The budget is made and approved by the Council's executive board, which includes representatives of the five districts. No money may be spent without approval of the board. Fulton board members are: Bertie Pigge, Robert Burrow, Foad Homra and Clifford Shields.

Many improvements are being made at the Scouts' Camp Pakentuck, chief of which is construction of a dam to enclose a large lake. Fishing, boating and swimming will be available to the young campers. The Boy Scout camp on Kentucky Lake is being improved at present.

Over 350 boys are enrolled in Scouting in this district. Fifty men voluntarily give their time and efforts to make the Scouting program a success. The financial assistance given the Boy Scouts by communities in the District is expected to serve as a bulwark against juvenile delinquency.

Roads To Cost $33 Millions

State's '47-48 Budget
Is $33,929,570 Beside Federal Funds Expected

Frankfort, Ky., April 1.—(AP)—The Highway Department today announced its 1947-48 road budget calling for an outlay of $33,929,570, exclusive of federal funds.

Principle items were $13,000,000 for new construction, $8,000,000 for maintenance and $5,000,000 for rural roads. The road fund's fiscal year began today. Other items included $2,000,000 for purchase of new equipment and repair of old; $1,250,000 for engineering; $1,600,000 for payroll clearing and administration; $600,000 for the Highway Patrol and $100,000 for its radio system; $750,000 for the force account, where the department uses its own personnel for road work, and $500,000 for location of roads.

Revenue Commissioner O. M. Howard estimated recently the road fund would take in $30,000,000 between today and next March 31.

The Highway Department said $3,500,000 of the $13,000,000 is budgeted for state-road use only. The other $9,500,000 is for road work in which the federal government could match funds.

If this is done, it is possible that $19,000,000 could be spent on roads and streets which are parts of the federal system, bringing the entire budget to $43,500,000, the Department said.

HERO OR DESERTER?

James Minker (above), 25, found guilty last week by a U. S. army court martial at West Point of being a deserter, actually was in Europe at the time, fighting with the paratroops, his attorney, Anthony F. Caffrey, reported in Syracuse, N. Y. Caffrey said Minker, a Syracuse boy, joined the paratroopers in 1942 as James H. Rowley, rather than remain on duty at West Point, where he had been stationed.

Graves Native Killed by Truck

Pryorsburg Resident Hit On Highway In An
"Unavoidable Accident"

Mayfield—John Wesley Latham, 77, resident of the Pryorsburg community, was killed almost instantly at about 8 o'clock yesterday morning when he was struck by a State Highway Department truck as he was crossing the highway near Pryorsburg.

Mr. Latham, Highway Patrolmen said, had been to a garage in Pryorsburg and was walking north on Highway 45 returning to his home. A friend stopped on the opposite side of the highway to offer him a ride, and as Mr. Latham crossed the road he walked into the path of the truck, which was driven by Jones Feltz, of the Clinton garage.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of "unavoidable accident" yesterday afternoon.

Union City—Sixty Cubs and an estimated 350 spectators attended the first annual Cub kite derby held Sunday at the J. C. McCreary farm on the old Woodland road.

King George Of Greece Dies; Prince Paul Will Replace Him In Nation's Most Critical Hour

Greeks Must Beware Red Rule, Congressional Leaders Warn

Washington, April 1.—(AP)—The death of King George of Greece provoked today Congressional admonitions that the Greek people must guard against a Communist attempt to seize control of that country's shaky government.

The immediate reaction to the Greek monarch's death found few legislators of the opinion that it would materially affect action on President Truman's $400,000,000 aid proposal to bulwark Greece and Turkey against Communism.

This viewpoint appeared strengthened by a report from Athens that Prince Paul, the king's brother, is to be sworn in as his successor, thus leaving the country still under the control of a monarchy.

Truman Favors Sugar Control

Sees Danger In Dropping
Restrictions Oct. 31;
May Ask For A New Law

Washington, April 1.—(AP)—Sugar rationing gained a new seven-month lease on life today, but President Truman—fearful of "disastrous economic consequences" from such a short extension—announced he might seek longer controls.

The sugar act, which also carries sugar price control to October 31, was approved by Congress yesterday along with a 90-day extension of the President's power to parcel out a sharply trimmed list of industrial, drug and food items.

