Chandler-Waterfield Group Shuns Breathitt Faction

While Governor Breathitt has reported that the results of last Saturday's Democratic organization elections throughout the State show that his Administration has "batted about 90 per cent," Fulton County's organization remains in the apparent control of long-time supporters of the Chandler-Waterfield faction of the Democratic Party.

In some fast-moving, planned-in-advance parliamentary maneuvers, that took the Combs-Breathitt supporters by surprise, this is what happened:

Hickman attorney Dee McNeill walked into the Courthouse at Hickman shortly before the 2 o'clock meeting and walked right to the table reserved for the temporary chairman. When the meeting opened Kent Hainby made a motion that McNeill be named temporary chairman. Another motion was quickly made that the nominations close. They did. McNeill was elected.

Another motion was made that Mrs. Ward Bushart, who has served as secretary of the organization for the past four years be named Fulton County Chairwoman. She was elected, although party organization does not include such a position.

When nominations were sought for County Chairman the name of Sheriff Joe Campbell was presented. The name of J. T. (Turney) Davis was also presented, after that of Sheriff Campbell. However McNeill called for a vote on the Davis nomination before that of Campbell and eight persons present voted for Davis, who has held the post for four years. McNeill then asked for proxy votes, for Davis, whereupon ten of them were presented. Davis was declared the winner without the chairman ever asking for a vote on the Campbell nomination.

We Goofed!

In an editorial on page two of today's issue we reported that Fulton County has been issued 13 liquor licenses, 9 over the quota. The number of licenses in the county is 14, 10 over the quota. Five are in Hickman; nine are in Fulton.

About People and Things

Christmas, a well known writer recently said, is made up of many things; togetherness, holly and ivy, mistletoe and Yule logs, gifts and joyous times, delicious foods and cheerful punches. Looks like from now on the Christmas Home Tour sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club is going to be as much a part of the Holiday season as any of the traditional reminders. Last Sunday afternoon nature cooperated with the ladies like a dotting mother anxious to bring back the vanishing custom of "visiting around" to share the warmth of the Christmas spirit.

We were privileged to have our home included on the tour, with four others that were made radiantly beautiful by four local florists and by Frances Jones, whose creative ability with ornaments and foliage matches that of the experts. Regrettably, we didn't get to visit any of the other homes on the tour, but from all glowing reports they were ALSO out of this world.

We say ALSO, because we know that all the other homes were transformed into a Christmas wonderland, just as Billy and Ann Gore, of Killebrew's Florist took our house and made it the envy of Santa Claus... himself. At the Maxwell McDade home,

Many Programs, With Christmas Theme Planned

Many interesting meetings and programs, most of them depicting the holiday season are scheduled for this week-end.

They are:
—A meeting of the Fulton Homemakers with Mrs. David Phelps at her home at 10:30 A. M. today, (Thursday.)

—The Music Department of the Fulton City Schools, under the direction of Mandel Brown will present its annual Christmas program at Carr Auditorium at 1:45 P. M. today, (Thursday.)

—The Bennett Homemakers will meet today, (Thursday) at 10:30 a. m. at the home of Mrs. Bill Holland —The First Methodist Church will conduct its impressive March to the Manager at the Sunday morning service. The beautiful outdoor nativity scene will be on view on Friday night, December 19.

(The 18 votes Davis received were more than half of the 32 official votes in the county.) Campbell, who handles patronage for the Breathitt Administration was not present at the meeting.

The name of Mrs. M. B. Major was then presented for secretary-treasurer. There being no other nominations she was elected.

At this point Magistrate William Allen contested the election of Davis on the grounds that Davis did not support the Democratic nominee in the gubernatorial election last year.

Davis insisted that he told Breathitt that he would support him and Davis said that he did. When asked by McNeill for proof, Allen said he had no actual proof, just hearsay. Allen also contested the election of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Harrison as committeeman and committeewoman at the Pepsi-Cola precinct, stating that no one was present at that precinct for the election.

When Davis assumed the chair as permanent chairman he attempted to explain the alleged election of the Harrisons. Said Davis: "Since no one was interested enough to attend the meeting I called the Harrisons and asked them to serve." Although the Harrisons did not attend the meeting either, Mr. Harrison told the group: "Our names are on the affidavit and if anybody don't believe it they can take a look at it."

When Allen charged Davis with selecting committeemen and committeewomen who favored the Davis faction, he was ignored and the meeting adjourned.

Parents, Custom Factors Halting Grade Exercises

Following a pattern existing in most public schools in the nation, and long advocated by many school patrons eighth grade graduation exercises in the Fulton City Schools were discontinued by the Board of Education Monday night. Contending that the exercises were an unnecessary expense and consumed a great deal of school time, the Board announced that the exercises would be held in connection with honors day programs when certificates of progress will be awarded to those students completing the eighth grade.

The new ruling goes into effect with the January 11, 1965 meeting of the Board.

In addition two resolutions were passed as follows:

(1) The three remaining members of the Board of Education wish to express to the two departing members, Felix Gossum and Dr. R. W. Bushart, the deep feeling of gratitude for faithful services, well rendered and without material gain, over a long stretch of time, covering 12 years. Naturally there comes a time in every board member's mind when he doubts that his services have been appreciated. A closer look, however, in most cases proves this to be wrong. Let us who remain, say to those who depart, "We have enjoyed the privilege of serving with you in a cause that has shown much improvement during your tenure of office. We shall continue to seek your advice and counsel on school problems as long as we remain members of this Board of Education."

(2) To the faculties and student bodies of our three elementary schools, we, the members of the Fulton City Board of Education wish to express our gratitude and great feeling of pride on the splendid service you have given this community in helping our elementary schools up to the level of membership in the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. We are sure that we express the heartfelt gratitude for the entire community when we say, "Thank you very much for this service for our children and even for our children's children." Specially invited guests who attended the board meeting were: James Green and Dr. C. H. Myers.

