mrs. Bernice Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Maceo Mainger, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gillis, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Mitchell and daughter Tommie Briggs and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Clemmie Ryan, Leroy Allen and Mrs. Mamie Miller, Clarence Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Mobley, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Albritton, (of Milwaukee, Wis.), Miss Juanita Allen and d. d. Suttles, Mrs. Mary E. Morris, Mrs. Adelaide Mangland, the hostesses' cousin, serving ably as toastmistress. During the evening, Mrs. Ragland made pictures with her movie camera, as did O. W. Pickett with his Polaroid, the results of which will be shown the Halloween Party which this group has already scheduled.

CHIT CHAT

Mrs. Marie Canard Howard of 2672 Spottswood had an interesting week-end guest in the presence of Mrs. Mary Qualls Washington, now of Pasadena, Calif., who has not visited Memphis in 14 years now. Many friends of Mrs. Washington will be sorry to learn that her stay was so short, and regret that all of her old friends could not see her.

Becoming a closer neighbor of ours now is Dr. James Hawkins, who has opened offices in the old Universal Building at West Memphis, Ark. Dr. Hawkins was formerly of Forrest City, where he practiced with Dr. J. E. Burke.

Those wonderful Ofay-Afoys had a gala time at Tony's Inn Saturday evening, when they beckoned the bid of hostess Mildred Jordan. Ruth Beauchamp was absent due to the extended illness of her father (who we hope will soon be strong enough to leave the hospital), and Velma McLemore. Stuffed quarter chickens... and delectable side fare provided the appetizing menu enjoyed by Walterine M. Outlaw, Ethel Tarpley, Rosa Robinson, Augusta Cash, Harriet Davis Vivian White, Juanita Brinkley, Alma Booth and Lillian Campbell.

And, as we go to press, we close with fervent hope for the quick recovery of Johnetta Kelson, who has been seriously ill. Though she has not been able to have

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both — Relieves Pain — Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to "shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain — without surgery. In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place. And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months! In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing. All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body. This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Musing: NEW PSYCHOLOGY IN REARING CHILDREN... The modern parent has been the butt of much ridicule and misunderstandings... The modern approach to children does not imply any quarrel with common sense, and specialized knowledge can be used when we use it wisely.

The modern approach does not favor bringing up children with out discipline. It does not suggest letting them do or say anything they wish at anytime or any place. Neither does it allow children to be as rude and inconsiderate as they please in the name of "self-expression."

Dear Carlotta: I am a boy 17 and have been going steady with a lovely girl. Recently she threw me over for another boy. I am still in love with her. Please tell me how I can get her back. Joe.

Dear Joe: I am sorry, but you probably can't. It is possible that some day she may be willing to go out with you again... when she grows up a bit and realizes that going with only one boy at a time cuts down her friendships at a time when she should be making friends and gaining a more mature understanding of both boys and girls. That is also what you

Board Study Might Close N. Y. Hospital

NEW YORK—(ANP)—A study of the needs of hospitals in Harlem, by the Hospital Council of Greater New York, has posed the question of whether expansion of Harlem hospital might warrant closing of Sydenham as a municipal institution.

This question came to light here Friday when the council announced it was beginning its survey of hospital needs in Harlem. Harlem hospital, formerly a voluntary institution with an interracial board of trustees and medical staff, became a part of the municipal hospital system in 1949. It now requires approximately $1 million in alterations.

PICKETS PROTEST BRITISH RULE AS QUEEN VISITS UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — (INS) — A group of about 15 pickets carrying signs protesting British rule in Kenya marched in the United Nations plaza yesterday during Queen Elizabeth's visit.

Police did not interfere with the pickets, who were almost totally hidden by swarms of New Yorkers crowding the sidewalks for a look at the Queen and Prince Philip.

The pickets' signs read "Free Kenya Committee," "Heart of Africa Committee," and "Africa and Asia Stand Together."

She belonged to her neighborhood club, the 4 and 8 Social club, the Jolly Bunch Social club, (composed of church members), and the Rosary Art club, a charitable organization. Beside her husband, she is survived by a daughter.

Busy mother of four healthy, growing boys... Mrs. Harry L. Hudson of Atlanta says:

"WE USE PET MILK SO MANY WAYS EVERY DAY"

Pretty Edith Hudson is the center of an active, happy family—her successful husband, a graduate of Morehouse College; and four husky boys. Her favorite part of the day is when they all come hurrying home—Harry from his job as assembly supervisor at Lockheed Aircraft Corporation and the three older boys from school. She loves cooking for them and, like so many good cooks, always uses PET Evaporated Milk to make her meals extra rich, extra nourishing and extra delicious. It's no wonder every member of her family is a picture of good health. The Hudsons love entertaining at home, often with barbecues and song fests in their large backyard. Talented Harry accompanies the singing with his steel guitar, and even little Albert tries to join in as family and friends have their happiest times just being together.

