Fulton Senior Is Runner-Up For Scholarship

James K. James Gets Certificate, $50 Cash Award

LEADS HIS CLASS

James Kendall James, 17, a senior at Fulton high school, today received word that he had been awarded a certificate of merit by the Pepsi-Cola Scholarship Board as runner-up for one of the 126 four-year college scholarships being granted this year. As a certificate of merit winner, James will receive $50 when he enters college next fall. Announcement of the award was made by Wilson Gantt, principal of Fulton high, who stated that 38,364 candidates elected to represent 9,157 of the nation's high schools participated in this contest, which is financed by the Pepsi-Cola Company as one of its public services. Five hundred ten Kentucky students from 204 public, private, and parochial schools entered the competition, Mr. Gantt said.

Fulton high's winner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. James, 214 Second street. Planning to specialize in law, he hopes to enter Murray State College following his graduation in May. James is first, scholastically, in a class of 52 members, and is expected to be graduated in May with the second highest scholastic standing attained by any student of this high school during the past 17 years.

The two full-tuition college scholarships granted in Kentucky this year were won by William E. Graves, a student at Louisville Male high school in Louisville, and William J. Jones, a senior at Mayfield high school. Three outstanding seniors of Fulton high school were elected by their classmates to try for the scholarships. They were: James, Edith E. Lancaster, and William (Billy) A. Murphy.

Willis Mum On State Colleges

No Comment On Story Teachers Schools Face Being Discredited

Frankfort, Ky., April 10.—(P)—Published reports that the American Association of Teachers Colleges may drop additional Kentucky schools from its membership brought no comment yesterday from Gov. Simeon Willis and State Supt. of Public Instruction John Fred Williams.

The report said the association at its annual meeting last month in Atlantic City approved a committee report recommending that Morehead State Teachers College be dropped and warned other tax-supported institutions in the state. Dropping of Morehead was based on failure of its board of regents to continue Dr. William H. Vaughn as its president.

Other schools threatened were Eastern, Western and Murray State Teachers Colleges and the University of Kentucky's College of Education.

WATERFIELD WOULD TAKE SCHOOLS FROM POLITICS

"I am in favor of re-enacting the Outer Laws in such a manner that no Governor or other individual would have absolute and arbitrary authority to control Kentucky's school administrative system," Harry Lee Waterfield said yesterday. Waterfield, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, said he was "in favor of taking the teachers colleges as well as the entire system out of politics."

of Education. The association was reported to have criticized Kentucky law giving the governor control over the institutions. It was said the schools may be dropped because of "political interference," unless the 1948 legislature changed the laws.

At Lexington, Dr. H. L. Donovan, President of the University of Kentucky, said yesterday the school's College of Education was not a member of the association, and therefore could not be discredited.

Meanwhile, at Morehead, President William J. Baird of Morehead State Teachers College, said he believes his school's accredited standing can be restored this fall if all candidates for governor declare themselves in favor of repealing the 1936 act. He said he believed schools should be as free of politics as it is possible to make them.

Areas In Reported German Boundary Program

Map shows areas of pre-war Germany involved in the April 9 authoritative report from Moscow on United States proposals to the Council of Foreign Ministers covering a German boundary program. Main points of the program would retain the Ruhr in Germany, and Upper Silesia in Poland, with U. S. willing to agree to French demands for the Saar. German areas which Poland now is "administering" under Potsdam agreement, including East Prussia, Upper Silesia and Northeast Pomerania, would be given to Poland, but agricultural lands immediately east of the Oder and Neisse river lines would be in some degree restored to Germany, Ruhr and Rhineland, for which French have been asking separate regime, would be retained in Germany but with some international administration of resources.

Settlement of Long Distance Row Thought Near; Preliminary Understanding Reached Last Night

Washington, April 10.—(P)—Company and union officials met today to initiate a proposed settlement of long distance lines phases of the nation-wide telephone strike.

