Frostbitten State Welcomes Warming Temperatures Today

By The Associated Press

Snow-covered and frost-bitten Kentucky welcomed moderating temperatures today, and the National Weather Service promised a weekend of relative warmth that could produce the first thaw of the new year.

Overnight lows generally were in the teens today, although some stations reported single digit lows and Bowling Green fell to zero.

The weekend forecast called for highs Saturday in the 30s and into the 40s in some areas Sunday, with lows in the teens to mid 20s. Such readings, along with accompanying sunny skies, could melt snow and ice that has collected since the first of the year.

In hard-hit Covington, for instance, that warming trend could help rid the area of some of an all-time record 24 inches of snow that has fallen since Jan. 1.

If temperatures rise as expected, clogged secondary roads may become clear for the first time in days, and hard-pressed natural gas and electric utilities might finally shake off a series of shortages caused by record consumption.

But energy officials continued to stress the need for moderation, asking residential customers, businesses and government offices to lower thermostats to 68 degrees or lower.

Officials pointed out that, even if the recent severe weather has spent its fury, the winter season has only begun and future cold spells could cause renewed energy crises.

Understandably, many Kentuckians have been thinking only of the present cold snap, the worst in more than a decade and perhaps one of the worst in history. For days, motorists have been unable to negotiate slick, ice-covered roadways, business and government activity has been either halted or severely curtailed, and the energy crunch has literally left many families out in the cold.

At least three persons have died from weather-related causes, police agencies report, and hundreds of others unaccustomed to sub-zero temperatures have been treated for frostbite as well as bruises and broken bones after falls on slick sidewalks.

A taken-for-granted supply system, the Ohio River, continues to be virtually impassable, and even the moderate weekend forecast probably won't help to break up surface ice, officials said.

Kentucky and other states along the river have felt the loss of the river. Normally, the state receives salt and other ice-melting chemicals on river barges, as well as fuel oil and other winter staples.

But because of the freeze, the state has had to round up fleets of trucks to help ship in supplies.

Thousands of school children haven't seen the inside of a classroom since last Christmas, and many systems won't try to start classes again until Monday. The Jefferson County system, the state's largest, has cancelled the last 11 school days.

Carpenter Predicts State Will Reach Goal

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Midway through the fiscal year, Revenue Commissioner Maurice Carpenter predicts the state will reach its estimated $1.2 billion income for the General Fund.

But, he said, there will be little, if any, surplus by June 30.

The General Fund finances most state government operations. It went slightly over $1 billion last fiscal year for the first time.

However, Carpenter said he doubts the state will attain its estimated revenue of $1.2 billion from the coal severance tax.

He based that forecast on the continuing downturn in receipts from the coal levy.

The severance tax yielded $44.0 million for the General Fund in the first half of the fiscal year. This was 3.8 per cent below the corresponding period last year.

"The coal market has become more selected and although production is slightly above the previous year, prices are not," Carpenter said.

The tax is based on the sales price of coal, with certain minimums set.

The commissioner said the impact of the current freezing and subzero spell also has an unpredictable effect on the severance tax.

"A lot of strip mining has come to a complete halt," he said, "and coal barge traffic has slowed or stopped on the Ohio and Kentucky rivers."

He pointed out that this could be offset by the additional consumption of coal by utilities.

The other major category slippage was in corporation income taxes.

They totaled only $53 million, or a 15 per cent drop for the six months.

"We believe this is temporary," the commissioner said. "Corporate profits for 1976 are generally up, but many corporations appear to be exercising their option to pay much of their tax later in the year."

The sales tax and individual income tax collections are doing well.

The sales tax total of $219.5 million was 14 per cent above last year and income tax collections of $183 million were up 11.8 per cent.

"We assume salaries have been increasing and most people are spending their increased pay," Carpenter said.

The Road Fund, which often is in financial straits, yielded $146.4 million in the six months, a 14.7 per cent gain.

Reevaluation Set Monday

Businesses Urged To Continue Early Closing On Weekend

Local merchants and residents were urged to continue cooperating with the local government in an effort to conserve the use of natural gas in Murray and Calloway County by the Murray Common Council, meeting in special session this morning.

The council heard reports from Mayor John E. Scott and gas system superintendent Tommy Marshall at the meeting, which adjourned at noon today.

Scott told the council that he, Marshall and Calloway County Judge Robert O. Miller had met earlier this morning and decided to urge the general public to continue the conservation effort at least until Monday, when the situation will be re-evaluated. Scott reported that businesses which had voluntarily been opening only from 10 a. m. until 3 p. m. since emergency situation was declared earlier this week, would be allowed to remain open until 5 p. m. on Saturday.

Scott emphasized that the program is strictly voluntary and said: "I've been real pleased with the way everyone's cooperated in our emergency."

Marshall explained that the cause of the emergency situation is that the gas system has been using more than its allotted supply of natural gas on a day-to-day basis. Marshall said that any overruns of the city's entitlement would cost the city an additional $10 per mcf (thousand cubic feet) in penalty charges.

Marshall said that if the city is able to conserve enough gas during the winter entitlement period, which ends March 31, and if the 50,000 mcf predicted overrun for the period can be deducted from the system's summer allotment, alternative methods of making up the additional gas used may become available other than paying the $10 per mcf penalty.

Marshall also emphasized his thanks to the public for their tremendous cooperation during the emergency situation.

The superintendent said that the system's four major users of natural gas, Murray State University, Tappan, Vanderbilt Chemical and Ryan Milk Co., had either entirely switched to alternate fuel sources or cut back drastically their consumption of natural gas.

Dr. Jack Rose, superintendent of the Calloway County School System, has announced the school system's plans to cooperate in energy conservation.

"In keeping with efforts to conserve energy, all Calloway County Schools will observe shortened school days during the week of Jan. 24-28," Dr. Rose said.

Officials Hope For New Weapon For Blackbirds

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky agriculture officials hope for a new weapon by next winter to use against the millions of blackbirds that plague farmers during their four to five month stay each year.

The more than 30 million starlings, grackles, cowbirds and redwinged blackbirds that migrate to the state annually have been unmolested most of this winter because of federal limitations on methods of exterminating them.

About 3 million birds were killed recently by detergent spray, and state Pest Control Director Coburn Gayle says poisoned bait in animal feedlots will get rid of some more, but the birds will be leaving in March.

Gayle said Thursday he is looking to federal wildlife officials for better blackbird control methods. "I hope their roost control people will come up with a good roost control material before next season," he said.

The only chemical the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service will supply for use against the giant blackbird roosts is PA-14, a detergent that washes away oils that protect the birds, causing them to die of exposure.

For that to work the temperature must be 35 to 45 degrees and there must be one-half inch of rain or more after the roost is sprayed.

Those conditions don't come along often. The birds have been in the state since October and the Agriculture Department has been ready to spray since November, but the right weather never materialized until last week.

A helicopter dumped about 1,500 gallons of PA-14 on a roost near Russellville in Logan County, and most of the 3 million birds there died.

Gayle is ready to spray other roosts, but now it is too cold to rain, so he is concentrating on the feedlot baiting project.

He said about 2,500 pounds of staricide, a poisoned grain bait, has been put out at about 100 feedlots in Powell, Shelby, Hardin, Simpson, and Logan counties.

"We've had the material out on a large scale for about a week," Gayle said. "They're eating it."

Birds that eat staricide usually die within a day or two, so officials will soon begin checking for increased numbers of dead birds in roosts near the baited feedlots to see if it is working, Gayle said.

