Major League Training Camps

Philadelphia, April 4—Ten days from now, the Philadelphia Athletics, Boston Red Sox, St. Louis Browns, Chicago White Sox and New York Yankees will assemble at the Valley Golf Club in North Hollywood, California, to begin what is known as the spring training.

The spring training is the last place where the players get a chance to work out before the season starts. It is also the place where the managers make their decisions about who will make the team.

The spring training is a time of great excitement for the fans. They can see their favorite players up close and personal, and they can get autographs and pictures.

The spring training is also a time of great pressure for the players. They know that they must perform well in order to make the team.

The spring training is a time of great anticipation for the city. The fans are excited to see the team in action, and they are looking forward to the season.
