Mrs. Westpheling Enters State Representative's Race

Mrs. Jo Westpheling, a Fulton newspaper editor and former radio station executive and broadcaster, announced today that she will be a candidate for state representative from the First Legislative District, composed of Fulton, Hickman, Carlisle and Ballard Counties.

Mrs. Westpheling will appear on WPSD-TV, (tonight) Thursday, Feb. 4, at 5:25 p. m. and at 10:15 p. m. to speak to the voters in the West Kentucky area she seeks to serve.

Active in state-wide civic affairs and industrial and tourist promotion, she is the wife of Paul Westpheling, publisher of the Fulton News, a past president of the Kentucky Press Association, and one of the 21-member Kentucky Economic Development Commission.

Until her resignation, Mrs. Westpheling was a senior administrative assistant to the Commissioner of Kentucky State Parks. It was largely through her efforts that the amphitheatre was established at Kenlake State Park, with the subsequent production of the historical drama, "Stars In My Crown." Mrs. Westpheling has been director of the drama's publicity and advertising program for the past two years. She will continue her efforts in this field, on a volunteer basis, as first vice-president of the drama association.

Mrs. Westpheling is Chairman of the Fulton County March of Dimes Committee; president of the newly appointed, Fulton Civic Center Authority; secretary of the Fulton Airport Board; a charter organizer of the International Banana Festival Association, and now serving as vice-president of the association; a member of the State Advisory Committee of the National Foundation for the March of Dimes; one of the five-member advisory board of West Kentucky Birth Defects Center of the University of Louisville School of Medicine; president of the Lake-land Region Tourist Council, serving 17 West Kentucky counties, and a member of the Governor's Conference on Tourist and Travel and Safety.

In making her announcement, Mrs. Westpheling said: "Because I have given so much of my time to public service and because I have acquired some valuable experience and knowledge and made many influential friends in the discharge of these efforts, my family and I feel that we have an obligation to the area in which we live, and to ourselves, to employ this experience and call upon these friends to join all of us in the growth and development of this section of Kentucky." One thing is for sure, the last quarter of a century may not have been a bed of roses for dear old Paul, but one thing is for sure, I don't think he can say that it has been a dull life, either. Today, Thursday, February 4, we celebrate our twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. Almost since we celebrated our 24th anniversary last year, I have been talking about having a kind of party; invite some friends to come by on this date. . . in 1965, to toast the silver threads among our tarnishing lives. But the party is off!

You know where we'll be at just about the same time that we said "I do," twenty five years ago? We'll be in the television station in Paducah, taping the formal announcement of my candidacy for state representative for those four west Kentucky counties. Instead of the anniversary walk, moonlight, roses and candlelight, the four of us will be sitting in some Paducah restaurant watching the TV program, which comes on at 5:25 p. m. and 10:15 p. m. tonight, (Thursday, Feb. 4.) If anybody has any extra sedatives, all of us can use them.

The four of us have had some good laughs about how quickly and without another word, we dispensed with the silver wedding anniversary party. It all happened about two weeks ago!

I had been in Frankfort and was driving home on the West Kentucky Parkway, rushing to get home before the predicted bad weather caught up with me. Well, it was raining all the way, and when you're driving on that parkway you can't do much else but hold the wheel and think, think, think, to your heart's content.

I thought of all the progress that has been made in some fields in West Kentucky and how much more is needed to be done and I said, to myself: "I believe that if I could get elected to the General Assembly I could work like mad to try to get them." That was Friday night.

The next morning I brought Paul a cup of coffee to his bed. Knowing me, he surely knew that something was cooking with all that fine treatment, 'cause it wasn't even Christmas or his birthday. After the first sip I said: "Paul I've resigned from the Department of Parks." He said: "Good!" After the second sip I said: "I'd like to run for State representative!" And he said: "Good!"

And then I said, "Is that all the comment you have to make?" and he said: "R. Paul is going to college this Fall, we've got everything in ship-shape here and at the office, and I think it's a good idea. If you work hard and make a good clean race, and don't get your feelings hurt, you have a good chance to win, and I know you'll do a mighty good job."

At breakfast that same day we had a family conference and the children thought the idea superior. . . even Mary Jo, who is certainly not as enthusiastic about the political arena as R. Paul is. When we talked about all the things that could become campaign issues, we decided that one was the fact that (Continued on page four)

State Offices Set Up At Benton Next Week

For the ninth time since he became Governor 14 months ago, Edward T. Breathitt will set up a temporary office away from the Capitol — this time at Benton February 9.

The Governor's office there will be set up in the judge's office of the Marshall County courthouse and will open at 8:30 (C. S. T.).

Purpose of these visits is to give the Governor and key members of his staff a chance to observe community and area problems on the local level and to visit with citizens who would not have a chance to come to Frankfort.

Accompanying the Governor on his Benton trip will be members of his staff and representatives of the departments of public information, parks, highways, economic security, and corrections.

Speeches by the Governor are scheduled at North and South Marshall and Benton high schools during the afternoon. He also will speak at a luncheon planned by the local Governor's Day Committee at the Community Building.

Another luncheon speaker will be

Dr. Ray Mofield, Benton resident and assistant to the president at nearby Murray State College. Mofield will review progress in Benton and Marshall Counties and project plans into the future.

Governor Breathitt previously has taken the State Capitol for a day to Hopkinsville, Cynthia, Greensburg, Leitchfield, Paducah, Hyden, Cadiz, and Inez.

Banana Festival Work, Membership Gains Bring State-wide Honor To B&PW Group

For the outstanding effort put forth by the Fulton and South Fulton Business and Professional Women's Club in both Banana Festivals, the local group was spotlighted at the recent State Board meeting as the "outstanding club in the First District." Mrs. Ramelle Pigue, who attended the meeting in Louisville told the group at the meeting Tuesday night, "I only wish all of you could have been there to accept the honor with me. I have never been as proud of my community and our club as I was when the large audience gave us a big hand for the things we have done here."

But the activities in the Banana Festival were not the only reasons why the local club was selected as "outstanding." Strides in membership, attendance at district and state meetings and attendance at regular meetings were among the other considerations viewed for the local honor.

