PROPER FEEDING
FOR YOUR HOGS.

It has been observed that an increase in the number of outbreaks of hog cholera occurs during the latter part of August or the first part of September and that the outbreaks increase in numbers and virulence until the latter part of October or November, when the disease gradually declines. Predictions are that this year will be no exception. The rise in the number of outbreaks and the increase in virulence of the disease is probably due not so much to the season as to the fact that infection is spread by the extensive shipments of hogs for feeding purposes, and most important, hogs are turned into feed lots to receive a one sided ration of new corn.

The occurrence of cholera is dependent solely upon the hogs becoming infected with the specific cholera micro-organism. Practically all hogs are susceptible to the disease when fed balanced rations, but when improperly fed and allowed to become infected with parasites the chance of controlling cholera on exposure is greatly lessened. At this time new corn is beginning to be fed and care must be exercised or indigestion will result, thus lessening the vitality of the animals, and if exposed to cholera infection, death may follow. New corn should be fed sparingly at first and the amount gradually increased. Never start by feeding it exclusively.

Should an outbreak occur, immediately isolate and quarantine the sick hogs. Notify your neighbors so that they may stay away from your hog lots and thus prevent spread of the infection. Get anti-hog cholera serum and inoculate all healthy hogs. Kill the sick hogs and burn the carcasses. No treatment can be relied upon to save one visibly sick. Thoroughly clean all pens and yards. Burn the rubbish from the hog lots, to afford the sunlight an opportunity to destroy the infection. Disinfect with any of the coal tar dips the inside of the hog houses and all troughs used for feeding. Scatter lime about the hog houses and feed lots. Sanitation is the greatest factor in controlling and preventing cholera, and if practiced by all hog raisers will do much to prevent the ravages of cholera during the fall months.

Special bulletins on the control of cholera will be sent to all members of anti-hog cholera club in the State from time to time. The control of hog cholera in every community rests entirely with the farmers. A friendly cooperation in employing sanitary measures is essential. H. K. Wright, Veterinary Dept., Experiment Station, Lexington, Ky.

Shoots Boozie Full of Boquets.

The main attraction at the regular meeting of the city commissioners yesterday afternoon was a speech by Attorney George C. Diuguid, whose oratorical prowess is feared by all who know him, lasting one hour and forty minutes, in which, as near as could be gathered, he attacked the granting of a license to one W. D. Thomas to conduct a saloon at 726 South Third St., and incidentally beat and mauled the Demon Rum until he must have looked like he had been run over by a "jitney" or a herd of stampeding Texas steers. Mr. Diuguid might have been dragging the unfortunate creature around by his shaggy locks, dealing him blow after blow of impassioned oratory yet had not Mayor Hazell gently reminded him that the day was waxing wan on the western horizon and, as much as their esthetic souls cried out for more of his flowered utterances, they must come down to the dull, drab earth again and transact some official business. —Paducah News Democrat.

Re-Union Largely Attended.

The Calloway-Henry county re-union of confederate veterans at Hazel last Saturday was attended by one of the largest crowds ever assembled in this county upon a similar occasion, there being more than four thousand persons present.

The entertainment furnished the old veterans and their hundreds of friends from both counties by the little city of Hazel was very creditable and the many hundreds who attended spent a pleasant day.

Farmer—Higgins.

Mr. Van Higgins, son of Mrs. S. Higgins of this city, and Miss Ruth Farmer, daughter of Gus Farmer, of Fulton, and a former resident of this city, were united in marriage last Friday afternoon at the residence of the bride's father, in Fulton, Ky., Rev. R. E. McCorkle saying the ceremony linking the lives and fortunes of these two very popular young people. Only immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present to witness the marriage. Mr. Higgins is a native of this city and for the past several years has been an employee of the Southern Express Company. He was the local agent at this place for some time and several weeks ago was transferred to Pensacola, Fla., where he holds the responsible position of cashier in the office of the same company. He is a very popular young man and has many friends in the city. Miss Farmer is also a native of Calloway county but for the past several years has been making her home in Fulton. She is a charming, little lady, a social favorite in her home town and will grace any home. They will leave here Friday for Pensacola to live. The Ledger joins their host of friends in happiest wishes for a long wedded union.

Shot Them Both.

At Providence, Ky., Sunday, Easter Morton shot and killed Harvey McDowell, aged 30, and perhaps mortally wounded his wife, age 25, when he caught them coming out of a disreputable house near the town Sunday. He had warned them that he would kill them if he caught them together again. Mrs. Morton, in spite of the warning, took her husband's car and met her lover.

Every Home Needs a Faithful Cough and Cold Remedy.

When seasons change and colds appear—when you first detect a cold after sitting next to one who has sneezed, then it is that a tried and tested remedy should be faithfully used. "Never wrote a testimonial before, but, I know positively that for myself and family, Dr. King's New Discovery is the best cough remedy we ever used and we have tried them all." 50c and $1.00.

G. W. Slaughter was stricken with paralysis the first of the week at his home just north of the city and his condition remains very critical. Mr. Slaughter is about 73 years of age and one of the best known citizens of the county.

Home Town Building.

As explained in my letter printed in your issue of last week, we have solved the problem of keeping our young folks at home. My father started the plan of home amusements and I have followed in his footsteps. My greatest extravagance in this whole business has been, I think, in our tool shop. They tell me that I have inherited a craze of my grandfather's, who, it is said, attended all of the auction sales held within a radius of twenty miles, for the sole purpose of buying mechanics' tools of various kinds for which he had no earthly use. Be that as it may, I certainly have a strong liking for our workshop. It gives our billiard table a lively competition on rainy days, except with the women folks, who favor the more genteel amusement. Every member of the family is a handy jack-of-all-trades in the workshop, and I think that in expense saving for repair bills, the workshop has been a paying investment regardless of my habit of buying more tools than we can possibly find use for. In any event it is a mighty big asset in keeping the boys busy when nothing else under the sun would do so. They can mend anything from a Waterbury watch to a twenty-horse traction engine, or think they can, which is essentially the same thing.

Our swimming pool, tennis, croquet and baseball grounds, as well as the indoor games, including the billiard table, are open to the boys and girls of the whole neighborhood. We make them feel that they are welcome at all times, except during the hours scheduled for work. This rule is rigidly enforced. I could not afford to have our working hours interfered with and we never have any annoyance in that connection. Our workshop is sacred to the use of the family. Elsewhere about the premises visitors are always welcome.

Stock Sale a Success.

The sale of registered stock held last Saturday by Mr. I. T. Crawford was attended by several hundred people, and the prices realized for the stock offered were very satisfactory. Ponies brought from $38 to $71; weanling colts from $75 to $100; jack colts from $70 to $75; Mortgage Lifter was sold to Mr. Cooley, of Waverly, Tenn., for $810. Asher Story was the lucky man in the drawing, securing the season fee. These annual sales held by Mr. Crawford are attracting much attention throughout Kentucky and Tennessee and are growing in interest each year.

Cattle Stronger.

There has been a sharp reaction in the Chicago cattle market. Such heavy bullocks as were a drag on the market a few months back, at $7.75 at 8 per cwt., are now abnormally scarce and in demand at $10 at 10.25. Steers weighing 1,500 pounds, or more, still in the visible supply may be easily counted and an $11 market for that kind will be no surprise.

Golden Jubilee Convention.

The 100th anniversary of the establishment of the first Sunday School will be celebrated by the Golden Jubilee convention to be held in Louisville, October 7-10. Many thousands of Kentucky Sunday School teachers and pupils will doubtless be in attendance.

and they come in numbers.

In addition to keeping our young people perfectly contented with their home surroundings, I find that they go at their work with more vim and energy and seem to take more personal interest in the management of the affairs of the place than they otherwise would do. And last, but not least, I never experience any trouble whatever in getting all of the farm help that I require at any season of the year, while some of my neighbors frequently pay more for less dependable men, especially since the neighboring town commenced to go backward and the young people left for the city or elsewhere.

