THE MURRAY LEDGER.

VOL. 87, NO. 17.

MURRAY, KENTUCKY THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1915

$1.00 PER YEAR.

RESOLUTIONS BY THE ASSOCIATION

At the meeting of the board of directors of the tobacco association held last week in the city of Clarksville resolutions were adopted outlining the future proceedings of the organization, and as indicated in the columns of this paper last week, it is now placed fairly up to the tobacco growers as to whether the association is to be maintained or not. While Calloway has pledged a liberal percentage of her crop it is going to be very necessary that every acre possible must be pledged if the organization is to be maintained. The Ledger hopes that every tobacco grower will read these resolutions and ponder well before refusing to place his crop with the organization this year.

Be it resolved by the Board of Directors of the Planters' Protective Association of Kentucky and Tennessee (Inc.), assembled at headquarters, Clarksville, Tenn., on Wednesday, September 22, 1915, that:

Inasmuch as great concern and anxiety with reference to the future of the organization is manifest, and inasmuch as this board feels assured that the conditions are unsatisfactory and unsafe on account of not having a sufficient supply of tobacco pledged, and inasmuch as this board feels assured such condition is brought about by a very large number of growers of tobacco hoping and believing there may be a sufficient number of signers to the pledge to make a success of said association without them, and inasmuch as in former years the membership books have been reopened upon the representation that much additional tobacco would be thereby pledged as possibly to occasion belief on the part of growers that such books might be reopened any time, and inasmuch as this board has not in the past adopted a date at which the signing of pledges would positively be discontinued since the agreement that such time would be set and adopted at this meeting of this board—

That Saturday night, October 23, 1915, be adopted as the time at which said membership books will close; that unless 135,000 acres of tobacco have been pledged by such time all pledges which have been taken be declared invalid and of no force and effect.

Be it further resolved, That in the event those who signed the 1915-1916-1917 pledge are released and that so much of the function of the Association is discontinued, expenses be reduced to the minimum of safety and consistency; but inasmuch as it appears to this board that the sentiment of tobacco growers is overwhelmingly in favor of an organization notwithstanding an apparent desire to have others make its success, that all county committees, prizees, warehousemen, and friends of the organization to redouble their efforts to convince growers who are not affiliating with said organization that the association cannot and will not be maintained without their co-operation, and to induce them to sign the pledge and to become members in the short time intervening between now and October 23, 1915.

Resolutions of Respect.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted at the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Planters' Protective Association at Clarksville Sept. 22, 1915:

Whereas, God in his providence has seen fit to take from us our fellow officer and friend John H. Keys; now therefore, be it resolved that in his death this Association has lost an efficient officer, his friends a genial companion and his family a devoted husband and father, and we desire to express to his family our sympathy in their sorrow, and

Be it resolved that this resolution be spread upon the minutes of the Association and that a copy be sent to his family and one to each of the papers published in his home county.

Signed James West, J. M. Counts, Lee Clark, Chairman, Committee.

A Clogged System Needs Attention.

Are you bilious, dizzy and listless? Dr. King's New Life Pills taken at once seize upon constipation and starts the bowels moving naturally and easily. Moreover it acts without griping. Neglect of a clogged system often leads to most serious complications. Poisonous matters and a body poorly functioning need immediate attention. If you wish to wake up to-morrow morning happy in mind and entirely satisfied, start your treatment to-night. 25c a bottle.

Pension Rolls Reduced.

Washington, Sept. 23. — Death decreased the government's Civil war pension roll nearly ten per cent during the last fiscal year, according to the annual report of Commissioner of Pensions Satzger, made public today. A total of 396,370 Union veterans' names remained on the roll July 1, 33,255 less than a year ago. Payments to Civil war pensioners during the year totaled $156,668,771, compared with $172,417,546 in 1914.

Home Town Building.

The professional men of the smaller towns of the United States are, or should be, vitally interested in the subject of Home Town Building. All of them are quite likely to see customers pass their doors en route to the nearest city, if they are willing to rest content with conditions which prevail at the present time.

"I am not interested in the question of who sells household supplies or farm implements to the farmers of this district," says the doctor and the lawyer. "I don't care a continental whether or not the town paper goes broke or quits business," says the dentist, the barber, the hotel man and the real estate agent. "I take one or two of the big city daily papers, and I am not interested in the local news of the home paper," is the usual comment of the average citizen.

Even the local banker may be lukewarm on the subject. He, like the other busy men of the town, has his eye on the movements of the big things of the city and thinks that local affairs, aside from his deposits and loans, are worth only passing notice.

Let us investigate the question to ascertain whether these gentlemen are justified in considering themselves as independent of home town benefits and indifferent as to whether the trade of the farmers of the neighborhood is secured by the local merchants, or if it goes to some big city. Right here, nine out of ten of the men in the classifications named, will declare that it is rank nonsense to suppose that any such views are held by members of their profession or class. On that score, I want to say, that if there is one class of individuals on this earth, who enjoy what Henry George stigmatizes as "uncertain increment," which means living on benefits created by others, it is the professional men of the town in the rural districts. He is what the manufacturer describes in his factory expense, as an overhead charge. That is to say, he may be a necessary part of the equipment, but he is a non-producer.

The Colds of Mankind Cured by Pines

Have you ever gone through a typical pine forest when you had a cold? What a vigorous impulse it sent! How you opened your lungs to take in those invigorating and mysterious qualities. Yes, Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey possesses those stimulating qualities and overcomes hacking coughs. The inner lining of the throat is strengthened in its attack against cold germs. Every family needs a bottle constantly at hand. 25c.

George W. Slaughter

In the death of Mr. Geo. W. Slaughter which occurred last Friday at his home in the north part of the city, the town of Murray and Calloway county lost one of her most valuable and highly esteemed citizens. His death followed a stroke of paralysis that he suffered the first of the past week. Mr. Slaughter was about 73 years of age and had been a resident of this city and associated with the business interests of the city and county for many years. He was a splendid gentleman and numbered his friends by the hundreds.

The funeral services were held at the Christian church Saturday afternoon and were conducted by the pastor, Elder Green, after which the remains were laid to rest in the City Cemetery under the auspices of the Masonic lodge of which he was a member. He is survived by a wife and several children.

Dr. John G. Brooks Dead.

Dr. John G. Brooks, aged 75 years, dean of the Paducah medical profession, died suddenly in a sanitarium at Louisville Saturday. He was one of Paducah's foremost and most beloved citizens and will be greatly missed. He is survived by one daughter and four sons.

Total Births and Deaths for 1914

The Ledger is in receipt of a bulletin issued by the State Board of Health devoted to vital statistics report for the year 1914 from which the following figures are gathered:

Deaths from preventable diseases.—Tuberculosis of the lungs (consumption) 30; other tuberculosis, 2; typhoid fever, 12; diphtheria, 2; scarlet fever, 0; measles, 4; whooping cough, 1; pneumonia, broncho-pneumonia, 23; diarrhoea, enteritis, under 2 years, 10; meningitis, 3; influenza (grippe), 5; puerperal septicemia (child-bed fever), 0; other diarrhoeal diseases, 12. Cancer, 10; violence, 10. Total births, 560; still births excluded, 15. Of the total deaths reported 48 in each hundred are due to preventable diseases. Total deaths (still births excluded), 221, divided as follows: Of infants under 1 year, 42; children aged 1-4 years, 29; aged 65 years and over, 64.

There was a baptizing at Cleve Wells' last Sunday.

Amos Workman and family visited his father, Grant Workman, near Elm Grove last Sunday.

Evans wants to remind the people of his section that Oct. 11th is the time set for the work to begin on the big hill near his home and that every body is invited to help a little. A number of the good people have promised to give from one to three days with plows and scrapers on this bad hill. That sounds good to the writer. I think it speaks well for a community to join hands and do a lot of good work on these bad hills. Us folks learned a long time ago that if we wanted a good road, we only had to go to work and do it, that the county did not care for us having good roads if we would make them and not ask for help. Let every overseer in the county try his muscle this fall. Ho Bo.

A Special Exhibit.

The agricultural exhibit which was at the Louisville State Fair which was furnished by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station and the Federal Government was shipped to L. Y. Woodruff Sept. 23, to be exhibited at the Calloway County Fair Oct. 6 to 9.

This exhibit is strictly educational. The better methods of farming, livestock, horticulture, domestic science, home economics, etc., with competent men in charge to explain and give much valuable information along all these lines and many others, that every man, woman, boy and girl in the county should not fail to see.

Notice.

I wish to inform the public that I have sold my entire blacksmithing business at Cherry, Ky., to Hendon Bros., and I want to thank each and every one for their liberal patronage and kindness shown me. Hendon Bros. will continue the business in the future as I have in the past, and will be ready at all times to give you a square deal and courteous treatment.

As I leave in a short time I kindly ask all who are indebted to me to call and settle not later than October 15. Thanking you once more for past favors, you have my best wishes. — C. L. McCallister, Cherry, Ky., route 5

FULL MILITARY HONOR GIVEN

Washington, Sept. 28. — Full military honors today were accorded fourteen unidentified victims who lost their lives when the submarine F-4 sunk at the entrance of Honolulu harbor.

Their dismembered bodies in four caskets were buried in the Arlington national cemetery, the services being attended by high officials of the navy and others.

As the flag-draped caissons were drawn along Pennsylvania avenue from the Washington navy yard to Arlington, thousands of Civil war veterans and others attending the Grand Army of the Republic encampment lined the streets with uncovered heads.

There were twenty-one men aboard the submarine. Four bodies were identified and buried elsewhere. The names of the seventeen unidentified, including three whose bodies never were recovered, are given by the navy department as follows: Officers: Lieut. Alfred L. Ede, of Reno, Nev., who commanded the F-4, and Ensign Timothy A. Parker, of Murray, Ky.

Enlisted men: Clark G. Buck, Tacoma, Wash.; Ernest C. Cavin, New Orleans; Harley Colwell, Seattle; Walter F. Covington, Fort Worth; George L. Degeth, Portland, Ore.; Alston H. Grindle, San Francisco; Edwin H. Hill, Etowah, Tenn.; Francis M. Hugheson, Los Angeles; Albert F. Jennie, Festus, Mo.; Archie H. Linger, Erie, Pa.; Horace L. Moore, Germantown, Pa.; Wm. S. Nelson, New York; Frank G. Pierrard, Laverne, Cal.; Henry A. Wither, San Diego, Cal.; and Fredrick Gillman, St. Louis.

The funeral escort was composed of all the regular troops and bluejackets in this vicinity. Religious services at the cemetery were conducted by Chaplain M. C. Gleason, attached to the Newport training station, and J. E. Frazier, attached to the Norfolk navy yard. The usual military ceremonies were observed at the cemetery, including the firing of musketry and the sounding of taps.

Secretary Daniels, Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, and a large delegation of naval officers, including the members of the advisory council, attended the services. Mrs. Ede and relatives of several other victims also were present.

