Lawson Roper Retiring From Postal System After Distinguished Service

W. Lawson Roper is retiring from the local postoffice today (Thursday). He takes into his retirement the good wishes of the thousands of people whom he has served efficiently for more than 44 years. Behind him he leaves a record of exemplary service to the department, and even more significant is the fact that he has achieved some kind of a distinguished record in having served under nine postmasters.

Such an endurance record is not difficult to understand when one considers the dedication to duty that this quiet, active and efficient man has displayed through all the years. His knowledge of the Postal Laws and Regulations has gained for him a national reputation among high-ranking officials of the Postoffice Department all over the Nation. It is doubtful that the department can find another employee better versed in the intricate administration of postal laws anywhere in the system.

But Mr. Roper's deep interest in the postoffice department is matched only by his loyalty to every organization to which he now belongs or has belonged in the past. Such service has been rewarded by his election to responsible positions of leadership in his community and in his State. Mrs. Roper shares his busy life and served as president of the auxiliary to the Kentucky Branch of the National Association of Postal Supervisors.

Mr. Roper entered the postal service September 21, 1921, and was appointed assistant postmaster after the death of L. T. Buggin in May 1942. He has been very active in the National Association of Postal Supervisors and served three years as president of the Kentucky Branch.

Mr. Roper was married on March 16, 1920, to Frances Gray. (Continued on Page 52)

Page Miller, Rodney Post and Bob Mahan find new worlds to conquer among the many books found in the Fulton Library. Witches, baseball, magic made easy are some of the subjects they read about that can be found on the full book shelves.

Fulton's New Library Credit To City, State

"I can't believe it's true," a Fulton high school senior exclaimed when asked her opinion of Fulton's beautifully decorated and now handsomely stocked library. "Nobody can appreciate the new library unless they take advantage of the many services offered," she added.

What's more, this reporter adds, unless you take time to go to the Fulton Library, in the old post-office building, you'll never be really convinced that it's one of the most modern, most efficiently operated public libraries of its size to be found anywhere in Kentucky, perhaps in America.

The need for wider and more complete library service in the Fulton area has been long felt for many years. Lack of the necessary funds to fulfill these needs has plagued a handful of local interested citizens who have begged, even connived, to keep the small Woman's Club Library open to serve the reading public. But serve it they did, even when some governmental units found it impossible to allocate a few hundred dollars to the library each year.

Perhaps it was this perseverance and dedication that prompted Governor Edward T. Breathitt to allocate $30,000 from his emergency fund early in the spring to establish a demonstration library system, not only in Fulton and Hickman, but also to begin library bookmobile service in areas in the county not easily accessible to the two libraries in the county.

The grant from Governor Breathitt permitted the county to be included in the library appropriation to be allocated during the 1966 General Assembly. The spanking brand new bookmobile, loaded with books of every interest, previously to be included in the two-year appropriation amounting to $60,000, came as an "extra bonus," making the total amount to be expended by the Kentucky Department of Libraries $67,000. The cities of Fulton, Hickman and South Fulton contribute to the library's administrative costs, as does the Fulton County Fiscal Court.

Mayor Gilbert DeMyer and the Fulton City Commission are due a large part of the credit for the beautiful library. It was through their efforts that the old postoffice was secured from the Federal government at no cost except the fee of transferring the building to local ownership. Though the Fulton City Commission paid upwards of $1200 for the transfer costs, it also continues to allocate monies for general operation of the library.

Any visitor to the library, young or old, can sense the pride that this community feels in the library. Particularly is this true when one talks to Mrs. John Daniel, the local librarian, and with Miss Jessie Orgain and Roy Mays of Frankfort, who are assisting the local library in getting the services into well running order. Both Miss Orgain and Mrs. Mays are with the Kentucky Department of Libraries. It was Mr. Mays, ably assisted by the Fulton County Library Board, who worked almost around the clock to have the library opened in time for viewing the Third Annual International Banana Festival.

Mrs. Kathryn Willingham who operates the Bookmobile on specified days during the month, says that the people who patronize the mobile library service are extremely enthusiastic with the project; and that goes many times over for Mrs. Willingham. (Continued on Page Five)

Mrs. Bondurant, Beloved Lady, 87 Laid To Rest

Funeral services were held last Sunday at the Union Cumberland Presbyterian Church for Mrs. Daisy Bondurant, with Rev. LaRoyce Brown, pastor of the church, and Rev. Cecil C. Burnette, Jr., a nephew, officiating. Burial, with Hornbeak Funeral Home in charge, was in the church cemetery. At the funeral Mrs. J. R. Powell sang "Under His Wings" by Cushing and Sankey, accompanied by Mrs. Eugene Waggoner, which had been requested by Mrs. Bondurant.

Messrs "Dub" Burnette, Naylor Burnette, Denver Bradshaw, Eugene Bondurant, George Burnette, "Butch" Burnette and Bill Burnette served as pallbearers.

Mrs. Bondurant, 87, a prominent resident of Cayce, died Friday, December 24, at her home. She was the daughter of the late William Preston and Lucy Naylor Burnette and the wife of C. L. Burnette, deceased. She had been a member of the Union Cumberland Presbyterian Church longer than anyone else since the organization of the church. She was a correspondent for The News for many years.

Mrs. Bondurant was honored by her fellow church members in recent months for her loyalty and devotion to her church. A resolution was passed commemorating this service and made public for all to know of Mrs. Bondurant's love for (Continued on Page Eight)

FRANKFORT, Ky., December—The center line for the Purchase Parkway has been finalized and the Department of Highways will let grade and drain contracts on the 51-mile Western Kentucky toll road in 1966.

Highway Commissioner Henry Ward said the Department hopes to complete grade and drain work on the Parkway during the 1966 construction season, and surfacing contracts will be awarded in time for the route to be opened in 1967. The Parkway will extend from US 62 west of Kentucky Dam to the Tennessee State Line just west of Fulton, and will complete Kentucky's chain of east-west super-highways.

Ward said that work to fix right-of-way limits for the Parkway will be complete by the middle of January, and roadway design is scheduled for completion in March.

Appraisal of some parcels along the right-of-way has already begun, Ward continued. After property is appraised, the appraisal is reviewed and negotiations with property owners are initiated. Ward said each property owner to be affected by the Parkway will be contacted at the proper time regarding appraisal of his property.

The Parkway will begin at the Tennessee State Line approximately one-half mile west of Fulton at the junction with Ky. 116. The Tennessee Department of Highways has agreed to build an improved connection from the Parkway to US 51 in Tennessee. The Parkway will pass Fulton on the west and north, intersecting at grade with Ky. 166, US 51 and Ky. 307. It will then continue northeastward toward Mayfield roughly (Continued on Page Eight)

No longer do children need to wish for good music from a good record player. All they have to do is go to the local Library where Mrs. Kathryn Willingham in the background and Miss Jessie Orgain are always helpful.

