Farmers Can Help, Learn

Fulton county farmers are invited to attend a farm-industry conference at the McCracken county court house in Paducah next Tuesday, and we would suggest that all who can make the trip should do so.

The meeting, one of six scheduled over the state, will seek methods of closer cooperation between farmers and industry on mutual problems. Dr. Ralph Woods, Murray College president, will represent the public, Joe Betts, Farm Bureau Federation director, will speak for the farmers; and Philip Moland of B. F. Avery & Sons Co., represents industry. Thus an excellent and informative program is assured.

Kentucky's progress must be based on cooperation and mutual understanding among her people, and we feel that the Paducah meeting will help greatly in achieving this goal.

Death Was Nearby

An Obion county schoolboy had a narrow escape from death last weekend when he alighted from a school bus and was struck by an automobile. The school bus driver said the car passed the bus while it was stopped. If this is true, the automobile driver violated a law, and is liable for punishment.

The law against passing a school bus which has stopped to pick up or discharge students is an excellent one. However, it should be unnecessary for the law to be on the statute books. Adult drivers should bear in mind that children, no matter how carefully they are taught the rules of safety, are likely to dart in front of an automobile, without warning, at any time. Regardless of whether or not the driver is at fault, such an accident's tragic consequences cannot be undone.

Moving Day

And today I'm moving. Not so far away, but just leaving the little white house in another care. . . it pinches the heart strings considerably, but about the worst thing about it all was the "for sale" sign I painted and put by the mail box two weeks ago! That little sign stood out, sore my eyes most like a red dress at a funeral. . . I've swept out each room carefully, even dusted the mantle. . . I loved this little mantle, even if it did accumulate dust and foreign bodies by the millions. . . The kitchen, well, I can't fancy some one else stringing up a batch of cookies at that cabinet but me. . . An' I wonder if the nice seeming new mistress will have a red pot holder on the ivory facing. . . I'm now putting the key in the door. . . how many times I've done that. . . I hear the boys yell "come on mom." I slip on my new gray bonnet (it'll hide the tears best). I creep across the little back porch. . . Gee, I always loved doing my morning work there. I stand at the elstern and put these last lines down hurriedly. My last lines from the little white house with the bright green shutters. — North Church Grove, by Mary, in the Tribune-Democrat, Benton.

As a community our social life is practically nil. Wouldn't an old-fashioned square dance, or something like it, be fun? All the pretty maidens might wear peasant skirts and blouses and the young gentlemen, overalls. For the sake of any out-of-the-state visitors, all could come sans shoes.—Betty Breckenridge's "Grumbings and Crumbs" in the News-Graphic, Mayfield.

It's a big enough financial strain to pay the current price for meat but what takes the rag off the bush is having to pay the same high price for the paper that the meat is wrapped in. So every time the price of meat advances the price of the paper automatically goes up, too. If we ever find a butcher that weighs his meat first and wraps it up afterwards we'll know that he hasn't been in the business very long.—Omega, Ga. News.

IT COULD BE VERSE

The wife and me, we both agree
That having guests is fine,
We're careful that the welcome mat
Is kept out, rain or shine.

But there's one bore we both abhor,
Who says "Goodnight," and then
With foot in door, says o'er and o'er,
"Goodnight,"—Yea, ten times ten.

1948 is just around the corner, which could explain the Vandenberg-Taft peace overtures. By the same token, wonder if Henry Wallace is looking for a job in Moscow?

A stumbling salute to St. Patrick's Day Sunday afternoon, a bunch of radio musicians who should have known better tried to swing "McNamara's Band." That rumbling noise was Hennessy, the flute player, turning in his grave.

Good Man For The Job

By Dewitt MacKenzie.

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The expected meeting in Moscow between U. S. Secretary of State Marshall and Generalissimo Stalin is staggering in its possibilities, for upon such a two-man conversation might hang the peace of the world.

This meeting—if it comes off—may be the real American-Russian show-down. President Truman's pronouncement of the new policy aimed at Communist aggression was a major tactical maneuver for position from which to force the issue. It remains to get the cards face-up on the table—and a Stalin-Marshall session might do exactly that.

It's fitting that fortune, in selecting the pair for this historic duel—since that's what it will be—should have picked men who are widely regarded as eminently suited for the task. Both are big calibre, of wide experience—and, when necessary, tough as ten-penny nails.

