McCracken and Graves Hit By Flu Epidemic

Absenteeism Up At Factories and Most of Schools

FEWER CASES HERE

Graves and McCracken counties evidently have been affected most by the influenza epidemic sweeping the state and a large part of the nation. Increased absenteeism from Mayfield and Paducah schools and factories has been reported all week, with no immediate prospect of a change, according to the Mayfield Messenger and the Paducah Sun-Democrat.

While there are more cases of influenza than usual in Fulton county at present, schools and the county health office report that the disease has by no means reached epidemic proportions here.

At Fulton high school, for example, attendance today was about 90 per cent, only slightly below average.

The health department believes that the vaccination program conducted in the schools last September is responsible in part for the lowered incidence of influenza and other respiratory diseases in Fulton county, as compared with other sections of the Purchase. Influenza, pneumonia and cold shots were given at Cayce, Crutcheff, Logsdon and Fulton schools as a public service of the health department.

In Graves county, school officials estimate that 80 per cent of students in the county schools and 35 per cent in Mayfield schools were absent this week. The Merit Clothing Co., reported 110 employees were absent Tuesday and Wednesday, and the Currier Clothing Co. said 60 employees did not report for work yesterday.

"The flu epidemic in McCracken county is not confined to schools," the Sun-Democrat said this morning. "Illness among adults, particularly in the south and west sections of the county, is widespread."

His home was at Cottage Grove.

Work To Start On New Industrial Building At MSC

Murray, Ky.—Construction will begin in the near future on a new industrial arts building at Murray State College, according to announcement made by Prof. H. L. Oakley, head of the industrial arts department at the college.

The building will be a single story structure and will house the individual department of industrial arts. Much of the machinery to be used in the building already has been acquired from the War Assets Administration and more has been promised.

It is hoped that the new building will be completed by the beginning of the fall term of school.

Dummit There Only 1 Day Late To Make Speech

Henderson, Ky., March 6—(AP)—A telegram which he said he did not receive was blamed last night by Attorney General Eldon S. Dummit for a mixup which brought him to Henderson to speak to the Junior Chamber of Commerce after the Junior Chamber held its banquet the previous night.

Cove Heilbroner, chairman of the Junior Chamber's Banquet Committee, said Dummit had been asked to appear before the group on March 4. Dummit replied he would not be available until the 5th, which date was then confirmed by Heilbroner.

Later, however, Heilbroner said he wired Dummit, cancelling the March 5 date.

Dummit said he did not receive the cancellation telegram, and motored here from Frankfort yesterday, only to find he had made the trip for nothing.

Truman Calls On U. S. To Lead In Reducing Trade Barriers

Waco, Tex., March 6—(AP)—President Truman, calling for a reduction of world trade barriers, declared today the United States "can lead the nations to economic peace or we can plunge them into economic war."

The president, en route home from a three-day goodwill visit to Mexico, stopped here to receive an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Baylor University. In an acceptance speech devoted entirely to the need for freer world trade, he:

1—Reaffirmed his faith in the reciprocal trade act which has been under attack by some Republicans in congress.

2—Struck out at those who would return to high tariffs and "economic isolation."

3—Welcomed continuation of bi-partisan support for a foreign policy which calls for cooperation in the economic as well as the political field.

4—Asserted that the alternative to "regimentation" of international commerce is the world trade charter to be considered by 18 nations at Geneva next month. The proposed International Trade Organization, he said, would apply to commercial relationships "the same principle of fair dealing that the United Nations is applying to political affairs."

(Mr. Truman made no reference in his remarks to Greece's appeal, with support from Britain, for American economic aid. Last Tuesday, Secretary of State Marshall termed the threatened collapse of the Greek economy a matter of "primary importance" to the United States. He said details of action proposed would be announced by the President.)

Must Not Fail
"The negotiations at Geneva must not fail," he declared. He termed the United States today "the giant of the economic world," and added:

"Whether we like it or not, the future pattern of economic relations depends upon us. The world is waiting and watching to see what we shall do. The

Brockwell Rites Are Conducted

Infant Daughter Of Mr. And Mrs. M. C. Brockwell Died at Louisville, Mar. 4

Funeral services for Evelyn Brockwell, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Brockwell, were conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Hornbeak Funeral Home with Bro. Charles Houser of the Church of Christ officiating. Burial at Rock Springs cemetery, a Hornbeak's in charge.