Farmers with feedlots have complained bitterly to the Agriculture Department about the inroads made by the hungry flocks on their grain supplies. The birds also damage winter wheat, and sometimes corn before the fall harvest.

Agriculture Commissioner Thomas

Harris has said the losses to farmers run into the millions each year.

The birds also are blamed for transmitting animal diseases and possibly spreading histoplasmosis, a lung disease, among humans.

Gayle said if a chemical could be found that is suitable for use on the roosts in any weather, it could be used in the fall, before the roosts reach full size, and possibly prevent them from developing to the current levels.

"This would be not a stressing agent (such as PA-14) or weather related material but a contact killing material for birds," he said. "They're looking at one or two."

If one becomes available, he said, agriculture officials would not try to do away with the blackbirds completely, but only to "keep them in check, to where we could live with them."

Many Factors To Determine How Workmens Comp Will Drop

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A new law is expected to substantially cut Workmen's Compensation insurance premiums, but other factors — such as increased maximum benefits for injured workers — will determine just how much of a rate break Kentucky industries get.

Legislation hammered out during the recent special session of the Kentucky General Assembly was expected to result in a 14.2 per cent decrease in rates. State Insurance Commissioner Harold McGuffey said Thursday that is still a "ballpark figure," but that other factors could cut into the decrease.

Insurance rates climbed an average of 32.5 per cent last year.

The new rates — which probably will not be set before March — will be retroactive to Jan. 1, McGuffey said.

The commissioner expects to receive proposed rate filings from the New York-based Workmen's Compensation Council by early next week.

The council gathers data from insurance companies, industries and the state revenue department and prepares rate filings for 28 states including Kentucky.

Its filings are subject to approval by the Kentucky Insurance Commission.

McGuffey said the filings should reflect the legislative action taken last month, but that, "they may have something else in there."

For one thing, state law provides for an increase in maximum weekly benefits from $96 to $104.

If the companies pay out more money, they're going to have to collect more," McGuffey said.

"That will result in a slight increase," of about 2 to 2.5 per cent, he said.

Other factors also could mean a rate increase — such as the normal annual review of experience. Last year that accounted for 10.2 per cent of the rate increase.

McGuffey said Deputy Insurance Commissioner Jim Carigan will review the council's rate filings, directing any revisions that are needed.

Hospital Board Meets In Regular Session

The Murray-Calloway County Hospital Board, meeting in regular session last night, discussed several items, mainly on construction projects at the hospital.

The board members discussed the doctors office building now in the planning stages, and accepted a proposal from Gresham and Kerr, John Keeling Associates, on their contract to do the architectural work on the building.

The board also briefly discussed a proposed contract with the construction manager, but postponed action until further information is available on the financing of the office building.

Administrator Stuart Poston reported on the progress made on the financing, saying that he has completed the application for a loan from the Farmington Home Administration, which will be submitted today. The process will take from four to six weeks before a definite answer is received.

Poston also said that he has been in contact with commercial lending institutions and has received at least one definite proposal in the range of 8 1/2 per cent interest.

The board discussed some problems in negotiating the finer points of the agreement between the doctors of the Houston-McDevitt Clinic group. Consultants from the Drexel Tolland firm which has been handling the negotiations are expected to be here next week to work out some of the details.

Mayor John Scott brought up the possibility of putting a culvert in the creek on the south portion of the hospital grounds. He noted that a new bridge is needed on Eighth Street, and the city would need to know the plans of the board before beginning work. It was the consensus of the board that the area will eventually be developed into parking.

Dr. Lowry reported that Dr. Billy Pool has joined the clinic group and is now practicing at the hospital.

History Already Is Treating Ford Kindly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gerald R. Ford left town saying that history will treat his presidency kindly. It already is.

In an extraordinary moment, President Carter began his new administration with a tribute to his vanquished Republican rival.

"For myself and for our nation, I want to thank my predecessor for all that he has done to heal our land."

Applause, then cheers, for the loser, who leaves an uncommon legacy.

Denied in his quest to win the presidency for himself, Ford said in his last days that his greatest satisfaction was the restoration of trust and confidence in the White House he held by appointment.

Ford the President has been eulogized as the man who restored decency to the White House, but it was more than that.

That almost surely would have happened had another man succeeded Richard M. Nixon, who was not, after all, a hard act to follow.

A mere absence of scandal and wrongdoing was not enough to regain the trust shattered by two years of Watergate.

To the task of restoration, Ford brought a special gift, for he was an ordinary man, who never pretended otherwise. A better politician would have made a worse president for his time.

Here was a man who bumped his head sometimes, and tripped, and gave dull speeches, and couldn't pronounce the name of Sen. S. I. Hayakawa even when campaigning for him.

But he said he'd do his best. What the job demanded, he tried.

With Ford, what you saw was what you got, and that inspired trust. Even those who challenged his programs and questioned his competence could not find grounds to assail his motives.

His workaday style in the tasks of the presidency was never more evident than in the 2 1/2 months that followed his narrow defeat by Carter, as Ford sought to smooth the transition of power to his Democratic successor.

It was part of the job.

Yet never had an incumbent of one party done so much to assist the victorious candidate of the other. Carter said the cooperation was unprecedented.

While Franklin D. Roosevelt awaited inauguration, he shunned the defeated Herbert Hoover. Harry S. Truman wouldn't ride to the Capitol with President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower. When his turn came, Eisenhower privately described the incoming John F. Kennedy as "that boy." Lyndon B. Johnson was proper but no more than that as Nixon prepared for office.

This transition was different, and it was Ford's doing.

"I wanted the new President to get off to an easier start than I had," Ford said.

Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake

FOR SATURDAY,
JANUARY 22, 1977

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

ARIES

(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)

An unexpected invitation to an evening get-together holds some interesting surprises. Just what you need!

TAURUS

(Apr. 21 to May 21)

Self-control and a determination to avoid arguments required now. Persons born under some Signs may be a bit "edgy" so do nothing to stir up differences.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

You may have to make some quick moves. Answer is to have alternative methods in mind. Some of your philosophical concepts are now subject to sudden change.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

Extravagance in general not recommended, but spending on business entertainment now justified if good will results.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Don't let blind loyalty to a friend or associate involve you in a bizarre situation. It's a day for being strictly conventional.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

If you take minor annoyances in stride, as Virgoans usually do, you should enjoy your day. Chosen favors are nearer. Increased goals indicated.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Travel accentuated here. A short trip made on the spur of the moment could produce most interesting results.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

You may now be the recipient of some "inside information" regarding a business deal. Act on Monday.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Great joy on the home front! Some important papers you thought you had lost or accidentally destroyed suddenly come to light.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

This could be a day of great personal achievement. Make plans for attaining cherished objectives, but don't expect the unreasonable.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Avoid present tendencies toward recklessness and extravagance. You could regret such actions later.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

You may have been dwelling too much and too long on job and business affairs. Seek out your gayest and most frivolous companions and indulge in a bit of escapism.

YOU BORN TODAY have an amazingly quick mind; are often brilliant, sometimes erratic, in your methods. But no matter how, you DO achieve. You are a born activist, usually have many irons in the fire at the same time. But, also, you tend to scatter energies unwisely and to procrastinate with "musts" — which often leads to confusion and chaos as you try to make up for lost time. Once you learn to be systematic and to work at a steady gait, you not only will accomplish more but will be happier in the doing. You enjoy travel; are courageous, even against odds; are independent of spirit and extremely self-confident. Fields in which you could excel: literature, painting, music, the stage, designing and interior decoration. Birthdate of: George Gordon (Lord) Byron, renowned poet; Francis Bacon (Viscount St. Albans), writer, philosopher.