The man who faces Stalin at this supreme moment has to be better than good, for the Communist chief stands out as one of history's most powerful and skillful leaders. The records of the past generation credit the Generalissimo with having been the man behind the gun in all Russia's progress since he took command in 1925, even to the laying down of the broad strategy for the Red armies during the war, and for the vast tough controversial extension of the Soviet zone of influence. Tackling him is no job for an amateur.

Well, Uncle Sam has a top-flight man ready to meet Stalin if the conference is arranged. Marshall is said to be the greatest military strategist of our time, and he is a cool, fast-thinking leader himself. But the general is more than a soldier. He has had wide training in diplomacy. He knows his way about, and all these qualities are requisite, for we are dealing with a problem which is quite as much military as it is political.

One great element of hope rests in the fact that neither Russia nor America wants war. So far as the Soviet Union is concerned, she is so badly weakened by her mountainous efforts in the late conflict that she isn't in position to wage a major offensive war now, and won't be for many years. That, of course, isn't saying that she couldn't defend herself indefinitely if attacked.

As we await the denouement of this great drama it's interesting to note that the issue has resolved itself into one which lies mainly between America and Russia—the world's paramount powers. Indications from both Moscow and London are that Britain is tending toward neutrality where this is compatible with the close relations between England and the United States. Indeed, some observers see chances that John Bull may find opportunities to play the part of mediator in solving the Russo-American differences.

We got a glimpse of this trend in the British House of Commons yesterday. Leftist critics attacked the proposed American loans to Greece and Turkey, but government leaders refused to permit a full dress debate on the ground that President Truman's statement was made without consulting Britain. When one Laborite member asked if the government would warn the United States to "think twice about offering military aid to Turkey," Minister of State McNeill replied crisply: "No sir."

Meanwhile we are seeing an exemplification of Communistic organization. Red bodies in many countries are beginning to register protests against America's new policy. Most of these bear names which have no relation whatever to the Communist front—but all of them hew to the line laid down by Moscow. This of course is due to the fact that Communist cells work under cover in countries which are hostile to the Red ism.

Hitler Upside Down

Chicago.—(P)—Stephen Mull, 43, a native of Germany, seeking citizenship in federal court, explained to Judge John Barnes why he had a picture of Adolf Hitler in his home. "I kept it," he said, "because it looks funny when you turn it upside down."

After Irving Freedman naturalization attorney, told the court Mull had objected to bearing arms against Germany unless he were an American citizen, Mull was denied citizenship.

Next to the atom bomb, the thing we'd like most to outlaw is that answer to a word-pauper's prayer, the term "know-how"—that is, if we had the know-how.

through a glass darkly

By ERL SENSING

There is a thing that is of great concern to me, and to all of us who have the welfare of our town at heart. It is a thing that the young people of Fulton were almost orphaned—or, at best, poor and distant relatives. I don't mean the little children. They are still very much inside their homes and under the personal care of their parents. It is no more than should be expected that they are well taken care of. The parents of war-improvised Europe did as much for their little ones. It was nothing unusual in time of hostilities to see poorly clothed, underfed and harried looking mothers and fathers lead their well-nourished and warmly clad offspring through the debris of their fallen and shattered cities to the good care of the very young.

I am concerned, and speak here of those of high school age and of those of college age, whether or not they are fortunate enough to attend. For all practical purposes these young people of Fulton are cast adrift upon the streets of our town—and quite frequently upon the streets of nearby towns.

A young person in Fulton has only a limited choice in deciding how to spend an evening. First choice is usually the picture show. If it is Sunday, church could be considered. Next there is the drug store to loaf in for a few hours. And it is always possible to stay at home. That is all—absolutely all that can be done in Fulton. While school is in session there are classes in the day time and an occasional game at the gym at night, but there is no concerted effort made by the schools to help the young people find entertainment and recreation, in spite of the fact that these things are just as essential as study and work.

There isn't a place in Fulton where young people can dance. Perhaps there are those who do not approve of dancing. That is beside the point. Young people dance just as they breathe. There isn't a court in town where they can play tennis. There isn't a real swimming pool. In fact, there isn't a place around where they can play. There are few books for them to read. They are almost a forgotten generation even before they grow up.

