Camera 'Round Town!

Nothing says living like smiling folks, and a camera does its best. Recently a News photographer just moseyed down the street and here are the smiles that make us happy.

Wayne Lohaus and Carol Pigue were collecting for the advertising for the Fulton High School year-book and gave this smile when a happy customer handed them a check.

Our neighbor Colonel Charlie Burrow, just up the street from the News was walking into his spanking brand new office when the shutter-bug say "Hi Neighbor."

A frequent visitor passing the News office each day is Mrs. Jessie Harris. On a nice warm day she was taking a stroll with her friend Ellen Hooker and the News photographer caught them in candid camera.

A peek in the pretty interior of the new Dotty Shop on Lake Street found everything spankin' brand-new and inviting as could be... and the gent at the left is owner Leon Filler waiting on a customer.

Group "Enthusiastic" After Nashville Visit

A delegation of eleven businessmen and civic leaders from South Fulton and Obion County, plus their two State congressmen, met with Tennessee Governor Frank Clement in Nashville Tuesday morning to discuss the routing on a proposed by-pass linking US 45-E to US 51 around South Fulton.

The group expressed themselves as "very enthusiastic" about the possibility that their proposed routing would be accepted, and observed that Governor Clement was deeply moved by a 600-name petition by South Fulton citizens encouraging him to run for the U. S. Senate and expressing wholehearted support.

The group made the Nashville trip seeking to have the proposed by-pass enter through the South Fulton shopping district before it curved around and to the west to join a new US 51 route that will be built on the west side of town at the terminus of the new Purchase Parkway.

Preliminary routing of the by-pass, made by the Tennessee Department of Highways, has proposed a cut-off that would miss the South Fulton shopping center district entirely. But, the group learned, this routing was proposed because of expected excessive property costs in converting the highway through South Fulton to a 4-lane strip. The delegation presented the Governor and the Highway Department with signed affidavits from all involved property owners but three, in which the necessary frontage will be given to the State free of charge. "This puts a whole new light on the matter," a Highway Department official observed after the affidavits were presented.

The Tuesday meeting with the Governor opened with Representative Milton Hamilton Jr. (who had made the appointment with Clement), in charge. South Fulton Mayor Rex Ruddle then presented the Governor with the above-mentioned petition containing 600 names. In a following discussion regarding the by-pass, the question of the right-of-way from the South Fulton city limits to Collinwood was brought up by a highway department as being "too expensive" to consider. Whereupon the delegation handed over signed affidavits from all but three property owners giving the footage free. (A spokesman told the News Wednesday that the highway through SEEKING A NEW SOUTH FULTON BY-PASS: Businessmen and officials of South Fulton and Union City Tuesday morning met with Gov. Frank Clement (seated) in Nashville to discuss a by-pass for South Fulton which would link Highways 51 and 45-E south of South Fulton. Meeting with the Governor were: (from left) Sonny Puckett, James Butts, Mayor Rex Ruddle and H. O. Wright, all of South Fulton; Judge Dan McKinnis of Union City; W. H. Heath of South Fulton; R. C. Reynolds and State Rep. Milton Hamilton, both of Union City; Milton Counce of South Fulton; Sen. Joe Holbrook of Dresden and Jim White of Union City. Special photo courtesy the Union City Daily Messenger. Cliff Weldon, Martin, and Sam Siegel, Bruceton, also members of the delegation, were not in the picture.

South Fulton, in order to be made a 4-lane thoroughfare, would need 10 additional feet on each side of the present right-of-way... and this is the footage that will be provided.

The Governor expressed himself as being "deeply moved" by the work and enthusiasm of the group, and promised to get to work on the matter immediately.

The South Fulton delegation expressed themselves as very pleased with the meeting and very confident of its favorable outcome, and offers special thanks to Judge Dan McKinnis, Rep. Hamilton, Senator Joe Holbrook, Sam Siegel and Cliff Weldon for invaluable support and assistance on the project.

It is expected that the final decision on the route around South Fulton will be announced in the next few months.

Graves Home Levelled In Sunday AM Fire

The Jack Graves residence, 4 miles north of Fulton near the "Y" on US 51, was destroyed by fire of unknown origin last Sunday morning.

The Fulton fire department, called to the scene, was unable to control the blaze, but assisted in saving nearby structures.

No one was at home when the fire broke out. Mrs. Graves and the children were visiting in Jackson, Tenn., and Mr. Graves had left about a half-hour earlier for a Kentucky Lake fishing trip.

Ecuador Trip Delayed A Week To Join In "Pan-American Week" There

Mrs. Paul Westpheling, NEWS editor and President of the Fourth International Banana Festival is in Washington, D. C. this week attending to matters dealing with the forthcoming Festival this fall.

Her agenda of meetings includes the State Department and various agencies interested in Central American affairs, all of whom have expressed a desire to actively co-operate in making this year's Festival closely tied-in with Latin American interests.

The personal discussion of these matters with Embassies of the countries involved, as well as with the congressional delegations of Kentucky and Tennessee, is hoped to provide a wider scope of assistance and interest than ever before.

She was accompanied by Mrs. George Sauvigne of Union City, and is expected to return to Fulton Sunday or Monday.

visit until the week after Easter.

At a conference in Washington with State Department officials, members of the Kentucky and Tennessee delegations in Congress and officials of the White House and the Ecuadorian Embassy, Mrs. Paul Westpheling, president of the Banana Festival, revealed that all present at the meeting agreed that the activities of the Banana Festival will be brought into sharper focus if the local entourage could participate in the Ecuadorian national observance of Pan-American Week.

Meeting at the Ecuadorian Embassy with Ambassador Larrea and Honorable Gustavo Polit, Ecuadorian Minister Counsellor for Economic Affairs, who attended last year's Festival, Mrs. Westpheling reported that arrangements are being made in Washington with Ecuadorian Airlines and the Ecuadorian Tourist Commission in Quito to re-arrange the schedule. Detailed information will be released upon Mrs. Westpheling's return to Fulton this week-end.

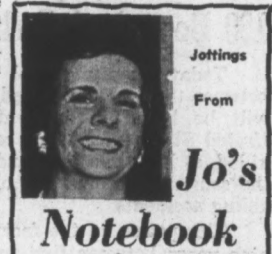

"Delaying the visit until the week after Easter may work to our advantage," Mrs. Westpheling said by telephone from Washington yesterday. "Many persons who have considered making the trip have said that the Easter holidays, with business commitments and family gatherings, made it inconvenient for them to make the trip. Delaying the visit a week should fill the necessary quota of thirty persons with no trouble at all," she said.

The Festival president said that local citizens would be gratified to observe the respect and enthusiasm by which the Festival is regarded in high government and diplomatic circles. "It is for this reason," Mrs. Westpheling said, "that it is imperative that every effort be made for the thirty member entourage to be complete."

A luncheon at the Ecuadorian Embassy today (Thursday), given by Ambassador and Mrs. Larrea for the Festival president, is expected to end the full round of meetings, she has attended concluded with the planning of this year's Festival program.

Meanwhile, all persons planning to make the trip are urged to get their smallpox vaccinations and to supply the Banana Festival headquarters with a pocket-size photograph and biographical material of themselves for publicity purposes in Ecuador. Ambassador Larrea particularly made this request in Washington.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, MARCH 19, (Saturday)—

Dear Paul: It is late evening now, but Cile (Sauvigne) and I want to tell you how MUCH we appreciate your taking your time to work out our travel schedule for us.

BUT, if you ever lend your services again, and I am sure you will, please give some thought to Mother Nature... I'm not talking about the birds and bees and rolling hills; I'm talking about such prosaic things as food, thirst and other biological necessities.

Since your learned and experienced time table had us leaving Fulton at 9:30 a. m. on Saturday, Cile and I felt that we had to speed up a little along the turnpike to make up for the 15 minutes delay in our leaving Fulton.

I went by the News office to get some calling cards, only to learn that I had not picked up my attache case with some very important documents in it. Then I went to the post office to get the mail to see if there was anything in it concerning the Banana Festival that I should have that might have a bearing on my Washington trip.

It's a good thing I went. In it was a letter from good ole Fats Everett telling us that he would be glad to see Cile and me in Washington. He offered his help in any way that he could for the Festival, on which mission I find myself en route to the Nation's Capitol.

So it was 9:45 a. m. when we hit the Mayfield Highway, but that didn't bother us too much because we got to Elizabethtown on YOUR

Cub Scouts Will Become "Knights Of The Round Table" At Monday Party

The Cub Scouts of Pack 40 will have a spectacular Pack party on March 28 at 7 p. m. in Carr Gymnasium. Everyone is invited and should come early to be sure to get a seat for this "really big" pack party.

Pack 52 from Union City, Pack 98 from Cayce and Pack 101 from Beeleron will be among the specially invited guests.