Get your child a copy of "Four Famous Little Girls," a story and coloring book about the well-known Fultz Quadruplets. Just send a label from a tall can of PET Evaporated Milk with your name and address to Pet Milk Company, 1480-B Arcade Bldg., St. Louis 1, Mo.

for cooking...for coffee...and for babies

"We're a real PET Milk family—from breakfast time to bedtime. We use it in coffee and cocoa, on cereal and fruit, for whipped toppings and homemade ice cream—well, in just more ways than I can name. All four of my boys—Michael, 7, Ronald, 5, Albert, 18 months, and Harry, Jr., 10—were PET Milk babies, and you can be sure the new baby we're expecting in December will get the same healthy start!"

"The boys love to romp with their father in the evening, and he enjoys it as much as they do. Harry, Jr., quite often has homework or studying to do, but the other three would wrestle and laugh all night if I didn't shoot them off to bed."

THIS IS WASHINGTON

Blue Card Is Prestige Mark For Queen's Visit

By ETHEL L. PAYNE

Arlington, just across the bridge from Washington, has long been considered the enlightened part of Virginia, but the issue of school desegregation has all but destroyed the flowering liberalism here. Last week, the bigots in the Defenders of State Sovereignty, another name for White Citizens Council, succeeded in branding Arlington with an ugly reactionary label, when they forced a local school PTA to cancel the appearance of the Howard U. choir at one of its meetings.

Three years ago, the famed choral group made headlines in an other racial incident when they were barred by District police from singing at a GOP rally at the Uline Arena and President Eisenhower apologized for the incident.

Mrs. E. Frederick Morrow made her introduction to official Washington when she and her husband of a month, who is on the White House staff, appeared as guests of the President at the White House reception for Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

The former Catherine Gordon Boswell of Chicago has not yet moved her things here, because their new home in Washington is undergoing extensive decoration. The Morrows will be at home after Nov. 6.

Glamorous Etta Moten and her husband, Claude, scored a social bullseye when they landed an invitation as the luncheon guests of Queen and her consort in the Senate Dining Room of the Capitol.

If you were lucky enough to get one of those coveted invitations to the British Embassy reception you had to be luckier still to hold a blue bordered card. The red edged one simply admitted you. The blue one entitled you to be among those privileged to shake the Queen's hand. To keep down an explosion, the Embassy carefully invited all of Washington's rival hostesses including those two famed protagonists, Gwen (Mrs. Morris) Cafritz and Perle (Hostess with the Mostest) Mesta; not to leave out Mrs. Merriweather Post.

You might lay it on Sputnik, but suddenly the Russians have become very popular here in Washington. People, who before wouldn't want to be seen walking past 1125 16th st., N. W., are now calling the Embassy and asking for invitations to the anniversary of the Red Revolution.

After arguing in vain with her boss about what to wear, Maxienne Dargans triumphantly clipped out of the paper the correct male attire for the British Embassy reception for Queen Elizabeth.

both and Prince Philip, sent it to Congressman Adam Clayton Powell in New York had the satisfaction of not only having the last word but of seeing him impeccably turned out when he arrived at the Embassy with his blue card of admission.

Dr. Roscoe Brown of the D. C. Public Health Service, has just completed a book on his late famed uncle who worked 67 years for the British Embassy in Washington. A bachelor with several college degrees, Charlie Brown went to work Oct. 1, 1888 after serving as valet to the Spanish ambassador. Brown became the librarian for the Embassy, received scores of citations including one from King George VI and labor leader Ernest Bevan. He died in Dec., 1955. Last week, another long time employee, Chester Barksdale, messenger for 37 years, was presented by Lord Caccia, the British ambassador, to Her Majesty and received a citation.

The heads of Commonwealth countries with embassies occupied high ranking places at all ceremonies attendant upon the Queen's visit. Representing Ghana was Major Seth Anthony, the Charges D'Affaires, who is serving until an ambassador is named.

Instruction to the press took up 21 pages of legal size paper.

Mrs. Daisy Bates of Little Rock drew nearly as much press attention as the Queen when she spoke before the workshop of the American Council on Human Rights Saturday in Washington and before the Baltimore NAACP on Sunday.

Intrepid gadfly Eugene David, president of the local branch of the NAACP, is happily buzzing despite, cross burning on his lawn and a suit of $50,000 slapped on him by a white policeman named in the NAACP brutality suit, against the Metropolitan police and the District.

Dr. Robert Mance, treasurer of the AME church, has opened medical offices in Washington. He formerly lived and practiced in Columbia, S. C.; but moved here after his election two years ago to the church position.

Africa House had the formal opening of its new home last week. When a member of the Indian Embassy staff entered the foyer of a large Washington apartment, most of the Negroes, he stopped a well-dressed matron coming down the elevator and told her he was looking for a maid to clean his new apartment across the street in a building inhabited, with his exception by whites.