Fulton Commission Passes Ordinance To Seek Civic Center; Members To Be Named

Mayor Gilbert DeMyer and the Fulton City Commission, moving ahead to establish the legal machinery with which to seek a civic center, unanimously approved an ordinance to create a Civic Center Authority Commission. The ordinance enables members of the Authority to explore the various Federal agencies and Foundations that offer grants and loans to erect what might be called a Latin-American Friendship Center. City Manager Rollin Shaw is contacting persons available to serve on the Commission. The members will be announced at an early date.

Meanwhile Mr. Shaw is filing an application seeking a Federal grant to survey the feasibility of the type of center sought for the twin cities.

At the meeting Monday night the Commission also:

—Passed an ordinance granting $5.00 Christmas bonuses to City employees;

—Approved a contract with Southern Bell for equipment for the fire department under the dial system;

—Purchased equipment to clean the city's streets;

—Accepted Varden-Goulders bid of $2495 for the chassis of a two and one-half ton truck;

—Postponed action on the purchase of equipment to be used for soil testing;

—Granted a 60-day delay in collecting interest on taxes from Mrs. Elwyn Coffman on the Hagler property;

—Delayed action on a street improvement program and —Viewed the taxes due by Perry-Morse Seed Company as valid.

Local Clubs Name Members To Banana Festival Board

Civic, cultural and fraternal groups in the twin cities this week named their official representative to serve on the board of directors of the International Banana Festival Association. The thirteen local organizations that comprise the board submitted the appointees to Festival Advisor W. P. Burnett, who has called a meeting of the representatives for next Tuesday night, December 22, at the Fulton Electric System office.

In addition to the representatives of the 13 organizations, the board is made up of a representative from the National Banana Association and the Mayors of Fulton and South Fulton.

On the agenda for next Tuesday's meeting is the election of five officers and the appointment, by the newly elected president, of three advisor-consultants, who will make up the executive board of the association. A general outline of next year's program will also be discussed.

South Fulton Water Plant Cost Less Than Estimated

The recently awarded contract for the construction for improvements at the Tennessee Street water treatment plant is 12% less than the original engineer's estimate of the cost of this improvement. The total contract price is $16,592, with the engineer's estimate originally being $18,500, according to Henry Dunn, City Manager.

In discussion with Mr. James Hickman Plant Operator, about the plant improvements, he points out the following:

"The old facilities which we are now using at this location were built in 1939, under the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works."

"The population of South Fulton has doubled since 1950, and must be improved and enlarged to accommodate future expansion and keep the high rating which we now hold as a public water supplier in the State of Tennessee

(one of the top ten cities in the state).

"As a progressive city, looking to a future with more new homes, business, and industries, we must equip our city with the proper facilities to care for the needs and health of our citizens, both today and tomorrow."

In closing Mr. Dunn adds, "The City of South Fulton is fortunate in having two well trained operators, Mr. John Cruce and Mr. James Hickman, to insure the proper and efficient operation of these facilities."

Homra Brothers Granted Third Liquor License

The Fulton City Commission voted 3-2 Monday night to grant Fred and Foad Homra a third retail liquor license. The license granted was a transfer from the C and R Beverage Company, formerly located in the American Legion Building which burned last June. The new license will operate under the name of the State Liquor Store. It is located on Lake St. Extension.

The Homra Brothers also operate The Keg Liquor Store and 501 Liquors. The News has been reliably informed that a fourth liquor license in Fulton may be transferred soon, and that the Homras have its purchase under consideration.

Commissioner Ward Johnson voted against the transfer to the Homras; Commissioner Bill Scott abstained from voting and Commissioners Charles Bennett, W. P. Burnette and Mayor Gilbert DeMyer voted in favor of the transfer.

Top Golfer, Max McDade To Head Club

A young businessman, who combines civic activity with championship golf was elected president of the Fulton Country Club Monday night. Max McDade, who won the club's championship title in 1956, 1957, 1962 and 1964 took over the reign of the club's affairs from retiring president Charles Binford, who has ably guided the club's activities for the past year. Bill Fossett was named vice-president.

Three new directors were elected to the board by the members at the annual meeting. They are: Rupert Hornsby of Hickman, Bill Fossett and Max McDade. The retiring president, Charles Binford, was elected to fill the unexpired term of Riley Allen on the board. The other three were elected for three year terms and Binford for a two year term.

In other action, the members voted to improve the club swimming pool; increased the assessment from $15.00 to $20.00 for 1965 and increased the locker fee from $5.00 to $7.00. The yearly dues will remain the same.

The new president will announce the standing committees at a meeting of the board of directors to be called in the near future.

A good crowd was present for the annual meeting.

There's Fame In Jingle Jungle And Nancy Adams Does 'Em Best

"I don't know the name of the detergent," a housewife said to the store clerk, "but I can hum the tune for you!"

That highly resilient gag has been making its way up and down Madison Avenue for years, generating a few light moments in the intensely competitive business of providing music that sells soap - or anything else.

Believe it or not, there's treasure and fame in that jingle jungle and a talented young lassie from Fulton is swinging and singing her way right to the top of the ladder in the big time circles of the business.

Nancy Adams, who has appeared before many local audiences with her clear sweet voice and her ukelele, is now a full-fledged recording star, not only in the jingle jungle, but in the difficult-to-enter arena of recording popular songs.

On the few occasions this reporter has visited with Nancy on her hurried and too short visits to Fulton, information about her growing success has been difficult to obtain. She doesn't talk much about what she's doing, for she says: "This is a risky business. You can be on top one day, and the next day some new talent is discovered that makes yesterday's 'stars' has-beens."