Snowbound Results in Attic Separations

This snowbound season reminds me of such a time in 1966 when school was closed and Murrians were passing the time in indoor activities. My concern was in getting ready to move from our three-story house to a new smaller one — making ready for retirement from my work with Murray High School, and separating the things I wanted to keep from the collection stored in the attic.

This separation began in February and involved going through a collection that had accumulated in our twenty years living in this place, and the forty years we had been married. Not only did I have our accumulation, but we had inherited from friends and relatives who moved away and left things for us to keep.

This separation and classification was a job I did not anticipate with any gleasure and began in February. But it had to be done and I made a plan to make it as pleasant as possible.

I reasoned that we could move and leave it all for someone else to keep but I did not want to have my closet and attic skeletons exposed to others. "I'll make a game of it. I'll consider it a chore of separating the sheep from the goats. The sheep will be things to keep and the goats will be discarded." How was I to know what to throw away and what to keep? Then it occurred to me that if things in the attic had not been used for five years, I could do without them forever.

Dressed in slacks and an old shirt, I tugged the first box from his hiding place under the eaves, thinking "This assignment could be fun and I could have it finished by night."

The box was untied and the contents exposed. The first thing for scrutiny was a bundle containing a shirt pinner for a little boy, and the blue denim to go with it. "Oh, I haven't thought of this since promising the Red Cross I would make it. Was that last year or the year before?" I tossed it into the place I had marked for the goats. Then it was retrieved. "I promised to make that shirt. I'll keep my promise even though it will present some embarrassment." Rather than find another unkept promise, I gave the remainder of the box to the goats.

The old hat collection was the next item. Taking each hat in my hands, I stroked it lovingly, remembering when it was bought and where I had worn it. "Wonder if it could be cleaned, retrimmed so it could be worn again?" I had forgotten this one with the pheasant feather. "Ola Nix had given me this feather. She told me how she had obtained it from one of her pheasant hunts. 'I must save it,' I thought.

There was the hat with the dozen red roses that I couldn't resist February's ago. "I can use these roses for another hat or for decorations. They are too pretty to give to the goats," and the roses went into the sheep corral. The remainder of the box was held to the rule of discarding things not in use in the last five years.

Next came the old suitcase filled with photographs. "I've a notion to pitch suitcase, pictures and all without opening it, into the goodby list. No, there could be something precious in it." I raised the lid. What was the first picture I saw? My baby photograph that Mother had saved. "It's kinda cute," I thought and gently laid it with the keepsakes. There were the pictures of Grandfather and Grandmother. I can't throw them away. Grandfather is quite in style with his long hair, sideburns and whiskers. The faded kodak picture made on our wedding trip to Oklahoma prompted, "This I must keep, too." There were pictures of babies, family groups, couples, and graves covered with flowers. Many of them I could not identify, so the remainder of the box was fed to the goats.

After a morning of flashbacks and lunch, I went back to the memory show. The footstool bought for a bargain in an antique show in Frankfort, brought the thought, "Bless it, life was not long with us," for it had fallen apart soon after joining our family. Another old suitcase was opened. The suitcase alone represented a part of George's life. It was given him by the government when he was discharged from the army. It was unique in its style — was all leather, large, and expanded in size to meet the need, and was made secure with two leather straps. Someone borrowed it later and never returned it. Wonder where it is.

Upon opening it, my heart skipped some beats as I recognized the contents — bundles of letters. "I know this will be time consuming, but I have to read them." Some of them were so yellow with age, they were hardly readable. There were notes from grade school. Teachers considered it a crime to pass notes in school, but I had passed and received. Being a collector, I had saved many of them. I read and reread some of them and forgot time. I relived the days of teenage courting, high school days, and even college times. Some of these notes had been written with a pencil on rough paper and folded into a small size that could be passed without the teacher knowing. Others were more dignified and written on lined paper with beautiful penmanship. Then there I found the first letter that George wrote to me. I remembered it began our courtship and was written on the back of a Bank of Murray counter check. That was the summer I attended a teachers' summer school in the courthouse. George was circuit court clerk with office on second floor where many of us stored our books and lunches. That note found its way to the sheep pen, and I still treasure it.

These letters of other days reached over fifty years and represented the drama of my life. "Is there any reason for keeping them longer?" With a sad, silent last goodbye, I turned them into the goats.

The box of old purses was next. I curiously opened each one hoping to find money and some special surprise. There was the box filled with miscellaneous items. This took some time as each item presented another chapter of history. There were George's Army uniform, his discharge papers, our baby's first shoes. These were too dear to discard. The box of jewelry provided reflections. There was my first ring — a topaz mounted in gold, which my parents had given on my sixteenth birthday; another ring, a ruby solitaire had significant meaning. The dollar-ninety-eight watch I had used in my first school teaching; the double circle brooch that had been worn by mother; old ear clips, pins, strings of beads to occupy my interest and time. "What shall I do with them? They are still pretty and I might use them to decorate trinkets. They don't take up much room. I'll keep them."

A trunk, Dad's possession since he was a little boy, held pictures, his Bible, twists of chewing tobacco, a hymn book, his favorite vest, and two dolls. The china headed one was Mother's. She won it for getting the most spelling headmarks when she was a little girl. The doll had a china foot and fingers on a hand missing. They were broken by me as I played with the keepsake when I was a little girl. The other doll was a bisque with real hair and eyes that opened and closed and was my sixth birthday gift. There were quilt tops pieced by Mother in snowy winters past. Everything in the trunk could not meet my qualifying time standards. "I can't throw them to the goats. They are priceless."

There were other items — the feather bed Granny Hart had given us as a wedding gift and never used. "I'll have to keep it, I'll make gift pillows of it sometime." There were clippings from newspapers and magazines, many personally scribbled notes. The feather bed and collection of clippings found resing places with the sheep. "Must I keep the dress form that was modeled for my figure and never used? And this conch shell, worn but still pretty; the old violin and guitar; a cow horn, probably used in fox hunts; a cobbler's bench and tools. These last were inherited when we moved into this home. There were old picture frames. "Who knows, I may sell them for a small fortune as antiques?" They were classified as sheep, and I have them in my present home.

There were the closets and chests to cull; decisions to make about which furniture we would keep. Looking at the two heaps on the floor, I noticed there were many more sheep than goats. I had not accomplished much by my efforts, and still had the collection of sheep to store in another attic. "But this spring cleaning has been tiring and refreshing. It has provided a review of the past and a tie with the future." Most of these "sheep keeps" are today in my present attic. Maybe in some future snowbound time, I'll entertain myself in making other attic separations.

Rockefeller Center Is Here Looking out my north windows, I see what resembles Rockefeller Center. In Cutchin stadium there are men, women and children sledding, skating, and building snowmen and igloos. This is a natural setting for the fun in these freezing, snowy days.

I have not seen it but I've been told by Euva Alexander that Roy Cothran and his two children have built a snow replica of the Statue of Liberty. She says it is "worth one's effort to drive there and see it. He lives on Wells Boulevard Extended — the last house on the dead-end street. He is the principal of one of the elementary schools of the county. Mrs. Alexander lives next door to the Cothrans.

Sis Retaliates With a Low Blow

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: The clan gathered at my sister-in-law's house for a holiday dinner. Everyone was nice and friendly until Sis turned to me and in a very loud voice said, "Say, what color would your hair really be if you didn't dye it? Gray?"