Meeting at the Traveler's Inn, about 40 members enjoyed an enthusiastic talk by Gaynelle Stum, the state membership chairman. Mrs. Stum was high in her praise of the local club's efforts to increase its membership. Of the three five-star club members in the district, Fulton has two of them. The distinction comes as a result of procuring memberships on the part of the individual members. Mrs. Pigue and Mrs. Ruth Scott are the local group's five-star members. Mrs.

Scott is also membership chairman of the local club. She was in charge of Tuesday's meeting. An impressive initiation ceremony was conducted by Mrs. Pigue and Mrs. Stum recognizing these new members: Boots Adams, Polly Beggs, Ada Belle Counce, Emily Dame, Dorothy Douglas, Margaret Henley, Mignon McKendree, Mary Morris, Lillian Ruddle, Bill Spraberry, Montelle Tripp, and Gussie Vincent.

Mrs. Nelson Tripp, delighted the audience with a musical program on the auto-harp. Mrs. Pigue called upon Mrs. Paul Westpheling, a club member, to give a report on the Banana Festival and to inform the club of her intention to seek the office of state representative from Fulton, Hickman, Carlisle and Ballard counties. The members pledged their individual support to Mrs. Westpheling's candidacy and offered their assistance in her forthcoming campaign.

Mrs. Camille Glenn, Noted Food Editor, News Writer

Beginning with this issue, the Fulton News will publish a food column each week, written by Camille Glenn of Louisville. Mrs. Glenn is probably Kentucky's most outstanding cook and gourmet.

Camille has her own school of gourmet cooking in Louisville. Her column is not only a source of excellent recipes but she teaches you "how" to cook. The How's and Why's are stressed. Camille says, "One must know how good food should look and taste in order to achieve it." Camille was the originator of the television program in the Louisville area; "Flavor to Taste."

Most of the columns will be entitled "I Want A Recipe" and will be of recipes that have been prepared and tested, and will appeal to almost every cook.

In all phases of cooking, Camille has had an unusually wide experience. She has taken an academic interest in this field, she says that she is indebted most of all to her mother, whose flair for cooking and the arts was inborn.

Her interesting family was addicted to delicious food and how to cook it. They were good humored and given to concern for each other. Camille says, "There was not one in my intimate family group who did not believe that life was good. If there was any beauty around, they saw it. All of this, as is usually the case, contributed to a feeling of good will and kindness toward others - and a good appetite."

She is married to Martin R. Glenn, a Louisville attorney, and they have two daughters - Camille, (Continued on Page Three)

Candid Camera Review of 1964 Banana Festival To Be Premiered On March 2

Would you like to see yourself in the movies? If you do you're going to get an opportunity to do so on Tuesday, March 2, when the International Banana Festival Association presents a 90-minute program at the Fulton Theatre, showing hundreds of feet of film taken by CBS, NBC, The Kentucky Department of Public Information and individual photographers during last year's giant Festival. In addition to that, dozens and dozens of color slides, also taken during the 1964 Festival, will be put on the movie screen so many Fultonians and area residents may view themselves as potential movie celebrities.

Showing of the Banana Festival films will not be the only attraction at the interesting program sponsored for the benefit of the Banana Festival Association. In addition, some of the most highly-rated talent groups in West Kentucky and Tennessee will appear on the stage, to add glamour to the premiere showing of the 1964 Banana Festival Candid Camera Review. With all the exciting plans being made for the BIG SHOW, there's only one distressing note that enters into the spectacular event . . . ONLY 700 TICKETS CAN BE SOLD TO THE SHOW, because that is the full capacity of the Fulton Theatre.

Tickets for the event will go on sale this week-end. A preview of the films reveal that hundreds, maybe thousands, of persons can be seen clearly at the various events, so if you're a smart "first-nighter" the thing to do is to buy your tickets at $2.00 each, from any member of the Banana Festival board, or from Mrs. Cavita Olive at the Chamber of Commerce office. If all tickets are not sold by February 20, the remaining few will be put on sale in downtown areas.

Shortly after the Festival last year, local officials called for all movie films taken by local people during the three-day celebration. Many of the films are clear and professionally done. Through the courtesy of the Kentucky Department of Information, all the films were edited and put into a cohesive story. The thousands of feet of film taken by the national TV networks have been secured, and it is an interesting and fascinating story that the film tells.

Plans are in the making to have the showing take on the aspects of a Broadway first night. Invitations are being sent to local and state dignitaries to attend the showing.

The colorful array of marching bands, the Banana Olympics, the talent show, the banana box derby, the beauty pageants and other Festival events were captured in all their interesting color by professional and non-professional photographers. The beauty of it all will give a warm lift to this unusually cold weather that has abounded in these parts this winter.

Although ticket sales will start this week, there appears to be an early demand for them. Festival officials suggest that purchases be made early, for when the 700 are sold, of necessity, the sales must stop.

Remember the date . . . March 2. And like all such glamorous events the curtain time is eight o'clock p. m.

Greer Named To Manage New Hirsch Store

LINDELL GREER

Lindell Greer has been named to manage the new Junior Department store being opened by the P. N. Hirsch Company in South Fulton, according to Randall Willmore, field supervisor of the company.

Greer and Willmore, assisted by a sizeable local staff, are planning to open the new store this weekend at its location in South Fulton formerly occupied by the Happy Day Skating rink and now completely renovated for the new occupant.

Greer comes to Fulton on a promotion by the Hirsch Company; he has been assistant manager of a company store in Benton, Illinois.

He is a native of Pana, Illinois, attended Greenville College in Greenville, Illinois and Indiana State College in Terre Haute, Ind. He is 24, and unmarried.

P. N. Hirsch and Company will handle clothing, home furnishings, shoes, ready-to-wear and other items in its large South Fulton store. A grand opening will be held around March 1st, Greer stated.

Two County Teachers Initiated At Murray

Mrs. Gladys Barnett of Hickman and Mrs. Lynette Allen of Fulton were initiated into the Delta Kappa Gamma, a key teacher society, at a banquet held in the Woman's Club building at Murray on January 22.