They reached a draft of the proposed agreement before its submission to the long lines union's executive board and then to the policy committee of the National Federation of Telephone Workers.

An understanding for settling the long distance and of the strike was reached by negotiators last night but it had to be put in writing and initiated before further action.

One of those familiar with the proposed settlement said it calls for arbitration of four wage issues of a national level, with six other major points involved to be settled on a local basis.

He said the national issues involved are a general pay increase, differential pay, progression to higher pay scales, and classifications.

Issues which he said would be left to settlement by local units of the long distance workers are vacations, leaves of absence for union officials, definition of duties of assistants to traffic operator, pensions, union shop and check off, and jurisdiction over work.

Acceptance could lead to a general break in the deadlocked negotiations to end the communications tieup.

A threatened cross-country telephone strike was called off with only 25 minutes to go last night when the long lines union reached an agreement with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company which set the pattern for a general settlement.

John J. Moran, president of the 20,000-member long lines workers' organization, told reporters: "The union's members will not return to work until a settlement has been reached between all striking telephone unions in the National Federation of Telephone Workers and their respective companies."

Moran explained that the A. T. & T.'s "final proposals" for settling the long lines dispute after 10 days of government-prodded negotiations here would be put first before his union's nine-man executive board and then the NFWW policy committee. The policy committee scheduled a meeting at 11 a.m. Moran told newsmen the proposals formed a "basis for settlement" of the long lines part of the nationwide strike, but hastened to add "we have reached no agreement of any kind."

A similar statement came from G. S. Dring, assistant vice president of the AT&T long lines department, who said: "Up to date no agreement has been reached."

Neither the union nor the tired-eyed government conciliators who nursed the long lines negotiations through day and night sessions gave out details of the accord announced at 11:30 o'clock last night.

Moran said his group—the American Union of Telephone Workers—and the AT&T had "made substantial progress in the last two days and all of the 81 items of a local nature have been agreed upon."

"We believe that as a result of our talks on the ten national items, we fully understand each other."

Southern Bell May Change Bills

Louisville, Ky., April 10.—(P)—C. Hunter Green, district manager for the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company in Louisville, announced yesterday that an adjustment will be made in some telephone bills because of curtailed service during the strike of telephone workers.

Green, in outlining the company's policy in this respect, said he did not know at this time how much the adjustment would be. "It all depends on how long the strike lasts," he said.

Users of manual phones will have their bills adjusted, he said.

Only 25 minutes to go last night when the long lines union reached an agreement with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company which set the pattern for a general settlement.

Aid To Greece Aimed To Halt Reds—Connally

Senator Says Russians Seek World Dominance

ASKS FOR SHOWDOWN

Washington, April 10.—(P)—Senator Tom Connally (D-Tex.), calling on the Senate to support the $400,000,000 Greek-Turkey aid bill, declared today Russia seeks "world dominion" and control of Europe.

Opening the third day of Senate debate on President Truman's proposal for economic and limited military aid to the two countries to aid them resist Communism, Connally bluntly told his colleagues:

"There is no denial that one of the cardinal purposes of this bill is to enable Greece and Turkey to resist the encroachments of Soviet Russia and her satellite states."

Connally, top ranking Democrat on the Foreign Relations Committee, urged mutual frankness by the United States and Russia.

He said: "We should demand of Russia that she abandon the methods by which she subjugated the satellite states. We should make it plain that as a nation and a people, we shall resist this effort to destroy the independence or integrity of free peoples."

Connally asserted that "Russia has a right to select her own system of government but she has no right" to sap the strength of independent and sovereign peoples and bring them under her dominion."

In advance of his afternoon speech, Connally told a reporter the world should know the program is directed against Russia.

He said: "We should demand of Russia that she abandon the methods by which she subjugated the satellite states. We should make it plain that as a nation and a people, we shall resist this effort to destroy the independence or integrity of free peoples."