The little girl died Tuesday, March 4, in a Louisville hospital following several weeks' illness. The baby was born Oct. 17, 1946, and had been in ill health most of her life.

In addition to her parents, she leaves her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Doughty of Fulton and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brockwell of McConnell, Tenn.; eight aunts, of Fulton, and one aunt, Miss Eva Nell Brockwell of Chicago, Ill.; eight uncles, of Fulton, and numerous cousins.

INDICTED

Cambridge, Mass., March 6—(AP)—Robert L. Coombes, 17, above, sex offender of record, was indicted for first degree murder today in the brutal slaying of 11-year-old Jacqueline Maxwell of Malden.

A Middlesex county grand jury heard only two witnesses and deliberated only half an hour before returning the indictment.

Young Coombes will be arraigned tomorrow morning at about the time the little victim's funeral procession will pass the State House, in Boston, routed there to call legislators attention to alleged weakness in laws relating to sex offenders.

Cub Scout Den Is Organized

Officers Are Elected; Boys Meet In Home Of Den Mother, Mrs. McCree

Cub Scout Den No. 7 was organized Wednesday evening, March 5, at 3 o'clock at the home of the den mother, Mrs. J. L. McCree. The Den Chief, Hal Wiseman, conducted an election by secret ballot. Jimmy Whitnell was elected Denner, Johnny Thompson, assistant Denner, Glenn Omar, reader of the book, and Gordon Wade, assistant reader. The Den Chief then gave the boys a "pep talk."

Members are: Jimmy Whitnell, Gordon Wade, Charles Sanders, Veron McCree, Glenn Omar, and Johnny Thompson. After the election, the boys enjoyed a moving picture shown at the home. Refreshments were served to the members and four visitors, Mrs. Ernest Cardwell and son, Richard, Eddie Moore, and Arleigh McCree.

Can't Buy License For Slot Machine, Handbook

Frankfort, Ky., March 6—(AP)—Declaring a city can not license that which is illegal, Attorney General Eldon S. Dummit yesterday said the city of Newport can not license slot machines and handbooks.

New Fuel Crisis In British Isles

London, March 6—(AP)—A new fuel crisis threatened storm-battered Britain today. Ice and mountainous snows knotted the nation's transportation system and slashed critically needed coal production. The Daily Herald, organ of the ruling Labor party, forecast "further checks" on fuel-short industry unless coal stocks get through.

A two day blizzard that died out last night had blocked 120 highways, stopped all movement on forty branchlines of the Great Western railway line, and entirely isolated thirty-three South Wales mines, which went out of production. Attendance at other mines there and in the Midlands was cut by 50 percent.

NLRB Head Fears New Labor Laws Would Cause More Strikes

Washington, March 6—(AP)—Chairman Paul M. Herzog of the National Labor Relations Board told Congress today he thought it would bring on strike, rather than reducing their number. If it enacts most of the new labor laws suggested to it.

Cutting down on industrial strife is the declared aim of the proposed change in labor laws on which House and Senate labor committees have been holding hearings for weeks.

Herzog testified before the Senate group. The House committee heard Herman W. Steinkraus of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce ask revision of the Wagner Labor Relations Act so that employers won't be worried with "overnight" changes of NLRB policy.

While the labor debate went on, other committees were busy with many subjects. Secretary of War Patterson, testifying before the House Commerce Committee, urged that Congress create a national science foundation to direct basic research. The committee is studying several differing bills which would do this.

James H. Marshall of the Agriculture Department's sugar branch told the House Banking Committee that sugar rationing and price control should be continued another year if "runaway" prices are to be avoided. This committee handles price control legislation.

The Senate Banking Committee, plunging into the shortage of newsprint, received a report from Charles F. Brannan, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, that prospects are "highly favorable for early establishment of one or more pulp and paper enterprises in Alaska."

2 Governors Back In Court

Talmadge and Thompson Agree To Accept Decision Of State's High Tribunal

Atlanta, March 6—(AP)—Oral arguments opened in Georgia's Supreme Court today on the rival claims of Herman Talmadge and M. E. Thompson to the governorship. A decision is expected within 10 days.