Teachers find the Fulton Library a wonderful source of research material for themselves and students too. Here Billy Sanning examines one of the many current magazines available. Helping him with his selection is Mrs. John Daniel, local librarian.

Columnist Has Pronoun Trouble So Notebook, Patter Merge

I don't know how, when or where the custom of making New Year's resolutions originated, but, it seems like the poor, we will always have them with us. I rather imagine that we're usually so tired and beat up after doing the same things for 365 days out of the year, that we're ready and eager to have some changes made in our lives and our modus operandi.

Since the end of the year is always depicted by an aged human being walking into oblivion, while giving last farewells to an infant, we too, feel aged in spirit and ready to start anew with the pattern of our lives and our work.

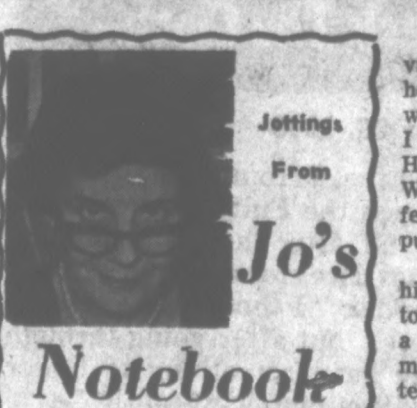

It is the spirit of the New Year, I suppose, that prompts me to combine Jo's Notebook with the spasmodic publication of a column called "Scattered Patter." Actually there have been many weeks when Scattered Patter could have made an appearance, for there is never a scarcity of casual news stories of the type we have published in such columns as Diary of Doina, or its successor, Scattered Patter. But only an editor knows the difficulty of switching from the first person "I" in one column to the editorial "we" in a casual column, to the more formal "we" in an editorial. Since Paul and I feel the necessity, and urgency of an editorial page, we never dispense with the editorials. . . . it is a "must" with us.

As far as I am personally concerned, I feel that Jo's Notebook is a part of the paper that a lot of our readers, here and afar, anticipate each week, not so much because of its content, but because they feel that it's part of the News family and they like the visit with us each week. . . . you know, journalism, home-style.

Well, after writing editorials, news stories, feature stories and the Notebook, I'm pretty well pooped out for writing those extra little items about things and such, so Scattered Patter has been the feature that has been expendable, and that's why its appearance has been highly irregular, at best.

So my New Year's resolution is to start out "slugging" (newspaper parlance for identification) a column "Jo's Notebook," and filling it with any kind of small talk that cannot be categorized as straight news, editorials, society or serious comment.

SMALL WORLD!

Take for instance the story that Paul told me at dinner Tuesday night after we had enjoyed a wonderful long distance telephone conversation with our dear and beloved friend Max Hurt of Murray, and the United States, at large.

Both of us were exchanging our views of the mutual admiration we have for Max and his wonderful wife Mavis, when Paul said: "Did I ever tell you the story about Max Hurt and my last visit to St. Jo?" Well, that seemed a rather far-fetched connection so I eagerly pursued the facts of the incident.

Seems like Paul was at one of his favorite haunts in his hometown of St. Joseph, Missouri, when a group of young people, in their middle twenties, attempted to enter a club where a private party was in progress. Paul happened to be at the spot where a conversation was taking place refusing the young people entrance to the club.

Paul heard the young people say to the management: "We're not trying to crash this party. We're here overnight on our way home to Mississippi. We've been in Omaha attending a national convention of the Woodmen of the World and just wanted to see what was going on in town."

When Paul heard Woodmen of the World he asked the young people if they knew Max Hurt. Whereupon the young folks looked at Paul, almost in awe, when they heard Max's name. Here's the conversation:

"You mean you know Max Hurt?" the young people asked.

"Yes, he's a very close personal friend of ours. My wife and Mr. Hurt have worked closely on an amphitheatre project in West Kentucky. He's a wonderful, vital citizen," Paul said. "Do you know him?" Paul asked.

To which the young people replied: "Yes, we know of him. He's a very important man in the Woodmen of the World, too," the visitors said.

Paul averred it was a small world. The young visitors agreed. I think they left the scene of the party perhaps fearing that Paul might report the incident to Max to their detriment, which he never intended to do, because it was not a detrimental incident. Also he never told Max nor me. Nor did he even know the names of the people to whom he was speaking. (Continued on Page Five)

Year's End Finds A Tired American Weary Of Criticism, Hypocrisy And Politicians

The following editorial, by Alan McIntosh, is reprinted from the Rock County Herald, Luverne, Minnesota.

I AM a tired American.

I'm tired of being called the ugly American.

I'm tired of having the world panhandlers use my country as a whipping boy 365 days a year.

I am a tired American—weary of having American embassies and information centers stoned, burned, and sacked by mobs operating under orders from dictators who preach peace and breed conflict.

I am a tired American—weary of being lectured by General DeGaulle (who never won a battle) who poses as a second Jehovah in righteousness and wisdom.

I am a tired American—weary of Nasser and all the other blood-sucking leeches who bleed Uncle Sam white and who kick him on the shins and yank his beard if the flow falters.

I am a tired American—weary of the beatniks who say they should have the right to determine what laws of the land they are willing to obey.

I am a tired American—fed up with the mobs of scabby faced, long-haired youths and short-haired girls who claim they represent the "new wave" of America and who sneer at the old-fashioned virtues of honesty, integrity, and morality on which America grew to greatness.

I am a tired American—weary unto death of having my tax dollars go to dictators who play both sides against the middle with threats of what will happen if we cut off the golden stream of dollars.

I am a tired American—who is tired of supporting families who haven't known any other source of income other than Government relief checks for three generations.

I am a tired American—who is getting madder by the minute at the filth peddlers who have launched Americans in an obscenity race—who try to foist on us the belief that filth is an integral part of culture—in the arts, the movies, literature, the stage.

I am a tired American—weary of the bearded bums who tramp the picket lines and the sit-ins—who prefer Chinese communism to capitalism—who see no evil in Castro, but sneer at President Johnson as a threat to peace.

I am a tired American—who has lost all patience with that civil rights group which is showing propaganda movies on college campuses from coast to coast. Movies denouncing the United States. Movies made in Communist China.

I am a tired American—who is angered by the self-righteous breast-beater critics of America, at home and abroad, who set impossible yardsticks for the United States but never apply the same standards to the French, the British, the Russians, the Chinese.

I am a tired American—sickened by the slack-jawed bigots who wrap themselves in bed-sheets in the dead of night and roam the country-side looking for innocent victims.

I am a tired American who dislikes clergymen who have made a career out of integration causes, yet send their own children to private schools.

I am a tired American who resents those who try to peddle the belief in schools and colleges that capitalism is a dirty word and that free enterprise and private initiative are only synonyms for greed.

They say they hate capitalism, but they are always right at the head of the line demanding their share of the American way of life.