Fire at Fulton.

Fulton, Ky., Sept. 23. — The home of B. R. Newport, 211 4th street, was discovered in flames Wednesday morning about 8:30, the fire seeming to start about the kitchen cabinet.

No one was at home, Mr. Newport being downtown and Mrs. Newport having gone to the station to take the 8:40 train to Crutchfield to visit her mother.

Most of the household goods in the front part of the house were removed. Mr. Newport carried $400 insurance on his household effects and his loss will be something less than that amount. The house, a four room cottage, belongs to Walter Russell, of Memphis, and carried $800 insurance on it. The loss will probably not be over $250.

The origin of the fire is a mystery. The fire had been out some time in the gasoline stove. The fire appears to have started about the kitchen cabinet. There were some matches in it and a mouse may have ignited one of them. Mr. Newport suffered a loss last year in a fire.

MYSTERY VEILS BALKAN SITUATION

BULGARIA NOTIFIES ALLIES THAT HER MOBILIZATION IS A DE-FENSIVE MEASURE.

GREECE READY TO FIGHT

Athens Government Assembles Troops and Prepares to Resist Any Aggression of Bulgars Against Herself or Serbia.

London.—Mystery still veils the Balkan situation and the intentions of Bulgaria, which had been definitely placed on the side of the central powers, has now, as the result of recent news from Sofia, informed the entente powers that her mobilization was ordered in the national interest and that it had not the slightest aggressive character.

The text of the note is virtually the same as the wording of the semi-official statement issued at Sofia on Sept. 23, which said the "placing of Bulgaria into a state of armed neutrality is explained by changes which recently occurred in the political situation," and that "Bulgaria has not the slightest aggressive intention, but is firmly resolved to be fully armed to defend her rights and independence."

The official note to the powers also was dispatched from Sofia on Sept. 23, so that it was framed before Greek mobilization had been decided upon.

It has been charged that Bulgaria intends to attack Serbia in an effort to regain Macedonia. Such an attack, it is pointed out, would bring Greece to the side of her ally, and, as in the last Balkan war, Greece, Serbia and possibly Roumania may be found opposed to Bulgaria.

Roumania has mobilized and Greece is taking similar action. The conclusion, therefore, has been drawn here that they, at least, fear Bulgaria has aggressive designs, if not against Greece, then against Serbia.

GREEK ARMY MOBILIZING

Chamber of Deputies Will Take Action to Meet Bulgarian Situation.
Whole Country Aroused.

London.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Athens says: "A decree has been promulgated convoking the chamber of deputies on Wednesday to pass an act of martial law and to put at the disposal of the government all the state railways. The transportation of merchandise has been forbidden."

The Greek, Roumanian and Serbian ministers successively visited Sir Edward Grey on Sept. 24. The Greek minister formally communicated to the foreign secretary a telegram from his government announcing that "in view of the mobilization of Bulgaria, the Hellenic government considers it a measure of elementary prudence to order a general mobilization of the Hellenic naval and military forces."

It is estimated that in addition to the Greek navy, 350,000 troops will be mobilized within a few days.

Thus Bulgaria's military preparations have brought the remaining Balkan state under arms, for Roumania for some time has had her troops ready for an emergency.

What plans Bulgaria has in mind and what Greece and Roumania will do when these plans mature are still matters for speculation. One thing seems clear, however, Bulgaria and Turkey, many years sworn enemies, have composed their differences.

4,000 Bohemians Slain.
New York.—The massacre of 4,000 Bohemian troops, composing the Twentieth Bohemian Regiment, by its own officers for refusing to fight the Serbians, was described by Ottokar Bartik, manager for Emmy Destin, the Metropolitan opera singer. Mr. Bartik, who had the information of a relative arriving in America from Bohemia, vouches for its authenticity. The officers drew the men up on parade, flanked by a machine gun division. At the signal the machine guns were turned loose.

Danish King's Birthday.
Copenhagen.—King Christian of Denmark celebrated his forty-fifth birthday anniversary Sept. 26. The duty of congratulating his majesty fell to the American minister, Dr. Maurice F. Egan, as acting head of the diplomatic body and the representative of a neutral power.

Serbs Expect Attack.
Nish, Serbia.—The best information obtainable here indicates that there are 800,000 German troops available for an attempt to force a passage through Serbia. It is felt in Nish that this movement will be undertaken, although when is not known.

Stockings Going Up.
Philadelphia.—A recommendation that hosiery prices be raised was adopted by the National Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers' Association at a special meeting here.

ON THE BRINK OF WAR

Bulgarian Government is Dissatisfied
With Serbia's Reply—Army Mobilizing and Troops Moving.

Sofia, Bulgaria.—Bulgaria apparently is on the brink of war. The people generally believe that hostilities are imminent. The military authorities have taken possession of the railways and ordinary traffic has been suspended. Diplomatic representatives of the entente powers generally recognize that their cause is a lost one, and that Bulgaria is manifesting clearly a tendency toward the central powers. This is due to the dissatisfaction of the government at Serbia's reply in the negotiations for territorial concessions in Macedonia, and at the conduct of Greece in this connection.

None of the allies' representatives cherishes longer the hope that Bulgaria can be prevented from joining with Germany, Austria and Turkey.

In government circles the statement is made that all the military measures taken are of a preventive nature, designed solely to guard against circumstances which might threaten Bulgaria's position in the present situation, which is developing with extraordinary rapidity. These measures consist in turning over the railroads to the military authorities and suspending ordinary traffic.

Reports from many parts of Bulgaria tell of enthusiastic demonstrations in favor of the government. This is considered symptomatic of public feeling.

The formal cession by Turkey of the territory along the Dedeagatch railroad has been delayed by the action of the entente powers in notifying Bulgaria that acceptance would be regarded as an unfriendly act.

So far there has been no general Bulgarian mobilization, but the troops are leaving their stations throughout the country.

The capital and the country are quiet. Public opinion, which was somewhat divided a few days ago, is now stiffening in support of Premier Radosloff. There are indications that within a few days comparative unanimity concerning the government's action will prevail.

MAY ASK GERMAN'S RECALL
Letters Written by Capt. von Papen and Carried by Archibald Angus, Official at Washington.

Washington.—As the result of the receipt and publication of the correspondence taken from James F. J. Archibald by British secret service agents, the preponderance of opinion in official circles now is that this government will proceed decisively against the following persons:

Capt. Franz von Papen, military attaché of the German embassy, who has referred to the American people as "idiotic Yankees."

Alexander von Nuber, Austrian consul general at New York, who submitted to Dr. Constantin T. Dumba, the Austrian ambassador, the plan for fomenting strikes in munitions plants in the United States.

William Warm, editor of the Hungarian paper Szabadnapi, who prepared the memorandum outlining the plan for interference with the munitions plants, which was approved by Ambassador Dumba and was the basis for the request for his recall.

It can be stated on good authority that this government will either ask for the recall of Capt. von Papen or hand him his passports; that it will cancel the exequatur of Consul General von Nuber, and will refer the case of Warm to the proper department for such legal action as may fit the offense.

The case of Ambassador Dumba himself again became one of serious consideration for the government, principally because the correspondence revealed he had made comment on the president, referring to his "self-willed" temperament, and he discussed the president's relations to congress.

In this connection the important discovery has been made that Ambassador Dumba had asked the state department to arrange for his safe passage home, and that his request has been held up by the administration for reasons not fully revealed.

Officials say, however, that this government will not interest itself to get a safe conduct for Ambassador Dumba until Austria has made a direct and categorical response to the request for his recall.

Archibald Will Escape Trial.
Washington.—James F. J. Archibald, American, who acted as messenger for Dr. Constantin T. Dumba, Austro-Hungarian ambassador here, probably will not be prosecuted by the department of justice. Examination of the papers relating to Archibald's activities has not been completed by the department, but some officials say there is no statute covering the case. As a result of the incident, congress would be urged to enact a law to cover such cases.

Haitians Attack Americans.
Cape Haitian.—In an attack by Haitian rebels on an American force about two miles from Cape Haitian, 40 Haitians were killed. Ten Americans were wounded. The rebels have refused to disarm and the Americans are marching on Haut Du Cap.

Alienist Is Dead.
New York.—Dr. Austin Flint, 72, alienist, much in the public eye as star witness against Harry K. Thaw, was found dead in his home here. Apoplexy was the cause of death.

Ostrow Is Captured.

TRENCHES WON BY ALLIES IN WEST

ADVANCE ALONG 20 MILES OF FRONT GREATEST SINCE BATTLE OF MARNE.

BERLIN ADMITS REVERSE

Heavy Bombardment of Artillery Prepares Way for Successful Infantry Onslaughts—20,000 Germans Are Taken Prisoners.

London.—Heavy and continuous attacks by the British and French have cost the Germans more than 20,000 wounded men taken prisoners and 20 miles of trenches in the west.

Sonchex has been stormed and captured, and an advance in reported north of Arras. The assaults, which began on the morning of Sept. 25, at last accounts were still raging furiously.

A German official statement forwarded from Berlin admits German reverses.

For several weeks there had been an almost incessant bombardment with big guns, increasing late last week in intensity, particularly in the sectors where infantry attacks took place. This prepared the way for the general assault.

The French, who have the most important gain to their credit, made their chief onset in Champagne, where in December they made a considerable gain. This attack, backed by a tremendous artillery fire, gave them possession of more territory than they had taken from the Germans since the battle of the Marne.

According to the French, the Germans were driven out of their trenches over a front of 15 miles, varying in depth from two-thirds of a mile to two and a half miles. The French in this engagement captured 12,000 prisoners.

The importance of this gain lies in the fact that every yard of ground taken in this region weakens the German position around Verdun, from which the Germans might be compelled to retire should the French make a further advance.

This attack was made in co-operation with the British, who attacked on either side of La Bassée Canal. The attack south of the canal was Field Marshal Sir John French reports, a complete success. Trenches five miles in width and about 4,000 yards in depth were taken at this point.

This push forward gives the British possession of the road from Lens to La Bassée, which was used by the Germans for moving troops and supplies north and south and threatens to outflank the German troops which hold the town of Lens.

PARLEY ON SIZE OF LOAN
Anglo-French Financiers Told That Half a Billion Dollars Is Maximum. Still Demand Billion.

New York.—Troublesome details have yet to be adjusted and minor matters smoothed out before Lord Reading, representing Great Britain and France, and J. P. Morgan and associates, representing American financiers, sign articles of agreement commencing lengthy negotiations looking to the establishment of a big Anglo-French credit loan here.

Not the least of these details, it has been developed, is the size of the loan. The foreign representatives, it was said, have been told that the maximum amount they can get is $500,000,000. Sir Edward Holden, representing the joint stock banks of London, which stand high among the financial bulwarks of Britain, was reported to have stood firmly on the ground that the commission's need was for more than a half billion dollars and that the maximum interest rate would not exceed five per cent.