Each cub will be knighted by King Arthur (Richard Rose) himself, who will be arrayed in his finest kingly outfit. The Squires (cubs) have all assembled in the square, when the Town Crier (Den Chief Phillip Maddox) dashes in to tell one and all that King Arthur is coming. The Trumpeteers (Den Chiefs Richard Bodker and Gordon Jones) herald the approach of the king with a glorious fanfare.

King Arthur calls each group of squires and their ladies to his mighty Round Table and dubs each one as a Knight in the Court of King Arthur.

The Lady's knights will be required to put their wit, strength and cunning against their worthy adversaries. Each Knight, trained in the art of self-defense, is more than ready to do battle for his Den.

This should be one of the most interesting Pack 40 party this year. Parents, friends and everyone interested in the Cub Scout program is urged to make plans now to attend.

Lloyd Clapp, Graves County Law-maker, Commits Unpardonable Error In Attack On Constitution

Several of Kentucky's legislators, for reasons known only to themselves, banded together during the General Assembly just closed, in rebellion against the Administration of Governor Edward T. Breathitt. Unfortunately many of the legislators were from far West Kentucky, which may be some kind of an omen connected with the up-coming gubernatorial election. Among the "Rebels" was the First District's Henry Maddox, who was one of the sponsors of the bill to raise the pay of legislators, including his own.

Governor Breathitt permitted the bill to become law without his signature. If perchance in the months to come, some of you may want to complain about the fact that our area continues to be forgotten in development projects, it may be well to study the voting records of our own representative and Senator (George Brand) as well as the record of other First District legislators.

There's the case of freshman representative Lloyd Clapp, Democrat of Graves County, who attempted to block legislation to place the Constitution Revision question on the November ballot because he said one of the fifty eminent Kentuckians who is a member of the Constitution Revision Assembly served a prison term.

He had obvious reference to Edward F. Prichard, a distinguished Frankfort attorney, who at 26 years of age was a confidential advisor to President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Supreme Court Justice Fred Vinson, Presidential assistant James F. Byrnes and a score of other New Deal brain-trusters.

Said neophyte Clapp, "I don't want a man like that writing my Constitution."

Of all the unmitigated audacity and stupidity. True, because of Prichard's fantastic legal ability, he may have guided the legal direction of the Revision Assembly, but there are 49 other Kentuckians in that Assembly, whose eminence, learning and prestige have charted the greatness of Kentucky for more than a half century.

Having known Mr. Prichard by reputation when we lived in Washington, and personally since we've been in Kentucky we rather imagine that Mr. Prichard has taken the castigation in stride as coming from a headline-seeking, ill-advised puppet.

Actually Mr. Clapp pays Mr. Prichard a great compliment. If 49 other distinguished Kentuckians looked to Mr. Prichard for advice on the Constitution Revision, the same 49ers surely look to Representative Clapp as the unsuspecting mouthpiece of some bigger politicians using him as a tool for their dirty work.

Mr. Prichard served nine months for tampering with the ballot boxes in a Federal election. He was given a personal pardon by President Harry S. Truman. Mr. Prichard paid for the error he made 20 years ago. There is no pardon for the disreputable behaviour of Representative Clapp for insinuating that the distinguished body, who deliberated two years to revise the Constitution, is somewhat un-American, and un-Kentuckian.

If we had our "druthers" we'd rather be "duped" by Mr. Prichard and the 49 other people who framed the revisions than by a legislator who ought to know that it's better to be thought a fool than to open his mouth and remove all doubt.

For Each Child Killed In Accidents At Least 100 Boys And Girls Will Suffer Disabilities

Today, twenty school children between the ages of five and 14 years will be killed in accidents in the United States. And for each child killed, at least 100 boys and girls in the same age group will suffer disabling accidents.

This points up the fact that the nine years between five and 14 are critical years - dangerous years. They are years of rapid growth, of experimentation, of daring, of adventure, of learning, of seeking for independence, and of developing self-confidence. They are years when habit patterns are set.

They are also years of challenge for parents, for teachers and for all adults who bear responsibility for the safety and well-being of children. Because for the most part these accidents to our school children are needless, avoidable.

How can they be avoided? Through consistent, thorough training in commonsense, understandable safety practices and precautions, according to the Easter Seal Society. As parental controls must be relaxed in relation to the child's growth and development, safety habit patterns must be established, ready to take over in the everyday lives of these vulnerable youngsters.

In our own community, there are many resources to help us establish the safety habits in the children who are our heritage to the future. One of these is the Easter Seal Society which discharging in part its responsibility, has just issued a School Age Safety Checklist as a public service feature of the current Easter Seal Campaign and which may be had by parents and teachers for the asking.

"Training in vital 'do's & don'ts' is essential to every child's safety," the Easter Seal Society says in announcing the Checklist. "Even under the most favorable conditions a child's life is full of hazards. Sometimes parents, as individuals, can do little about the hazards children confront each day. But by precept, discipline and proper guidance can make their sons and daughters aware of danger, familiar with the fundamental rules of safety and ready to react to protect themselves."

From our own observation, safety is a state of mind that becomes second nature if the instinct of self-preservation is acknowledged and nurtured from earliest childhood.

We urge that every parent, every teacher and every baby-sitter get the new checklist, study it and use it to help children protect themselves from harm. Let's keep our children safe.

FULTON'S Library Corner by Miss Jessie Orgain

As the old legend goes, the sun with its warmth and gentleness was able to do what the north wind with all his fierceness was not able to do—to make the king take off his fine coat and plunge in for a swim. These warm sunny days that we are enjoying now are luring us all to the great out-of-doors, and our minds naturally turn to sports. For the sports minded, whether the emphasis is on active participation or on reading up on matters of the sports world, there are books in the library to suit the taste.

Here you will find the fascinating story of the Olympic games. The festival, religious and athletic, goes back to twilight of Greek legend, when, according to some of the Greek poets, Zeus and Kronos, the mightiest of the Gods, wrestled for the possession of the earth on the high peaks. Later, the games and religious celebrations held in the valley below, were in commemoration of the victory of Zeus. THE STORY OF THE OLYMPIC GAMES, 776 B. C. to 1964 makes interesting reading on the history of the Olympics.

Some of our early American forefathers held a different view of sports to that of the Greeks. Instead of mingling religious observance with athletic demonstrations, these peasants, servants, and craftsmen who came to New England frowned on sports. Governor Bradley of the Plymouth Colony in 1621 placed a ban on "gameing or revelling in ye streets" when he saw men "in ye street at play openly". However the sports picture was not so grim in other sections of the New World. THE PICTORIAL HISTORY OF AMERICAN SPORTS, by John Durant and Otto Bettman, GIVES IN ONE VOLUME, the first complete word-and-picture story of sports in this country.

In Paul Gallico's book, THE GOLDEN PEOPLE, the author takes a fond backward look at the super-athletes of that unique period of history following World War I, the period called The Golden Age. The legendary achievements of these unforgettable characters makes good reading, even for those who are too young to remember the "old" Madison Square Garden and all the fanfare of those days.

GAMES AND SPORTS AROUND THE WORLD, by Sarah Ethridge Hunt, provides teachers and recreational leaders with a comprehensive source of play activities drawn from all parts of the world. Since traditional games and sports reveal the culture and traits of a people, the author's idea is that play and games are invaluable in promoting world empathy among children and youth.

A valuable book for use of the young people is planning activities is HANDBOOK OF CO-ED TEEN ACTIVITIES, by Edyth DeMarche. It is organized around major areas of activities which meet the needs and interests of both the younger adolescents and the older alike.

But for those who have the great urge to get out in the sun and actively engage in sports, helps for improving your skills are on the library shelves for you. There are books on water-sports; fishing, boating, swimming, diving, water-skiing, surfing. Instructions for better golfing, base-ball, softball, football, tennis, badminton, boxing, bowling, karate, judo, pocket billiards are here for your use. Or if you wish to learn more about horse-back riding, hunting, road-racing, karting, sky-diving, skiing, mountaineering, archery, track or rodeo, help is available. There is a book on cheer-leading and one on floats and parades. For those who like less strenuous sports there are books on improving your game of bridge, chess, and checkers. The young people will enjoy learning juggling, puppeting, magic, photography, roller-skating. Whatever your recreational needs, the library will make an effort to help, even if the book needed is not in the library.

Drace of Water Valley, Ky., in the Wesley Methodist Church. The bride is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hancock of Fulton and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. I. R. Jeffress of Crutchfield. After a wedding trip to the Great Smoky Mountains, the couple plan to reside with her parents.

From Cayce: Mrs. Joan Graham, wife of John Graham of Cayce, arrived last week end from her native country of England. She was the first war bride to arrive here to make her home in Fulton County. From Fulton, Route 3: The new duties of Everitt Williams at the store formerly occupied by Oria Foster are a little confusing, when he sells sulphur for epsom salts.

