Deadline For DDT Program Is March 10th May Register At Ford or Clarice Stores In Fulton

LITTLE RESPONSE YET
Citizens of Fulton and Fulton county who wish to have their homes sprayed with DDT in the current program sponsored by the Fulton County Home-makers were urged today to register before March 10 by Harry Barry, Fulton and Hickman county sanitarian.

Registration may be effected at Ford Clothing Co. and the Clarice Shop in Fulton, at J. J. Cruse Grocery in Cayce and at Arlie Bates' in Crutchfield.

Only about 250 persons have been registered to date, Mr. Barry said. He hopes to see this total increase to over 1,000.

"People in Fulton can expect more mosquitoes this summer," the health officer said. He explained that the Public Health Service had, in the past two years, treated 140 ponds within a one-mile radius of the city limits to prevent the breeding of mosquitoes. This Public Health Service program has been discontinued, Barry continued, and as a result there will be more mosquitoes here this year.

Some houses cannot be screened effectively, he added, and unless they are sprayed with DDT the malaria carriers will have little trouble spreading the disease all over the city.

A charge of $3 per house is made this year, since Federal funds formerly used for this purpose are not available.

6 Ky. Solons Are For Clapp

Sign Letter Giving Their Reasons For Approving Him In Highest TVA Post
Washington, March 5—(AP)—Six Kentucky Representatives yesterday signed a letter supporting the nomination of Gordon R. Clapp to be a director of the Tennessee Valley authority.

The letter, addressed to Chairman Revercomb (R-W, Va.) of the senate public works committee, was signed by Reps. Gregory, Clements, Chelf, Spence, Chapman and Bates, all all Democrats. Reps. Morton, Robison and Meade, Republicans, did not sign.

Morton last week, however, signed the Kentucky Democratic caucus letter endorsing David E. Lilienthal for the chairmanship of the atomic energy commission.

Yesterday's letter on Clapp said in part:

"We x x x have been highly pleased with the work of the Tennessee Valley authority under x x x Lilienthal and Gordon Clapp. x x x The largest dam in the system is in Kentucky. x x x We believe that the affairs of the authority have been wisely x x x managed. x x x We feel that the success of its operation is to no small degree due to the wise and business-like management of Gordon Clapp. We regard him as a capable and experienced public servant x x x."

Martinsville, Ind., March 5—(AP)—A man tentatively identified as H. R. Randall was hit and killed by a truck on Highway 67 near Paragon yesterday. State police said they found that name on a registered letter, mailed from Paducah, Ky., found in the victim's clothing.

Truman Attends Fiesta

Mexico City, March 5—(AP)—President Truman took off today in the Sacred Cow for a trip around Mexico's great new volcano, Paricutin, near Uruapan, 155 miles east of here.

The President's plane took off at 9:07 A. M. C. S. T. It circled the field while two "planes with newspapermen and photographers were getting ready. Both took the air within five minutes and the three were off.

The President seemed tireless and eager for his tourist trip to see the sights of Mexico after two days of swift activity in formal affairs with much hard-shaking and a multitude of his expansive smiles.

Mr. Truman had the capital cityway to the "Missouri Waltz" played repeatedly yesterday at the folk dance festival, the U. S. embassy reception and in the foreign office last night.

More significant than that was the title of "Champion of American Solidarity" given the President by the host, President Aleman, at a formal U. S. embassy luncheon yesterday.

The visit of the two presidents at a colorful fiesta at the national stadium yesterday was marred when two persons—a 19-year-old woman and an eight-year-old child—were killed and four hurt in the crush of the crowd.

Sgt. Johnny Conaway Is Returning From Europe

Mrs. James McFerran, 412 Carr street, has received a letter from her son, Sgt. Johnny Conaway, Germany, in which he said he left his base in Europe for the United States Feb. 18, and expects to return to his home soon.

At least two of the new stations will be in the far north, one on Elsmere Island, 600 miles from the North Pole, another to the westward on Melville Island.

These, with the other outposts in the chain to the southward, will fill in a blank area maintained by the United States in Alaska and one at Thule, in Greenland.

The Elsmere and Melville Island stations are expected to be completed and manned this summer.

