PADUCAH CAN NOT AFFORD TO DELAY WITH FRANCHISE

Paducah & Northern Project Key to Railroad Situation in This Section.

Committee of Whole Considers Ordinance in Public.

WILL HEAR SOME PROTESTS

Ten members of the general council voted in favor of recommending the franchise for the Paducah & Northern railroad at the committee of the whole meeting last night. Two voted against it, and President Hannan, of the board of aldermen, refused to vote. All of them voted with the understanding that it will not bind them in their further consideration of the ordinance; they will give objecting property holders an opportunity to be heard; and they consider their action last night merely as an expression of opinion, which can be changed by argument.

Attorney T. L. Crice represented property owners along the proposed route of the railway, especially the best line, and said that he and his clients had had no chance to study the ordinance, and his clients were not present, as they supposed no action would be taken at the meeting. Consequently, he asked for a hearing, which will be granted.

In response to the declaration of Mr. George C. Wallace, president of the railroad, that a map of the route had been in the mayor's office more than a month and the newspapers had published the route and called attention to the map, Mr. Crice said he did not mean to infer the company was seeking to evade publicity, or that the citizens behind it were not acting from pure motives of public good, but that he only desired a chance to be heard.

Two Addresses.
The two principal addresses were made by Mr. Wallace and M. W. McDonald, the engineer who surveyed the route, and who has done all the surveying for railroads across the Ohio river.

Mr. Wallace explained that the citizens who are promoting the railroad simply desire to afford facilities for railroads entering Paducah to reach the physical properties of the industries located here. Railroad promoters who intend to extend their lines to (Continued on page seven.)

L. S. GLEAVES IS ELECTED DEPUTY FOR SECOND YEAR

The convention of Knights of Pythias for the western Kentucky district was held at Mayfield Tuesday afternoon and evening. There was a representative attendance from all the lodges in the district. A delegation of eighteen from the local lodge represented Paducah.

The sessions were presided over by Grand Keeper of Records and Seal Carter, of Owensboro, assisted by Grand Prelate Sanders, of Franklin, and District Deputy Gleaves, of Paducah.

At each convention a district deputy to represent the grand chancellor is elected. Mr. L. S. Gleaves, of this city, has filled the office for a year and he was again nominated for the ensuing year. Having no opposition, his election was unanimous.

The afternoon session was devoted to discussions of papers touching on improvement of the order in the district. Of the six papers presented one was by Mr. R. L. Palmer, and one by Mr. A. E. Young, of this city.

In the evening the time was given to questions and discussion and the exemplification of the ritualistic work, after which the first and second ranks were conferred upon a candidate.

During the intermissions refreshments and cigars were served, and at the conclusion of the session a banquet was spread.

The local knights report a most enjoyable time, and that the lodge at Mayfield can not be excelled when it comes to entertaining visiting members.

Those who went from Paducah were: L. S. Gleaves, R. L. Palmer, A. E. Young, William Guth, A. E. Stein, William Reid, Charles Seamon, Harry Day, L. M. Brooks, Frank Walbridge, R. E. Williams, Robert Duke, O. H. Bowyer, A. D. Buchanan, Joe Wheeler, Charles Ackerman, T. H. McDonald, and D. D. Deboe.

Situation at Murray Considered Grave by County Authorities-- More Arrests Being Made Today.

Confession Made Yesterday Requires Desperate Action to Overcome Its Effect on Prosecutions.

(By Perry McLean.)

Murray, Ky., April 15.—Calvin Stubblefield, constable of the Concord precinct, and Lieutenant Wilburn are leading a detachment with warrants for the arrest of six night riders. Deputy John Holland and Captain Caudill are with a detail in Liberty precinct with warrants for six others. One of these is a prominent doctor, who was to be an alibi witness of some of the first men arrested, and his name was among those in the directions, which arrested night riders tried to pass to Joe Bell. It is said he had called every night there was a raid.

Major Albrecht will be here tonight. Judge Wells is in consultation with a number of men, and it is believed more confessions are forthcoming. Clint Drinkard, of Kirksey, and Rowland Norsworthy rushed into town this afternoon and it is presumed they have something sensational on. Drinkard's store was burned and Norsworthy was beaten almost to death.

Judge Wells said there is no longer any trouble finding evidence against the night riders, and reports come to Murray that the organization is demoralized. There is a strong effort being made to rally the forces of the night riders in the east side of the county, and the night riders frequently pass across the river. It is thought they have gone into Trigg county to get up a party to make a desperate stand, and the testimony given out last night may have a tendency to arouse the Trigg county riders.

Judge Wells today dictated the following statement of interest to somebody in McCracken county, although the judge would not divulge the name: "It is reported to me that a certain handsome man from the county of McCracken was present at the examining trials and doing a good deal of night rider talking. So much so, that his movements will be watched with interest hereafter."

Murray, Ky., April 15.—On the verge of anarchy and bloodshed, Murray rested on her arms last night, and arose this morning from her sleepless couch to confront dangers only hinted at in a confession made yesterday by a night rider, so startling in its nature and disclosing plots and purposes so diabolical that the county authorities are alarmed as never before. Each new confession adds to the enormity of the league of darkness, and with each affidavit County Judge Wells has to seek corroborative evidence to convince himself that what he is hearing is the simple statement of a condition existing in a county of Kentucky in this enlightened twentieth century.

Judge Wells says that the names divulged and the connection of prominent and influential men with the organization of the night riders, makes it incumbent on them to make their last stand, summon their forces once more and utterly overthrow the law, or flee or submit to the punishment they merit. A social cataclysm is impending. The evidence is uncontrovertible, and if this grand jury does its duty and the witnesses are not tampered with, some conspicuous examples of lawlessness are going to be made.

As far as Calloway county is concerned the authorities have the situation well in hand, but the last confession, and the name of the affiant being talked about the street, implies certain prominent men in the counties east of the river, that are dominated by the night rider sentiment, and they are said to have offered 500 men to aid the Calloway county bands in intimidating the grand jury and the witnesses and officers.

There are things in that confession that have leaked out that it would not be good policy to put in print; things that would require the full wording of (Continued on Page Two.)

DESPONDENT GIRL COMMITS SUICIDE IN SISTER'S HOME

Alice Graham Stands Before Sideboard Mirror and Shoots Her Own Heart.

Was Preparing to Start For Her Home in Illinois.