It is apparent that Nancy is considered that sparkling new talent along the gray flannel suit route for she has recently signed a contract with American Tobacco Company to do singing commercials for Newport cigarettes. Presently, it isn't hard to recognize that familiar voice on the Winston TV and radio commercials. And there can be no doubt that Nancy is influencing millions of Americans to "hum that tune," for as the commercial says, "Winston is one of the nation's fastest selling cigarettes."

But that's not all, on one evening alone, Nancy's compelling message, via the musical route, was heard on the Eastman Kodak Canada Dry, Luster-Cream and Mazola oil commercials. The commercials have been on the Ed Sullivan Show, Walt Disney, and other top flight TV shows. On December 6 the new Chevrolet bossa nova jingle appeared on Bonanza. In addition, she is the gal that helps say "every woman alive wants Chanel Number 5." Not bad company for a hard-working young lady who started out with music because she loved it.

Besides the new contract with American Tobacco Company, she will appear for Newport cigarettes as a performer and singer. It is likely that she will perform for the commercials on TV, with her pretty young face looking right at you in your home, and the homes

Alcoholic Beverage Industry Is Asset To This Community, But Civic Responsibility Necessary

Two weeks ago, in Central City, Kentucky, the beer and whiskey industry learned something they already knew; people drink wet, but vote dry. It's a curious thing, as anybody in the alcoholic beverage industry will tell you. We have lived in several communities and states where the sale of alcoholic beverages is "outlawed," but yet sold rather openly. In "dry" Mississippi, where the Legislature has tried time and again to legalize the sale of whiskey, many of the less-than-abstemious legislators vehemently vote dry, yet a tax has been levied on the sale of black market whiskey. This is a ridiculously hypocritical situation, but it exists just the same.

In Kentucky, famous the world over for distilling fine bourbon whiskey, more than two-thirds of the counties prohibit the sale of alcoholic beverages. Any county, or community, that has sought to bring the industry into its boundaries will tell you that success at the polls is difficult, almost non-existent. In the Central City incident even the alleged location of a large-sized industry in the county, if it voted "wet, was spurned by the voters.

The News was reliably informed that the offer didn't change a vote, for our informant said, "Any serious industrialist, looking for a site, is far more interested in whether our community has good churches, good schools, good recreational programs, good hospitals, good government and good people rather than whether his employees can buy a beer or a cocktail."

This statement is borne out by many instances around us with such industries as General Tire Company locating at Mayfield; American Metals at Union City; Tappan Stove at Murray; Merit Clothing at Martin and a score of others, where obviously the legal sale of alcoholic beverages was not a factor, since all of these communities are located in "dry" counties.

What's more, these cities around us, are faring quite well as attractive and compelling shopping centers, simply because their progressive and wide-awake merchants make them. Discriminating shoppers, particularly women, are drawn to these cities by good values, attractive stores and quality merchandise. Apparently they care not one whit that their shopping bag does not contain four roses, five feathers or yellow stone.

We point out the Central City incident and the industrial and retail shopping growth of these near-by cities to dispel some fallacious thinking that abounds in some quarters in our city that the legalized sale of alcoholic beverages here is the foundation of our economy. Popycock! This thinking, advanced in and constantly hammered at by the liquor dealers themselves, has prevailed for so long that a lot of otherwise, clear thinking merchants actually believe it.

This erroneous thinking undoubtedly accounts for the arrogant, indifferent attitude some of our local liquor dealers have toward civic responsibility and community development. In the City of Fulton there are nine liquor dealers; only three of them belong to the Chamber of Commerce. In the county there are 13 liquor dealers; nine over the quota set by law for the county. (The licenses are distributed on the basis of one for every 2500 population; Fulton County's last census showed 11,000 population.)

Statistics have revealed that 54% of the retail sales in the city of Fulton came from the alcoholic beverage industry, which means that 46% of the sales come from the approximately 200 other retail outlets in the city. If 200 merchants are dependent on the lure offered by just nine retailers, we'd say right off hand the merchants are doing a sorry job for themselves and deserving of the civic abuses heaped on them by an industry that obviously couldn't care less about a civic center, a youth recreation program, a Banana Festival or a progressive community.

This is not to say that all local liquor dealers are poor civic leaders and indifferent merchants. But it is to say that unless the local alcoholic beverage industry initiates a vigorous public relations program for itself, discontinues to thumb its nose at the regulations that govern it, and continues to bellow that only a small fraction of its livelihood comes from Fulton, it is going to find itself in lonely quarters if it ever needs some loyal support to survive.

Are we opposed to the legalized sale of whiskey in this county? Indeed we are not. Operated on a high standard of ethics as it should be, it is an asset to any community. Except for the small payroll the industry accounts for in Fulton, perhaps our newspaper benefits as much or as little as anybody does from the industry.

But as you well know, the loss of revenue has never deterred us from calling a spade a spade when we think that our community image is being impugned. But it's time for the liquor industry to spade up a community public relations program for itself, adhere to the law, and show some appreciation for the good folks around here who have remained tolerant for too long of their arrogance and indifference.

A True Sportsman Makes Every Effort To Keep Woods, Fields And Streams Clean, Litter-free

True sportsmen are dedicated to preserving the great out-of-doors for the future pleasure of both themselves and their children. And you do not qualify as a "true sportsman" unless you do everything possible to keep our woods, fields and streams litter-free. The matter of preserving Kentucky's beautiful outdoors is an obligation of every citizen.

