Judge Juggles A Hot Potato

Brady Stewart, Paducah, Says He'll Quit Post As Liquor Administrator

Paducah, Ky., March 7.—(AP)—County Judge Brady M. Stewart says Paducah's city administration "is trying to throw a hot potato in my lap"—the task of administering liquor laws in the city.

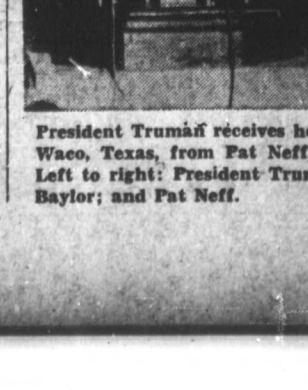

But, the McCracken County Judge declares, he isn't going to let the "potato" smother him. He'll resign such duties, instead, he adds. Judge Stewart has been administering liquor laws without pay in the McCracken county territory outside Paducah's city limits.

The problem arose when City Manager Charles A. Williams recommended abolition of the post of city alcoholic beverage administrator. Williams said he did so as an economy measure. Three city commissioners said yesterday they intended to vote abolition of the post.

Williams said the city planned to have the police department supervise the liquor establishments in the city and refer cases needing the attention of the administrator to the county judge.

Despite Largest Number On Campus in History, Rooms Available—Wood

Murray, Ky.—Although Murray State has the largest enrollment in its history, the college is assured of rooming facilities for additional students who may desire to enroll for the spring quarter March 17 and 15. President Woods announced today.

March 8 marked the 25th anniversary of the founding of the college, Dr. John W. Carr, president emeritus, has announced Murray State was officially created on March 8, 1922, when the Governor of Kentucky signed the bill authorizing the establishment of the institution.

Since the college first opened its doors in September, 1923, 11,898 students have attended Murray State, Mrs. Cleo Gillis Hester, registrar, revealed today. The present enrollment is 7,539, a figure that has never before been equaled or exceeded at Murray.

The college has issued 2115 bachelor's degrees, of which 12 were granted in the first graduating class of 1926. The largest number of degrees granted in any one year was 178 in 1942. Masters' degrees have been granted each year since 1942. Eighty-seven students were enrolled September, 1943, in the opening session of the college.

Treasury, Post Office Budget Cut By House Committee Today

Washington, March 7.—(AP)—Budget cuts of approximately 34 percent for the Treasury Department and about one percent for the Postoffice Department were voted today by the House Appropriations Committee.

The committee said the reductions were "justified on the basis of evidence submitted to the committee by the various bureau officials, and by other matters coming to its attention."

"On some few appropriations the action may appear drastic, yet it is the committee's view that no reduction has been made which would curtail any vital public service, and such decreases are justified by the insistent demand of the American public for a decided curtailment in the expenditures of the federal government. In order that the stability of our government might not be threatened by a program of fiscal profligacy."

R. Sutherland Rites Sunday

Lexington, Ky., March 7.—(AP)—A Travelers' Aid society worker said last night "we are trying desperately" to find a place for a 42-year-old man described by physicians as in a dying condition from tuberculosis.

Unable to gain entrance to hospitals or sanatoriums, the sufferer remained at the bus station here yesterday under care of his 23-year-old wife.

The society listed the man as John Y. Anderson, formerly of Nicholasville. County Judge W. E. Nichols said Anderson could not be placed in local institutions because he was not a resident of Fayette county and could not pay for private hospitalization.

Some Sign For Operators, UMW Can Agree If U. S. Drops "Blackjack," Lewis Tells Labor Committee

Washington, March 7.—(AP)—John L. Lewis told Congress today the United Mine Workers could settle difficulties with the coal operators if the government would "re-use" using a "blackjack."

"What's the matter with the coal industry? Nothing's the matter except the ill treatment being accorded the employees," the miners' chief told the Senate Labor Committee.

"That ill treatment is a personal matter between the coal operators and the United Mine Workers of America. And the United Mine Workers of America could settle that with the coal operators if the government would cease using a blackjack to beat the miners into submission while the coal operator takes the profits," Lewis asserted.