Mr. Truman signed both bills in time to prevent the entire sugar and allocation program from lapsing along with the second war powers act. The act is the source of the priority, rationing and allocation power. It ran out at midnight, save for the few controls salvaged.

But Mr. Truman said he penned his signature "with reluctance" on the sugar bill. "It should like to emphasize the fact that sugar supplies in the United States normally approach a low level in the Fall," his statement said.

If this proves likely, Mr. Truman added, he will "ask the Congress to reconsider," inasmuch as some members "clearly recognized" the dangerous possibilities during debate on the bill.

No change in sugar rations or regulation will be made for the present, Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson announced. He set up a new "sugar rationing administration" in the department made up of OPA's former sugar staff.

The bill provides 30 pounds of sugar a person for the next seven months, or an annual rate of 35 pounds, 10 pounds more than last year.

The equipment remains the property of the state Health Department, but is on a permanent loan to this health district.

King Victim Of Angina Pectoris; Had Been Exiled

NATION IS SADDENED

Athens, April 1.—(AP)—King George II died unexpectedly today of a heart ailment at a critical period in his nation's history, and his 45-year-old brother Prince Paul was called to the throne.

The 56-year-old king had been complaining recently of pain from angina pectoris, an ailment arising from a disease of the coronary arteries, former Premier George Papandreu said. Papandreu said the monarch died at 2:30 p. m. (6:30 a. m. Central Standard time).

Prince Paul was to take the royal oath at 7:30 p. m. It was announced that the government and Paul later would issue messages to the people.

The death of the king came six months after his return to his throne from London after a plebiscite favoring the monarchy.

He died at a time when the explosive "Greek question" was being debated in Washington and in the capitals of the world, and when his country's bloody guerrilla warfare was being investigated by a United Nations commission.

George took over the reign of Greece in 1922. When his father, Constantine, abdicated in 1917, George was barred from the throne because the Allies feared he had pro-German leanings. His brother, Alexander, became king. Alexander died from the bite of a pet monkey in 1920, and Constantine returned to the throne. But Greece again was beset by hard times and Constantine, in 1922, had to abdicate again. George succeeded him. Soon afterward he faced his first plebiscite, was defeated, and went into exile as Greece became a republic. His exile lasted 13 years.

He was recalled by a plebiscite in 1935 after the Royalists staged a coup d'etat, and reigned but did rule. The dictatorship of John Metaxas was in power.

The king went into exile again when Germany invaded his country in 1941, and he was recalled by a plebiscite last September.

Reports of the king's death spread quickly but the people were suspicious at first because they thought it might be an April Fool's joke.

When the report was confirmed by news on the Athens radio it brought expressions of profound regret.

Among the first to be notified was the former premier and the present foreign minister, Constantinos Tsaldaris, who rushed to the palace.

Wallace Attacks President Truman On Aid To Greece

New York, April 1.—(AP)—Henry A. Wallace, former vice president and cabinet member, told a cheering audience last night that "sooner or later Truman's program of unconditional aid to anti-Soviet governments will unite the world against America and divide America against herself."

Declaring that "the President and his Republican backers are less concerned with the need of the Greek people for food than with the need of the American navy for oil," Wallace said that "the plan to contain Communism is really secondary to that push for oil."

The Madison Square Garden rally, called a "crisis meeting" by the sponsor, the Progressive Citizens of America, drew a crowd estimated at more than 19,000. Shouts of "Wallace for President" were heard from the audience before Wallace began speaking.

Lewis Obscures Issue

John L. Lewis has betrayed his miners. As usual, he has diverted attention from them, their perils and their sufferings, even from the dead of Centralia, to himself and his bitter obsession of revenge. Revenge for what? Revenge for injury to his personal pride and vainglory. Revenge for the distasteful necessity, imposed by the courts, of renouncing his defiance and contempt of orderly government.

The whole import of his order for a week's work stoppage, as a memorial to those who died, tells of his real intention. He had planned a strike, he was balked of it, having encountered a power greater than his own. But now he seizes upon a tragic opportunity to demonstrate that he is still omnipotent, even though only in his field of authority. He will have his strike, such as it is, on schedule.