Every school boy knows that the value of land of every kind, no matter whether it be town or country, is affected by an increase or decrease of population in the district. My farm is not for sale and is not likely to be, but an enterprising, prosperous town near at hand is more desirable as a neighbor than a deserted village. That's why your campaign of home town building appeals to me and why I am interested in your success.

My father's plan, which I have followed and enlarged upon to keep pace with the time, has been absolutely successful. It is a paying proposition in making farm home life desirable and it helps to solve the farm labor problem. The principles applied in a modified form in the country town would serve the same purpose, but the first move should be, in the interest of the stores who are being put out of business by their big city competitors. I read advertisements to compare prices—it's what the women folks call shopping—for pastime. If no prices are quoted the advertisement has no interest for me. I like the idea of making the home town paper serve as a catalogue. IT WOULD PAY ALL RIGHT.

The main sessions will be held in the Second Presbyterian Church, one block distant from the Y. M. C. A. Building, which will be headquarters. The first Sunday School organized in Kentucky was established in what is now Jefferson town. Mr. E. E. Goose, President of the District Association of that community, is a grandson of M. W. Goose, one of the members of the first Sunday School. By 1829 twenty Sunday Schools had been established in Kentucky with 253 teachers and 1,697 pupils. This number has now grown to 4,564 Sunday Schools, 38,000 officers and nearly a half million pupils.

TO DIRECT CROP
DEMONSTRATION

The announcement that the Industrial, Agricultural and Immigration Division of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway is arranging to institute an extensive series of crop demonstrations in certain counties contiguous to the company's lines will be received with interest and enthusiasm by the farmers operating in communities reach by that road, for whose direct benefit the work is to be conducted.

Suitable fields will be selected from the farms of the owners themselves and the value of improved methods in agriculture demonstrated thereon with their assistance. So far as is practical the methods advocated and employed by the United States Agricultural Department through the various state agricultural colleges will be had here to and practiced by the company in the work it is undertaking. In effect the efficiency of the methods taught by the late Dr. Knapp and now promulgated through the state universities will be tested out and confirmed in the presence of the farmer himself, on his own land and with his aid and co-operation.

Such counties along the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway as, under the Smith-Lever law, are denied the privileges provided therein have been selected by the company to conduct its work in. A competent man with both practical and college training in scientific agriculture and crop demonstration has been employed by the company personally to direct the work on the farms. Community farm improvement clubs will be organized with a view to banding the members together in an agreement to follow the directions as given from the company's agricultural office.

This railroad company is to be earnestly commended for the valuable advice and assistance it has been and is giving the farmers, and for the positive and active attitude it assumes in encouraging and promoting more intelligent methods of agriculture in all farming districts its lines reach. The Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway is itself distinctively a Southern industry, whose successful operation is made not only possible but certain by southern well trained labor. It has ever been manned and directed by Southern brains, and as a Southern transportation enterprise, it has been eminently successful. The farmers among whom it desires to conduct this important work may well enter heartily into it with the assurance that it will be directed with that mature judgment which characterizes its every business transaction.

The Next Best Thing to the Pine Forest for Colds is—

Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey which goes to the very root of cold troubles. It clears the throat and gives relief from that clogged and stuffed feeling. The pines have ever been the friend of man in driving away colds. Moreover, the pine-honey qualities are peculiarly effective in fighting children's colds. Remember that a cold broken at the start greatly removes the possibility of complications. 25c.

TEUTONIC FORCES CAPTURE VILNA

PART OF RUSSIAN ARMY IS NEARLY SURROUNDED AND IN IMMINENT PERIL.

ONE ROAD TO MAKE ESCAPE

Von Hindenburg, With Co-operation of Bavarian Troops, Is Attempting to Close Remaining Gap to Safety.

London.—The Germans have occupied Vilna and, by a wide sweeping movement north of that city, have almost, if not entirely, surrounded a part of the Russian army fighting in the railway triangle between Vilna, Lida and Vitebsk.

The Russians in this district now must retire in a southeasterly direction, for the only railway left entirely in their hands is that running from Vilna to Lida and thence to Baranovitch.

Von Hindenburg's army, which took Vilna and has reached Vitebsk, east of Vilna, is working in close co-operation with that of Archduke Leopold of Austria in an effort to catch a part of the Russian army, an operation often tried without success since the Austro-Germans commenced their drive in early May.

The Russians express confidence in the outcome of the battle, but with their northern armies, closely held along the Dvina, and the German flank well protected by their cavalry, which recently occupied Wladyslaw, across the Vilna-Petrograd railway, it seems impossible that any aid can come to them from that direction.

The battle seemingly must be fought out between troops now in the district between Vilna, Lida and Slonim, with the assistance of any reinforcements that can be spared to hold the German force that has reached Vitebsk.

ARTIC EXPLORER RETURNS

Stefansson, Who Was Thought to Have Perished in Unknown Frozen North, Is Heard From.

Nome, Alaska.—Vilhjalmur Stefansson, chief of the Canadian government arctic exploring and surveying expedition that left Victoria, B. C., in June, 1913, and who set out afoot over the ice with two companions from the shores of Northeastern Alaska in March, 1914, to seek new land in uncharted seas, has found new lands, and the only hardships endured were those of short rations.

The power schooner Ruby arrived from Harschel Island Sept. 16, with dispatches from Stefansson to the Canadian government, in which he omits reference to ice perils and gives space to the scientific results achieved. He seems unaware of the anxiety his long silence aroused.

Stefansson is wintering at Banks Land, where he has a large power schooner and a small one. He plans to explore his new territory during the winter and next summer penetrate further into the region of mystery between Alaska and the north pole, where no ship has ever gone.

The southern or Anderson wing of the expedition is pursuing his scientific work in the Mackenzie Delta.

This is the thirteenth death among the members of the expedition. Eight men perished while trying to reach Wrangell Island, and another accidentally shot and killed himself there. Another in the Mackenzie country went insane while lost and committed suicide by shooting.

Stefansson, with two companions, Storker Storkerson and Ole Anderson, set out from Martin Point, Alaska, March 22, 1914, over the frozen polar ocean to search for supposed new lands in the Beaufort sea.

Wife Slayer Killed.

Alexandria, La.—Zack Jones, 65, who escaped after killing his wife near here, has been shot and killed by four officers who discovered his hiding place in the woods. When ordered to surrender, the officers said, the fugitive reached for his shotgun. The authorities of this and surrounding parishes had been searching for Jones since the killing of his wife, Mrs. Jones, who was 50 years old, was shot by her husband, the authorities said, because of jealousy.

Enemies Active on Swiss Border.—Basel, Switzerland.—French and German armies near the Swiss frontier are showing uncommon military activity. Heavy reinforcements are arriving and artillery duels are becoming fiercer daily.

Greece and Bulgaria Cordial.—Athens, Greece.—There are indications that the relations between Greece and Bulgaria are improving. In the most influential circles the conviction is said now to have been reached that neutrality must be the only policy for Greece. The utterances of Premier Radoslavoff of Bulgaria, expressing the hope for cordial relations with Greece, have made a deep impression, as has also the declaration that the future of the Balkans depends upon an understanding between these two nations.

VOTES ANOTHER BIG LOAN

English Parliament Passes Bill Which Makes Total War Credit Over Six Billion Dollars.

London.—Premier Asquith, in the House of Commons, and Earl Kitchener, secretary of war, in the House of Lords, gave an exhaustive survey Sept. 15 of the financial and military situation, both making candid statements of what has been done and of preparations "for carrying the war to a successful conclusion."

Both houses were crowded with members and spectators, who followed with deep interest Mr. Asquith's plain and business-like statement in asking for another vote of credit, which brings the total to $6,310,000,000, and to Earl Kitchener's reading of a carefully prepared and optimistic speech on the military operations and needs.