About Ireland

(Ed's Note: Since so many of you have commented on the interesting series on the Irish by Irvin S. Cobb, we thought you would also enjoy this article recently printed in the McLean County News. It was written by Landon Wills, in his prize-winning column, "Observations of a Country Boy.")

OBSERVATIONS OF A COUNTRY BOY

(Part 2)

When Henry VIII's passion for Ann Boleyn caused him to take over the Catholic church in England so he could get a divorce, he closed the monasteries and took over the Irish churches. From then until 1922, there was an unending battle between the Anglican English and the Catholic Irish. (To study this history even a little is to grieve at the sins that have been committed in the name of religion.) Denied their independence and their religion, the Irish developed a fierce love for both.

The Irish fought for their independence almost continuously from 1567 until 1922—356 years. When Irish poets and rebels signed a declaration of independence in 1916, they were all shot (along with several more of their fellows). (Which is what would probably have happened to George Washington and the signers of our Declaration of Independence if they had lost one more battle.)

When the Irish finally won their independence in 1922, they remained, and still remain, a divided country. The six northern counties were taken away from Ireland. And even the free Irish were bitterly divided—and still are—over whether they should accept the freedom of the 26 Catholic counties, or fight on until all of Ireland was free and united.

Remembering our own war for independence and our Civil War, we can not blame the Irish for fighting so fiercely for their freedom. On the other hand, remembering how we treated the Indians, the Japanese, and the negroes, and our attitude toward Catholics, we couldn't criticize the English for their stubborn and at times irrational policy.

ABOUT IRELAND—

It was the repression, the poverty, and disease during the English subjugation of Ireland that drove so many Irish to our shores. More Irishmen came to America than remain in Ireland today. Many of us are only as good or as bad as our Irish ancestry—mixed with English, Scotch-Irish, German and French—makes us.

Now that the Irish have their independence—140 years after us—they are working diligently to make up for lost time. They still love their beautiful land. They still love their church—but insist on complete freedom for every other religion. (The square around St. Stephen's Green in the heart of Dublin contains a large Methodist Church and a Unitarian Church, as well as Catholic.)

There is much we can learn from the Irish today. We would be better for learning to relax and enjoy life—family, friendship and church... story, song and drama... the way the Irish do. We would do well to try new and adventurous ways of doing things as the Irish have. We would be the richer if we respected our history and traditions as the Irish do.

And we would be far ahead if we quit being so high and mighty, feeling so rich and invincible, quit insisting on being privileged and pampered. We should learn... and not let ourselves forget... that there are 113 other nations in the world besides the United States. Not so big, not so rich, and not so powerful... but just as independent and just as sovereign as we are.

And, above all, we should quit looking for something to criticize about the other nations, and think a little about how we look to them. I wondered what the Irish thought of us!

Introducing Our Churches - God's Agency For Spreading His Love

CHRISTIAN CHURCH, HICKMAN, KENTUCKY

According to a Kentucky History published in 1885, in the records of Fulton County, the following excerpt, "The first church edifice was erected about 1840, a frame building 20 x 40, used for school purposes also." It stood on the ground owned by C. L. Randle (now the property of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Vorhees). The present site of the Christian Church was bought in an exchange of property. The site of the present Hickman or Fulton County Elementary School was owned by the trustees of the Christian Church, and the present location of the Christian Church was owned by the Lutherans, who also used the building as a school.

Records of the Fulton County Court Clerk's office show: Exchange of property, DB-15, pages 194-195, July 7, 1888, James H. Saunders, Elder, S. W. Lauderdale, Deacon, S. W. Powell, Deacon, Trustees, Christian Church.

"For years the Christian church existed, but the property became involved in debt during the Civil War and for a time was suspended or inactive, meeting only on the first day of the week"—excerpt from history.

The old church burned in 1914 and meetings on the first day of the week were held in the court room of the court house. All records of births, deaths and the histories were destroyed in the fire.

In 1918 the present church building was erected, and dedicated on July 8, 1918. The minister is Rev. N. T. Patton, who has served the church a little more than seven years.

LET'S LOOK IT OVER

By Gov. Edward T. Breathitt

Frankfort -- In review:

The 1966 Kentucky Legislature got off to a good start soon after its January 4 opening, by passing a well-trimmed but record-breaking $2 billion biennial budget bill that required no new or increased state taxes--this in keeping with my 1963 campaign pledge.

Then, it proceeded during 60 legislative days ending March 18 to put together a structure of sound, progressive legislation that stands as high or higher in total worth than the product of any similar group in the history of the Commonwealth.

Included in this 1966 production were most if not all the bills that I and my administration backed.

Second only to the budget bill in order of introduction at the opening session of the General Assembly was House Bill 2--a measure stronger than the Federal civil rights act of 1964 in banning racial discrimination in public accommodations and employment.

This bill, which I was proud to sign into law January 27 in the shadow of the bronze statue of Abraham Lincoln in the Capitol rotunda, is a strong bill, not a week one, and helps make the brotherhood of man a reality in Kentucky and the Nation.

High on my priority list, also, was the so-called strip-mining bill. Passed by landslide majorities in both Senate and House, it requires restoration of strip-mined lands to the approximate original contour in Western Kentucky and to back-filled terraces in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky.

Despite the many rivers, lakes and streams in our state, many communities periodically are faced with water shortages. A solution to this problem is contained in the package of natural resources bills we shepherded through the Legislature.

One of the provisions is creation of a Water Resources Authority which will have the power to issue revenue bonds, if necessary, to finance construction of large storage capacities of water behind Federal dams. Another provision calls for establishment of an Air Pollution Control Commission to combat fumes, dirt, gases, smoke and dust.

Two other bills which met with warm approval and passage are highly significant to the future of education in Kentucky.

One provides that nine lay members of the 15 member Council on Public Higher Education will constitute its voting membership, and that the council will represent the state in all matters of higher education not otherwise delegated. This is the bill, also, which authorized designation of Eastern, Western, Morehead and Murray state colleges as universities.

The other education bill, which I consider the most important school law enacted in the last 12 years, since establishment of the minimum foundation program, provides pay raises for teachers on the basis of education and experience. It also authorizes local school districts on a permissive basis, subject to recall referendum, to use one of three new taxes locally to raise money for other school needs, such as buildings.

The Attorney General of the United States, Nicholas Katzenbach, wired us congratulations on another bill passed and signed into law. It is the one which bars the operation of bingo-type, multi-coin pinball machines in Kentucky because they are gambling devices. The many legislators who had the courage to stand against this racket deserve high praise.

The maximum weekly benefit rate for eligible workers covered by unemployment insurance was set at 55 percent of 85 per cent of the average state salary rather than 50 per cent of the average salary, under another bill I signed. This measure also sets $12 as the minimum weekly benefit.

The state was called on to reapportion its seven congressional districts to make them as nearly equal in population as possible. The bill which I had introduced to effect this was well received. Jefferson County had to be divided. Louisville, Shively and a small part of the county will form a new Third District. The rest of the county goes into a new Fourth District.

The bill to submit to the people for a vote in November the draft of a proposed new constitution for Kentucky was a non-partisan bill in every respect, but it had the strongest support, both personal and official that I could muster. The proposed constitution on which the people will vote will replace, if approved, the antiquated 1891 document under which the state now operates.

One of the most difficult bills we had to get through the Legislature was the one calling for compulsory annual safety inspection of automobiles in Kentucky after January 1, 1968. A startling reduction in traffic fatalities in which motor vehicles were involved has resulted in states that have enacted similar measures. I am sure the same will hold true for Kentucky.

Another bill in which I was greatly interested finally passed the House on the last day of the session. This was the bill which removes unrealistic limits from campaign spending but at the same time requires public announcement of all political contributions and expenditures, with identification of persons or organizations contributing $500 or more.

A bill to insure that taxes paid by public utilities and railroads could not be reduced $5.5 million in the next two years finally gained, just before final adjournment, the passage I advocated. The reduction could have occurred as a result of full-cash assessment of property and a 1965 law rolling back tax rates to offset the assessment rise.

I close this column on the day of adjournment with the observation that 1966 was a very good year for legislation in Kentucky, and with sincere thanks to all those who supported me and my administration in securing passage of the bills for which we stood.

The famed Cedars of Lebanon, used for King Solomon's temple and Egyptian pharaohs' funeral boats, have dwindled to 400 trees, guarded as a national treasure and depicted on the Lebanese flag, the National Geographic says.

Kentucky Needs 40 Agents For Rights-of-Way

FRANKFORT -- The State Department of Personnel has made changes in the qualifications for junior right-of-way agents and the Highway Department is now looking for 40 men to fill vacancies in that job classification.

A right-of-way agent negotiates for and purchases land on which State highways are constructed or buys land along an existing highway where the department needs additional room for improvement. The "junior" classification means that young men will be hired and trained specifically for the job.

The State Personnel Department is accepting applications for high school graduates who have four years of experience in sales, business management, public administration, real estate or farm management. The job formerly was open to college graduates only.