Both claimants have agreed to abide by the decision, which will be unprecedented in the 101 years of the court's existence. Opening the argument in Talmadge's behalf, Attorney B. D. Murphy said the legislature had stepped in as rightful representatives of the people when it elected Talmadge governor Jan. 15 to serve the term to which his father, Eugene, was elected. The elder Talmadge died three weeks before his scheduled inauguration.

Lieut. Gov. Thompson, who claims he succeeded to the governorship when Former Governor Ellis Arnall resigned, listened attentively as the argument started. Talmadge was not in the courtroom. The hearing will be concluded this afternoon.

Before the tribunal are two lower court rulings upholding the legality of the legislative election of Talmadge and a third holding Thompson the rightful governor and declaring the legislative action void.

A decision for Talmadge would make him eligible to serve until January, 1951. Should Thompson win the court fight, he would serve as "acting governor" until the election of a governor in the 1948 general election.

Armory Bonds For 9 New Buildings To Be Purchased

Frankfort, Ky., March 6—(AP)—The Kentucky Armory Corporation has agreed to sell up to $2,000,000 in first mortgage bonds to a syndicate of 11 purchasers to finance the building of nine additional armories for the Kentucky National Guard.

In making the announcement yesterday, Adj. Gen. G. H. May said bids for an armory at Owensboro have already been called for. He added that armories are planned also at Paducah, Ashland, Madisonville, Barbourville, Somerset, Mayesville, Danville, Elizabethtown and other sites as long as the money holds out.

Ruling Gives Pres. Truman Major Victory

UNION FINE CUT

Washington, March 6—(AP)—The Supreme Court upheld 7 to 2 today the contempt convictions of John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers for refusing to call off their soft coal strike last November.

In an extraordinary midweek ruling that caught the nation by surprise, the high court, in effect gave the Truman administration a smashing victory in its titanic struggle with Lewis and his miners.

There was no immediate reaction from Lewis. John F. Buzarelli, District 5 secretary of the union said at Pittsburgh, however:

"They gave labor a rotten deal. Miners in the field appeared surprised by the decision. Herman Capelle, employed at a mine near Pittsburgh, said:

"I think it's unfair. I hope it doesn't result in a strike." The high tribunal ordered the $3,500,000 fine against the union cut to $700,000, but threatened to raise it back to the higher figure unless the miners show complete compliance with the lower court's no-strike order within five days.

The $10,000 fine against Lewis himself was affirmed without change. The court's order means that Lewis must withdraw the contract termination, notice sent Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug last November. It was the government's contention that the contract runs throughout the period of government operation. This period must end by law on June 30.

When he sent the miners back to work pending a Supreme Court ruling, Lewis set April 1 as the end of the work period.

Of Major Importance
From the standpoint of legal history, the court's decision is one of its major rulings on labor laws and the constitution. These issues were so basic that the CIO and AFL had intervened and argued in the case.

The decision held that the Norris-La Guardia act of 1932 did not apply to the government. That act outlawed virtually all court orders against strikes in the case of disputes with private employers.

Much of the legal controversy in the contempt case revolved about the issue of whether it also applied to the government. Here is how it developed:

In May of last year, the government asked U. S. District Judge T. Alan Goldsborough for an order against the "termination," contending the contract stood. Goldsborough issued an order for Lewis to withdraw the "termination" until the courts could decide whether Lewis had the right to end the contract.

Lewis ignored the order and Goldsborough tried him for contempt. Refused to Obey

The penalties grew out of Lewis' refusal to obey a court order to send his miners back to work during last November's soft coal strike.

The supreme court's long-awaited decision was announced as the court met for a regular argument session. Ordinarily, the highest tribunal announces decisions only on Monday.

Chief Justice Vinson delivered the opinion of the majority. Justices Murphy and Rutledge wrote dissenting opinions.

Justice Frankfurter wrote a concurring opinion. Justices Black and Douglas each wrote an opinion in which they concurred in part and dissented in part.

German Treaty A Stumbling Block

By Dewitt MacKenzie,
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Secretary of State Marshall—now enroute to Moscow—has expressed doubt that the foreign ministers of France, Britain, Russia and America can write a German treaty at their forthcoming conference in the Soviet capital, because the Big Four still are in disagreement on fundamentals.

That's a disquieting (though not surprising) preview, because the rehabilitation of chaotic Europe hangs on the early conclusion of a constructive German treaty. We can go further and say that peace itself is largely dependent on how quickly and how well the Big Four deal with the now broken nation which but a brief time ago was the dominant power of continental Europe—economically and militarily.