Withering him down with an icy stare, the Negro woman replied: "I don't know who could have told you this was the place to find a maid. If you can't get one in your building among the tenants there, I suggest you try the Charleston around the corner. P.S. The Charleston is an all white apartment hotel!"

Story of the week: Contributed by Dan Powell and Phil Wrightman. Two small boys, one white and one Negro who were fast friends were fishing one day. They rowed out in the middle of the lake and were looking for a good place to drop their lines when the colored lad fell overboard. The white boy jumped in and pulled him back to the boat. The story got back to the Chamber of Commerce who decided to put on a testimonial dinner and present a medal to the white boy for his courage and heroism in the interest of better brotherhood in the community. When the citation was given, the dinner officials called on the little white boy to speak. Said he: "I didn't jump in after him because he was my friend. I saved him because he had the bait in his pocket!" Moral: This can be applied to politics.

Boosts Assets Of Bennett

GREENSBORO, N. C. — Total gifts and grants in excess of $17,000 were reported during the annual meeting of the Bennett College board of trustees at the college Saturday.

This sum, representing an increase slightly over $99,000 in these categories over the past year, includes a grant of $67,000 for faculty salaries from the Ford Foundation, the second installment of a grant of $127,000 made for this purpose.

An increase of over $11,000 in Race Relations offerings for Bennett from supporting conferences the Methodist church was also noted.

President Willa B. Player, in her annual report, informed the trustees of the highly successful student exchange programs instituted last year between Bennett and Sarah Lawrence college, Bronxville, N. Y., and Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware, Ohio. The trustees were unanimous in their approval of this program as a means of strengthening interracial understanding on the part of American youth and recommended that it be strengthened for this school year.

FIVE AREAS

Making her report against the background of the summary report made last August to President Eisenhower by the President's Committee on Education Beyond the High School, Dr. Player highlighted what the college is doing and planning in the five major problem areas in the former document, need for teachers, need for assistance to students, need for expansion and diversity of educational opportunities, the financing of higher education and the role of the federal government in education.

Two trustees-Bishop Edgar A. Love, of Baltimore, Md., and Mrs. Harry E. James, of New York City were re-elected to terms ending in 1961. Dr. Carl King, of Salisbury, executive secretary of the Board of Education of the Western North Carolina Conference of the Methodist church, attended his first meeting as a trustee. He was elected last year.

In addition to hearing reports from standing committees, the trustees authorized the secretary send greetings of appreciation to Dr. W. C. Jackson, of Greensboro; Mrs. W. Raymond Brown, of Herkimer, N. Y., and Bishop Robert E. Jones, of Waveland, Miss., all of whom were unable to attend because of illness.

Following the meeting of the trustees, there was a meeting of the Continuing Corporation of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist church. Both groups were honored Saturday night at a dinner held in the David D. Jones Student Union.

With LEODA GAMMON

Old Fourth Sweet Potato Pudding

makes an elegant dessert to grace the holiday table. Sweet potatoes spiced with ginger give this pudding an unusual, but delightful flavor. Baked in a casserole which doubles as a serving dish, it should be served in grand style; a simple topping of whipped cream, pecans and cherries can be used to give it a party air.

The combination of sweet potatoes, milk and eggs makes for an exceptionally nutritious dessert — and added attraction for this old fashioned pudding. It's a perfect choice for the hostess who is looking for something a bit different that will be a sure fire hit at holiday time.

Middleton Senior Reigns As 'Miss Lane College'

The student of Lane college selected Miss Lane College who will represent the college on various occasions.

Miss Barbara Brooks, a senior at Lane College, was elected as Miss Lane college for the school year of 1957-58. Miss Brooks of Middleton, Tenn., won the vote of the student body in a very close election. Miss Joyce Clark of Jackson, Tenn., was also a candidate for this title.

Miss Lane College was selected on these qualifications: she must be a senior at the college she must have a pleasing personality, be attractive, have a high intelligence and above all she must have character. Both Miss Brooks and Miss Clark met all these qualifications and it was a hard decision to make.

Miss Brooks will represent the Lane college Student Body in various activities that go on at Lane and on other campuses that she visits.

When Miss Brooks was informed that she had been selected tears of joy ran down her cheeks. During the general assembly of the student body on last Friday Miss Brooks expressed her appreciation to them and blew them all kisses.

Recipe of the Week

by Louise R. Prothro
PET MILK HOME ECONOMIST

Do cookies disappear at your house almost as soon as you've finished baking them???

