Civic Center Project On Its Way; Officers Elected

With the enthusiastic support of Mayor Gilbert DeMyer and the entire Fulton City Commission as well as nearly every segment of the twin city population, the project to secure a civic center is now moving ahead.

At the first meeting of the newly created Civic Center Authority, it was voted to proceed with application for the advanced planning loan for the proposed Civic Center for Fulton. The meeting was held last Wednesday night at the City Hall.

Officers were elected as follows: Mrs. Paul Westpheling, chairman; W. L. Holland, vice-chairman and Rollin Shaw, secretary-treasurer.

A general discussion was held of the possible activities that could be housed in the civic center. The need for a civic center here has been recognized for many years, but with the coming of the International Banana Festival, it has become a vital need, as there is no auditorium in the twin cities large enough to house many of the events.

The City Commission is wholeheartedly behind the project and enthusiastically endorsed it at a meeting recently.

Lee Potter Smith of Paducah will do a feasibility study on the project with deference to the varied uses of the Civic Center. There are many possibilities to be explored, but no definite plan has been reached.

Members of the Authority, as well as many local residents, are enthusiastic over the proposed project and are highly optimistic that the civic center can become a reality.

Other members of the Authority besides the officers are: Curtis Mathis, Joe Sanders, Rev. John Platt, Mrs. Maxwell McDade, and Vyrone Mitchell.

Ex-officio members are: Mayor Gilbert DeMyer of Fulton; Ralph Lally, president of the National Banana Association; Miss Cattle Lou Miller, Commissioner of Public Information for Kentucky; Miss Katherine Feden, Commissioner of Commerce for Kentucky; Dr. R. V. Putnam, president of the International Banana Association, and the incoming president of the Fulton-South Fulton Chamber of Commerce.

It's such a shame people have to be sick just to stay in bed for a few days. Last week, witnessing those first early aches and pains and sniffles of what might have been the flu, I looked forward to getting in bed, staying nice and warm, catching up on some reading, and getting waited on. I think that I deliberately avoided the anti-biotic drugs, just to lap up the luxury of "getting away from it all," for awhile, sniffles, sinus, raw throat and all.

I am convinced now that rest is not for me! It's just not in the cards, that's all. What happened to me shouldn't happen to a dawg! Would you believe it if I told you that not only did I get the flu, but Mary Jo and R. Paul did too, and all at the same time! That's not all. Ozie, our housekeeper, had a death in the family on the very day I planned on my sick leave, and she commuted between Fulton and Union City from Saturday, through Wednesday. Of necessity the household chores fell to me, so did making soup every day for my two ailing young 'uns, watching the clock to give them their medicine every four hours, while at the same time the chicanery I had planned to let my own flu take over, took over, but good!

You think that's all, don't you? Well, it isn't. Monday Mary Jo mustered up enough strength to go to school and I, ten times weaker than a kitten, decided to help Paul with the paper, 'cause it seemed to me he wasn't feeling so sporty himself. I barely made it through Monday, counting every minute until bed-time, but it was delayed on account of a very important meeting I just had to attend. Tuesday was a misery... but then I just had to go to a meeting of the Banana Festival Association, Wednesday was press day, and by sheer force of faith I made it through, only to button up warmly to attend a meeting of the Civic Center Authority.

I think it was nice for the members to name me chairman, but what they didn't know was that I was too weak to argue. And still that's not all. Thursday I had planned to forget the clock and finally enjoy my sickness, only to be awakened by a sixth sense at 7:20 a. m. to realize that Ozie wasn't in the kitchen as she usually is at that time. Well, we all scurried around, finally made the deadlines and soon the house was quiet and I thought, "Well, dear Lord, it's a long time coming, but at least I can enjoy poor health until school is out this afternoon."

I must not be living right, or either the Lord has bailed out as my co-pilot, for at noon Thursday the phone rang and it was a wee, croaking voice on the other end. "Mother, come get me, I've got fever." I may as well be honest... my first reaction was not one of sympathy for R. Paul, but of deep condolence for myself. I couldn't get out of the house for fear of a relapse, not of the flu, but of exhaustion, so Paul fetched him home with an inflamed throat and the ear-ache.

And so I doctored on him, on myself, and here and there on the cleaning chores, for there was still nobody, but nobody around to help me with the housework, my ailments and my patient. As I said before, it shouldn't happen to a (Continued on page four)

Weary Telephone and Electric Workmen Near End of Battle With Ice Storm Havoc

A desperate, weary, 4-day battle to restore phone and electric service in this area following a devastating ice storm last weekend neared an end for most crews as The News went to press Wednesday.

Reports from Southern Bell Telephone company and the various electric companies in the area indicated that all available manpower from adjacent areas had been imported to help local crews working around-the-clock, and that service still "out" would be restored just as soon as was humanly possible.