Of course we should recognize that, as General Marshall says, the negotiations will be "extremely difficult." While the world is teeming anxious for the conclusion of a German pact, it doesn't wish to see a treaty which is the product of impetuosity. We want one which will put Germany on her feet economically while rendering her impotent to wage war—which will establish a democratic government that will preclude the rise of Nazism and Prussianism again.

However, there is a point at which tactics of delay become deliberate obstruction. Anxiety over the Moscow conference revolves about this truth. Therefore we are justified in believing that the conference will produce a tabling of the cards to see who wants what—to see if there is anyone who doesn't want a quick settlement of Europe's crisis and a return of peace and plenty.

Undue obstruction by any power or powers at that conference would demonstrate a desire for continued disorganization. It would be a tacit admission that the obstructionists expected to profit in some way from the chaos.

Knotty differences of opinion naturally must be expected and there will have to be compromises, but it won't be difficult to differentiate between honest objections and deliberate obstruction. So we may at least expect the Moscow conference to disclose how the land lies. It will tell whether there is a real desire for a constructive peace shorn of any selfish interests.

The difficulties facing the four foreign ministers are clearly shown by the fact that the deputy foreign ministers labored for weeks in London without being able to get anywhere with preparations for the German treaty. However, they did make progress in drawing up a pact for Austria, and General Marshall expresses hope that the Austrian agreement may be written in Moscow.

One of the toughest problems the Moscow parley will face is what form of government Germany shall have. The United States, Britain and France favor a federation of German states, with a government of limited power. Russian, on the other hand, wants a strong central government.

Perhaps it is too much to expect that the Moscow conference will be able to iron out all the differences so that a treaty can be signed at the conclusion of this session. It may easily be that another conference will have to be held to complete the work. That needn't cause anxiety, however, so long as the tabling of the cards shows a real desire to get ahead with the job of putting Europe on its feet.

America—A "Have Not" Nation

A speaker at the Rotary Club Tuesday brought a fine message. He reviewed briefly the lives of Thomas Edison, Abraham Lincoln and George Washington, and from their lives drew the picture of America as a land of opportunity for all, regardless of station in life. America is truly the land of opportunity. It is also comparatively the land of plenty. America is, indeed, a rich and prosperous land.

Yet, did you know that America is still a "have not" nation?

About 31% of America's homes lack running water. In short, more than 10,000,000 dwelling units are not equipped with modern plumbing facilities. And that's not all: Over 9,000,000 homes in the United States have no refrigeration; 19,000,000 homes do not have the warmth and comfort of a central heating system.

Nearly 43% of America's homes lack private bath or shower. That means approximately 18,000,000 families do not have what is considered a basic necessity of American good living. In addition, there are 14,000,000 homes which are without flush toilet facilities. Surveys show that 9,800,000 homes have only three rooms or less.

Over 21% of America's homes lack electricity. It is estimated that more than 8,000,000 families do not enjoy the modern convenience for appliances which use electricity; approximately 2,000,000 refrigerators, 2,000,000 washing machines, 750,000 electric ranges.

Most of America today lacks consumer goods. The accumulated demand for many of the things America wants can only be satisfied by producing more goods with modern, new machines. New methods, new efficiency plus modern new machine tools have created production miracles in the past, and are now ready to meet America's needs today—and tomorrow.

How can America get what it needs? The answer is more production. No matter what America's needs may be, they can be met by the efficient use of production machines. By producing more, prices may be lowered and demand will be increased because more people are able to buy. America's industrial output of goods per man-hour rises at the rate of 50% every 10 years; a man's productivity is no longer measured by the clock, but rather by the capacity and efficiency of the machine he operates. This is the formula for more jobs, high wages, high standards of living. It's the formula which keeps America busy.

The above statements and figures were startling to us. They were used, together with pictures, in an advertisement of Kearney & Trecker Corporation in the current issue of Fortune Magazine, and therefore we feel certain they are exact.