ONLY EIGHTEEN YEARS OLD

Disappointed with life, Alice Graham, 18 years old, shot herself through the left breast this morning about 10:45 o'clock at the home of her half sister, Mrs. H. T. Hessig, 603 South Ninth street, and, almost instantly died. She was standing before the sideboard in the dining room and it is presumed took deliberate aim before the mirror when she pulled the trigger. She sank to the floor with a scream. It is thought that only one shot was fired, although there were two empty shells in the revolver.

This morning Miss Graham and Mrs. Hessig were preparing to leave on the 11 o'clock boat for the upper Ohio river, as Miss Graham was going to her home at Elizabethtown, Ill. Mrs. Hessig stepped into the parlor to get her hat, and before she returned a shot was heard. Rushing into the dining room she saw her sister fall to the floor with the pistol in her hand. Doctors B. L. Bradley and J. B. Acree were called, but she was dead before they arrived. She did not leave any note of explanation of the shooting, nor did she make any oral explanation of any trouble. She has been despondent for several days since her return from Louisville, where she had been in school.

Miss Graham lived at Elizabethtown, Ill., and leaves her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Graham. Also she leaves four sisters living at Elizabethtown, besides her half sister, Mrs. H. T. Hessig, of the city. She had been in Paducah about 18 months, and had made her home with Mrs. Hessig.

During the morning she had mentioned nothing of committing the deed. She had dressed herself to return home, and was ready to leave when she took the pistol from the sideboard and fired the shot. As Dr. Hessig usually kept an empty shell in the revolver it is thought that only one shot was fired. This afternoon Coroner Frank Eakeg held the inquest. It has not been decided, but it is thought her body will be taken to her home tomorrow and buried. It was learned that the bullet passed through the aorta artery at the base of the heart.

DEAF MAN KNOCKED UNCONSCIOUS BY CAR ON BROADWAY

Julian Duperrieu, a tailor employed by M. Solomon, had a narrow escape from being ground to death beneath the wheels of a Madison and Trimble street car at the corner of Fifth street and Broadway about 7:45 o'clock this morning. Duperrieu, who is almost totally deaf, was crossing the street obliquely from the postoffice corner towards Walker's drug store when the front end of the east bound car struck him on the right shoulder. He was knocked out from the car and alighted on his back, being stunned by striking the back of his head on the street.

When the car struck his shoulder he was lifted completely off his feet and in falling turned around landing upon the back of his head. He was carried first to Walker's drug store and then to the office of Drs. Rivers & Smith where his injuries were dressed. When an examination had been made it was announced that the skull was not fractured, unless the concussion of the brain results serious by he will soon recover.

Mr. Duperrieu is a widower about 35 years of age and resides at 913 North Seventh street. He has five children. He has lived in Paducah all of his life. The car was No. 64, in charge of Conductor T. A. Kiefe and Motorman Edward West.

Local Option Petition Rejected by County Judge Lightfoot and no Election Will be Held Next June.

Names Were Stricken Off Petition on Ground That Signers Were Not Registered Voters of City.

Because the petitioners for a local option election in Paducah failed to comply with all the requirements of the law, and because the list of legal voters signed to the petition did not constitute 25 per cent of the registered voters of the city, County Judge R. T. Lightfoot this morning declined to issue an order calling such an election to take place during the coming summer.

As on the first day of the hearing in this matter the county court room was crowded with citizens interested in the decision of the case. Many of the people in the audience were women and their disappointment, when the judgment of the court was uttered was plainly manifest upon their faces. Before his decision was rendered, Judge Lightfoot ordered that 596 names should be stricken from the original petition for the reason that some of them were not registered voters, and for that reason could not be regarded as legal voters, which the statute requires, and because some of the names had been duplicated and others were not even residents of the city. The original petition contained 1,251 names, but when the ineligible had been stricken from the list only 655 were left.

According to the statute, which provides for the calling of such an election, the petition submitted must contain the names of at least 25 per cent of the registered voters of the city or county in which the election is to be held. The requisite number, according to the ruling of the court, is 1,129 for the city of Paducah.

The court also refused to accept a supplementary petition containing several hundred names, submitted by the attorneys for the original petitioners. His reason for this was that the statute makes no provision for the amendment of this kind of a petition, and if the second list should be accepted it could not be legally considered until the next term of court.

The case of the petitioners was presented and argued by Attorney T. L. Crice and the liquor dealers were represented by the law firm of Wheeler, Hughes & Berry. The attorneys for this side, however, presented no argument.

The real and vital point upon which the request of the petitioners was denied was the voting eligibility of a large number of citizens whose names were signed to the petition. Attorney Crice in touching upon this matter in his argument, declared that a man might be a legal voter even though he was not registered; but the court refused to accept this view, and the names in question were ordered stricken off. The court entered into a lengthy discussion of this point and said that the term "legal voter" must always be construed to mean the same thing. If a man who has failed to register is not a legal voter at election time neither can he be considered a legal voter upon a petition which calls an election.

An interesting incident of the morning was the explanation of Judge Lightfoot as to his reasons for refusing to permit his court to be opened upon this occasion with prayer. The court said that such a request had been made by some of the friends of the petitioners, and while he disliked to refuse such a request, he could not properly consent to the making of such a precedent. He doubted not, he said, that the court, the attorneys and others in the court room were in need of prayer, but if such a precedent were established he felt that he would hereafter be bound to continue the same method and keep a clergyman always on hand to open every session of court in the same way. He declared, however, his firm belief in the efficacy of prayer, and that his refusal to grant the request must not be accepted as an indication of his unfriendliness of the petitioners or to religious people generally.

The Petition.
The executive committee of the Anti-Saloon league is preparing a new petition to present to Judge Lightfoot, requesting a vote on the local option question, and will begin circulating them at once.

BETTIE OWEN SLIPS HER MOORING AND FLOATS WITH CURRENT DOWN THE OHIO

Captain Owen Succeeds in Lassoing Tree on Illinois Shore and Holds Her Fast.

The Bettie Owen, the old ferryboat, left her mooring at the foot of Kentucky avenue last night and started on a jaunt down the river without the permission of the crew. However, she landed in a cornfield this side of Brookport, and was towed back none the worse for the excursion, although Captain Robert Owen was a little excited.

There was no wind on the river last night, but about 7:30 o'clock Captain Owen was upstairs when he felt a bump and running down stairs found that the ferry was loose and was swinging out into the river. The captain tried to throw a line to the Buttrif, but the boat was caught by the river current and carried out of reach. Not enough steam was in the boiler to blow the distress whistle, and the ferry floated peacefully down the river.