Officials of the two governments confined their public announcement yesterday to the advantages of improving the weather reporting system. But strategists noted the preeminent military value of constantly maintained installations athwart the air routes over the polar cap.

It was recalled the United States Navy's "weather" and "air" units some months ago instituted a system of using radar for spotting and tracking storm areas. Radar's most common use is in the detection and tracking of aircraft.

An inkling of the extensive weather and general air reconnaissance already attempted in the North, was given recently when a United States Army Air Force B-29, based in Alaska, was forced down in Greenland.

AAF officers said today they understand the Air Force will fly in much of the material and men needed for building the new stations, but that American men who man the jointly controlled installations probably will be from the United States geodetic service.

Some of the first material sent to the remote spots, the AAF officers said, probably will be dropped by parachute.

C. D. Howe, Canadian reconstruction minister, told parliament yesterday that it hoped the new system will facilitate exchange of weather information with Russia "and other neighboring countries in the north when possible."

2 Child Brides 1 Too Many, Says Maryland Judge

Cumberland, Md., March 5—(AP)—Orville G. Ketterman's testimony that he married two child brides resulted today in his detention in $500 bond for grand jury action on a bigamy charge.

The 23-year-old Ketterman told a trial magistrate yesterday he married Betty Jane Tate, 14, at Chattanooga, Tenn., in 1943. She later returned to Tennessee and wrote him she was getting a divorce, he said, but he failed to produce the letter.

Bunice Hope Gordon, of Cumberland, testified she married Ketterman last October 5, when she was 16.

North American "Blind Spot" Will Be Weatherman's Base

Washington, March 5—(AP)—The uninhabited rim of the North American continent, a vast blind spot for weathermen and military strategists, soon will be manned by weathermen and military strategists.

The project, officially disclosed in Ottawa and Washington, involves the joint establishment of nine new weather stations in Canadian territory.

It is part of the recently announced plan to continue the wartime collaboration of the two nations by exchanging information, personnel and facilities for "peacetime joint security purposes."

At least two of the new stations will be in the far north, one on Elsmere Island, 600 miles from the North Pole, another to the westward on Melville Island.

These, with the other outposts in the chain to the southward, will fill in a blank area maintained by the United States in Alaska and one at Thule, in Greenland.

Krug Confident Of Success If New Coal Strike Called

Washington, March 5—(AP)—Secretary of Interior Krug, asked about the possibility of a new soft coal strike, told reporters today that he would handle emergencies as they arise.

"We handled one strike all right," Krug added.

Krug, who is boss of the government-owned mines, talked to newsmen upon his return from a tour of the Pacific. He did not elaborate.

The United Mine Workers walked out twice last year. A spring shutdown ended when the government took over the pits and Krug signed a contract with John L. Lewis, UMW chief. Lewis called a truce until April 1 in an autumn walkout after he was cited for contempt of court.

Lilienthal Vote Friday

Senate Committeemen Still Want To Discuss Some Matters With Him
Washington, March 5—(AP)—Chairman Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), said today the senate atomic energy committee probably will vote on Friday whether to confirm the nomination of David E. Lilienthal as chairman of the atomic energy commission.

He said members still wanted to talk over several important matters with Lilienthal, the four other nominees to the commission and Carroll Wilson, the general manager, and would hold another session with them today if senate business permitted.

The committee had a two and a half hour closed door meeting with the six men yesterday. There is a chance, Hickenlooper said, that the committee may vote on the nominations tomorrow, but it is more likely the decision will be postponed until the following day. There is even an outside possibility, he said, that the hearings may be re-opened if the members decide additional evidence is needed on any cloudy points.

The public hearings lasted five weeks.

As soon as the committee has voted its decision, Hickenlooper said, he will make every effort to bring the nominations up for senate action. Some senators have served notice they do not want to vote until the printed hearings are available. Hickenlooper said he thought these would be delivered by the printer by the weekend.

In the closed door sessions, the committee members are going into all phases of administration of the commission, including security angles and its relations with congress.

Thus far, the chairman said, there has been no discussion of the acceptance or rejection of any individual nominee.

New Farm Ideas To Be Discussed At Crutchfield

A discussion of new developments in agriculture will be held at the Crutchfield school Thursday, March 6, at 7 p. m., according to John Watts, Fulton county agent.