We got three main thoughts from the figures: (1) Despite the boasted high standard of living of American people, there is still much needed before all the people enjoy the conveniences and many of the necessities of life; (2) there is no need for a depression or recession or hard-times or unemployment in America so long as America is a "have not" nation; and (3) the business man, the merchant, has a wide field in which to operate, in which to sell all that he can buy, and the merchant who knows the needs and gets the goods to fill the needs and lets the people know by proper advertising will succeed, while the merchant who does not do so will cry out "hard times" in the days ahead. It pays to advertise. There is no lack of market.

America is the land of opportunity but it is the wise, energetic person who seizes opportunity and makes a success of life. The same America which produced Edison, Lincoln and Washington has also produced failures, whose names we do not remember. Be wise, advertise. (Lauderdale County Enterprise, Ripley, Tenn.)

With The Homemakers

Cayce Homemakers Have

Regular Meeting

The Cayce Homemakers Club met Feb. 26 at 10:30 a. m. at the home of Mrs. W. C. Sowell. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. W. B. Sowell. A poem, "The Builder," was read by Mrs. Chester Wade. The devotionals were given by Mrs. W. C. Sowell.

The roll call was answered with new ways the members had learned to prepare everyday foods. The minutes were read by the secretary and the treasurer's report was given.

The hooked rugs were displayed, and everyone is enjoying making them.

Mrs. James McMurtry, Mrs. Walter Mayes and Mrs. Delcie Bonduant were asked to take charge of the DDT spraying in the homes of the community. The agency's suggestions on spraying techniques were very interesting as the styles are changing.

At noon lunch was served, consisting of the menu given by the foods leaders, Mrs. Alner Campbell and Mrs. Chester Wade.

The rocking chair tour on "Health in Kentucky" was given by Mrs. Lyle Shuck. Mrs. Chester Wade, recreational leader, held a contest naming the nicknames of states. Three songs were sung, "Morning Comes Early," "Waltzing Matilda," and "The Homemakers' Song."

The next meeting will be held on March 26 at 10:30 a. m. with Mrs. Alner Campbell with a pot luck lunch. There were 16 members, five visitors and one new member present.

Purchase District Meeting March 8

A program planning meeting of the Purchase District Homemakers will be held at Mayfield March 8. Those who will attend from this county will be Mrs. Billie McGehee, county Homemakers president; Mrs. Morgan Davidson, district publicity chairman; and Mrs. Margaret Adams, home demonstration agent.

Home agents of counties in the district, district chairmen of speakers bureau, reading and citizenship will be present.

Those from the extension service who will attend the meeting are Miss Myrtle Weldon, state leader of agents; Miss Zelma Monroe, assistant state leader of agents; and Miss Corinne Johnson, public relations.

The program for the annual district meeting to be held in the spring will be planned. Mrs. P. A. Jones, district director, will preside at the meeting.

Slight Difference

Louisville, Ky. (AP)—A police cruiser halted at an intersection here to await a signal change.

A man with a glassy look in his eye opened the door of the car and stepped in.

"Fourth and Magnolia," he said, settling down on the seat. "You mean Sixth and Jefferson (that's the jail)," said Traffic Patrolman Robert Hardin.

In police court, the defendant was placed under peace bond and told to learn the difference between a taxicab and a police car.

Factory Wall Collapses At Height Of Fire

The walls of this factory collapsed at the height of a fire which raged out of control for more than an hour at Westboro, Mass. Firemen from communities as far as 20 miles away, finally brought the flames under control. Fire Chief George F. Higgins estimated the loss between $300,000 and $400,000. Wall of adjoining house burns.

GIVE—so your RED CROSS can carry on!

Your money donated to the Red Cross cannot go wrong. Give generously. We in Fulton now share our full measure of prosperity. There are others less fortunate—and sudden disaster may strike in any community. At such a time it is good to know that the "greatest mother of them all," the American Red Cross, is there. By your contributions you become a part of the goodness of mankind. Don't pass up this golden opportunity to share your good fortune with others. Give your money and forget it. In the hands of the American Red Cross it will be spent where it will do the most good.

Ted Arrives; Sox Can Start

Splendid Splinter Late, As Usual, Hours After Workout at Sarasota, Fla.

Sarasota, Fla., March 6—(AP)—Ted Williams pulled his new car to a screaming stop and stepped out into the bright sunshine. The Boston Red Sox officially had opened spring training.

Lean and tan after two months fishing in the Everglades, Slim Teddy held court in a sidewalk interview. Twisting turning his head and craning his neck like a schoolboy, the slinger answered the queries of newsmen who had been awaiting his arrival.