Starting salary for right-of-way trainees is $457 per month. Once the initial training period is over, that salary is increased.

Applicants must pass merit examinations which are administered in twenty testing centers throughout the state.

Application forms are available at any State employment service office, and from the Department of Personnel, Division of Recruitment and Examinations, in the Capitol Annex Building in Frankfort.

Lambuth College Will Provide Only Planetarium In Vicinity

Construction is now underway at Lambuth College on the $1,200,000 science building which will provide the only modern planetarium in West Tennessee.

Groundbreaking ceremonies took place on the campus. Dr. James S. Wilder, Jr., president of the college, said "Lambuth's academic program will be greatly advanced by the addition of the science building to the campus. The planetarium will provide Lambuth with an excellent teaching tool and will render a much wider service for school students and adult education."

J. M. O'Brien Construction Co. of Memphis, is in charge of construction. Plans call for completion prior to fall term 1967. The building will be constructed in the southeast corner of the quadrangle. The artistically designed entrance will face the quadrangle. A 30-foot metal dome of the planetarium will rise on the back of the building with a private entrance on Maple Street. The building will contain 50,000 square feet.

The planetarium will have a lecture-auditorium with a seating capacity of 76. It will be available as a community facility open for public school students within a 50-mile radius of Jackson. There will also be regularly scheduled evening lectures for adults. The projection dome in the center of the planetarium will show all the celestial bodies in relative size and motion.

Housed in the building will be new labs and classrooms for biology, chemistry, mathematics, physics, and astronomy. It will also contain faculty-research areas along with storage and preparation rooms.

A thermo nuclear lab for the study of radio-isotopes and fissionable materials is another special feature of the building. One room will be especially prepared as a computer center to serve all departments of the college.

Other special features to aid teaching are: a lecture-auditorium with a capacity of 160; a greenhouse for use by botany students; and a museum located on the first floor.

The science building will be completely air conditioned with terrazzo floors throughout for easy maintenance. It will be wired for closed circuit television for use in the future and will contain the latest in visual aid equipment in the auditorium.

The roof of the building will feature an observation platform for use by astronomy students. Godwin and Beckett of Atlanta, Ga. designed the building. Cost of construction will be financed by a federal grant of $411,453, a Gulf Oil Co. grant of $5,000, and the remainder by the funds solicited in the recent $1.5 million crusade.

Chestnut Glade Club Has Interesting Meet

"Keep up-to-date in all articles in your medicine cabinets at all times," was the advice given by Mrs. Johnnie Hazelwood when she gave the health leader's lesson at the regular meeting of the Chestnut Glade Home Demonstration Club. She advised that all medicine should be used only for the ailment it was prescribed for and that unused medicine should be disposed of, because of chemical changes in mixed drugs and the loss of potency after a short time. She reported that meningitis, which has been on the increase, is caused by a germ that often attacks after some other illness has lowered the resistance.

Mrs. Myrtle Temple advised that all labels on fabrics and on garments should be read and studied to prevent disappointments in the service and pleasure of new fabrics that have recently appeared on the markets, as well as new uses and care for all articles of clothing.

Mrs. W. C. Morrison reported on valuable information she received at the county-wide meat-cutting and preparation school. She also gave a number of recipes to each member.

Mrs. Harvey Vaughan gave a report from the leader training meeting, held in Dresden recently and attended by Mrs. Lavern Owensby, Mrs. Wayne Grissom, Mrs. Jim Burke, Mrs. W. C. Morrison and herself. Valuable information was received so that each may perform more efficiently the duties of the offices to which they have been elected.

Mrs. Jim Burke showed some mosaic art craft that she had made at the craft school she attended recently, and made an order for materials for the members.

Mrs. Helen Wylie gave a report and information concerning the knitting school being held in Dresden each Wednesday morning, also a report of the egg cooking contest held recently and information concerning the dressmaking school which will be conducted at an early date.

Mrs. Jim Burke was the winner of the recreation, conducted by Mrs. Harvey Vaughan. Mrs. Ellen Brown, the hostess, served a party plate and spiced tea to three visitors, Mrs. Ava Jones, Mrs. Hawks, Mrs. Lucy Simpson, fourteen members, and Mrs. Helen Wylie.

The April meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Johnnie Hazelwood on April 21 at 1 p. m. Visitors are cordially welcomed.

CANDY SALE

The Young Peoples' Social Club will sponsor a candy sale Saturday March 26 on Lake Street in front of Weeks' Store.

Make Tomorrow's Breakfast Today

Make tomorrow's pancake breakfast tonight? It's easy with most modern self-rising flours.

At one batter-making session, you can prepare enough pancake or waffle batter to last (under refrigeration), for three bountiful breakfasts. And the batter on the third day will be as light and lively as the day you made it!

The key is an unusual new phosphate leavening agent which most mills are incorporating in their already versatile self-rising flours. The new leavening agent, from the food laboratories of Monsanto Company, lies quietly until triggered by griddle heat, then it releases leavening power at just the right time to give pancakes and waffles full and flavorful lightness.

For Delicious Pancakes

2 cups of self-rising flour 1/4 cup cooking oil or melted butter, margarine, or shortening
2 tablespoons sugar
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups milk

Put eggs and sugar in a mixing bowl and beat lightly with rotary beater. Blend in milk and oil. Add flour. Blend together and beat until batter is nearly smooth. Do not overbeat. Usual batter for pancakes is cream-like in thickness.

Pour batter into a closable container, covered tightly to prevent surface drying, and place in refrigerator. Before each frying, stir to eliminate any separation.

Pour batter on hot griddle or frying pan (about 400°). Turn when bubbles rise to surface in center. Griddle is not hot enough if pancake is not brown when turned. It is too hot if bubbles at edge of pancake break before bubbles rise to surface at center. It's not necessary to add more milk or water while frying the pancakes.

For refrigerated batter to produce succulent waffles, use above recipe with these changes: 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 1/4 to 2 cups milk and 1/4 cup cooking oil, butter, margarine or shortening. (Waffle batter is usually thinner than pancake batter).

Soil Conservation Offers Approach To Wildlife Plan

"The Soil Conservation District program offers a natural approach to realizing the objectives of National Wildlife Week, says Charles Wright, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of the Fulton County Soil Conservation District, in announcing the preservation of natural beauty as the theme for this year's observance, now set for March 20-26.

"As civilization has evolved from a food-gathering society to an agricultural society, and finally to an industrial society, changes in the face of the earth have been both necessary and desirable," continues Wright, "but there is no reason why these changes should result in an ugly landscape instead of a beautiful one."

The Soil Conservation District Program has as its principal objective the use of land within its ability to produce adequate food and fiber for the present generation while retaining its ability to produce for untold future generations. "It seems to prove," says Wright, "that man can live in harmony with the land if he really wants to, and that he need not befriend his environment with eroded crop fields, denuded pasture, butchered forests, polluted streams, exterminated wildlife, and scattered domestic and industrial rubbish, all in the name of progress."

"The real natural beauty of the landscape is reflected not only in the vegetation it wears and the prominent features it boasts," points out Wright, "but also in its ability to respond to whatever demands are made upon it. This response determines how well nations are fed, people are clothed and life is enjoyed."

The chairman advises those who want to know more about how the soil conservation district program can help them to beautify their lands to contact Charles Martin or Scott DeMyer, the Soil Conservation Service technician, who assists the Fulton County Soil Conservation District.

Moralists, bent on saving the world, always want to tell other people what to think and what to do.

Nation's Rural Elderly Benefit From FHA Loans

A new high of $13 million in loans advanced by the Farmers Home Administration enabled elderly people living in the nation's rural areas to make important gains in improving their housing facilities during calendar year 1965, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman announced today.

The record amount loaned enabled more than 5,500 persons aged 62 and over to move into new or improved individual housing, or newly-constructed rental housing units in rural communities.

The gains represented a 61.9 percent increase in the amount loaned during a similar period in 1964 and an 84.1 percent advance in the number of older people in rural areas benefiting from the program.

"This specialized housing program has brought many untold benefits to our senior citizens," Secretary Freeman said. "For many of them, it represents the first independent living since retirement. They are now living out their lives in dignity in the communities where they have spent their working days and where their roots are deepest."

The greatest advance was made in loans for individual housing units. Funds amounting to $10,708,006, or 72.5 percent over the previous 12 months, were advanced to 3,473 borrowers for construction and improvement of individual senior citizen homes.

In addition, $2,408,330, or 27.3 percent over the previous 12 months, were advanced to 52 borrowers for construction of rental units for the elderly in rural communities.

During calendar year 1965, the 3 states with the largest volume of senior citizen rental housing and individual housing loans were Mississippi, 348 loans totaling $1,536,631; Missouri, 301 loans totaling $1,427,282; and Arkansas, 310 loans totaling $1,193,674.