Most bituminous coal mines have been in government possession since last May 22.

Morton Denies He Has His Eye On Position in Senate

Louisville, Ky., March 7.—(AP)—The Louisville Courier-Journal quoted Rep. Thurston B. Morton in a special Washington dispatch today as saying "I have entertained no ideas about the Senate race in 1950."

The Louisville Times yesterday had quoted GOP leaders as saying the Republican representative will be a candidate in 1950 for the Senate seat now held by Democrat Alben W. Barkley of Paducah. The Times did not name the Republican leader.

The Times added rumors had been heard in Washington that Barkley might not be a candidate for reelection due to his age. He will be 70 Nov. 24.

"My only comment," Morton was quoted by the Courier-Journal dispatch as saying, "is that I have too much to do here to be thinking four years ahead."

Reds Interfere In Hungary

By Dewitt MacKenzie, AP Foreign Affairs Analyst. One of these days this column is going to break into joyous song over some cheerful international event, though it's hard to say when, for the crises continue like a parade of circus elephants clinging to each other's tails.

Among the latest hot developments is the blunt charge by the American government that Russia has caused a political crisis in Hungary by "unjustified interference" in the internal affairs of the Danubian country. This accusation is contained in a sharp note which the U. S. State Department has delivered not only to the Soviet government and its military governor in Budapest, but to Britain and Hungary.

The note cites the arrest of Bela Kovacs, a deputy in the Hungarian Parliament, by Russian occupation forces. Until recently Kovacs was secretary general of the Smev-holders party, the moderate majority group in Parliament, which the Communists and other parties have tried to oust. The Russians alleged that he "actively participated in the formation of subversive and anti-Soviet terror groups."

Washington deems the charges against Kovacs "unwarranted". The note says the effect of this interference in Hungarian affairs "will be to support the efforts of a small group in Hungary to substitute a minority dictatorship for a responsible administration representative of the will of the Hungarian people as expressed in free and untrammelled elections. The United States government is opposed to this attempt to nullify the electoral mandate given by the Hungarian people."

This means that the United States is determined to continue its efforts to protect weak countries in their right of self-determination. Whether it will have better luck in this case than in the Polish elections of January remains to be seen. Poland was moved into the Soviet camp by balloting which both America and Britain repeatedly protested as conducted under coercion that precluded the rightful registration of the anti-

Objection Overruled

Without concerning ourselves in too great detail with all the ramifications of the case of the United States vs. John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers, et al. we feel safe in saying that a sigh of relief was heard over the entire nation yesterday when the Supreme Court handed down its historic decision affirming the previous conviction on a contempt charge for the leader and the union. The dispute is complex in the extreme, and the decision a major and far-reaching one. It boils down, for all practical purposes, to whether one man and one group, however strong, can flout the laws and courts of the United States and jeopardize the welfare of the general public.

The ruling yesterday held that Lewis and the UMW were in contempt of court for refusing to obey an order to go back to work last November. They were in contempt of the American people, also.

Difficult Position

It is unfortunate, in a way, that Margaret Truman aspires to a career as a singer, since she will forever be regarded by many of her listeners as the daughter of a President of the United States, not merely as another singer striving to carve her niche in the musical world. It will be hard to view Miss Truman objectively, as she has requested.

Because of her determination to make good on her own talents, and not by capitalizing on the name of her illustrious father, we wish her every success in her radio debut Sunday evening. But few of us will envy her the task she has set for herself. Her inherited position is a once a help and a hindrance.

Communist vote. The Communist-dominated Polish government replied that the elections were Poland's private affair—and Moscow concurred in this.

A measure of Uncle Sam's determination is seen in the fact that the Hungarian note is issued as Secretary of State Marshall is en route to Moscow to attend the Big Four foreign ministers' conference. Apparently those broad shoulders of the famous soldier are well squared and his head is back.

Some observers foresee a firm American stand at the conference against further extension of Soviet dominance in Europe. Be that as may, it is well to note that a man may have his shoulders squared in determination without having a chip on one of them.