I am a tired American—real tired of those who are trying to sell me the belief that America is not the greatest nation in all the world—a generous hearted nation—a nation dedicated to the policy of trying to help the "have nots" achieve some of the good things that our system of free enterprise brought about.

I am an American who gets a lump in his throat when he hears the "Star Spangled Banner" and who holds back tears when he hears those chilling high notes of the brassy trumpets when Old Glory reaches the top of the flag pole.

I am a tired American who thanks a merciful Lord that he was so lucky to be born an American citizen—a nation under God, with truly mercy and justice for all.

Progress In Public Health Credited To New Drugs

A handsome booklet issued by one of this country's leading pharmaceutical houses tells of the extraordinary progress in health that has taken place in a comparatively short span of years.

Where, 50 years ago, the average life expectancy at birth was about 55 years, it is now 70. In the early 1900's, pneumonia was the leading cause of death in this country; now, in many cases, it can be cured in less than two weeks with a few dollar's worth of antibiotics, and the treatment can often be undertaken at home rather than in a hospital. The death rate from tuberculosis is a tiny fraction of what it used to be. Paralytic polio rarely occurs today. While mental illness remains a major health problem, new drugs have enabled thousands of victims to return to their homes and lead useful lives; in past times most of them would have spent the whole of their lives in institutions.

As the booklet observes, such achievements as these are the result of a number of things. There have been dramatic advances in surgical and medical knowledge, and in public health education and sanitation. And at the very forefront have been the new medicines. Some of them we commonly call "wonder drugs", and the term is fully justified. Their influence in the conquering or minimizing of disease, the alleviation of pain, and the prolongation of life are immeasurable.

GOD'S WORLD

O world, I cannot hold thee close enough!
Thy winds, thy wide grey skies!
Thy mists, that roll and rise!
Thy woods, this autumn day, that ache and sag
And all but cry with colour! That gaunt crag
To crush! To lift the lean of that black bluff!
World, World, I cannot get thee close enough!
Long have I known a glory in it all,
But never knew I this;
Here such a passion is
As stretcheth me apart, - Lord, I do fear
Thou'st made the world too beautiful this year;
My soul is all but out of me, - let fall
No burning leaf; prithe, let no bird call.

Unique Reelfoot Lake Mecca For Outdoors And History

MORE THAN a century and a half ago—on Dec. 16, 1811—residents of the northwestern tip of Tennessee felt the first jolt of the now famous New Madrid Earthquake. The shocks, swells, and spurts of sulphurous vapor continued well into February, and it was several weeks more before they discovered the quake's unusual legacy—Reelfoot Lake.

Today the lake, covering 14,500 acres—and touching Kentucky west of Hickman—is one of the most scenic and attractive in the South. It abounds with fish and waterfowl and supports Tennessee's only large stand of cypress trees.

Reelfoot Lake State Park, established and developed in more recent years, has become a popular tourist attraction offering a full range of facilities, including tent and trailer camping, excursion boats, a large auditorium and a museum housing Indian artifacts. Thousands of tourists visit the park annually, mainly to fish in the lake, which is recognized as the nation's most productive natural fish hatchery.

The park consists of 52 acres, located five miles east of Tiptonville, Tenn., in Lake County. Under development is additional acreage in adjoining Obion County, which will afford new tent and trailer campsites and a picnic area, plus a pier. Numerous private lodges and restaurants are available.

Tennessee Conservation Commissioner Donald M. McSwain has referred to Reelfoot Lake as "one of the wonders of the South, truly a beautiful vacation spot. This gentle body of water, dotted with its graceful cypress, is a paradise for fishermen and lovers of songbirds or for travelers who delight in the unusual."

Reelfoot was formed during the quake by a simultaneous sinking of the ground and an overflowing of the Mississippi River into what now is the lake area.

A letter written by a resident of the area, Eliza Bryan, who was an eye-witness to the earthquake, describes the sequence of events:

"The morning of December 15, 1811, was cloudy and a dense fog prevailed, and towards nightfall the heavens showed signs of distress. On the following morning, the 16th., about 3 o'clock a. m., we felt the shock of an earthquake, accompanied by a rumbling noise resembling the distant firing of a canon, which was followed in a few minutes by the complete saturation of the atmosphere with sulphurous vapor. The moon was shining brilliantly but the vapor caused the earth to be wrapped in absolute darkness. The wailing inhabitants, the stampede of animals, falling timber, the roaring Mississippi, the current of which was retrograde for a few minutes, formed a scene too appalling to conceive of . . .

"There were light shocks each day until January 23, 1812, when one as hard as the first occurred, followed by the same phenomena. From this time until February 4th., the earth was in continual agitation, visibly waving as a gentle sea. That day a shock almost as severe as the other occurred, and on the 8th., about sundown, a concussion took place which was so much more violent than the others that it was called "the hard shock."

"The earth was transformed into total darkness and the chickens went to roost . . . At first the Mississippi River seemed to recede from its banks, and its waters gathered up like a mountain. . . . The river rose 10 to 15 feet . . . In the hard shocks described the earth was horribly lacerated—the surface was from time to time covered over of uneven depths by the fissures . . . The site of New Madrid, Missouri, was settled down at least 15 feet.

"The most remarkable feature of all . . . was the discovery of a huge lake on the Tennessee side of the Mississippi . . . This was later called Reelfoot Lake."

—The Courier Journal

Miss Shellie has been a shut-in for the past year since she was injured in a fall. She looks forward to news of relatives and friends in this locality.

To Buck Mason who is a resident of the Weakley County Nursing home. It is indeed most encouraging to visit one who has such an outlook on life as does Mr. Buck, who says, even though he is a shut-in and not able to stir out and live at his home as he would like, he thanks the Lord daily for his very good eyesight and good hearing. He is an avid reader with the same interests in community, county, state and world news. He is most happy to have his friends and relatives visit him. To Mrs. Julia Moss who, even at her advanced age, is so mentally alert and remembers all the old neighbors and friends in this community and eagerly inquires about them. Mrs. Moss is blind and very hard of hearing and is bedfast, but has such an interest in all the news that it is most encouraging to visit her and her devoted daughter, Ovella, who cares for her so patiently. To many others who have an interest in activities in the Chestnut Glade Community. Any communication is always welcomed by this correspondent.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Jones and Randy Glynn from Chardon, Ohio, arrived last week for a visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Durrell Terrell and Mr. and Mrs. Malden Jones. Especially welcomed was their new son, who came for his first visit to the grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Brann from Memphis spent the Christmas weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Vaughn and Mr. and Mrs. John Verhine.

Mr. and Mrs. John Verhine, Mrs. Ralph Moore and Mabelle accompanied Ralph to Memphis Saturday to fly to Maryland, where he expects to be assigned to duties outside of the states. Nancy and the children plan to live in Fulton until Ralph is located again. They have recently been located in Puerto Rico and Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Adair Cannon and brother, William Woodson, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Vaughn.