Since 1963, the first full year of the program, the Farmers Home Administration has advanced nearly $28 million in loans for construction or improvement of such housing facilities. Loans have been made in all 50 states, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

Loans by FHA are made to applicants who are unable to obtain credit from private lenders at reasonable rates and terms. Loans are tailored to individual needs and are accompanied by assistance in farm and financial management.

For information concerning the Farmers Home Administration you may contact the Clinton office in the Clinton Bank building, phone 653-4103. Part time offices are held in Bardwell at the SCS Office on the second Friday of each month, and in Hickman at the County's Agent's Office on the second and fourth Thursday of each month.

Fulton County Homemakers To Attend Meeting

Eleven Fulton County Homemakers are planning to attend the annual meeting of the Kentucky Federation of Homemakers, March 29-31, at the University of Kentucky in Lexington.

Linton, Mrs. Donald Mabry, Mrs. Zoma Moss, Mrs. T. M. French, Mrs. Neal Little, Miss Alice Sowell, Mrs. J. E. Thomason and Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Kennedy.

"The Status of Women" is the theme planned for the three-day annual meeting. Speeches and panel discussions relating to the theme will be major parts of the program.

Presenting the keynote speeches during the meeting will be Miss Chloe Gifford, director of special activities, University of Kentucky; Dr. Naomi Albanese, dean of the School of Home Economics, University of North Carolina; and Leland Davis, vice president of the Kroger Company.

Other speakers on the program will be Mrs. Harry J. Braun, Campbell county, former state Federation president; Dr. G. W. Schneider, associate director of the UK Cooperative Extension Service; Dr. A. D. Albright, UK executive vice president; and Richard Stidom, 1965 International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE) delegate to Israel.

Other highlights of the meeting will include a special program on the opening night by the Kentucky Homemakers Chorus; recognition of the 1965 Kentucky Master Farm Homemakers; and the annual banquet, at which the major speaker will be Dr. Carl Winters, minister, author, world-traveler, and lecturer for the General Motors Corp.

Violators Of Burning Law To Be Cited

District Forester Gene Aubin reports that citation books have been issued to all Fire Control personnel in the 13 county Western District.

The citations can be issued by any Division of Forestry personnel for the purpose of enforcing the forest fire protection law, and particularly the 4:30 burning law, which is in effect from March 1 to May 15, and October 1 to December 15.

The 4:30 burning law briefly states that no person shall set or procure another to set fire to woodlands or any material capable of spreading to woodlands except between the hours of 4:30 P. M. and midnight. Violation of this law can carry a fine not less than $10 or not more than $100 or imprisonment for not less than ten days or more than six months. Plant beds are exempt under this law, but should the fire get out, the landowner will be held liable for damages and suppression costs.

George Harrington, County Ranger of Fulton County hopes that each of you will cooperate so that no citation will be issued. Just remember that people cause 95 percent of the fires through willful setting, carelessness, or neglect with fire.

OBION COUNTY

Joe Martin, County Agent
Union City, Tenn.

WHAT HORSES

Tractors were running full speed last week and some of the tractors have so much horsepower that it is almost unbelievable. While visiting with Earl Beeler near Troy last week Mr. Beeler and I looked at his tractor that has a Super Charge added and that he is using to pull a 6 plow breaking plow unit. Tractors like this can break over 40 acres a day while when we used to plow with mules one acre a day was a fair day. The upland type soils were really breaking good last week.

Farmers are still switching to larger equipment this year and it seems as if the change in our row crops particularly the cut back in cotton acreage has not slowed down buying new equipment.

WATCH YOUR ALFALFA

Surveys were made in a number of alfalfa fields in Obion County last week. Alfalfa weevil larvae were found in all fields surveyed.

The growth and degree of infestation does not warrant treating at this time. Fields should be observed closely from now until first cutting. We cannot predict accurately when alfalfa fields will need to be sprayed for the alfalfa weevil worms, but we would expect treatment to be needed within about two (2) weeks.

SOIL SAMPLE TIME

Farmers still have ample time to secure soil samples and have the laboratory results returned before crop planting time. The first two months of this year, soil samples numbers were very few due to extreme weather conditions but last week the number of soil samples mailed to the University of Tennessee Soils Laboratory really picked up when we mailed 226 soil samples through our office.

Today's Teen-agers Hep To Ideals Of National 4-H Service Program

With so much competition today for the leisure time of teen-agers, it is interesting to note that membership in 4-H Clubs often lasts up to 10 years, reports the National 4-H Service Committee.

"For example, in the national 4-H Leadership program last year, the average membership tenure of 12 national award winners was nearly 9 years," said a committee spokesman.

Long continuous membership may be partly due to the flexibility of the informal, educational 4-H program, observe adults working with the youth who are between 9 and 19 years old. There are available today, about 40 different projects or activities.

The national 4-H Leadership program is one. It is sponsored by The Sears-Roebuck Foundation and supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service. Its purpose is to develop character, self-confidence and an understanding of people and the importance of responsible citizenship.

"Nobody is a born leader," said Charles Freeman, program leader for a 4-H citizenship education and leadership development group which met recently in Washington, D. C. "It (leadership) has to be learned, and it can be learned." He mentioned "skills" and "understanding" as prime requisites.

The starting place can be anywhere in the club. Sometimes it is with office holding. Needed is recognized ability in sewing, cooking, electrical or mechanical endeavors, and in other areas such as health and safety.

Adult volunteer 4-H leaders guide and encourage the young people to be active in school and the community as well as in the club. Participation in the leadership program is entirely voluntary. Boys and girls "enroll," and at the end of the club year their contributions are evaluated by themselves, by the adult leader and by the county extension staff.

Awards are offered on a competitive basis at three levels: county, state and national. Each year six boys and six girls are chosen from 50 states as winners of $500 scholarships. The highest ranking boy or girl in the state will be named a delegate to the National 4-H Club Congress at Chicago with all expenses paid. Gold-filled leadership medals will be presented to the four top members in the county.

Right now there are more than 150,000 junior leaders helping younger members with their projects. All have been trained in the leadership program. More are needed, says the Extension Service.

You can usually judge your friends by what they do rather than by what they say.

Kentucky's Military Contingent Gets Crack Artillery Aviation Battery

A new Corps Artillery Aviation Battery has been offered to the Commonwealth of Kentucky and was accepted Friday by Governor Edward T. Breathitt to become a new unit of the Kentucky Army National Guard.

The new Aviation Battery, considered a prize by many, had official federal recognition ceremonies on March 1. Major General Arthur Y. Lloyd, the Adjutant General of Kentucky, said that the unit would be established temporarily in the Boone National Guard Center in Frankfort and ultimately would be moved to Lexington somewhere near the Lexington Bluegrass Field if land for a new facility can be found in that area.

The new unit, which cancels 11 other Army aviation elements presently in the Kentucky National Guard, authorizes 27 pilots, ten more than are presently assigned in Kentucky. It also will offer spaces for 71 new enlisted men.

A Corps Artillery Aviation Battery is authorized 19 aircraft. Nine of these are utility helicopters referred to in military jargon as a "huey" which carries about eight combat equipped men. The unit will have four light observation helicopters which usually carry the pilot and one or two passengers. Additionally the unit is authorized six of the Army's most modern reconnaissance aircraft, the "Mohawk", a fast, high performance fixed wing aircraft.

The new Battery will probably receive only 13 of the authorized 19 aircraft, General Lloyd pointed out, and some of these probably will be substitutes for authorized types until correct types become available.

Major Clancy B. York, 3108 Radiance Road in Louisville has been tabbed to be the Battery Commander of the new unit. Captain David F. Fleming, 1104 Timothy Drive, Frankfort, is to be the Executive Officer.

Captain Fleming said the unit would recruit ten Officers or Warrant Officers to fill pilot spaces created in the new unit. He said that any qualified military pilot who would like to join the Aviation Battery should contact him at the Army Aviation Shop in the Boone National Guard Center in Frankfort.

AUSTIN SPRINGS

By Mrs. Carey Frieles

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Austin returned home Monday from Decatur, Ga., after visiting with their son, James Austin, and wife. They report a nice visit while there.

A series of meetings began at New Salem Baptist Church the past Sunday. Rev. Russell Rodgers filling the pulpit at the eleven o'clock hour. The pastor, Bro. Rodgers, will be assisted by Rev. Douglass Nash, who arrived in time for Sunday evening service. Everyone is invited to come and worship during this week at night services only. It is the Evangelistic Crusade and all churches in the area are participating.

Fire went on a rampage at the Francis Roberts' farm, formerly known as the Huffman place. A crib was destroyed that held some hundred barrels of corn. The fire Department answered the call, but it had gotten such a headway, the damage all around was a huge loss to Mr. Roberts, who just moved there the past year.

Mrs. Dave Mathis isn't feeling so well at this time and suffers quite a bit of pain; therefore, has been a-bed a portion of the time. She is under the care of Dr. Wilson, of Dresden.