Something should be done about this deplorable situation. It is true that it would take money to provide the necessary facilities to take care of our young people properly. However, any amount of money spent for this would be the best investment the people of Fulton ever made. Enough money to do it would be easy to raise. It was no task at all for a few people working together to go out one day and exceed the eleven hundred dollar quota set by the Red Cross for Fulton to donate. This money was freely given to care for strangers. How easy it would be to raise ten times that amount for our own young citizens. The senior and senior classes of Fulton high school have already raised nearly two thousand dollars to defray partially the expenses of a trip to New Orleans later this spring. Before school is out they will have the rest of the needed money. That shows that the money is here and can be had.

Far be it from me to suggest that the juniors and seniors forego their trip this year. They have earned it. All I say is, if these young students acting alone for only a short time can raise three thousand dollars for one weekend of fun, all the people of Fulton together can pledge themselves to many times that amount over a period of ten or twenty years for the lifetime of their boys and girls. A youth center could be erected out on the old fairgrounds, or on some other suitable property. The location would be important. The location of the new football stadium shows how careless people can be in making a proper selection when they sacrifice the common good for expediency. There are countless others who share my ideas on this subject. They realize that our town is only as rich or poor as the morals, character and intelligence of our youth. These young people will take over our town one of these days in the not too distant future. That is, unless we succeed in driving them away. Let us wait of opportunity to lead to relate, at the present time the ambition of nearly every boy and girl in Fulton is to get away from our town.

JONES-HARRINGTON VOWS ARE EXCHANGED

On March 16 in Cayce, Miss Margaret Jones became the bride of Charles Edward Harrington. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam A. Jones of Cayce and Mr. Harrington is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harrington of near Hickman.

The double-ring ceremony was solemnized at 2:30 p. m. at the Cayce Methodist church, with the Rev. R. H. Clegg officiating. Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Clara Carr and Miss Patsy Harrison, vocalist. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Carr played "Andantino in D Flat," by Laware. As the candles were lighted by Thomas Austin Jones, brother of the bride, Mrs. Carr played "Moonlight and Roses."

Miss Harrison sang "Because," and Mrs. Carr played softly, "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life." Miss Harrison's final number was "I Love You Truly," by Bond. During the pledging of vows Mrs. Carr played "The Sweetest Story Ever Told." The traditional Lohengrin and Mendelssohn wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a light blue crepe dress with matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

Miss Martha Ann Partain of Memphis, Tenn., who was matron of honor, wore navy blue crepe with pink accessories and a pink corsage. Mr. John Roland Harrison of Murray College attended Mr. Harrington as best man. The ushers were Edwin Harrison and Jimmie Brown.

The church was beautifully decorated with ferns and cut flowers. Mrs. Harrington, a graduate of Cayce high school, attended Bowling Green Business College, Bowling Green, Ky., has been employed as stenographer for a business firm at Memphis for the past one and one-half years. Mr. Harrington was graduated from Cayce high school, and served in the army, spending several months overseas.

The couple left for a short wedding trip, and upon their return will make their home for the present with his parents, where he is engaged in farming. Those taking part in the wedding were entertained with a dinner at the home of the bride's parents Saturday evening preceding the rehearsal.

BROOKS-PALMER

Miss Mary Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Helen Brooks of Route 1, Fryorsburg and Harold Palmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. town. They first learned this attitude when they sought to find a way to spend a day or an evening of entertainment or recreation—when they sought in vain to do this in Fulton.

A lot of serious thought should be given to this by the mothers and fathers of Fulton. Potentially Fulton is the richest town in the state of Kentucky in this respect. Our boys and girls are the finest to be found anywhere in the land. But, without thinking we can squander this wealth to the four winds. Let us keep our own. Let us keep our own and take good care of them.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas were hosts to a dinner and bridge party last evening at their home on Eddings in honor of Mr. and Mrs. K. P. Dalton, Jr., who will leave soon for LaFayette, Texas. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Looney, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Treas, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Homra, the honorees and the hosts.

B. E. T. AUXILIARY TO MEET WEDNESDAY

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 in the home of Vera Patton with Rosa Alred and Florence Knighton as co-hostesses.

S. FULTON P-TA WILL MEET MARCH 20

The South Fulton P-TA will meet Thursday, March 20, at 3 o'clock at the high school. Everyone is urged to attend.