She was carried over to the Illinois shore and finally was floating in a corn field. Captain Owen managed to hook on to a tree and held the boat fast until aid could come. Tied to the ferry became loose, but some of the West Kentucky Coal company, and also a barge of the St. Bernard Coal company. The ferry was towed back by the Osborn, and this morning was in service. It is not known how the ferry became loose, but some presume that mischievous lads slipped the ropes.

BEATON-MANNING CASE CONTINUED UNTIL NEXT TERM

Many Spectators in Circuit Court Disappointed in Turn Affairs Take.

Attorney, Who Didn't Like Treatment, Fined.

MORE INDICTMENTS RETURNED

At the request of the defendant the case of Al Beaton, charged with maliciously shooting Barksdale Manning, was continued this morning to the next term of criminal court. The affair out of which the case grew happened in L. B. Ragon's saloon on South Third street. Manning was a bartender in the place and Beaton shot him in the breast, the ball passing through his lung. The men had quarreled about a young woman with whom Manning had been keeping company. Beaton is a married man. This case brought a great many interested spectators to the court room.

Boyd Manley, colored, was charged with grand larceny and his trial occupied most of the forenoon session of court. He was accused of the theft of $147 from a trunk in a saloon owned by J. P. Fowler, Second street and Kentucky avenue. Manley was employed as a porter in the saloon and it is alleged that during the absence of the proprietor he broke into a trunk and stole the money. After listening to the testimony the jury brought in a verdict of guilty as charged and sentenced the prisoner to three years in the state penitentiary.

When court adjourned at noon the announcement was made that it would not reassemble again until 9 o'clock Thursday morning and all of the petit jurors were excused until that time.

Attorney Is Fined.

Circuit Judge Reed this morning gave the attorneys within the bar and the spectators behind it, an exhibition of the fact that he is the real boss of his own court, by imposing a fine of $10 for contempt upon Attorney G. C. Duiguid, in the case of Boyd Manley, charged with grand larceny. Attorney Duiguid gave expression to a feeling that he was not being accorded fair treatment. The court halted him in the midst of his speech, declaring that no attorney would be permitted to use such language, imposed a fine of $10. Mr. Duiguid started to reply and the court hushed him up with a warning that if anything more of the same kind was said he would be sent to jail.

Jennie Ellis, colored, failed to appear in court this morning to answer the charge of malicious shooting, and her bond in the sum of $300 was ordered forfeited. An attachment was also issued and when she is arrested she will be placed in the county jail to await the next term of court. She was charged with shooting with malicious intent at another colored woman of the name of Maggie Clayton. The trouble between the two women took place some time ago on Campbell street.

The grand jury this morning returned dismissals in the cases of Moses Graves, charged with purse snatching, and George Andrews and Ida Scott, charged with burglary. Both cases originated in police court. Rush Simmons, colored, who was indicted by the grand jury on a charge of obtaining money on false pretenses was arraigned and pleaded guilty in circuit court this morning. Acting under the instructions of the court, the jury rendered a verdict of one year in the penitentiary, which is the minimum sentence for such an offense. Simmons was accused of obtaining three dollars from T. I. Berry upon the plea that his wife had died and that he needed the money to help defray the funeral expenses. It is alleged that the story was untrue and that the prisoner spent the cash for liquor.

The jury in the case of Bud Deboe, charged with housebreaking, returned a verdict of not guilty this morning. Deboe was accused of entering Leo Hite's grocery on the corner of Tenth and Husbands streets.

Indictments.
Indictments were returned by the grand jury this morning against Ella Howe, Charles Carroll and Henry Gholson. The Howe woman is charged with selling liquor without a license. She lives near the corner of Ninth street and Kentucky avenue. The indictment against Charles Carroll is for malicious cutting and the complaining witness is Harry Bedford, colored. Henry Gholson is charged with burglarizing the residences of Charles Frederick and Mrs. Ida Hudson.

Money for Defective.
Application was made in the circuit court today by S. J. Bigham and wife, of South Tenth street, for an allowance from the state funds for the care of a defective child. The child, a girl 9 years old, was brought into court and the allowance was granted according to the statute provided for such cases. The child has suffered since her birth from epileptic fits. The amount of money paid by the state in such cases is $75 a year.

Mr. George Ruff, of Meridian, Miss., is in the city on a business trip.

They were about to entertain a few friends, and her husband suddenly busied himself with the umbrellas, carrying them upstairs. When he had taken up the last one she said to him, somewhat amazed:

SITUATION AT MURRAY GRAVE

the affidavit to be convincing; but they have caused the county authorities some uneasiness. Judge Wells, however, is not the least dismayed. He says if this grand jury does not convict he will continue his efforts and present the evidence before another.

Captain Givens and his eight soldiers he took with him to Hopkinsville returned today, and it is probable more troops will be rushed into Calloway county and set to patrolling the river to prevent an invasion, as well as guard the witnesses and property in the county.

A Strong Sermon.

Another minister has taken up the fight, and last night the Rev. H. Boyd Taylor, pastor of the Baptist church, preached a sermon on "The Majesty of the Law." He spoke of the duty of officers to uphold the majesty of the law, and he spoke directly to the grand jurors, whom, he hoped, would hear his voice.

He exhorted merchants, who, fearful of losing business, condoned the offenses of the night riders, and embarrassed the county officials in upholding the majesty of the law.

He spoke of the duty of citizens and gave a strong charge to the county tobacco association, declaring it to be the duty of the association to hold a meeting and not only condemn night riding, but to expel any member known to be in sympathy with night riding, and to deliver the evidence in possession of the members to the grand jury.

More warrants were issued today.

Whole Truth Known.

Murray, Ky., April 15.—"The whole bottom of the affair has dropped out," said County Judge Wells after hearing evidence practically all day in connection with the operations of the night riders. This evidence developed the fact that a raid of 250 men from Calloway and Trigg counties, on March 28, was prevented at the last moment after the raiders had met in a field near Murray.

The only thing that prevented the raid was the statement by a member of the gang to the effect that Judge Wells had placed seventy-five armed men around the town. This angered the Trigg county men, according to the information given Judge Wells under oath, and they went back home cursing the town of Murray.

"Little by little," said Judge Wells, "we have got at the bottom of the affair, until today it seems that the situation has cleared up very much."

Murray Barely Saved.

"The testimony has been of such a character that I have just called Walter Holland and John Holland into my office to corroborate the stories which are being sworn to, as they are of such a character as to seem beyond belief. It means that we, even in the town of Murray, were saved only by prompt steps, as had the gang of 250 or 275 armed men depended upon as planned, there would have been a sad story to report. But our action in asking for protection is justified and doubtless saved the town from part, if not total, destruction.