In keeping with a quaint William custom, Teddy arrived late yesterday afternoon, hours after the regular workout and three days after the rest of the team reported. He mumbled something about being caught in the heavy traffic and visiting a reptile farm but nobody paid much attention. The team had arrived. "Are you going to try hitting to left field this year?" A reporter asked.

"I'm not going to change my style," the Splendid Splinter replied as he eased into a pair of knee length wellen socks. "It all depends on what they do to me. If they pile too many men into right field, I'll have to do something."

"I think the club agrees with me that I am most valuable hitting that home run when I can. It means the ball game for me to hit for the homer, that's what I'm going to try to do. I think I owe it to the club."

"I know one thing for sure. I'm going to get into shape gradually this year. Last spring I tried to throw too hard early. As a result I had a sore arm from the second day of spring training through the end of the World Series."

"It says here this is the last day to apply for retroactive death benefits," he told center manager Mrs. Ida Campbell.

Mrs. Campbell explained: "You have to be dead to get that."

"Well, I didn't know what those big words meant," the veteran declared. "Just wanted to be certain."

Question: What is the purpose of the open hearings being held for business men by the American delegation to the International Trade Organization?

Answer: The American representatives on the ITO wish to get the viewpoint of American businessmen to assist them in planning for the meeting of the Preparatory Commission of the ITO in Geneva on April 8. Hearings begun in New York, will also be held in 6 other large American cities. The ITO has been set up to reduce trade barriers, curb cartel and monopolistic restrictions; and to guide intergovernmental commodity arrangements.

Question: What has the Security Council done about the British-Albanian dispute?

Answer: It has named the representatives of Australia, Colombia and Poland to hear evidence in the case and report back to the Security Council.

Question: What will be the primary work of the Economic and Social Council at its current session?

Answer: The Council, meeting in its fourth session, has as its most important job the setting up of two economic commissions to help reconstruct the shattered economies of the European and Asiatic nations. It will also consider reports of commissions, such as the Commission on the Status of Women, which have been meeting the past several weeks.

Question: Who will represent the United States on the UN Conventional Armaments Commission?

Answer: Warren Austin, our Security Council and Atomic Energy Commission representative, has been named by President Truman to the Armaments Commission. This Commission will consider all weapons of destruction except the atom bomb.

Preview of next week's disaster

Maybe it won't be a tornado killing and maiming men and women—and children.

Maybe it will be the devastation of a flood. Or the destruction of a hurricane, or a fire. Or the sweeping scourge of an epidemic.

But one thing can be foreseen in the disaster that will strike every week of the year somewhere in our nation—

Your Red Cross will be on the job!

In this year of peace, as in war, your American Red Cross stands ready to supply those in need with emergency hospital care, food, shelter, clothing, and rehabilitation. All this and more to stricken human beings—regardless of race, creed or color.

It's what you're giving for—when you give to your Red Cross.

GIVE—so your RED CROSS can carry on!

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.
New York, March 6.—(AP)—The folks who are running the pro basketball season of America should be given credit for "taking it" gracefully—the league figures to lose a half million dollars this season but they're willing to charge that off to "creating interest"—the BBA folks even grin because they're doing better than the college doubleheaders in Philadelphia and the New York Knickerbockers have a chance to finish in the black if they only charge off a moderate part of the cost of remodeling their armory home court—other BBA items: Washington's Bob Feerick, who came from Santa Clara via the Norfolk Naval Station Team, has the remarkable record of sinking 39.4 percent of his field goal attempts—277 out of 703 shots. Philly's high scoring Joe Fuels has made only 30.5 percent.

COINCIDENCE CORNER
When infielder Dick Adams, now with the Athletics, was playing for Fresno, Calif., back in 1941 he made six hits in six trips to the plate one night—moderately, he wrote about it to his brother Bob, now of the Reds, who then was performing for Columbia, S. C.—a few days later Dick got a reply. On the same night, Bob had made six-for-six for Columbia.

SPORTS BEFORE YOUR EYES
Parson Gil Dods plans to run the Brennan-Columbian mile in the K. of C. track meet Saturday and then start the two-mile race an hour later—why doesn't he just keep going?—The U. of California will open its baseball season Saturday with the traditional "hot stove" luncheon and a ball game against an Alumni team composed mostly of pro players—George Shuba, up for a second trial with Montreal this spring, made only 11 hits in last season's stay with the Royals, but seven were home runs.