It all began last Saturday night, when a temperature drop converted a drizzling rain into ice, coating trees, wires and poles with heavy loads. When the rain stopped, a 2-inch snowfall began, adding more loads to wires and branches. Poles, overburdened with their loads, began going down like rows of dominoes. Tree branches sagged and snapped, falling across phone and electric lines and breaking them or carrying them to the ground.

The Fulton electric system found that its tree-trimming program paid it good dividends. Manager Earl Holloway said "we were very fortunate; only two phases went out on the Middle road and we had a very small interruption of service". Within four hours service had been restored.

The Hickman-Fulton Counties R. E. C. C. was hard hit, with two-thirds of its customers out of power, 30 poles down in the lower bottoms near Hickman, and all schools in the County except Fulton City obliged to close Monday

Mrs. Ward Bushart Named To Committee On Beautification

Mrs. R. Ward Bushart, Fulton, has been named to the executive committee of the Kentucky Clean-Up and Beautification Committee, according to an announcement from Frankfort this week by Mrs. Connie Quinn, director of the Beautification division in the State Department of Natural Resources.

"With the help and support of outstanding civic and business leaders," Mrs. Quinn said, "we feel that the 1965 clean-up and beautification program will be very productive."

"Our activities will be expanded this year to include a campaign to eliminate the littering of our beautiful lakes, streams, and recreational areas. I hope that all Kentuckians will realize that, for our own sakes and in the interest of the tourist business as well, every effort must be made to keep Kentucky as clean and attractive as possible."

Appointed as co-chairmen of the committee are Harry Carlross, Kentucky Utilities Company, Lexington, and Mrs. J. Richard Gott Jr., former president of the Garden Club of Kentucky, Louisville.

Banana Festival This Year To Stress More Programs From People-To-People

The third International Banana Festival has been scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 30 through October 2, and if the enthusiasm and program plans outlined at the executive board meeting last week are any barometer, the Festival will be the most outstanding community program in America this year. Guided by the many high compliments paid the association last year by national and international figures, Dr. R. V. Putnam, president of the association revealed that the people-to-people approach to making friendships with Latin-American countries will be enlarged and expanded upon.

At the same time, the Board named three prominent business men to serve as advisor-consultants to the executive board. Dr. R. V. Putnam, presiding at his first meeting since his election, announced that Sonny Puckett, owner and operator of the Park Terrace Motel and Restaurant and Puckett's Service Station; Eddie Holt, owner of the City Drug Company, and W. P. Burnette, one of the owners of the Pure Milk Company, will serve in these key positions. Mr. Burnette has served on the board during the two previous festivals in the same capacity. The three newly appointed board members will serve with the five executive officers as the executive board. The Festival organization is composed of representatives of the various civic, cultural and fraternal groups in the twin cities. A meeting of the entire board has been scheduled for next Tuesday night at the Chamber of Commerce offices.

At the meeting last night a general outline of this year's program was reviewed and it was the unanimous consensus of the board that the theme of this year's program shall be "Project-United Us", as it was last year. Of the theme, Dr. Putnam said, "I don't see how we can improve upon it. It tells exactly what our hopes are regarding our relationships with those banana producing countries in Central America.

"We hope to enlarge on our people-to-people programs, seeking more areas where we can display our coincidence of interests with our Latin-American friends."

Dr. Putnam disclosed that a representative of the executive board attended the meeting in Louisville Tuesday with Governor Breathitt to seek a portion of Kentucky's tourist promotion fund for use by the local group. A representative of the local association also plans to make early contacts with the State Department in Washington, as well as other interested parties who can assist in implementing the program.

Attending the meeting Wednesday night were, besides Dr. Putnam, Frank LeMaster, first vice president; Mrs. Paul Westpheling, second vice president; Mrs. Maxwell McDade, secretary, and Dr. Shelton Owens, treasurer. Mr. LeMaster reported that already several outstanding bands and marching groups have written for permission to participate in this year's festival parade.

Mrs. McDaniel, Mrs. White Named To Head County's March Of Dime Drive

Leadership of the January March of Dimes campaign was completed today with the appointment of Mrs. C. H. McDaniel of Fulton and Mrs. Marian White of Hickman as co-chairmen for this year's fund drive. Mrs. McDaniel will coordinate the Fulton area activities, while Mrs. White will perform the same duties in the Hickman area. Meanwhile, the ladies announced that the annual radio auction held annually in connection with the drive will start in Fulton on January 21 and continue through January 27, except Sunday. The auction, "live" from Hickman, will begin on January 28 for three days.

As in the past, the young people will take an active part in the fund-raising activities. The Freshman class of Fulton High School (all of whom volunteered the task, but none of whom wanted the recognition as chairman) will conduct road blocks, candy sales and other activities. Teen activities also will be staged in the Hickman and Cayce areas.