Fire burned over an area in Kentucky just off State Line Road on the Dodge Tucker place and farms nearby. Both Kentucky and Tennessee Fire Departments were called to the scene. All the farmers took tractors and plowed around the buildings Sunday, when the call for help was sent out. The damage wasn't too serious, except to the woods and pastures in that section.

Miss Margaret Bynum has been indisposed, due to a deep cold and sore throat. Also, her dad, Grant Bynum, isn't so well and can hardly get around.

I have just spent the week end in Paducah, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mitchell, Clay Street, and mother, Mrs. Addie Frieles. Mrs. Frieles celebrated her birthday on Friday, the 18th, reaching 86 years. She is as well as usual and able to be getting around.

Sam Mathis is now employed at the Clay Company in Graves County. He spent last week in Mississippi in the interest of his company, which is opening up clay pits in that area.

CHESTNUT GLADE

By Mrs. Harvey Vaughn

This correspondent, as well as others, is often told by friends who live in other localities of their interest in the home-town papers and the items from home that they read in the community news. Several items are included for their information.

Much farming is being done in this area at this time. Many acres have been broken in preparation for the planting season. A number of vegetables have been planted in most gardens. The weather has been unusually favorable in recent weeks for farm work.

Mrs. W. C. Morrison, Mrs. Fred Vaughan, Mrs. Ellen Brown and Mrs. Harvey Vaughan, from the Chestnut Glade Club, attended the knitting school in Dresden last Wednesday. A very large number of homemakers in the county are very interested in this most fascinating art at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Vaughan and Mrs. Lucy Gibbs visited Mr. and Mrs. Van Brann and Mrs. Rozelle Milam in Memphis last week.

Mike Wright had the misfortune of breaking a finger in football practice last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Richards and children, from Neosho, Missouri, spent the week end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Terrell and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Richards.

Mrs. Eula Rogers spent last Sunday with Mrs. Lilly Ray in Martin.

Mrs. Mattie Atkinson spent last week end with Mr. and Mrs. Irvin

Brundige and attended church at Ruthville Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Biggs Turner, Harvey Vaughan and Dale Winsor spent last Tuesday in Memphis. Mrs. Danner attended funeral service for a relative and the others attended an educational meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Vaughan attended a Band Seminar at the Martin High School last Sunday afternoon.

The amazing fact about our educational processes is the very little that students seem to learn.

BEWARE THAT SKIDI!

A light rainfall can be as dangerous as a downpour, advises the Kentucky Department of Public Safety. In a heavy rain, safety becomes a matter of real concern, but drivers tend to forget that a little rain makes a road twice as dangerous until they lose control or slide into the car in front of them.

EVEN BEFORE TELEVISION

Soap was invented shortly before A. D. 500, perhaps in what is now Germany. For a while people didn't know quite what to do with it. The well-to-do used it as a cosmetic, farmers to grease their carts and windmills.

schedule at 1:00 p. m. Well, we got completely carried away with some good conversation and that beautiful Bluegrass scenery after E'town only to look up and notice that we reached YOUR Georgetown arrival ten minutes BEFORE the three o'clock you had scheduled.

Well, we got sort of carried away with the speed and accuracy of YOUR schedule and were hitting that speed-o-meter to see how near you came to being right. Cincinnati we hit on the button... five p. m. ... Columbus, Ohio, five minutes ahead of time... 6:55 instead of the seven p. m. deadline you had scheduled for us.

And that's when we broke into some kind of hysterics! We realized, ALMOST TOO LATE, that in our enthusiasm to keep on time we had stopped only once briefly for gas... that's all! and I do mean that's all. No food, no drink... no rest! We might have gone on to Zanesville the first night. But in our frenzy to find a place for rest and peace we got all turned around in our directions, as you knew we would, so we didn't get "squared away for the night" until about nine p. m.

We went to church in Columbus and then took off for Washington, which we should reach shortly after noon... on OUR schedule.

The experience of today is not conducive to long life and the necessity for rest, no matter what company advertises it...

... Jo

(Paul's note: You can't win 'em all. But the major aim was achieved... they went directly to Columbus, managing to take the right fork at every crossroads. There are twice as many forks between Columbus and Washington, and since I haven't heard a word as to whereabouts since Saturday, I am only hoping...)

This Is National Poison Week! It's For Caution, Not Enemies

National Poison Prevention Week is being observed March 20-26. Harry A. Barry, Fulton County sanitarian, urges all Fulton County residents to be aware of the possibilities of serious accidental poisonings in their own homes. "Children under five years of age should especially be guarded as they are most likely to obtain substances around the house which might be harmful," Mr. Barry stated.

The U. S. Public Health Service reports that approximately 50 per cent of all poisons swallowed involve internal medications, and half of these accidents involve aspirin. Other substances reported include cleansers, kerosene, lighter fluid, furniture polishes and waxes, bowl and drain cleaners, pesticides, insecticides, and disinfectants.

As a part of your own Poison Prevention Week observance, Barry urges that you heed the following precautions:

1. Keep medicines and household products out of reach and out of sight of children, preferably in locked cabinets or closets.

2. Clean out your medicine cabinet regularly. In discarding old medicine, flush medicine down the drain, rinse container with water, and then discard container.

3. Never call medicine candy. When deceived in this manner, children may locate the bottle and eat or drink its contents.

4. Be sure all medicines and household products are properly labeled, safely stored, and always read the labels before using.

5. Keep all medicines and household products in their original containers. Cups, drinking glasses, and soft-drink bottles mean food and drink to children.

6. Keep food and household products separated. Cleaning fluids, detergents, lye, soap powders, insecticides, and other everyday household products should be stored away from food.

7. If your child is in the crawling stage, arrange to keep household products in places other than below the kitchen sink unless the cabinet is locked. If he is able to climb, find a shelf that is completely beyond his reach or, better yet, lock these products in a cabinet or closet.

8. Instruct your child that some products are harmful. Make him aware that he himself should be cautious and always ask about the safety of any bottle or can he finds around the home.

If accidental poisoning should occur in your home, call your physician immediately. Speed is essential. "Save the poison container and give it to the physician or hospital with its label intact and any remaining contents," advised Dr. Barry.

Accidental poisonings need not happen if the proper precautions are taken in the home. Poison-proof your home today.

Elton Ramage Retires From State Police

Elton (Buck) Ramage of Viola, a member of the Kentucky State Police, retired today after 18 years of service.

Ramage said he may run for the office of state senator from the First District which comprises Fulton, Graves, Hickman, Carlisle and Calloway Counties. George Brand of Mayfield now holds the post.

Ramage has been in the license examining department since January, 1951, working one year in Louisville, two years in Madisonville, three months in Bowling Green, and the remainder of his service has been in the First District.
Friday was his last day of duty. Tom Cohoon of Murray will replace him.

Ramage was born in Livingston County near Burna. He is the son of the late Aaron and Minnie Ramage.

Following school, he worked on a farm for two years, then during World War II for four years he was a guard at National Fireworks, a defense plant at Viola.

In 1948, he joined the Kentucky Highway Patrol and three months later the organization's name was changed to Kentucky State Police.

Ramage married Miss Rosalie Markey of Burna in 1934.
They have four children, Wendell Ramage of Mayfield; Mrs.
Pete Dublin of Viola, and Mrs.
Billie Lowe of Folsomdale and Wayne Ramage of Lowes, who are twins.

The retiring state policeman is a member of the Hickory Baptist Church, where he is chairman of the board of deacons, a church trustee and a member of the building committee. He is also a member of the Folsomdale Masonic Lodge.

Fultonians Drink Fluoride In Water, Mayor Reveals

FULTON, Ky., March 17—Citizens of Fulton have been drinking fluoridated water for years without knowing it, according to a report made by Mayor Gilbert Delmyer at Tuesday night's meeting of the Fulton City Commission.

Not that anybody has been sneakily adding fluoride without the public knowledge — nobody that is, except Mother Nature herself.

According to Mayor Delmyer, a recent analysis of Fulton's water supply revealed a natural fluoride content equal to 50 per cent of the amount recommended by dental authorities as necessary for helping to prevent tooth decay in children.

The mayor's comments did not include any mention of when — or whether — the City Commission would consider increasing the fluoride content the additional 50 per cent needed to bring it to the recommended decay-preventive level.

Club Will Send Member To Ecuador

FULTON, Ky., March 19 —
The Civitan Club responded to the necessity for fulfilling the quota of Fulton-South Fulton residents invited to an official visit in Ecuador.

John Jackson, president of the club, advised officials of the Banana Festival Friday that his organization would finance a trip for one of its members.

"We feel that the trip to Ecuador is a vital part of the program we are trying to put over for international goodwill. There is a sense of obligation involved in the invitation from the Ecuadorean government and we ought to fulfill it," Jackson said.