- 2—The all-pullet flock.
- 3—The Kentucky corn derby.
- 4—Can you produce 300 pounds of beef per acre?
- 5—Better seedling.

Parkway Pickets On The Job Again

Louisville, Ky., March 5—(AP)—Members of the A. F. of L. ushers union began picketing Parkway field again today because of what they said was the refusal of the Louisville baseball club to recognize the union.

B. K. Brantley, president and business agent of the union which picketed the field last year, said one picket was placed at each end of the field. He added "they will be there until the management decides to negotiate with us."

Albert C. Kaiser, president of the Louisville building and construction trades council, said five or six men engaged in construction work at the home of the American Association Baseball Club refused to pass the picket lines.

Brantley had said object of the picketing was to halt the construction work.

Our Constant Enemy

Few of us would be willing to admit that we harbor an enemy of society that costs Fulton countless thousands of dollars annually, an enemy that is a constant threat to our health and well-being, to our very life. We don't like to think about it, because the enemy isn't seen very frequently and we keep telling ourselves that if we ignore him maybe he'll go away. He won't. He thrives on neglect and carelessness and becomes more deeply entrenched in our homes and stores, and the longer we delay our attack the stronger he will be.

The enemy to which we refer, of course, is the common rat. We have some excellent specimens here in Fulton—sleek, well-fed, "tame as cats," some folk say, because they aren't disturbed too much.

Not long ago the Leader carried a story about rats attacking a small child who lives near Hickman. Feb. 22 an infant was found dead in his bed in Birmingham, Ala., the victim of rats. A health officer in Eugene, Ore., estimates that rats cost the city a minimum of $100,000 annually, and that it costs $2 a year just to feed one rat. Harry Barry, Fulton and Hickman county sanitarian, recently told the Lions Club what rats are costing Fulton merchants and home owners, and reminded them that the animals also carry disease germs and have been responsible for a number of epidemics throughout the nation.

Civic organizations in several nearby cities are sponsoring rat-killing drives this year in cooperation with local health departments. We think this would be an excellent project for some Fulton civic club or other group, and Mr. Barry has assured this newspaper that his office of assistance to any person or club sponsoring a rat-elimination drive still holds good.

If the anti-rat campaign never materializes on a city-wide scale, we as individuals can do much to combat the menace by rat-proofing our buildings, by poisoning the pests, and by helping to starve them to death.

Rest assured that the rats are here to stay, unless we do something about it.

Pity The Poor V. A.

Following are quotations from letters written to the Veterans Administration by wives, mothers and other relatives of men in service, seeking allotments:

"Please send me my allotment as I have a four months old baby and he is my sole support and I need all I can get every day to buy him food and to keep him close."

"Please send my wife's form to fill out."

"I have already wrote the President and I don't hear from you. I will write to Uncle Sam and tell him about you both."

"Please send me a letter and tell me if my husband made application for a wife and baby."

"This is my eighth child. What are you going to do about it?"

"Sir, I am forwarding my marriage certificate and two children. One is a mistake as you can see."

"I am writing to tell you that my baby was born two years ago and is two years old. When do I get my relief?"

"In answer to your letter, I gave birth to a boy weighing 10 pounds. I hope this is satisfactory."

"In accordance with your instructions I gave birth to twins in the enclosed envelope."

"You have changed my little boy to a girl. Does this make any difference?" (Bulletin of Paris, Tenn., American Legion Post.)

"Backward Glances" At Fulton

By Ouida Jewell

From a map owned by Dr. Helen W. Hughes I have gleaned the following information about Fulton as it was in 1894.

Lake street, now a busy thoroughfare, was a street lined on one side by store buildings, almost all of which were one story high. Sidewalks were uneven, and porch roofs placed at uneven heights gave the street a ragged appearance.

The three-story Collins building, in which the Ben Franklin store is now, was the most luxurious store of its kind anywhere in the community. The first floor was occupied by a dry goods store; the second was used as living quarters by the J. A. Collins family; the third was used as a Masonic meeting hall.