It has been reported that the commission had sought to raise a billion dollars on joint Anglo-French government notes, without collateral, bearing interest at four and one-half per cent, and that it receded from its position only in the face of repeated assurances that it would fall in its mission unless it could offer better terms. A five per cent rate then was offered, it was said, with the positive assurance that this rate would not be exceeded.

The demand was still for a billion dollars. Within the past week an American banker said, the commission had been compelled to recede from this position also.

Storage Batteries Are a Success.
New York.—An official government test at the New York navy yard of Thomas A. Edison's new storage battery for submarine proved that it overcomes deadly chlorine gas poisoning, as an announcement by Miller Reese Hutchinson, representative of Edison.

Posse Kills Negro.
Elberton, Ga.—Nelson Statham, negro, was shot and killed near here by a posse after he had wounded Sheriff Haley and Chief of Police Irwin in a fight in which the officers and the posse attempted to take him from a house in which he had barricaded himself.

Discovers a Comet.
Cambridge, Mass.—The discovery of a comet, visible in a small telescope, is announced by Prof. Edward C. Pickering, director of Harvard observatory.

FOUR MEXICANS KILLED

Uniformed Carranza Soldiers Hidden in Trenches Across Rio Grande Fire on U. S. Troopers.

Brownsville, Texas.—At least four, and probably more, Mexican bandits were killed in fighting between Mexicans and United States soldiers at Progreso, 35 miles up the Rio Grande from Brownsville, on Sept. 24, according to reliable reports here. Two of these were killed on the American side, it is said, two while crossing the river in boats and four others are believed to have lost their lives while scrambling up the banks of the Rio Grande on the Mexican side. One American soldier was killed and one wounded in the battle.

The firing of arms by several hundred Mexicans on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande river to cover the retreat of 50 to 80 Mexicans, who looted and set fire to a store at Progreso, Texas, 35 miles west of here, as told in an official report by Maj. Edward Anderson of the Twelfth cavalry, is regarded here as the gravest turn in the international situation since the beginning of the present border troubles.

Private Henry W. Stubbfield of Big Stone Gap, Va., was killed and Capt. A. V. Anderson wounded in the arm by the Mexicans at Progreso. Earlier reports that Private Kennedy also was injured proved incorrect. At least two Mexicans are known to have been killed.

Another serious development is contained in a rumor received in Brownsville from Matamoros that a train load of troops were sent out from Matamoros and that these troops formed a part of the body of men that aided the Mexican bandits in their escape to the Mexican side of the Rio Grande.

The trenches, it is said, were dug opposite Progreso by the Mexicans about three weeks ago. Probably 3,000 shots were fired from back of the trenches during the two hours of fighting.

MOVES TO MEXICO CITY
All Departments of Carranza's Government Now Quartered at Capital—Campaign Against Bandits.

Washington, Gen. Carranza now has moved all the departments of his government from Vera Cruz to Mexico City and again is preparing to go to the capital himself, according to official information received here. The ministers of foreign affairs and war were the last to leave.

Advices to the state department indicate that Gen. Carranza has launched a vigorous campaign against the bandits which have been interrupting railway communication between Vera Cruz and Mexico City.

According to telegraphic reports from Vera Cruz, Carranza forces already have engaged some of the bands between Esperanza and Tehuacan. Gen. Aguilar, it was reported, has gone from Orizaba to the scene of the fighting with reinforcements.

Other reports to the department from Vera Cruz said that in a wreck on the Mexican railway north of Apizac Sept. 21 a freight train carrying supplies for Mexico City was blown up and burned. The engine was detached from the train and escaped before the wreckers could reach it. Members of the train guard were reported to have been killed. The bridge on the international railroad, 25 miles from Vera Cruz, was said to have been destroyed.

NEW ARMY AT DARDANELLES
Berlin Hears That Over a Hundred Thousand Men Are Landed on Lemnos Island.

Berlin.—A new army of 110,000 men has been sent to the assistance of the allied forces at the Dardanelles, according to the Overseas News Agency. This information was contained in the news agency says, in a dispatch from Athens. The reinforcements are said to have landed at Mudros, on Lemnos Island, in the Regan Sea.

The original expeditionary force on the Gallipoli peninsula has been strengthened by large consignments of troops, principally British. If the information from Athens is correct, however, it may mean that the new army has been sent by Italy. Several transports departed from Italian ports with large consignments of troops last month. They sailed under sealed orders.

Dutch Steamer Sinks.
London.—The Dutch steamer Kenning Emma, of 9,000 tons, which struck a mine as she was on her way to Amsterdam from Batavia, capsized and sank in the Thames. The 250 passengers had been previously taken off the Kenning Emma, which was being towed up the river when she sank.

CHECK NEEDED TOUCHING UP

Bank Cashier Handled the Subject Diplomatically, but Sensitive Mr. Brushly Was Annoyed.

"This check of yours," said the large-hearted cashier to Brushly, the impressionist painter, "is drawn exceedingly well, and in composition seems to be pretty nearly perfect; but it lacks background, Mr. Brushly. But for that it would be a work of art. Your foreground is charming, but just a trifle too well, shall we say too fanciful?"

"I don't know what you are driving at," growled Brushly. "I suppose you know what you mean, however. What kind of a background would you suggest?"

"Cash," said the cashier, "A work of art like this, calling for the payment of $50, is not wholly convincing with a sketchy little overdraft of $2.90 on deposit to provide the necessary contrasts in light and shade and to give the thing what we might call balance."

"Whereupon Brushly, like the self-respecting man he was, snapped his fingers under the impudent fellow's nose and transferred his overdraft to the trust company across the street—Judge."

Poor Father.
Ernest P. Heknell, the national director of the American Red Cross, was talking in New York about the splendid work that his organization is doing in Belgium.

"We are supplying the Belgians," he said, "with $12,000,000 worth of food a month. We are also supplying food to the inhabitants of Poland, whom Germany has taken over."

"We have a good deal to do, eh? We are like the father who said:

"At last, at last, I've got my five daughters off my hands. Now to put my five sons-in-law on their feet."

WAS MISERABLE COULDN'T STAND

Testifies She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lackawanna, N. Y.—"After my first child was born I felt very miserable and could not stand on my feet. My sister-in-law wished me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and my nervous system, appetite, and sleep came back, and I felt that week, tired feeling. That was six years ago and I have had three fine healthy children since. For female troubles I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it works like a charm. I do all my own work."—Mrs. A. F. KRAMER, 1574 Electric Avenue, Lackawanna, N. Y.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

Women who suffer from these distressing ills peculiar to their sex should be convinced of the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health by the many genuine and truthful testimonials we are constantly publishing in the newspapers.

SYNOPSIS.

La Comte de Sabron, captain of French cavalry, takes to his quarters to raise his hand a motherly little French girl, and names it Pitcheoune. He dines with the Marquis d'Esclagnac and meets Miss Julia Redmond, American belle, who sings for him an English ballad that lingers in his memory. Trying to save Pitcheoune's life, he declines a second invitation to dinner because of a "very sick friend." No more invitations come from the Chateau d'Esclagnac. Pitcheoune, though lame from his accident, thrives and is devoted to his master. Sabron and Pitcheoune meet the Marquis and Miss Redmond and after the story of Pitcheoune is told Sabron is forgiven and invited to dinner again. Sabron is ordered to Algeria, but is not allowed to take servants or dogs. He is invited to a musicale at the Chateau, where Miss Redmond, hearing that Sabron cannot take Pitcheoune with him, offers to take care of the dog during his master's absence.

CHAPTER VII—Continued.

"My dear Julia, my godson, the Duke de Tremont." And Sabron bowed to both the ladies, to the duke, and went away.

This was the picture he might add to his collection: the older woman in her vivid dress, Julia in her simpler gown, and the titled Frenchman bowing over her hand.

When he went out to the front terrace Brunet was there with his horse, and Pitcheoune was there as well, stiffly waiting at attention.

"Brunet," said the officer to his man, "will you take Pitcheoune around to the servants' quarters and give him to Miss Redmond's maid? I am going to leave him here."

"Good, mon Capitaine," said the ordonnance, and whistled to the dog.

Pitcheoune sprang toward his master with a short sharp bark. What he understood would be hard to say, but all that he wanted to do was to remain with Sabron. Sabron bent down and stroked him.

"For my friend, with Brunet, O, mon Vieux, go," he commanded sternly, and the little dog, trained to obedience as a soldier's dog should be, trotted reluctantly at the heels of the ordonnance, and the soldier threw his leg over the saddle and rode away. He rode regardless of anything but the fact that he was going.

CHAPTER VIII.

Home-sick.

Pitcheoune was a soldier's dog, born in a stable, of a mother who had been dear to the canteen. Michette had been one vraie vivandiere, a real daughter of the regiment.

Pitcheoune was a worthy son. He adored the drums and trumpets. He adored the fire. He adored the drill which he was accustomed to watch from a respectable distance. He liked Brunet, and the word had not yet been discovered which would express how he felt toward Monsieur le Capitaine, his master. His muscular little form expressed it in every fiber. His brown eyes looked it until their paths might have melted a heart of iron.

There was nothing picturesque to Pitcheoune in the Chateau d'Esclagnac or in the charming room to which he was brought. The little dog took a flying tour around it, over sofas and chairs, landing on the window-seat, where he crouched. He was not wicked, but he was perfectly miserable, and the lovely wiles of Julia Redmond and her endearments left him unmoved. He refused meat and drink, was indifferent to the views from the window, to the beautiful view of King Rene's castle, to the tantalizing cat supping herself against the wall. He flew about like mad, leaving destruction in his wake, tugged at the leash when they took him out for exercise.

In short, Pitcheoune was a homesick, lovesick little dog, and thereby endeared himself more than ever to his new mistress. She tied a ribbon around his neck, which he promptly chewed off. She tried to feed him with her own fair hands; he held his head high, looked bored and grew thin in the flanks.

"I think, Captain de Sabron's little dog is going to die, ma tante," she told her aunt.

"Fiddlesticks, my dear Julia! Keep him tied up until he is accustomed to the place. It won't hurt him to fast; he will eat when he is hungry. I have a note from Robert. He has gone to Monte Carlo."

"Ah!" breathed Miss Redmond indifferently.

She slowly went over to her piano and played a few measures of music that were a torture to Pitcheoune, who found these ladylike performances in strong contrast to drums and trumpets. He felt himself as a soldier degraded, and could not understand why he should be relegated to a salon and to the mild society of two ladies who did not even know how to pull his ears or roll him over on the rug with their riding boots and spurs. He sat against the window as was his habit, looking watching, yearning.

"Vous avez tort, ma chere," said her aunt, who was working something less than a thousand flowers on her tapestry. "The minute does not come twice in a young girl's life, and you know you have only to be reasonable, Julia."