Other members attending were Mrs. Nell Lowe and Miss Kathryn Williamson of Fulton and Mrs. Myra Belle Boudurant of Cayce.

Kentucky Still Ranks At Bottom In Many Areas Of Educational Attainment; It's Time For Action

There must be a special place in heaven reserved for Kentucky school administrators who find themselves in the frustrating position of running like fury, just to stand still. Because we have a vested interest in the welfare of our schools two children in high school, one going to college this fall) we consider it our duty to advocate the programs set forth by educators designed to up-grade the standards of our school systems.

It has not been with idle curiosity that we have kept abreast of the strides made in educational circles in our State. To the casual observer it might appear that, with the establishment of the minimum foundation program for education in Kentucky and the resulting small increases in salaries for teachers and added revenue in other fields, the schools in our State are inching up to the levels of standards in other States. Yet, that's what we mean when we say we are running like fury to stand still; for last week the Kentucky Education Association's executive secretary revealed in Washington that "Kentucky ties with South Carolina for the dubious honor of last place in the ranking of states in the educational attainment of the population." The secretary also said that Kentucky ranks toward the bottom of the list in almost any category that is commonly referred to in measuring the educational ranking of a State.

If you ask yourself "why," with all the improvement that has been made in the last few years, you must be prepared to accept the answer that we were so far behind to begin with, that whatever strides we have made were vitally necessary "just to keep us in business," as it were.

But just staying in business is not near enough for our students, if they are to meet the requirements demanded by industry and the professions in this highly competitive generation. It should not be the sole responsibility of school administrators to up-grade educational standards in Kentucky. The time has come, and yet it is long past due, when parents, wanting the best for their children, should join in solving the problems that face Kentucky schools today.

For a clear and factual report on the status of Kentucky's schools we urge you to study this release from the Kentucky Education Association last week.

The Kentucky Education Association's executive secretary, Dr. J. M. Dodson, told a Congressional subcommittee in Washington last week that President Johnson's aid-to-education bill would "do much to alleviate" some of the poor educational conditions in his state.

Testifying before the General Subcommittee on Education of the House Committee on Education and Labor, Dodson said the proposed legislation is no "panacea or cure-all" that will solve all the educational problems of the nation, "but I certainly think it is a step in the right direction."

Dodson said KEA, whose members include more than 97 per cent of the certificated teaching personnel in Kentucky, are interested in the legislation on only "because of the advantages it will bring to the boys and girls but also the stabilizing influence which we think it will have on teaching personnel."

It is my belief that there is a growing restlessness among members of the teaching profession," Dodson explained. "Even the most casual observer who has any awareness at all of what is carried in the news media is aware of this fact."

"We often feel that this unrest occurs only in the large metropolitan areas. However, I can vouch for the fact that frustration is beginning to have its effect on teachers in some of our rural areas. I can see this among teachers in my own state, which is regarded as a rural state."

"Certainly one of the biggest causes for this unrest is low salaries. All too often, however, the teacher who can't live on the salary which is being paid goes into industry or to some other state where salaries are higher. This happens in our state over and over again."

"In addition to low salaries, many of our teachers who have remained in the teaching profession are becoming weary of poor working conditions. Overcrowded classrooms, the lack of instructional material, poor facilities, inadequate textbooks are too often the rule rather than the exception in many areas of Kentucky. This often brings frustration and unhappiness to the teacher in the classroom."

"No dedicated teacher can feel happy in his job," Dodson asserted, "when he can see the fruits of his labor fall by the wayside (as dropouts) or the potential of the youth in his room fail to be reached, all because he had very little to work with. Add these conditions to low salaries and you come up with a condition which is frustrating and with which many will not remain."

Dodson reminded the Congressmen that Kentucky ranks toward the bottom of the list in almost any category that is commonly referred to in measuring the educational ranking of a state.

And this happens, he said, despite a "gallant effort" being made to provide adequate educational opportunities for all Kentucky children. He pointed to the state's three per cent sales tax, taxes on alcoholic beverages and cigarettes, and corporate and individual income taxes. Money from these go into the state's general fund, from which state aid to education and other state expenditures are financed.

Dodson noted that Kentucky ties with South Carolina for the "dubious honor" of last place in the ranking of the states of the nation in the educational attainment of the population.

"We have a population of some 3,100,000 with a median educational attainment of a little higher than the eighth grade, 8.7 to be exact. (Median means that half are above that level and half below.) The national average for this category is grade 10.6."

Dodson also cited Kentucky's low per capita income. In 1963 it was only $1,789 compared with the national average of 2,443.

Dodson said he believes the aid-to-education bill would help improve the holding power of Kentucky schools. He said all studies he has seen indicate there is a fairly close relationship between poverty and dropouts.

"We have our share of dropouts in Kentucky, even though we are doing a better job at holding our young people in school than we used to."

Kentucky public schools in 1964 graduated 31,897 students. These came from a ninth-grade class of 49,666 in 1960. Thus 64 per cent were graduated and 36 per cent dropped out. (The national figure for 1963 graduates was 72.7%. The national figure for 1964 is not yet available.)

One study, Dodson said, showed that in 1963 there were 25,762 high-school graduates who came from a first-grade class of 74,204. This means that "along the way somewhere we lost between 45,000 to 50,000 youngsters."

Turning Back The Clock--

February 2, 1945

The banquet hall of the First Methodist Church was the scene of a delightful affair on January 26, when the Cub Scouts and their parents were royally entertained, with 124 present. Nelson Tripp, local Cubmaster, presided as toastmaster. A 65-pound cake, baked by Finch's Bakery, was one of the features, bearing 15 large candles representative of 15 years of cub scouting and 35 small candles for the Boy Scouts.

Mrs. Lonnie Roper delightfully entertained members of her bridge club January 26 at her home in the Johnson apartments. Mrs. Reginald Johnson and Mrs. James Warren held high score for the afternoon. Following the games, a salad course was served the guests.

A delightful rook and Chinese checker party was given on January 26 by Mrs. Eunice Robinson in honor of her sister, Mrs. Jessie Martin of Nashville. Mrs. Lynn Taylor won the rook prize and Mrs. S. A. Hagler the Chinese checker prize.