It makes poor sense. There is a natural human compassion for miners and the extraordinary hazards of their work. The Centralia disaster surely would enhance this feeling and build a greater popular and moral support for miners as they sit at a bargaining table. But Lewis intrudes, in fury that did not begin with the explosion in Illinois. He demands the spotlight for his personality, and by the immolation of his words and actions, he dissipates a great advantage. The country sees the huffing Lewis, flaunting his power, not the tragic Centralia.

There is a better example from the Progressive Mine Workers of America, a smaller group independent of Lewis' United Mine Workers. Except for a day of memorial, they will remain at work, and from the proceeds of this work they will give $7,500 to the families of those who died. As a West Virginia coal operator pointed out, if Lewis had asked his miners to work on an extra hour, instead of stopping work for a week, this hour might have created $600,000 for the bereaved families. And a case for public sympathy would have been made out, instead of sympathy's being obscured by Lewis' theatricals.

In spite of Lewis, however, there are poignant details in the Centralia story that force attention to the victims and to the shadow in which mine workers and their families live. There is the record of the notes found to have been written by some of the doomed men in their last dark, hopeless moments. There was no bitterness in those scrawls; not even despair, but thoughts of others who would be left to work and sorrow after the tomb had been laid.

It is these things, more than gestures of vain and perverse reprisal, that will stir the public conscience to see that others will not so die in darkness. The evidence that safety rules were violated in the Centralia mine, in spite of numerous warnings, must be sifted, and the truth of the culpability established. There is both State and federal responsibility to be judged, for both agencies of government were involved in the inspection routine. If John L. Lewis would permit the country to shift its eyes and its emotions from him to the condition itself, much more could be done, and with a concentrated will. (Courier-Journal.)

Anything Goes
Spring (?) has been here six days, and it has rained or snowed every day since the season started; it has hailed a little, sleeted a little and there have been winds up to 60 miles an hour. The highest temperature was 70 on Sunday, the lowest 22 yesterday morning.—Louisville Times.

Despite the fact that the parking meters around the courtyard and in the center of the streets north and south of the Square are temporarily "suspended," visitors to Ripley who do not know that fact are constantly putting their money in them. No Need To Fight

By Dewitt MacKenzie,
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

That certainly was two-fisted language which Representative Crawford, Michigan Republican, used yesterday in testifying before the House Foreign Affairs Committee that he believes the United States should tell the Russians they must disarm or this country will use her atomic bomb and economic power against them.

The Congressman conceded that such a course would mean war if the Soviet Union defied America, but he said that in event of war Russia would "get licked." He added that the people of the U. S. A. "have the power to disarm the world" and should start with Russia.

Well, far be it from us to deny that we are capable of doing whatever seems necessary. Still, having taken this stand, undoubtedly all will agree that it's preferable if possible to handle this Communist world-revolution without another global conflict at arms.

War between the two most powerful nations—both with virtually unlimited resources—would be a horror which might drag along for years. True, we could create havoc with our atomic bombs, but the military experts say that major wars aren't going to be won with atomic bombs alone at this stage of the game. All other branches of the armed services would have to be brought into play, including infantry.

Agreeing with Congressman Crawford that America would win, we should have to go into the Russia Bear's cave and drag him out by main force. And that would take some doing, for the Soviet Empire occupies one-sixth of the world's land surface, and is heavily guarded in Europe by many satellite nations. Such a war would make all past conflicts look like school picnics.

That's why the United States government is trying to halt the Red drive by the indirect method of giving material aid to nations which are in the path of Communist aggression. Greece and Turkey are the first to come in line for help. In this connection secret testimony was presented before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week, designating Turkey as the key, even more than Greece, to any move to halt the spread of Communism in the Mediterranean area.

This testimony was given behind closed doors by Edwin C. Wilson, U. S. Ambassador to Turkey. One Senator told a reporter that Wilson's presentation was so significant that the legislator concluded the President's program is based even more on military than on political considerations. Wilson is said to have testified in effect that Turkey remains the last strong government on the Mediterranean standing up against Russia. He added that the Turks aren't able alone to foot the bill for maintaining a large army.