DRAMA DEPARTMENT TO MEET WEDNESDAY

The Drama Department of the Fulton Woman's Club will meet Wednesday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock in the club home. Mrs. M. T. Callahan will present a review of the play, "The Magnificent Yankee," by Emmett Lavery.

PERSONALS

Mrs. John E. Bard and R. D. Ferguson have returned from Detroit where they spent several days with their brother, Chalmus Ferguson, who is very ill in a hospital there.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sensing and son, Billy, have moved into their new home in South Fulton.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.
New York, March 18.—(AP)—The day before Kentucky's basketball team left home for the National Invitation Tournament, some 3,000 fans turned out to watch the first and second team scrimmage when the first-string Wildcats finally gained a 37-35 lead, the coach blew his whistle to end the affair—Athletic Director Conrad Jennings of Marquette plans to bid for both the National A. A. U. and the N. C. A. A. track championships next year to help out the Wisconsin centennial celebration—Willie "Puddin'head" Jones, the Philles rookie, turned down several big league offers last season because he didn't want to get so far away from North Carolina. He finally yielded to a $15,000 bonus offer.

State Tournament Officials Elected By 16 Top Coaches

Louisville, Ky., March 18.—(AP)—Jack Thompson of Louisville, Edgar McElabb of Fort Mitchell, Charles Clift of Columbia and Louk Litchfield of Frankfort will officiate at the Kentucky high school basketball tournament here Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Names of the officials were announced yesterday by Ted Sanford, secretary of the Kentucky High School Athletic Association and tournament manager. The officials were chosen by vote of the coaches of the 16 participating teams.

Joe To Defend Title June 26

Foe For Brown Bomber Hasn't Been Decided As Bruce Woodcock Hedges

New York, March 18.—(AP)—Joe Louis will make the 24th defense of his world heavyweight title on June 26 in Yankee Stadium, but who the party of the second part will be still is a big question today.

Joe's managers, Marshall Miles and John Roxborough, announced plans yesterday for the Brown Bomber's third postwar championship engagement and at the same time emphasized that this will be the only time he will lay the crown on the line this year.

They virtually ruled out all other potential challengers except the survivor of the postponed meeting between Bruce Woodcock, the British Empire champion, and Joe Bakst, the Kumpfont, Pa., coal miner, now scheduled for April 15. Sports circles in England generally agreed that it is doubtful that Woodcock will meet Louis, both Woodcock and his manager, Tom Hurst, hedged when asked whether Bruce would make himself available if he got past Bakst.

"I don't know," was Woodcock's reply to a question concerning a Louis bout, after his 15-round victory over Stephen Olek of France at Manchester last night. "It's up to my manager."

Hurst said only "I haven't decided," but it was recalled that he had indicated previously he wanted Woodcock to get more experience against top-flight American heavyweights before taking on Louis.

Junior-Senior Tilt Predicted

They Are Favored To Reach Final Tonight In Annual Class Tourney

Peering into their private crystal ball, Fulton high's seniors are predicting that their basketball team will meet the juniors in the finals of the annual class tournament tonight, and will trim their younger classmates to the tune of 10 points, at the least.

Viewing this prognostication with a jaundiced eye, the juniors go along with their about-to-be-graduated comrades in seeing the two teams matched in the finals, but differ somewhat on the score.

The freshmen are pitted against the seniors in the first tournament game in the new gym at 8:30 this afternoon. The juniors take on the sophomores at 4:45 and the finals will be at 8 tonight.

Regardless of who wins the intra-school scramble, the entire school and community will benefit, since proceeds will go to the shop program. The money will be applied to the cost of new equipment.

UK Lives Thru L. I. U. Rally

Wildcats Win 66-52 In Garden After L. Island Tied It In Last Seconds

By Ted Meier
New York, March 18.—(AP)—It was a sight to see. That is, the virtual collapse of mighty Kentucky against Long Island University in their National Invitational Basketball tourney game at Madison Square Garden last night.

Regarded as the top collegiate outfit in the United States, the Wildcats from the Bluegrass country blew a 19-point second half lead as L. I. U. put on a thrilling rally that tied the score at 62-all with 25 seconds left.