Members of the Fulton High student body elected Paul Rhodes as president of Teen-Town Council at a meeting January 29. Other officers chosen were: Peggy Scott, vice president; Mary Louise Simons, Secretary; Don Morris, treasurer; Jack Merryman, business manager.

Judge Homer Roberts, of Hickman, will represent Fulton County on the Veteran Service Committee of the Retraining and Re-Employment Administration, Washington, D. C.

Mrs. John Dawes and Mrs. Cecil Burnette brought to the Victory Homemakers a wonderful demonstration lesson on "Kitchen Short-Cuts" at their January meeting with Mrs. Reginald Williamson. Twelve members and seven visitors were present.

The Cayce Homemakers met in an all day meeting on January 24 in the home of Mrs. Guy Johnson, with Mrs. Daisy Bondurant co-hostess. The lesson was given by Mrs. Lyle Shuck and Miss Alice Sowell, on kitchen short-cuts.

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of the Civil War day by day in Kentucky, as reviewed by the Kentucky Civil War Commission

By JOE JORDAN

One hundred years ago this week, Confederate Maj. Gen. John C. Breckinridge of Lexington became Secretary of War in the cabinet of President Jefferson Davis. He succeeded James A. Seddon of Virginia, who resigned because of ill health. With the appointment of Breckinridge, Kentucky had a cabinet member in each of the warring capitals, for James Speed of Louisville had been Attorney General in Lincoln's cabinet since the previous year. Since early in the Civil War, the Commonwealth had had senators and representatives in both the United States Congress and the Confederate States Congress — and both flags had a star to represent Kentucky.

In Breckinridge and Speed the law school of Transylvania University at Lexington similarly had representatives in both cabinets. Speed was 52 years old and Breckinridge was 43. Breckinridge had been vice president of the United States from 1857 to 1861, under President James Buchanan, had been the Democratic nominee for President in 1860, losing to Lincoln, and had been United States senator from Kentucky from March 4, 1861, until he entered the Confederate States Army that fall as a brigadier general.

During the week the notorious Missouri-Kansas guerrilla and marauder, William C. Quantrill, crossed the Mississippi River into Kentucky, in the vicinity of Hickman. He and his outlaws were disguised in Union Army cavalry uniforms. They rode hard and were in the Salt River country south of Louisville before military authorities were aware that they had entered the state. It was Quantrill who in August of 1863 had captured and plundered Lawrence, Kansas, killing about 150 men and boys and destroying property worth a million and a half dollars.

With Quantrill when he came to Kentucky were the James Brothers, the Halls, the Pences, the Longs and other cutthroats who had a reputation for ferocity and cruelty. It was said that Quantrill when he left Missouri gave it out that he and his men were on their way to Washington to kill President Lincoln. But Quantrill was destined to be killed in Kentucky.

Before the week was out Midway, in Woodford County, was looted by about 25 outlaws who robbed the citizens, burned the railroad station, and then rode to Woodburn, a noted horse-breeding farm a few miles away, and stole 15 blooded horses. At the time it was reported that this gang was led by Quantrill and "Sue Mundy," but on the same day it was also reported that "Sue Mundy" was within two miles and a half of New Castle, Henry County — and New Castle is sixty miles from Midway.

Lt. Gov. Richard T. Jacob, who had returned from exile the previous week, presided in the State Senate and made "a thrilling, indignant and patriotic address," of which 1,000 copies were ordered printed for the use of the senators.

Cooper Interested In Committees For State

Senator John Sherman Cooper (R. Ky.) has been reappointed to four senate committees—the committee on agriculture and forestry, the committee on public works, the rules and administration committee, and the special committee on small business.

As the ranking Republican member on the committee on public works, Cooper will also serve as a member of the committee on appropriations, with the right to vote on all appropriations for corps of engineers projects and other public works.

Senator Cooper said, "I waived my seniority rights to become a member of the committees on the judiciary and armed services because my committees are important to Kentucky."

Kentucky Truckers Add Protest To State-Owned Toll Facilities

The Kentucky Motor Transport Association, Inc. has adopted a resolution opposing the state's building and leasing of commercial facilities on toll roads.

Paul Young, Managing Director of the State Trucking Association, said that his members feel that they and the motoring public in general can best be served if the building and operating of hotels, restaurants, and service stations is left up to private enterprise along Kentucky's toll roads.

"Our members are vitally interested in the basic economic development of Kentucky and in this instance they feel development can best be served if the state does not compete with private enterprise along our toll ways," Young said.

In addition to innumerable local clubs and organizations, statewide groups which have taken a stand in opposition to state-owned service plazas are Associated Industries of Kentucky, the Kentucky Automobile Association, the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, the Kentucky Petroleum Council, the Kentucky Restaurant Association, and the Kentucky Travel Council.

In another action, the trucking association has voted to support the $176 million bond issue which will be put before the voters in November, 1965.

Of the total bond issue amount, $139 million is to be used to match federal funds in Kentucky's highway construction program. The remaining $37 million will be used for capital construction in 24 separate state programs.

Scouts Will Observe 55th Anniversary During Scout Week, February 7-13

Observance of the 55th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America is set for February 7-13, 1965, during Boy Scout Week, according to Henry Whitlow, president of the Four Rivers Council, Boy Scouts of America.

"The theme for the week-long celebration will be 'Strengthen America's Heritage,'" Mr. Whitlow said. "This theme was used during the summer of 1964 for a national program in cooperation with the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge. Because of the vital need for youth to be aware of their American heritage, the theme is being continued during the 1965 Boy Scout Week."

Highlights of the 55th anniversary program will include special religious services and presentations of religious awards on Scout Sabbath, February 5 and 6, and Scout Sunday, February 7. February 8 will be designated as Uniform Day and Scouts will take part in special school programs. The traditional dedication to the ideals of Scouting will be scheduled for 8:15 p. m. on February 8.

Other special events in the Four Rivers Council include the Annual Recognition Dinner, February 11, and special displays and presentations by units.