Miss Redmond's fingers wandered, magnetically drawn by her thoughts, into a song which she played softly through Pitcheoune's head and turned his beautiful head and his soft eyes to her. He knew that tune. Neither drums nor trumpets had played it, but there was no doubt about its being fit for soldiers. He had heard his master sing it, hum it, many times. It had soothed his nerves when he was a sick puppy and it went with many things of the intimate life with his master. He remembered it when he had dozed by the fire and dreamed of chasing cats and barking at Brunet and being a faithful dog all around; he heard again a beloved voice hum it to him. Pitcheoune whined and softly jumped down from his seat. He put his forepaws on Miss Redmond's lap. She stopped and caressed him, and he licked her hand.

"That is the first time I have seen that dog show a spark of human gratitude, Julia. He is probably begging you to open the door and let him take a run."

Indeed Pitcheoune did go to the door and waited appealingly.

"I think you might trust him out. I think he is tamed," said the Marquis d'Esclagnac. "He is a real little savage."

Miss Redmond opened the door and Pitcheoune shot out. She watched him tear like mad across the terrace, and scuffle into the woods as she thought, after a rabbit. He was the color of the fallen leaves and she lost sight of him in the brown and golden brush.

CHAPTER IX.

The Fortunes of War.

Sabron's departure had been delayed on account of a strike at the dockyards of Marseilles. He left Tarascon one lovely day toward the end of January and the old town with its sweetness and its sorrow, fell behind, as he rolled away to brighter suns. A friend from Paris took him to the port in his motor and there Sabron waited some forty-eight hours before he set sail. His boat lay out on the azure water, the brown rocks of the coast behind it. There was not a breeze to stir as he took the tug which was to convey him. He was inclined to dip his fingers in the indigo ocean, sure that he would find them blue. He climbed up the ladder alongside of the vessel, was welcomed by the captain, who knew him, and turned to go below, for he had been suffering from an attack of fever which now and then laid hold of him, ever since his campaign in Morocco.

Therefore, as he went into his cabin, which he did not leave until the steam-er touched Algiers, he failed to see the baggage tender pull up and failed to see a sailor climb to the deck with a wet bedraggled thing in his hand that looked like an old fur cap except that it wriggled and was alive.

"This, mon commandant," said the sailor to the captain, "is the luckiest little beast I ever saw."

He dropped a small terrier on the deck, who proceeded to shake himself vigorously and bark with apparent delight.

"No sooner had we pushed out from the quay than this little beggar sprang from the pier and began to swim after us. He was so funny that we let him swim for a bit and then we hauled him in. It is evidently a mascot, mon commandant, evidently a sailor dog who has run away to sea."

The captain looked with interest at Pitcheoune, who engaged himself in making his toilet and biting after a flea or two which had not been drowned.

"We sailors," said the man saluting, "would like to keep him for luck, mon commandant."

"Take him down then," his superior officer ordered, "and don't let him up among the passengers."

It was a rough voyage. Sabron passed his time saying good-by to France and trying to keep his mind away from the Chateau d'Esclagnac, which persisted in haunting his uneasy slumber. In a blaze of sunlight, Algiers, the white city, shone upon them on the morning of the third day and Sabron tried to take a more cheerful view of a soldier's life and fortunes.

He was a soldierly figure and a handsome one as he walked down the gang-plank to the shore to be welcomed by fellow officers who were eager to see him, and presently was lost in the little crowd that streamed away from the docks into the white city.

CHAPTER X.

Together Again.

That night after dinner and a cigarette, he strolled into the streets to distract his mind with the sight of the oriental city and to fill his ears with the eager cries of the crowd. The lamps flickered. The sky overhead was as blue nearly as in daytime. He walked leisurely toward the native quarter, just as he passed, by moonlight, the brilliant domes and by a veiled woman of two.

He stopped indifferently before a little cafe, his eyes on a Turkish bazaar where velvets and scarfs were being sold at double their worth under the light of a flaming yellow lamp. As he stood so, his back to the cafe where a number of the ship's crew were drinking, he heard a short sharp sound that had a sweet familiarity about it and whose individuality made him start with surprise. He could not believe his ears. He heard the bark again, and then he was springing upon by a little body that ran out from between the legs of a sailor who sat drinking his coffee and liquor.

"Gracious heavens!" exclaimed Sabron, thinking that he must be the victim of a hashish dream. "Pitcheoune!"

The dog fawned on him and whined, crouched at his feet whining like a child. Sabron bent and fondled him. The sailor from the table called the dog imperatively, but Pitcheoune would have died at his master's feet rather than return. If his throat could have uttered words he would have spoken, but his eyes spoke. They looked as though they were fearful.

"Pitcheoune, mon vieux! No, it can't be Pitcheoune. But it is Pitcheoune!" And Sabron took him up in his arms. The dog tried to lick his face.

"Voyons," said the officer to the marine, who came rolling over to them, "where did you get this dog?"

The young man's voice was imperative and he fixed stern eyes on the sailor, who pulled his forelock and explained.

"He was following me," said Sabron, not without a slight catch in his voice. "The body of Pitcheoune quivered under his arm. 'He is my dog. I think his manner proves it. If you have grown fond of him I am sorry for you, but I think you will have to give him up.'"

Sabron put his hand in his pocket and turned a little away to be free of the native crowd that, chattering and grinning, amused and curious and eager to participate in any distribution of coin, was gathering around him. He found two gold pieces which he put into the hand of the sailor.

"Thank you for taking care of him. I am at the Royal Hotel," he nodded, and with Pitcheoune under his arm pushed his way through the crowd and out of the bazaar.

He could not interview the dog himself, although he listened, amused, to Pitcheoune's own manner of speech. He spent the latter part of the evening composing a letter to the minister of war, and although it was short, it must have possessed certain evident and telling qualities, for before he left Algiers proper for the desert, Sabron received a telegram much to the point:

You may keep your dog. I congratulate you on such a faithful companion. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

Gauge for Measuring Sootfall.

The Pittsburgher who resents the timeworn variations of the soft coal smoke gives now has his chance to prove that they are unjustified, or remain forever silent. By a new invention it is at present possible to measure the sootfall of any city as accurately as its rain or snowfall may be measured. Already this soot gauge, tried out in England, has proved what the tourist long suspected, that London, with all its yellow fog, has far purer air than the North of England factory cities of Birmingham, Manchester and the like. Not only have Pittsburgh and other slandered American cities the opportunity to whitewash their soot reputations, but the manufacturer, too, may now establish accurately the exact proportion of his contribution to the civic soot; for the new device judges the quality as well as the amount of sootfall, and is quite capable of distinguishing between the factory, furnace and kitchen range. Literary Digest.

The Boy Who Dreams.

It is a good thing for the farmer boy to have an imagination, says the Prairie Farmer. It is a good thing for him to "dream dreams and see visions." It takes a dreamer to see the transformation that intelligent effort will bring to pass on the old place. It takes a dreamer to see how much more desirable that place will be in ten years than a job in a dry goods store. Emporia Gazette.

To Remove Paint.

Equal parts of ammonia and turpentine will take paint out of clothing, no matter how hard or dry it is. Saturate spots two or three times; then wash in warm soapsuds.

MAKE CAMPAIGN IN 100 COUNTIES

ALL BUT TWENTY OF ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY COUNTIES REACHED BY SPEAKERS.

HUNDREDS OF VOLUNTEERS

Teaching Force Hope to Eradicate Illiteracy in the State by the Year 1920.

(Special Frankfort Correspondence.)

Frankfort, All but 20 of the 120 counties of the state have been reached during the speaking campaign since July 1, under auspices of the state literacy commission, and hundreds of volunteers have been added to the teaching force in the effort to eradicate illiteracy by 1920.

The following are the dates and speakers: September 27, Owenton, President H. S. Barker, of State University, and Prof. Roscoe Gilmore Stott; Sandy Hook, Judge M. M. Redwine and John M. Perry; Springfield, Superintendent L. E. Foster; September 29, Lancaster, Mrs. James A. Leech; September 30, Stanford, Mrs. James A. Leech; October 1, Mt. Sterling, President H. H. Cherry, of Western State Normal, and Judge Will A. Young; October 2, Salyersville, Congressman John W. Langley, California, Assistant Atty. Gen. M. M. Logan and Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Smith; October 11, Hyden, Perry Davidson and Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Smith, October 16, Elizabethtown, Congressman Swager Sherry; October 20, Whitley City, Gov. McCreary.

Associated Charities.

The associated charities, for the purpose of preventing duplications of relief, which wastes the energies and resources of charity, and to that extent deprives deserving poor of a full measure of benefit, is proposing to become a clearing house for charity cases this winter. To this end correspondence has been entered into with various lodges, societies and organizations in the city engaged more or less in this sort of work, and a meeting of representatives of all of them probably will be held in the near future at the Associated Charities. By means of the plan to be proposed it is expected that prompt and more widespread relief will be given cases of charity this winter. The Associated Charities, while relieving immediate necessities, investigates every case reported and ascertains exactly what is needed.

Millions of Fish in Streams.

Not counting the 10,000,000 pike perch delivered in the state game and fish commission's own car and the 20 carloads of matured fish delivered by it, the commission through co-operation with the national bureau has distributed this year among the streams of Kentucky 8,000,000 pike perch, 210,000 smallmouth black bass, 14,000 crappie, 52,651 large-mouth black bass, 4,325 catfish, 4,000 brook trout, 600 rainbow trout, 7,350 rock bass, 7,325 sunfish, 1,605 yellow perch, and 380 yellow bass. This is more fish than have been distributed, perhaps, all told before the creation of the commission, as the federal government would furnish none for the streams until provision was assured against the wholesale slaughter of fish for market.

Thirteen New Members.

Gov. McCreary has appointed a list of Kentuckians to serve as members of the National Security League, the purpose of which is to impress upon congress the popular demand for preparedness of the national defenses. The governor named James R. Lemon, Mayfield; J. L. Dorsey, Henderson; J. F. Gordon, Madisonville; L. W. Gaines, Trenton; Samuel Spaulding, Lebanon; Gen. Bennett H. Young, Louisville; Geo. Webb, Covington; J. W. Hughes, Danville; N. B. Deatherage, Richmond; R. H. Vansant, Ashland; N. B. Sewell and C. C. Williams, Mt. Vernon, and F. T. Hatcher, Pikeville.

New State Bank Examiner.

Commissioner Thos. J. Smith has appointed Henry F. Mansfield, of Muncieville, bank examiner, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of John B. Chenaunt, who recently resigned to become a national bank examiner.

Would Extend Usefulness.

The state department of education is sending to teachers a bulletin advising them to acquire school libraries and giving a list and advice about the selection and installation of the libraries.

Permanent Forestry Exhibit.

State Forester Barton is taking up with the timbermen of Kentucky the project of erecting a forestry exhibit at the state fair. He believes it will be of incalculable value, not only in exploiting the timber resources of the state, but also in educating the people to the importance of the industry, awakening interest in reforestation and conservation and bringing the department more closely to the attention of the land owners. His plan is a building with a rustic exterior, to show the lumber in its native state.