The old First National Bank was where now Fulton Bank is now. In front of the present location of Wenz's Store was the Newport News and Mississippi Valley Railroad freight depot. A cattle shed and pen were ac-

The Anglo-French Alliance

By Dewitt MacKenzie, AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

England and France finally have signed their much discussed 50-year alliance in the dramatic setting of immortal Dunkerque but, while the ostensible purposes of the treaty have been cited, there still is ground for much speculation as to just what might grow out of it.

We are told that it is designed to provide mutual protection against any future aggression by Germany. Similar accords are proposed with Holland, Belgium, Czechoslovakia and Poland—to encircle Germany with a new entente. Well, the desire for such a safeguard certainly is understandable, although its inauguration isn't particularly pressing in view of the fact that the fatherland is so crippled as to be unable to make war within the fifty year period of the alliance.

Of far more immediate practicability is the projected economic pact on which statesmen of England and France are at work as a supplement to the alliance. Under this pact the economies of the two nations would be integrated—a remarkable and perhaps far-reaching development.

I believe it is to this economic pact that we must look for guidance as to the major significance of the Anglo-French love-feast. The point that strikes one immediately is that both countries are in the midst of life and death economic crises. And when we use that emphatic language we merely repeat what statesmen of both nations have been saying. None disputes that France and Britain are in a terribly bad way.

So we see these comrades in arms, but rivals in trade, zealously seeking to coordinate their economies for mutual advantages.

Many will find this unusual situation somewhat reminiscent of that awful war crisis of 1940 when, to counter the victorious Hitlerian onslaught, British Prime Minister Churchill offered "to conclude a solemn act of union" between France and England. The constitution of the unions would "provide for joint organs of defense, foreign, financial and economic policies." French citizens would become citizens of Britain, and Britons citizens of France. The two Parliaments would be formally associated.

That was on June 16, soon after the epic withdrawal of British forces from the bloody beaches of Dunkerque and as the French were being bled to their knees by the German onslaught. Churchill made this unprecedented offer "with the object of assisting France and supporting her to the utmost in the hours of stress through which she was passing, as also in the hope of encouraging the French government to continue their resistance."

The following day the answer—indirect but categorical—was heard over the French radio in the voice of old Marshal Pétain who announced that France must give up the fight. "The battle," he said, "has ceased during the night."

There the Churchill proposal rested. But it was not forgotten, and there have been prominent people in both countries who have clung to the hope that a union in part might be effected. I gathered from British sources that we now are seeing the influence of the Churchill idea at work.

That is not to say, of course, that any such union as he projected is in process of being created. Far from it. But Britain and France are utilizing a modification of the plan in an effort to escape economic disaster—and perhaps other threats. They are experimenting without knowing what the final reaction may be.

And who can predict how such an experiment may develop, especially in view of the dangerously disturbed political situation in Europe?

Clinton Takes 33-32 Victory Over Fulton

Free Throw In Closing Seconds Told The Story

BARDWELL FIVE WINS

A free throw by Griffin, Clinton guard, in the last seconds of the Red Devil-Bulldog tournament game at Arlington last night broke a 32-32 tie and gave Clinton a 1-point victory.

It was the third time this season that the Hickman countians have come from behind in the last quarter to defeat Fulton. At Clinton, the Red Devils won 35-34, and in the return game here the Clinton five triumphed 39-37 in an overtime period.

Bardwell dropped Hickman 48-41 in the other opening-round game of the First District meet taking a 34-26 lead in the third quarter and leading from there on.

The Bulldogs shared the lead with the Clinton lads throughout the first half. The Red Devils piled up a 27-19 lead as the third quarter closed, but Coach Carter's charges evened it up twice in the final period and kept right at the heels of the victors.

Taking scoring honors for both teams was Billy Joe Forrest, Fulton guard, who rimmed 13 points. He was followed by Reece, Clinton forward, with a total of 11 points.

Tonight Cunningham and Cayce play at 7:30, with Western and Fulham, angling in the nightcap at 8:45. Arlington plays Bardwell at 7:30 tomorrow evening, and Milburn meets Clinton in the second game Thursday.

Upper bracket semi-finals are at 7:30 Friday night and lower bracket semi-finals at 8:45. The championship game will be at 8 o'clock Saturday, March 8.