The Boy Scouts of America was incorporated on February 8, 1910, and was chartered by Congress in 1916. There have been 39,000,000 members since 1910 with a total of 5,500,000 now registered as Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Explorers, and adult volunteer leaders.

who is in the art department of an advertising company in New York; and Lisa, a senior at the University of Kentucky.

The only girl in a family of four children, Camille's brothers are William I. Hamby, architect of New York City; Orton Hamby, Professor of Art at Arlington State College, Texas; and Col. Henry G. Hamby of the United States Air Force, stationed in Rome, New York.

Camille studied at the Cordon Bleu in New York and Paris, but "this was icing", she said. "The true knowledge came from long hours in the kitchen and burning the midnight oil while studying cookery books."

Although for years she had worked "with a pencil in her hand", she had to limit her writing while rearing her family - but the cooking continued at a rapid-fire pace. "It is one of the most creative outlets we have, and at the same time, we can feed our family," says Camille.

"The perfect time to learn to cook well is when one's children are small and the mother has to stay at home. However, cooking must be done with some degree really satisfying."

Camille writes not just as a superlative cook and gourmet (which she is), but as a philosopher who believes that cooking has deep therapeutic values in living. Her life with people has taught her to know their needs.

These columns of selected recipes are presented with a graciousness that only age and experience can bring to temper knowledge, a sense of needed humor in our daily fare, and above all a gentle but sound and incorruptible look at the human need to be well fed, and to cook with the best of one's ability, using the finest of available material.

DEAR CAMILLE,

Several years ago while catching up with my magazine reading "under the dryer" at the beauty shop, I came across a recipe for HAM AND CABBAGE SOUP in one of the leading fashion magazines. We had great fun with that soup at our Saturday night suppers. I would prepare a huge marmite of the soup, and with corn meal crisp or rye bread, and a little something for dessert, that was it! To make a long story short I have lost the recipe. (It serves me right—I had kept it a secret.) Do you happen to know the soup?

Vogue reported a wonderful Ham and Cabbage Soup about two years ago, and their recipes are always excellent. This could easily be the one. We like soup too, particularly the ones that are "a meal in itself" sort of thing. They are easier than casserole dishes and just as hearty.

Ham and cabbage are the greatest of teammates, and your choice of bread was perfect. Try dark rye bread with commercial sour cream and caraway seed sometime. The commercial sour cream may be served as a sauce over delicately boiled and buttered cabbage with a sprinkling of caraway seed, or, sour cream can be served in a separate bowl to eat with the rye bread instead of butter. If you have no caraway seed use Dill Weed. All of this is just as good with an entree of veal as it is with ham. Crisp cornbreads, pone, or muffins are always delicious with—

5-6 slices of good country cured or Virginia ham

3 cans of beef bouillon

3 cans of chicken broth

1 large head of green cabbage

Miss Binford, Mr. Quinn Wed In Impressive Episcopal Ceremony

Mrs. Richard Alan Quinn

At 5:30 o'clock on January 30 at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in New Orleans, Louisiana, Jane Bullock Binford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hopson Binford, became the bride of Mr. Richard Alan Quinn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lemmie Henry Quinn of Birmingham, Alabama. The Reverend Ralph Kimball, Rector, officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of candlelight satin, featuring a bodice overlaid with alien lace, portrait neckline and long tapering sleeves. The controlled skirt ended in a chapel train. Her tiered veil of illusion was held in place by a coronet of crystals and pearls. She carried a satin covered prayer book topped with gardenias and showers of ribbon and Stephanotis.

Mrs. Robert Baskin Quattlebaum, Jr., attended her sister as matron of honor. Mrs. Otis Mitchell Bibb was her other attendant. They wore long gowns fashioned with fuchsia velvet bodices and pink crepe skirts. Their head-dresses were of fuchsia illusion held in place by a satin bow. They carried basket shaped bouquets of fuchsia camellias with pink accents.

The groom was attended by his father as best man. Ushers were Donald Lee Quinn, and Lawrence Rodgers Quinn, brothers of the groom; Dr. Robert Baskin Quattlebaum, Jr., and Mr. Otis Mitchell Bibb.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Binford chose a deep pink crepe dress designed along sheath lines featuring an overblouse edged in crystal and bugle beads. Her accessories were of fuchsia and she wore a corsage of camellias.

For going away the bride wore a costume suit of green wool and suede. Her accessories were green lizard and she wore a corsage of gardenias. After a brief honeymoon, they will be at home at 263 Chastaine Circle, Birmingham, Alabama.

Out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were Mrs. Joseph Ernest Fall, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ernest Fall, Jr., of Fulton, Kentucky; Mr. and Mrs. James Conrad and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Goodman, of Birmingham, Alabama.

CAMILLE SAYS:

If you bake a turkey or chicken in foil always loosen the foil for ventilation when the fowl is removed from the oven. HOT FOWL MUST BE KEPT AIR TIGHT AFTER COOKING! There is danger of souring and spoilage.

CAMILLE SAYS:

Parsley is one of the most neglected herbs. It is a lovely garnish but its flavor in cooking is more important! No French chef's table is without parsley. When an authoritative recipe calls for parsley, please use it.

CAMILLE SAYS:

Chicken salad that has been made from fresh products will keep from 4-5 days if constantly refrigerated.

CAMILLE SAYS:

Always remove lid or cover from cooked meat, poultry or seafood and allow to cool before storing in refrigerator or freezer. NEVER COVER WARM CHICKEN, TURKEY OR MEAT BROTHS or put in the refrigerator until it is cool; otherwise it is likely to sour.

By Mrs. Carey Fields

Mrs. T. T. Harris is resting quite comfortably in Hillview Hospital, where she has been a patient the past two weeks.

Rev. Russell Rodgers filled his appointment at New Salem Baptist Church the past Sunday at 11 a. m., and the attendance was smaller than usual, due to weather conditions and many suffering from colds 'round about here.

Mrs. Bert Davis has been on the sick list and under the care of a physician. She is resting in bed at her home near here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ollie James Roberts are welcomed into this community, locating on the Reed Douthitt farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Roberts are moving to the Huffman farm. They recently returned from Texas. Francis is the brother of Gilbert and William Roberts.