Relieved of Responsibility.

Reversing the judgment of the District circuit court in the case of the Owensboro City Railway Co. against the Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis Railroad Co., the appellate court held that the railway company did not have to contribute to the damage awarded to William Haden. The $2,000 judgment given to Mrs. Mahala Chambers against the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co. by the Jefferson circuit court was reversed by the appellate court. A box car belonging to the company was backed through a fence and within a few feet of the residence of Mrs. Chambers. The $500 verdict given to Edgar Holstonback, of Putnam county, against the Western Union Telegraph Co. for failure to deliver a telegram was set aside by the appellate court. Holstonback is a guard at the Frankfort reformatory. His uncle died in Putnam county and he claimed that the telegram was not delivered to him in time to permit him to attend the funeral.

National Guard Shoot.

The company teams, First and Second regiments, K. N. G., went to the rifle range at Earlington, where they remained from September 23 to 30. Third regiment team left their respective stations the morning of September 23. The company teams consist of five men and an alternate, all of whom must have performed 75 per cent of all military duty since October 15, 1913. The company teams compete for a first prize of $100, second prize of $75, third prize of $50, fourth prize of $25 and fifth prize of $10. All officers below the grade of major and enlisted men may enter the Governor's match (individual) for the gold medal and 60 per cent of the entrance fee; a second prize of 25 per cent and a third prize of 15 per cent. Teams composed of six officers and men from each regiment making the highest aggregate individual scores in the company team match will compete in a regimental match for the regimental trophy, now held by the Second infantry.

Jackson Highway.

Frankfort sent at least 15 delegates to the Jackson Memorial Highway association meeting at Nashville. The Frankfort delegation joined the Louisville crowd, and the Chamber of Commerce secured a round trip rate of $7.50 from Frankfort. A committee of the Chamber of Commerce procured from the county officers a signed statement that they will co-operate in building and will maintain the highway through Franklin county. This was taken along as an earnest reminder of the interest being taken in the project along this route. The Jackson Highway is to traverse Louisiana, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania and New Orleans, through Nashville to Louisville, where it divides, one branch going by way of Indianapolis to Chicago, and the other by way of Frankfort, Lexington, Paris and Maysville, across into Ohio, reaching Lake Erie at Cleveland and thence to Buffalo.

Good Presentation.

Kentucky was well represented at the Mississippi Conference on Tuberculosis at Indianapolis. Gov. McCreary and Dr. U. V. Williams, member of the state commission, were on the program, and Dr. Dunning Wilson, of Louisville; Roy L. French, retiring secretary of the state commission, and his successor, Col. L. M. Maus, attended. Mr. French and Miss Chloe Jackson, formerly on the commission staff, were chiefly instrumental in organizing sectional meetings to supplement the national association's efforts. Miss Jackson was on the committee to arrange the program. Especial attention was given to tuberculosis among children and medical inspection in the schools. Other subjects were separate sanatoria, the best tuberculosis prevention, management and conduct of tuberculosis clinics, and visiting nurse work.

Holds Record for Largest Apple.

The record for apples grown in Franklin county from the standpoint of quality appears to be held by John Barbour, of the Peaks Mill neighborhood, a sample brought in to Deputy Jailer John Lucas measuring 14 inches in circumference. Barbour said he tried to secure the largest apple on the tree, but the total yield consisted of such splendid specimens it was merely a matter of guesswork to select the largest.

Louisville Convict Flees.

Charlie Smith, a one-armed negro convict from Louisville, escaped from the reformatory farm, just 24 days before he would have been eligible for parole. When the prison farm hands quit work he said he had left his coat where he had been working, and went back for it. He has not been seen since. Smith was serving a term of one to five years for chicken stealing.

Erect Sanatoria.

Col. L. M. Maus, secretary of the tuberculosis commission, said that it is his hope that within the next few years Kentucky will build one or more properly equipped sanatoria for the treatment of tuberculosis. He said the treatment has become a special science, requiring properly selected environments, careful nursing and nourishment, pleasant surroundings and rest. These are too often lacking in small and imperfectly equipped institutions, where the watchful care of the patients is not constant.

FOR CAMPAIGN FUND

Why Republican Party Clings to Tariff Issue.

Leaders Realize They Can Not Win, But Contributions From Special Interests Will Enable Them to Control Machine.

It is no disinterested devotion to the principle of extreme protection that is turning the Republican leaders back to the tariff as their main issue in 1916.

The Republican organization needs money for campaign purposes. Federal and state legislation has practically dried up the railroad and Wall street fountains that once gushed so plentifully. The special interests that rob the consumer by capitalizing high tariffs are the only certain supply that remains. Wool and cotton and steel are always ready to trade cash for legislation, and by selling out the Republican party to these infant industries a campaign fund can be assured.

That is why the average Republican politician is willing to stake the 1916 election on the tariff. He knows his party will probably be defeated, but he also knows that the organization will be provided with the sinews of war without which the standard elements cannot maintain their control over the machine.

Mr. Taft's Olive Branch.

The terms of peace which, on behalf of the Republicans, Mr. Taft offers to the Progressives are unlike the extravagant proposals that emanate from time to time from the European belligerents. As the leader of his party, there can be no question of his authority to speak for it. When he says that reunion is possible only as Progressives become Republicans and abandon the socio-comic program to which they subscribed at Chicago, he emphasizes an obvious fact.

Republicanism has become a fixed belief. It is not the same as the Republicanism of Lincoln's day, when it was leavened with Free-Soilism and Democracy, and no amount of Progressive oratory will make it so. It is the party of Hanna, McKinley, Quay and Aldrich. It stands boldly for certain inalienable rights of the favored and powerful, for government in partnership with big business, for just enough concessions to discontent to assure to the dominant class steady incomes, good digestion and restful slumber; but as for social justice and such things, there is no nonsense about it.

While there are no Progressives in the Republican party, there are plenty of good Republicans in the Progressive party, and that is why, if any reunion is to take place, it must be upon the lines laid down by Mr. Taft. The remnant of Progressivism which may not be able to return to the older organization will have to stand alone or make an honest and sensible choice between out-and-out Socialism and out-and-out Democracy. There isn't going to be any Armageddon.—New York World (Dem.).

Tariff Changes Not to the Point.

No tariff legislation and no changes in the existing tariff laws can aid imports into this country from Europe or block England from securing such trade as she may seek.

This is the opinion of Representative Cordell Hull of Tennessee, a member of the house ways and means committee, and the answer to the suggestion that a nonpartisan commission of experts be appointed to consider changes in the tariff to meet conditions that will arise after the war. Judge Hull declared that the United States need not fear competition from Europe after the war, because the people of the European nations will be too much engaged building up their almost ruined industries.

"The devastation being wrought in Europe by the war will render unnecessary any changes in tariff laws in this country for the next ten or twenty years, because there can be no serious competition with the products of this country," explained Mr. Hull.—Washington Post.

Secretary Garrison's Position.

A secretary of war who believes in military efficiency and who is genuinely interested in army affairs is the best to have. Mr. Garrison may have more extreme views concerning army increase and reorganization than the president and some of the Democratic leaders in congress, but he will accomplish something by staying, even if his plans should not be accepted in their full scope. The president is turning his attention to the whole subject of military defense, while elaborate reports from the war and navy departments to guide him. The war secretary's period of chief usefulness is still to come.—Springfield Republican.

Not the Way to Help.

The demand throughout the country for better coast defenses and for adequate military and naval equipment is not partisan in its aspiration or intent, and any disposition on the part of national leaders of thought to infect partisanship into the question is to be deplored. If Colonel Roosevelt is really pained by the helplessness of the defensive program of the National Security League and other similar bodies, he must follow a different tack than which he is taking in his quality as the secretary of war.

Good-Night Corns, Good-Boy "Gets-It"

New-Plan Corn Remedy That Never Fails. The Simple, Common Sense Way.

You poor corn-sufferers, with corns, blisters and heart pain! Sit down tonight and put a few drops of "Gets-It," the simplest corn remedy in the world, on your corns. You can apply it in just a few seconds, without fuss or trouble. What's the use applying salves that make toes raw and sore, that make corns swell, bandages that make it misery to walk, tape that sticks, greasy ointment, and other contraptions, that rid of corns the easy way, quick, simple, sure, new way. That's common sense. Try "Gets-It" also for warts and bunions. "Gets-It" can't hurt—the corn loosens, and comes right off—clean off.

"Gets-It" is sold at all drug stores. 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

Sold in Murray and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by H. P. Wear.

HELP COMES AFTER 15 YEARS WAITING

MAYFIELD WOMAN WAS IN A PITIABLE CONDITION.

RELIEF DENIED HER UNTIL TANLAC CAME.

PLENTY STRENGTH AND ENERGY

"I have been troubled with kidney, stomach and bladder trouble for the last fifteen years and found nothing that would help me in the least until I heard about Tanlac," says Mrs. Dora Ferguson, a well-known Mayfield, Ky., matron who resides on South Eighth street. Continuing she said:

"If ever a woman was all run down, I am that woman. I was so weak that I couldn't do my own housework at all. My limbs swelled until they frightened me; I got so dizzy when I walked that sometimes I would actually stagger. My nerves were all in a twitter and I simply could not sleep at night."

"My appetite was very poor and the simplest food would cause me hours of misery with the pains in my side, the bloating and the sour belching. I had swimming, dizzy headaches in the mornings. You can see that I was badly in need of something that would really help me, so, when I heard about Tanlac and the good it was doing, I sent for some right away."

"I have now taken three bottles of Tanlac. It seemed to give me strength from the first. I have gained weight, can eat anything I want and it doesn't tire me at all to do my housework. In every way I feel better and stronger and it is nothing but that new medicine, Tanlac, that has made the change in me. I gladly recommend it to anybody and give the right to use my name in the Tanlac advertisement."

That is an earnest straightforward statement of fact, full of inspiration for those who suffer as did Mrs. Ferguson. Tanlac, the premier preparation is sold in Murray exclusively at Dale & Stubblefield's drug store and those who have been waiting for the new shipment to arrive will now have no difficulty in getting it.

Miss Ethel Allbritten, daughter of Sandy Allbritten, was operated upon the past week at the Murray Surgical Hospital for appendicitis. Miss Zella Anderson underwent a like operation this week at the same place. Mrs. B. F. Schroeder, of this city, Mrs. Bob Ray, of Paris, and Mrs. Unb, of Hardin, are also at the hospital where they underwent operations during the past week.

For any itchiness of the skin, for skin rashes, chaps, pimples, etc., try Doan's Ointment. 50c at all drug stores.