Taken completely by surprise, I said the first thing that came to mind: "I'll tell you what color my hair really is if you tell me how much you really weigh." (Sis is very fat. She claims she has a thyroid condition, but she eats constantly.)

Well, things got pretty hot around there, and now the whole family—including my husband—is furious with me for insulting the hostess.

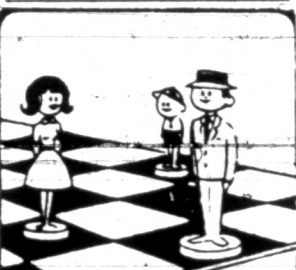

I don't see why her privacy is any more sacred than mine, but if you think I should apologize, I will.

NOT IRISH FOR NOTHING

DEAR IRISH: Even though she struck the first blow, you were childish and unkind to have struck a lower one. If it will restore peace in the family, apologize.

DEAR ABBY: I have always believed in God, and in His goodness, but I am now having doubts.

There are 365 days in every year, yet on my wedding anniversary, the most joyous day of the year for me, God chose to take my beloved mother from this earth. So now, instead of celebrating my anniversary, it has become a day of sadness and mourning.

Then I had a son. On his 10th birthday, God chose to take my beloved father from me. Again, a happy day was turned into a sad one.

Have you any words of comfort for me, Abby? I feel as though the Lord has punished me, but for what, I do not know.

Another thing. People describe themselves as "God-fearing Christians." I have read the Scriptures and can find nothing in them that says we should FEAR God. So, when people want to describe themselves as "good Christians," why do they say they are "God-fearing Christians?"

HAVING DOUBTS

DEAR HAVING: Read the Book of Job again and restore your faith in the Lord. According to my dictionary, "God-fearing" means "devout." The Old Testament tells us (in Ecclesiastes) to "Fear God and keep His commandments."

DEAR ABBY: When letters come to you asking about whether a girl should wear a bra or not, you should take the opportunity to say, "Yes," with a capital "Y," and then explain that girls who have ample bosoms and fail to support them become victims of Cooper's Syndrome.

To further explain: Native African women whose pictures you see in the National Geographic magazine have never known what a brassiere was, and consequently their breasts are all stretched out and hang practically to their waists. They are victims of Cooper's Syndrome...or Cooper's droop.

Please tell girls that as soon as they have something to hold up, they should invest in a brassiere, and wear it faithfully.

When I see young girls with full bosoms going braless, bobbing up and down and thinking they are liberated, I want to cry. It's too late for me, so sign me...

Down Concord Way...

Weather Discussed; Store Now Open At New Concord

By Estelle Spiceland
January 12, 1977

January's record breaking, cold weather taught us that in some ways, modern methods are not so far advanced from the ways of our forefathers.

When water pipes freeze, cars will not start, highways are too slick for travel, and so many are entirely dependent upon electricity for warmth, light, and food, we wish for the ingenuity and fortitude of those who could live without modern conveniences.

There is something to be said for those old homes with wood burning cook stoves and open fireplaces, water buckets and cisterns, wooded paths to neighbor's houses, and mule and wagon conveyances.

Of course there were hardships, but in those days a hot water shortage caused no panic. The iron teakettle was filled from the well and put on the stove or fireplace, and filled the need.

Maybe the outside of the human platter was not so scrubbed in those days, but surely the inner man's thoughts were cleaner than today.

I still wonder when I hear it said, "We have come a long way." Yes, but which way? Upward or downward, and if man has fewer worries in these modern days, why so many suicides.

Concord is glad to have the big store re-opened by the Beltons from near the Coast Guard Station, Paris Landing.

And we are glad the Tappan strike is at last over.

James Futrell was even optimistic about the snows. Said the snow would be worth lots to farmers' grain crops, besides hinder forest fires.

I had only thought of the discomforts to many and the accidents caused by slick roads. The young pianist for The Kings Sons narrowly escaped serious injury in a two car collision at an icy intersection. A congregation had recently enjoyed the singing of this group at the very comfortable, renovated Blood River Baptist Church.

People from different walks of life are needed during such times as these. Long ago a then successful business man from a city was visiting in Concord with his lovely young daughter. He jokingly said that after he educated her, she would likely marry a mechanic or plumber.

Now we have an over abundance of college graduates, but how indispensable are the mechanics and plumbers!

So let's not underestimate the service rendered by firemen, policemen, and all kinds of public servants. We are all dependent upon each other.

Our sympathy is extended to the sorrowing. May 1977 bring comfort and new hope to everyone.

Jesus Calls His Disciples

Having won a complete victory over Satan, who had assailed Him with all the seductive temptations of the physical senses, such as appetite, adventure, and ambition, and having begun His public ministry, our Lord was ready to call some disciples or helpers to work with Him in behalf of others, and then to carry on His work after His departure from them.

Mark 1:16-20

As Christ walked by the Sea of Galilee, He saw two pairs of brothers, one pair of whom was fishing and the other was mending nets. To Simon and Andrew, who were fishing, He said, "Come ye after me." This call was not to salvation, but to service. He challenged them to leave their fishing business, the loved ones with whom they were associated, and the interests with which they were surrounded in order that they might work in partnership with Him.

When Christ called men to assist Him in His work, He did not call learned men from the rabbinical school, but they were humble and busy young men from the common walks of life. The world's outstanding soul-winners have been men of humble origin, and often of meager training. Christ called these industrious and cooperative young men to leave their secular work as fishers of fish and to follow Him as fishers of men. He simply transferred the special qualifications of these men from the natural to the spiritual sphere. Fishermen they were, and fishers of men they were to become. However, before they could become what He wanted them to be, it was necessary for them to follow Him and learn from Him. Growth in ability, efficiency, and effectiveness is guaranteed to all who will follow Christ.

Without hesitating or attempting to excuse themselves, these men gave up their gainful employment, severed home ties, and went with Christ, believing that He was able and willing to supply all of their needs. When they responded to Christ's call, He trained, led, and blessed them in a great way. Linked to Christ's call is His glorious promise, "I will make you to become fishers of men." Anyone who follows Christ closely will be a fisher of men.

A successful fisher of men must live close to Christ, pray much, study the Bible, let the Holy Spirit guide him, be tactful in his approach to those for whom he is fishing, talk with the individual alone, show him his need of Christ and that he can be saved only by trusting Christ, refuse to be drawn into an argument, and depend upon the Holy Spirit to do His work.

Luke 5:4-11

Early one morning Christ preached to a large number of people from Simon Peter's boat. Then, He told Peter to launch out into the deep water and to let down the net for a draught of fishes. That command was contrary to all accepted rules of the craft, but Peter replied, "Master, we have toiled all the night, and have taken nothing; nevertheless at thy word I will let down the net." That was one of the finest expressions of obedience to Christ that was ever recorded. It was obedience in spite of physical exhaustion following the hard labor of the previous night. It was obedience in the midst of doubt concerning the remote possibility of success at fishing when the blue waters were shimmering in the morning sun. And it was obedience in spite of failure the night before.

As soon as they cast their nets into the water, their obedience was richly rewarded with a catch that filled both boats. This incident teaches that there is always a blessing in obeying Christ despite appearances or adverse circumstances. Abundant success will crown the efforts of all Christians who render implicit obedience to Christ. To trust and obey Him is the secret of a happy, successful, and useful Christian life.

Out of his remarkable experience Peter received a twofold vision. It was a vision of himself — his littleness and unworthiness. It was also a vision of Christ, who loomed more wondrous to him than ever before. His consciousness of sin and his contrition for sin qualified him for greater usefulness in the service of his Lord.