Miss Margaret Bynum and nephew, Hal, are suffering from a siege of cold and thus indisposed.

All over this area a light snow and sleet are falling this Monday, February 1, and we are hoping for some better weather very soon. Most everyone is housed in and just busy with the necessary chores around the house and farm.

Deep sympathy is extended to the family of Mrs. Allie Owens Brittain, 83, whose funeral was held at Knob Creek Church of Christ Saturday afternoon, with Bro. Garvin Brundige officiating. Burial was in Pinegar Cemetery with Jackson's Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Permit Me To Put My Experience To Work For Us In The Kentucky General Assembly

AS REPRESENTATIVE

Fulton, Hickman, Carlisle and Ballard Counties

Democratic Primary, May 25, 1965

Judge For Yourself If
JO WESTPHELING
Can Best Serve Our Interests In These Fields

SCHOOLS — The vital need for a broader revenue-producing base to adequately maintain and operate our school systems does not come to me second-hand. I heartily endorse the program of the Kentucky Education Association. We have two children, a public High School senior and a public High School freshman, who will benefit, as will yours, from higher education standards that added revenue will bring from the grade school to the college level.

INDUSTRIAL GROWTH — My husband is on the 21-member Kentucky Economic Development Commission. I have served on various State industrial development committees. I was active in raising $100,000.00 in a 17-hour radio marathon to finance a garment factory in Fulton that, if lost, would have meant 500 unemployed union workers. I KNOW what more industrial payrolls mean to a community.

TOURIST PROMOTION — I am president of the First Region Tourist Council; first vice-president of "Stars In My Crown" drama association; a charter organizer and an officer in the International Banana Festival Association. I have resigned as senior administrative assistant for tourist and travel in the Department of Parks. In this capacity I was active in establishing Kenlake Amphitheatre at Kentucky State Park, which brought about the production of "Stars In My Crown," affording dramatic opportunities to dozens of West Kentuckians.

MEDICAL CARE — I am chapter chairman of the Fulton County March of Dimes Committee, a state advisor to the West Kentucky Birth Defects Center at the University of Louisville, a state advisor to the National Foundation for the March of Dimes. I was put on special assignment to General Paul R. Hawley in the VA Department of Medicine and Surgery to spear-head nurse recruitment in that agency.

FARMS — We own an 80-acre tree farm, with a tobacco base and grain crop allotment. We are members of the Fulton County Farm Bureau and are the original publishers of the Delta Journal, now one of the largest and most widely read farm publications in the agricultural Mississippi Delta.

VETERANS — My husband is a five-year veteran of World War II, with three years of overseas duty. He is in the active reserve. I was special assistant to General Omar Bradley when he was head of the Veterans Administration in Washington. In Washington I also served as public relations director to the National Commander of the Disabled American Veterans. I am the author of several booklets explaining veteran's benefits due under the GI Bill of Rights.

FARM TO MARKET ROADS — Everybody knows the urgent need here. It takes some hard work and constant attention to be successful. I will be unrelenting in this and all other areas.

LABOR — Two of my brothers started their working days with the Illinois Central Railroad. My brother Charles is still connected with the IC. He took a leave of absence several years ago to serve as assistant to the national general chairman of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks.

THE HOME — From infancy, our children have been brought up to know that the nature of our businesses calls for constant public service. They have joined us in these efforts and are proud to do so. Our son and daughter are musicians, scouts, and active in every phase of school work. Our son goes to college this Fall. We have a full-time housekeeper, who has been with us 13 years, and who lives on our home place. The General Assembly meets for six weeks every two years. If elected, total absence from home would amount to about 22 days. My husband and daughter, 15, feel that this is a mighty small contribution to make if we can bring progress to West Kentucky.

NOTEBOOK— (Continued From Page One)

I am perhaps the first woman in West Kentucky to ever try for such an office. Mary Jo said: "I don't imagine anybody has ever worried about that when you work night and day to help get a lot of other things we need around here!"

And so the campaign is on and the party is off. Maybe after the election, about May 26, we'll have that silver anniversary party, and have a collection plate at the front door for silver offerings... because not until now have I realized that these here now, radio, television and newspaper ads, are kind of expensive.

But anyway, after 26 years (we worked together a year before we married) I offer my sincere congratulations and felicitations to Paul; for being the nicest, most understanding, most devoted and perhaps long-suffering guy in the world. If he makes it another 25 years, we'll have a golden wedding anniversary party and I'll give him a complete set of gold teeth, so he can give me an 18-carat smile whenever I come up with some other unusual ideas.

Fulton County Soil Ranks Among Best In Kentucky, Interested Farmers Told

Fulton County Agent John Watts (center) is flanked by Hubert Smith, Soil Conservationist in Fulton County and by Jack Newton as they view interesting surveys dealing with the county's productive and rich soil.

By ED KIMBRELL
Sun-Democrat Staff Writer

Fulton County leaders were informed Thursday night that they are possessors of rich soil, but that the fact does not mean conservation problems do not exist.

Herbert F. Smith, a conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service, explained part of a new soil study of Fulton County that was unveiled at a dinner meeting held here last Thursday.

Soil is divided into classifications by its limiting factors, such as amount of erosion, percentage of wetness, or other conditions that make the soil hard to work. Smith said the first three types of soil or classifications comprise over 81 per cent of Fulton County's land. And this percentage is even more exciting when it is compared to the national percentage—44 per cent, or Kentucky's percentage—35 per cent.

Class one has practically no limitations, for example, and some 2,592 acres are listed in that category in Fulton County, or 17.1 per cent.

Overall, classes one, two and three total 106,676 acres of Fulton County land.

Smith said: "In Fulton County, the problem is not a lack of good land for all the crops that are needed."

"The problems are:

—Converting a lot of class one land to row crops instead of leaving it in less-paying crops when it is needed.

—Controlling erosion or reducing wetness on class two and three land which is earmarked wet and eroded.

—Converting class four (eroded and wet) and six (eroded) to improved pastures.

—Planting class seven (wet) land into land for wildlife food and cover, and —Increasing fertility of the soils in all the capability classes," Smith said.