I know they do at our house — and that's why my Pet Milk recipe for good, quick, easy JIFFY PEANUT COOKIES is one of my favorites! These golden-brown, crunchy little cookies are popular with everyone, both children and grownup, yet they take so little time and work to mix, and bake in just fifteen minutes. So, even if I find that the cookie jar is thought was almost full has been mysteriously emptied, I can always bake Jiffy Peanut Cookies in a hurry. And there's another reason why I especially like them — made with Pet Evaporated Milk, they contain an extra amount of important milk nourishment. You see, Pet Milk is double-rich, so the amount you use in these cookies is equal to twice as much bottled milk. Of course, the most important thing about these cookies to my family — and to yours — is the taste, and I'll guarantee that Pet Milk make them more delicious than they'd ever been made with other forms of milk. Here's the recipe . . . I hope you'll try it soon.

JIFFY PEANUT COOKIES

2 cups sifted, all-purpose flour
1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup soft shortening
2 unbeatens eggs
1-4 cup Pet Evaporated Milk
1-2 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups small, salted peanuts
Turn on oven and set at 350 (moderate). Sift together into a 15 dozen.

mixing bowl the flour, sugar and baking powder. Add all at once the shortening, eggs, milk and vanilla. Mix until well blended. Stir in peanuts. Drop 2 in. apart, by teaspoons into greased cookie pan. Bake on rack slightly above center in 350 oven (moderate) about 5 min., or until light brown. Remove from pan at once. Makes 15 dozen.

The first of four rallies being extended over a two year period to erase the balance of the church's indebtedness due to renovations, has been brought to an end by church of the eastern seaboard, Shiloh Baptist church, Ohio and Arctic avenues.

In the past five years, Shiloh's edifice was made completely new again, inside and out, at a cost of $120,000. Included was an addition to the front, a new heating system, fire wall, modern kitchen and an air-conditioning unit. Of the overall cost, all except $28,000 has been required.

Six months ago the Rev. Russell A. Roberts, minister of the church, announced the remaining debt would be divided into four six-month rallies. The initial one ended with a total of $8,555 realized.

He declared: "With the 1957 Ford, we are out in front and leading the field. By past standards, we could be expected to shift a few pieces of chrome and call it a '58. Instead, however, Ford spent $185 million to bring out a car with new styling and completely new power train, both within a single year.

President Of Edward Waters

COLUMBIA, S. C. — William B. Stewart, president of Edward Waters college, was elected president of the recently organized Council of A.M.E. College Presidents at a meeting held last week at Allen university.

The meeting was held in conjunction with a workshop of A.M.E. college business managers called by H. Talcott Stith CPA, representing the General Board of the church. The workshop was held to develop a uniform system in auditing accounts of the church-connected schools.

During the meeting standardized procedures were outlined by Stith to the business managers, who under the reorganization of the church's administration of school affairs, will be given a greater responsibility for handling fiscal matters.

The college presidents in electing Stewart stated that they had organized for the purpose of unifying their efforts in behalf of the improvement and perpetuation of A.M.E. supported schools under the accepted standards of accrediting agencies.

PAY TRIBUTE

A spokesman for the college presidents stated that the election of President Stewart was a tribute to the splendid work he has accomplished at Edward Waters junior college in Jacksonville, Fla.

Stith, a member of the accounting firm of Derrick, Stubbs and Stith of Columbia S. C., has been working on a plan to bring the entire accounting systems of the colleges under a central control.

In the meantime a General Education Commission is setting up a set of rules and regulations which will serve to bring the administration of these schools into line with the standards of recognized accrediting agencies.

LAW PASSED IN '56

All this grows out of legislation passed at the May 1956, Quadrennial Conference of the A. M. E. church, held in Miami, Fla. The spelling out of these laws were emphasized during the trial of Bishop Nicholas in Jacksonville, Fla., during the past summer.

The standards as set down by the new laws of the church bring the administration of the fiscal affairs of the church schools directly under Board.

Among the schools affected are Wilberforce university, Wilberforce, Ohio; Payne Seminary, Wilberforce, Ohio; Morris Brown college Atlanta, Ga.; Allen university Columbia, S. C.; Paul Quinn college, Waco Texas; Kittrell college Henderson, N. C.; Campbell college, Jackson, Miss.; Edward Waters college Jacksonville, Fla.; Daniel Payne college Birmingham, Ala.

DISTRICT CONTROL

Prior to 1956, each A.M.E. church supported school, was controlled entirely by the district which supported it. As a result the school prospered according to the ability of the bishop in charge to handle the administrative affairs of the institution.

This often created a more or less challenging condition in the rise and fall of the schools and few presidents could set up long range administrative programs.

Under the new law, the money collected for the support of the school is included in the $4 per annum dues to be paid by the membership of the church. This money is turned into the General Church Fund which is administered by the General Board. The General Board in turn dispenses the money proportionately to the schools.

An Educational Commission, working under the direction of the General Board, and in conjunction with the General Secretary of Education has general supervision of the administration of these funds.

In spite of the loose definition of control under previous church laws, many bishops have done much to further the advancement of schools under their control.