Jupiter Pluvius Outdone

Everybody talks about the weather. Mark Twain said, but nobody does anything about it. This witticism was regarded as an irrefutable fact until a few days ago, when Col. E. S. Allison, a Portland, Oregon, weatherman, thought he'd try to make it rain, and lo and behold, it rained.

All he did was to sow dry ice pellets from an airplane flying above the clouds. First he got snow, then rain.

We suppose the colonel is considerably pleased with himself, as well he might be, but perhaps he'd better rest on his laurels. If the time ever comes when a fellow can hop into his plane and turn into J. Pluvius, II, we predict all kinds of trouble.

The rain, even though it be artificial, will fall on the just and the unjust. It will fall on those who want it, and on some who will be made as wet hens after it's all over. If the rainmaker couldn't regulate the rainfall, he'd be chased out for getting too much on one field and not enough on another.

Human nature being what it is, we believe it's best to leave the weather alone. People are too darn-blamed smart already.

Congratulations!

Congratulations to E. V. Putnam, Jr., and the other officers of the Fulton Chamber of Commerce who were elected Tuesday evening. The new officers and directors are eminently qualified to carry on the constructive work of the organization.

There are many ways in which the Chamber of Commerce can aid the progress of Fulton, one of which is to implement the campaign to secure new industry for the city.

We wish the officers and their organization every success in the coming year, and pledge them the support of the newspapers in any and all endeavors for a better Fulton.

Frank Sinatra finally lost a battle of wits at a cocktail party, he said, insulted him. We assume he cried unsuccessfully to cross the disciplinary writer into a swoon before hailing his head.

In the event of a free handout in which they said the heroine had "gotten $25,000 worth of the publicity" for the boys. We're dumb, but not that dumb.

With The Fourth Estate

GEORGE AND JOE

There's no getting around it, these Russians have odd ideas of hospitality. Odd, that is, judging by American standards. Here we send our No. Two American, Secretary of State George C. Marshall, to Moscow, and the head Russian, Mr. Stalin, makes no move to see him. Much less to welcome him officially, and Russia sent its No. Two man, Mr. Molotov, over here, over Mr. Truman didn't keep himself from hailing from him. Pictures appeared in all the newspapers of the two of them visiting together, of Mr. Molotov received at the White House, being accorded what seemed to Americans the courtesies expected to be shown visiting dignitaries of a foreign power.

It's possible that Mr. Stalin may not be feeling well. He is said not to be in top physical condition, requiring frequent rests. In any case, our George is doing all right there in Moscow. He doesn't really need to see Joe, but he would think Mr. Stalin would want to see Mr. Marshall. Doubtless Stalin will get around to it—may even now have done so. It's one of the differences in procedure which make the Russians hard for Americans to understand.

It's Our Own Fault

We hope the school people themselves and all citizens who realize that if our children are not receiving the best educational advantages we can give them it is largely our own fault. . . will go forward in a militant manner to achieve the advances which are imperative, unless Kentucky is to sink still lower in the sisterhood of states in this matter of such great importance. ## Need For Brevity

Okla. City, Okla., April 5.—(P)—William Thomas Goodwin plans to shorten his telephone calls to his girl friend.

Wallace Fears War

By Dewitt MacKenzie, AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Henry A. Wallace, who currently is on a speech-making tour in Europe, told a news conference in London yesterday that he feared the Truman policy of lending money for what Wallace described as "the political purpose of stopping Russian expansion" would establish during the coming three months a pattern which might lead to war.

That's an interesting appraisal of a tense situation, but the former vice-president seems to have left something unsaid.

My understanding of the Truman policy is that it's aimed at aggressive Communism, that is, against the Red line being thrust down the throat of any helpless nation by strong-arm methods. The President, in asking Congress for money to aid Greece and Turkey, made it clear that his policy was "to help free peoples to maintain their free institutions and their national integrity against aggressive movements that seek to impose upon them totalitarian regimes." And the other day the State Department asserted that the Greco-Turkish aid "is not directed against any legitimate interests of the Soviet Union."

