COMMERCIAL TRUCKERS SHOULD BUILD THEIR OWN HIGHWAYS

A concerted campaign launched within recent weeks by trucking interests, manufacturers of motor vehicles, tire companies and allied interests seeking to focus public attention upon the need for more and better highways and away from heavy trucks and the great damage these do to our roads needs looking at with clarity by every owner of an automobile.

These companies currently are leading the propaganda, appearing in double-page, full color advertisements in our best periodicals, calling for more super-highways to end bottle-necks in traffic and to afford Mister and Mistress Motorist more pleasure and greater safety when they go driving on Sunday afternoons.

What this boils down to is that the motor makers and their friends want the general public to put up about 60 billions of dollars for multiple-lane concrete highways . . . for the highway freight trains, the destroyers of life, wreckers of roads and the real creators of traffic bottle-necks.

The next step, of course, will be to demand that especially constructed lanes be set aside for the use of heavy trucks.

The question is: Who will pay for construction and maintenance of these super-highways upon which commercial carriers will carry on their business?

An extract from Barbara Hamlet's essay follows:

"To leave the farm more productive than you found it is a blessing to humanity. To leave it less productive is little less than a crime against humanity, and especially against your children who must farm this soil after you are gone. We are learning that it is just as necessary to feed our crops as it is to feed our livestock and ourselves.

"You may think you own this land you are farming, but really you are only a tenant on it for the next few short years. It belongs to the generations that will come after you. You should leave it in as good condition as you found it.

"It is equally important that animals which provide us food either directly or indirectly, be fed crops that have grown on soils complete in required plant foods.

"Soil is not permanent. Under many conditions it is extremely unstable. When wind or water moves across bare earth, they usually carry some soil with them. They may move it hundreds of miles, or only a short distance, but eventually they carry away large amounts of soil, unless it is tied down.

More than 99 per cent of all motor vehicles and more than 94 per cent of all trucks on our highways are private automobiles and light trucks, operated by farmers, merchants and others using the highways in the ordinary manner. The operators of these vehicles pay 90 per cent of all highway taxes. On the other hand, the commercial highway freighters, including all trucks of three axles or more, and pay less than 10 per cent of all highway taxes.

The big trucks which pound our highways to pieces faster than we can build . . . to say nothing of pay for them, use the highways at public suzerainty; yet for a decade their operators have been demanding and exerting pressure of every sort to to sweep load limits ever upward until now they seek 50-ton load limit laws.

These are the vehicles for which the friends of the highway freighters are demanding that we build super-duper highways, with multiple lanes . . . with the average motorist footing 90 per cent of the bill.

It is time we made the huge road-busting trucks build their own highways.

Observations

(Old Kodger's Column)

IN THESE DAYS OF NOT

knowing the answers, and standing by we see men's faith being tested as it never was before. A person brought up under the lessons of our grandfathers is out of step. I do not mean to imply that all present day models are dishonest, but so many others have joined in the current that pressure upon those who would live right in aging years, it appears the realist is outmoded and out of step.

OF COURSE THERE ARE

millions of good people left in the world, but their voices and actions are overwhelmed by the acts and deeds of millions more who know nothing about the honesty of our fore fathers. In the next paragraph or two I am going to quote from Arnold J.

Toynbee, a man who made one of the greatest studies of human history that has ever been made by one man. This to show my two readers that it is not the "wallings" of a soured old Kodger, but by one who should be able to tell us that we are in the strong current, the most dangerous of any period in our history as a nation.

HERE ARE SOME OF HIS words: "ALL-MERCIFUL GOD! Save our souls from OURSELVES! Man, the killer is again at large. The worst of the beasts once more prowls on this planet, more insane than ever before, more destructive than the greatest earthquake, more cunning than the devil. He is carefully polished, scientific to his finger tips, brotherly humanitarian in his civilized looks, big hearted in his high-falutin talks. Man the killer has become the death of man's body; the death of man's spirit; the death of man's culture, and the death of man's dreams."

"LOVE THINE ENEMY IS prosecuted by him in high places. 'Operation Killer' is glorified in the sublimest heroism. Man the Creator is suppressed and man the Destroyer is glorified. Man the new all-mighty god. He kills my Korean and American brothers. He murders my Russian and English brothers. He exterminates my Chinese and Hindu, my German and French brothers. He destroys all my brothers, in all nations, everywhere.

MERCILESSLY HE BOMBARDS

shoots, explodes, strangles, suffocates, drowns, crushes, radio-activates, poisons, burns, infects torpedoes, starves, freezes all human beings and all living creatures, in the sky, on the earth, and under the water. He is everywhere, and there is no place to be safe from him. He sits in high places; is honored by those he would destroy. He is allowed to roam in our society and freely spread the poison propaganda of death. He weakens those who would obey the Master of all men. His current is so swift and deadly that men of good will fear to cross him."

THERE YOU HAVE WORDS of an authority. What can we do about it? One thing, we can refuse to join in the swim. It may be that we are shoved, pushed or thrown in, but in our own minds we do not have to accept the theory of operation killer. The unusual part of our drifting is that there is no need for it, especially upon our part. Just what is it that makes man become so depraved. What is at the end of the rainbow anyway? Is it time again to join the human race or continue with the man described by Mr. Toynbee?

DELUX HIGHWAYS NOT IN ACCORD WITH STATE PLAN

A current demand by automobile manufacturers, tire companies, and allied interests that super, multiple lane highways be constructed to the tune of $60 billion in the United States immediately "to remove traffic bottle-necks and make motoring more pleasant and safer" is met by W. C. Curlin, State highway commissioner, with the statement that "Good serviceable roads in every community in the State, not super deluxe highways, are the immediate objective of Kentucky's present highway program".