For Sale.—61 acres of bottom land near Backusburg, on Coldwater and Backusburg road, 3-room house, good barn, stables, water; 20 acres in timber. Known as the Hughes place. Also 40 acres fine timber land just east of the above tract, without improvements. Will sell at a bargain if taken within 30 days and sell both tracts or separately. Also have complete set of blacksmith tools for sale at a bargain.—See J. T. Hart, Murray, Route 7, at Cherry. 9234

The ladies of the Methodist church will conduct a stand at the fair next week and will serve fried chicken, boiled country ham, buttermilk and coffee in the good old-fashioned home style and Methodist measure. The proceeds of the undertaking will go toward purchasing a heating plant for the new Sunday school room recently completed to the church. They will appreciate any patronage extended and will make special effort to serve only the best.

School Notes.

By J. W. Jones

God pity the child whose parents are more interested in prosperity than in posterity!—more interested in dollars than in the moral and educational development of their children. And such parents are numerous. Last week we heard of a father who owns 320 acres of land and keeps his daughters out of the district school to help cultivate the tobacco. Such parents care very little whether their children get an education or not and send them to school only when they can find nothing else for them to do. Then these parents wonder that their children are not interested in school. Parents, your children must attend regularly if they are to be interested. The more a child misses from school the more excuses he and his parents can find for missing still more.

We wish to call the attention of the parents in the district to the fact that school does not begin as early as some seem to think, teachers and pupils are not expected to be on the school ground at 7:30 a. m., and pupils will not be allowed on the ground. We wish to ask the parents to keep the children at home till the bell rings, unless you live at a distance. This would prove more satisfactory to all parties concerned.

Last week we had something to say about the pupils and parents seeing little or nothing practical in the high school. This is because they are not informed as to the value of education. But the high school is not as practical as it might be or should be. High schools have been too much a place for preparing for college and have failed to take care of the boy or girl who can not or will not go to college.

The school should serve community needs, and must serve community needs before it will enlist all the people of the community. Boys who want business courses should be taken care of in high school and their needs supplied just as well as the fellow who wants to enter college. Manual training and domestic science should be provided in all schools. But before we can have any extension of courses in Murray we must have more room. We need another building which will house the high school separate from the grades and provide rooms for music, domestic science and manual training. This would leave room in the present building for teaching sewing, cooking, etc. When these things are provided each child in Murray will have opportunity to make preparation for life according to his individual ability and school will appeal to every child and parent as something practical and worth while. Boys and girls will be kept in school and along with the practical training will receive a more liberal training than they are now getting when so many drop out and walk the streets.

We propose that a vote be taken next spring on the question of issuing bonds for the purpose of putting a high school building in Murray that will offer a training for every boy and girl in the district, as well as to those who plan to go to college. The tax rate would be the same as last year—could be no more by law—and the value to the town could not be estimated in dollars and cents. To this end we shall work, confident that the people of Murray will lend us their support and co-operation.

Swain Shows Coming.

W. I. Swain Shows will be the special attraction at night during Fair week.

The famous W. I. Swain Show

Company is scheduled to appear at Murray for one week, commencing Monday, October 4th, and give night performances of a widely diversified character throughout the week. This popular organization is primarily the outcome of the insurrection in the gigantic theatrical trust and represents the faction that took independent means to present big city attractions at nominal prices of admission in the smaller towns, where the trusts arbitrary methods have debarr'd even periodical visits by meritorious attractions.

The W. I. Swain Show Company is known from coast to coast as the largest and best equipped tented organization of its kind in America. Its colossal "Kant Leak" pavilion has a seating capacity of upwards of two thousand people and presents all metropolitan successes in a manner characteristic of big city productions.

This season's offerings by the Swain Show Company includes sensational melodrama, historical and society plays, musical, comedy, and farcial successes. Among this year's biggest hits might be mentioned, "Belle of the Mountain Trail," the last word in heroic romance; and a dramatization of Marie Corelli's most popular novel, "Thelma," which is now creating in its dramatized form a veritable furor in the cultured centers of fashion throughout the country; in fact, tens of thousand women patrons of the W. I. Swain Show Company have asked for its production.

A band of all solo musicians, and a feature symphony orchestra, constitute a strong musical feature with this season's shows. The band will play free open air concerts in front of the tent every evening at 7:30, the doors open immediately after the concert. Performance starts at 8:10. Admission very cheap.

How Some Farmers Abuse Their Wives

In the October American Magazine Stanley Johnson writes another article in his series entitled "Youth Leads the Way" in which he shows the progress that is being made on American farms by tens of thousands of boys and girls who are organized into clubs under the direction of the Department of Agriculture. The need for regeneration on American farms is demonstrated by the following letter which Mr. Johnson quotes. It was written by a New England woman and is a more severe indictment of the American farmer than anything that even our boys and girls have brought against him:

"There is absolute monarchy on the farm, and if the monarch happens to be feeble-minded or degenerate, as is the case on some farms away back in the country places, the subjects have to suffer accordingly—all the human beings under his control, as well as the animals. In many farming communities in the northern part of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont there are many living alone after having worn out three or four wives, women who have had to draw water from a well into a bucket at the end of a rope, and to chop wood to keep from freezing in winter, and in many cases these women haven't had the proper food and clothing!"

not enough for their own use, and the eggs are sold so as to get a little tea and sugar, or tobacco. Cream, butter and eggs on the farm, is an old saying handed down from 'the good old time.' There is nothing very plentiful, except the good fresh air, and without it there would be a greater mortality. The wives of the farmers have no conveniences compared with what their husbands have to make things easier, and they are as a rule, some of the best women in the world, patient and enduring, and have sent recruits to the city for generations, to supply strength and energy to keep the city grinding. The wives of the most prosperous farmers are not much better off in some respects, as they have more responsibility and more to work for, and in many cases no assistance, unless they are sick, or about to die. This is partly their fault for enduring such conditions for generations."

The Federal Government and the State of Kentucky co-operating together will have an agricultural exhibit at the Calloway County Fair. See this under separate tent.

Protection of the eyes from sun glare is even more necessary than a hat to prevent sun-stroke. Hats for Every Face

In the displays of new millinery that are of paramount interest just now women complain that the great variety in style and design in new hats is bewildering. There are so many shapes to choose from! Shall the hat be made of velvet or hatter's plush or felt or velour or fur or selected from among the innumerable combinations of these and other fabrics? What is the wisest choice in a season not dominated by a few styles?

Such a season leaves the individual to her own resources in making a choice. But it affords her a chance to exercise fine judgment in suiting her millinery to her own particular type. There are few freakish styles, in spite of this wonderful variety in hats, and there is a hat for every face.

One cannot go wrong in choosing velvet or any of the materials mentioned. Colors are dark and rich, and trimmings correspond. Metallic laces and braids, elaborate beadwork, silk and velvet flowers (and those covered with tinsel), ribbons of high luster, and rich ostrich plumes, are set off by the hats of beautiful and sedate colors that form the best of backgrounds for them. Fur and the most elaborate and carefully made fancy feathers, or the peculiar new cut steel ornaments provide many novelties in the way of trimmings, unlike any that have gone before.

Three of the new patterns are shown in the group pictured here. The small hat at the top has a coronet of velvet which is wide at the back but narrowed to a small upturned brim at the front. A brilliant corded silk covers the crown and the inside of the coronet, forming a binding about the edge of the hat. Two smart, upstanding plumes at the back, taken with the shape of the hat, suggest a military mode.

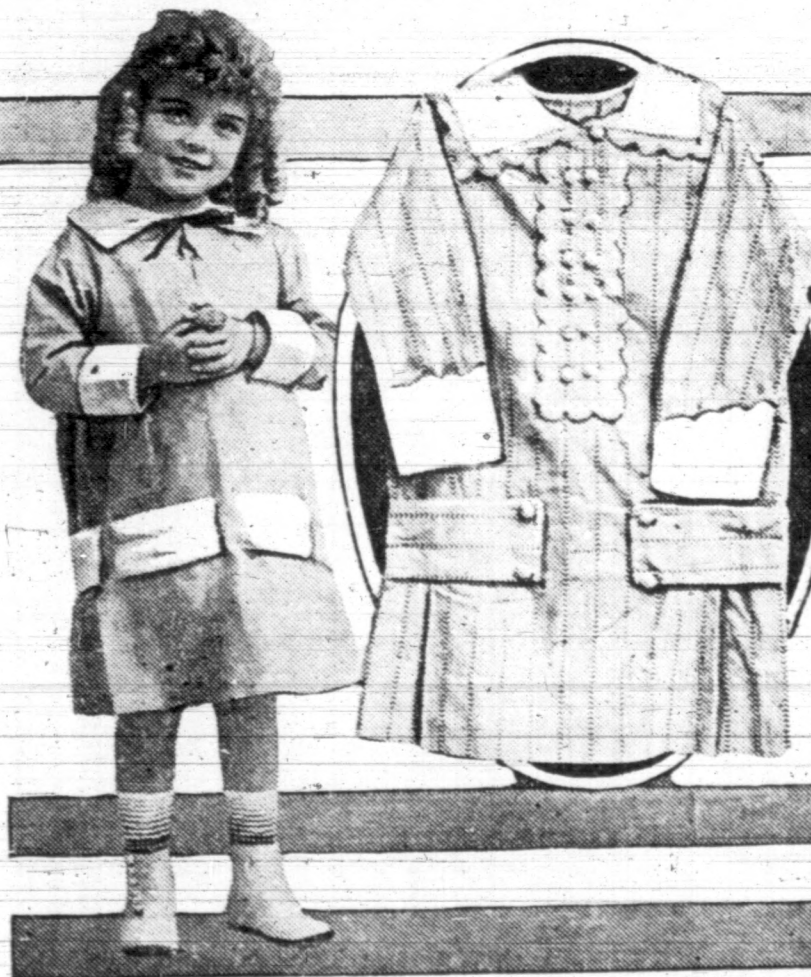

At the left a wide-brimmed hat with soft crown is made of velvet. The brim is curved in gentle and graceful lines. A metallic braid and a large flower, which looks like the airiest of filigree, make up the simple and very effective trimming.

At the right a felt hat faced with velvet shows another of the picturesque wide-brimmed models. In this hat the crown is higher. Wide moire ribbon and silver lace adorn the unusual shape, in which the brim is deeply shamed at each side.

Boil the Meat.

When making croquettes of left-over meat it is much better to boil the meat until it is very tender.

Two Play Frocks in Tub Materials

Summer or winter, the play and school frocks of the very small girl are made of materials that can be washed. Durable linen in the natural or in gay colors, wash flannel, plique, gingham, chambray, kindergarten cloth, all present themselves to the hand of the seamstress in plain plaid and striped designs. Very little trimming is used and little girls' frocks must depend for their style on color, cut and combinations of plaid or striped with plain material.

But if good taste prohibits much trimming on the clothes of the little miss it encourages a bit of pretty needlework and oddities in cut. So long as the designer does not depart from simplicity or unbroken lines she may indulge her fancy for unusual-shaped yokes, sleeves and yoke in one, and quaint effects in finishing touches.