The premier had to deal with huge figures to explain the financing of the war and warned his hearers that although the expenditure was now more than $17,500,000 daily, there was a likelihood of its increasing owing to the advance to the allies and to the dominions—which had reached $1,250,000,000—and provision for munitions.

Since the war began nearly 2,000,000 men, he said, had enlisted in the army and navy. Besides 800,000 persons were now engaged in the manufacture of munitions. But both figures would have to be increased, and he appealed to the women to give their assistance, believing they would make "a gigantic stride towards the solution of one of the most pressing problems."

Reviewing the military situation, Mr. Asquith stated that in France and Flanders the position of the British troops had been strengthened everywhere by large reinforcements of men and munitions, and that there had been a considerable extension of lines taken over from the French.

In the Dardanelles, he continued, the British had made substantial gains, though they had not succeeded in dislodging the Turks from the crest of the hills. The British now hold a front of more than twelve miles.

In the east, Mr. Asquith said, the Russian army remains unbroken. He asserted that the superiority of the Germans was only in artillery and that their objective was still far out of reach.

LOAN TO BE UNDERWRITTEN

Syndicate of American Bankers Will Receive Commission—Not to Exceed $800,000,000.

New York.—The proposed mammoth credit loan to Great Britain and France, it has been reported, is to be underwritten by a syndicate of American financiers and bankers who are to receive a commission for their services. The securities offered, it was said, will be British and French five per cent government bonds, and the price to the investor is to be par.

The amount of the loan, it was reported, is as yet unestimated, but will be between $600,000,000 and $800,000,000. Whether war munitions will be included within the scope of the credit has not been decided.

The underwriting syndicate, it was reported, will be the largest of its kind ever established in the United States and probably will be open to nearly all national banks, trust companies and state banks that care to participate.

While the amount of the commission to be paid these banks was not expressed in percentages, it is understood the profit will be a small one possibly one-half of one per cent.

HAITI FORMALLY RECOGNIZED

United States Officials Observe Formalities in Recognizing New Government—Treaty Proposed.

Washington.—Formal recognition has been accorded by the United States to the new government of Haiti, headed by President D'Artigue. Charles Davis of the American legation at Port au Prince, has cabled that he conveyed notice of recognition to the Haitian government Sept. 17.

Rear Admiral Caperton, commanding the naval expeditionary force on the island, reported that he had exchanged national salutes with the Port au Prince shore batteries and called with his staff on President D'Artigue.

This action is in line with the intention of the Washington administration to negotiate a treaty by which the United States will assume a virtual protectorate over Haiti, supervising her financial and police administrations. The treaty is before the Haitian congress.

President O'Artigue was elected by congress to succeed President Guillaume, taken from the French legation and killed by revolutionists several months ago. He is the ninth executive the republic has had in the last seven years, all of his predecessors having been killed or exiled.

Serious Slide at Panama.

Panama.—A serious slide in the canal occurred Sept. 18 north of Gold Hill on the east bank. The new movement is much greater than the previous slide at this point. The mass almost entirely fills the channel, so that the earth shows above the water where ships ordinarily pass. The yardage involved amounts to more than 100,000 cubic yards. The dredging division has hopes of cutting the channel through in four or five days, but the general opinion is that it will be a week.

CARRANZA CERTAIN TO BE RECOGNIZED

DIPLOMATS—THUS CONSTRUCTIVE
PAN-AMERICAN ANNOUNCE-MENT.

HOLDS MOST OF COUNTRY

Plans Made to Receive Representatives of Contending Factions on Oct. 9, When They Will Present Their Cases.

Washington.—The action of Secretary Lansing and the Latin-American diplomats in New York is accepted in official Washington as assuring the recognition of Carranza within a reasonably short time. The statement of the conference that another meeting will be held in this city on Oct. 9, when a decision will be reached as to which of the contending forces shall be recognized as the de facto government, indicates that the original plan of insisting upon a conference in Mexico of all factions for the purpose of reaching an agreement among themselves have been abandoned.

Within the three weeks Carranza and Villa are expected to develop their position of the majority of the members of the conference, will then be able to show that he controls the greater position to protect both nationals and foreigners, secure their property rights and keep the pledges he is prepared to make concerning the relations of Mexico toward foreign governments and their citizens and subjects.

Although the official announcement of the conference makes no reference to the fact, it is understood here that arrangements already have been made for Carranza's representatives to appear before the Oct. 9 meeting and the same time representatives of Villa also will be permitted to submit whatever matters they may deem to be of service to the conference in reaching its conclusions.

14 OFFICERS EXECUTED

Returning American Gives Details of Villa's Slaughter Visit to Ranch
House of Gen. Urbina.

El Paso, Texas.—Fourteen staff officers of Gen. Urbina's force were executed with Urbina as the result of the recent visit of Gen. Villa to Urbina's ranch as Las Nieves, according to an American who has arrived here, who said he had accompanied Gen. Villa on the trip.

"Gen. Villa," said the American, "at Jimenez put one of his own operators in charge of the telegraph line which runs from Parral to the Las Nieves ranch. A message was then sent Urbina as follows, supposedly from one of the operators loyal to Urbina:

"Villa and bodyguard have passed through Bermejillo en route to Las Nieves to interview you. How will you receive him?"

"Urbina replied that he would welcome Villa with bullets," Villa then ordered Gen. Rudolfo Pardo to advance before him on the march to the ranch. They arrived early Friday morning and surrounded the ranch house, whereupon Urbina and his staff opened fire from the windows.

"Villa arriving, ordered a charge upon the house. As his men entered by the windows and doors Urbina tried to cover Pardo with his pistol, whereupon Pardo sent a bullet through Urbina's right arm and Urbina surrendered and ordered his staff to follow suit.

"Villa took charge of Urbina and reprimanded him for treason, and told him he would have to die. It had been Villa's plan to send Urbina to Chihuahua for execution as an example, but he turned him over to Gen. Pardo. Five minutes later Pardo returned and reported he had taken Urbina to Chihuahua."

"Fourteen of Urbina's officers were caught in the ranch house. I did not see them executed, but every little while Pardo would take one of the officers from the house and return shortly with a small piece of rope with which the officers' hands had been tied."

Would Mean New Revolt.

New York.—The flat statement that rebellion would follow any action by the United States and A. B. C. mediators to recognize the Carranza government, has been made by Francisco Urquiza, consul-general for Villa.

French Ready for German Submarines.—Paris.—The ministry of marine has announced that measures had been taken which would enable the navy to deal with German submarines.

Americans Inspect Haitian District.—Colon Hatten.—Col. Eli K. Cole and Col. L. W. T. Waller, of the American expeditionary forces, left Cape Hatten Sept. 17 on an armed train for an inspection of the Grand Riviere district, to the southeast of Cape Hatten.

Find U. S. Cavalryman Hanged.—Monterey, Cal.—The body of Capt. John W. Wilan, of the Thirtieth United States Cavalry, was found hanging in his room at the Presidio. Fellow officers said he had been ill for months.

AMERICANS ARE FIRED ON

Two Fights Are Staged Between
United States Soldiers and Mexicans—Mob Calls For Guns.

Brownsville, Texas.—American cavalrymen had two fights with Mexicans across the Rio Grande Sept. 17, one here and one near Donna, about 60 miles up the river. In both clashes the American soldiers were fired upon, and returned the fire without themselves suffering any casualties.

Ten American cavalrymen in the Donna fight, which lasted two hours and a half, reported they were fired upon by about 200 Mexicans. But believed that they had hit 17 Mexicans. Twenty U. S. cavalrymen fought on the outskirts of Brownsville for half an hour with Mexicans on the opposite bank of the Rio Grande. None of the Americans were hit. One Carranza soldier was taken to a Matamoros hospital, probably fatally wounded, but Carranza officers denied emphatically that any of their men joined in the fight. Investigation was in progress to determine who, besides Mexican soldiers, may have mixed in the battle.