GETS SCHOOL RATED

Edward Waters college accreditation was held directly responsible to the cooperation given President William B. Stewart by the late Bishop Gregg and later by Bishop Carey A. Gibbs, who upon his transfer to Alabama gave similar cooperation to Dr. Howard Gregg, president of Daniel Payne college.

Wilberforce university showed definite advancement under the administrations of Bishops Ren and Bonner. Paul Quinn has moved ahead under the administration of Bishop Quinn has moved ahead under the administrations of Bishops Gomez and Primm.

It is the contention of those who foster the direction of the college administration by the General Board, however, that an over-all program removing complete control by the assigned bishop is for the general betterment of the institutions concerned. They also say it'll give a degree of stability to the administrative programs that will allow better planning for the development of future program and curricula.

A similar attitude has been taken by the official accrediting agencies of the nation in defining policy at all church supported schools. Many other churches have followed this advice and the A.M.E. church is now attempting to bring its program in line with the accepted program now being followed by other major church supported institutions.

The majority of the A.M.E. colleges are now in the hands of capable men as presidents. The General Board feels that these men should be allowed to function unhindered in the operation of their offices.

This policy should do much to enable the schools to move forward and take their proper places among the privately endowed colleges at a time when adequate institutions of higher learning are sorely needed, officials attending the workshop agreed.

Item Reduces Braille Costs

NEW YORK — Use of a self-baking adhesive that greatly lowers the cost of Braille printing was revealed here recently by the Philadelphia Volunteers Service for the Blind, Inc.

The new Braille printing achievement, hailed as a major advance in the work of producing more reading material for the blind, has been developed jointly by the Philadelphia volunteer agency and Chrysler corporation's Cycleworld Division in Detroit. Experiments have been conducted steadily for several months.

Mrs. L. Alan Passmore, president of the Philadelphia agency says, "The use of this new adhesive, called C-14, has now reached the stage where we feel it has a tremendous potential in producing more textbooks, magazines and reference material for the blind."

REDUCES COST

"By making it possible to use plates for the short-run printing process, C-14 has greatly reduced the cost. For example, before any processing, a metal plate costs 18 cents, while a piece of Braille paper costs only half a cent.

"The Chrysler adhesive is easy to work with and it generates its own heat which hardens it without need of ovens or other equipment."

First public disclosure of the work was made by Mrs. Passmore at a National Braille club conference here. The process was demonstrated at a special press conference at the Overseas Press Club.

Charles F. Hall, a proofreader at the Philadelphia agency, had long been searching for a chemical solution which would make it possible to use Braille paper for printing in a manner similar to a duplicating machine.

300,000 Compete For Merit Scholarships

DEFENDER

Sat., Oct. 26, 1957

$4 Million To Be Awarded

EVANSTON, Ill. — The most intensive talent hunt in America's history began Tuesday, Oct. 22, with the testing of 300,000 senior students in 14,000 high schools. The examination, called the "Scholarship Qualifying Test," was the first hurdle in the 1958 National Merit Scholarship Program. More than $4 million in Merit Scholarships, including those granted by some 70 business and industrial companies, was at stake. Tuesday's test was a high level college aptitude-type examination, designed to measure the differences among students of high verbal and quantitative ability, and to predict their chances of success in college. Administration began at 9 a. m. and last for two hours.

The 7,500 seniors with the highest scores in the test will enter the semi-finals of the Merit Program, where further selection will take place. The semi-finalists will be identified in early December, and the actual winners of Merit Scholarships, expected to exceed 800, will be announced about May 1, 1958.

The nationwide competition is conducted by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation of Evanston, Ill., on behalf of companies, foundations, professional societies, and even individuals who sponsor the awards.

Merit Scholarships are named after the companies and other private groups that provide them, the largest sponsor being the Sears-Roebuck Foundation, which awards 100 of these scholarships annually at a total investment of $500,000.

The sponsoring organizations include such nationally known names as International Business Machines, National Distillers and Chemical Corporation, F. W. Woolworth Co., Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., McGraw-Hill, B. F. Goodrich, Time Inc., Gulf Oil and many others.

John M. Stalnaker, president of NMSC, in congratulating the high school principals responsible for the enormous turnout for Tuesday's test, pointed out the ever-increasing need for identifying and helping able young people.

"Events of recent weeks on the international scene have simply re-accented the importance of identifying and educating our brightest people. The snowballing demands for able and highly trained experts in all phases of our society, and the need to seek them out, leads us, inevitably, to our schools. Here, under development, are the scientists, engineers, and teachers who will determine what the future will be."

A Merit Scholarship provides its winner with the funds he needs to attend the college of his choice for four years. Family resources, summer earnings of the student, and college costs are all considered in determining the amount that accompanies each award. The grants to Merit Scholars vary from a minimum of $100 a year for the four college years to over $2,000 a year in case of great need. The average student's stipend is about $650 a year.