In accepting the posts of leadership, both Mrs. McDaniel and Mrs. White urged all homemaker groups, civic and church groups to volunteer to furnish items for the radio auction over WFUL.

"Since we are concentrating all our fund raising in just a few days," the ladies said, "and since all funds derived from the radio auctions will go toward the important research program into birth defects, we know that the usual cooperation from all groups will be forthcoming, as always."

Merchants, too, are urged to donate items to the radio auction. A collection will be made in this area some time next week.

Funds raised in Fulton County will go to support the fight against birth defects at both the local and national level, it was revealed.

"We are just now beginning, to discover the fearful toll that birth defects take each year in this country," Mrs. McDaniel said. "Not only are there 250,000 babies born annually with serious birth defects, but physicians are discovering that many disabling and even fatal ailments which crop up later in life are actually the fault of hidden birth defects."

The March of Dimes, she noted, is supporting the work of many prominent scientists who are investigating these and other aspects of birth defects, hoping to find the means of preventing them. In addition, March of Dimes-financed centers and clinics are furnishing improved medical care for victims of birth defects, making it possible for many of them to escape permanent disability.

"The wholehearted support of the people of Fulton County this January will enable the March of Dimes to continue and expand these efforts aimed at eliminating the threat of birth defects which hangs over so many of our young prospective parents," Mrs. McDaniel said.

Wingo Beauty Vies For State Title

Miss Marilyn Charlton, Wingo, crowned "Queen of the Purchase District Fair" in Mayfield in August will vie with 47 other beauties in Louisville on Saturday, January 16, for the title "Miss County Fair of Kentucky."

The beauty contest among winners of county and district fairs last summer is part of the annual convention of the Kentucky Association of Fairs and Horse Shows, it was announced Sunday.

The winner will be picked from among the 47 contestants at a banquet starting at 6 p. m. Saturday in the Kentucky Hotel in Louisville.

Other candidates from this area and the counties or districts they represent are:

Lucy Jane Jagers, Barkley Lake; Kathy Grider, Clinton; and Belinda Dowell, Marshall.

South Fulton Angels Make It Number 12

The South Fulton girls basketball team — the Angels — chalked up their twelfth straight win last Friday night by swamping Paris, 42-25, and would have marked up an even more impressive score had not Coach Roberts turned the fourth quarter over to the substitutes.

Going into the Fourth quarter, the Angels led, 36-12.

High scorer for the Angels was Lucy, with 15 points, followed by Higgins, 14; Neely, 10; Pennington, 2, and Mayhall, 1.

Despite the whopping total of 34 points amassed by Alexander in the second game, the South Fulton boys could not overcome the boys from Paris, going down to a 65-74 defeat after trailing 36-38 at halftime.

He said figures obtained from a physical count of the Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book for January 1965, totaled 39,319 manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers in 102 counties of Kentucky and southern Indiana served by the Louisville office.

OBEDIENT TRAFFIC RULES!

$100,000 CAFETERIA

The Graves County board of education will build a $100,000 cafeteria at Symsonia High School in the northeast section of the county, it was announced Monday by Supt. James B. Dewese.

But I'm too young to have ulcers! I can take the loss of a basketball team, but not the way the Fulton City Bulldogs play. If you have ever seen one of their games, you know what I mean.

Friday night Fulton traveled to Clinton to play the Hickman County Falcons. In the first half Fulton was trailing badly; however, in the fourth quarter the Bulldogs rallied, but lost the game by a seven-point deficit, 78-71.

That wasn't what really gave me tremors. It was the game Saturday night. The Bulldogs stayed at (Continued on page eight)

Jess Anderson Retires From Mayfield Messenger And Gets To Hear The Compliments He Deserves

Jess Anderson, the nicest guy who ever pounded a typewriter with the hunt and peck system has retired from the editor's job of Mayfield Messenger. We assume that Jess was a hunt and peck artist, because when he started his newspaper career there some 24 years ago, we don't think there was any such thing as the touch system on the typewriter.

Though we shall miss him more than anything, in the daily routine of editing a newspaper, Jess's retirement should give the rest of us a clue about retirement; we should do it while our eyes are functioning well enough to read a few nice things people might write about us that are not written in an obituary.

Even if it might be termed a tired cliché, we will say anyway that Jess Anderson best personifies the term, a newspaperman's newspaperman. Gentle, cordial, and understanding, he never failed to lend a helping hand to his contemporaries, particularly in the weekly newspaper field.

When we first started asking Jess for help—a newspaper mat, permission to use a story, a photograph taken by a Messenger photographer—we would start by giving reasons why we would appreciate the assistance. Later, when Jess exhibited his all-out willingness to help, we simply asked, and if the request was not able to be filled immediately, he would go into all sorts of personal difficulties to get the job done.