Col. A. P. Blockson, the American commander at Fort Brown, here, reported to Maj. Gen. Funston at San Antonio that the Mexicans started the firing.

Immediately after the battle a small mob formed in Matamoros, about the headquarters of Gen. E. P. Nafarrate, Carranza commander, shouting: "Give us guns." They had heard the rifle shots and were angered by reports that their people had been fired upon.

ORDERED OUT OF MEXICO

England and France Join U. S. and Notify Consuls and Subjects to Leave—Means Property Loss.

Washington.—Great Britain and France have followed the lead of the United States and have taken steps to get their subjects and consuls out of the northern part of Mexico. The gravity of the situation is admitted. Fear is entertained that American, British and French citizens will be harmed and that their vast property holdings will be deposited in the disturbances which are expected to attend the fighting between Villa and the Carranza forces.

The French ambassador, M. Jussier, and, Colville-Bailey, the chancellor of the British embassy, called at the State Department to discuss the outlook. Afterwards it was learned that Great Britain has instructed her consuls and trade agents to advise with American officials in Mexico and to use their discretion about warning British subjects to leave and about the advisability of taking their own departure. France has taken similar action.

Both England and France, it is understood, are deeply concerned over the probable fate that awaits the property of their subjects.

It was estimated by officials of the State Department that about 1,000 American citizens are affected by the order to leave the country. It was also suggested that if these citizens should obey the orders of the State Department, property worth at least $250,000,000 would be left to the mercy of bandits and brigands.

The State Department furnishes no plan by which this property may be protected.

RUSSIAN ARMIES ACTIVE

Czar's Forces Defeat Austrians in Battles Along the Galician Frontier.
More Reserves Called.

London.—Stern battles are being fought from Riga to the Roumanian border, and while the Germans continue to advance slowly in the north and center, the Russians in the south are repeating their successes against the Austro-German armies, now being driven across the river Stripa in Galicia and retreating westward, north of the Galician frontier. While these Russian victories are welcomed in Russia and the allied countries as an evidence that the Russian armies are still able to take the offensive when supplied with ammunition, there is no inclination to exaggerate their importance. The engagements, however, keep the Austro-Germans busy and make it imperative to send reinforcements southward, which could be used to better advantage in the north, where Von Hindenburg is directing operations of much greater moment.

Much importance is attached to the decision of Russia to call to the colors territorial reserves. Should the age limit be fixed at 35 years, this fresh call would mean the possible addition of 8,000,000 men to the Russian armies, including the men who had passed through the first line and the reserves and those who heretofore have been exempted as students, or only sons, or men who are not quite up to the physical standard.

British Submarine Sunk.

London.—The admiralty has announced that in all probability the British submarine E7 had been sunk off the Dardanelles. The statement follows:

"The enemy claims to have sunk the submarine E7, Lieut. Commander Archibald D. Cochrane, off the Dardanelles, and to have taken three officers and 25 men of the crew prisoners. As no news has been received from this submarine since the 4th of September, it must be presumed that this report is correct."

SOME COOKERY HINTS

IDEAS THAT MAY BE OF VALUE TO THE HOUSEWIFE.

How the Ideal Custard Should Be Made—Mayonnaise With Just the Right Flavor—Best Way to Serve Cucumbers.

The best custards ever made have not been baked on the oven floor. The tried-and-true method to make the delicious custard is one quart of fresh milk, scalded in a double boiler. No more nor less than four eggs beaten and stirred into one cup of granulated sugar. Always lemon extract with a pinch of nutmeg for the delicate custard. It kills the egg flavor. Now, here is your secret, place it in a pan of boiling water in the oven, cover your baking dish, bake it just one-half hour in a warm but not too hot oven. Insert a silver knife in the middle of the custard. If it comes out clean, the custard is done, otherwise the ingredients stick to the knife.

Of all the professional secrets hard to obtain for the delicious mayonnaise this was the hardest. That unmistakable "tang," the tasty snap, though hidden with other condiments was found to be nothing else but cucumber. No, you could not taste it, for it was blended with the mayonnaise. The cucumber is grated for the purpose. Then, think of it, the vinegar used. Ordinary vinegar? Yes, but prepared with brown sugar, boiled with spices and churned into a white foam with one-half its bulk of olive oil. For potato salad this mayonnaise, mixed with the cucumber and hard-boiled eggs is, really, one of the finest flavored salad dressings known to the chefs who dislike to make known their professional secrets.

Have you seen the cucumber sliced, but in half and decorated with slices of red radish? Very pretty. Score into one-eighth inch sections, but do not cut through the cucumber. Place the flat or cut side of the cucumber on the dish, slice the red radishes, leaving on the red rim. Insert these slices of radishes between the slices of cucumber, alternating the red and white; garnish with parsley, small pickles, small flecks of beet, and serve with salad dressing.

A delicious luncheon dish is known as "Devils on Horseback." Plump capers are used. Each has a little blanket of bacon pinned around his tummy tum tum and all is fried in deep fat and served on buttered toast.

Don't Lose the Pie Juice.

To keep the juice in the pie, instead of using the cloth strips, which spoil the edge of the pie anyway, have the bottom crust larger than the pan. Cut the apples into sections. Before putting them in, cover the bottom of the pastry with half the sugar. One cupful of sugar to a good-sized pie will not be too much if the apples are sour. Lay sections of apples all around the edge. Then fill in the middle. Add the rest of the sugar. Roll out the top crust to fit and lay on. Wet the edge all around and turn up over the top crust the surplus of the under crust. Press down with the fingers, then mark all around with a fork. Make a hole in the top of the pie and wet all over with cold water. The oven should be fairly hot for the first 15 or 20 minutes. Then the heat may be reduced so that the apples may cook thoroughly. It will take about 40 minutes to bake a good-sized pie.

Marshmallow Pudding.

Take two dozen marshmallow drops—stale or fresh—and put them in the bottom of a baking dish. Pour over rich cocoa, made as for breakfast except for a thickening of cornstarch; put the dish on the stove and bake for half an hour. Then take it out, add a meringue and brown this. Serve cold. The cooking melts the marshmallows, which give the cocoa pudding a most delectable taste.

Indian Huckleberry Pudding.

Boil one quart of milk, remove from the stove and stir into it a small cupful of Indian meal. When cool add two well-beaten eggs, two tablespoonfuls of finely-chopped suet, one tablespoonful of molasses, a pinch of salt and one quart of huckleberries. Fill a mold two-thirds full and steam three hours. Use a five-pound lard pail. Use any sauce you care to make.—Exchange.

Brown Betty.

Put a layer of white bread crumbs in a baking dish and then a layer of sliced cooking apples, and so on until the dish is almost full. Sprinkle each layer of apples with sugar and a little spice, if the taste is liked, and also mix small nuts of butter through the layers, being sure to have some of the seasoning on top of the dish. Bake a light brown.

Butternut Fruit Cake.

Two eggs, one cupful brown sugar, one cupful sour cream, two tablespoonfuls molasses, one-fourth cupful butter, one cupful chopped raisins, one cupful chopped butternuts, one-half pound citron, cut very fine, 2 1/2 cupfuls flour, one teaspoonful soda, one teaspoonful each cinnamon, clove and nutmeg.

Mashed Potatoes With Onions.

To four or five cupfuls mashed potato add one cupful boiled onions minced to a pulp, one tablespoonful butter, one tablespoonful milk, some salt and pepper. Beat lightly together and before serving brown the top for a moment in the oven.