Each Merit Scholar selects the accredited college he prefers to attend. Since tuition does not cover the actual cost of educating a student, each Merit scholarship includes an educational supplement for the college to help it defray its costs in educating the Merit Scholar.

The National Merit Scholarship Program was begun in 1955, based on grants of $20 million for the Ford Foundation and $500 thousand from the Carnegie Corporation of New York. The program's nationwide search for students of high potential makes it possible for companies to devote their scholarship funds entirely to able students and colleges and avoid the overhead costs of holding separate competitions. About 1,400 Merit Scholars selected in the 1956 and 1957 programs are now in college.

BATON ROUGE

By MRS. M. N. RINGGOLD
We are happy to read an article in an Oakland, Calif., paper telling of activities in the "Elizabeth Brown Six and Over" club. Their president, Mrs. Johnnie B. Strickland, conducted the regular meeting, then Mrs. Lizzie Rivers-Smith thanked the club for beautiful, useful gifts presented her after fire in her home destroyed so many treasured articles. This club means much to the development of women in Oakland.

The executive Council of the Louisiana Education Association met here in the office of Mr. J. K. Haynes, executive secretary of the organization. Although we were ill, several of the members called in our home and gladdened our hearts. Among these callers were Mrs. Zola Ernest, Mrs. Thelma Washington of the Grambling College faculty, Mrs. Ernest is one of our Louisiana girls who made good while still very young. Mrs. Washington is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Smith of Charleston, W. Va., and the sister of Dr. Valerian Smith of our city. Both are proving very helpful in the training of prospective teachers.

A meeting of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority was held in Delphi's Parlor this week, but illness prevented our attending, however, our president tells of much progress resulting from planned projects for the community and sorority development and helpfulness.

With a few other interested visitors enjoyed observing the sewing classes in the YWCA this week. We are unable to thank Mrs. R. F. Netterville and her group of trained instructors for the way they have reached and helped so many Y Teens in the day classes, and so many housewives in the evening classes. One lady told us that she had made several dresses since joining the class, but, before this she had never attempted to sew. And they were there in large groups. Each glad to learn how to sew. Each doing good jobs, even if some did have to rip and press a few times.

Southern university opened this year with many new phases and activities that are helpful to students and to many interested workers. The Curricula offered includes civil architectural mechanical and Electrical.

The greatest drawback among the potential engineers is mathematics. However, these students possessing the ability are able to correct their difficulties, deficiencies etc.

We do hope that he has not become acquainted with Asian flu, but handsome W. M. Wallace, one of the newly appointed instructors in Southern university, rang to state that he is "Feeling Terrible." We do hope he is better ere now. There were over so many "meetings" to use the spare minutes of a retired supervisor? Well, something, or some one finds some thing to be done by us for every spare second, or so it seems.

Baton Rougeans welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brown who came down from St. Louis, Mo., to attend the last rites for his sister.

We are also in sympathy with the family of Mrs. Lena Johnson who was buried here this week. She is from one of Baton Rouge's old well-known families, most of whom are gone.

The faculty and student body of Carver Beauty School seem happy over her return from one of the many "meetings" she attends.

We are finding what it means to have rain and more rain just when plans are made for attending some of the many worth while programs being rendered by civic and social organizations.

The Friends of Delta held a monthly meet Sat. afternoon. This organization is made up of mothers or relatives of members of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

Letters from San Francisco tell us that our young nephew, Charles Stewart has been transferred to a camp in San Antonio, Tex. Well, a soldier never knows when or where he will be assigned next. We are happy that he graduated from school before being sent.

Mr. J. J. Hedgemon states that predictions for a record enrollment in Southern university have come true. He says that they now have an overall enrollment of 5474, undergraduate and graduate students. This does not take into account the 165 students in the State School for Deaf, and the 106 registered at the school for blind, both of which are administrative units of Southern university.

This new session of Southern university is using for the first time the new Laboratory School, Home Economics Classroom building, Home Economics Practice cottage, Unit Building for Engineering, A Poultry Plant, an Agricultural Engineering Building, Greenhouses and several structure for auxiliary enterprises; University officials still see the need for more facilities to match the institutes enrollment.

Virginia Newsmen Sees Brighter Day

"One day segregation will be as entirely repudiated as slavery is now," declared Benjamin Muse, author, publisher and Virginia affairs columnist for the Washington Post and Times Herald newspaper, at the Hampton Institute public meeting on the college campus last week.

Introduced by Dr. Philip S. Campbell, chairman of the Social Science Dept., as a moderate, for law and order and against rash and violent acts, Mr. Muse's subject for the evening was "Desegregation, where do we go from here?"

He emphasized that Negroes would have to disprove the deep-seated belief of innate inferiority held by whites before desegregation will take place in the deep south.