The thoughtless acts of increasing numbers of hikers, riders, campers, fishermen, hunters, and other outdoor enthusiasts who leave behind accumulations of litter are spoiling the natural beauty of Kentucky. Because of sportsmen's carelessness, many acres of land each year are being closed to them. Property owners are "getting fed up" with hunters and fishermen coming on their property and leaving their trash behind.

Debris left in our forest is not only unsightly, but, according to the U. S. Forest Service over 30 per cent of all forest fires start when debris and trash-burning fires get out of control. Besides contributing to the litter accumulation, cigarette stubs and matches tossed carelessly into dry areas are a tremendous fire hazard.

The sport of fishing has grown fantastically fast during the past few years, but it has created a new pest—the water litterbug. Litter of our waterways, regardless of whether it floats or sinks, is contaminating many swimming areas and fishing streams. It is also dangerous to boats and boaters as it floats on the water. Litter is ruining too many of our waterfront recreation areas.

"If you can carry your hunting and fishing equipment in, your can carry your trash and litter out." This could be a slogan that all sportsmen should adopt. Be a "true sportsman" and help keep Kentucky safe, clean and beautiful.

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of the Civil War day by day in Kentucky, as reviewed by the Kentucky Civil War Commission

By JOE JORDAN

One hundred years ago this week, Maj. Gen. Stephen G. Burbridge and his Union Army troops from Kentucky were in possession of Saltville, Va., important source of salt for the Confederacy, and also of Wytheville, Va., near which were lead mines that had been supplying another necessity of which there was a critical shortage in the South. Burbridge's success was attained on his third try, his first two expeditions having failed, as earlier attempts had by other Union generals.

At the week's end, Burbridge's men were engaged in destroying installations at both the saltworks and the lead mines. From the beginning, there had been no intention of occupying the Southwest-ern Virginia towns permanently; the goal was an interruption of production.

Burbridge and his eight Kentucky regiments had been joined in East Tennessee by a Union cavalry division under Brig. Gen. A. C. Gillem, augmented by the Tenth Michigan, which the Confederates rated a superior Union regiment. The combined force first fell upon a Kentucky brigade, a part of John Hunt Morgan's old cavalry division commanded by Col. Richard Morgan, a brother of Gen. John H. Morgan at Greenville, Tenn., the previous September. Col. Morgan, attacked at Rogersville, fell back to Kingsport, crossed the Clinch River at night and the next morning disputed passage of the enemy. However, he did not have enough men to guard all the fords, and was defeated and captured with 80 of his men. The survivors retreated to Bristol where Brig. Gen. Basil Duke, upon assuming command, counted fewer than 300 men.

Maj. Gen. John C. Breckinridge, commander of the Confederate forces in Southwest Virginia, marched out of Saltville with 800 men, all the effectives he could round up. He joined Duke about two miles from Marion, Va., where the hardest fighting of the campaign occurred. Heavy casualties were inflicted upon the Union forces, according to Duke, who wrote: "It can safely be asserted that we were not worsted in this fight, although for lack of ammunition we quitted the field. Every attack made by the enemy upon our position was repulsed, notwithstanding our greatly inferior numbers. Our loss was slight; his was heavy."

All the same, the Confederates had been maneuvered out of Wytheville, which was taken by the Federals without firing a shot, and Breckinridge had been able to leave only a few reserves and some dismounted cavalymen at Saltville, which fell easily. After the fight at Marion, Breckinridge sent Duke with about 300 men to Saltville, but he found it already occupied, and contented himself with watching for Burbridge to begin his withdrawal, so he could harass the Federal column. A cold wave had struck Virginia; the troops were so chilled they "were scarcely able to sit on their horses."

"Let's Talk It Over"

BY

Frankfort—

Excitement is always present at the opening of Kentucky's tobacco market. It's the annual event that is the culmination of a long growing season, days in the field cutting the crop and hanging and drying it in the barns, then finally hauling it by truck to market and displaying it for the buyer's approval.

My father worked in the tobacco industry until he recently retired and for many years I have been familiar with the sound of the auctioneer's voice, ringing through the giant warehouses loaded with tobacco, buyers and sellers.

The auctioneers called out good news for us this year on opening day as their chants totaled up higher first day prices than for last year.

For many years, tobacco has been Kentucky's biggest cash crop. The 1963 crop sold before the end of the last calendar year totaled $258,867,000. That represents nearly 40 per cent of the record-breaking $647,812,000 total cash receipts for all Kentucky farm products.

This farm-product total last year indicates we are steadily moving nearer my goal of a billion-dollar annual farm income for Kentucky.

Because of the drought this year, and also a 10 per cent cut by the Federal Government in allotted acreage, farmers in the Commonwealth can not equal last year's record tobacco poundage. But the higher quality this year will help offset, at least in part, the loss in weight.

In fact, the 1964 crop in Kentucky is described as "the best-smoking tobacco grown in Kentucky in years."

And buyers at markets around the state say that they will be buying more tobacco this winter than originally expected.

E. T. Reed, tobacco specialist in the State Department of Agriculture, has told me that from the buyers' standpoint, this year's Kentucky crop is "very usable—more usable than last year's record crop."

Mr. Reed reported in fact that this year's crop is the most usable one since 1961. Cigarette companies are more interested in the bottom parts of the plant—the "flying" and the "lugs," they call them in the tobacco industry—and they are much better this year.

The "tips," the top parts on the tobacco, are used mostly for pipe-smoking and chewing tobacco. They are not as plentiful this year, because many Kentucky growers wisely cut their crops early to minimize the drought deterioration.

Julian Walden, of Midway, is on the Tobacco Committee of my Commission for Agriculture. He grew some 70 acres and 180,000 pounds of burley this year.

Mr. Walden, the president of a Lexington warehouse company, informed me that Kentucky will produce about two-thirds of all tobacco grown in the nation's "Burley Belt" this year, or some 400 million pounds.