Convictions Certain.

"This testimony, it seems, is of such a character as to make certain convictions. It is such that I can safely say the bottom has dropped out of the whole affair."

Lieut. Wilburn and soldiers under him, were busy bringing in the witnesses who were before Judge Wells. Their identity was kept a secret. They were taken into the private office of Judge Wells and the door locked. The extent of their testimony may be imagined by the fact that the judge was taking it down constantly for five hours, not even stopping for dinner.

To protect the witnesses from possible harm, should their identity and mission become known, the curtains of the private office were drawn during the entire time.

Another Arrest.

Joseph Cunningham, living on the Tennessee river, was arrested by Lieut. N. J. Wilburn and Constable Stubblefield in Murray on the charge of participation in the raid on Al Perry. He is about fifty years of age and married. He was taken at once before Judge Cook for the purpose of having his bail fixed. The principal affidavit was by a farmer of this county, who says that he is a member of the gang known as the night riders and has been for more than a month. It was this affidavit which resulted in the arrest of Cunningham.

The affiant swore that, among other things, he went with the night riders to the homes of various men, who were forced to come out and take the oath of membership on their knees. The affiant then said that he took a note, which was sent to him, and placed it on Al Perry's gate, threatening him if he hauled off the balance of his tobacco and failed to publish certain statements in the paper, winding up, "We will give you hell," and signed "Calloway Night Riders."

"I sent it by another instead," it states. In accord with other evidence submitted, the gang met as planned and appointed Joe Bell as captain. Garland being nominated also, but Joe got nearly all the votes.

This testimony was responsible for the arrest of Cunningham.

The affiant then gave more of the night riders' oath than has previously been published, and it was about as stated above.

The test sign of the order, affiant says, was both hands to collar of coat and then lower right hand to side of head, meaning the rope or your head if you tell it. In telling of the plan to raid Murray, the affiant said Trigg county night riders had promised a wagon load of guns and 250 men to help in the raid, but when it was learned that Judge Wells had a guard of seventy-five men they decided not to go further, as they knew that some men would be lost and they had none to lose.

Startling Evidence.

Murray, Ky., April 15.—Developments of a character which are expected to fasten on various persons guilty in connection with the night riders in this county are expected today as Judge Wells has been closeted two hours with a number of persons who are reported to be ready to make affidavits of a sensational character.

What these affidavits contain are merely speculation until given out, and the greatest secrecy is being maintained with reference to them.

The beginning of work by the grand jury, however, is thought to have terrorized the night riders, and it is expected that many who were affiliated with that organization will be offering to testify in case indictments are returned.

Everybody Is Armed.

The seriousness of the situation here, despite the quiet, is manifested by the fact that hardly a farmer comes to town without being heavily armed, and the sale of pistols, rifles and shotguns by local merchants recently has been unprecedented.

Many women, also, are armed, and practically every housewife has a rifle handy.

Captain Joseph Bell was today arrested here the second time on a charge of being implicated in the raid on Al Perry, as a result of a neat coup on the part of Sheriff Edwards. Bell has told the sheriff that if wanted to go before the grand jury he would respond to a phone call. When Sheriff Edwards telephoned him today he was taken before Judge Cook, placed under bond of $1,500, and delivered to the jailer, Benjamin Bell, William S. Tinsley, George Allen and Ray Wells were his sureties.

The alleged night rider captain said that had he been arrested on the second charge yesterday he could easily have furnished bond one hundred times, as many of his friends were here. He said that he was not directly charged in the other warrant with the crime.

rect testimony needed to convict at least the leader of the night rider movement in Calloway county have been secured. Judge Wells is not so reticent in giving out information, and to a reporter for The Sun he told many interesting incidents he has encountered in the work of preparing evidence.

The judge is a modest man and does not like to have all the credit heaped upon himself for the work that has been accomplished, and declares that John Holland, Walter Holland, Clint Drinkard, Sheriff Edwards and County Attorney Barnett should have a just share, but all those named acknowledge in Judge Wells their leader and heartily agree that without his strong will and untiring energy, nothing would have been done, and even then it is undisputed that without the presence of soldiers guarding each farm house where a witness resides, none would have told his story, the best evidence of this being the fact that nearly all, who since the soldiers' arrival have given important testimony, had previously been carried before Judge Wells and put under oath, but refused to talk, knowing full well that if they did they would be killed as soon as it became known.

One of the many instances of how the witnesses felt about the matter is told by Judge Wells and fully illustrates the benefit the soldiers have been.

One young man, who was known by the court to be familiar with the personnel of the night rider army and to possess valuable information, was sworn by Judge Wells and asked to tell what he knew.

The young man told Judge Wells in the outset that he knew all about the night riders, that his neighbors were night riders, and he knew that he would be killed if he told. With-out a desire to be offensive or smart, he told the judge that he knew full well that he could be ordered to jail for not telling, but he preferred being sent to jail than to death.

Judge Wells readily saw the young fellow's predicament, and told him he would not send a man frank as he was to jail, but in a short lecture he tried to show the youth that it was his patriotic duty to tell what he knew; that it was better to tell what he knew and be killed than to have the county overrun with the evil and hundreds killed and untold damage done public and private property. He then told the young man to go but to come back that afternoon. When the fellow returned he told the judge that his talk had appealed to him wonderfully but he was not yet ready to tell. The court then asked him to come back the following Thursday, after emphasizing what he said, Thursday at the appointed time the young man came back but informed the judge he was not ready to make the sacrifice. He was told to go without date.

Friday morning about 2 o'clock, while a heavy rain was falling Judge Wells was awakened by someone knocking at his front door and upon inquiry found the same young man standing at his door dripping wet, having walked ten miles through the rain to tell his story, which he did fearlessly.

When pressed for an explanation he said that his wife and his neighbor's wife were living in constant fear and suspense, not knowing at what time their homes would be visited, and for their sake he was ready to make a sacrifice of his life if necessary.

Saturday evening after the examining trials four men voluntarily gave information that was more important than any heard at the trial, while Sunday morning at 2 o'clock Macon Champlin, accompanied by Al Perry, who was whipped by a party, told his story, which removes all doubt that the county officials' efforts would be crowned with success. In the opinion of all fair thinking men none of those men would have told their stories had not the court been in a position to furnish them fearless guards.