But the help he gave us is not alone the reason we are reluctant to see Jess take a well-earned rest. We hate to see him leave active work in the newspaper business because he is the kind of a gentleman everybody likes to have around simply because of the pleasure it is to know him and to work with him.

The reins of the Messenger's editorial staff will be taken over by some energetic, vigorous and experienced young men. Ray Edwards, the publisher will fill Jess' "slot" in the editorial offices. Jack Anderson, Jess' son, and Walt Apperson will also take important positions in guiding the paper's editorial and reportorial duties.

But we'll bet that for a mighty long time they will be calling on Jess for good advice and wise counsel. And so will the rest of us.

Yep, that Jess Anderson is a mighty shrewd fellow. Having written so many laudatory things about other people in his lifetime, he now has the pleasure of reading some nice things about himself, which he so richly deserves. And he ain't even horizontal, either.

Have fun, Jess! You deserve every living, breathing minute of pleasure and rest you get from now on!

Birth Defects, More Frightening Than Polio, Is New Research Program For March Of Dimes

Polio and birth defects. Both can be killers. Both are cripples.

At one time, no one talked or wrote about polio. Too horrible, too depressing. Wouldn't do any good anyhow.

But then The National Foundation called on the American people to join in a partnership with science to eliminate this dread disease. Result: No more polio thanks to vaccines developed through March of Dimes-financed research.

Birth defects are even more frightening than polio. At least 250,000 children are born with them each year. They not only cripple the body, they can also blight the mind.

Isn't it about time we took the "Top Secret" label off the birth defect problem and recognized it as the national health menace it really is?

Isn't it about time we gave anguished parents more comfort than just changing the subject when their birth defect children are mentioned?

Just as there was no need for all polio victims to become totally disabled, there is now no reason to abandon all children born with birth defects to lives of invalidism.

The March of Dimes has established a network of medical care centers where experts in birth defects are developing and perfecting advanced methods of treatment.

The same kind of March of Dimes research program that produced the polio vaccines is now at work on birth defects.

Your dimes and dollars contributed to the March of Dimes this month can help to speed the day when birth defects join polio on the roster of medical problems marked: Solved.

One Frog Kept Trying

Do you know the story about the two frogs that fell into a bucket of cream?

They tried over and over to get out by climbing up the side of the bucket. But each time they would slip back into the cream.

Finally one frog said: "We'll never get any place doing this. I give up!" So down he went, and drowned.

The other frog, seeing the consequences of giving up, decided to keep trying. Even if he didn't succeed, it would be better to go down fighting.

So time and time again he tried to climb with his front legs while he kicked with his back legs. Suddenly he hit something solid. He turned to see what it was. Lo and behold, he found that all his kicking had churned up a lump of butter! Hopping on top of it, he leaped out of the pail to safety.

God bless anyone who keeps trying. He who has the divine tenacity to persist when others give up, will eventually reach his goal.

During the holidays many improvements were made at the South Fulton school. In the home economics department the floors were enameled and the room redecorated. Work tables have been renewed with new linoleum tops and some new equipment ordered. Principal Ed Eller is proud of the new program clock installed in his office, which automatically rings the bells in both the high and grade school buildings.

Wayne McClure has been chosen editor of the South Fulton Eagle, student publication of the school now in its fourth year.

As a result of the worst epidemic of infantile paralysis in the history of the State, the Fulton County committee will hold a fund-raising campaign from January 14 to 31, with the object of raising double the amount contributed by the county last year.

The afternoon and evening bridge clubs were entertained on January 6 by Mrs. Martin Nall. Four tables of guests were served a spaghetti supper. Mrs. L. O. Bradford held high score for the afternoon club, and Mrs. Hugh Pigue high score for the evening club. Mrs. Joe Bennett received the guest prize.

Mrs. Ivan Brady entertained with a party on January 5 in honor of her nephew, Dean Crutchfield. Games and dancing were enjoyed. Ann Latta, Carmen Pigue and Jimmy Hale won prizes.

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of the Civil War day by day in Kentucky, as reviewed by the Kentucky Civil War Commission

By JOE JORDAN

One hundred years ago this week, Gov. Thomas E. Bramlette in a special message to the legislature reported that the "general commanding," meaning Maj. Gen. Stephen G. Burbridge, had sent him a telegram ordering "immediate steps for the muster-out of state troops, in compliance with orders from the War Department." With guerrilla outrages increasing throughout the Commonwealth and with no assurance that the state would not be stripped of such Federal troops as were stationed in it by the need for reinforcements at the front, the prospect of losing the state militia was alarming.