So the Washington policy is to counter aggression. I never have heard any suggestion by responsible people in the United States that it is Uncle Sam's business to crusade abroad against Communism, that is, non-aggressive Communism. America never has protested the adoption of Communism by the numerous states in the Soviet Union. Any country which wants Communism is welcome to it—and the fact that the United States does not want Communism, and will not have it at any price, doesn't alter this.

The cases in which the United States and Britain have intervened have been where the Western Allies claimed that strong-arm tactics were being used. There have been several such instances, among them in Hungary, Romania, Poland, Greece and Turkey. The threat to the Turks is held to be more mill-grams than political at the moment.

Thanks the American attitude which Mr. Wallace things might lead to war, and while he didn't say when he thought this war might erupt, he declared that he felt a sense of urgency in watching these two great giants, America and Russia, getting ready for a death struggle. Well, supposing we agree with him and decide to adopt a policy of hands-off outside the United States, what happens?

Russia has made no bones of its intention to spread the Red line. Supposing Moscow did take over Greece and Turkey, and with this vital strategic base was in position to extend Russian domination to the whole Middle East and to Western Europe. Supposing this process continued until the Western Hemisphere was virtually isolated, with most of the rest of the world toeing the Russian line, either through desire or necessity.

What then? Would this be more likely to insure peace? Would it guarantee the security of the United States? Would it strengthen the position of America democracy at home and safeguard its form of government. Or would a Congressional Committee on Un-American Activities still be voting to cite Eugene Dennis, Communist party secretary, for contempt after he failed to appear in response to a subpoena?

Yes, there's more to the problem than Mr. Wallace set forth. We need the answers to the above questions in order to fill in the gaps—although there are a good many observers who think those questions answer themselves.

The Babe Is Back

Baseball fans all over the world welcome the return of Babe Ruth, perhaps the greatest ballplayer of all time, to the diamond game. Ruth, too old now for active participation in the sport he helped make the national pastime, will serve as "consultant" to the American Legion junior baseball program which includes over a million boys.

Many of these youngsters some day will wear the uniforms of major league clubs, and their names will be familiar to all sports lovers. They'll have the best "consultant" there is to be had, and the Babe loves kids as much as he loves baseball.

Divided Opinion

Lowville, N. Y.—(P)—Only two taxpayers appeared at a public hearing to determine whether this community of 3,500 favored daylight saving time. One was against it.

The village board went along with the first fellow, and voted to start "fast" time Sunday, April 27.

If Coney Island or any other amusement park can give its customers as much pleasure as the wind running its fingers fast through one's hair on a warm early Spring day, we haven't heard about it.

This headline in a Frankfort paper stopped us momentarily: "Stoppage Is Started For Pit Victims."

They Need Their Mother

The three Woods children, Terry, 11; Sheila, 5; and Robert, Jr., 13, look at a picture of their mother, Mrs. Irene Woods, 32, who has been missing since Feb. 25 as they made a public appeal in Philadelphia for her return. Their father, Robert, works at night and Robert, Jr., does the cooking for the family. The youngest child, two-year-old Chuckie, is in a private home as a ward for the Catholic Welfare Society.

BEAUTIFUL LIFE

As I sit upon the ground
And look into the sky,
I wonder how God made this world
And also wonder why.

I watch the clouds go floating on
Until they're out of sight,
I think of peace so glorious,
And then of those who fight.

When day comes to a happy end,
And stars come out so clear,
I think of everything I have,
Of everything so dear.

And when I go to bed each night,
I close my eyes to pray
For those who care for me at eve
And for the close of day.

Speedster At 71, Shoemaker Also Enjoys Sewing

Pottstown, Pa.—(AP)—Bernath Roth, 71-year-old shoemaker who has fashioned shoes for no less a man than Jack Dempsey, says there's nothing like a hobby to keep a man young and spry.

