Demos’ Labor Bill Unlikely To Be Passed
Senators Call It “Watered Down”; May Suit Truman

WASHINGTON, May 5—A Senate labor subcommittee dropped its fight against the Taft-Hartley Act today after the Senate refused to take action on a labor bill that would have insured a put back vote. The subcommittee had been trying to get the bill passed since last session.

The Senate last night rejected the Taft-Hartley bill after a long debate. The bill was defeated by a vote of 46 to 29. The vote was taken after the Senate had rejected a motion to adjourn.

The Senate then passed a resolution that would have had the effect of delaying the vote on the Taft-Hartley bill until next session.

The resolution passed by a vote of 52 to 18. The resolution would have had the effect of delaying the vote on the Taft-Hartley bill until next session.

The resolution was offered by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who said it was necessary to give the Senate time to consider the Taft-Hartley bill.

The Taft-Hartley bill would have made it more difficult for labor unions to obtain court injunctions to stop strikes. The bill also would have made it more difficult for labor unions to obtain court injunctions to stop strikes.

The resolution was offered by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who said it was necessary to give the Senate time to consider the Taft-Hartley bill.

President Truman has received a reassuring vote of confidence from his own party. On Tuesday, the House passed a resolution supporting the Administration, by a vote of 262 to 100. The resolution, introduced by Speaker Barkley, was supported by virtually all the Southern Democrats and by most of the Northern liberals. It was opposed mainly by conservative Republicans, who have been expressing increasing doubt about the President's policies.

The President's press conference on Tuesday was the scene of some heated exchanges with reporters. Among the highlights of the press conference were the following:

- The President's attack on the League of Nations for its failures.
- The President's defense of his foreign policy, saying that it is based on the principle of preventing another world war.
- The President's statement that he will not seek re-election in 1948.

The resolution passed by the House was a significant development in the political landscape. It showed that the President has a strong majority in Congress, and that he can count on the support of the Democratic Party in the coming election.

To every young man about to graduate from high school

A CHALLENGE TO THE CLASS OF '47

Your country needs you now. The future of a free America may rest on your decision.

There is no Draft today to put you in the Army. Yours is the first class since 1940 that faces a free choice. But with that freedom, as with every freedom, goes responsibility.

The nation has put the maintenance of a strong, alert, defensive force squarely up to you. This is the only country in the world that dares to raise and maintain a million-man Army by voluntary enlistment, in the American tradition. The duty of keeping our Army ready for emergencies is shared by every citizen—for peace before, in peacetime, there is need for it to be greater.

Our freedom, our ideals, the safety of our homes and families, depend on a world peace backed by firmness and justice. It's your Army now—yours to keep strong.

Joining the Army as a volunteer may mean some sacrifice to you. On the other hand, you have much to gain from the experience. Sound physical conditions, training in leadership, world travel and adventure, the comradeship of a fine group of young men, a job with a real future at better pay than you can get in most civil work—all these make the Army an excellent career for young men who can measure up to its high standards. And in addition you will be entitled to educational benefits under the GI Bill of Rights, if you enlist before Congress officially terminates the war.

Before making your decision, get the full story of this career opportunity at your nearest U.S. Army Recruiting Station.