It is testimony to Kentucky's class that two quick baskets by Wah-Wah Jones and Jack Tingle in the remaining 25 seconds gave the Wildcats a 66-62 triumph. Nevertheless for a team like Kentucky to lose a 19-point lead in the second half is tantamount to a collapse. It was nothing like Kentucky's 44-45 win over Rhode Island State a year ago when play was close all the way.

L. I. U.'s inspired rally in the last five minutes that wiped out a 56-42 Kentucky lead, overshadowed a somewhat similar, but in this case, successful late rally for Utah that brought the Big Seven conference team a 45-44 triumph over third-seeded Duquesne.

Utah now meets second-seeded West Virginia and Kentucky is paired against North Carolina State in the journey semi-finals tomorrow night.

Meanwhile, with the last of the pre-tourney playoffs completed, eight of the country's top teams awaited the opening of the ninth annual National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball tournament.

The decks were cleared last night with the triumph of the Big Six champion Oklahoma Sooners over St. Louis University, 47-41, in a game at Kansas City that decided the representative of district 5 in the Western regional semi-finals there Friday night.

Hornback Is New Head Cage Coach At Vanderbilt

Nashville, Tenn., March 18.—(AP)—Vernon (Ted) Hornback, assistant coach of Western Kentucky's outstanding basketball team, has been signed as head basketball coach at Vanderbilt University. Athletic Director H. R. (Red) Sanders said today.

Hornback, who has been assistant to Ed Diddle at the Bowling Green, Ky., school for eight years, will take over the basketball coaching job at Vandy, allowing Coach Norman Cooper, who has been handling the Commodore basketball team, to devote his full time to his duties as assistant football coach, Sanders said.

In addition, Hornback will assist with the football coaching in the early fall and aid in the spring sports program at Vanderbilt, Sanders stated.

"Backward Glances" At Fulton

By Ouida Jewell

Another interesting story about Fulton is one told by Mrs. William Boyd, about her great-uncle, a Mr. Wall, who was a brother of Mrs. Joe Dacus.

Mr. Wall, a Confederate soldier, had been granted a furlough and was on his way home. When he was about two or three miles from Fulton he was attacked and killed by guerrillas. The guerrillas cut off his ears, tied them to his horse's bridle reins, and threw his body across the horse. The faithful steed continued on to his home with his master's body.

Mr. Wall's family couldn't understand who would do such a cruel thing so far as they knew. Mr. Wall had no personal enemies. It all continued to be a mystery until 1914 when Mrs. Boyd and her father were visiting in Dawson Springs, where they were staying at a local hotel. One day Mrs. Boyd's father was down in the lobby exchanging tales with old-timer, when he mentioned the death of Mr. Wall. The old times immediately cleared up the mystery. He said he knew the person who knew Mr. Wall, and that it had all been a mistake. Mr. Wall had been mistaken by the guerrillas for someone else.

Did you ever comb lice out of your hair with a fine-toothed comb. Well, the Confederate soldiers did! Mrs. Mattie Royer says that her aunt, Mrs. J. A. Collins, went with her husband, a captain in the Confederate army, all through the war. In her possession she carried a fine-toothed comb, which she loaned to the soldiers for them to comb the lice from their hair. The comb finally was worn out completely.

Another story, told by Miss Bess Morris, concerns two of her cousins, Will and Charlie Morris. It seems that they were members of General Nathan Bedford Forrest's cavalry. Forrest had been harassed by an unexpected attack from the Yankee army, so he sent Will and Charlie out to spot the Yankees. They rode at night, not allowing their horses' hoofbeats to be heard, and rested during the day. They finally located the Yankees, and reported back to General Forrest, who surprised his enemy and made a sweeping victory.

Wall Street Report Brucella Now At Second Base

New York, March 18 (AP)—Attempts to get the stock market back on the recovery route again met with a little success here and there today but many leaders continued to falter. Dealings were sluggish from the start. Many pivots were a bit late in opening and others showed no price variation. Fractional advances predominated near midday.

Bidding still was from so-called professional contingents who felt that the lengthy slide entitled the list to at least a temporary comeback.

Resistant were General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Electric Power & Light, Westinghouse, Standard Oil (NJ), Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Pennsylvania Railroad and Chesapeake & Ohio. Laggards included American Telephone, Air Reduction, General Electric, International Nickel and U. S. Gypsum.

Bonds were a shade uneven and cotton futures improved.