Mr. Muse stated that May 17, 1954 was not the dawn of a new day. The Supreme Court decision was a promise — the sweeping away of clouds that veiled the principles upon which our nation was founded.

"The aftermath of the decision was disappointment," he said. "Everyone underestimated the explosiveness of race prejudice that followed. Gallup polls indicate an increasing number of whites in the deep south believe segregation will never end."

He expressed deep concern over the irresponsible leadership in the south.

Virginia, pointing out that the geographic location and historical background should have resulted in Virginia setting an example for other states, rather than deliberately flaunting the law of the land.

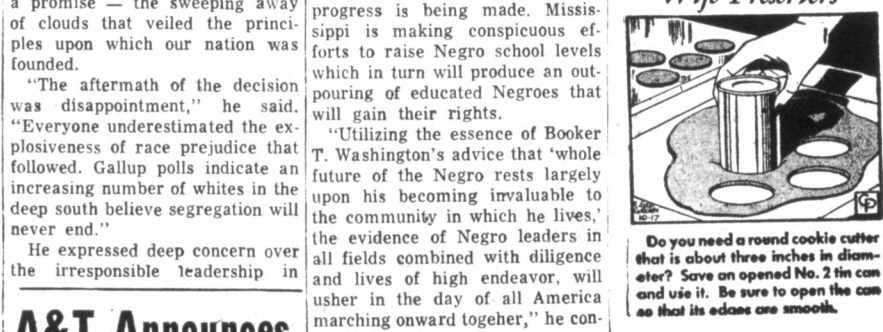

"Whites have suffered too," he continued. "Anthropological and Christian principles have been distorted, respect for government undermined."

He noted that a group of psychologists had studied the problem and had concluded segregation not merely a legal problem, but sociological, economic and psychological. Those free of psychological disorders want segregation 1. For what they can get out of it. 2. Well-intended whites defend it automatically.

"The south is now rushing to make schools equal. Even in Mississippi where Negroes are farthest removed from desegregation, progress is being made. Mississippi is making conspicuous efforts to raise Negro school levels which in turn will produce an outpouring of educated Negroes that will gain their rights."

"Utilizing the essence of Booker T. Washington's advice that 'whole future of the Negro rests largely upon his becoming invaluable to the community in which he lives,' the evidence of Negro leaders in all fields combined with diligence and lives of high endeavor, will usher in the day of all America marching onward together," he concluded.

S.U.N. Gift Helps Aged Get Oft-Needed Counsel

By MRS. R. Q. VENSON

As a member of the Advisory Committee of Family Service for several years, I have a deep and sincere appreciation for the steady increasing population of older people. There, family counselors help people cope with the conflicts and changes that life brings with added years.

Many people feel that a substance check is the only thing needed to satisfy the aged. Often the need is far from anything so tangible as a check; the need is rather a deep-seated fear of being unwanted, a fear of losing one's status quo, a fear of loneliness if placed in a new environment or many other varied and sundry fears.

Thus, the need for family service may be in my home or it may be in yours. These fears are no respecters of persons, they may exist in either the richest or the poorest homes.

MOM WON'T UNDERSTAND
The trained staff at Family Service is prepared to handle each case confidentially, giving special attention to the individual's particular need or sensitivity. Even the smallest detail is thoroughly analyzed — as this may be the core of this fear. The aged can be happy if an understanding can be reached among those involved.

Among the difficult relationships between an older parent and their grown-up children is that of a school teacher in our city, whom I shall call Miss X. Miss X. sought the advice of the Family Service counselor at the agency's office, 161 Jefferson ave. Her problem is:

"What can I do to help my mother realize the physical angers connected with living alone while I am away at work? My mother is blessed to have all but one of her children live in the same city with her. She is devoted to all of us and awaits the daily chats with her children. Each of the daughters is willing and anxious to have her come and live with them in order to lessen the dangers which accompany her sporadic illnesses which often come with a minimum of warnings." And Miss X. continues, "Often she is all alone . . . the bedrooms are all upstairs . . . and this only multiplies the dangers. This we all attempt to point out to her tactfully . . . yet she prefers to live with me because of all the freedoms which go with living here. In fact and in spite of my being the breadwinner, she is made to feel that I am living with her. She is the boss . . . and she will change. When she is ill, and that is becoming more and more often, it works a hardship on all concerned."

Isn't there some way of making her realize that it would best for her to live with one of the other sisters without making her feel that they are burdened by the inconveniences when she is ill or that I am tired and unwilling to share the apartment with her?"

S. U. N. MAKES POSSIBLE
Miss X. has taken the first step toward understanding and solution of her problem. She will be greeted courteously on her visits to the office, her own mind will be eased as she talks in a friendly atmosphere with the skilled caseworkers at Family Service, whose ultimate aim is "Happiness and Security in the Home."