Several members of the Nanney family enjoyed a sumptuous birthday dinner with Paul Nanney December 22. Those enjoying this occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Nanney, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Nanney, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Nanney and Tracy, Mrs. Peggy McKinney, Michael, Kathy, and Melissa, Mr. and Mrs. Milburn Conner, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Vaughn, Mrs. Valda Simpson, Linda Nanney and several of her friends and Mrs. Paul Nanney.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Parnell and children from Crossville, Tennessee, spent the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milburn Conner.

Mr. and Mrs. Billie Morrison and Billie Jean from Memphis visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. Orvin Morrison during the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Smith and children from Memphis visited her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Orvin Morrison.

Process Cuts Costs, Time For Telescope

PHILADELPHIA — A new electroforming process makes it possible to produce a 100-inch-diameter telescope mirror in three months or less at a cost of $100,000. Before the invention of the new process, it took up to 1-1/2 years and cost $1 million to get such a mirror by conventional glass grinding.

HARV AD, Lu. — Know how you adjust a color television set if you are color blind? The answer at Admiral Corporation's color television manufacturing plant here is, you don't.

Periodic eye tests are given to all employed in the making of color television sets to unearth those whose visual defects could affect the quality of the receivers.

While no one has yet been found color blind, several people have been found to have a color deficiency, and transferred to other departments.

As the New Year rolls around, I want to take this opportunity to thank all of the people of Fulton County for all of their help, their courtesies, their considerations and their good will during my four-year term as Fulton County Sheriff ending December 31.

LIBRARY—

'Twas a time when a library's only function was to lend books and supply reference books for study. Not to today... at 1321, not so in the Fulton Library.

Here patrons may check out paintings by famous artists, listen to records, enjoy films to please the children, as well as some adults, rent a film projector for group showings and enjoy magazines suited to the taste of the most discriminating reader.

The only discouraging note in the whole new set-up is the fact that the library is not being too well patronized by adults. Although the service is gaining in popularity each day the folks at the library would be much happier if more adults would take advantage of the varied opportunities offered for reading enjoyment.

However whatever lack of patronage is found among the adults is surely made up by the growing number of young people who dash to the library right after school and enjoy themselves to the fullest in an environment conducive to learning and leisure.

The library is open from 12 noon to six p. m. every day except Tuesday, Wednesday and Sunday. The hours for Tuesday are from 12 noon to nine p. m. On Wednesday and Sunday the library is closed to the public.

Kentucky's library program is expanding and improving with each year. Too much credit cannot be given Miss Margaret Willis, Kentucky's State Librarian. Recognized as an authority on library work in the Nation, Miss Willis has long hoped for up-graded library service in Fulton County. Her dream came true with the grant from Governor Breathitt.

Miss Willis and her associates took more than passing interest in establishing the fine new library here. Taking time out from her busy schedule last October Miss Willis was on hand when open house was held during the Banana Festival. It was a proud moment for her as it was for the entire community.

Members of the Fulton Library Board are: Mrs. Don Henry, chairman, Mrs. C. P. Mabry, Mrs. Kent Hamby, all of Hickman, and Mrs. Ernest Fall, Jr., Mrs. Arch Huddleston and Mrs. Robert Rudolph, of Fulton.

LIBRARY DUTY!

Miss Carol Porter of Clinton, a staff member of the Kentucky Department of Libraries is "on duty" at the Fulton Library until Miss Jessie Orgain returns next week.

They Don't Know Better

ROCKFORD, Ill. — Thieves who broke into salesman Don Elam's auto, taking a suit and other clothing worth $96 and samples cases of spring fashions in gloves and slippers, must be miffed.

Two of the sample cases contained ladies gloves and the other case was filled with fancy slippers. All the gloves are for the left hand, and all the slippers are for the right foot.

NOTEBOOK—

EVEN SMALLER!

Then there's the case of the Christmas card that I received from the William Millers of Quick-sand, Ky. Mrs. Miller and I were participants on the symposium of women at the University of Kentucky this Fall, and I learned that Anne Fall Baxter and her husband were close friends of the Millers.

Miriam Miller added to her card: "We surely did enjoy reading all about the Banana Festival in your excellent newspaper. Such wide use of photographs, too."

"Anne (Baxter) passed along 'Jottings,' in which you gave me credit for four children. Thanks anyhow, but there are just three."

You can see how easy it is to write in the first person about such incidents. Had I used the editorial "we" as I have been doing in Scattered Patter it would have taken me much more time to explain such an incident.

MERGER!

So my New Year's resolution is to write one long Notebook; if you get tired of reading it, just put down the paper and read the comics. Anything to make life easier and you happier.

MALE WANTED!

I've intended to comment on several occasions that Fulton is in desperate need of a personalized column with the male touch. With Jo's Notebook in the News and Small Talk, and Chatter in the Daily Leader written by Eunice Mitchell and Martha Mahan respectively, I would imagine that the male, newspaper readers around these parts would enjoy a column about the men's world.

Whenever Paul writes a column we always get good comments. Because he writes better than I ever hope to, I urge him to write more, but he doesn't seem to find the time, which is understandable.

I think both Paul and Vyron Mitchell ought to make New Year's resolutions to write at least a weekly column to sort of kill off some of the female stuff inflicted upon male readers. If that's not a challenge and an escape, I don't know what a challenge is.

MISSING US!

It was so nice to have a "too-short" visit with Curt Mathis on Tuesday, Frankfort surely is agreeing with the former manager of Southern Bell's local office. Curt says that his home is always open to his Fulton friends and added: "This is one fine town to live in and work in."

Must be! These folks miss Fulton so much, in so many, many ways, they both set aside the Christmas season to express their individual greetings to the home-folks.

Indeed! I couldn't explain to Mary Jo, who helped me address Christmas cards, why there were two Christmas cards from the Curt Mathis family in Frankfort... one from Curt, one from his good wife, Eleanor.

POLITICAL BAROMETER!

Over the years I have learned a good bit about politics, perhaps the hard way, but there's a political barometer that beats the professional polls by a mile.

It's the Christmas card! It never fails!

When a politician, of state-wide prominence, sends out Christmas cards to friends, constituents and alleged influential friends, he's a candidate, and you'd better believe it.

When a Christmas rolls around and there "ain't no Christmas card" from the would-be candidate, you can better believe there ain't no campaign in sight, either.

If you want to know right now the political line-up for 1966 and 1967, come by the News office and I'll tell you. I've got it straighter than Elmo Roper and George Gallup.

- And if you want to know the po-

LITTLE BETTER!

Ozie Todd, our faithful housekeeper, who was seriously injured in an auto accident before Christmas is resting as well as can be expected in the John Gaston Hospital in Memphis. She is in War "L" and I'm sure she would enjoy hearing from you. Hospital confinement is rugged enough but it's worse when you don't hear from the home-folks.

