Major League Training Camps

By Fred Wimer

Every baseball team has its own training camp. A few have long had camps in states far removed from their home cities, like the St. Louis Cardinals, who have been spending more winters in Florida and Arizona. The St. Louis Cardinals hold their training camp in Vero Beach, Florida.

This 30-year-old right-hander has always been characterized as a true professional. More than anything, he is a lady man. His game is a combination of speed and a mean curve. Last season he won 20 games with a 2.70 earned run average, and he hurled three straight shutouts in the World Series. He is expected to win 15 or 20 this season.

Fred Wimer was in town last week to catch the last plane to Vero Beach. He will return to the Cardinals when the team arrives in the spring.
