British War Bride, Now Mrs. Robert Mobley, Is Fast Becoming A Good Citizen of This Country

Much has been said about the arrival in the United States of the thousands of brides American soldiers brought home with them from the wars. The public is meagerly informed, however, about their lives after they reach the homes of their husbands and settle themselves into the routine of American living. It is so easy, in the first blush of publicity, to lose sight of the fact that all of these girls are normal human beings. It is like telling a fairy story in which the girl marries the prince and then they live happily ever afterwards. No one thinks of following up to see what comes after the happy ending.

The story started in true fairy tale fashion. Once upon a time an American soldier journeyed to far lands. A war was being fought round the world. First he went to Africa where he helped destroy the famed Afrika Korps of Rommel, the Rat. Then, in between battles, he was stationed in England. Quite naturally, being a normal young man, he didn't spend all his time studying war. He learned to live in a foreign land.

Sports Roundup

New York. (AP)—All but 70 of the 131 players who started the season with teams in the Baseball Association last November either have been released or traded to other clubs. The coaches have shown just slightly better staying powers. Reports that Stymlie is headed for stud are slightly exaggerated. He'll be back at the races this season, shooting for the $44,376 that now separates him from Whirlaway's all-time money winning mark. When the University of Oklahoma started its second week of baseball practice, 39 candidates turned out. There were so many of them, Coach Jack Baer, that it took two hours to go one round of hitting practice.

Sugar Ray Must Testify

Called Before Athletic Commission To Explain An Offer Not To Fight

New York, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, the welterweight champion, comes up before the state athletic commission today to explain a different kind of fight offer—$2,000, not to fight—while the district attorney and grand jury widened their probes of boxing in general and his recent fight with the Harlem Sugar Man was summoned to tell his story of a $25,000 bid he received last August not to make the 147-pound weight limit for his title tussle with the then Champion Marty Servo as a means of causing cancellation of the bout. The bout never came off because Servo abdicated the throne and retired from bank-busting with an injured nose.

Chandler Promises Baseball Gamers Harsh Treatment

Cleveland, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler says gamblers tampering with the national sport will be dealt with "as harshly as the law will permit."

Addressing the Jun'or Chamber of Commerce last night, he declared:

"There is no incident to lead to the thought that baseball in the United States is not clean and fair. There is no need to defend the game. But we all recognize the menace of gambling to sports in general and this is my warning that I am after gamblers."

Turning to problems of administration, Chandler said he was completely independent of baseball club owners in his capacity as high commissioner.

Free Game Tickets Offered If Towns Will Change Name

Cincinnati, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The "entire population (1,600)" of Baltimore-Basil, twin villages in Fairfield county, will be guests of the Cincinnati Reds for a game at Crosley Field next summer if they adopt the suggestion to change the name of their town to "baseball."

In a telegram to the mayor of Baltimore yesterday, Club President Warren C. Giles "urgently and sincerely" endorsed the proposal and said "if such action is taken we would honor the citizens of the community by entertaining the entire population at one of four games during the coming season."

Giles suggested to the mayor "it would be most appropriate for the state of Ohio to have a village named for the national game."

announced. The fire-cured quota remains the same in 1947 as in 1946.

Other Kentucky goals for 1947, with comparisons with 1946 production, are as follows: dairy cows on farms, 550,000 head, down 2 percent; sows to farrow, 146,000, up 12 percent; stock sheep and lambs, 710,000, down 9 percent; chickens, 20,320,000, up 5 percent; and turkeys, 290,000 up 14 percent.

OPA Staff To Be Trimmed

Washington, Feb. 13.—(AP)—OPA officials estimated today the agency's staff will be cut by June 30 to less than a fourth of its peak strength of 63,416. The goal for that date is 13,351, but an official told a reporter "there is a good chance we'll go below even that number."

When the fall of France alarmed the United States into passing the Selective Service Act, the United States had fewer than half a million men in uniform, comparable to the army of a little country like Belgium.

Wall Street Report

New York, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Stocks, with scattered exceptions, continued to back-track in today's market. Dealings, fairly active at the opening, soon turned quiet. Losses of fractions to around 2 points predominated near midday.

Further profits were cashed on the recent runup to new highs since last August, the idea being that the list was due for a substantial technical correction even if the recovery push is resumed.

Chrysler started on a 900-share block, off 2 1/2, following Thursday's declaration of the usual dividend. Some Wall Streeters had expected an increase. National Distillers edged forward in the wake of record sales and net income.