DESERVING!

Evelyn (Mrs. Charles) Dixon called the News this week to tell us that jolly Ole St. Nick sure was on her side. Some wonderful Fultonians got together and gave her a fine, new vacuum cleaner for Christmas in appreciation of her untiring efforts to send Christmas boxes to area boys in Viet Nam. Besides that, Charles got some items of clothing as gifts. It just goes to show ya, this is a good good, good, good, good world.

WELCOME VISIT!

I had a pleasant visit into the distant past last Saturday. Two wonderful people came into the News office to order three new subscriptions to our paper and was just writing away when I asked the couple their names. They were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilty, who have moved back to Fulton from Birmingham following his retirement from the Illinois Central Railroad. There's a warm spot in our hearts for the Willys... Elizabeth when we first came here.

Bless her heart, she sure helped us get to know people. Elizabeth passed away several years ago which brought a lot of sadness in our lives and into the lives of all who knew and loved her.

SO SORRY!

I was so sorry to have missed visiting with Gerald Bushart and his lovely bride last Sunday when they were entertained by Dr. and Mrs. Glynn Bushart. We were delayed coming home from Mississippi where we made a very pleasant, but hurried trip to spend Christmas Day with my folks.

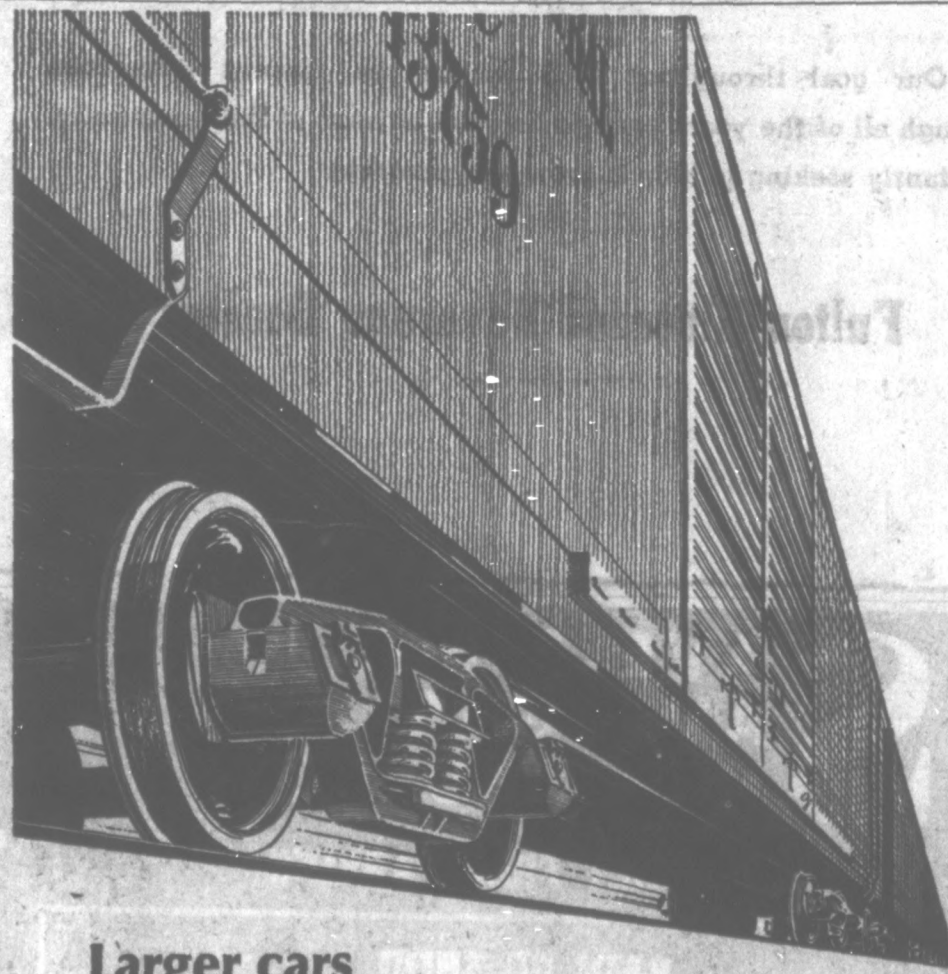

It's a wise husband who takes his wife Christmas shopping—in a compact.

Larger cars
Longer trains
Better business for everybody!

Better business for our shippers, better business for the public, better business for us!

That's what longer trains and larger cars have accomplished. They have made hauling freight more economical, turned the tide of traffic back to the Illinois Central and other railroads.

Fast, economical freight handling is so vital we've invested some $41 million this year, mostly for new cars. Economy also demands the most effective use of manpower or our country's entire industrial complex will suffer.

More than 5,000 new freight cars added in 1964-65 have helped us do a better, thrifter job for all our friends and neighbors throughout Mid-America.

He was chairman of the Fulton Zoning commission when it was organized.

Mr. and Mrs. Roper's hobby has been traveling and they hope "to do much more after his retirement." The statement in quotes came from Mr. Roper. It's hard to determine whether he meant much more traveling or much more work.

His legion of friends wish for him the opportunity to do a lot of traveling... as well as continue the wonderful work he has done for the betterment of his community through the years.

FHA Loans Giving Lift To Rural Communities

More than half a billion dollars in new capital resources for development of rural America have been generated the past 5 years through Farmers Home Administration services that reach beyond the farm to the general rural community, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman said today. Improvements created with these loans have directly benefited more than 1 million rural people, the Secretary said.

Since 1961 new programs have stimulated $70,481,116 in credit to improve non-farm rural housing, community facilities serving both farmers and other rural residents, and the income producing resources of low-income rural families who are not farmers.

The Secretary said the following gains have resulted from credit programs of the Farmers Home Administration that assist non-farm rural people as well as farmers:

894 rural community water systems bringing modern water service to approximately 650,000 people, financed with loans totaling $143,705,67 since 1961 (through Oct. 31, 1965).

41,391 housing loans to non-farm rural residents, for a total of $395,137,368 or about two-thirds of all rural housing loans during the fiscal years 1961-1965.

191 community recreation centers serving more than 200,000 family membership holders and open also to visitors, financed with loans through the Farmers Home Administration totaling $19,401,040 since fiscal 1963 (through Nov. 1, 1965).

56 senior citizens' rental housing projects in rural communities financed with loans totaling $3,171,630 since fiscal 1963.

Economic Opportunity loans to 5,082 non-farm low income rural families totaling $9,065,400 since January, 1965, helping them establish trades and services needed in their home areas.

Congress this year voted new authority for the USDA's Farmers Home Administration to insure private loans for various kinds of rural housing expected to total $350 million this fiscal year.