FARMER'S WIFE TOO ILL TO WORK

A Weak, Nervous Sufferer
Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Kasota, Minn.—"I am glad to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than anything else, and I had the best physician here. I was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work and suffered with pains low down in my right side for a year or more. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I feel like a different person. I believe there is nothing like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weak women and young girls, and I would be glad if I could influence anyone to try the medicine, for I know it will do all and much more than it is claimed to do." Mrs. CLARA FRANKS, R. F. D. No. 1, Maplecrest Farm, Kasota, Minn.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should be convinced of the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health by the many genuine and truthful testimonials we are constantly publishing in the newspapers.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

What to Do for Itching Skins

Eczema, ringworm and other itching, burning skin eruptions are so easily made worse by improper treatment, that one has to be very careful. There is one method, however, that you need not hesitate to use, even on a baby's tender skin—that is, the resinol treatment. Resinol is the prescription of a Baltimore doctor, put up in the form of resinol soap. This proved so remarkably successful, that thousands of other physicians have prescribed it, constantly for 20 years.

Resinol stops itching instantly, and almost always heals the eruption quickly and at little cost. Resinol ointment and resinol soap can be bought at any druggist's, and are not at all expensive.

Tobacco and Poison-Gas.

Writing to a friend, a corporal of the Canadian artillery says: "What hurt us most was the gas they turned loose. It made the air green and yellow, and it just choked and poisoned a man where he stands. Tobacco saved many a boy's life in that battle. We began to feel pretty choky at the guns, and wondered if tobacco would help us. We thought we would try it, and put a big chew in our mouths, and it made us spit the gas up. Now, when we notice the gas in the air, we put tobacco in our mouths, and it helps us a lot."

Melancholy Habit.

"Why do they always speak of the sea waves as sad?" "Because, stupid, the ocean is generally blue."

Ostrich eggs are being successfully hatched in an incubator by a German breeder.

OUR WATER SYSTEM.

The chief of police, who by virtue of that office is also superintendent of the city water plant, asks the Ledger to correct the statement appearing in this week's issue of the Times regarding the condition of the stand pipe. Mr. Waterfield has just had the tank thoroughly cleaned and placed in as perfect sanitary condition as possible for him to do, and has also had the outside painted. He denies that the tank has been left open and that the statement that "chimney sweeps" were roosting and building in the interior is without any foundation whatever.

Mr. Waterfield is also having the large settling tank at the pumping station cleaned and scrubbed and after this is done he again expects to flush all the mains of the city and will then have the system in the very best possible condition obtainable. It is a fact that our supply of water is at times very undesirable on account of mud, but this is a condition very hard to regulate, especially during the summer months when the capacity of the plant is taxed to the limit. It is only a question of time until the city will be compelled to install a filter, but the impression that our water is filthy is without foundation whatever. Mr. Waterfield also states to us that as soon as he has finished the work of cleaning out the tanks and mains he will send a specimen of the water away for another analysis.

VIEWING THE ROADS.

Engineer Brooks, of Paducah, acting under the supervision of the state road commissioner, is in Calloway and in connection with members of the fiscal court is engaged in going over the roads between Murray and Tennessee river with the view of selecting the most practical route for the expenditure of the county fund together with the state fund available this year for the improvement of Calloway highways. Four routes will be viewed, the Pine Bluff, Newberg, Calloway-town and Eggers ferry roads will be traversed by the engineer and the court.

At the last April term of fiscal court $3,000 of the county funds were set aside for the improvement of the inter county seat roads of the county and to this sum the state added a like amount, and the Ledger learns that quite a liberal sum will be subscribed by individuals along the route selected by the engineer and the fiscal court. Calloway can secure as much as $5,000 from the state aid fund if a similar amount is raised in the county. Quite a rivalry exists between the citizens living along the different proposed routes and the final disposition of the matter will be awaited with considerable interest by the citizens of the east side of the county.

One of the features of the big parade at Glasgow last week at the opening of the Stanley campaign, according to newspaper reports was "Six beautiful ladies astride thoroughbred horses, three abreast." We take it for granted, in as much as they are reputed to be beautiful young ladies, that it was six breasts in a row.

Protection of the eyes from sun glare is even more necessary than a hat to prevent sun-stroke. SYNOPSIS.

La Comte de Sabron, captain of French cavalry, takes to his quarters to raise by hand a motherless Irish terrier pup, and names it Pitchoune. He dines with the Marquis d'Esclagnac and meets Miss Julie Redmond, American heiress, who sings for him an English ballad that lingers in his memory. Trying to save Pitchoune's life, he declines a second invitation to dinner because of a "very sick friend." No more invitations come from the Chateau d'Esclagnac. Pitchoune, though lame from his accident, thrives and is devoted to his master, Sabron, who meets the Marquis and Miss Redmond and after the story of Pitchoune is told Sabron is forgiven and invited to dinner again. Sabron is ordered to Algeria.

Pitchoune, whose eyes had followed the cat out of sight, sprang upon his master and seemed quite ready for the new departure.

"I shall at least have you," Sabron said. "It will be your first campaign. We shall have some famous runs and I shall introduce you to a camel and make you acquainted with several donkeys, not to speak of the historic Arab steeds. You will see, my friend, that there are other animals besides yourself in creation."

"A telegram for mon capitaine," Brunet came in with the blue envelope which Sabron tore open.

You will take with you neither horses nor dogs.

It was an order from the minister of war, just such a one as was sent to some half-dozen other young officers, all of whom, no doubt, felt more or less discomfited.

Sabron twisted the telegram, put it in the fireplace and lighted his cigarette with it, watching Pitchoune who, finding himself a comfortable corner in the armchair, had settled down for a nap.

"So," nodded the young man aloud, "I shall not even have Pitchoune."

He smoked, musing. In the rigid discipline of his soldier's life he was used to obedience. His softened eyes, however, and his nervous fingers as they pulled at his mustache, showed that the command had touched him.

"What shall I do with you, old fellow?"

Although Sabron's voice was low, the dog, whose head was down upon his paws, turned his bright brown eyes on his master with so much confidence and affection that it completed the work. Sabron walked across the floor, smacking the spurs on his heels clanking, the light shining on his brilliant boots and on his uniform. He was a splendid-looking man with race and breeding, and he combined with his masculine force the gentleness of a woman.

"They want me to be lonely," he thought. "All that the chiefs consider is the soldier—not the man—even the companionship of my dog is denied me. What do they think I am going to do out there in the long eastern evenings?" He reflected. "What does the world expect an unaccompanied wanderer to do? There are many things and the less thought about them, the better."

"A letter for Monsieur le Capitaine," Brunet returned with a note which he presented stiffly, and Pitchoune, who chose in his little brain to imagine Brunet an intruder, sprang from the chair like lightning, rushed at the servant, seized the leg of his pantaloons and began to worry them growling. Brunet regarding him with astonishment, Sabron had not thought aloud the last words of the telegram, which he had used to light his cigarette.

Nor will it be necessary to take a personal servant. The indigènes are capable of obedience.

As he took the letter from Brunet's salver he said curtly:

"I am ordered to Algeria and I shall not take horses nor Pitchoune."

The dog, at mention of his name, set Brunet's leg free and stood quiet, his head lifted.

"Nor you either, mon brave Brunet," Sabron put his hand on his servant's shoulder, the first familiarity he had ever shown a man who served him with devotion, and who would have given his life to save his master's. "Those," said the officer curtly, "are the orders from headquarters, and the least said about them the better."

The ruddy cheek of the servant turned pale. He mechanically touched his forehead.

"Bien, mon Capitaine," he murmured, with a little catch in his voice. He stood at attention, then wheeled and without being dismissed, stalked out of the room.

Pitchoune did not follow. He remained immovable like a little dog cut from bronze; he understood—who shall say—how much of the conversation? Sabron threw away his cigarette, then read his letter by the mantlepiece, leaning his arm upon it. He read slowly. He had broken the seal slowly. It was the first letter he had ever seen in this handwriting. It was written in French and ran thus:

Monsieur—My aunt wishes me to say you if you will come to us for a little musicale tomorrow afternoon. We hope you will be free, and I hope she added that you will bring Pitchoune. Not that I think he will care for the music, but afterward perhaps he will run with us as we walk to the gate. My aunt wishes me to say that she has learned from the colonel that you have been ordered to Algeria. In this way she says that we shall have an opportunity of wishing you bon voyage, and I say I hope Pitchoune will be a comfort to you.