In addition to nearly a half century of experience both as a grower and warehouseman, Mr. Walden also was a pioneer in mechanization in growing and housing tobacco. He is bringing many new and good ideas to the Commission which, along with others, we hope to develop as ways to improve Kentucky's total agricultural income.

We are proud of our long-time rank in the tobacco industry. We also are proud of the increased efficiency of our tobacco growers through continuing research, increasing mechanization, and other improvements.

Tobacco yield has more than doubled in Kentucky—the average 1963 burley yield per acre was 2,325 pounds. This was 295 pounds per acre more than the previous record set in 1962 and 608 pounds per acre more than the five-year 1958-1962 average. Yields of the other types of tobacco grown in this state also were higher last year.

Kentucky produces five kinds of tobacco, but burley, of course, accounts for most of the crop. Last year, the burley variety was 96 per cent of the total crop. All tobacco in Kentucky last year accounted for 67 per cent of the increase in total crop value.

The tobacco specialists tell me we probably will not reach last year's record burley production record of 520,800,000 pounds. That was 15 per cent above the previous high of 1962 and 46 per cent more than the 1958-1962 average.

But considering the drought and allotment cut, 1964 is shaping up as another fine tobacco year for Kentuckians.

SCATTER PATTERN—

While the members of the club worked hard on the preparations, and the hostesses fixed up their premises a little extra, the hard-working florists deserve a lot more credit than they will ever have time to hear this year and next. We'd hate to count the number of times that Billy and Ann and Myrtle Johnson came to our house to look over each nook and corner for just the right arrangement to make that particular area look gay and inviting. Fact is that Saturday night we exerted every effort to stay awake into the late hours to help, if we could. But to no avail. We sat on the couch for a few moments, before a nice warm fire, and the first thing we knew it was after midnight and the folks were still working, yet we were snoring.

We don't know this for a fact, and Ann denies it, but her co-workers missed her for awhile and accused her of going to sleep on her feet for about 20 minutes. It was that kind of an exacting and long job.

But to Killebrew's, Mac and Fay, Scott's, Joy Lynn and Frances Jones we extend our very sincere thanks and gratitude for making the Christmas season happier and more pleasant for a lot of wonderful people. We say this for ourselves and for the B & PW Club, of which we are a member. And that fantastically competent B & PW president, Ramelle Pigue, says "me too, again and again."

Perhaps one of the most disappointed people in town Sunday afternoon was Mildred Freeman. Mildred is a very faithful member of the club and wanted to get in the swing of the tour more than anybody, but she had to work at the IC passenger station, so had to be content with getting second hand reports of the successful event. But maybe she was compensated a little bit by the nice day she had last Saturday when she and Gertrude Murphy caught the early morning train to Memphis for a luncheon at the swish Rivermont Club. The railway business women's club had a luncheon there. Both Mildred and Gertrude said the club is as plush and handsome as anything around here. Poor Annabelle Edwards wanted to go worse than anything, but she was the gal who helped make all that party food for the "refreshment center at Westwood," and just couldn't make it. Of course the other girls worked too, but Annabelle's schedule wouldn't permit it.

Kallena Durbin says she will be watching the weather reports around Christmas day to see if we're shivering with cold, and if so, she'll send us a sympathy card. Kallena left early Wednesday morning for Miami where she will visit for awhile with the Jimmy Holdermans. Mrs. Holderman (Venie) is Kallena's sister, so a real family gathering will be enjoyed in that warm and sunny climate.

While on the subject of Florida we must report the return of the Gordon Bairds from Coral Gables where they enjoyed more than two weeks with the Albert Nobles. Mrs. Noble is the former Esther Baird. The Bairds had a wonderful trip down there, going down on the City of Miami and returning the same way. The Nobles formerly lived in Nashville.

In addition to visiting around at the Christmas homes last Sunday, a lot of people took advantage to call at the new South Fulton Baptist Church parsonage on Circle Drive. Rev. and Mrs. Gerald Stow, and members of the church greeted more than 150 persons from two until five o'clock in the afternoon. With the warmth of the Christmas season all around the lovely home, the guests viewed the modern, split-level residence. Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Peoples, Tom Connell, Mrs. Carnell Wilson, Mrs. John Bland, Mrs. James Vernon and Misses Patricia Connell, Teresa Pennington and Melva Matlock assisted with the reception arrangements.

Bettie Louise (Mrs. Clarence) Reed is home again after a four-month visit in Great Falls, Montana and environs. Visiting with the Billy Reeds on the base of the Strategic Air Command is fun enough, but Bettie Louise, et al, took some interesting side trips too, a couple of them into Canada viewing the incomparable sights of Banff, Lake Louise and Calgary among others.

And it's like we keep saying . . . nobody can get away from Fulton in any direction without hearing some reports and getting the usual questions about the Banana Festival. Bettie Louise has a small world department story that beats some of the ones we've told from time to time.

It goes like this. Reed Isbell, is visiting in Great Falls after having worked in the Democratic National Headquarters in Washington. Her boss in Washington was Andy Hayes. Somewhere along the course of a conversation Fulton was mentioned whereupon Andy replied: "Let's see, I've talked with someone in Fulton recently." Indeed he had. Andy was one of the folks we talked with to arrange the appearance here of W. Averell Harriman for the Festival.

The December issue of the Kentucky School Journal recently published an official record of its retired teachers and the individual years of service of each of them. One of the teachers listed, high on the ladder, was our own Mary

NANCY ADAMS—

Martin, listed among those who had rendered from 50-50.9 years of service. Here's what the magazine had to say about her:

A full teaching career of fifty years in the city schools of Fulton is the record of Miss Mary Martin, who retired at the end of last year. A native of that city, she completed her elementary and secondary schooling there, and earned the AB Degree and the MA Degree from the University of Kentucky.