Another thing that has come out since the arrival of the soldiers, is that Murray narrowly escaped attack two weeks before their arrival. A man whose reputation for truth is unquestioned told the reporter that fifteen men gathered in the woodland near Dr. Graves' residence in West Murray one night, and dismounting, hitched their horses and held a meeting. They awaited some time, evidently expecting another party who did not come, and after an hour left going back towards Kirksey. The gentlemen, who gave the information, said that he and Sheriff Edwards were so close to the group when they dismounted that they heard the leader say as he dismounted his horse: "We will meet again."

Joe Bell, who is charged with being the leader of the east side night riders, was educated for the Baptist ministry but never engaged in that work. He has taught school and organized secret societies.

One county officer dropped the remark today that in his opinion the next work would be to "gather some geraniums near Wadesboro," which corroborates the belief extant that a third organization has existed in that community, but was probably working in conjunction with the Kirksey band. Wadesboro is the site of the oldest town in western Kentucky. It was formerly a county seat before Marshall county was created. The land office for the entire purchase was located there, and the complete records are now in the county clerk's office at Murray. Since the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad was built, the town has been deserted and a solitary blacksmithshop is all that remains on the hill where the historic village stood.

Bell Makes Statement.

Joe Bell today made his first authorized statement for a newspaper. He said:

"You probably want me to discuss the subject of night riders. I will say now that, no matter what people may swear to, and no matter what may be in store for me in the way of imprisonment as a result of the testimony which may be offered, I have not talked or said anything in favor of the night riders. If there be such an organization, and it is evident that there is, I do say, however, that I am for the cause of the common people and will shed my life's blood in their behalf when necessary. If there is twenty years' imprisonment awaiting me, I will go to it cheerfully if I have to in the cause of the common people and for the purpose of doing that which is for the interest of little children."

For Organized Farmers.

"I have always been for an organization of the farmers, because I think such an organization would work to their good. While my liberty is as much to me as to anyone and while I am in a position to enjoy life as much as any one I know, due to my larger circle of friends, and I believe I have as many as anyone, I can stand the confinement for practically a lifetime in prison, if necessary, without a murmur if I think it will help the farmers, their organization or the common people. I will give bond without trouble, I think."

"You may just say that I will always be found fighting for principle. If the night riders are doing what is charged and someone has to be punished to stop it, it might as well be an innocent man as any other. This belief is keeping up my spirits in the face of the charges against me and the possibility of what may be done."

TAFT SUPPORTED BY NEGRO VOTERS IN MANY STATES

Washington, April 15.—In the canvass which is now in progress for the selection of delegates to the Republican national convention much has been said and printed regarding the alleged opposition of negro voters to the candidacy of Mr. Taft. Effort has been made to show that colored men, great numbers are antagonistic to Mr. Taft, that they are seeking to prevent the choice of delegates to the convention favorable to him, that they will refuse to support him in the convention, and fight his election at the polls in the event of his nomination.

While it may be true that certain agitators have made an attempt to elicit negro voters against Secretary Taft the effort has not met with success as certain facts and the pronounced attitude of the leaders of the race show. As evidence of this it may be cited that the First district of Illinois which embraces the bulk of the negro vote of Chicago went on record recently as actually instructing its delegates to the national convention to vote for Secretary Taft. The Second district wherein reside a majority of the remainder of Chicago's negro population refused to instruct its delegates for the state's favorite son, and left them free to vote for Secretary Taft should they see fit to do so.

In addition to this there are numerous indications in various parts of the country that Mr. Taft will receive the enthusiastic support of colored Republicans. Intelligent negro voters are rapidly coming to realize that designing politicians are seeking to mislead them, and they are therefore more determined to assert their independence by standing by the candidate against whom the effort has been made unfairly to prejudice them.

The New York "Age," one of the leading negro journals in the north in a recent editorial under the caption "The Negroes and Secretary Taft," said:

"It is pleasing to note that there is a very strong sentiment growing up among colored people in all parts of the country in behalf of the candidacy of Secretary Taft for the nomination at Chicago in June. Thoughtful men have begun to study the man and his splendid career as they touch the life and place in the body politic of the dark races recently brought under the protecting wing of the United States government. What he has done for the Filipino and the Cuban he will do for the negro American when the opportunity comes to him. William H. Taft is the son of Alonzo Taft, statesman and abolitionist. He is the son of the stock that has 'always stood for equal rights for all men, and he is the only cabinet officer the country has had who has ever held up the order of a president for any period, however brief, for any cause whatever. Colored men are beginning to appreciate the full significance of the act of the secretary of war when he held back the president's order relative to the dismissal of the black battalion for twenty-four hours, in order to stay the execution of it finally, if possible."

Upon returning home from a visit to Washington, the editor of the Topeka "Plainsdealer" (colored) wrote: "Our meeting with the war secretary and his expressions on the race has convinced us that he will be a friend of the negro and the laboring man of this country when he takes the oath of office March 4, 1909."

"The Enterprise," Omaha, a leading colored newspaper of the west, speaking of Secretary Taft's visit to that city said: "The colored people have never cherished against him the spirit of ill will voiced by some of the members of the race. And they fully endorse his program of reform. They have confidence in his ability and his genius of government and recognize in him a man of capacity who will hold the reins of power with the grasp of a statesman."

Farmers' Union Adopts Resolutions Outlining Attitude in Tobacco Fields.

At the meeting of the Farmers' Union yesterday the following resolutions were adopted:

"The Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union, Kentucky division, in district conference assembled.

"Be it resolved, That although on the 27th day of March, 1908, a fully qualified and representative body of the Kentucky division of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America, comprising about 2,500 members and representing Ballard, Carlisle, Crittenden, McCracken, Graves, Livingston, Lyon, Fulton and Hickman counties, Kentucky, and directly because of so-called strained relations and misunderstandings between the aforesaid Farmers' union and the Planters' Protective association of Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia, called a joint meeting to be held in the city of Paducah, Ky., on the 14th day of April, 1908, to be participated in by the Farmers' union and the association to the end that the foolish and strained relations between the two organizations might be adjusted and to the further end that the two bodies might join themselves and their forces against their common enemies, the speculator, on one hand and the tobacco trusts on the other, the aid of both being to maintain the principles of equity and fairness and to cause to be obtained a fair, just and remunerative price for farm products and in so far as the tobacco association, by every standard a brother organization to this union, after the earnest solicitation of this union to be present at this meeting, and after this union had made every overture to the association to bring about peace and harmony and a right opinion between the two, the Planters' Protective association whether willfully or not; whether meaningly or not, did, and still do, ignored the Farmers' union and the overtures made by it for peace and co-operation and to bring about a better understanding between the two bodies, and therefore be it