Backward were General Motors, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Northern Pacific, International Harvester, General Electric, du Pont, J. C. Penney, Woolworth and Phelps Dodge. Bonds were uneven.

Heard At Farm Bureau Meet

Agricultural Leaders Quoted on Timely Topics Discussed at Convention

Now while earnings are good and there is a surplus, how splendid to get the farm-mortgage debt paid in full, or have the amortization payments made so far ahead that future maturities would not be embarrassing. Then if there are lean years ahead there will not be any mortgage-debt worries.—C. W. Bailey, American Bankers Association.

The present large crops of tobacco adds to the previous surplus and increases market difficulties. Increased exports or decreased production, or possibly both, are necessary.—Hugh W. Taylor, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

I believe it is generally agreed that we are facing surplus production, especially of burley tobacco, and lower prices for farm products.—L. A. Bradford, Experiment Station.

The rural community should have a healthy balance of religion, education, recreation, economic welfare, civic goodness and home life.—Mrs. James D. Wyker, Ohio Council of Christian Women.

Of 16,000 farm accidents in 1946, 6,500 people died because of accidents in the home. Falls were the leading cause of home accidental deaths; burns, second. Mrs. Almer Armstrong, Indiana Farm Bureau.

In the office of the Committee for Kentucky the other day, I saw on a desk a paper-bound book entitled "The Small Community" by Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of TVA when most of that great Tennessee River hydroelectric system was built; former president of the Progressive Education Association, internationally known civil engineer, and now president of Community Service, whose purpose is to give professional assistance, counsel, and managerial aid to lagging communities and to the formation of new ones.

Here, I said to myself, is something right up my alley. And before Maurice D. Bement, executive director of the Committee, had time to say yes or no to my request that he lend me the book, I had it in my overcoat pocket. And let me say before I get too far along with this little essay that Mr. Morgan's book ought to be read by every person interested in making this country a better place to live and work in.

As you may judge by the title, Mr. Morgan's book is mostly about the small community, with special emphasis on the dangers it faces and the means and methods of preserving the basic good in it. The author aptly calls the small community the seed bed, the refuge and the home of many of the finest qualities of civilization.

 Most important of all, he helps to focus your mind on what may be likened to the individual bricks in the foundation masonry supporting a great building consisting of 50 rooms (48 states and two territories) sheltering a total of 140 million people and topped with a waving star-spangled flag. To put it more simply and less rhetorically, Mr. Morgan makes us see vividly every small community as a cross-section of the nation. It has been your correspondent's contention from the first meeting of Kentucky, that, without belittling any other work for a better commonwealth, we must use our hamlets, villages, agricultural groups, towns, small cities and sections of large cities as a fulcrum for a lever if we are to move Kentucky upward. That conviction grows every day in the minds of all workers for the common good, in the Committee for Kentucky or out of it.

Mr. Morgan tells about the sending of a sociologist to Europe a few years ago by a large American foundation, to discover ways to vitalize community life. The investigator, after extensive studies abroad, reported that the best example of community renaissance was not to be found in the old world but in the work of the Neighborhood Advisory Councils of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation. The people of Alexandria, Ohio, together with surrounding farmers, found community cooperation so interesting that in 10 years they have made their own shining example in American community life.

 What Mr. Morgan's organization, Community Service, is doing throughout the nation, the Committee for Kentucky is undertaking here in our own state. The work, headed by James W. Armstrong, The Committee for Kentucky, Republic Building, Louisville 2, Kentucky, will send valuable literature to individuals or groups, and personal service when possible.
 An animal nursery is being opened in the Leabourne Zoo to teach children to care for animals.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Mystery of the Rocking Chair
 Ma Hoskins has a favorite rocking chair that's worn and shabby, with a noisy creak. Pa Hoskins has listened to that creak for thirty years... and he decided to do something about it. So he bought a new rocker, and hid the other in the barn.
 Ma allowed as how grateful she was... but when Pa missed her one afternoon, he heard a familiar sound that led him to the barn. There was Ma rocking happily in her old chair—squeak... squeak. No need to tell you how Pa felt.
 Quick as a wink he hid the new rocker and then brought the old chair back to the house. Now when he hears that squeak, he looks at the mellow gleam of her hair drinking and says to himself: "She's just as entitled to her small pleasures as I am."
 From where I sit, that's one of the reasons the Hoskinses are the happiest, oldest-married, peace-fullest folks in our town.