Filchok And Hapes Accepted Grid Winnings, Paris Relates

New York, March 5.—(AP)—Alvin J. Paris, 23, convicted of attempting to bribe Merle Hapes and Frank Filchok, New York Giants backfield stars, to throw a little professional grid game, testified in general sessions court that he gave each $500 as winnings on bets he placed for them on an earlier game.

Paris took the stand yesterday as the state's star witness in the trial of three men accused of "concealing and committing" him in the attempted bribery. They are David (Pete) Krakauer, 44; Jerome Ziegler, 32; and Harvey Stenmer, 36, who is serving a term for bribing Brooklyn College basketball players.

Stenmer suggested, Paris said, that he have Krakauer place bets "for the boys" on the Giants in their game last Dec. 6 with the Washington Redskins. The Giants won, 31 to 7.

Paris said he, Stenmer and Krakauer had bet $7500 on the game.

Paris was convicted of attempting to bribe Hapes and Filchok to throw the game with the Chicago Bears on Dec. 14, which the Bears won 24 to 14. He is awaiting sentence.

Both Hapes and Filchok had preceded him to the witness stand, repeating their previous testimony that Paris had offered each $2,500 plus a $1,000 bet in his name to throw the game.

They said he also offered them jobs with a novelty concern he operates.

Paris testified he first met Hapes at a cocktail party on Nov. 30, even of the Giants' game with the Los Angeles Rams. When the player said he didn't consider the Giants the "7-point favorite" they were being called, Paris called Stenmer, who told him to pass the information on to Zarowitz.

On Dec. 3, Paris testified, he talked to Hapes and Filchok about the Giants' chances against the Redskins, and the next day talked to Stenmer, who "asked if I could do anything with the football players to get them to throw the Redskins game."

"I said I didn't think I could," Paris said, "because they were very definite about winning and they wanted to get into the playoffs. Stenmer then told me to tell them to get out there and win and that I was to bet $500 for each of them on the Giants."

Paris said he gave Hapes the $500 winnings before going night-clubbing on Dec. 8, and later at a bar "asked Hapes if he thought the game against the Bears could be thrown."

"Hapes said he wasn't sure but he thought it could be," the witness continued. "I asked him if he would help to throw it and told him it would be worth $2,500 and a $1,000 bet."

"I then asked Hapes if Frank (Filchok) could throw it. And he said yes, he thought he could do it."

Two days later, Paris said, he talked with Filchok, offering him a bribe to throw the game to the Bears.

"He didn't know if he could do it," Paris told the jury. "I told him to think it over and let me know. I then handed him the $500 from the bet on the Redskins and he didn't want to take it. Finally, I made him take it."

The next day Filchok telephoned that he could not take part in the "fix," Paris said.

About 40 Fulton high football squad candidates have been going through daily workouts in preparation for full-scale spring practice, under direction of Coach J. B. Goranilo. The boys had their first outdoor session yesterday at Fairfield Park.

Eleven lettermen return from last year's team, although the Bulldogs lost their entire first string backfield and several other starters.

Billy Mac Bone and Tip Nelms, who have been busy on the hardwood this winter, are among the basketball players who will be out for spring practice soon.

Practice games, while not scheduled yet, are expected to be arranged later this spring.

No one knows how much we miss you;
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you;
Life has never been the same.

In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tender, kind and true.
There's not a day, dear wife and mother,
That we do not think of you.

Q—Have been reading your articles in the Daily Leader. . . . Would like an article on washing feet in communion service.

A—Some have supposed that the washing of another's feet was first practiced when the Lord's supper was instituted. But the washing of feet had been practiced as an act of hospitality and of servitude since long before the time Jesus washed his disciples' feet (John 13). See Genesis 24:32. 1 Samuel 25:41 and Judges 19:21. These examples from the Old Testament show it was a custom, as an act of hospitality, to give water to wash feet. (Lipscomb) Therefore, "foot washing" was not begun by Christ, but the Lord's supper had never before been practiced. When the sinful woman washed Jesus' feet, he considered it as a personal act of kindness. (Luke 7:44-46). When Paul discussed those who were "widows" in deed, washing the saints' feet was classed with administering to the sick and afflicted, etc., and not as an item of the Lord's day worship (1 Tim. 5:3-10). The principle taught by Christ in John 13 was: let him that would be greatest, become the servant of all. Nothing in the scriptures indicates that this was a formal observance intended to be perpetuated in the church. If the washing of feet was ever practiced by the New Testament church we have no record of it.