Mayor Rex Ruddle has made reservations to go to represent South Fulton. Fulton City Commissioner, W. P. Burnette and Mrs. Burnette are planning to make the trip.

Cousins Are Reunited After 42 Years

Clarence Bailey, and cousin,
Mrs. Leland Jewell in Fulton.
The Texans, also, were guests of another cousin, Mrs. Lillian Luther in Mayfield and friends,
Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Wiman of Hickman to the Tennessee state line, a distance of 6.129 miles.

ment is 19.399 miles.

Mrs. Reed Talks On Books And Travel

FULTON, Ky.—Mrs. Clarence Reed was the guest speaker at the drama and literature department Tuesday night at the Fulton Woman's Club. Twenty members and three guests, Mrs.
V. J. Voegeli, Mrs. Henry Hanna
and Mrs. Reed were present.

Mrs. Ernest Cardwell had charge of the program and introduced the speaker, who brought an interesting talk, "Landscapes of Books." She told how books could be used in travel, how it was more interesting to visit places about which one has read.

She illustrated her remarks with a number of books, which made her visits to various places more interesting. The first illustration was a book by David Crockett which she says was one of the "most unique ever written." The book deals with this section of the country. He tells of how in 1820 he and a friend took a trip to what was then Redfoot Lake. They went on a bear hunt and during the night the great earthquake came and "it felt like a baby in a cradle rocking to and fro." She said when she visits these places she often thinks of the book.

She also told of "The Great Meadow," the story of Fort Har-rodsburg and Daniel Boone, and Willie Cather's "Death Comes for the Archbishop," the story of a priest riding through New Mexico, and she gave some personal experiences in that country.

While on a visit to see her son in England several years ago, the book, "Wuthering Heights" by Emily Bronte made her trip to this place come alive, Mrs.
Reed said.

dents are: Dr. Irvin Linger, Transylvania College, Lexington; Dr. Phillip Davidson, Uni-

Step Taken Toward Planning Of New Building At Clinton

CLINTON, Ky.—Hickman County Fiscal Court has entered into an agreement with the Hinsch Co. for its assistance in planning and construction of a community building here.

Under terms of the agreement the court will not be financially obligated to the company in any fashion until such time as the project reaches a stage when bonds are sold to pay for the construction of the building.

The first step will be for the Ohio firm to send an architect here to discuss the project with the Fiscal Court, the Clinton city council and members of the Chamber of Commerce.

Should the preliminary steps go favorably, full plans and specifications would be made,

bond issues would be prepared and sold and construction would then get under way.

In such an event the Hinsch
Co. of Cincinnati would receive as its commission five per cent of the amount of the bond issue sold to pay for the building.
This commission would not include any percentage of any funds forthcoming as a federal grant.

The plans now are for a non-profit corporation to be established to own and construct the building. Revenue bonds would be paid off from rentals from the building which would include rent from the fiscal court for county office space, from the city of Clinton for city hall space, police and fire department space. Tentative plans are for the Hickman County board of education and the county public library to occupy portions of the building. Also being considered is the possibility of making available space to other local organizations and to private individuals for rent if desired.

Should the project prove feasible, financing would not require a vote of the citizens of Hickman County, unless leaders of the project should elect to finance it with general bonds rather than revenue bonds. General bonds require a vote of the people, while revenue bonds require only authorization from the directors of the non-profit corporation owning the building.

SPOTLIGHTING VARDEN FORD SALES

This week the Shopper "spotlights" the Varden Ford Sales, Fulton's agency for Ford Motor Company autos and trucks, located on the Mayfield Highway on the northern outskirts of Fulton.

This Ford agency is one of the oldest automobile agencies in Fulton, and its aggressive leadership in its field is the reason one sees so many Ford autos and trucks in the area.

Varden Ford Sales is located in a building that has been the Fulton agency for Ford for many years. It was the home of many of the predecessors of the present company, including the Huddleston Motor Company, J. V. Cash Motor Company, and Varden-Gould Motor Company... all Ford agencies.

The building houses a spacious showroom, attractive office, parts department where genuine Ford parts are stocked, large shop, and large paint and body department in the rear. Used cars for the company are now displayed on a large used-car lot about a block away, at the intersection of the by-pass and the Mayfield highway.

The shop is well-equipped with the latest devices for tuning motors and doing all kinds of motor and transmission repair work, and the body shop, one of the best in this area, is also staffed by skilled workmen who have the equipment for top-quality body work on all makes and models.

The present management of the company began in 1955, when Grady Varden and H. R. Goulder opened a Mercury agency at the Gould Implement Company out on the Mayfield Highway. In 1958 the Varden-Goulder partnership bought out the J. V. Cash Motor Company, discontinued the Mercury line, and took sales and service of Ford autos and trucks.

The partnership continued until May 1965, when Gaylon Varden, who is Grady's son, bought out the Goulder interest and formed a new partnership with his father, renaming the company the "Varden Ford Sales".

About this time the company opened its new used car lot.

Varden Ford Sales was honored last year as the leader in its group in the entire Memphis district, winning for Grady and Mrs. Varden a trip to Portugal and Italy as a reward.

Geared to aggressive leadership in this area, and having a popular car with a large following in this area, Varden Ford Sales is recognized as one of the community's leading agencies here.

Okay To Wear Many Non-US Decorations

WASHINGTON (ANF)—It's "yes, but..." for the acceptance and wearing of decorations and awards given to U.S. servicemen by foreign governments, according to the latest DoD directive on the subject.

According to the directive, servicemen can accept and wear any decorations, orders, and emblems offered by the Republic of Vietnam or any foreign nation whose personnel are serving in Vietnam with Free World forces, as long as that government confers such an award on its own troops.

"Individuals performing any duty whatsoever in connection with the Military Assistance Program" are specifically excluded from the authorization.

Another exception applies to theater or geographic service medals given for duty in a specific area—as opposed to those granted for outstanding personal actions or accomplishments, which are permitted.

The directive emphasizes that only one foreign decoration may be accepted for the same act or achievement.

The Army has published full details in DA Message 752788, dated March 1, 1966.

MAKE BREAKFAST A FAMILY MEAL

Last week we had you smiling, we hope, as you said "cheese." This week you may be groaning over the subject of getting your child to eat breakfast. Well, as my youngest son used to remark when he was five years old, "That's life." We never found out where he learned it.

Children's breakfasts are a problem in many households, for two reasons. One is that the wrong trends are permitted to develop into a problem, instead of being anticipated and prevented. The other—well, let's first talk about wrong trends. Why should a child dutifully eat his nutritious breakfast under the following conditions:

1. The various members of the family get up at different times and breakfast on their own time;
2. some don't eat any breakfast;
3. others take a cup of coffee;
4. nobody talks to anybody else if it can be avoided;
5. everybody follows his own pattern of breakfast;
6. they all expect Jimmy or Susie to do as they say, not as they do;
7. the only way to get attention is to keep mother worried.

Under such conditions, any intelligent child can hardly be blamed if he makes a project out of not eating. The first step in outwitting the breakfast impasse is to have the family eat breakfast together, even if somebody has to get up earlier than he otherwise would. An attractively set table, done the night before, a good breakfast with fruit or juice, milk, and cereal one day, eggs another, bacon or sausage another, an occasional omelette or chipped beef in cream, or waffles or french toast or pancakes, should tempt both children and adults, provided...

Mother The Key

Mother is the key person. If, even before her first child, she establishes good breakfast habits as a part of the process of civilizing her husband, the children are more likely to follow their parents' example, and the problem is less likely to arise.

The second reason a child's breakfast may be a problem in some households is that mothers are too prone to worry if a child doesn't eat everything put before him. This may be a carry-over from the "clean plate" fallacy, which was touted as a "health habit" some years ago. There are times when a clean plate can make a rebellious tummy. Grown folks don't eat when they don't feel like it? Neither do animals. Why should children? As long as it does not become a habit, an occasional "Mommy, I'm not hungry," should be passed off without a fuss. If it becomes habitual, a doctor may be needed.

IMPROVED BUT STILL NOT SECURE

Tiny microphones and other sophisticated snooping devices spawned by an age of electronic eavesdropping have captured the public's imagination.

The clever methods of trench-coated espionage agents are continually unearthed by government investigators.

Clearly outlined procedures have been established to regulate the handling of classified information and documents.

These things add up to a security-conscious public. And in the Army, where secret-keeping is a big responsibility, such watchfulness is essential, particularly during the present time of expansion and activity.

But, in our concentration on preventing a major security breach, we're liable to overlook some obvious causes of dangerous information leaks.

Take your telephone, for instance. It makes your job a lot easier—but it's not secure. Nor is the washroom or the snackbar, your desk drawer or your coat pocket.

Never discuss classified information over the phone or in public places. In fact, never discuss it anywhere unless the other person has a definite "need to know."

Never tuck classified documents in your pocket or desk drawer for even a few moments, and never leave them in the open unattended.