It is true that Turkey, and Dardanelles Strait which she controls, form a far more important base military than Greece. However, we can't dismiss Greece lightly, for it is a powerful bastion guarding the flank of the Turkish position.

Since Turkey straddles the Dardanelles and thus embraces both European and Asiatic soil, she forms a land bridge between Europe and Asia. Indeed, if you follow your nose around the Eastern Mediterranean, after crossing the bridge from Europe, you eventually will arrive in Africa.

So Turkey can be said to provide a highway between three continents. And if that broad highway were thrown open to Communism, there's no telling where the Red arm might go.

The $150,000,000 which President Truman would allot to Turkey would be used for military purposes. The Turks are among the world's finest fighters, and it was a wholesome respect for the Turkish army (Ankara claimed that it totaled 1,000,000 bayonets) which kept Hitler from attempting to charge across from the Balkan peninsula into the Middle East.

Turkey is said to be able to mobilize a total of some 2,000,000. In any event, she has sufficient effectives to man her powerful natural defenses along the Dardanelles, provided she has the equipment. That's where American aid would come in. It's safe to say that the Muscovites, like the Germans, would look carefully before attempting to force their way into Turkey from the Balkan peninsula.

Just Like Pop

Baltimore.—(P)—According to his parents, three-year-old Staley Schaefer likes the ladies.

The youngster disappeared yesterday while staying with some friends. Several hours later, three teen-age girls showed up with Staley at police headquarters and explained he had been following them.

That didn't surprise his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schaefer.

"You see," Mr. Schaefer remarked, "He's always had an eye for the girls."
"Just like his father," chimed in Mrs. Schaefer.

Backward Glances

At Fulton

(By Ouida Jewell)

The Wade brothers of Bradford, Tenn., erected and placed in operation in 1893 an ice factory in Fulton. Notwithstanding the great expense, they realized a handsome profit out of their first year's work. With a splendid water supply of their own, they furnished the best quality of ice from pure distilled water, and in addition to supplying home consumption, the firm shipped several car loads of ice each week to neighboring towns.

R. H. Wade, a young man, but with large experience in his line, was manager of the plant. He was one of Fulton's most energetic and enterprising young men, and in 1899 was fast taking front rank among the successful businessmen of Fulton.

Another interesting personality of this period was Herbert Carr, a leading young attorney of the town. Mr. Carr graduated from Vanderbilt University in both the classical and law departments. He was the son of W. F. Carr, on whose land greater part of Fulton was built. From childhood young Carr was of a studious turn of mind and his friends were unanimous in the prediction that he would make a brilliant and able lawyer. Mr. Carr's office was with The Hon. Ed Thomas in the First National Bank building. Mr. Carr was quite a noted singer, having been a member of the Vanderbilt Glee Club. He was also an all around athlete, fond of out-door sports and was the best amateur baseball pitcher in Kentucky. (Wonder if he could have beaten Shultz?)

I was showing the old paper to Miss Mary Royster and she pointed out a picture of her grandfather, Col. W. F. Taylor. Mr. Taylor was universally honored and respected for his genial and friendly manner. In 1899 he was the dignified and sagacious president of the First National Bank in Fulton. He was extremely liberal and hospitable in his quiet, domestic and social life, but a cautious and conservative head of the excellent banking institution of which he was the moving factor.

Perhaps Pleas Taylor was the most widely known and beloved individual in all Fulton county. For years he was prominently before the county as County Court Clerk, and whenever he was considered "invincible." Everyone gave way to him, and it was the universal opinion that he made a capital clerk. He built a handsome home in Fulton after he retired from politics, and spent his declining years surrounded by the people who loved and valued him most. His home still stands on Carr street. It is now the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. F. Royster, and her daughter, Miss Mary Royster, who is one of our Fulton high teachers.

Mr. Jesse Walker must have been some character—you should see his picture with his big mustache. Mr. Walker, the South Fulton city marshal at this time, was a man of iron will and daring nerve, just such a man as his position demanded—vigilant, watchful and aggressive. He was born in the adjoining county of Hickman in 1850, and was said to be one of the youngest, if not the youngest, soldiers in the Civil War, enlisting with the Twelfth Kentucky Cavalry when only 13 years of age. He voted in the first election ever held in South Fulton, and in 1883 he was elected City Marshal, which post he still held in 1899. Mr. Walker gained quite a reputation abroad for his ability and skill shown in catching criminals, and his celebrated blood hounds brought many a villain to justice.