The governor had been authorized by a previous legislature to raise 5,000 state troops, and on January 2 he had appealed to the War Department to provide pay and subsistence for a force of that size. That application was pending when he received the order to disband the militia. Furthermore, Bramlette said, "the United States military commander of the Kentucky District has ordered that no organization of Kentucky troops shall take place, either for home defense or otherwise."

Bramlette told the legislature, "This malevolent opposition to the employment of the necessary means for defense of the citizens of the state, and this unwarranted assumption of control over the civil authorities of the state, and the effort by military threats to nullify a law of the state should be ended." He recommended appointment of a legislative committee to go to Washington and appeal to the President. Accordingly two members of the State Senate and three members of the House of Representatives were named "to visit President Lincoln in person and lay before him the present disturbed condition of Kentucky."

In the same message, the governor said that Kentucky, from the beginning of the war to January 1, 1865, had supplied 76,335 men to the Union Army, of whom 61,417 were white and 14,918 were Negroes. An additional 7,000 drafted in December were ready to be mustered into the Federal service.

During the week under review a former Kentucky newspaper editor, Francis Preston Blair, Sr., then residing near Washington, D. C., was in the Confederate capital, Richmond, Va., attempting to arrange a peace conference which he hoped might bring the war to an end. Although Blair had no official status and could not say he was representing the President, Lincoln had consented to his undertaking the mission.

The Confederates had no doubt that Blair was acting with the knowledge of the administration at Washington and accordingly received him and disclosed their willingness to negotiate. President Jefferson Davis gave him a written statement that he was willing to confer "with a view to securing peace to the two countries." Lincoln put it that he was ready to bring "peace to the people of our one common country," thus emphasizing reunion. A meeting was arranged for February 3.

WHAT'S GOING ON HERE

by Wendell E. Butler, Commissioner Ky. Dept. of Agriculture

I would like to take this opportunity to commend Kentucky farmers and agricultural leaders on the progress made during the past year, and to wish each of you much happiness and success in the coming year.

Through this column, "What's Going On Here," I hope to be able to keep you better informed about activities of your Department of Agriculture, along with current developments in our State's number one industry. Your Department of Agriculture, as a regulatory, promotional and service agency, is growing in responsibilities and expanding in assignments.

As I have stated many times before, the concept that agriculture is on the decline is harmful and must be corrected. Agriculture, as the State's biggest enterprise, needs a public relations program in order to improve the image of this basic industry, one which will emphasize the contributions that agriculture makes to the economy of Kentucky. I sincerely hope that these regular reports might make some contributions toward building this better image.

This past year saw notable accomplishments in Kentucky's livestock sanitation program. In June, the Department started a market cattle testing program (backtagging). Under this program, inspectors at each stockyard apply a backtag to each animal sold at the yard. When this animal is slaughtered, cooperating slaughtering establishments will remove the tag, draw a blood sample, and forward it to our laboratory for testing.

Through herd numbers, the animal can be traced back to the farm from where it was sold. If the test was negative, that farm's herd can be accredited with a test. Monroe County has already been recertified modified-certified brucellosis free through backtagging, plus the ring test of milk.

Our backtagging program has met with a greater success than had even been anticipated at first, with both stockyards and packing houses giving fine support. Use of this testing method eliminates costly on-the-farm testing which will result in a major saving to farmers, along with the State and Federal governments.

Phase one of our hog cholera eradication program has been completed. Phase two, which is reducing the cases of hog cholera, is now underway. This involves the use of approved immunization of swine, regulating the intrastate and interstate movement of swine, using appropriate quarantine, isolation, clean-up, and disinfection, disposing of dead, sick and exposed swine appropriately, and enforcing regulations on garbage feeding.

Target date for having Kentucky hog cholera free is 1968. This goal can be realized if farmers will give their full cooperation. It is estimated that hog cholera costs swine producers 45 cents for each pig raised in the United States. In addition, a number of foreign countries have closed their doors to pork coming from areas not hog cholera free.

Kentucky now has 62 counties declared as bovine tuberculosis free. This has come about through the backtagging and milk ring testing programs. This means that Kentucky now has the largest number of counties declared bovine tuberculosis free of any state in the union.

All 120 counties in Kentucky have received at least two complete inspections for sheep scabies. No positive findings were found in any of the flocks. Because of this, Kentucky was given a sheep scabies free status by the USDA last May. A complete inspection of all sheep flocks will be continued in order to hold this status.

Murray Native To Edit Ladies Home Journal

John Mack Carter, 36, a native of Murray, Ky., has been named editor of the Ladies Home Journal, it was announced today by Curtis Publishing Co.

Carter, who attended Murray State College and received a bachelor's and master's degree in journalism from the University of Missouri, has been editor of McCall's magazine since 1961.

McCall's is a leading competitor of the Journal. Carter worked for Curtis Publishing Co. as editor of American Home from 1959 until 1961 before being selected by Herbert Mayes, then McCall's editor, as his successor.