In short, don't let the habits of daily routine lull your common-sense security consciousness. It would be mighty embarrassing to be on the watch for spies—and be done-in by your own telephone. (ANF)

National Wildlife Week Finds Fulton County Planting In Pace With Progress

A young pine grove, set out several years ago—now serves as a nesting place for doves and songbirds—beautifies the countryside—helps to conserve the precious top-soil by serving as a windbreak and slowing the rapid run-off of water which prevents erosion. It will also serve as a source of income to the farmers in the sale of timber. Cattle have been known to prefer these pine groves as a place of shelter in cold weather, and the carpet of pine needles is luxuriously soft all year round. All farmers are urged to plant seedlings, and now is the time to get this job done. Whether there is space for ten trees or ten acres it pays in many ways to plant trees—it is a very sound investment in the future.

Kentucky has three State tree nurseries, at Pennyville State Park, Dawson Springs; Kentucky Dam Village State Park, Gilbertsville, and in Morgan County, all three are operating at full capacity now and are prepared to take orders for seedlings. They are stocked with short leaf, white, loblolly and Virginia pine; yellow poplar; black walnut and locust. Cost of the seedlings is $8.00 per thousand, and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will share the planting costs—ask your ASCS office for information.

WILDLIFE WEEK—Governor Edward T. Breathitt shows Clyde Hubbard (right), Louisville, president of the League of Kentucky Sportsmen, a poster urging the conservation of natural beauty in Kentucky. The poster is part of the promotion of March 20-26 as National Wildlife Week. Natural beauty is the theme of this year's annual observance, sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation.

The week of March 20 - 26 is National Wildlife Week — so designated to bring to our attention the great value of our natural resources. With the increasing population, building of super-highways, modern farming, and urban development our wildlife is often hardpressed to find food and shelter. The hectic pace at which we live does not allow for much time to notice the ravages being made by 'progress' on our natural resources.

It is the desire of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources to assist the other agencies and individuals in their cooperative efforts to reach the desired goal in fish and wildlife management.

"In the past twelve years," said James Alexander, National Fish and Wildlife Officer, stationed in Fulton County, "It has been my privilege to assist farmers and landowners in the planning of feed and cover plantings for wildlife. Not only do these plantings serve wildlife, they beautify the countryside protect cattle (windbreak shelters) and make stocktight fences."

Pictures shown in this edition of the News were all made in Fulton County and it is expected that others will consider the value of such plantings in the future. Remember our natural resources—soil, water, timber and wildlife—should be kept in balance, and that when they are gone—they are irreplaceable!

WHAT'S GOING ON

The cooking contest being sponsored by the Kentucky Poultry Federation for YFA-Ettes (wives of Kentucky Young Farmer Association members), is going real good. The district winners are all looking forward to the State contest to be held in Louisville, April 13. Under rules of the contest, the cook must use a recipe calling for at least one egg. Prepared dishes are brought to the district YFA meetings where they are judged.

ACTOR ROBERT MITCHUM roused laughs and loud cheers as he swaggered through the Army's 1st Infantry Division. On a stop at the base camp of the 1st Bn., 28th Inf. near Phuoc Vinh, he headed straight for the NCO Club. Dressed in western garb, Mitchum breezed through the club's swinging doors without doffing his ten-gallon Stetson—a violation of club rules. Transgressors are required to buy a round of drinks for everyone in the house. After seeing to the refreshment needs of the crowd of NCOs, Mitchum cocked his hat on the back of his head and said, "Best ten dollars I ever spent."

● Soldiers on orders for Vietnam will find answers to the most frequently-asked travel and assignment questions in a Command Information Fact Sheet compiled by U. S. Army, Vietnam, and published by the Office of the Chief of Information. The personal planning tips cover clothing and baggage, money, personal services, curfews, transportation, weapons, mail, leaves, churches and schooling, length of tour, legal matters, and immunization. The Fact Sheet is Issue Number 46 dated March 7, 1966.

● Hostile fire pay, proficiency pay, and foreign duty pay, can now be included in the total amount which can be allotted by an enlisted man serving outside the U.S. The new policy is contained in changes to AR 37-104. Soldiers taking advantage of the changes are cautioned, however, to adjust their allotments accordingly if any of their special pays are terminated.

Valuation of a house lot in Bayard, Iowa, rose sharply when boys dug up bottles of $20 gold pieces while building a play house. The land had once belonged to Miss Ella Beardsley, a recluse, and $17,000 had been found in her house after she died in 1958. No one had thought to dig around the yard.

Mary Cirile, a New York detective attached to the Pick-pocket Squad, captured two men after stopping one of them with a bullet on 45th Street. Then in court she picked the District Attorney's pocket just to show how the suspects operated.

WHAT'S GOING ON HERE

by Wendell P. Butler
Commissioner
Ky. Dept. of Agriculture
Frankfort

The Department in cooperation with the Kentucky Shorthorn Breeders Association had a highly successful show and sale March 12 at the State Fair and Exposition Center. This was the first year for the Shorthorn show and sale to be held as a National event. State breeders were able to build upon the structure of the former State futurity show and sale and develop an event that drew some of the Nation's top Shorthorns.

Richard Holt, Versailles, had the grand champion female, which shows that Kentucky animals can compete with the best. Windholme Farm, Orange, Va., had the reserve champion female.

The grand champion bull was consigned by Hollis Hanson, Connersville, Ind. It was purchased by Carl Jordan, also of Indiana, for $1,400. Windholme Farm, which showed the reserve champion female, also had the reserve champion bull.

Sale average for the 57 animals sold was $518. The top selling animal was the reserve champion female, which brought $1,425.

A change has been made in the standards for agricultural limestone in Kentucky. A new regulation requires that limestone must be ground so that not less than 90 per cent passes through a 10-mesh sieve and 35 per cent through a 50-mesh sieve.

Under former standards, at least 80 per cent was required to pass through a 10-mesh sieve and at least 40 per cent through a 60-mesh sieve. The calcium magnesium carbonate content of at least 80 per cent remains unchanged.

The latest change was made due to the fact that many firms were not able to provide the finer ground limestone. Many farmers were finding it difficult, if not impossible, to locate a source of agricultural limestone. Since lime is so basic to good land use, it was felt that something needed to be done to insure a supply for all farmers.

I would hope, however, that we can move toward standards requiring a finer ground product in future years. Finer ground limestone becomes available for crop use sooner than a coarse stone. This means farmers can apply lime and expect results the first year, something they can't expect if they apply coarsely ground limestone.

Natick Labs Perfecting Jungle Boot

NATICK, Mass. (ANF)—
No soldier in Vietnam would voluntarily jump on a punji stake, but that's exactly what Mr. Les L'Hollier of the Army's Natick Laboratories
here does almost every week.

The 76-year-old Mr. L'Hollier assisted in developing the stainless steel sole now being used in the Army's Vietnam jungle boots to protect against Viet Cong spikes.

To personally test whether the boots would withstand sharp Cong stakes, he put the plates in his own shoes and jumped from a desk to a board studded with nails.

"The soles of my feet didn't have a mark on them.
I knew we had a good product," Mr. L'Hollier said.

In addition to the plates, the footwear department at Natick further strengthened the boots by vulcanizing the rubber soles directly to the leather-and-fabric uppers, preventing them from coming apart in hard combat use. They also treated the leather portion of the uppers with silicone to keep them pliable after repeated wearing in the rice paddies.

The lab is now testing a new model which has the stainless steel shield permanently molded into the rubber sole and a tough nylon web to give extra ankle support.

Deep Strength

Spheres which contain the men and equipment in newly developed deep-diving research submarines can withstand a total surface pressure of 60 million pounds—a force equal to that more than 14,000 feet below sea level. The spheres are precision-machined from high-strength nickel alloy steels.

Nickel Leader

The free world's leading supply of nickel comes from eight mines operated by International Nickel in the Sudbury District of Ontario and at Thompson, Manitoba. Another seven new mines in these areas are being developed by the company.

Ironworkers building a garage in Pittsburgh took one look at the sculpture in the nearby Three Rivers Arts Festival and then welded together a birdlike figure of steel reinforcing rods, washers and a drift pin on their lunch hour. They smuggled it into the art show and it was promptly sold.

Observe National Poison Prevention Week

You may be sorry if you get lax
And leave detergent, soap or wax,
Drain opener, polish, ammonia, bleach
Within your curious toddler's reach.
For opening containers and taking a lick
May do much more than make him sick.
While even the toxic fumes can tell
The snooper who simply takes a smell.
You're only safe if you stash away
All cleansers 'till that happy day
Your toddler's reached five years of age
And passed beyond the curious stage.
And in the interim use exclusively Baking soda which cleans conclusively.
In either solution or dry (to scour)
It's the only food with cleansing power.
Now during Poison Prevention Week
Is the time to start this new technique
Of cleaning with soda... a safety measure
That insures the life of your little treasure.