Cunningham, Fulham Win In Tournament

Defeat Cayce and Western Teams to Reach Semi-finals
2 GAMES TONIGHT

Cunningham and Fulham advanced a notch in the First District basketball tournament at Arlington last night with wins over Cayce, 48-38, and Western, 35-30, respectively.

Tonight's card pits Arlington vs. Bardwell at 7:30 and Millburn vs. Clinton in the second game. Semi-finals will be played Friday evening, with the championship tilt at 8 o'clock Saturday night.

The Cunningham team overcame a 14-12 lead the Cayce lads enjoyed in the first quarter and moved to a 30-19 majority at the half. They scored 9 points for 8 by their opponents in the third period.

Western United Fulham 6-18, 13-22, and 26-22 after quarters in the second game last night. A last-quarter spurt came too late to change the outcome in favor of the Fulham team.

NATION ON MARCH 3 OBSERVES 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL, INVENTOR OF THE TELEPHONE

Industry Founded On His Idea Links People of World

On March 3, Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephone, would have been 100 years old had he lived. Thus his anniversary on that date gives to the year 1947 special interest to all those who use the telephone.

It is hard to realize that today's vast telephone business springs from the genius of one born only a century ago. The world must have been waiting for the telephone, so quickly did it become an integral part of modern life.

Bell, born in Edinburgh, Scotland, came to Canada in 1870 and to the United States two years later, locating in Boston.

He taught at Boston University during the days, was busy nights with wireless telegraphic experiments. While working on these in June of 1875 with Thomas A. Watson, young mechanic employed at the electrical shop where Bell conducted his studies, the inventor discovered quite accidentally a fundamental principle that almost immediately produced a workable telephone. He patented his invention the following March.

In July of 1877 the Bell Telephone Company was formed and the first commercial exchange followed in 1878 at New Haven, Connecticut, serving 8 lines and 21 telephones.

First Five Years Difficult
It wasn't really that simple. The first five years of the telephone's life were difficult ones. The work of how the telephone business solved their problems and went on to build a great communications system is a dramatic story.

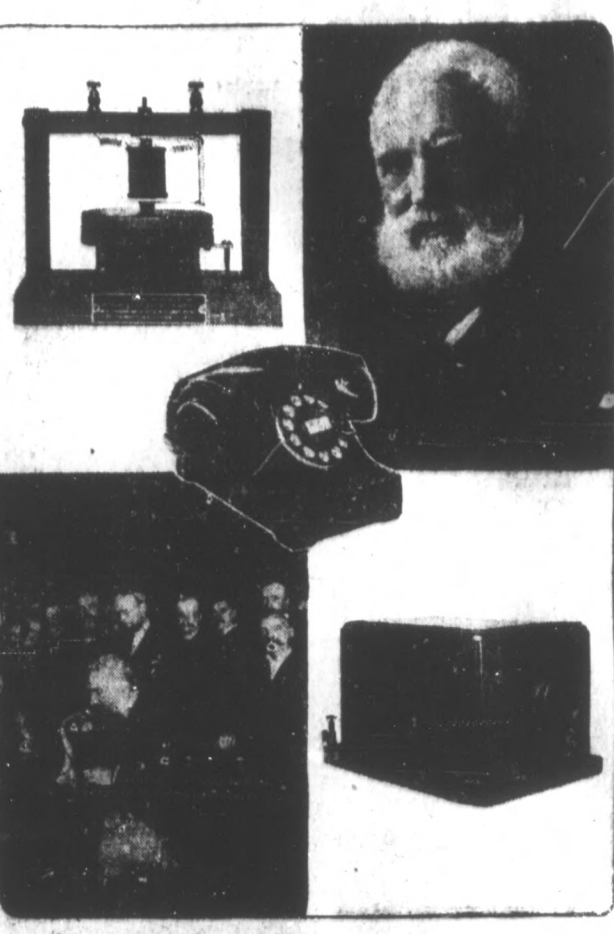

It was a story of waiting for the telephone, a man had been waiting for it for years. The whole of the world was waiting for it. The whole of the world was waiting for it.

Speech and hearing, the two most important of the human body, the whole of the world was waiting for it. The whole of the world was waiting for it.