The agency's maximum authority to insure loans for rural community water, sewer and recreation facilities, as well as family farm ownership, also was increased from $200 million to $450 million a year under an act of Congress during the 1965 session.

The local office of the Farmers Home Administration that serves Carlisle, Fulton and Hickman counties is located in the Clinton Bank Building in Clinton, Kentucky.

Today's Fertilizers Have More Nutrients

ATLANTA — Today's fertilizers average twice as much plantfood content as those produced three decades ago. Powdery, dusty materials have been largely replaced by granular fertilizers since 1950. A growing proportion of today's fertilizer is delivered to farms in bulk, and much of it is spread by dealers.

CLIPPING COWS FOR CLEANER MILK

The clipping of dairy cows is one of the essentials of dairying. Clean, pure milk can seldom be produced from udders with long hair. It is almost impossible to sterilize an udder with long hair in the short time most of us have in preparing the cows for milking. Most graded milk markets require producers to practice clipping; however, whether you are selling on the fluid market, for manufacturing milk or just using the milk at home, you should always clip the cows. It will result in a higher quality product!

All dairymen, whether large or small, have problems in producing milk. Shall we look at some of the advantages of clipping and maybe you will recognize some of your trouble spots. First, clipping reduces sediment by removing dirt catching and bacteria infested long hair; next, clipping lowers bacteria count. Long hair harbors bacteria as well as other foreign materials and the bacteria cannot be strained from the milk as would a leaf or stick that just happened to fall into the bucket. It just stands to reason that the shorter the hair, the fewer the bacteria can climb on. Clipping saves time and labor, because of the short hair, udders are easily cleaned with bacterial solutions. This makes the job of preparation much faster and easier. Clipping also aids in controlling lice. In tests made at the University of Wisconsin it was proven that overall clipping was a step in the right direction in the lice control program. We do not clip all the cow in this area as they did in Wisconsin. We do, however, clip four stripes down the back of the cow. This, entomologists tell us, is the highway of the lice or moisture sources, and when the long hair is removed they leave.

Here are the areas of the cow most commonly clipped: First the tailhead and tail, cropping the switch about hock high; then the rear udder and the inside of the legs. Next clip as far as can be reached under the belly and fore udder. Now with the clipper on edge, mark a line from the milk well to the hook bone. Clip the flank and the three or four stripes down the back for Mr. Louse and you are through. Keep the clippers against the cow at all times and NEVER stand behind the cow... always to one side. Dip clippers often in a 50-50 solution of kerosene and oil. This will keep the blades clean and sharp longer.

Remember this, the cleaner the product you sell to the plant, the cleaner the product that goes on the market, thus a higher quality product for your company to sell. This will make your market stronger in this era of competition. Clean milk is just sound business in dairying!

OBION COUNTY

Joe Martin, County Agent
Union City, Tenn.

COUNTY AGENTS OFFICE FORAGE TESTING

Fifteen Obion County Farmers have taken advantage of the Forage Testing Laboratory by having samples of their silage, hay or grain analyzed by the laboratory. If dairymen and cattlemen could see how much the results of the tests vary, I am convinced we would have a lot more samples tested. For example on corn silage the crude protein on samples submitted from Obion County range from a high of 5.2 percent down to 2.3 percent while the digestible protein has ranged from 2.9 percent down to 0.9 percent.

Harold Evans' corn silage sample is the one that tested the highest and, without much doubt, his silage had more than twice the actual food value of the low testing silage sample.

The University of Tennessee Extension Service operates the laboratory and also makes feeding recommendations based on the chemical analysis of the forage and hay samples. The cost of having a sample tested is $5.00 but this could save you or make you several dollars if you were milking many cows or feeding many beef cattle.

ANNUAL WINTER COURSES IN AGRICULTURE

As you are closing out the 1965 year, we hope that you are making plans for 1966. It should be worth your time in making plans for 1966 to attend one of the week long farm sessions at Milan, Tennessee. The sessions start on January 10 with a week on Soils and Soil Fertility. The next week will be on Farm Mechanization. The week of January 24-28 will be on Feeding Farm Animals - week of January 31-February 4 on Insects and Diseases; and the week of February 7-11 will wind up the farm courses with the subject being Weed Control.

With Agriculture changing as fast as it is at the present time, a week spent attending one or more of the short courses at Milan could be one of the profitable ways you could spend some of your time.

FARMERS TAX GUIDES AVAILABLE

The 1966 edition of the Farmer's Tax Guide prepared especially for farmers to use in preparing their 1965 income tax report, is now available at our office. We encourage you to come by and pick one up. One of the most useful features of the Farmers Tax Guide is the prepared example tax return. On this sample return Schedules B, D, and F are used. Also shown is Schedule 1040 with the completed return and computed tax. Every step is illustrated and fully explained.

SHIPMENT JUST ARRIVED

We received a new shipment of soil sample boxes, just this week. We would like to urge you to come by to pick up some of the boxes and take some soil samples. You will find it to be time well spent. As we close out 1965 may we wish everyone a very prosperous year.

Telephone Talk

WELL! DID YOU EVER?

REACH A WRONG NUMBER DIALING LONG DISTANCE?

If you are a telephone subscriber living in Fulton, South Fulton, Hickman and Clinton who frequently dial their own calls to Western Tennessee, it is an easy one, two, three step way to enjoy fast, easy and pleasant long distance service.

FIRST: Dial "1". This connects you with the long distance equipment and it must be dialed before a long distance call can be made.

SECOND: The area code, "901". This must be dialed to reach all cities located in Western Tennessee. For Example: If you call Union City and do NOT dial the "901" area code, you will reach a wrong number in Hopkinsville, Kentucky.

THIRD: After dialing "1" and the area code "901", just dial the phone number of the distance party.

And always remember, if you SHOULD reach a wrong number, dial "Operator" and tell her what has happened, so that you will not be billed for the call.

Jury Finds McKenzie Not Guilty

DRESDEN - An all male jury deliberated less than an hour here Monday before finding Ray McKenzie, 26-year old Dresden man, not guilty of charges of assault and battery. McKenzie denied the state's contention that he had been responsible for internal lacerations suffered by Mrs. Elizabeth Rogers, 19, also of near Dresden, on the evening of October 2.

The defense contended that McKenzie was not with Mrs. Rogers for the entire evening. Mrs. Rogers, who has been estranged from her husband for almost two and one-half years, testified that she did not remember anything from the time she began drinking in a Greenfield tavern until she was treated for the injuries at the Volunteer General Hospital early Sunday morning.

Youth And Girl Die In Wreck

A Weakley county youth was killed almost instantly and a young girl with him fatally injured about 11 p.m. Friday in a Christmas Eve accident between Dresden and Palmersville.

Police identified the youth as Joe Mack Smithwick, 18, a resident of Palmersville. The girl was identified as Sarah Fagan, 19, also of the Palmersville area. She died about 4 a.m. Saturday in Volunteer General Hospital in Martin.