"She began her career teaching the fifth grade in Carr Elementary School, plus one high school class in German. After three years of this, she transferred to the Fulton High School, where she taught social studies and home economics for two years. This was followed by teaching at the junior high school level, and then a return to the high school for the remainder of her teaching career. Social studies was her college major, and this is the area in which she did most of her work, although she "helped out" in German and home economics."

And in the same issue the Fulton County school system was listed on the 1964-1965 Professional Honor Roll among the Three Hundred Percenters, indicating that all teachers in the system belong to local, state and national professional associations.

Five feet four, with eyes of blue, blond and beautiful. Nancy's story began in Fulton (Pop. 7,000) Kentucky, on July 8, 1939. Born into a musically inclined family, (Dad did much solo and choral singing and mother sang with a girl's trio) Nancy was only five when she and her older sister, Peggy, began singing together, appearing often at civic clubs and church socials. Before long the Adams Sisters, accompanied by Nancy's ukelele, were taking top honors in every talent contest in Fulton County, Ky. The act broke up when Peggy decided to marry—whereupon Nancy, aged 14, made her professional debut on Radio Station WFUL in Fulton, a bi-weekly 15-minute show featuring the grand singing of one, Nancy Adams. About this same time Nancy also got her first job singing and playing trumpet with Paul Westpheling's dance band.

Soon after graduating from high school Nancy took the first giant step that would lead to many others. She placed first on Arthur Goodfrey's Talent Scouts, stopping the show with "I Dreamed" for which she provided her own accompaniment on the ukelele. So impressed was Goodfrey with Nancy that he engaged her for his morning show for several weeks following her Talent Scout's win. Convinced that she belonged in show business, Nancy, straight out of high school, was given prudent advice by Mr. Goodfrey. "Get an education," he said and, as an endorsement of her talent, Goodfrey presented Nancy with a "Solo Lute"—a replica of the one played by him. And it is this instrument Nancy uses to this day.

Armed with ukelele and Mr. Goodfrey's advice, Nancy left New York and enrolled in Murray State college. For the next four years, while attending school, Nancy helped finance her education by singing with college dance bands and local jazz groups. Then came what Nancy considers "quite a break." In November 1963, Dick Williams, brother of singer Andy, heard tapes that she had made and rushed them to Les Paul. Les, liking what he heard, brought Nancy to New York for an audition and decided to have her record with him.

Nancy's recording career was solidified in March 1964, when RCA Victor signed her as an exclusive recording artist. Her first recording for the Label was "Somebody's In My Orchard" released as a single. At about the time, Gerard Purcell, personal manager (discoverer of the fabulous trumpeter Al Hirt) saw

Page 3 The Fulton News, Thursday, Dec. 17, 1964

Nancy performing with the Ray Charles Singers on a Perry Como TV show and signed her to an exclusive contract. And, that's only the beginning of the Nancy Adams success story

Breathitt Sets December 26th State Holiday

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt plans to declare Dec. 26 a bank holiday when he returns from a trip to the West Coast and Hawaii, his office announced.

"Since Christmas Day falls on Friday, the governor feels it would be unprofitable and of little service to the general public for the banks to remain open on Saturday," Breathitt's press secretary, Don Mills said.

"It would also create an unnecessary work day for most bank employees and result in an unfavorable situation for many banks," he added.

"Therefore the governor is designating Dec. 26th as a holiday and a day of thanksgiving under authority vested by the . . . statutes."

The proclamation will authorize all banks and trust companies to close in observance of the day of thanksgiving, Mills said.

This test is given annually by Mrs. DeMyer, and she sends them to the Betty Crocker headquarters to be graded. The winner from our school will receive an award on Honor's Day, and the overall winner will receive a scholarship.
This test asks questions pertaining to all areas of home economics, and it also requires that each participant write a short essay on a prepared subject. This year's subject was "Preparing for Marriage."
Certainly next year, every Senior girl who has had three years of home economics should take the Betty Crocker Test.

Students And Teacher Vote Down Proposed Teen Code And Curfew

Lined up to defend their opinions are Joe Hoodenpyle, Letha Exum, Mr. Snider, Lana Hutchens, and Donnie Green.

"From The FHS Kennel"

Question - Do you think Fulton needs a teen code?

DON GREEN — In my opinion we need a teen code, not as a group but individually. In the first place this code could not be set up by a group of people who do not know how teenagers feel or think. I believe that a code set up in this manner would fail in that the teenagers would feel that the people who set up the code were trying to run their lives for them and that he had no control over his own affairs. The teenager has his own mind, so why not let him use it?

The teenager should set up his own personal code and try his best to live by it. I feel that a very large majority of the teenagers in Fulton have this code and have proved it on many occasions.

LANA HUTCHENS — In my opinion the students of Fulton High School do not need a teen code. One reason I am opposing this idea is because the teen code would consist of a standard time for all teenagers to be in. I feel each teen-ager would wish to discuss with his or her parents such things as when to be in, etc. Also there are special occasions when a teen-ager might want to stay out later than usual. I'm sure the parents of most high school students feel they can trust their son or daughter to come in at a time both parents and teen-ager have agreed upon.

For a larger city, a teen code might prove helpful to the students and parents, but for a small town such as Fulton I think this idea is impractical.