Christ called and commissioned these fishermen to the same kind of work, but in another and higher realm. They were no longer just to catch fish, but to catch men for Christ, which was a far more worthy occupation. It was and is the noblest work in all the world. In response to the command and commission which they received, the fishermen forsook all and followed Christ. Such followers are a joy to Christ and a benediction to the world. May we also yield our lives to Christ to be used when, where, and as He desires.

The Editor's Notebook

By GENE McCUTCHEON
Murray Ledger & Times Editor

We've got another (and hopefully the final) chapter to add in the saga of naming the new arrival at our house. For those of you that missed the first chapter, here's a brief summary:

After the birth of our new daughter, mom and dad decided to name her Jill Suzanne. Our four-year-old (Russell) however, had other thoughts. He wanted to name his new sister Melissa Jo, the same name as a classmate of his in Mrs. Betty Gore's pre-school class.

Russell came up with a solution to the problem of naming the baby girl, however. He decided that we could call her what we wanted to and he would call her what he wanted to. And that's exactly what he's been doing.

Then comes a note from the real Melissa Jo's parents, Bob and Bettye Baker. It seems that Melissa Jo, too, had given quite a bit of thought to naming our new arrival, only she had decided Rebecca was the appropriate name.

We had to agree with the Baker's. Jill Suzanne Melissa Jo Rebecca is too long a moniker to hang on any child, legally anyway.

Just to set the record straight, her birth certificate will list her name as Jill Suzanne. We'll just have to wait and see which of her "five" names she answers to.

O+O

Sid Bernstein, writing in Advertising Age, has come up with a story on the Let's Have Better Mottos Assn., run by John Yeck of Dayton when he isn't attending to the more serious aspects of sales promotion.

The mottos, which are pretty much cornball won't win any literary awards or displace any first rate comedians but they are fun. The stated purpose of the association is to do away with such mottos as "Think," "A Penny Saved is a Penny Earned," "Do It Now," and replace them with non-inspirational mottos.

Here's a list of nine mottos selected by a private jury as all time greats:

1. When It Comes To Giving, Some People Stop at Nothing.
2. To Err is Human, to Forgive is Against Company Policy.
3. When Everything's Coming Your Way, You're Probably on a One-way Street.
4. Keep Both Feet on the Ground and You'll Never Get Your Pants Off.
5. Quiet People aren't the Only Ones Who Don't Say Much.
6. How Can I Be Wrong When I'm So Sincere.
7. You Don't Have To Be A Cannibal To Get Fed Up With People.
8. A Friend In Need is a Friend to Avoid.
9. It's Not Whether You Win or Lose, but How You Place the Blame.

Bernstein added that his reason for repeating these favorite mottos is the newest motto of the month which he thinks (and we agree) is interesting and wise enough to deserve enshrining. It goes:

Just Because You Have a Job Don't Feel You Must Stop Looking for Work.

O+O

The energy conservation efforts agreed to by the city and county governments here appear to be working. We think the spirit of cooperation displayed by all concerned, businesses, government officials, institutions and individuals is noteworthy and deserving of praise.

Bible Thought

Wherefore we receiving a kingdom which cannot be moved, let us have grace, whereby we may serve God with reverence and godly fear. Hebrews 12:28.

What a joy to know that we have the unshakable foundation of God! Let us respond with joy and praise.

HEARTLINE

HEARTLINE is a service for senior citizens of all ages. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write HEARTLINE, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. Senior citizens will receive prompt replies but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: I was talking to a fellow Medicare beneficiary and he mentioned some sort of "carryover provision." What's that? S.F.

ANSWER: Under the law, any medical expenses incurred in the last three months of a year which are applied to your $60 Part B deductible for that year can be carried over and applied against your deductible for the following year. In effect, such expenses are counted twice.

HEARTLINE: What starts a "benefit period" under Medicare, and when does it end? V.K.

ANSWER: A benefit period begins the first time you enter a hospital after your hospital insurance coverage starts. It ends when you have been out of a hospital (or other facility primarily providing skilled nursing or rehabilitation services) for 60 days in a row.

A new benefit period then begins the next time you enter a hospital. There is no limit on the number of benefit periods you can have.

HEARTLINE: I receive $118 from Supplemental Security Income and a small Social Security check each month, but it doesn't meet my expenses each month, and I can prove item by item how much my expenses are. If I bring my receipts down to Social Security, can I get my Supplemental Security check increased? T.T.

ANSWER: Proving to Social Security what your monthly expenses are will not change the amount of Supplemental Security Income benefits you receive. The Supplemental Security Income benefit is determined by what income you have, and your living arrangement — that is, if you live by yourself, with another person, or in a home, and so on.

HEARTLINE: I am 72 years of age and work at a newsstand part-time. However, I don't make enough money to meet my expenses. Could I get any money under Supplemental Security Income? L.G.

ANSWER: That would depend on how much money you were making at the newsstand. The first $65 of income earned monthly, or $85 if you're not receiving any other income, is not counted in determining how much you will receive from Supplemental Security Income. And, if you earn more than that, for every two dollars you earn, your Supplemental Security Income check would be reduced by one dollar.

Call your local Social Security office to find out if you're eligible for Supplemental Security Income and if so, how much you might receive.

10 Years Ago

The Murray-Calloway County Builders Association held its charter banquet last night at the Holiday Inn. New officers installed were Clyde Johnson, Guy Spann, Jackie Burkeen, and Leon Cathey.

Formal approval of more than 2½ million dollars in federal funds to help construct a new fine arts building at Murray State University has been received from the U. S. Office of Education, according to Dr. Ralph H. Woods, MSU president.

The average for the sale of dark fired tobacco for the past week on the Murray floors has been listed at $41.11.

Deaths reported include Albert C. Weatherford, Sr.

In high school basketball games North Marshall downed Calloway and Fulton City downed Murray High. Stan Key got 36 for Calloway and Tony Rayburn got 18 for Murray.

20 Years Ago

W. B. Moser of Murray will be one of six leaders going with the seventy-four Boy Scouts from this area to the Fourth National Jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa., this July.

Deaths reported include Mrs. Fannie Hicks.

New officers of the Calloway County Farm Bureau are Holmes Ellis, Leon Chambers, B. W. Edmonds, B. H. Dixon, Mrs. Curtis Hays, Mrs. James Harris, and Erick Dick.

Fred Wilson was speaker at the special youth service held at the Spring Creek Baptist Church last night.

Showing at the Varsity Theatre is "Crime In the Street" starring Sal Mineo and "Keller's Kiss" starring Frank Silvera.

Automobile Safety And Children

By F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

Q: Mrs. U.D. expresses concern that her daughter-in-law drives her car around town and on the highway without any safety belts on herself or on her three children. The youngsters are all over the car, playing and romping and paying no attention to the dangers of a possible accident. This grandmother always fastens her seat belt, tries a bit of education and wonders what else can be done.

A: You have brought up a common, serious problem that has no ready solution.

Too many of us are careless about seat belt safety and take chances. Between 2,500 and 3,000 children were killed in 1973 in automobile accidents, and about four million are hurt annually, many with serious head injuries.

An infant who is too young to sit up can be restrained loosely in a basket that is belted to the seat. Larger children can be fitted with a harness or belt to prevent them from being thrown about inside the car, or dashed against the pavement in the event of a crash.

Safety information is available through the National Safety Council of Chicago, the Insurance Institute of Highway Safety of Washington, D.C., your local health department and many automobile dealers.