Officers said the automobile in which the two were riding rammed a utility pole.

Birth Defects Challenge Being Met, March of Dimes Physician States

By VIRGINIA APGAR, M.D., M.P.H.

Director, Division of Congenital Malformations
The National Foundation-March of Dimes

For many dreary and despairing decades, scientists faced continual discouragement as they probed into the causes and prevention of birth defects. One after another, clues that had seemed promising to embryologists and others dissolved into insignificance.

Hundreds of thousands of babies continued to be born, year after year, with missing arms and legs, with crippling spinal defects, and with other serious disorders that affected sight, hearing, the heart, even mentality. In the United States alone, it is estimated that more than 250,000 infants are born each year with serious defects.

The problem seemed beyond solution.

It is still, in my view, the most challenging medical problem facing mankind. But it is fair to say that today, under the combined assault of modern-day geneticists, embryologists, molecular and cellular biologists, and other research scientists, more and more light is being shed on some of the mysteries that have surrounded the causes of birth defects.

Here and there, a few pieces in the puzzle now seem to fit together with some kind of logic and order where only a few years ago confusion and disorder ruled. Each little discovery or development today encourages researchers in this area to remain at their test tubes and microscopes with reasonable expectation of adding eventually to our knowledge of what lies behind these catastrophic births.

What has brought about this progress—snail's pace in tempo though it may seem to many of us—after so many years of perplexity and resignation?

Hope Revived

Two developments occurred in the 1950's which combined to revive mankind's flagging hopes that advances into this unknown territory were possible.

One was the disclosure that certain major disorders were caused by what are called inborn errors of metabolism in which something goes wrong with the body's chemistry. The inherited disease of phenylketonuria (PKU), which can lead to mental deficiency, was pinpointed as being caused by such an error. Another hereditary disease, sickle-cell anemia, that occurs almost exclusively in the Negro race and where the mortality rate is nearly 100 per cent, is also attributed to these inborn flaws.

The other development was the disclosure that certain birth defects are caused by abnormalities in chromosomes, the rod-like bundles of hereditary material in all cells. The disorders caused by these chromosome mistakes include mongolism, many kinds of abnormal sex characteristics, infertility and mental retardation.

March of Dimes Skills

In 1958, The National Foundation-March of Dimes entered the fight against birth defects because, among other reasons, it was the greatest unmet medical problem of childhood. At that time, this voluntary health organization had already made solution of the polio problem possible by financing development of the Salk vaccine. In research, as well as in patient aid, The National Foundation-March of Dimes expected to utilize in the fight against birth defects many of the same skills its grantees and staff had sharpened in the assault on polio.

The decision of this respected health agency to mount a campaign against congenital malformations had the immediate effect of arousing wide and spontaneous support for an organized drive, based on its wealth of invaluable experience.

How the outlook has changed in only a few years! Today The National Foundation-March of Dimes has 37 research grants in operation at the nation's leading laboratories, and it finances 67 March of Dimes birth defects centers. If the urgently needed funds can be raised, the number of these centers will be doubled.

Research Under Way

Birth defects research covers a lot of ground. There are epidemiological studies under way

FOR A LOVELIER COMPLEXION

Did you know that over 70% of American women have dry skin? With some, it's a natural tendency. With others, it's a combination of steam-heated air in winter and too much sun in summer. Whatever the cause, lost moisture must be replaced if the complexion is to have a supple, dewy freshness.

All types of skin can benefit from a new, non-greasy night cream that is so refined in texture that it is completely absorbed. Called Deep Magic Moisture Cream, it softens and smooths the complexion, leaving it with a satin finish. Its formula is a concentration of extra-rich emollients, humectants and natural moisturizers. It should always be used in a daily routine of complexion care.

The rewards of a little time spent on skin care are a clear, soft and smooth complexion. As you know, your skin needs to be kept scrupulously clean. Use a facial cleansing lotion to remove make-up, limiting soap-and-water scrubbing to once a day to avoid possible drying effects. After cleansing, apply dry skin conditioner before make-up for added protection. It's also a good idea to apply a dry skin conditioner all over after your bath for its softening and smoothing effects.

After cleansing the face and throat thoroughly before bedtime, apply this rich moisture cream with upward and outward strokes.

SALADS AS MAIN COURSES

More and more, salads are coming out of the "side-dish" or secondary course place, and constituting the principal dish in the meal.

Salads make particularly good meals for luncheon, especially for business men and women who have to return to a desk and do an afternoon's work. They are, I believe, less likely to cause that sleepy feeling, than a heavy luncheon.

Almost any restaurant menu now offers salads of cottage cheese, fruit, shrimp, crab, lobster or tossed vegetables, with a choice of dressings, and strippings of cheese, ham, chicken, turkey or corned beef, or with hard-cooked egg wedges, and anchovies to give that extra fillip to the taste.

An Array of Nutrients

When one stops to think about it, such a salad isn't a bad description of a balanced array of nutrients from the four basic food groups — and a lot more tempting than some listings of these dietary essentials.

Add a glass of milk and some whole grain or enriched bread, rolls or wafers, and you can return to your desk with your dietary conscience at rest, knowing that you have done well by your nutrition, and probably have avoided the calorie excess which some other food selection might have involved.

There are many interesting variations of the salad menu, originating in various parts parts of the world. In France one meets a salad which contains an almost incredible variety of foodstuffs—boiled potatoes, tuna fish, black seasoned garlic, chicken, pepper and wine vinegar, and decorated with hard-cooked eggs.

Molded aspic or gelatin with mixed vegetables, or fruits in gelatin molds, also make excellent salads, and ingenious things can be done with chicken or duck or turkey in gelatin. Large ripe tomatoes stuffed with cottage cheese or a variety of fish, meat or poultry combinations also make tasty light luncheons or snacks.

Regular Salads, Too

Speaking of salads generally, there's a lot to be said for the simple mixed vegetable salad, with or without fancy additions, and with dressings of oil and vinegar, French, thousand island or garlic, or with Roquefort or bleu cheese either in luscious lumps or smoothly blended.

Rice, macaroni and other pasta forms may also be added to salad. The Cantonese vegetable dishes, which are in effect cooked salads, offer another tempting variation. For dessert, it's hard to beat a good plate of fresh or canned fruit, or balls of cream cheese rolled in chopped nuts, or a sherbet salad.

Anywhere you put it in the joyment while ensuring better nutrition.

LAKE STREET

FULTON, KY.

Mr. and Mrs. Pentecost and their three children, Marie (Mrs. Bill Mangum), Cayce LaFon, and on the extreme right is LaRue (Mrs. Harry Dunn).

Pentecosts Observe 50th Anniversary

The Golden Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Cayce Pentecost was observed from two to five o'clock Sunday at the popular couple's home on Cedar Street.