Carter did not apply for the job but Mayes said he believed him to be the best qualified young man in magazine publishing.

He worked as a newspaper reporter after his graduation from college until becoming assistant editor of Better Homes and Gardens in Des Moines, Iowa in 1949.

In 1951, he left Better Homes and Gardens and volunteered for active duty as a line officer in the U. S. Navy and served two years.

Upon his discharge from the Navy, he became editor of Household, a national magazine published in Topeka, Kan. After five years with Household, he became executive editor of Together, a Methodist family magazine published in Chicago, and was associated with the magazine until 1959.

Carter, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. Z. Carter of Murray, was named one of America's "Ten Outstanding Young Men of 1963" by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce.

PIERCE STATION

By Mrs. Charles Lowe

Rev. Tommy Perkins filled his last appointment at Johnson's Grove Sunday. He has accepted a church near Benton and will move to the new field soon. A going-away dinner was held at the church Sunday. Rev. Jack Pusing, from Pryorsburg, has accepted a call to Johnson's Grove. We extend a welcome to him and his family.

Mrs. Blanche Carter, Mrs. Desie Russell and Mrs. Virginia Hay visited Mrs. Hay's stepmother, Mrs. Fronia Griffin, in Crutchfield one day last week.

Mrs. Larry Hicks spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Almus Polsgrove. Mrs. Hicks is in college in Memphis.

Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Ferguson, of Fulton, have moved to the home recently vacated by Mrs. Hicks. Reports from Mrs. Myrtle Orleans, who is in Henderson's Rest Home, are that she is not doing any good. Her friends are all sorry.

John Smith celebrated his birthday in a quiet way Saturday. He received lots of cards from friends.

UTMB Speakers Bureau To Aid Area Groups

Formation of a speakers bureau at UTMB was announced this week by Edward Chester, field representative of the Division of University Extension, which will direct the project. "We have received numerous requests for speakers in this area of civic functions," Mr. Chester said, "and we feel that establishment of a formal bureau to handle these requests will be an asset to the area and the university."

Participating members of the bureau will be faculty members in the evening division. "Each speaker is extremely well versed in his particular area and has the ability to make an interesting and entertaining presentation of his topic," Mr. Chester said.

Civic groups interested in obtaining a speaker for some occasion should contact Mr. Chester at the University of Tennessee Evening Class Office in advance of the desired meeting date. Civic groups regardless of size are encouraged to take advantage of this opportunity to get well qualified speakers at no cost to their organizations.

The speakers bureau is an attempt to help small organizations accomplish their objectives by providing speakers worthy of each group member's attention. "Our evening class faculty feel that they can make a major service contribution through this program," Mr. Chester said.

ROBERT C. MCKINNEY SELLS REGISTERED ANGUS BULL

Robert C. McKinney, Fulton, recently sold an Aberdeen-Angus bull to James Dedmon, South Fulton, Tennessee.

With JIM PRYOR
Agricultural Agent, Illinois Central Railroad
Farm Electricity Important

(This atomic age in which we are now living has become somewhat dependent upon electricity to power many farm jobs. We are still however not taking advantage of our electric servant with some improved practices. For many years, the heat lamp has been in use for baby chicks and before that stoves were used to give added warmth to the young birds in cold weather. Now shall we think a little and see just what can be done to boost our farm income during the coming season with an expanded electric program.)

One of our most important enterprises to this area for the coming year is dairying. We use electricity to light the barn, milk the cows, cool the milk and some cases wash the milkers and other equipment. How else could we use power for more profit on the dairy farm? You know, there is a direct correlation between the amount of milk a cow will give and the amount of water she drinks during a 24 hour period. In order to qualify this a little farther milk with a butterfat test of 4 percent is 87 percent water, therefore, a cow giving 5 gallons of milk daily will have to drink enough water to maintain her body and then produce 5 gallons of milk. Selfish as old bossy may be, she will always take care of her requirement first, leaving the dairyman sometimes with an empty milk bucket. In cold weather temperature is a most important factor when the herd steps up to drink. If you want a cow to fail in milk production, just let the pond freeze and do not cut the ice or supplement her water, for a cow will only drink enough very cold water to satisfy her thirst and will not drink her fill. It also takes a lot of energy to warm this cold water to body temperature so that it may be utilized, and it takes feed to make this energy. I think it would be much cheaper to warm the water with electricity than with expensive feed, and let the feed help increase your milk production, thus, more profit to you. Shall we see just how much could be saved with this one electric farm practice.