Your daughter-in-law is a typical American. According to a recent survey of over 5,000 automobiles containing at least one occupant under age 10, 93 percent of the passengers under age 10 were not restrained. Child passengers were more likely to be restrained if the driver was restrained, but 75 per cent of the children were not equipped with seat restraints when the driver was, even if he or she was the child's parent.

Obviously, additional safety research and education are essential to lessen driver and passenger accidents that result in deaths and disabilities.

How Many Adults Are Toothless?

Q: On the basis of a guess, Mr. R.W. made a bet at a party about the number of toothless Americans, and he wants to know the facts.

A: According to the American Dental Association, 23½ million American adults are toothless (edentulous).

Don't Keep it a Secret!

If you believe in God, tell others about it. Tell them about the difference He has made in your life. Each day you will meet someone who needs to know about God. They may have problems in their lives, but they might not know that God can help them.

Part of the joy of believing in God is sharing your faith with others. Learn more about your faith—read the Bible and attend the church or synagogue of your choice. Become a good disciple of God. Then go out into the world and tell others about Him. Don't keep it a secret.

Racers To Host Middle In Key League Battle

By Joe Tom Erwin

Murray State's Racers will play Middle Tennessee Saturday at Murray in a game that Racer Coach Fred Overton says "We have to win if we hope to stay in the conference championship race."

Murray will take 11-4 overall and 3-1 Ohio Valley Conference records into the game. Middle Tennessee is 12-2 overall and 4-0 in the league. In action last weekend, Murray beat Tennessee Tech 73-65 and East Tennessee 80-62 while Middle beat Eastern Kentucky 86-71 and Morehead 65-52.

"If Middle gets another win on the road by beating us they're going to about put themselves out of reach," Overton said of the next Racer foe. "On the other hand, if we win, we'll have great impetus for our game at Western Monday and be in as good shape as anyone in the conference race."

Overton says he hasn't seen Middle Tennessee play this season but that his scouting reports show the Blue Raiders to have a strong defense, good board strength, and good shooters. "They're a complete team," he says, "whose only weakness appears to be lack of depth."

The Raiders have played their last four games without their star Sleepy Taylor who has a leg injury. He'll be back for Saturday's game but is not expected to start.

The Raider starters will be 6-7 Greg Joyner and 6-3 Leroy Coleman at forward, 6-7 Bob Martin at center, and 6-4 Julius Brown and 6-3 Lewis Mack at guard. Joyner has averaged 12.6 points and 8 rebounds, Coleman 5.3 points and 2.7 rebounds, Martin 17.4 points and 9.1 rebounds, Brown 14 points and 3.7 rebounds, and Mack 11.6 points and 3.9 rebounds. Mack also has 81 assists.

As a team, the Raiders are averaging 74.4 points and 39.9 rebounds to opponents' 62.6 points and 39.6 rebounds.

Murray's starters will be 6-5 Mike Muff and 6-4 Zach Blasingame at forward, 6-5 Donell Wilson at center, and 6-8 Grover Woolard and 6-1 Jimmy Warren at guard. Muff has averaged 17.4 points and 8.3 rebounds, Blasingame 10.2 points and 4.1 rebounds, Wilson 7.8 points and 7.2 rebounds, Woolard 15.4 points and 6 rebounds, and Warren 9.5 points and 2 rebounds. Getting almost equal billing with the starters will be 6-8 forward John Randall who has averaged 9.7 points and 5.7 rebounds and 6-11 center Danny Jarrett with 5.3 points and 4.5 rebounds.

Overton says Randall has been the most consistent Racer since Christmas and that Jarrett becomes a better player with each game.

Overton said the Racers were their best of the season against East Tennessee but were still "about 15 points from their potential. We shot really well against East Tennessee (almost 60 per cent) and we've never got out on the break better. I think our holding our last three, opponents to 70 points or under shows that our defense has been consistently good."

The Racers shot poorly Saturday night against Tennessee Tech and had 32 turnovers but Overton said other facets of their game were good.

"In passing out individual pats-on-the-back, Overton praised Woolard's leadership, Muff's hard work and rebounding despite a shooting slump, Blasingame's hustle on fast breaks (he was 8 for 9 from the field against East Tennessee), Wilson steady play, and Wilson's constant improvement. "We've also got some steady play from Lenny Barber, Duncan Hill, and Tom Leffler in recent games," he said.

The women's teams from Murray and Middle Tennessee will play in the first game of Saturday's doubleheader. Their game will begin at 5:15, the men's game at 7:30.

Zach Blasingame Burns With Desire To Succeed

By MIKE BRANDON

Ledger & Times Sports Editor
When Zach Blasingame was a youngster growing up in the projects at Chicago, he never thought too much about his future.

He learned early in life to do what the contemporary gospel song says: One day at a time.

His mother worked because she was separated from her husband and there were six children in the family. By the time he was 11-years-old, Zach Blasingame was working.

In the neighborhood, there was a cleaners and Zach was taken in as an apprentice. He learned to use the steam press and he was taught how to sew and make clothing repairs.

He learned another trade to boot. In the front of the cleaners was a shoe repair shop and Blasingame learned how to repair shoes and stitch boots. He got good.

He got so good in fact that by the time he was a freshman in high school, he had dreams of owning his own business someday.

Across the street from the projects was a playground. And it is on the playgrounds of Chicago where college recruiters can often find more talent than they can at high school basketball games.

Every day, Zach played basketball, when he wasn't working at the cleaners. And every day, there was a little more conflict. Every kid in the city dreams of playing pro ball.

"I had to make a decision when I entered DuSable High School. I really wanted to keep working and help my mother. There was really good money at the cleaners and since I was the oldest of my brothers, I took it upon myself to look after my mother."

"I decided to go ahead and keep working but my mother told me we could still get by. She told me I had my own life to live and that I should play sports in high school."

As a freshman, Zach Blasingame stood 6-3 and weighed 185 pounds. He made the varsity team.

By the time he was a senior, he had scholarship offers in two sports. Zach was an outstanding cornerback and linebacker in football and of course, he was an outstanding forward in high school basketball.

Illinois and Wisconsin wanted him for football while schools like Maryland and Wake Forest wanted him for basketball. Why Murray State?

"One afternoon, Coach Overton and the coach from Wake Forest came by my school at the same time. I really respected Overton as a person. My impression was he leveled with me. I decided Wake Forest was too far away from home."

"I wasn't that much excited with the environment at Murray. But I liked the people I met and a few people I had already known were in school here so I figured if they could adjust, so could I."

His career almost ended as soon as it began at Murray.

One afternoon in the fall of 1973, he injured his knee in practice. Bad turned to worse. He had suffered torn cartilage and had to undergo knee surgery.

"I was pretty upset and down when I was in the hospital at Paducah. Here I was away from home for the first time and lonely. I'd call up my mother and she would give me advice."

"After I got the cast off, I discovered I'd lost a lot of my muscle. I just knew I'd never be able to walk the way I used to. I sort of cashed my athletic career in."

"But Tom Simmons (MSU trainer) convinced me I could come back and play." In the summer of '74, all I did was work on my conditioning. At Washington Park, they had this horse racing track and it was two miles around. I'd go out and run it twice every day.

"I finally realized it wasn't the end of the world."

Zach came back to Murray for the 1974 season. For a long time, he favored the left leg. Finally, after some advice from friends, he quit favoring the leg.

His sophomore year, he was one of the top players in the OVC. He scored 29 points at Tennessee Tech, 27 at Western Kentucky, 27 at Middle Tennessee, 22 at Austin Peay and 17 at East Tennessee.

For some funny reason, Zach never scored much in home games. The majority of Racer fans haven't really seen Zach play the way he is capable.