LETHA EXUM — I think discipline should begin in the home. Parents are the ones to set restrictions on their teen-agers and expect them to obey their restrictions. A "Teen Code" would be made to restrict teen-agers whose parents have not disciplined them. But, the majority of these teen-agers will not abide by the rules set up by a "Teen Code" anyway. If a teen-ager's parents can't discipline him, then I certainly don't think a "Teen Code" can. This "code" would probably work better in a large city, but here most teen-agers already have certain restrictions made by their parents. I'm sure there are a few who are not well disciplined and this reflects on everyone else. But, you will always have these few in a group as large as the one that would be affected by a "Teen Code." I think it is the job of the parents to discipline their teen-agers by making their own set of restrictions and privileges.

MR. SNIDER — It is my belief that we as individuals, whether teenagers or not, already have the best possible code to live by. This was given us almost two thousands years ago and it is our responsibility to live up to it in the best possible way we can. This code is the same yesterday, today and forever, and I see no way for us as humans to write one any better to guide our lives. Let's realize our responsibilities as individuals toward each other and toward the future of our country, then we will have made our community a better place to live. "When you have no place to go or nothing to do,—go home."

JOE HOODENPYLE — No. Fulton High doesn't need a "Teen Code." A "Teen Code" puts a curfew on the kids and makes more rules for teen-agers to follow.

Being a teen-ager myself, I know that if there was a curfew the teens would stay out past it. If there was a set of rules for the teens, they would be broken. In a town this size there is no reason for a "Teen Code." If there was a "Teen Code", you know the old saying, "Rules are made to be broken."

Message From Santa To FHS Students

"From The FHS Kennel"

Dear Students of Fulton High School,

Yes, indeed, it's Christmas time again—my big scene. Do you have any idea what I go through at this time of the year? Mrs. Claus mixes up the gift list, my reindeer won't start, everyone wants it to snow—they don't realize that I don't have a bubble-top sleigh—and I'm expected to climb through those tiny, sooty chimneys. Why, everyone else uses doors. Oh, well, I guess it matters not since I don't do anything else the rest of the year except be sure that all you dear little girls and boys are good. This brings me to the fact that some of you at Fulton High School haven't been very good. But I'll try to overlook as much as possible.

Now, kids, I want you to understand that a few of your wishes just cannot be met. For instance, Tommy Lynn, what would you do with a Tarzan suit anyway? And Betty Bennett, an instant champagne tablet just does not exist. And to all the freshmen girls who asked for senior boys, and to all the senior boys who asked for freshmen girls, you'll have to arrange that yourselves.

Well, I must go get my Santa

South Fulton's Boys, Girls On Winning Spree

The South Fulton girls chalked up their eighth straight victory of the season last Friday night on the Devil court as they rolled over Sharon 46-20.

The South Fulton men made it a perfect evening as they walked off the court with a 59-45 decision.

Coach Catherine Roberts had much praise for her SF team this morning saying, "Any time you hold a team, which is capable of scoring 40 points, to 20, and play your substitutes, you are really going."

The South Fulton boys opened the game red hot and in the first frame almost blew Sharon off the floor winding up with a 18-7 lead.

South Fulton's ace in the hole was Larry Alexander who fired in 31 points during the night. He dominated the backboard and shot from under the bucket and from the top post position. Another good backboard man during the night, was Charles Colley.

On Tuesday night both teams repeated their winning streak by winning from Kenton, there. The boys won by 67-30 and the girls 40-25. The usual exciting classic with Union City will be staged here Friday night.

Sports Final

R. Paul Westpheling, III

Last weekend proved a disastrous one for the Fulton City Bulldogs.

Friday night they lost to the Carlisle Comets 56-78. The Bulldogs couldn't find their mark as they came into the dressing room at half-time with a 25-45 deficit.

The third quarter saw no better action. The margin was still 20 points, Carlisle leading 42-62.

Although David Mann led the Fulton attack with 16 points, the Bulldogs of Fulton still fell to the Carlisle Comets 56-78.

Saturday night was an even more gruesome one. The Bulldogs once again were felled - by the Benton Indians 42-62.

At the very beginning of the game, Fulton grabbed a 2 point lead. Benton then whittled this down and the Bulldogs never saw the light again. At the end of the first quarter the score was 11-19 and it looked as though our boys might catch up.

At half time, Coach Virgil Yates stared a 15-30 deficit right in the eye. An enthused Bulldog offense came out on the floor, but could not overcome Benton's alert offense.

The final score again - Fulton 42, Benton 62.

These losses marked the third and fourth for Fulton. The Bulldogs play at home Friday against Fancy Farm.

Fulton still looks a little rusty on the floor because of the need for experienced players. By tournament time, we hope, the Bulldogs will have as tough a team as can be found anywhere in the first region.

The "B" teams will play at 6:45 p. m. and the "A" teams will follow. Come out and support the Bulldogs.

Kennedy Half Dollars Catching Up With First, Great Demand

Supply is beginning to catch up with demand for the John F. Kennedy half-dollar, the most sought after new coin in numismatic history.

Almost 170 million of the 50-cent pieces have been minted, and two U. S. mints at Denver and Philadelphia are turning them out at a rate of about 800,000 a day.

Miss Eva B. Adams, director of the Bureau of the Mint, said, in response to questions, that the demand has been "unlike anything we've ever seen."

But, she added, "thank heavens the collectors seem to be getting their fill at last. I keep a lookout on them myself and on recent trips to Boston and Cleveland, I found some turning up in change. The hoarding also seems to be abating here in Washington."

Besides the desire of the American people to have a memento of the late President after his assassination, Miss Adams said, there was another—"most unfortunate"—cause of the shortage. "Jewelry people grabbed up all of the half-dollars they could find to make into key rings and tie clasps and so on."

Eventually, the half-dollars will become plentiful because minting is expected to continue for at least 25 years, she said.

In the meantime, the best way to get one is to keep your eyes open, unless you happen to be in Washington.

The output of the mints is going directly to the 12 regional Federal Reserve banks, which put them into circulation. The Bureau of the Mint does not stock any.