The boy who was waiting for it in public lectures, in his "audible speech," while his father was at home, his father would have members of the audience to sing songs of praise.

While Mauer was at West Point, his father would have members of the audience to sing songs of praise. Mauer's father would have members of the audience to sing songs of praise.

Like Holcomb, Mauer will also be a member of Earl Blitt's football staff, Jones said.

In the short space of 70 years the telephone has grown from a crude instrument, through which sounds were barely audible, to today's modern telephone system which links together more than 30 million telephones in the United States alone. Shown at upper left above is a view of a replica of the instrument through which speech sounds were first transmitted electrically in 1875. Upper right is a photographic portrait of Alexander Graham Bell as he appeared in later life. Lower left is a photograph of a modern telephone. Lower right is a photograph of a wooden box model of the first commercial telephone which was placed in service in 1877.

man looking for the crying baby. Prepared As Youth

His childhood in youth had helped prepare him to invent the telephone, but Bell's work was no finished when he invented it. He applied his inventive skills in many ways, even to producing an instrument that could locate bullets or other metallic objects in the human body. The whole field of science absorbed him. He did much to promote geographical and astronomical investigations. Thus, although the telephone inven-vention was his great achievement he continued a lively interest in things scientific until the day of his death in 1922 when he was 75 years old.

Since he died the telephone system bearing his name has grown over more vital to the everyday living of everyone. It is a place of work for nearly half a million people. Nearly 700,000 share its ownership. It carries 22,000,000 of the nation's 30,000,000 telephones. Its wires carry the nation's network radio programs. It pioneered in sound moving pictures and television.

First game on this afternoon's card at 1:30 o'clock (EST) pits Delta State Teachers or Cleveland, Miss., against Wofford College of Spartanburg, S. C. Delta State has a conference record of eight wins and two losses and Wofford has a record of 7-1.

At 3 p.m. Union College of Barbourville, Ky., (10-3) is scheduled to play Tennessee Tech of Cookeville, Tenn. Union holds two regular season wins over Tech.

First game tonight at 7 o'clock throws top seeded Western Kentucky against Northwest Louisiana State of Natchitoches, La., (9-2). At 9 p.m. the College of Charleston, S. C., (6-2) meets the University of Miami, Fla., (5-0). Miami is second seeded in the tournament.

Western won the title for six consecutive years through 1942, when the tournament was suspended because of the war. Western has not met any of the teams in the tournament field this season.

Two games this afternoon and two tonight will complete the first round of play, with winners advancing to Friday night's semi-finals. The championship game will be staged Saturday night, following a consolation.

Sonny Allen Still Leads In Scoring, Put for How Long?

By The Associated Press
Morehead's Sonny Allen today retained his leadership of Kentucky college basketball point-makers with a season's total of 400.

The flashy guard of Morehead State Teachers College has led the scoring parade for weeks now. But his season's play is over, after 30 games. So Sonny has to content himself with sitting back and watching still-active rivals gradually edge nearer his total.

Odie Spears of Western Kentucky Teachers College kept his position as runner-up to Allen. Spears, whose nickname is "Sleepy" but whose eyes are kept under the basket, added 20 points to boost his total to 366 in 26 games. The 20 were made against the touring University of Hawaii cagers last Saturday night at Bowling Green, and Western has more games coming up, starting today in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association tourney at Western.

The University of Kentucky's sparkling little guard, Ralph Beard, took advantage of the opportunity in the Southeastern Conference tournament to pass his teammate, Center Alek Groza. Beard now has scored 360 points to Groza's 347. Each has participated in 33 games.

College Tourney Team Picking At The Halfway Point

New York, March 6.—(AP)—Selection of teams for two of the major post-season college basketball tournaments stood at the halfway point today as the fields for the N. C. A. A. and National Invitation playoffs in Madison Square Garden began to shape up.

The National collegiate brackets now contain four teams, with Holy Cross and Navy lined up for the eastern eliminations and Wyoming and Texas for the western. Naming of two more teams in the east and two in the west will complete the picture.

For the eight-team invitation, Kentucky, West Virginia and Duquesne are in, with Utah virtually certain to be named the fourth member. Asa Bushnell, NIT selection committee chairman, does nothing more than admit the Utah "have a good record" and are in the running, although it is known the westerners have received a feller.
