Chinese May Try Moral Rehabilitation

By Dorothy Macdonald

During long years of journalistic glide through the Hall of Mirrors, the slightest crack in the armor of a man can be a startling and significant discovery, as was the case of the colossus

Chinese Commissar. General Ho, who literally moved mountains, and at this critical juncture in world affairs, the bloody civil strife torturing his unhappy country. Since the United States had expressed interest in securing peace in the world, the Commissar was, of course, inter-

Why it's Hard to Tell Russians About U.S.

One day the Soviet ambassador, speaking to an American audience, struck a blow for American democracy by asserting that American democracy is not the home of freedom, but the home of efficiency and industrial progress. While the US. has freedom, he said, the Soviet Union has practical achievements that are superior to those of any other country.

The ambassador went on to say that America's freedom is not the same as the SOviet Union's freedom, and that the American system is not as efficient as the Soviet system.

The ambassador's statement was a deliberate attempt to confuse the audience and to obscure the differences between the two systems of government.

His remarks were an example of the Soviet Union's propaganda strategy, which is to emphasize the differences between the two systems and to portray the American system as inferior.