VFW Post To Meet, Discuss Baseball At Legion Cabin

The Fulton Veterans of Foreign Wars post will hold their semi-monthly meeting at 7:30 tonight at the American Legion Cabin. The principal topic for discussion will be summer sports, in addition to the regular business session.

The VFW is fielding an amateur baseball team this season, and any veterans who are interested are invited to try out for the team. Two non-vets will be included in the lineup.

There will be a number of veteran teams in this area this year, and the Fulton post is hoping to have one of the top diamond aggregations in the Purchase. They've scheduled games with Mayfield, Martin, Union City, Clinton and Hickman to date.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

Mrs. Tom Montgomery entertained the Fulgham Homemakers Friday, March 14, with 15 members and one visitor, Mrs. Dewey Humphreys, in attendance.

Mrs. E. E. Armbruster presided at the business meeting, and roll call was answered with "a new vegetable I'm planting this year."

The foods leaders, Mrs. Len Barclay and Mrs. W. N. Bugg, had charge of the lesson, and "What's Cooking and How?" was really demonstrated in an appetizing way, as all liked the new dishes.

Letters from pen friends in England were read, thanking the club for the nice Christmas box they received.

At the recreational period, nicknames of our stars were given and two new songs were learned with Mrs. Otis Farmer as leader.

Present were Mesdames Armbruster, Barclay, Bugg, Farmer, Bill Humphreys, H. V. Bugg, J. E. Foster, Cecil Morgante, Edward Kimbel, L. K. Stroud, Walter Wilkins, Ferdie Tarver, W. A. Seay, Dewey House, the visitor and the hostess, Mrs. Montgomery.

BROWNS BUY HOME

The Browns, Bill and Evelyn, who left here about a year ago for California, have recently purchased a home there in Mill Valley near San Francisco, where Bill is employed. Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Humphreys, is "all thrills" because she has her own home in the midst of a beautiful half-acre lower garden. They have two small children.

BALL FANS AT REGIONAL

Several fans from here went to Mayfield Friday night to see the Brewers-Louis Oak clash, and only one got in. The others stood on the outside, entering at the intermission in time for the Tilghman-Cunningham game.

Among the number were Prin. Bearl Darnell, Richard Foy, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Shupe, James Ross Shupe, Robert Burkett, Betty Armbruster, Junior Armbruster, Charlene Robey, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Farmer, Elwin Farmer, Sonny Armbruster, Norman Elliott, Forest McAllister, Byron McAllister, Donald Gravitt, and E. E. Armbruster. The latter, Mr. E. saw the first game by "talking his way through another door." Just wonder if he grabbed a broom and played janitor.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fite of Mt. Zion spent Thursday here with Mr. and Mrs. Edwin House. Mr. E. Burkett, merchant, is sick in bed and under the care of a physician. Several other patients are still in bed. One day 80 students out of an enrollment of 265 were absent due to illness. Four are recovering from pneumonia. Mrs. Add Martin is in bed with pneumonia and Mrs. J. W. Johns, in the Fulton Hospital receiving treatment for it. Cary Wilson remains in the Jackson Hospital, but his pneumonia is better, and this reporter is ill with sore throat.

RABBITS AUGMENT BERLIN FOOD SUPPLY

Berlin (AP)—The rabbit has become the most popular domestic animal in calorie-conscious Berlin.

The lowly "kashinchen" serves a double purpose—he provides not only food but fur for coats and hats. And he's easy to feed on such things as potato peelings, vegetable waste and hay.

That's why today thousands of amateur breeders are keeping rabbits on balconies and in cellars, as well as in backyards warrens. In addition, there are 350 commercial rabbit breeders associations.

Owenton—Carnelius Morrison, 85, and his wife, 83, were burned fatally and her son, Alvin A. Berry 56, suffered burns when fire gutted three rooms of their home yesterday. Mrs. Morrison died of burns received when her clothing ignited as she lit a gas stove. Her husband and her son were burned as they vainly tried to put out the flames.

Hopkinsville—A man appealed to county Judge James H. Higgins, police and the veteran's bureau here to aid him in determining his identity. The man declared a "wall" separates him from the past. He appeared to be about 45 years old, officers said, and is five feet six inches tall, and weighs 145 pounds. After he said he heaved he had been in the Marine Corps, police sent his fingerprints to the Corps in an attempt to establish his identity.