"Because of the footwear peculiar to that age and country, no doubt feet needed washing oftener than under present conditions in this country. . . . but to wash both feet now, to say nothing of just washing one, when the feet do not need washing, would be to parade a false humility. Genuine humility is taught by Christ, but counterfeit humility is condemned." (Stonestreet)

The Name Isn't Unusual, But Bill Smith's Records Shine

AP Newsfeatures

Columbus, O. — A young man with the common name of Bill Smith owns a most unusual and outstanding record as a swimmer. In fact, his coach, Mike Peppe, and teammates at Ohio State University believe Smith to be the greatest swimmer in the world.

A look at Bill's achievements in the water indicates that Peppe and the Bucks are not far wrong—and they may be right. Smith holds 10 world and American records, having a stranglehold on all marks between 200 and 800 yards.

Twice Sullivan Runnerup
Big Bill has been selected for the All-American swimming team five times—in '41, '42, '43, '44 and '46. He also has been nominated for the James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy for the last five years. Although Smith has never won the Sullivan award, he has twice been runner-up. In 1943, he finished second to Gil Dodds, the track star, and last year he was nosed out by Arnold Tucker, Army football luminary.

Smith performed with Ohio State at the tail-end of the 1943 season, after freshmen were declared eligible for varsity competition. Buoyant Bill then left for the Navy. He served Uncle Sam three years.

Back again this year, Smith is a main cog in Coach Peppe's plans for the Bucks to sweep the Western Conference, NCAA and National AAU titles, just as they had done in '43 and '46.

And here's bad news for Ohio State swimming opponents—Bill Smith has two more years of varsity competition.

Having a star like Bill Smith in tow has its worries, however, as Coach Peppe will attest. Smith returned from the Navy last fall weighing 230 pounds—30 pounds overweight. Peppe prescribed a diet for him and today Smith, an Hawaiian, weighs a mere 215 pounds.

May Shrink More
Coach Peppe still entertains hopes that his star pupil will shrink to 210 but rival mentors wouldn't care if the big fellow disappeared altogether.

Without Bill Smith, the Bucks would be heavy favorites to capture the Western Conference, NCAA and National AAU crowns; with him, they appear a most unbeatable.

In South Fulton there was the Baptist Seminary, a junior college whose students majored in English and music. The school was maintained by the Kirkland brothers, two Baptist ministers, and was composed of the main building and a dormitory. Some students boarded in nearby homes. South Fulton then was sparsely settled, and on the present location of the school there were no buildings at all.

A large stove factory, owned by Jesse G. Keys and son, stood below what is now the freight house. No main lines of water extended through West Fulton farther than Eddings street. There were waterworks on most streets in East Fulton, and on State Line, but there was none in South Fulton except at the mill owned by Jacob Wise and son.

Sheep Spell Money For Davies County Farmer

On an investment of less than $1,000 in western ewes and two registered Southdown rams in 1945, Louis Russellburg of the Whitesville community in Daviess county realized $1,836 last year and has 48 ewes and a ram left. Russellburg told Farm Agent George F. Lacy that his good results were due largely to the use of phenothiazine drench and phenothiazine-salt mixture.

DISASTER

will strike this year!

In 65 years, the American Red Cross has relieved over 4,000 disasters of all kinds. Last year, alone, it assisted more than 136,000 people battered by catastrophe.

This year, the suffering and misery will again be great when new calamities strike down additional thousands. But one what may, you can depend on this:

As always, the Red Cross will be there to reduce the toll... ease the pain... soften the suffering.

Emergency aid for the injured... food and shelter for the homeless... help in restoring homes according to need. These services—and many more—the Red Cross will provide to all needy sufferers regardless of creed or race, young or old.

This vital work requires money—lots of it. Your support is urgently needed. So please give—and give generously—to your Red Cross chapter. There is no worthier cause!

GIVE—so your RED + CROSS can carry on!