We do not know what the final decision Miss X. will find is best for her and her mother, but she is being helped to work out a solution that is better for them both. With misery and unhappiness in so many of our families, we can be very glad that there are agencies like Family Service to help people find their own way to happier living.

Your gift to the Shelby United Neighbors Drive now in progress makes possible this service to Memphis and Shelby County families.

Threat To Integrate Fla. School; Hoax

CRESTVIEW, Fla. — (ANP) — A purported threat to integrate the all-white Crestview High school here by an unidentified Negro caller last week was described as a hoax by the Crestview police department.

However, the caller, identified only as a Major Carney stationed at nearby Elgin air force base, succeeded in creating tension, as an estimated 100 whites massed in front of the school after the integration threat was disclosed.

The call was made to the police department by the man who said he was Carney. However, Col. W. S. Evans, chief public information officer at Elgin, denied that any such Negro officer was stationed at Elgin.

According to police, the caller said: "We are going to integrate Crestview High school. We are expecting protection."

Council in St. Louis, Mo., on December 6, during the annual meeting of the National Council of Churches.

The prevailing attitude among the ministers present at the Cincinnati meeting was that there is growing concern within the church that immediate action must be taken to project the gains made under the new legislation passed at the Miami General Conference.

Many of the ministers felt that a complete clarification of the Judicial Council's action in overruling the findings of the Committee of Trial in the Bishop D. Ward Nichols trial is necessary.

Because of this the ministers said that the church should use all legitimate means to bring about the calling of an extra session.

The committee was instructed to report back to the Bishop's

TB Will Strike Almost Million, Report Says

NEW YORK — Two and three-quarters million cases of tuberculosis will develop among people already infected with the tuberculosis germ but not yet ill.

This prediction is made in the Annual Report of the National Tuberculosis Association for the fiscal year April 1, 1956, to March 31, 1957, released by James E. Perkins, M. D., managing director of the NTA.

In discussing today's tuberculosis problem, the report brought out that 55,000,000 people are infected with the tubercle bacillus, according to estimates based on skin sensitivity tests, and the statistical odds are that approximately five percent of these, or 2,750,000 people, will break down with active tuberculosis during their lifetimes if the development of active disease among the infected continues at the present rate.

BCG NOT USEFUL

The report brings out that BCG, the most widely accepted vaccine against tuberculosis, cannot be employed to prevent these cases of tuberculosis because BCG is not given to people already infected with the tubercle bacillus. The report reiterates the recommendations of the NTA's medical section, the American Trudeau Society, that BCG be given to people not yet infected who are exposed to tuberculosis to an extraordinary degree, and emphasizes the importance of further research in the field of immunity to tuberculosis.

The report points out that dramatic advances have been made in the treatment of tuberculosis in recent years, but with progress have come new problems which must be overcome before the goal of tuberculosis eradication can be attained.

The three parts of the eradication program, according to the report, can be boiled down to finding the case of tuberculosis, caring for the patient, and increasing man's resistance to tuberculosis.

RESEARCH MUST CONTINUE

"And if we are to achieve our goal as rapidly as possible," stated Dr. Perkins, "it is necessary for us to sharpen our tools, such as medical and social research, education of the public and of professional personnel, and establishment of needed government services in the public health and welfare fields — and use these tools wisely."

The financial statement included in the report shows that the total raised by the NTA's affiliated associations throughout the United States in the 1956 Christmas Seal Sale was $26,310,35. Of this sum, 94 percent was retained by the state and local associations to support their tuberculosis control programs and 6 percent or $1,578,623 was allocated to the NTA.

(This sum will be used to support the NTA's activities for the fiscal year which began April 1, 1957. The budget for the year covered by the present Annual Report was derived from 6 percent of the 1955 Christmas Seal Sale, which totaled $25,70,366.)

Panel Sees 'New Era' In Birth Control

A variety of effective new contraceptives is emerging to revolutionize family planning practices throughout the world, a panel of experts announced last Tuesday.

The ultimate form of birth control — a contraceptive pill — was discussed, but it was agreed that current studies are too new to be completely evaluated.

Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher, director of obstetrics and gynecology at New York's Mt. Sinai hospital, and chairman of the panel, revealed preliminary medical reports on tests of four new birth control methods. It was agreed that some of the simpler methods are about to move from the experimental stage into wide clinical use.

The 2-day meeting will include workshops, clinics, audio-visual aids as a stimulant to getting people registered.

The reports were made at a symposium at the 37th annual meeting of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, at the Hotel Roosevelt. Thirty-seven doctors, ministers, social scientists and educators participated in the all-day panel discussion.

"We are on the threshold of a new era in birth control," Dr. Guttmacher told a press conference following the meeting. "While it is not certain that any of the currently new methods will prove to be the ideal answer, there is no question that they represent a bold step in the right direction."

"Current research will produce a variety of simple methods from which couples may choose, Dr. Guttmacher continued, "some of them are already available."