Smith went on to say:

"Farmers farm for profit. Yields decrease as erosion increases. I know a number of farms that are operating at about one-half of their potential. I can show you field after field with soil losses that reach 10 to 30 tons per acre. You can see what this means economically to a region over a long run. This means that the soil should be used for what it is capable of producing."

W. W. Carpenter, a state soil scientist with the SCS, explained why soil surveys are made.

"Some surveys were made in the 1930s, but this soil survey of Fulton County is the third in recent years. The survey shows many things," he said.

Carpenter said that researchers, engineers for dam sites and pipelines, vocational agriculture teachers, and farmers can use the study. He said that the study shows how much cropland is in the county, and how far above our needs in land Fulton farmers are now and where they will be according to needs 10 years from now.

"There are many other facets and functional uses of the study. City planners can use the study for the use of landscape. We want to know about the soil for leisure time purposes, for recreational areas," he said.

The man who made the survey, John H. Newton of the SCS, explained exactly how the survey was made. He said that soils are named for the region that they were first found, and classified, such as Memphis soil, which was found and classified in Memphis, Tenn.

Using a soil auger or sampling device, Newton said that the auger takes one foot of soil at a time.

The sample taken shows the top soil as it lies in relationship to the other layers of soil, he explained. The characteristics of the land is considered for its classification—thickness, color, drainage, texture, and relationship—to determine what type of land is in the area. He emphasized that color is an important factor, since every black or dark land indicates a high level of organic content, while other colors indicate a lower content of organic matter. The higher the content of organic matter, generally, the better the land is for tilling.

Also of import is the texture, because if there is a high percentage of sand, silt or clay, the land presents either moisture holding problems or in the case of clay, a deterrent to the penetration of roots.

He cited the Fulton County bottomlands which have a high degree of clay content and, thus, are hard to plow.

A second sample is taken, going down to check and define subsoil layers, and it is checked again on the same basis as is used on the first 12 inches that are sampled.

Newton said that he walked the fields and used aerial maps of the area, and plotted the land soil classifications on the aerial maps. He also said that he and John Watts, Fulton County agent, and Smith too provided him with yield data on crops, and farmers.

Harold Miller, a field agronomist from the University of Kentucky, said that if a field does not have the soil capability, it is not going to have it from fertilization. He added that further knowledge of the soil as outlined in the Fulton County soil survey, aids persons interested in fertilization of crops since they are aware of what type of land they are trying to fertilize.

Another agronomy field agent from UK and an employee of the Tennessee Valley Authority, Charles E. Wyatt, announced that two studies using boron fertilizer with cotton will be started in Fulton County on the basis of the soil studies.

There are 600 copies of the report in Hickman at the SCS office, Smith said, and it is his hope that the leaders can use reports in talking to groups about the many varied uses of the report.

Smith added that the SCS would like to have a few moments with a person before they give the report to them, in order to explain the uses of soil tables and aerial maps that are included in the soil survey.

The projects were financed by a congressional appropriation.

FARMERS-

Don't Buy or Plant Any Seeds Before Reading These Eye-Opening Facts

● Every year, thousands of farmers lose thousands of dollars by sacrificing good management, good fertilizer, good land, good equipment, good gasoline—to inferior seeds (either home-grown or store-bought).

● Good seeds represent only 1.68% of total production expense on the average farm. Yet, good seeds effect the success and profitability of the other 98.32%—more than any other single purchased production item.

● Drill-box surveys by leading universities show that most home-grown seeds are below the quality needed to produce break-even yields.

● 90% of farmers planting home-grown seeds could substantially increase their net income without any additional work or fixed capital expenditure whatsoever—merely by switching to quality commercial seeds.

● One drill-box survey showed that 116 farmers planting home-grown Red Clover seeds were also planting an average of 470,731 weed seeds per acre!

● In another drill-box survey among 211 farmers, home-grown Korean Lespedeza seeds averaged only 77.20% germination.

● A drill-box survey in a neighboring state revealed that 25% of home-grown small-grain seeds were not the recommended variety the farmer thought he was planting.

● Using quality seeds, like those offered by your Southern States Cooperative Agency, often makes the difference between profit and loss on a farm.

● You almost always pay less for Southern States Quality Seeds than for inferior so-called "bargain-price" seeds—in terms of pure live seeds received (the only kind of seeds that can grow to be harvested).

● You'd actually pay less for Southern States Quality Seeds with 95% germination, 99% purity and $32.00 per cwt. price tag—than for inferior seeds with 85% germination, 95% purity and only $28.00 price tag.

● The low germination and low purity of inferior cut-price seeds forces you to increase the planting rate to maintain proper plant population. You use more seeds. So where's the bargain?

● Southern States Quality Seeds produce higher yields which result in reduced production cost per bushel or ton harvested.

● You can prove to yourself just how little Quality Seeds really cost in comparison to inferior seeds—by figuring your seed cost by the acre rather than by the pound or bushel. For example, with Alfalfa, the slight difference usually amounts to no more than the price of a bale or two of hay over the entire life of the stand.

● The easiest, cheapest way to control weeds before they start is to plant Southern States Quality Seeds... high in purity, low in weed content.

● Your Experiment Station advises: When planting new improved clover and alfalfa varieties, the only way to be sure of variety, disease resistance and winter-hardiness is to insist upon Certified Seed. (That's why Southern States handles no "affidavit" seed, no "verified" seed, no imported seed, no blends of seeds.)

● Year after year in 5 states, more farmers plant Southern States Quality Seeds than any other. Their reasons: Quality that produces more-profitable yields. Plus Service that's available 12 months of the year.

● Southern States Quality Seeds are produced and sold for maximum farm profits—not store profits.

● Year after year, seed law enforcement people in 5 states report that Southern States consistently heads the list of seedsmen for tagging accuracy.

● Every bag of Southern States Quality Seeds carries the famous Blue-Tag Guarantee. Germination, purity and variety are guaranteed as shown on the tag or your money back. Do you know of any home-grown, neighbor-grown or cut-price seeds that give you this protection, this assurance of quality?

● Farmers who demand top germination, disease resistance, winter-hardiness, varietal purity, latest adapted varieties, low weed content, superior yielding ability—farmers who plant the best and harvest the most—choose Southern States Quality Seeds. Why not join them?