A cold snap could easily cut the production of your herd from 10 percent to 25 percent depending on your water supply and shelter. The water warmer for a 150 gallon tank would cost approximately $35.00 and will keep the water temperature at 40 degrees to 48 degrees during the coldest weather. Would an electric water warmer pay in your herd? A few facts to keep in mind if you have decided not to take a chance of having your milk check out this winter with iced water. The heating element should be well insulated, water proof, large enough for your tank and of sturdy construction for years of service. Cost is of little importance when buying your electric heating element.

dawg. On top of it all, the weather reports did nothing but add to my chagrin . . . with my sneezing, wheezing and coughing inside, the weather outside was the most unseasonably warm and beautiful in the history of this century.

You think maybe this column has a happy ending . . . the children well, Ozie on the job and my health improved. Like heck it does. All the while I'm dragging around I kept thinking . . . well, next week I'll be in Frankfort and I'll be doing new things and seeing other people and I'll forget all my troubles. Like a cat's meow I will be. The spring turned to winter all in one fell swoop, the roads are icy and hazardous and it looks from here like I'm stuck again, unless I decide to ice-skate to Frankfort.

If I do, wish me happy sledding, will you?

NOTEBOOK—

dawn. On top of it all, the weather reports did nothing but add to my chagrin . . . with my sneezing, wheezing and coughing inside, the weather outside was the most unseasonably warm and beautiful in the history of this century.

You think maybe this column has a happy ending . . . the children well, Ozie on the job and my health improved. Like heck it does. All the while I'm dragging around I kept thinking . . . well, next week I'll be in Frankfort and I'll be doing new things and seeing other people and I'll forget all my troubles. Like a cat's meow I will be. The spring turned to winter all in one fell swoop, the roads are icy and hazardous and it looks from here like I'm stuck again, unless I decide to ice-skate to Frankfort.

If I do, wish me happy sledding, will you?

Kentucky Pays Nearly Three Million Dollars In Medical Benefits

A big increase in the number of indigent Kentuckians provided medical care and other expansions in health facilities and program during 1964 were reported to Governor Edward T. Breathitt, by Dr. Russell E. Teague, State health commissioner.

In his year-end report he noted that the medical care program through the first eight calendar months of 1964 paid more than $3 million for 19,000 hospital admissions for eligible patients.

"This was a big increase in activities," Dr. Teague pointed out. "In addition to hospital care, the medical program provided payment for 273,600 physician statements, 590,300 prescriptions, 18,300 dental statements, and 411,000 days of nursing home care."

Three new hospitals were completed and placed in operation at a total cost of $2,780,000 in Federal and local funds, the health commissioner added. And contracts were awarded for two more new hospitals at an estimated cost of $1,005,000.

Plans are in the working stage for still four other new hospitals at an estimated cost of $4,765,000. All these projects are administered through the State Health Department.

Complete data is not yet available, Teague said, on a 10-county crash program on major health problems in the Appalachia area of Eastern Kentucky. The report shows, however, that in each of the counties—Floyd, Breathitt, Leslie, Knott, Lee, Owsley, Jackson, Clay, Perry, and Letcher—hundreds of children and a smaller number of adults were referred to physicians and other local resources for further diagnostic tests and treatment.

A comprehensive maternal and infant-care project for mothers, otherwise unable to obtain these services, was conducted in Harlan and Bell counties and later extended to Leslie County. Special pediatric clinics were conducted in Eastern Kentucky and now are being established in Western Kentucky, Dr. Teague said.

Programs to detect mental retardation and to limit brain damage if prevention is impossible, have been greatly expanded, he added. Nutrition programs this year reached 46,208 people, an increase of 28,168, or more than 100 per cent, over last year.

A "first" for the State Health Department during 1964, was establishment at Somerset of the first of six planned regional health centers. It will serve 20 Central Kentucky counties. Seven county or city-county health centers were constructed this year at an expenditure of $814,452 in State, local and Federal funds, according to Dr. Teague.

Eighty-six counties now have increased local appropriations to equal 1.7 cents per $100 full property value to participate in the Kentucky Public Health Foundation Program for 1964-65.

Funds made available by the Federal Accelerated Public Works Program have helped local communities finance 64 waterworks projects, Teague reported. Grants for these projects, all to be completed by late 1965, provided more than $10 million of the total $17.5 million construction cost.

State cooperation with the A. P. W. program also helped to start 81 sewer and sewage-treatment projects totaling $52.5 million. Grants for these amount to $22,250,000. Fifty-three of these projects are under construction, and the remainder either are completed or are awaiting construction cost.

State cooperation with the A. P. W. program also helped to start 81 sewer and sewage-treatment projects totaling $52.5 million. Grants for these amount to $22,250,000. Fifty-three of these projects are under construction, and the remainder either are completed or are awaiting construction cost.

Kentucky also received national recognition this year for providing eight new 200-bed Civil Defense emergency hospitals in strategic locations throughout the state. Four others are scheduled for installation before the end of the year. These hospitals, in addition to use in national emergencies, also are ready to help in local disasters.