Major League Training Camps

By The Associated Press
St. Petersburg, Fla.—Pitcher Johnny Beasley, so discouraged at one time last year that he announced he was quitting baseball, passed the first test on his comeback trail yesterday as the St. Louis Cardinals trimmed Cincinnati, 7-2. The Red Bird hero of the 1942 World Series showed plenty of stuff during his three-inning mound trick during which he fanned two, walked none and yielded three hits.

Fort Worth, Tex.—It will be "old home week" another Boston Red Soxer today. Tommy Fine, who lives nearby, will share the pitching chores with Joe Dobson against the local Cats of the Texas League. Yesterday in Houston, Tex. Hughson won a pitching duel from his first cousin, Jack Greel, when Johnny Pesky lashed out a triple that gave the Sox a 4-3 win over the Houston Buffs.

Jacksonville, Fla.—The Boston Braves will take their third crack at the Detroit Tigers today with Righthander Johnny Sain attempting to go the distance and duplicate the feat of Big Mort Cooper, who recently hurled nine frames.

West Palm Beach, Fla.—Manager Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics went all-out today in praise of young first baseman Hank Blasatti who, Mack says, "will be a great player."

The 22-year old left-hander may not appear with the A's this season, for Mack feels he needs another year of Triple-A seasoning, but he is counting on Blasatti in his 1948 plans—decidedly.

Clearwater, Fla.—The Philadelphia Phillies have asked waivers on Charlie Letch, young second baseman. General Manager Herb Pennock said that if waivers are obtained, Letch will be given his unconditional release.

Tucson, Ariz.—Bill Nicholson worked out lightly yesterday for the first time since developing a cherry horse a week ago. Although this was a bright note for Chicago Cub Manager Charlie Grimm, the injury bug-aboo struck again to take off some of the edge. Second Baseman Don Johnson, whose briteness is beginning to worry the Cubs, is out of the lineup again, this time with a banged-up finger.

Phoenix, Ariz.—The New York Giants celebrated their return to their initial Spring training base yesterday by staging a six-run ninth inning rally to nose out the Chicago White Sox, 9-8.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—The New York Yankees will end their stay here by playing exhibition games with the St. Louis Cardinals today and tomorrow. The Yanks will start heading north Friday, stopping at Atlanta, Norfolk, Va., and Baltimore before reaching New York.

Joe Fuls Tries for Pro Scoring Mark

Philadelphia, April 1—(AP)—Joe Fuls, the fabulous marksman for the Philadelphia Warriors, will be gunning for the unofficial pro scoring record tomorrow night when the Warriors clash with the St. Louis Bombers in the opening of the Basketball Association of America playoffs. In 60 games in the regular season, Fuls tallied 1389 points. The unofficial title belongs to Willie Kummer, who scored 1404 with Connelville, Pa., in 1912. At that time, Kummer shot all his team's fouls.

Cards Thought Cinch To Win

Infield One Of The Best In History of Baseball; Team Better Than in '46

By Gayle Talbot
Tampa, Fla., April 1—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals' infield should come to be recognized this year as one of the greatest in the history of baseball, and Manager Eddie Dyer's world champions most likely will win the National League flag by a decisive margin.

The foregoing is the principal fruit of six weeks spent wandering through the spring baseball mart, pinching the products and listening to the barkers.

The Red Birds should win again because they will be a better club than they were at any time in 1946.

If pressed for a complete order of finish in the National this observer would guess something like this: (1) St. Louis, (2) Brooklyn, (3) Boston, (4) Chicago, (5) Pittsburgh, (6) Cincinnati, (7) Philadelphia and (8) New York.

Except for some doubt about Captain Terry Moore's ability to play his usual sparkling ball in centerfield for more than 100 games, the Cardinals are set to open the race with a rush. Their fine young catcher, Joe Garagiola, has not yet begun to hit, but no one much doubts that he will come along.