Hungary never has forgotten (or forgiven) her introduction to Communism. That was back in 1918 when the notorious Bela Kun staged his Bolshevik revolt and maintained a terroristic regime for 133 days. More than 1,000 people were executed and there was widespread looting before Romanian troops took a hand, crushing the Red army and forcing Bela Kun to flee.

Hungary's position in the continental setup is highly important. It is the gateway between the Balkans and Central Europe. Cutting the country is the mighty Danube which forms a navigable thoroughfare from the Black Sea clear up to Germany. Budapest not only lies on the Danube but is the hub of a network of railways running in all directions. Thus Hungary is a vital communications center between the Balkan Peninsula and Middle Europe—invaluable not only for the pursuits of peace but in war.

Of course it long has been obvious that Hungary falls within the zone of influence which Russia blocked out for herself at the close of the war. It also is obvious that Hungary is in a difficult position to combat control by Moscow. The adjoining Balkan states of Yugoslavia and Romania are in the Red camp. Hungary herself is occupied by Soviet troops, and other Russian forces are in neighboring Austria.

A showdown right now on the Hungarian issue might have a great effect on the further realignment of Europe.

Are Our Laws Adequate?

Robert L. Coombes, 17, of Cambridge, Mass., has been indicted again, this time for first degree murder, following the sex slaying of an 11-year-old girl.

It is not the first time the boy has been in court. It is not the first time he has been charged with a convicted of sex crimes. He has been in jail before, and had been released. The law said he must be released after serving his sentence, and theoretically paying his debt to society.

The fallacy in this theory is all too painfully evident to the parents of the dead girl, and their tragic loss should set us to thinking seriously about the way sex criminals are handled in our courts.

Pevers such as Coombes, we have been told in recent years, are in a class with alcoholics—they are sick persons who may respond to psychiatric treatment in time, but who will not be cured by imprisonment alone. The discouraging frequency with which this type criminal is arrested again and again for the same type offense seems to bear out this theory.

Perhaps new laws are needed, specifying that persons like Coombes must undergo treatment attempting to correct their mental disorders, after their arrest. Let's cure them if we can, but let's be sure they are entirely and completely cured before we release them into society again.

Some of the current popular songs, when first heard, are so appealing that one is saddened by the certain knowledge that continuous repetition will, within a few short days, make the tune and lyrics completely obnoxious to him.

the government to enact laws to restrain labor and neutralize its strength, they are guilty of the first step toward creating a corporate or absolute state.

"When the right to strike is limited on taken away from the workers in this country, the form of government in America is changed."

The supreme court slapdown of John L. Lewis appeared certain today to preserve peace in the coal fields this spring.

In all probability, the miners will stick to their jobs at least until July 1, when the soft coal operators are due to regain the federally held pits.

Taking advantage of this respite, the government is expected to redouble efforts to get Lewis' United Mine Workers and the operators into wage negotiations in the hope the mid-summer transfer will not bring another shutdown.

The prime consideration is that the precedent-making coal strike case—even though Lewis and his union stand convicted of contempt—is not yet out of the courts.

It is on this fact, the likelihood rests that the 400,000 AFL miners will keep on digging coal for the next three and one-half months.

Wherever members of the armed forces went—from Korea to Cape Horn... to Attu... to Berchtesgaden... to Kunming... to Broadway and 42nd Street—there, too, went Kilroy!

Who was Kilroy?
He could have been a Red Cross worker.
Because they're everywhere... all the time.
Giving aid is their job. No one can tell when or where trouble will stumble into someone's lap... when some human will need help—and need it badly.
A GI desperately needs transportation to the bedside of a stricken mother. That's a job for the Red Cross.
Disaster hits a rural area. Who will meet food and housing needs of the sufferers? The Red Cross.
A wind-whipped fire leaves a tenement section gutted—63 families destitute. Another job for the Red Cross.
Multiply those cases a thousandfold—and you begin to get an idea of the money that's needed... the work that's involved!
The work's ours. The money's yours. Do your part!