This year, more than ever, it pays to choose your seeds for maximum yields and minimum risk. 1965 is certainly no time to fool around with inferior home-grown or cut-rate seeds. Plant "Seeds That Really Grow." Southern States Quality Seeds. That's the way to consistently make top profits.

Sports Final

R. Paul Westpheling, III

The Bulldogs finally broke their losing streak Friday night by beating the Murray College High 64-61. Fulton grabbed an early lead and kept it all the way. At the halftime, the Bulldogs went in to the dressing room with a 39-33 lead. Harold Hutcherson, a great forward, did an excellent job Friday night as he chalked up an impressive 25 points and 22 rebounds.

As the final period came to a close, Murray tried a desperate attempt to tie the game. They tried everything to get the ball, but only fouled. I can truthfully say that our free throws won the game for us.

Saturday night was a nightmare. The Fulton City Bulldogs played the Calloway County Lakers there. Fulton was supposed to be beaten by about 25 points. Instead, the Bulldogs started the game off with a bang. At the end of the first quarter, the Lakers had a 20-1 edge. At the half the Lakers had a three point edge, 37-34. Well, everybody was wishing high for the Bulldogs, but then the miserable third came into being.

At the end of the third period, the Lakers had a 57-46 lead. Fulton's chances had dwindled away.

In vain, the Bulldogs tried to catch up, but, as the buzzer sounded, the Bulldogs had compiled a 14-point deficit. The final score was 85-71 in Calloway County's favor.

Another factor in our defeat Saturday night came when Greg Williamson and Harold Hutcherson scored out. David Mann led the scoring with 24 points.

Well, Fulton tried to average their loss in a game with the Wingo Indians Tuesday night. Fulton couldn't get going with their offense, as they fell 64-60 to Wingo.

At the end of the first quarter, the Bulldogs had a 16-9 deficit. At halftime the Bulldogs started a 2-point deficit, 30-28. Never in the game were Wingo and Fulton tied. After a stirring half-time talk by Coach Yates, the Bulldogs came out on the floor and started off like a match in a fire-cracker factory.

It came to be that this explosion was just a fizzle and the Bulldogs lost 60-64. Fulton has lost twice to the Indians. Loyd Bone lead the scoring department with 15 points and Harold Hutcherson with 20 rebounds.

I might also mention that our wonderful halfback on the Fulton lineup, James Hurt, received honorable mention on the Courier Journal's All-State team. I fore see great homes for James. When the colleges pass out the athletic scholarships, James will get one.

Senior Citizens Enjoy Party With Hart

Members of the Senior Citizens Club held their first meeting of the new year on January 28 in the dining room of the First Methodist Church. Mrs. E. Hart called the meeting to order and Robert Lamb was song leader, with Mrs. Stella Yates at the piano.

E. W. Hart was honored with the "Happy Birthday" song and a lovely cake baked by his daughter, Mrs. L. G. Veneklasen.

Mrs. Herman Williamson reviewed, briefly, an article from NRTA Magazine, "New Eyes For The Needy," after which she read a story, "There's A Girl Down There," illustrating the fact that there are still those who are willing to risk their lives to save others.

A musical program was presented by Mrs. Nelson Tripp, Randa Nabors and Florence Wiggins.

Assorted sandwiches and coffee were served by Mrs. M. T. Callahan and Mrs. W. M. Adams, members of Circle Seven of the Society of Christian Service.

Campus Lights To Be Staged Feb. 18-19 20

"Campus Lights," the sparkling musical extravaganza, presented annually, at Murray State College, Murray, Ky. was first staged by Gamma Delta chapter of Phi Mu Alpha in 1938. Gamma Delta chapter just happened to write a $434.00 check to their national department which bounced. Their need for money was so very pressing that they decided to use the most valuable thing they had left. This thing was just plain talent. The show this year will be shown on February 18, 19, and 20.

In the beginning, "Campus Lights" was a vaudeville act on a huge scale. Through the years it evolved into a musical production much like a typical Broadway musical. By 1940 the show was unchallenged as the outstanding event of the school year. Iota Beta chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota joined with the men's fraternity in a few short years. Together, they made "Campus Lights" what it is today. Tickets for the 1965 edition of "Campus Lights" are now on sale. As usual, all seats are reserved. Anyone may procure tickets by writing Richard Farrell, College Station, Murray, Kentucky. "Campus Lights" will be staged in the College auditorium, with curtain time at 8:15 p. m.

Tickets for the performance are $1.50.

VA Pension Cards Must Be Returned

Veterans and dependents of deceased veterans receiving pension checks are reminded that their annual income questionnaire cards should be completed and returned to the Louisville VA Regional Office promptly. To date, 7,000 of the 36,500 cards have not been returned. The questionnaire cards were received with the November 30, 1964 pension checks.

Olney B. Owen, Manager, Veterans Administration Regional Office, Louisville, Kentucky, said that about 23,500 veterans and about 13,000 dependents of deceased veterans in Kentucky received the questionnaire cards. Approximately 19,000 cards have been received from veterans and about 10,500 cards have been received from dependents of deceased veterans.

VA must have the completed questionnaire card to determine entitlement to pension on the basis of the beneficiary's income for the year 1964, and the anticipated income for the year 1965. Owen added that under Federal law pension payments will be suspended if the completed questionnaire is not returned by January 31, 1965.

REGULAR CHURCH WORSHIP

"I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord."

CRUISE IN THE OFF-SEASON

Although most people prefer to take their cruise during the peak of the season for all the glamour, excitement, and crowds it offers, others enjoy the quiet and restfulness of the off season cruise. Tourists are not present in such great numbers; interesting places can be visited more leisurely and at greater length.

Some people prefer to pray only when they are in church or at some great public gathering where the prayers are led for them. But our Lord said to pray in the "off-season." He said, "But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly." The real joys of prayer are truly found when you are praying alone with God. The scripture says to be instant in season and out of season.

The church would encourage you to pray both in church and at home. Prayer can uphold, support, and strengthen our churches, ourselves, and our country.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