Approval of the $176 million bond issue next year, Dr. Teague said, would make available needed funds for construction of three regional health offices at a cost of $694,610 each. It also would help build seven new local health centers at a total cost of $475,000, of which the State share would be $118,500.

Beach Named Commissioner For Banking

Governor Edward T. Breathitt has appointed Beattyville banker G. D. Beach as State Banking Commissioner.

He succeeds the late Hugh A. Rogers who died November 26. Beach, vice president of the Peoples Exchange Bank in Beattyville, was sworn in by Court of Appeals' Chief Justice James B. Milliken. Breathitt said Beach brings to the commission post "a wealth of experience as a bank executive—13 years as vice president, auditor, and cashier."

Beach, 42, is a 1943 graduate of the University of Kentucky. In 1961, he graduated from the School of Banking of the South at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge.

He is a World War II Navy veteran, a past president of the Beattyville Kiwanis Club and of the Lee County Fair Board. He now is chairman of the Lee County Selective Service Board.

As banking commissioner, Beach will head a department which employs about 30 persons. The department is responsible for supervision of nearly 1,000 banks, buildings and loan associations, credit unions, and industrial and small loan companies in Kentucky.

He is married to the former Bettie Ree Shrewsbury of Leitchfield. They have five children: Nancy, 10, James, 9, Julia, 7, Robert, 5, and Mary, 2.

Famed Folk Authority To Write Play

In commemoration of Kentucky Homecoming Year in 1965, a special folk play entitled, "The Charcoal Furnace Story" is planned by Jean Thomas - Ashland's "Traipsin' Woman."

With a cast of over 50 persons, the play—written, produced and directed by 13 year-old Miss Thomas—is set for March 12, 13 and 14 at her museum-home in Ashland.

Noted as its founder and for 34 years director of the American Folk Song Festival, Miss Thomas plans to use Boyd County natives as players and to trace the history of iron making around Ashland for the past 100 years.

Plans for the three days include one day featuring Folk Art and a day of Folk Dancing, Miss Thomas said. She urged all Kentuckians returning to the Commonwealth during this period of the Homecoming Year to see the play.

Over the week end we have had all kinds of wintry weather, from rain, mist, drizzle to freezing rain followed by snow. Our lines, both light and telephone, were broken in places. Tree limbs, branches and shrubs are suffering from heavy-laden ice. We hope for sunshine soon to melt and relieve this situation.

IN MOTHER'S FOOTSTEPS

What joy in life is seen in those eyes. That smile is given freely to everyone. Now look at them both. Which one am I talking about? Aren't they both the same? No, she's not an exact, carbon copy, of her mother — for when you look again, you see that there is a generation between them. She wears the bright colors in her dress with the cute designs. Her dreams are different than her mothers. She is more outgoing. Yet in the mother you can see a quiet humor and in her closeness to her daughter, a gentle protectiveness. Her mother's dreams are sometimes too ambitious, but in the "Encouragement Department" she works just fine.

There is one dream and ambition they both have, however; and that is to be like our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, and to be of service to the church. Their goodness is of God.

"For the eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open unto their prayers: but the face of the Lord is against them that do evil." 1 Peter 3:12.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

SPORTS FINAL— (Continued From Page One)

home and played host to the Obion Central Rebels.

At the first of the game, the Bulldogs jumped in the lead, then lost it just as quickly. At the end of the first quarter the Bulldogs were losing 16-12. The game went on nip-and-tuck until half time. The Bulldogs seemed to find their mark, but just couldn't make up for the deficit. When Coach Yates' Bulldogs went into the dressing room at half-time, the score was 34-26.

After a spark of enthusiasm given by the coach, the Bulldogs came back on the floor. The third quarter started off with a bang. As the buzzer sounded for the end of the third quarter, the Bulldogs had pulled within five points of their opponents, 47-42.

The start of the final quarter was the heartbreaking one. The Bulldogs came within a hair's touch of tying the Rebels. With two minutes to go, Fulton trailed by just three points. Fulton could not find their mark and so the game ended with the score of 55-52.

The Fulton City Bulldogs haven't been doing so good. They have won just one game and lost six in a row. In Saturday night's game Greg Williamson took honors for Fulton with 17 points.

In the last two minutes of play in Saturday's game, the Bulldogs shot 8 times, but failed to score. The Rebels shot once, but failed. Fulton hit 40 percent at the charity lane for four out of ten. I surely do want to wish Coach Yates and his staff a lot of luck in the coming games. Maybe the Bulldogs will hit a winning streak—who knows? I surely hope so. Next week the Bulldogs journey to Lowes for a Saturday night game, and play host to the Carlisle County Comets Friday. This twin bill should be very exciting.
