Massachusetts Merchants to Continue Low Prices; National Survey Finds This Exception To Rule

Washington—A national survey of prices made this week by the American Miscellaneous Services, Inc., indicated that Massachusetts merchants are as yet resistant to the "price structure" movement. The results of the survey are expected to be followed by a general retail price cut.

Many retailers, in spite of the current lowered prices, are still holding on in some degree to the "old fashioned" practice of charging prices fixed years ago. This practice is still prevalent in many parts of the state as well as in other parts of the country.

A study of the survey data revealed that many merchants are making a profit on their sales, but that they are not paying out as much as they used to.

In the survey, merchants were asked to state the price they would charge for a certain item if they were to reduce their prices by 10 per cent. The results showed that many merchants would not be willing to reduce their prices by more than 5 per cent.

Among the items studied were meats, dairy products, fruits, vegetables, and dry goods. The survey showed that there was a general upward trend in the prices of these items, with the exception of meats, which showed a slight decrease.

The survey was conducted by the American Miscellaneous Services, Inc., a nationwide organization of retail merchants, and is based on a sample of 1,000 stores in Massachusetts.

Department Is Expected to Seek Contracts With Union Members

The Department of the Interior is expected to seek contracts with union members in the near future. This was announced today by Secretary of the Interior Albert J. Beveridge.

"We have been in touch with the unions," Secretary Beveridge said, "and we are prepared to make arrangements with them for the purpose of providing employment for our citizens who are in need of work."
Trouble Ahead

One of the most important causes of the delay in the clean-up operation is the high cost of labor. The high wages in the new tax bracket make it difficult for companies to attract adequate numbers of employees. The result is that many companies are forced to keep their labor force small, which in turn limits their ability to work at full capacity.

Allies Stop Retreating

Allied forces are now on the defensive. At Foreign Affairs Analyst, the Big Four foreign ministers, who met in London last month and agreed to a joint statement, have been forced to admit that their military strategy has failed. The statement, which was made public today, acknowledges that the Allies' military position has been weakened by recent defeats.

A showdown now will tell both sides how serious the situation is. If the Allies are able to regroup and launch a counterattack, then the United Nations will have a better chance of winning the war. But if the Allies are unable to fight back, then the United Nations will face an even greater challenge.

The election of the next President

The election of the next President will be crucial in determining the future of the country. Both candidates have promised to continue the war effort, but only one can be elected. The people of the United States will have to decide which candidate they believe can lead the country to victory.

The Judy War

The Judy War started in 1917 and lasted for over ten years. It was fought between the United States and Germany. The war eventually ended with the Treaty of Versailles, which was signed in 1919. The Treaty of Versailles was a significant event because it marked the end of the war and the beginning of a new era in international relations.

Before joining the Yankees, Miller spent three years in the United States Army, where he served as a private in the Signal Corps. He was discharged with the rank of Sergeant.

Bill Miller is a native of Poulson, Georgia, and a graduate of Poulson High School. He was the starting pitcher for the Poulson High School baseball team in 1942, when they won the state championship.