"Kentuckians are not passing on to future generations a huge debt and a system of worn out roads," Mr. Curlin said at a road conference recently at the University of Kentucky, Lexington. "Pressure now being exerted, through a nation-wide advertising program backed by the auto makers and the tire manufacturers, is for super highways which will allow 50-ton trucks to haul big paying loads everywhere, with the public paying 90 per cent of the cost of constructing such highways," a highway association spokesman said this week.

In a recent report to the Governor of Kentucky, the highway commissioner stated: "There are 12,000 miles of main highways in Kentucky, with approximately half that mileage in substandard condition," and "There are 3,100 bridges, approximately 600 of which are substandard, along our highways".

"Kentucky's highway plan is, essentially, to build high type roads as funds become available and to maintain her present roads in good usable condition the year around. Present revenues do not permit this, largely because of damage done to our highways, especially our black-top roads, by the freight trucks, often over-loaded," Commissioner Curlin said.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mrs. Wyatt.
Just a line of thanks, then I want to ask you a favor. I have been receiving the Marshall Cour since I have been in the Army and it sure helps a country boy a whole heap to read the good news from around home, also the bad news. That is where all the girls are getting hitched and leaving the boys across the pond very little to pick from when that rotation day rolls around. You have been asked by the Benton boys to publish this, as it was sort of unusual.
Pfc. Charles Frizzell, Pfc. Jack G. Thompson, Pfc. Harold Pitts and Cpl. Paul Dotson, spent the Christmas Holidays together in Honan, Germany.
Frizzell, Thompson and Pitts are stationed in Honan and Dotson is stationed at Frankfurt Germany.
Thank you
Paul Dotson

Even The Ancient Romans Used Premiums

Chalk up another "first" for the ancient Romans. While the Premium Industry sees itself as just 100 years old this year, an enterprising cosmetic maker in ancient Rome allegedly provided his customers with a "gold-mounted wolf's tooth" or an "Egyptian Scarab" to make his customers happier.

While this cosmetic maker may have had some insight into business psychology, he hardly could have imagined that the Premium business — the offering of valuable premiums through the saving of coupons — would develop into a billion dollar annual business.

In fact, the world's largest Cooperative Premium Plan has established more than 2,000 premium stores and premium distributors in the Eastern States. Not a single cent passes hands in these unique stores, only coupons in return for valuable premiums.

Experienced savers assert that a family of five easily can amass about 1,500 coupons a year. It's no wonder the Premium Store or Premium Distributor is becoming a popular local institution.

This Cooperative Premium Plan, incidentally, provides one of the easiest ways to accumulate valuable coupons. These eight companies have joined together so that the thrifty housewife can save coupons carried in a number of non-competing staple, widely-advertised products. In this plan, the coupons can be collected from Otagon Soap Products, Raleigh Cigarettes, Luzianne Coffee and Tea, Borden's Silver Cow Evaporated Milk and Magnolia Condensed Milk, Hearth Club Baking Powder, La Rosa Macaroni Products, Ballard's Obelisk Flour and Cake Mixes, and Mrs. Filbert's Mayonnaise, Mayonnaise and Salad Products.

NO CASH REGISTER HERE. At a typical Cooperative Premium Plan Store, where the customers turn in coupons instead of spending any money, clerk Jenni Freeland gets ready to show a large enamel roaster, available for 325 coupons.

Raleigh Cigarettes only recently joined the cooperative plan and one cigarette coupon will be worth two of the Cooperators' coupons. Brown and Williamson Corporation at the same time is continuing the independent operation of their Raleigh Premium Plan in Louisville, Ky., and will accept for redemption only Raleigh 711 coupons.

Mrs. Ralph Vaughn, of Route 3, was a visitor in Benton Tuesday.

Mrs. J. A. Collier was in Paducah last Friday where she attended a sales meeting of field Enterprises, Inc. at the Irvin Cobb Hotel.

Roosevelt Phelps, of Route 2, was a business visitor in Benton Monday.

W. R. Stratton, of Route 1, was in Benton this week staying with his niece, Mrs. Floyd Roberts and family.

Mrs. Genora Gregory has gone to Huntsville, Ala., to spend the remainder of the winter with the family of her daughter, Mrs. James Elkins, at 419 Newman.

Mrs. Mary Wald, of Route 2, was a Benton Shopper Saturday.

At The Benton Theatre

No less than six brand-new movies are on the program for the annual John Deere Day show to be held for farmers and their families on Friday, January 25 at the Benton Theatre, according to R. Van Roberts, local John Deere dealer and sponsor of the affair. Farmers who have not yet received tickets, reminds Mr. Roberts, may obtain them by calling for them at his place of business on East 12th street. The feature picture, "Galahad Jones," features Richard Crane, Marjorie Lord, Elizabeth Patterson, Jonathan Hale, Ed Brophy, and four other Hollywood personalities. The saory centers around a farmer's son, recently graduated from law school, who thwarts the efforts of a big-time crook to profit from his political connections. The four films that complete the parade of entertainment offer something new and different in dealing with the hearts of today's farmers. Those who attend this year's John Deere Day have a real treat in store for them, a day so packed with entertainment for the entire family that they will remember it with pleasure for months to come," Mr. Roberts said. Don't miss it! Get your tickets on your very next trip to town.