"Resolved, That this union hereby assembled make a further overture of the above branch of peace to the association in spite of the fact that the latter body has persistently ignored this union, to the end that every man, whether a member of either organization, may work in harmony with the other. And be it further

"Resolved, That this body deplore the false and malicious reports which have been circulated and persistently rumored and circulated to the effect that the Farmers' union was opposed to the association and was fighting, antagonizing or otherwise opposing the association; or that this union was making an organized effort to tear down or destroy the association; or that this union in its secret conceives plans to make an enemy of said association and condemn such reports as wholly without foundation, as canards upon our good name and utterly false. Be it further

"Resolved, That this union unqualifiedly condemns in the most unmeasured terms the unauthorized, ignorant and malicious gathering of mere rumors who, hearing an idle tale, perverts it and declares it as truth, regarding the workings of this body and who spreads such malicious gossip to the detriment of this union, as a cur, a coward and a sneak, an enemy to society at large as well as this union. Be it further

"Resolved, That this body instruct its members to convey or pledge their crops of tobacco as they see fit and to place their tobacco in such organization or organizations as they deem trustworthy and to their best interests in localities where arrangements have not already been made to handle this tobacco by this union. Be it further

"Resolved, That this body request the members of the Farmers' union not to pledge more than one year's crop of tobacco at a time to any organization, with the intention of discouraging the two, three and four year contracts extant, recommending the establishment of tobacco warehouses wherever convenient for the handling of Farmers' union tobacco. Be it further

"Resolved, That tobacco grading and training schools be established wherever practicable all over this district by the Farmers' union, to the end that the science of tobacco grading and classing might become generally known, and be it

"Resolved, That we recommend the establishment of Farmers' union banks deposit and exchange throughout the jurisdiction of the Farmers' union; wherever convenient, and be it further

"Resolved, That we recommend that the members of this union patronize those newspapers, which have been friendly to this union, that we might show our appreciation of the splendid work which has been done in our behalf by the press. Be it further

"Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be laid upon the minutes of this meeting and a copy furnished the newspapers with the request that they publish the same.

"R. L. BARNETT, Chairman Committee on Resolutions.

THE FAIREST REPORTS.

The Calloway County Times says: "Of all the city papers coming to this place, the Paducah Sun gives the fairest, most correct reports of the deplorable affairs in this county. Much credit is due its hustling reporter, Perry Meloon, who has been on the ground frequently, and knows the situation, and dares to report it as it is."

THE PEOPLE AND THE BENCH.

To Judge Reed, to Judge Wells and to other fearless judges throughout the state who, at peril of their own position and in times at peril to their own lives, have spoken for the maintenance of the law, have put in motion the forces of the law, have appealed to the friends of law and order to protect the humblest of the helpless and the homeless victims of organized crime—to these officers of the state there should go out from every quarter of the state assurance of approval and of support," says the Louisville Evening Post.

This is no time for hysteria, but it is no time for silent waiting upon other men to do their duty. A great writer has said that a sense of duty restrained by a natural sense of caution too often retards the action of honorable men and that their consciences need to be quickened by an appeal to their better natures and their higher instincts.

That time has come in Kentucky today. We need someone who, with fervor and eloquence, can appeal to the conscience of the people of Kentucky, to their patriotism, to their sense of obligation as members of a self-governing community in order to bring them to the support of those officers of the law who are ready to do their sworn duty and to bring to punishment men who have defied the state itself.

Until every man is safe from intimidation, from raiders, from Ku-Klux klans, no man is safe. Today these men have one object of attack, and tomorrow another. The first purpose was to compel men to pool their crops. The second was to compel men to abandon raising tobacco altogether. The third object was to intimidate and coerce tobacco raisers and union men who dared to protest against these raids. The fourth was to drive out of a community white men and colored men who had offended some leaders of these secret-oath-bound organizations.

So the downward progress continues. If the law will not check it, counter organizations will check it and will be compelled to resort to the same lawless methods, the same lawless means, and we will have civil war, guerrilla warfare in which a man's hands are against every other man.

Judge Reed and his associates, Judge Wells and his associates, Judge Benton and Judge Parker and all judges who have spoken in forcible and measured terms against the prevalence of lawlessness speak for the conscience of the people of Kentucky, speak for their sober, second thought.

under all circumstances the support not only of the government of the state, but of the people of the state.

THE ANTI-TAFT FIASCO.

The New York Globe says: "There is adequate explanation of the seeming fiasco that has overtaken the attempt to prevent the nomination of Secretary Taft at Chicago. American political history is rich in the record of silly campaigns, but nothing touching in silliness the antics of the so-called 'allies' during the last three months. There was plenty of material for a robust and intelligent opposition to Taft but it was practically ignored and endeavored concentrated on efforts to foil on the public ridiculous and childish things."

"During the last three months the Taft opposition, when it was not merely making faces, has hopelessly floundered to and fro in behalf of the following propositions:

"1. That President Roosevelt did not mean and would not stick to his declaration.

"2. That Taft was a man of no character or personal independence—a contemptible 'me too'.

"3. That to secure the nomination of Taft the chief reliance was on the Republican boroughs of the south.

"4. That the movement for Taft, so far as there was one, was of, for and by the officeholders.

"Not only are all of these things untrue, which is important, but they are demonstrably and manifestly untrue, which is more important. No sooner was there a fair amount of team work in the advocacy of one or the other of the foregoing propositions than the underpinning was knocked from underneath. The theory that the president is merely seeking to use Secretary Taft as a decoy is an insult, not merely to the president, but to the general intelligence. President Roosevelt has his faults, but it has been impossible to convince any considerable number of his fellow citizens that he was capable of deliberately playing so despicable a game. As to the 'me too' charge, it became dead and showed not even mechanical life when it appeared that with respect to the Roosevelt policies Governor Hughes, Senator Knox, Speaker Cannon, Vice President Fairbanks, and the others were quite as much of them as Secretary Taft. Not a few people in this country have personal acquaintance with the big secretary, and it has been difficult to persuade them that he is a mere echoer nobody."

"As to the south, it early developed that the 'allies' were corrupting and 'rough housing' far more than the Taft faction. It has been from northern and Republican states that Secretary Taft has received the two hundred instructed delegates now on his list. As to the officeholder theory, it is so utterly refuted that it is no longer worth the dignity of notice. It is the Republican rank and file that is instructing delegates, not coteries of machine politicians acting from instructions higher up. More of the federal officeholders are for Taft than for any other candidate, but so are there more non-officeholders for him than for any other candidate. It is fruitless to inquire whether the people caught the Taft sentiment from the officeholders, or whether the officeholders caught it from the people. The main fact is that it exists, and that never has there been a freer chance for candidates to get a fair hearing."