The letter ended in the usual formal French fashion. Sabron, turning the letter and rereading it, found that it completed the work that had been going on in his lonely heart. He stood long, musing.

Pitchoune laid himself down on the rug, his bright little head between his paws, his affectionate eyes on his master. The firelight shone on them both, the musing young officer and the almost human-hearted little beast. So Brunet found them when he came in with the lamp shortly, and as he set it down on the table and its light shone on him, Sabron, glancing at the ordonnance, saw that his eyes were red, and liked him none the less for it.

CHAPTER VII.

A Soldier's Dog.

"It is just as I thought," he told Pitchoune. "I took you into my life, you little rascal, against my will, and now, although it's not your fault, you are making me regret it. I shall end, Pitchoune, by being a cynic and misogynist, and learn to make idols of my career and my troops alone. After all, they may be tiresome, but they don't hurt as you do, and some other things as well."

Pitchoune, being invited to the musicale at the Chateau d'Esclagnac, went along with his master, running behind the captain's horse. It was a heavenly January day, soft and mild, full of sunlight and delicious odors, and over the towers of King Rene's castle the sky banners were made of celestial blue.

The officer found the house full of people. He thought it hard that he might not have had one more intimate picture toward his collection. When he entered the room a young man was playing a violoncello. There was a group at the piano, and among the people the only ones he clearly saw were the hostess, Madame d'Esclagnac, a gorgeous velvet frock, then Miss Redmond, who stood by the window, listening to the music. She saw him come in and smiled to him, and from that moment his eyes hardly left her.

What the music was that afternoon the Count de Sabron could not have told very intelligently. Much of it was sweet, all of it was touching, but when Miss Redmond stood to sing and chose the little song of which he had made a lullaby, and sang it divinely, Sabron, his hands clasped behind his back and his head a little bent, still looking at her, thought that his heart would break. It was horrible to go away and not tell her. It was horrible to feel so much and not be able to speak it. And he felt that he might be equal to some wild deed, such as crossing the room violently, putting his hand over her slender one and saying:

"I am a soldier; I have nothing but a soldier's life. I am going to Africa tomorrow. Come with me; I want you, come!"

All of which, slightly impossible and quite out of the question, nevertheless charmed and soothed him. The words of her English song, almost barbaric to him because incomprehensible, fell on his ears. Its melody was already part of him.

"Monsieur de Sabron," said Madame d'Esclagnac, "you are going away tomorrow."

"Yes, Madame."

I expect you will be engaged in some awful native skirmishes. Perhaps you will even be able to send back a tiger skin.

There are no tigers in that part of Africa, Madame.

The young soldier's dark eyes rested almost hostilely on the gorgeous marquise in her red gown. He felt that she was glad to have him go. He wanted to say: "I shall come back, however; I shall come back and when I return," but he knew that such a boast, or even such a hope was fruitless.

His colonel had told him only the day before that Miss Redmond was one of the richest American heiresses, and there was a question of a duke or a prince and heaven only knew what in the way of titles. As the marquise moved away her progress was somewhat like the rolling of an elegant velvet chair, and while his feelings were still disturbed Miss Redmond crossed the room to him. Before Sabron quite knew how they had been able to escape the others or leave the room, he was standing with her in the winter garden where the sunlight came in through the trellises and the perfume of the warmed plants was heavy and sweet. Before them flowed the Rhone, golden in the winter's light. The blue river swept its waves around Old Tarascon and the battlements of King Rene's towers.

"You are going to Algeria tomorrow, Monsieur de Sabron?" Miss Redmond smiled, and how was Sabron to realize that she could not very well have wept there and then, had she wished to do so?

"Yes," he said. "I adore my regiment. I love my work. I have always wanted to see colonial service."

"Have you? It is delightful to find one's ambitions and desires satisfied," said Miss Redmond. "I have always longed to see the desert. It must be beautiful. Of course you are going to take Pitchoune?"

"Ah!" exclaimed Sabron, "that is just what I am not going to do."

"What?" she cried. "You are never going to leave that darling dog behind you?"

"I must, unfortunately. My superior officers do not allow me to take horses or dogs, or even my servant."

"Heavens!" she exclaimed. "What brutes they are! Why, Pitchoune will die of a broken heart." Then she said: "You are leaving him with your man servant?"

Sabron shook his head.

"Brunet would not be able to keep him."

"Ah!" she breathed. "He is looking for a home? Is he? If so, would you might I take care of Pitchoune?"

The Frenchman impulsively put out his hand, and she laid her own in it. "You are too good," he murmured. "Thank you. Pitchoune will thank you."

He kissed her hand. That was all.

From within the salon came the noise of voices, and the bow of the violoncello was beginning a new concerto. They stood looking at each other. No condition could have prevented it, although the Marquis d'Esclagnac was rolling toward them across the polished floor of the music room. As though Sabron realized that he might never see this lovely young woman again, probably never would see her, and wanted before he left to have something made clear, he asked quickly:

"Could you, Mademoiselle, in a word or two tell me the meaning of the English song you sang?"

She flushed and laughed slightly.

"Well, it is not very easy to put it in prose," she hesitated. "Things sound so differently in music and poetry; but it means," she said in French, bravely, "why, it is a sort of prayer that someone you love very much should be kept safe night and day. That's about all. There is a little sadness in it, as though," and her cheeks glowed, "as if there was a sort of separation. It means—"

"Ah!" breathed the officer deeply. "I understand. Thank you."

And just then Madame d'Esclagnac rolled up between them and with an unmistakable satisfaction presented to her niece the gentleman she had secured.

Your Own Home.

William L. Price in "The House of the Democrat," gave us a description of his ideal dwelling in words so genial and simple, and full of such picturesque feeling, that they seem a fitting preface to an article on the planning of a home. "The rooms," he said, "shall be ample and low; wide-windowed, deep-seated, spacious, cool by reason of shadows in summer, warmed by the ruddy glow of fire-sides in winter; open to wistful summer airs, tight closed against the winter blasts; a house, a home, a shrine."

One cannot but wish that every homemaker and architect would learn these words by heart, and hold them as a constant reminder—for in that one prophetic sentence seems to be condensed the very spirit of home.

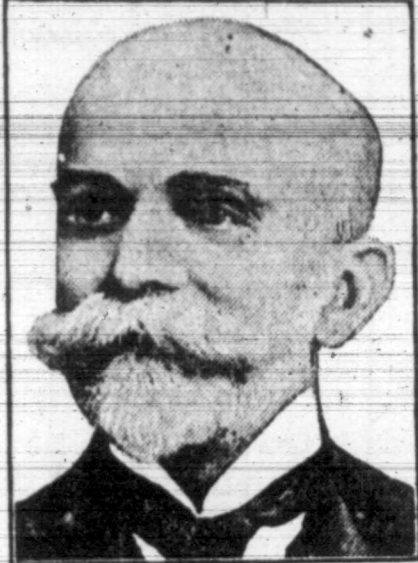

The atmosphere of comfort and restfulness cannot be attained, however, without much wise and thoughtful planning. Its roots are in the practical, the seemingly commonplace—which, rightly treated, results in lasting homelike charm.—The Craftsman

Chinese Currency.

Currency in China has had all sorts of surprises for the layman, but the present situation is simply extraordinary. There is now found to be an actual plethora of dollars and small coins, and since last August the Chinese have been melting them and converting them into sycee. The reason why dollars are being melted is that large issues of the provincial mints have found no use in the market, and as all Chinese accounts are in taels the present price of the dollar is not very conducive to its existence and circulation.