"I think it's a mental thing. Our floor at Murray State is considerably harder and when you fall on it, you can get hurt."

Everything went wrong his junior year. He was stuck inside and had to rebound against people five and six inches taller than he was.

The team started losing. Zach's attitude went down.

"The feeling of losing is something I don't like to live with. The more we lost, the worse I played. It was like a big nightmare."

But this summer, things turned for the better. Assistant coach Jim Calvin went out and recruited some talent, which according to Street & Smith, was the 28th best job of recruiting in the nation.

"I knew we were going to have a winner. I met a lot of the guys last spring and over the summer and showed them around campus. I knew they had the talent. So I went home with a different attitude."

"I didn't come back to Murray with the attitude of starting. I told myself that if anyone beat me out, they would have to be giving 101 per cent."

"Things are great right now. The togetherness on the team is strong and we can weigh out any differences we have. If we keep the unity, our 11-4 record could be 24-4."

"When we reach our peak, we're going to be something for the people of Murray to see."

Blasingame is excited about the basketball future at Murray State, though he won't be involved in it. He needs 11 more hours to graduate and will come back to school next fall to get his degree in marketing.

The one thing that makes this year so great for Zach is the winning feeling.

"After the time I scored 29 points at Tech, reporters came up to me and asked me how I felt. Man, it felt like I'd only scored two. It's not fun to lose."

"Then after the game at Tech, we came back here and I scored 14 when we beat Eastern Kentucky. I went crazy, I was going around and hugging everybody."

"Just the other night, I was standing at the free throw line. I just looked around at the crowd and it sent something through me. You just have to be a player to understand what a large crowd can do for you."

Blasingame once dreamed of playing pro ball. But after the knee surgery, the dreams were gone. Even yet, on cold and damp nights, he limps.

"I started concentrating on my classes and began talking with my advisors and counselors. When I leave here, I want to walk out with a piece of paper in my hand. I don't want people to think I just came to school four years and played ball and goofed off. I want my degree."

"I want to make something out of my life."

Zach Blasingame will do just that. Zach is a gentleman and is a very articulate young man. And he will be a college basketball player with a degree.

The world hungers for more young men like Zach Blasingame.

Nets Lose Williamson, 12th Consecutive Game

By The Associated Press

When is it going to end for the New York Nets?

The Nets lost their 12th straight National Basketball Association game Thursday night after learning earlier in the day that star guard John Williamson would be sidelined for about three games.

Tonight, the Nets face the Washington Bullets.

In the Nets' latest setback, they were routed 123-93 by the Kansas City Kings behind rookie Richard Washington's 26 points and 16 rebounds.

In the other NBA games Thursday night, the Portland Trail Blazers beat the Cleveland Cavaliers 99-91 and the Golden State Warriors topped the Phoenix Suns 107-103.

The Nets' troubles began in preseason when superstar Julius Erving was involved in a contract dispute and dealt to Philadelphia. High-scoring Nate Archibald later suffered a broken ankle. Then on Jan. 5, Williamson, their leading scorer, suffered an injured finger on his shooting hand and it was placed in a cast.

Forward Jan van Breda Kolff also is temporarily sidelined with an injury.

Kansas City led by as many as 40 points in the final period before the reserves took over. Bill Robinson and Ron Boone each added 21 points for the Kings. Bubbles Hawkins scored 25 points and Al Skinner 19 for New York.

Blazers 99, Cavaliers 91

Maurice Lucas scored 32 points and Bill Walton 25 as Portland increased its Pacific Division lead to two games. Campy Russell, who led Cleveland with 22 points, missed a shot and had one blocked after the Cavaliers moved within 93-89. But a field goal by Walton and four free throws by Lucas clinched it.

Warriors 107, Suns 103

Rick Barry scored six points in the final 45 seconds, giving Golden State the victory and ending the Suns' three-game winning string. Barry, who finished with 31 points, hit a jumper, snapping a 99-99 tie. With 15 seconds left, he sank a field goal and, 11 seconds later, hit on two free throws. Rookie Robert Parish added 18 points for Golden State. Paul Westphal scored 25 points for Phoenix.

TENNIS

BALTIMORE — Defending champion Tom Gorman walked into the quarter-finals of the Baltimore International Indoor Tennis Tournament when his opponent, Haroon Rahim, arrived late for their match and was disqualified.

Alabama Visits Tennessee In Key SEC Showdown Saturday

By ED SHEARER
AP Sports Writer

Third-ranked Alabama and No. 14 Tennessee are shattering the theory that the road leaves nothing but heartache in the Southeastern Conference.

Alabama, unbeaten in 14 games this season, has rolled past three tough foes on the road in posting a 5-0 SEC basketball mark. Tennessee has a one-half game edge in the race with a 6-0 mark that includes four victories away from home—one at Kentucky, the sixth-ranked team that is favored to win the conference crown.

Alabama visits Tennessee Saturday night in a showdown for the SEC lead, each hoping to extend its winning streak. Alabama has won 14 straight since last season's loss to national champion Indiana, and Tennessee, 12-2 overall, has reeled off 10 straight victories since a December setback by San Francisco, currently ranked No. 1 in the nation.

The Alabama-Tennessee clash is the key game on a full agenda Saturday that also sends Florida to Auburn, Mississippi State to Georgia, Louisiana State to Kentucky and Mississippi to Vanderbilt.

The State-Georgia clash is set for a 4 p.m. EST tipoff and will be televised regionally (NBC).

Four more games are set for Monday night with Auburn and Florida drawing the weekly bye. The schedule has Alabama at Georgia, Mississippi State at Tennessee, LSU at Vanderbilt and Ole Miss at Kentucky.

Kentucky also owns three triumphs away from home and the Wildcats are nipping at the heels of the leaders with a 4-1 SEC and 11-2 overall record.

Coach Ray Mears of Tennessee has noted the brilliant road records of each team and says he isn't sure the home floor advantage means much.

"These are teams that have grown accustomed to winning on the road," said Mears. "Neither is likely to be awed or intimidated by its surroundings."

Mears says if Coach C. M. Newton of Alabama believes the pressure will be on the Vols, "he'll be right. An Alabama victory in Knoxville would really put our backs to the wall."

Newton was thinking about that, however.

"It's a big game, but they all count the same," said Newton, attempting to steer Alabama to its fourth straight conference crown.

"Tennessee is a super team, particularly offensively," he said. "They are the same team we've been playing for the last couple of years, except they've got the center that will take the shot."

Freshman Reggie Johnson is the shooting center at Tennessee, averaging 11 points per game on a team that features All-SEC stars Ernie Grunfeld and Bernard King, each averaging almost 25 per outing. Then, there is Mike Jackson, who is scoring at just under 18 per game.

Lakers To Play Three Games At MSU Tonight

Looking for something to do tonight? How about a tripeheader?

That's what will be taking place tonight in the Murray State Sports Arena as Calloway County and Fancy Farm will hook up for three games.

At 5:15 the Fancy Farm and Calloway County girls' teams will play followed at 6:45 p. m. by the junior varsity boys' game.

The varsity boys' contest will begin at approximately 8:30 p. m.

The games had been scheduled for Jeffrey Gymnasium which is heated by natural gas. But because of the natural gas crisis, the games were moved to the Sports Arena where a different method of heating is used.

Saturday night, the Laker varsity boys and girls will be playing at Lowes.

Monday afternoon, the Laker jayvees will face Murray High at 3:30 p. m. in the Tiger gymnasium and then at 5 p. m., the two freshman boys' teams will meet.