"It is quite possible, in view of the general knowledge of his character, experience and general fitness for the presidency, than in no event could the nomination of Secretary Taft have been defeated. Nevertheless it is clear that those opposed to him have thrown no impediment in his way. His opponents have steadily bungled by assuming that an uncandid course was the most profitable course. The people have not unreasonably refused to partake of the feast of peanut issues laid before them. Hence it is, as the Boston Transcript remarks, when discussing the Massachusetts primaries result, 'Secretary Taft's nomination is already assured.'"

The MYSTERY

Nothing more developed for a long time except a savage fight between Pulz and Perdosa. I hunted sheep, fished, wandered about, always with an escort tired to death before he started. The thought came to me to kill this man and so to escape and make cause with the scientists. My common sense forbade me. I begin to think that common sense is a very foolish faculty indeed.

It taught me the obvious—that all this idle, vaporing talk was common enough among men of this class, so common that it would hardly justify a murder, would hardly explain an unwarranted intrusion on those who employed me. How would it look for me to go to them with these words in my mouth:

"The captain has taken to drinking a dull monotony. The crew think you are an alchemist and are making Hammonds. Their interest in this fact seemed to me excessive, so I killed one of them, and here I am."

"And who are you?" they could ask. "I am a reporter," would be my only truthful reply.

You can see the false difficulties of my position. I do not defend my attitude. Undoubtedly a born leader of men, like Captain Solover at his best, could have known how to act with the proper coolness both now and in the inception of the first mutiny. At least I never doubted the reality of my crisis.

Even Percy Darrow saw the surges of the men's attitudes and with his usual coolness divine the cause. "You chaps are getting lazy," said he. "Why don't you do something? Where's the captain?"

Later Handy Solomon approached me on another diplomatic errand. "The seals is getting shy, sir," said he.

"They are," said I. "The only way to do is to shoot them," said he.

"Quite like," I agreed. "I pause ensued."

"We've got no cartridges," he insisted. "And you've taken charge of my rifle," I pointed out.

"Oh, not a bit, sir," he cried. "Thru the hole, he just took it to clean it. You can have it whenever you want it, sir."

"I have no cartridges, as you have observed," said I.

"There's plenty aboard," he suggested. "And they're in very good hands there," said I.

He rummaged a moment, pushing the steel of his hook against the other arm of his shirt. Suddenly he looked up at me with a humorous twinkle.

"You're afraid of us," he accused. "I was silent, not knowing just how to meet so direct an attack."

"No need to be," he continued. "I said nothing."

He looked at me shrewdly, then stood off on another tack.

"Well, sir, I didn't mean just that. I didn't mean you were really scared of us. But we're gettin' to know each other, livin' here on this island, brothers-like. There ain't no officers and men ashore—there, now, sir?"

When we get back to the old Laughing Lass, then we drop back into our dooty again all right and proper. You can kiss the look on that. Old Scrubs, he knows that. He knows enough to stay aboard, where we'd all rather be."

The Tobacco Meeting.

In an article which appeared in the Evening Sun the 14th inst. the report was made that the purpose of the meeting yesterday was to arrange an agreement with the Planters' association, and that none of the association people were present, but that the McCracken county association offered to send a committee of three.

The McCracken association, represented by J. L. Yarbrough, chairman and director, did send a committee of three to say to the chairman of the union that as soon as they got through with their business session afternoon J. L. Yarbrough, J. B. Allen and others, acting under authority of the Planters' Protective association, were ready to meet R. L. Barnett and others of the Farmers' union in an open discussion of the tobacco situation as now existing between the Farmers' union and Planters' association. The overtures of said committee were refused by R. L. Barnett, the acting chairman of the meeting.

TAKE CARE OF YOUR COMPLEXION.

Neglect of the skin soon results in sallowness, wrinkles and disfiguring blemishes. It is an easy matter to have a clear, velvety skin and a beautiful complexion.

I met an old lady the other day with gray hair, yet her complexion was as clear and velvety as a child's. This is her secret. Every night and morning she uses a wash made as follows:

Obtain at your drug store Rose Water, 2 ounces; Cologne Spirits, 1 ounce; Epsom salt (skin food), 4 ounces. Put the Epsom salt in a pint of hot water (not boiling), and after dissolved, strain and let cool. Then add the Rose Water and Cologne Spirits.

You can easily make this splendid toilet preparation at home (there is enough to last you for months and the cost is very slight). It will not injure the most delicate skin.

were shiny with it. The very pores of our skins seemed to ooze it. And even after the pelt was fairly well cleared it had still to be tanned. Percy Darrow suggested the method, but the process was long and generally unsatisfactory. With the acquisition of this fifth greasy, heavy and ill smelling piece of fur the men's interest in peltries waned. They confined themselves in all strictness to the "trimmings."

Percy Darrow showed us how to clean the whiskers. The process was evil. The masks were quite simply to be advanced so far in the way of purification that the bristles would part readily from their sockets. The first batch the men hung out on a line. A few moments later we heard a mighty squawking and rushed out to find the island ravens making off with the entire catch. Protection of nothing had to be rigged. We caught seals for a month or so. There was novelty in it, and it satisfied the lust for killing. As time went on the bulls grew warier. Then we made expeditions to outlying rocks.

Later Handy Solomon approached me on another diplomatic errand. "The seals is getting shy, sir," said he.

"They are," said I. "The only way to do is to shoot them," said he.

"Quite like," I agreed. "I pause ensued."

Weather clear with a slight wind from the west. Business was lively at the wharf and the wharf and the packets were hustling the rousters about.

The Mary N was towing coal about the harbor today.

Official Forecasts.

The Ohio at Evansville, will continue falling 24 to 36 hours, then rise slightly. At Mt. Vernon, will continue falling for two days. At Paducah and Cairo, will fall during the next several days.

The Tennessee from Florence to the mouth, will continue falling during the next 36 hours.

The Mississippi from below St. Louis to Cairo, will fall tonight.

The Wabash at Mt. Carmel, no material change during the next 24 hours.

Simple Spelling.

The proprietor of a Chicago hotel tells of an eccentric guest who registered with him about the time of the simplified spelling flurry, and who undertook, in an ingenious way, to show his contempt for the opponents of the proposed reform.

When the newcomer spread his glistened on the register, it was at once observed that the name was a most unusual one—"E. K. Phthologorrh."

"Beg your pardon, sir," said the clerk, "but how do you pronounce it?"