PROMINENT PEOPLE

PORTUGAL'S NEW PRESIDENT

Bernardino Machado, the recently elected president of Portugal, has been prominent for years in public life, having served his country as premier, provisional minister of foreign affairs, minister of the interior and minister to Brazil. He has been considered the foremost man in the republican party, and before the overthrow of the monarchy was regarded as the logical choice of that party for the presidency. In January, 1908, he was accused of conspiracy against the crown, but the charges never were proved.

Senhor Machado, who is sixty-five years old, formerly was professor of philosophy in Coimbra university, but was ousted from his chair because he joined the anticlerical movement. He is an excellent speaker, and during his public career has been regarded as strongly pro-British.

One of the interesting stories regarding Senhor Machado is that he served as Portuguese minister to Washington in 1900 and 1901 under the name of Marquis de Santo Thyrsio, but was recalled because he made a premature announcement to his country of President McKinley's death, which resulted in Lisbon sending messages of condolence four or five days before the president died. After his recall, according to the story, he dropped the title, which was of papal origin, and resumed his family name.

The president of the Republic of Portugal is elected by joint vote of both chambers of parliament for a term of four years, and cannot be re-elected.

PLEASANT TOM TAGGART

The power of personality never was better illustrated than in the career of Thomas Taggart, the Indiana—and national—political leader. Irish by birth, Taggart must have caressed the blarney stone from the earliest days of his infancy to the day of his departure for American shores. This is not to say that he is an orator. He is nothing of the sort. On the contrary, he is no speechmaker at all. But when it comes to saying quickly, in private conversation, or in passing greeting, the right thing in the right way at the right moment, Taggart is without a superior in the whole country. Not even his bitterest enemy will find the slightest fault with Taggart's ever-brilliant, ever-pleasant smile.

That was the gift with which he began life. That was his talent and his capital. A cheery smile, a firm, friendly hand-clasp, a ready sympathy—these went with it. And the combination elevated Thomas Taggart from a clerk's position behind a depot lunch counter and a salary of eight dollars a week, to the highest position of political bossism in state and nation and to the millionaire's status in point of fortune.

Taggart's intimate friends are agreed that Taggart's political leadership has cost him, in money, far more than it has ever put in his pocket. His hands, they say, are clean. His fortune was made when he gained control of the company that operates the French Lick Springs hotel.

GUARDS PRECIOUS DOCUMENTS

Woman's sphere in affairs of state extends into one of the most important offices of the government. Especially important at the present day is the library of the state department, where are kept the treaties, records and valuable data that determine the American policy in world affairs.

Miss Lucy Stuart Fiffe, who has catalogued and classified the library, is the expert clerk of the library, and cares for its precious documents. She takes the place of the honored "keeper of the rolls," who ranks as a high dignitary in foreign governments.

"We have here a great many publications and documents that are to be found nowhere else in the world," she says. "Among our most precious documents are the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States in the originals, with the articles of confederation, the emancipation proclamation and other papers vital to our country's history."

Miss Fiffe is a Kentucky girl. She taught school in Pennsylvania, Georgia and Michigan, and won her present office through the civil service. Dr. Eugene Wambaugh of Harvard, who was a special counsel for the state department when the European war broke out, remarked that the government had at least one employee well placed. She translates foreign languages, and knows the contents of treaties like a book.

CHIEF JUSTICE WHITE'S JOKE

Although ponderous and learned and dignified, Chief Justice White of the Supreme court cracks an occasional joke.

White buys cigars at a certain drug store in Washington, and the man behind the cigar counter has come to know him well enough to talk to him rather freely.

One day as he handed the chief justice his change the cigar salesman inquired, politely, by way of small talk:

"Well, Mr. Chief Justice, how's the Supreme court going to decide those antitrust cases next week?"

"It isn't a matter that we're supposed to talk about about," replied White, pleasantly. "Still I don't mind telling you, provided you'll give me your assurance that it will go no further."

"Oh, I shan't tell a soul," declared the cigar man, earnestly. "Not a word."

White leaned over the counter and whispered:

"We're going to decide them—right."

"Vaporize" Croup or Cold Troubles

Vapor treatments for cold troubles are better than internal medicine, as the vapors carry the medication direct to the lungs and air passages without disturbing the stomach.

When Vick's "Vap-O-Rub" Salve is applied over the throat and chest, these vapors, released by the heat of the body, are inhaled with each breath. 25c. to $1.00.

Sports Clothes in Bright Hues

Everybody is pleased with the light, gay colors of the coats and sweaters, golfing outfits, and all sorts of sports clothes in which the feminine half of the world has gone about this summer. And now that heavier things are needed for the crisp autumn days, the gay colors are to continue, and the dashing broad stripes, too. And with them, white and cream color in heavy knitted caps, sweaters and scarfs are not by any means an infrequent sight.

The golfing sweater and cap shown in the picture is a very good type of the most practical of all these very practical things. Just now there is a fad for long woolen scarfs. They are knitted or woven in all the accepted gay colors for sports clothes, in white and in the quieter colors as well. For every woman, young or old, appears to have waked up to find herself wanting a woolen scarf, and the dark, quiet colors are made for the few who like grave things. One sees these scarfs everywhere—with street suits on the shopping rounds, in the autos along the drives, at the outdoor concerts, and on the business girl going to and from her work. In gold and light yellow, in rose and primrose pink, in vivid green and brilliant cerise they greet the coming autumn with hues as bright as those of the turning leaves.

The sweater shown here has a collar and belt in line with the new styles, wherein a belt across the back or extending part way round the figure is much featured. The cap to match is made with becomingness as well as comfort in mind. A scarf, added to these two pieces, leaves nothing to be needed for the out-of-door life led by those who have learned to defy the weather.

New Millinery Rich and Chic

The quest for something new in millinery for fall has begun in earnest and there is no indication that the seekers after novelty and beauty will be disappointed. Ideas originated by our own American designers, and some others, which the French, in spite of the distractions of war, have had the inspiration and the time to work out, are more than creditable to both countries. The new millinery is rich and chic and sufficiently novel.

There is a great variety in graceful shapes to choose from. Noticeably prominent are those that tilt upward at the back. There are many high-crowned hats and many of uneven width of brim. This gives the milliner endless latitude in the shaping of brims to suit the individual face. In fabrics, velvet, satin, metallic laces and braids bespeak a winter of rich effects in millinery. This is borne out by the trimmings of fur, and of flowers made of silk materials, many of them covered with metallic gauzes. Cut steel ornaments and those of beadwork are to be seen in all authoritative displays. The most beautiful of fancy feathers and the richest of ostrich plume testify to the advance in taste which demands them in all parts of the country.

Three types of the new fall hats are shown here. The big, soft, picturesque hat at the right boasts a higher crown than those on wide-brimmed models of the passing season. The velvet is shirred over the frame, and the exquisite making of this hat proclaims the work of a trained professional. In fact, although many of the new hats seem very simple, it is by no means a simple matter to make or trim them. A cord of beads finished with balls encircles the crown. The wide brim sweeping upward at the left makes place for further trimming, which is sometimes of ribbon and ornaments, as in this hat, and sometimes of short soft plumes.

Something between a cloche hat and a poke shape is pictured at the top of the group. The frame is covered with velvet put on plain. It forms a background for a cluster of rich flowers. A bridle of narrow velvet ribbon gives a touch of high style value. It terminates on the underbrim in long hanging loops of the ribbon.

A cleverly draped turban, made of velvet, again attests to the work of an artist in drapery. The material is caught apparently under a large buckle of cut steel. This is the sort of hat that appeals to the matron of quiet taste but a sense of style that takes the art of the designer.

Makes Rapid Headway

Kidney disease often advances so rapidly that many a person is firmly in its grasp before aware of its progress. Prompt attention should be given the slightest symptom of kidney disorder. If there is a dull pain in the back, headache, dizzy spells or a tired, worn-out feeling, or if the kidney secretions are offensive, irregular and attended by pain, use Doan's Kidney Pills at once. No other kidney medicine is so well recommended.