Cayce Pentecost and Miss Carrie LaFon, who were married Christmas week, 1915 at Palmyra, Ky., by Elder J.J. Kirkland, accepted the congratulations and good wishes of more than four hundred friends who called during the afternoon.

Mrs. Pentecost, in her usual charming manner, was wearing a lovely sheath dress of electric blue with gold trim. Her white orchid was tied with gold ribbon and Mr. Pentecost had a yellow rose boutonniere.

Also greeting the guests were their son, Cayce LaFon Pentecost and daughters, Mrs. Harry Dunn of Nashville and Mrs. Bill Mangum. Mrs. Dunn wore a black crepe skirt with black sequin blouse and Mrs. Mangum chose a similar costume in royal blue. Both had corsages of gold pom-poms. The sons-in-law and grandchildren Linda, Bud, Carrie and Mary Hauke Dunn, Andy, Amy and Jennie Marie Mangum, also were members of the house party.

Gift bouquets of gold and white flowers, along with holiday flowers added a decorative note to the lovely home furnished beautifully with antiques. Among the conservation pieces was a replica of the couple's wedding scene arranged on a marble top coffee table. A black buggy drawn by a bay horse with china boy and girl doll. The girl, using a lap rug. On another marble top table was a dainty arrangement of five homegrown orchids and yellow roses.

Centering the refreshment table, overlaid with a gold linen cloth was an arrangement of gold and bronze mums and gold satin bells. On either side were gold sprayed candles in five branched candelabrum. At one end of the table was a two-tiered gold columnated cake with white swans. On the top tier was a dainty nosegay of lilies of the valley and gold mums. Mrs. Herbert Coats, niece of Mrs. Pentecost, served from a silver punch service. Gold frosted cake squares and salted nuts were served from silver and crystal appointments. Others assisting with the dining room hospitalities were Mrs. Arthur Douglas, a niece, Mrs. Grooms Herron, Miss Orena Darnell and Mrs. Bill Pritchett.

Fifty Golden Wade rosebuds in a gold urn added beauty to the buffet.

A variety of "gifts of gold" in china, crystal and linens were displayed in the bedrooms.

Mrs. Jack Pentecost, a sister in law, played appropriate piano selections of yesteryear and today.

Softer Hands

IT'S ROUGH—If you do housework and dishes and use detergents, you know how fast your hands dry out and chap. But did you know that there is now anti-detergent type hand cream, created especially for hands of the modern detergent generation? Gloves help, of course, but apply cream before as well as after household jobs and you'll notice the difference. Latest Pacquin surveys reveal that most women use hand cream regularly before retiring, because cream stays on and restores moisture to the skin while they sleep.

Tarts Make Delightful Dessert

The holiday season is a time of wonderful eating pleasures. So many enticing specialty dishes appear on dinner tables from fancy salads and glazes for meats, to festive desserts.

These pretty and delicious Lemon Chess Tarts will help you finish off a holiday meal in gay style. Chopped candied fruit is mixed in to a lemon-flavored filling which is similar to the filling of a rich chess pie.

The tarts are baked in individual pastry shells. Make them in an attractive petal shape, if you wish. Then serve the desserts chilled, with a crown of whipped cream on each. For an extra little festive touch, sprinkle red or green candy glitter on the whipped cream.

You'll note that the filling calls for bottled lemon juice. It's more economical and convenient than having to squeeze fresh lemons.

Lemon Chess Tarts
12 small baked pastry tart shells

(may be made in petal shape)
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup RealLemon bottled lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped candied fruit*
1/2 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
1 teaspoon vanilla
Whipped cream, if desired

In a heavy saucepan, combine eggs, sugar, butter, RealLemon bottled lemon juice and salt. Cook slowly, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add candied fruit; cool. Chill several hours or overnight, until mixture mounds when spooned. For serving, stir in walnuts and vanilla. Spoon into tart shells. Top with whipped cream, if desired. Yield: 12 tarts.

*1/2 cup seedless raisins and 1/2 cup chopped dates may be substituted for the candied fruit.

Luci Promises To Finish Her Education

CHICAGO — Luci Baines Johnson's Christmas present to her father was a promise that she would try to finish her education after her marriage to airman Pat Nugent, 22, of Waukegan, Ill., next summer, the Chicago Tribune said today.

The Tribune quoted the President's daughter as saying:

"Right now I have every intention of getting as much education as possible. You never know what is going to happen, and I feel every woman should be prepared. Besides, I like to study and I love my school."

Luci, who is 18, showed her engagement ring Sunday as she and her fiancé left St. Bartholomew's Roman Catholic Church in Waukegan after attending noon Mass.

President Johnson often has expressed a desire that both of his daughters complete a college education. Luci, his younger daughter, will have finished her freshman year in Georgetown University's school of nursing before she is married.

Her sister, Lynda Bird, files to Wyoming today where she'll be a guest at the home of a young man she met last summer on a trailer tour of the West.

Bay-Bee Shoe Company Gives Surprise Bonuses

Management of Bay-Bee Shoe Company look over a stack of twenty dollar bills that were given employees. Seated left to right are Jack Drerup, President; W.E. Drerup, Vice President and General Manager, and Tommy Thompson, Secretary and Treasurer.

Several thousand dollars were given employees of Bay-Bee Shoe Company in Dresden as surprise Christmas bonuses. Twenty dollar bills were presented those employees who had been with the firm since 1964 or before.

This was the first time in the history of the company that a Christmas bonus has been given. In a greeting card along with the money the management stated that "this is given in appreciation for the loyalty, service, and dependability of our employees. Please accept this as a token of our gratitude."

The firm which began operation at Dresden in 1947 with about 30 employees now has 385 people on its payroll. Management also stated to the employees that "Your co-operation and dependability have made this gift possible, and as long as management and employees pull together as a team, an even brighter future will prevail for all."

Kentucky farmers, like other segments of our society, are closing the books on another year. This is the time of the year when we look back and survey what has been accomplished, then look ahead to what must be done in the future. I sincerely hope that each individual and each family can find satisfaction in the labors of the past season. Though the past year may have held some failures and disappointments, I hope that enough was gained so that the coming year can be approached with renewed faith and vigor.

The Kentucky Department of Agriculture has realized considerable growth during the past fiscal year. Each of the nine divisions experienced expansion in their programs, with a number of new services being initiated.

The Division of Weights and Measures filed a new regulation governing the grind of agricultural limestone. This action was endorsed by the University of Kentucky, the Plant Food Council, and several farm groups. All those concerned feel that the finer lime will provide farmers with quicker benefits from the lime they spread.

A new laboratory is being developed by the Division and will offer greater services in the area of weight and measurement certification. A lime testing facility is a part of the new lab. The Division will now be able to give faster results on samples of lime from throughout the State.

Kentucky was able to initiate its hog cholera eradication program last April. This program is meeting with pleasing success and should mean a lot to the