"Turner," was the reply, "and spelled in the approved fashion, too."

"Will you kindly explain?"

"Easiest thing in the world," said Turner. "First, we have 'phth,' the sound of 't' in 'phthisis'; then, 'olo,' the sound of 'o' in 'colonel'; thirdly, 'gn,' representing the sound of 'n' in 'gnat'; and finally, 'yrrh,' the equivalent of 'er' in 'myrrh.' If the combination doesn't spell 'Turner,' what does it spell?"—Exchange.

Richard Scott Making Good.
The Daily Press-Knickerbocker and Albany Express (Albany, N. Y.), of Saturday, April 11, in commenting on the appearance of the Louis James company in that city in "Merry Wives of Windsor," says in part:

"Falstaff as portrayed by Louis James certainly lived his part to the delight of the audience of Shakespearean lovers and was surrounded by an able company of artists who interpreted their characters with every grace imaginable. . . . The slender of Richard Scott was worthy of being called one of the most perfect of the minor characters of Shakespeare."

While others in the company are lightly touched upon, Mr. James and Richard Scott are the only ones to have explicit mention, to be singled out as "the ones," as it were, which is a great gratification to the host of friends and well wishers that Richard Scott has in his home town.

Mr. Lilley of Connecticut suggested that the Sergeant-at-Arms be directed to detail from the force under his control at the Capitol a sufficient number of men to care for the office building.

"It must be apparent to every one," he said, "that there is force enough and to spare about the Capitol. When I came here in the Fifty-eighth Congress a young man had a desk in a room I visited every day addressing seed packages. He did some for me, and I supposed that was his business. One day toward the close of the session he said:

"You'll vote for the extra month's pay today, won't you, Mr. Lilley?"

"Why, what difference is that to you?" was my response. "You haven't got a Government job, have you?"

"Yes," he answered.

"What is it?"

"I'm a doorkeeper."

"Why don't you keep a door, then?"

"I can't, there are six men on my door now and there ain't any room for me."—New York Sun.

MISS SULLIVAN

STILL RETAINS LEAD IN TAYLOR-TROTWOOD CONTEST.

No New Nomination Will Be Taken After Saturday, April 18.

Miss Mollie Sullivan still retains lead in the Taylor-Trotwood magazine popularity contest, with Miss May Milburn a very close second. Interest in the contest is developing and it seems to be any one's race up to date for the honor of first place.

After next week the six having the highest number of votes will be left in the race and all other candidates dropped. This will leave only three to decide which one gets the fourth scholarship. If you desire to remain in the race get as many votes as possible by Saturday, the 18th, as it is the desire of the magazine to start all new subscriptions with the May number and is agreeable with most of the candidates who have concluded to close the contest Saturday, May 2, one week earlier than first intended.

The vote is as follows:
Miss Mollie Sullivan ..... 11,984
Miss May Milburn ..... 11,035
Miss Alma Adams ..... 9,459
Miss Ruby Canada ..... 8,650
Miss Marie Brooks ..... 6,890
Miss Gertrude Hollowell ..... 6,028
Miss Alma Armstrong ..... 6,014
Miss Verne St. John ..... 5,389
Miss Bonnie Prince ..... 3,250
Miss Sarah Miller ..... 2,875
Miss Lizzie Herzog ..... 2,600

The five lowest candidates will be dropped from the roll next Saturday.

Customer—Is there as much genuine Vermont maple sugar on the market this spring as last?

Dealer—Just as much, but under the new food law we have to put a different label on it—Browning's Magazine.

The man who faces the bartender once too often should not be surprised to find himself in a tight place.

Chicago, April 15.—Unusually large crowds were present at all games of the American league.

The feature of the Chicago-Detroit game was Cobb's home run and the general heavy hitting of both teams. In the Boston-Washington game Delehanty's home run scored the only run made by the visitors.

St. Louis won at Cleveland in the tenth on Jones' single, a wild pitch and Williams' single.

New York and Philadelphia played the longest game with the smallest score, the locals winning.

THE DRESSMAKER'S MESSAGE

TO THE

STOUT WOMAN!

"GET A Nemo SELF-REDUCING CORSET BEFORE HAVING YOUR NEW GOWNS FITTED"

THAT'S good advice; for no woman has ever yet reduced her abdomen, with comfort and perfect safety, by the use of any corset except the Nemo Self-Reducing.

STOUT WOMEN who want to follow the prevailing mode of slenderness below the waistline may do so, and still be perfectly comfortable, by wearing the Nemo Self-Reducing Corset in the new "Flatting-Back" models.

WOMEN of luxurious tastes, who pay $10.00 for our superb No. 1000, will get a corset far more shapely, stylish, comfortable and durable than the best French corset they can buy at double the price.

THOUSANDS of stout women, who fancied that they must have their corsets made to order, are now saving more than half their money and enjoying greater comfort, by wearing the famous Nemo Self-Reducing Corset.

WHY does your dressmaker recommend this corset? Because it saves her work, and enables her to give you the best figure you ever had.

No. 312, for the tall stout woman
No. 320, tall stout, with "Flatting-Back" $3.00

DOCTORS' LIFE SPAN.

Diseases to Which They are Especially Liable—The Narcotic Habit.

Doctors as a class are more subject to illness than their fellow men and their expectancy of life is less than that of most. An explanation of this is readily found in the anxieties caused by responsibilities which must weigh heavy on every man of right feeling; in the amount and trying nature of the work the doctor has to do; in the irregularity of meals and broken sleep; in exposure to weather and infection; and last but not least, in the scanty remuneration which his labor too often brings him.

The combined influence of all these causes is sufficient to undermine the strongest constitution long before a man has reached the age of three score and ten. A comparison of tables compiled by statisticians in different countries gives doctors an average of fifty-seven years at death.

Doctors as a class are especially liable to certain diseases. Setting aside affections due to exposure and infection, the practice of medicine levies a disproportionate tribute from its professors in the form of diseases of the cardio-vascular and nervous systems. Angina pectoris has been called the "doctor's disease;" neurasthenia deserves to be ranked in the same category, and severe forms of neurosis are, as might be expected, common among men whose profession compels them to live at the highest tension both of brain and nerve force.

It is scarcely to be wondered at, therefore, that the narcotic habit is so common among doctors. After all, what shortens the doctor's life is over-work, mental and bodily strain manifesting itself at the point of least resistance.—British Medical Journal.

Stage money is the only kind that talks; the real thing gets there as quietly as a gum-shoe politician.

The man who hasn't a single bad habit seldom amounts to much.