The team that appears to have the best chance of upsetting the above order of finish is Pittsburgh. With Hank Greenberg and Ralph Kiner, last year's twin homerun kings, taking their big cuts in order, the Pirates might do almost anything—or nothing much. A fifth-place finish would represent a popular victory for the team's new owners, who include Crooner Bing Crosby.

Higher Education Coming For Army's Chow Chiefs

Camp Lee, Va.—(AP)—The Army thinks it can improve on its chow. With this in view a completely new program of cook training is being planned at the quartermaster school here. The course will last 12 instead of 8 weeks.

Dentist Too Busy On The Fairways To See Patients

Charlotte, N. C., April 1—(AP)—Folks down Memphis way who have been planning to see Dr. E. Cary Middlecoff, "cavity cobbler par excellence," as he puts it, will have to hunt up another dentist.

The doctor is out—playing golf, and he's not likely to be back for quite a spell. At least not after what he chowed in giving par an eight-stroke lashing in yesterday's Charlotte Open tournament playoff which he won over George Schous of San Francisco by a nine-stroke margin.

The 26-year-old Tennesseean put together a pair of 32's to

Vienna Children Badly Underfed

Vienna—(AP)—An examination of approximately 50 percent of Vienna's schoolchildren by the Vienna health board has revealed that at least 75 percent of them are undernourished. In spite of American, Swedish and Swiss programs for providing at least one hot meal daily to each pupil, at least 32 percent are suffering from "serious" undernourishment, the health board reported.

THE ADVENTURES OF PATSY

A MESSAGE FROM THE CHIEF OF STAFF

The Time of Need Is Now

The Selective Service System, which helped build so magnificent a wartime Army, is being discontinued as an immediate source of men for Army service. Its record is one of distinction, and the Nation's gratitude goes out to all those responsible for the efficient administration of that system, as well as to the millions of selected men who served with such courage and devotion.

From now on we are engaged in a great test, to see whether a system traditionally American in peacetime—the volunteer system—can give us the stable, well-trained Regular Army our current international commitments require.

We have come to a crucial turning point in the development of our military establishment. Building an all-volunteer Regular Army is not a job for the War Department alone; it is a job for the American people—a task of writing the insurance against the chaos of another war.

Here are the basic facts: To carry out our present assignments, we must maintain the Regular Army at a strength of 1,070,000 men. This will require a constant flow into the Army of 30,000 men a month. These men must be of high quality, and every one must be a volunteer. Thus we face a persistent question: Can we do the job?

The task is enormous. Never before have we even considered raising and maintaining a peacetime Regular Army of a million volunteers. There are no sign-posts to go by, no experience on which to base sure forecasts. But such obstacles have never deterred this Nation before.

I have confidence in the young men of America, whose opportunity it is to choose this fine profession. And I believe we can do the job—if we have three things: public understanding, public support and public action.

National observance of Army Day and Army Week is made possible by public support. This has come from the fine young soldiers who have volunteered, from individuals, and from organized groups. Now, as we strive to build a Regular Army to help enforce world peace and security, I ask those who have given so generously of their help to redouble their efforts.

They can do so in the knowledge that the United States Army offers able young Americans not only three things every man wants—good pay, a real career, a chance for advancement—but also the honor and dignity which is associated with national service in time of need.

The time of need is now.

Wall Street Report

New York, April 1—(P)—Assorted stocks regained some of their equilibrium in today's market although many leaders continued to waver.

Bidding by professionals for a technical recovery after three successive retreating sessions provided a bolstering influence. Schenley and American Woolen, weak spots Monday, rallied. Chrysler came back for a point advance. Resistant were U. S. Steel, General Motors, Eastern Air Lines, Southern Railway, American Telephone and Douglas Aircraft. Occasional stumblers included du Pont, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber, Allied Chemical and U. S. Gypsum. Bonds were mixed and cotton futures lower.

FORD

Offers the Lowest Priced Cars In Its Field!

The Ford three-window, six-cylinder business coupe is now back in production. The price has been reduced twenty dollars below the price which prevailed last fall when production on this model was temporarily suspended.

This reduction, together with those of January 15 ranging up to fifty dollars, makes the Ford business coupe and the two-door sedan the lowest priced cars in their field.

This is in keeping with Ford's policy of offering the greatest value at the lowest possible cost.