The two little frocks pictured here are of the everyday sort that mothers are making up in heavy linens and other wash fabrics. In them the little girl may romp along with her brothers; they are designed for much wear.

At the left a plain dress is shown made of dark blue linen with collar, cuffs and belt of tan linen. It has a short opening at the front with eyelets worked in tan floss in a close, even buttonhole stitch on each side. It slips on over the head and fastens by means of narrow ribbon in black or dark blue laced through the eyelets. A bit of needlework appears on the cuffs and collar in a small embroidered disk of the same size as the eyelets.

A dress of striped plique or other striped material is pictured at the right. It is made with a set-in belt, and two plaits appear at each side, in the skirt portion, below the belt. The collar and cuffs in white are edged with a plain, buttonhole-stitched scallop, and this simple edging finishes the plait which covers the front opening.

A double row of round buttons is set down the front, and two larger buttons of the same kind fasten through the buttonholes in the ends of the belt, which is stitched to the dress only along the upper edge at the sides and back. This makes it convenient to launder the dress. JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

CARING FOR THE RAM

Should Be Given Every Opportunity to Keep Strong and Healthy Before Breeding Season Begins—Give Abundance of Water.

Usually, the ram which heads the average farm flock receives very little care from the time he is turned out to pasture in the spring until the advent of the breeding season in the fall. Then, about the only thing which is done is to turn him in with the ewes and allow mating to occur at random. Perhaps this is the sort of care and management which results in many barren ewes and weak lambs.

The mating season is naturally one of severe strain on the ram and he should be given every possible opportunity to keep strong and healthy. This means that he ought to have the proper kind of care, even before the breeding season begins. Of course, if the pasture is plentiful, there is not any need of feeding anything else during the early part of the grazing season. However, as the hot weather comes and the grass becomes less abundant and less succulent, it may be advisable to feed other roughage or perhaps a little grain.

Especially during the month just preceding the mating season should the ram get the best of feed and care, for experience has shown that the ram which is gaining in condition at the opening of the breeding season will get more and stronger lambs than the ram which is in poor flesh. Oats is one of the best grains for use at this time.

In addition to providing plenty of pasture, and a small amount of grain during the late summer, the ram should have an abundance of water. The usual practice in pasturing the ram during the summer months is to place him in a small paddock or an orchard, where there is no natural water supply. Under such conditions it is necessary to supply water by artificial means. And when the water is supplied a little salt may be given once each week.

USES FOR MANURE SPREADER

Time and Labor Saved by Distributing Fertilizer—Vehicle Can be Used as a Common Wagon.

Using the manure spreader for distributing fertilizer is another of those cases of saving time and labor over the old method of hand scattering. A spreader can be as quickly and easily loaded as a common wagon while the time required to unload is about one-fourth that of unloading by hand. Besides, the driver has a chance to rest while unloading the spreader, consequently he can load the spreader again quicker and easier than where he tires himself in unloading by hand. This saving in time and work enables one to do from two to three times more hauling, which of course reduces the cost accordingly.

But the greatest profit in connection with the work of the spreader is that of economy in the use of the manure. When distributed by the spreader it will cover two or three times as much land as when scattered by hand, for all lumps and hard pieces will be torn into fine particles and distributed evenly over the ground.

PROPER FEED FOR THE COLT

Fresh Pasture Grass is Excellent—Supplement With Oil Meal, Bran, Corn, Oats and Alfalfa.

Some farmers believe that a colt will make up as a horse the growth that it does not make as a colt. As a matter of fact a colt or any other young animal that is not kept growing is very likely never to become as large and strong as it would have been had it received the proper kind of feed and be fed liberally. The feed should be nutritious and palatable. Among the best colt feeds is fresh pasture grass. This should be supplemented with oil meal, corn, oats, bran and alfalfa or clover hay.

Where it is possible to do so the colts should be kept in the stable away from flies during the day, given all the alfalfa or clover hay they will eat and one pound of the following grain mixture to each 100 pounds of colts: Six pounds of oats or corn, three pounds of bran and one pound of oil meal—Ohio Bulletin.

TREATING HOGS WITH SERUM

Produces Immunity of Sufficient Duration to Allow Ample Time for Cleaning Up the Yards.

(By J. B. GINGERY, Missouri Experiment Station.)

The veterinary department of the Missouri agricultural experiment station has been recommending and using the serum alone treatment. The question is often heard, "Why the serum alone treatment?" The serum alone treatment properly administered has for its object the control and eventually the absolute eradication of hog cholera. It makes it possible in a large measure to do away with vaccination with its attending cost and trouble. The serum alone treatment is a safe method to use and is simple. It can be handled with good results by the careful inexperienced man. There are none of the bad after results such as sometimes follow other treatments.

Serum alone can neither start new outbreaks of cholera nor bring the infection on your noninfected farm. When administered under proper conditions it produces an immunity of sufficient duration to allow ample time for cleaning up and disinfecting the yards and in this way destroying the infection before the hogs outgrow the immunity. Under ordinary conditions this is of far greater importance than simply protecting hogs from the cholera for a varying period of time and not making any attempt to avoid harboring the germs. The germs, whether in the litter about the pens or in the virus of the double treatment, will cause the disease to develop. If cholera is to be controlled it is necessary to destroy the germs. The use of the serum alone is to protect the hogs until the germs can be destroyed by cleaning up, burning and disinfecting.

PROTECT STOCK FROM FLIES

Fine Spray of Kerosene Oil is Effective in Keeping Insects Off Animals—Other Remedies.

Sometimes a fine spray of pure kerosene is very effective in knocking off flies. This spray should not be heavy enough to penetrate the hair, or it will blister the skin. Another spray is made by the use of ordinary coal tar dip or creosote two parts, mineral oil four parts, water ten parts. This is usually put on with a brush or a sponge.

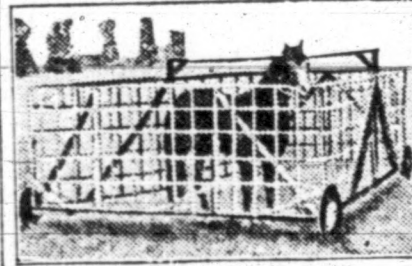

Of the mixtures classed as "repellents," the following is supposed to be very good: One gallon fish or whale oil; one pint coal oil; two ounces crude carbolic acid. A little melted resin is supposed to make these mixtures stick to the hair a little better. Another remedy suggested is ten parts lard or axle grease to one part of pine tar. Such mixtures are usually disagreeable to apply, and the bad odor is generally a greater nuisance than the presence of the flies.

The principal advantage of light sprays is that they drive the flies away during milking time. These have to be applied every day and do not keep the flies off very long. The repellent mixtures are usually applied twice a week, and will keep flies off from two to four days.

PASTURE FENCE ON WHEELS

Interesting Solution Offered by Illinois Farmer to Problem of Caring for Spirited Horse.

A portable pasture fence, made out of the framework of set pieces of fireworks, is the interesting solution offered by an Illinois farmer to the problem of caring for a spirited horse which runs itself out in a large meadow.

Excellent for Nervous Horse.

ow. The little pasture is 16 by 25 feet and the fence is mounted on wheels. One man can move it easily. The horse seems quite contented, and when one piece is grazed sufficiently, the fence is moved to a fresh piece.—Popular Mechanics.

BALANCED RATION FOR EGGS

Satisfactory Feed is Made of Corn, Wheat, Oats, Alfalfa, Beef Scraps and Linseed Meal.

The following ration is fairly well balanced for egg production: One hundred and fifty pounds each of cracked corn and cracked wheat, 20 pounds each of wheat bran, middlings, cornmeal, ground oats and gluten meal, 20 pounds beef scraps, five pounds each of alfalfa meal and old process linseed-oil meal.

For hens having free range of the farm, a very simple ration is made of equal parts cracked corn and cracked wheat, and a dish of beef scraps to which they can help themselves.

Good Land Wasted.

Get after the old briars and weeds along the line fence. Why not use the old briars that have been superseded by a new one. It would be interesting to know just what proportion of good land in this country is allowed to go to waste along line fences.

WHO'S WHO~and WHEREFORE

INVENTOR OF SUBMARINE

And why not the submarine? Secret stations will be established on the English coast, from which long lines of mines will extend out in parallel lines. Only the captains of the submarines and the officers at the landing stations will know the location of these mines. Airships will be sent from the shore to watch for hostile submarines and, even should hostile airships succeed in locating the submarine freight boats, they would be unable to destroy the submarines unless they rose to the surface.

If the war continues for two years England will have to use cargo-carrying submarines to import food from the United States. In the opinion of Simon Lake, submarine inventor and president of the Lake Torpedo company, Bridgeport, Conn.

Captain Lake, whose company is constructing undersea boats for our navy, is encouraged in this belief by the 5,500-mile trip, on an initial supply of fuel, made by the G-3 of the United States navy.

"The G-3 made that trip at a speed of 11 knots an hour," he said. "At reduced speed she can cover a greater distance."

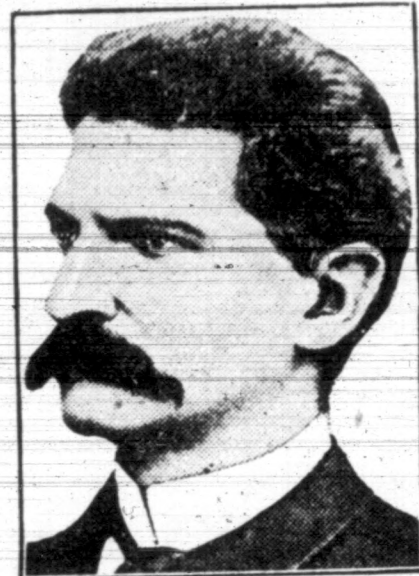

"Between 18 and 24 months from now, should the war run that long, the ships of the Teutonic allies will close the seas to surface shipments of food, ammunition and other supplies from this country to England. You can readily see that some other method of shipment will have to be adopted."

THE SPHINX OF ITALY

Signor Sidney Sonnino, Italy's minister for foreign affairs, is known in the Italian press as "the Sphinx." He has twice been premier and has three times declined the honor, he has been minister of finance, has served in the diplomatic corps at Paris, Vienna, Madrid, and has sat in parliament 34 years.

With this varied experience in governmental affairs, he was sought by the king to guide the cabinet in the crisis brought about by the outbreak of war. Sonnino declined, fearing, it is said, that he would not be able to command the necessary support in parliament. He has always declared he "belonged neither to the right, nor to the left," meaning that he adopted no policy of open support or opposition to the government. He is a liberal.

He is an exceedingly cultured man, a good classical scholar and a distinguished commentator of Dante. His knowledge of state affairs is complete, but he lacks parliamentary ability. His speeches are cold and uninspiring.