But there is a "cash room" at the Treasury Department building where anybody can get two for the regular price of $1.

Chit Chat

"From The FHS Kennel"

By Anonymous

Yip-pee! Just ten more days till Christmas! I'm sure that all our teachers and parents can tell that this great occasion is just around the corner. We're all trying so hard to be good so that Santa Claus will bring us lots of nice things. Haven't you teachers noticed how quiet and studious we've been lately?

Did everyone hear the 11th grade singing "Happy Birthday" to Mrs. Marchman in 5th hour last week. It really wasn't her birthday, but she was deeply touched by our thoughtfulness, anyway.

Speaking of birthdays, our little friend Wayne Lohaus has finally turned sixteen. Sweet sixteen and never been kissed? You'd better believe it! (Unless he has a terribly romantic football!)

Have you been eating "goodies" in Mrs. Varden's class lately? If you have—beware! She can't see beyond the third row but don't let that fool you! She can smell any flavor, color or size!

Next time you see someone who's in Mr. Snider's chemistry class, ask them how they feel. But be careful—that's a very touchy subject. I'm sure that by now everyone has heard about our "all-night-and-most-of-the-morning" test. Most of us are still taking vitamins and geritol to revive our tired blood.

THE HEIGHT OF CHAIRMANSHIP

A chair with flair. The Gainsborough. A chair that piques the interest, that adds subtle splendor to any setting—contemporary or traditional. The Gainsborough is a portrait of perfection—on its own, with a table at its side, at a desk. It's doubly appealing used in pairs—at a fireside or a window, as host and hostess chairs for continental dining. Graceful in form, lavish in scale, the Gainsborough is a foil of flattery for the fairer sex...an impressive addition to any room—from any point of view.

Rev. Russell Rodgers filled his regular appointment at New Salem Baptist Church the past Sunday at 11 a. m. The evening worship is class singing by the younger set, following the Baptist Training Union session.

Get-well wishes are extended to Mrs. Florence Ray, who fell at her home in Dukedom the past week and suffered a fractured hip. She was rushed to Hillview Hospital and later transferred to Memphis. We hope for this fine matron a soon complete recovery.

At this writing Mrs. Haldon Glover remains very sick at her home in the First District. Her mother, Mrs. Carl Fagans, and Thelma are at her bedside, administering to her comfort and welfare with loving care.

Little Miss Becky Lynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Mathis, was ill last week, due to an attack of nausea, and was absent from Cuba elementary school for a few days.

Bro. Charles Wall met his church at Knob Creek Church of Christ Sunday promptly on time and delivered his message to this congregation. Many attended.

Rev. and Mrs. T. T. Harris are doing very nicely at this time and expecting their daughters, Miss Ruth Harris of Tallahassee, Fla., and Mrs. Naomi Tuck, and son Richard, from Orlando, Fla., for visitors during the Christmas holidays.

Up at the Buton Lassiter home they will have David, Lynn and Jacqueline Lassiter next week from Akron, Ohio, so each of the homes above mentioned will have open doors for their children.

Wess Jones hasn't been quite so well, having suffered an attack of intestinal flu. We hope he will soon be restored to former health.

Various Christmas Traditions Add Unique Charm To Old Countries

"From The FHS Kessel"
By Laura Hefley

Now approaches the most beloved season of the year, the season in which men forget their cares and joyously open their hearts to all mankind, the season of holly wreaths, glistening mistletoe and gay parties, Christmas trees, carols, red stockings, release from school and jobs, and small eyes wide with expectation, the season in which our Lord manifested Himself in the person of Jesus Christ, the season which reigns supreme throughout the world—Christmas!

Christmas is welcomed by each country in its own distinctive way. In England, for example, on Christmas Eve, a yule log is brought into the home and each member of the household sits upon it and salutes it before it is thrust into the flames. According to custom, if the log burns throughout Christmas Day good luck will come to that family during the new year. Gay dinners are held throughout Christmas Day and many ancient plays are enacted. Music plays an important part and the streets are usually filled with carolers.

One of the most charming customs is found in Norway where the remembrance of the animals and birds is very much a part of Christmas. Norwegians place a sheaf of grain on a pole for the birds, the farm animals are given extra fodder and on Christmas morning, bundles of grain cover every gable, gateway, and barn door, thus providing the bird's Christmas dinner.

In neighboring Sweden, a very odd custom is carried on each year. The Swedes believe that their ancestors return to their former homes on Christmas Eve, so they make up the beds and prepare meals for them. In Russia, processions of carolers sing the ancient "kolyada" songs which reflect the early days of Russia's history and a "badnyak" (yule log) is burned.

Germany has produced many beloved contributions to the Christmas season such as the immortal carol, "Silent Night, Holy Night", handcarved toys, and perhaps the greatest contribution of them all, "Tannenbaum" — the Christmas tree—which, they light on Christmas Eve.

In Holland, traditional wooden shoes are filled with hay and carrots and placed on the window sills along with a dish of water. Early the next morning, the children find that the food has miraculously been replaced with small gifts, toys and surprises from St. Nick. Perhaps the most beautiful custom of them all is practiced in Ireland when on Christmas Eve, candles are lighted and placed in every window of each house, and doors are purposely left open. These are symbols of warmth and hospitality and assure the kind-hearted Irish that no couple seeking shelter for a child who could be Christ will be without a home.

REGULAR CHURCH WORSHIP

"I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord."

In the Midst of All This...

LET'S NOT FORGET THIS...

"And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save his people from their sins." Matthew 1:21.

For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.

"For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through him might be saved." John 3:16, 17.

We invite you to celebrate the birth of our Saviour by attending church this week, and by spreading good will everywhere you go.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