His hobbies are fast motorcycles and making dollies.

Weaving dollies, blankets, fancy pillow case tops and bedspreads is an art he picked up from an ex-Navy man of World War I.

Riding fast motorcycles is his own idea. He's been a cyclist since 1911.

"Years ago, before they had speedometers on motorcycles, I used to time myself by smoking cigars. One cigar for every nine miles," Roth recalls.

Accustomed to buying a new cycle every year, Roth is passing up the 1947 model.

"They don't have enough chromium on them yet," he explained.

British Girls Prefer Yanks For Altar Trip

Marriage Bureau Operator Learns Glamor Not Vital

WEDDINGS INCREASE

London—Glamor is on longer a prime commodity on the British marriage market.

Take it from a dealer with 2,000 weddings to her credit, the Englishman of 1947 wants a faithful wife in preference to a beautiful woman one.

And the British woman would rather get a man with a good job and cheerful disposition than a handsome Hollywood profile.

For one reason or another, there is a rising predilection among the women for American males.

The conclusions, backed by statistics, are those of Heather Jenner, a bit of glamor herself, who operates a marriage bureau in London's swank Bond street—of all places.

Heather, happily married and the mother of two children, views the matrimonial problem from a strictly commercial point of view. She opened her bureau eight years ago to make money and picked Bond st. the avenue of exclusive shops, largely because poor folks spend little time there. Sentiment and altruism are not her stock in trade.

The war put a big crimp in British social life and gave the astute Miss Jenner her idea. The post war austerity world in which the British live now has kept it going apace.

"There's no private entertainment these days to speak of," said the tall, smartly dressed young woman. "How is a girl to meet nice men—men she can know a bit about; the sort of men she'd have been introduced to in the old days?"

Miss Jenner clears that hurdle for her clients, using a card index system that leaves no question unanswered. So far, just one of her matches has ended in the divorce court. The fees, five pounds (20 dollars U. S.), down and 20 pounds (80 dollars) upon marriage, make the customers proceed with caution.

About three percent of the women clients ask for American men, Miss Jenner said, and with the resumption of tourist trade this summer, she expects the market to rise.

American men, coming this way for a vacation, are making inquiries, also, she said.

"It was too difficult to take American clients during the war," she said. "Now we can and we've had lots of applications."

British girls like American men, Miss Jenner added, because they are friendly, more attentive to their wives than Englishmen pay more attention "to the little things that count," and are very handy in the kitchen.

Time For Family To Start All Over

Lordsburg, N. M.—(AP)—V. L. Thompson hopes the old saw about a family doing the rest of the year what it does at the beginning has no foundation in fact.

Thompson's son, Dickie, smashed a finger in a door at the dawn of 1947, took ether for treatment, then caught pneumonia and suffered an attack of tonsillitis.

Then Thompson put up a shop and a high wind blew it down. The next day he went to bed with the mumps.

JUST look at yourself standing there, that come-to-Poppa gleam brightening in your eye with every passing second.

Look at you—taking in those long, sleek, all-the-way-through fender lines—and falling harder for them every minute.

Honestly now—aren't you just itching to get hands on that wheel and touch off the surging Fireball power packing that big bonnet?

Aren't you picturing yourself giving the scornful laugh to the cobbles and the bumps, the jars and the jolts, in this steady, road-wise, coil-spring-cushioned husky?

Haven't you spotted a new light-of-your-life that you'd love to call your one-and-only—if you only dared confess it?

Well, go ahead—your wife won't mind.

She's probably way ahead of you in spotting the spanking fresh new styling of this brawny Buick. She has decided she wants the smart and roomy interiors—the featherweight handling—the gorgeous glamorous bigness of it.

She's probably saying to herself, "Well, don't just stand there—do something! Let's get one of these for our own!"

So go ahead. Make up your mind.

And take the first step toward having a Buick of your own—which is simply to get your order in.