HIGHLY HONORED WOMAN

For the first time in its history Columbia university conferred the honorary degree of LL. D. on a woman recently. She is Miss Louisa Lee Schuyler and she was born in New York in 1837. Miss Schuyler was prominent in the work of the sanitary commission in the Civil war. Since that time she has been prominent in hospital and poorhouse work and she founded the State Charities Aid association in 1872. She established the Bellevue Hospital Training School for nurses and she has done much other notable philanthropic work. Miss Schuyler is a great granddaughter of Alexander Hamilton and of Gen. Philip Schuyler of the American revolution.

Although Miss Schuyler is no longer young, her days of activity are by no means over. It was only nine years ago that she organized the first committee in the United States for aftercare of the insane, and a year later she was appointed one of the original trustees of the Russell Sage foundation. In 1903 she organized the first committee in this country for prevention of blindness, and it was composed of both physicians and laymen.

In addition to the varied and ceaseless activities already sketched, Miss Schuyler has written voluminously upon the subjects in which she is recognized as a leading authority.

GIVEN IMPORTANT POST

When Secretary of State Lansing selected Frank Lyon Polk for the highly important position of counselor of the state department, he picked an accomplished lawyer and a man of wide experience.

Mr. Polk is the son of Dr. William McKlenburg Polk, dean of the Cornell Medical school, the grandson of the Confederate bishop-general, Leonidas Polk, and the grandnephew of President James K. Polk. He was born in 1871 and was graduated from Yale in 1894. He studied law at Columbia Law school and was graduated from there in 1897. In 1898 he went to the Spanish war with Troop A and became assistant quartermaster under General Ernest with the rank of captain. In 1908 he married Miss Elizabeth Potter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Potter of Philadelphia. They have three children.

Mr. Polk was treasurer of the bureau of municipal research during Mayor McClellan's administration and a member of the Thomas Mott Osborne Democratic league in the early days of the Dix campaign. In January, 1914, he was appointed corporation counsel of New York by Mayor Mitchell, his close friend. He was riding with Mayor Mitchell last year when a grievance-craved man shot at the mayor. The bullet missed its mark and struck Mr. Polk in the left cheek.

THE BUBBLE

When The Man found the apartment in which he had been told that The Girl lived he stood hesitating to ring the bell, his heart gripped by the iron hand of fear, his mind leaping at every possible and impossible explanation of the presence of this young woman who was so alone in the world and totally dependent upon her own earnings for a home in what he knew to be one of the most expensive apartment houses in the city.

Finally he mustered his courage and his ring was answered by a polite maid who ushered him in and took his card with the promise of presenting it to her mistress. As The Man sat waiting his eyes wandered over the many rooms with their exquisite appointments, and when The Girl came to him smilingly composed, somehow it seemed to him that all of his world was being torn from under his feet and so intense was his suffering that he stood holding her outstretched hand and gazing into her averted face without a word until she shook herself free.

"What does it mean?" he faltered. "Your letter, breaking our engagement—and this."

He swept the apartment with comprehensive gesture, and The Girl's eyes followed its direction, while with complete frankness she told him:

"Life has been very beautiful since you went away," she told him. "At first my thought followed you continuously, and my sympathies were with you in your struggle to make your

was giving up every single thing in life worth having, that once more he went to her and told her that this life she had chosen at the price of her soul was at best but a bubble that would surely break, and offered her the protection of his name, and the best that he could accomplish through earnest work; promising that the past six months of her life should be as a closed book between them, whereupon The Girl laughed at his earnestness, assured him that some day the obstacles to her marriage with her lover would be removed, and declared that, in any event, she was quite content.

The Lover was long attentive to The Girl, and lavished so many luxuries upon her that she became satisfied with pleasure and so steeped in indolence that she forgot to trouble over the continued excuses for their delayed marriage; forgot the fitting of time until one day she learned from the daily press—as any casual reader might have done—that the man in whose keeping she had placed her life and its honor had married a brilliant woman—whom society respected and had gone abroad for his honeymoon.

At first The Girl thought there must be some horrible mistake—some confusion of names perhaps—but such a hope was short-lived.

Dismissing her maid from the apartment The Girl spent an hour before her mirror—a crucial hour in which the beautiful long French glass told her a frank and hideous truth. It said that the years of her youth had slipped away unnoticed; that indolence way in your new position, and I was interested in my own work, and satisfied with what I could earn—until, well, until I was taken ill."

"Ill!" exclaimed The Man interrupting. "Why didn't you tell me?"

"During my illness," The Girl went on, ignoring the interruption, "some one was like a dear guardian angel to me, and when I was better he made me see that I was never meant to struggle through years of poverty with a man of no means; made me see that life without luxuries was a hideous sort of thing for a woman; made me understand the greatness of his love for me, and little by little my heart went out to him for all his kindness to me."

The Man was on his feet before The Girl had finished, stumbling blindly toward the door. When he had reached it he turned and asked her in a tone divested of all hope just when her marriage had taken place.

"Marriage!" exclaimed The Girl, "why there has been no marriage. There are reasons why we must wait."

She finished her sentence to an empty room.

When The Man had spent several weeks alone with his thoughts he knew that the great and tender love he bore The Girl still lived. He thought of her youth, her beauty, her careful training in a refined home until the death of her parents; he knew that the strenuous voice of wealth and luxury was very sweet in the ears of a woman and he believed so firmly that The Girl had been swept off her feet, and had no realization that she lence and luxury had added so much flesh that all semblance of the once slim and graceful figure was gone. Suddenly she remembered The Man, and his stricken face as he had left her in that long ago yesterday. The fine and beautiful thing he had done in offering her his name in the face of the life she had chosen struck her for the first time with its full significance, and all there was of holiness left in her heart rose in prayer to God that it might not be too late.

The letter she wrote The Man was blotted with tears. When she mailed it a sense of peace stole into her aching heart until the days went by, one after another, and there came no answer. The days lengthened into weeks; the weeks into months, and the months into years, and as The Girl still waited respectable women drew aside their skirts and men gave her a cynical smile as she came down step by step to her small room in a third-class boarding house where she sits alone in her ostracism, watching with hungry eyes the happiness of protected wives, hearing the laughter of little children, and thinking of her own heritage given in exchange for a gay little bubble that was sure quickly to break.

A Shedder of Tears. "You say he's a drummer and never tells a funny story?"

"That's right."

"I should think he would be handicapped."

"Not in his business. He sells tombstones and the role he plays is one of sympathy."

UGH! CALOMEL MAKES YOU SICK! CLEAN LIVER AND BOWELS MY WAY

Just Once! Try "Dodson's Liver-Tone" When Bilious, Constipated, Headachy—Don't Lose a Day's Work.

Liven up your sluggish liver! Feel fine and cheerful; make your work a pleasure; be vigorous and full of ambition. But take no nasty, dangerous calomel, because it makes you sick and you may lose a day's work. Calomel is mercury or quicksilver, which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel crashes into your bile like dynamite, breaking it up. That's when you feel that awful nausea and cramping.

Listen to me! If you want to enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced—just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver-Tone. Your druggist or dealer sells you a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver-Tone under my personal money-back guarantee that each spoonful will clean your sluggish liver better than a dose of nasty calomel and that it won't make you sick.

Dodson's Liver-Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning, because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and your bowels regular.

Dodson's Liver-Tone is entirely vegetable, therefore—harmless—and cannot salivate. Give it to your children. Millions of people are using Dodson's Liver-Tone instead of dangerous calomel now. Your druggist will tell you that the sale of calomel is almost stopped entirely here.

DIDN'T "RAISE" THE CHICKENS

But Evidently Dealer Hadn't Quite Comprehended Question Asked by His Customer.

Here is a little story that was told by Congressman William C. Adams of Georgia when the conversation turned to natural misapprehension.

A young housewife who lives in a suburban town went to the village store to make some purchases.

"These chickens look very nice," remarked the customer, pausing before the poultry counter. "How much are they?"

"One dollar apiece, madam," was the prompt response of the obliging proprietor. "You can't find better poultry for the money in the whole country."

"One dollar," thoughtfully mused the customer, and then added: "Did you raise them?"

"Oh, no, madam," was the hasty assurance of the misunderstanding storekeeper. "That is the same price I offered to sell them for yesterday."

Hardly Complimentary.

A New England housewife one afternoon received a call from a hobo to whom that morning she had given some doughnuts.

The knight of the road doffed his ragged headpiece and with great civility addressed her thus:

"Madam, this morning you gave me three doughnuts. Would it be asking too much to request a fourth?"

"I'll be glad to give you another," said the woman, as she prepared to wrap one in a newspaper. "So you like my doughnuts, do you?"

"It isn't that, madam," explained the hobo. "You see, some friends of mine down in the meadow wish to have a game of quoits."

COULD RECOGNIZE NUISANCE

Judge's Retort Set Courtroom Laughing and Gave Lawyer Something to Think About.

CITY Magistrate Krotel, who is noted for a characteristic brand of dry humor, occasionally manifested in utterances from the bench, turned a cruel shaft loose upon a pestiferous young attorney this week, to the supreme enjoyment of a crowded courtroom, says the New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Star. The young attorney was prosecuting in a case where the maintaining of a nuisance was alleged. The rulings of Magistrate Krotel did not please him. His numerous objections became persistently controversial. "If your honor please," he said, "I would not presume to instruct the honorable court in a question of law, but I am impelled to observe that I doubt—in the present case only, of course—if the court properly conceives of what constitutes a nuisance."

"You are mistaken sir," was the response from the bench. "This court has never had a more clear or exemplary idea of what constitutes a nuisance than in the present case at the present time. And for that, in a measurable way, the court thanks you, sir."

No Cause for Alarm.

A young preacher who was staying at a clergy house was in the habit of retiring to his room for an hour or more each day to practice pulpit oratory. At such times he filled the house with sounds of fervor and pathos and emptied it of almost everything else. A well-known bishop happened to be visiting a friend in the house one day when the budding orator was holding forth.

"Viracious me!" exclaimed the bishop, starting up in assumed terror. "Pray, what might that be?"

"Sir, that, bishop," his friend replied. "That's only your D— practicing what he preaches."

How to get the most from a pound of coffee

First, get a coffee that has been thoroughly aged when green. Proper aging changes the raw, strong taste of the bean to a mellow, rich flavor.

Next, it must be roasted by experts under perfect conditions. Skillful roasting brings out the full delicacy of the natural flavor. Unskillful roasting spoils the flavor and causes a heavy and wasteful loss in weight.

Finally, coffee must be packed in a way that will keep it fresh, and protect it from outside odors and from moisture.

In Arbuckles' Coffee you get all these advantages. You get a coffee thoroughly aged when green, skillfully and uniformly roasted; then guarded from moisture and odors in special, sanitary, sealed packages.

If you haven't used Arbuckles' Coffee lately, do so now. See what big value you get—how the delicious flavor will please and satisfy. Get a package today.