A Tennessee Case

J. W. Hall, minister, 806 Adams Ave., Memphis, Tenn., says: "For two years I had kidney and bladder disease and I suffered from a constant dull ache through the small of my back and in my thighs. The kidney secretions were scanty and burned in passage. Doan's Kidney Pills went to the root of the trouble, completely curing me. What is still better, the cure has remained permanent."

Blinded by Blue Heron.

A blue heron, alighting in the yard of a school in Ashbury Park N. J., attacked a boy, pecking him in the left eye and destroying his sight. An eye specialist, called to attend him, fears that the right eye may be affected and the boy become totally blind as a result of the injury. The boy attempted to catch the bird to have it for a pet. It turned on him and plunged its long beak into the left eye several times.

School Notes.

By J. W. Jones

The enrollment of our school keeps growing and is now above the five hundred mark. It seems that the compulsory attendance law will need to be enforced before a few parents will give their children the opportunities of an education, but this will be done. Those who are interested in the more enlightened citizenship and want no child cheated out of his or her birthright, the opportunity for an education, will please co-operate with us by reporting the names of children under fourteen who are not in school.

What a deplorable thing it is that the compulsory law does not include children up to 16 years of age, with few exceptions, instead of only up to 14. The state and town offers a high school education to every boy and girl and yet, quite a number of boys and girls are out of school and on the streets, with little or no employment. Mr. or Mrs. Parent, what are you thinking about? What will these children be ten and twenty years from now? The leading citizens of the community? Don't you know the next generation will be, and is already, in many cases, better educated than the present and if your boy and your girl is to compete successfully with his or her fellows a much better education than you have is absolutely necessary? Wake up! Be the boss of your house. Start those children to school and see to it that they stay there and study some at home as well.

Last Friday afternoon the high school was organized into two literary societies, Mr. Jaggers and Miss. Owen have charge of one, Mr. Whitnell and Miss Wear of the other. The annual contest will take place in February. We are planning an additional contest in oratory when pupils will deliver orations that they have written themselves and the winner receives a ten dollar prize.

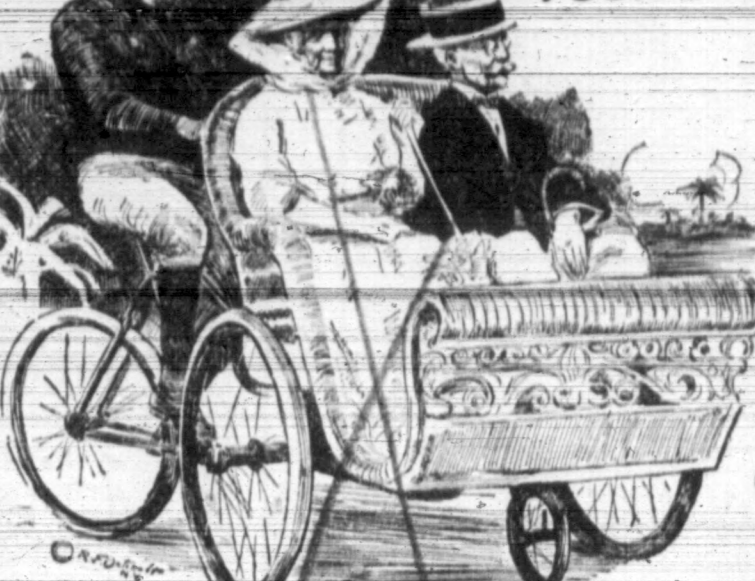

The reason some pupils do not go to high school is because they see no benefit or good in studying high school subjects and their parents, as ignorant as the children, are convinced by their children that there is no profit to be derived from a high school course. And some parents, even when the children want a high school education, ignorantly contend that there is no good in it. Here is a case of a fellow being "down on a thing" he is "not up on." If he knew anything about high school subjects except by hear-say, i. e. if he had a high school education, he would recognize the value of it. Parents are rare indeed who have a high school education and don't want their children to have one too. Parents who oppose their children getting a high school education and also a college education glaringly expose their own ignorance and are a great hindrance and handicap to their own children.

THE "PRUDENT MAN" BANKED HIS MONEY WHEN HE WAS YOUNG

It is all right for a man, when he is along in years, and can AFFORD it, to spend money for luxuries, but the young man and the middle aged should remember that "Life's December" comes to everyone, and that to be old and POOR is life's greatest tragedy.

To prevent this, begin NOW—put your money in the FIRST NATIONAL BANK; let it STAY there, and ADD TO IT every time you can.

Less than two weeks remains before the opening of the great Calloway county fair, and the directors are bending every energy toward the completion of all details looking forward to the most successful meeting in the history of the organization. Every Calloway citizen should begin now to arrange his business affairs in order that he with every member of his family might attend this best of all county institutions and attend every day. Get your farm, live stock and other exhibits ready and have them at the grounds the very first day of the fair.

depends upon the attendance, on the extent to which the visitors avail themselves of the lessons shown by the various exhibits. Grown people and children are alike, to educate them you must amuse them. The midway and big free attractions are as essential to the success of the fair as the recess is to the school and without them the attendance would be small and the opportunity to accomplish the greatest good would be lost.

THE GREAT CALLOWAY FAIR, October 6-8-9 will have the best there is, the fair that stands for all that a good fair should be.

THERE are many kinds of Autoloading and Pump guns—some to be had at very low prices. But it is typical of sportsmen that the great majority prefer Remington-UMC Autoloading guns in the hands of the average man. If you shoot at traps or in the field, go to the Remington-UMC Dealer in your community and let him show you these guns. GALL STONES LEAVE CAIRO MAN QUICKLY

WELL-KNOWN MECHANIC HAS STRIKING EXPERIENCE WITH TANLAC.

STOMACH SUFFERER FOR YEARS, GALL STONES TOO.

TANLAC DID THE WORK FOR ME.

Cairo, Ill., Sept. 22.—D. L. Minter, of 209 Thirty-fourth St., a well-known mechanic who is employed at the Singer Sewing Machine Company's Cairo factory and a resident of the city for years, relates a remarkable instance of the power of Tanlac in the treatment of diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bladder. Mr. Minter is a man of known high integrity and his general reputation will insure his words careful consideration. "I was thought to have gall stones," said Mr. Minter yesterday. "The terrible pains I suffered at times seemed to confirm this diagnosis. My stomach was all to the bad, I had to be terribly careful about my eating and, even then, my stomach would become swollen with gas after my meals, my side would be stabbed with pain and I would belch the sourest kind of stuff. My food didn't seem to benefit me in the least; I lost weight and strength all the time, in spite of all the doctoring I did.

"There was no such thing as a whole night of sure-enough sleep. My rest was broken; I'd have to get up several times in the night, and I was miserable all around. It was about this time that I began to read about Tanlac in all the papers and, when I heard how much good it was doing other people, I made up my mind to try it, too, though I had tried almost everything made.

"I've taken three bottles of Tanlac now and when you remember how thin and poor-looking I was a short time ago, you needn't ask what I think of it. Tanlac is the best tonic on the market. Since shortly after I started it, I have not had a single pain in my stomach; there's no more gas or belching and I have a splendid appetite. Ever-rathering taste good and nothing causes me the least trouble that I eat. If there is anything the matter with me now in the way of gall stones, I can't tell it, for I feel better than I have in years. I give Tanlac full credit; nothing ever relieved me until I got it. It sure did do the work for me."

Tanlac, the preparation of which Mr. Minter speaks so enthusiastically, is being sold in Murray exclusively at Dale & Stubblefield's drug store, under the personal direction of J. L. Cooper's assistants who are called upon by scores of people daily to explain the remarkable powers of this new medicine.