Golfers At Crosby Tourney In Back Seat Due To Gerald Ford

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) —Hubert Green has the lead with a spectacular 65. Tom Watson is one pop back. Jack Nicklaus is in the hunt.

But, in the golfing extravaganza that is the $200,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, they had to take a back seat to an unemployed, 18-handicap amateur who — so far at least — hasn't helped his partner a single shot.

"I don't know where my partner was," Arnold Palmer said with a twinkle in his eye, "but he didn't help a bit."

His partner, one Gerald Ford, was airborne at that moment Thursday afternoon, enroute from the inauguration of Jimmy Carter in Washington to the spectacular beauty of the Monterey Peninsula. He was scheduled to play in the second round today — his first full day as an ex-president — as Palmer's amateur partner in the pro-am portion of this unique competition.

And they had their work cut out for them today on the Shore Course at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

"To make the cut," Palmer mused after a long look at the scoreboard, "we're going to have to go about nine under each of the next two days."

The 168 teams of a pro and amateur play one round on each of three courses — the Shore, Cypress Point and Pebble Beach — before the field is cut to the low 30 teams for Sunday's final round at Pebble Beach.

With Ford unavailable for competition Thursday, Palmer's individual total at Cypress Point had to count as the team score, which normally is computed on a better-ball basis, including the amateur's handicap. Palmer shot a shoddy 74. While the 47-year-old Palmer was having his problems in his first start of the season, Green took advantage of the unusually good weather to humble proud Pebble Beach with a seven-under-par effort that was just one shot off the course record. He would have had that but for a three-putt from 15 feet for his only bogey.

The tournament which traditionally offers wind, rain, cold and sometimes sleet and snow, produced hazy skies with mild temperatures and just a hint of a breeze.

"It's a fun course to play in weather like this," said Watson, a former British Open champion who had a shot at the title last week in the Tucson Open. He holed one bunker shot for an eagle three on the way to a 66, also at Pebble Beach, that left him just one stroke out.

Mexican Victor Regalado shot a four-under-par 67 at the Shore course, which also produced 68s from Gene Littler, Tom Kite, Billy Casper and Don Bies. Bill Rogers has a 68 at Cypress, probably the toughest of the three layouts.

"I've never seen Cypress set up tougher," said the favored Jack Nicklaus, who opened his season with a solid 69 at that course.

Hale Irwin had to play his back nine in 31 to salvage a 71 at Cypress. PGA champ Dave Stockton was one over at the Shore course. British Open title-holder Johnny Miller was two over on the same course.

U.S. Open champion Jerry Pate, a winner at Phoenix two weeks ago, had a 74 at Pebble Beach and defending champ Ben Crenshaw had a 75 at Cypress Point.

Murray State Track Team To Open Indoor Season Saturday

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

Cuthbert Jacobs and Lester Flax are gone.

Record holder Patmore Chatham elected to lay out of school for a semester and sprinter Derique Powell returned home to Arizona. All of that and you'd think Murray State track coach Bill Cornell would be crying over the prospects for the coming indoor track season.

Not so.

"I'm excited about the upcoming season," Cornell said.

"We have some outstanding talent. The loss of Chatham and Powell will really hurt but the thing that impresses me so far is that we have a lot of unity," Cornell added.

The track season for the Racers will begin Saturday afternoon in Champaign at the Illinois Invitational. Teams on hand include Illinois, Murray State, Middle Tennessee, Eastern Kentucky, Kentucky State, Lincoln, Northeast Missouri, Northwestern and Illinois State.

Chatham, a senior who holds school records in both the triple jump and long jump, outdoors and indoors, will be working in New York until next fall when he comes back to school and then finishes his final semester of eligibility next spring.

Powell, a 21.5 and a 9.5 sprinter, returned home to Arizona because of personal matters. He did not indicate if he would return to school later.

"Powell's loss is going to hurt particularly in the 440-relay," Cornell said.

In the sprints Saturday, Stanford "Joe Tex" Patrick and Don Manning will be the Racers entries in the 60 and 300-yard dashes.

Lettermen Norman Simms and Sylvester Onyekwe will run the 440, Steve Chrisafulli and Tom Potter will run the 600 while Martyn Brewer, Mitch Johnston and Mike Vowell will run the 880.

Moving into the middle distance events, Dennis Mabbitt, freshman Englishman Dave Warren and freshman Tony Keener will be entered in the 1,000 while in the mile are Brewer, freshman Englishman Pat Chimes and sophomore Englishman Tim Butt.

The two-mile run will feature junior Englishman Brian Rutter and freshman Englishman Richard Charleston.

Tom Potter will be running the 70-yard high hurdles for the Racers.

In field events, Murray will have no entry in the long jump or triple jump because of Chatham's absence. In the high jump, Axel Leitmyr and Bill Bradford will be the Murray entries.

San Francisco Upset By Athletes In Action

By DICK JOYCE
AP Sports Writer

Maybe it was the home court advantage.

It apparently helped a California-based group called Athletes in Action because the team upset the University of San Francisco, the nation's top-ranked college basketball team, 104-85 Thursday night at its home court in Anaheim, Calif. AIA's previous 364 games in its 9½ years of existence were on the road.

But these college basketball graduates now playing for the sports arm of the Campus Crusade for Christ recently found a home at the Anaheim Convention Center after all those years of away games.

The game was an exhibition, so the NCAA will not count it against the Dons, who boast a 19-0 record against college opponents.

"Well," said an AIA spokesman, "We didn't have much of a following for the first nine years, and we didn't think we could afford to play any home games."

A crowd of 6,715 saw Tim Hall, Irv Kiffin and Ralph Drollinger lead AIA, which claims it plays the toughest amateur schedule in the nation, to its 24th victory in 30 games this season.

Meantime, fifth-rated Michigan beat 19th-rated Purdue 82-76 and 16th-ranked Arizona downed Utah 102-98 in games involving other Top Twenty teams Thursday night.

Athletes in Action got 20 points from the 6-foot-8 Hall, from Colorado State, and 18 each from the 6-9 Kiffin, from Oklahoma Baptist, and the 7-2 Drollinger from UCLA.

Drollinger challenged San Francisco's 6-11½ Bill Cartwright and hit seven of 10 shots from the field, most of them 15-foot jumpers. AIA outrebounded the Dons 50-37.

AIA takes on seventh-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas next week — at home.

Michigan Coach Johnny Orr has found out the hard way that he may be right in claiming he has the best three guards in the nation.

When Rickey Green, the Wolverines' star guard, suffered a back injury with 7:36 remaining against Purdue, Orr called on Dave Baxter. The 6-foot-2 junior from Detroit responded with 10 points in the last 6:13, helping Michigan to a home court Big Ten Conference triumph.

Green twisted his back while scoring on a fast-break layup that put Michigan ahead 69-59 and was listed as a questionable startef against Illinois Saturday.

It was Michigan's 12th victory against one loss and made the Wolverines 5-0 in Big Ten play.

Green was Michigan's leading scorer with 22 points while Phil Hubbard scored 19 points and grabbed 14 rebounds. Baxter finished with 14 points.

Herman Harris scored 35 points, 23 in the first half, as Arizona tripped Utah for its 29th straight home victory.

Utah rallied from a 19-point deficit and trailed 99-96 with one minute left. But Harris tossed in three points for the Wildcats, 13-2 over-all.

In another Western Athletic Conference game, Arizona State beat visiting Brigham Young 86-84 in overtime on James Holliman's goal with three seconds remaining. Mark Landsberger topped ASU with 25 points. BYU's Mark Handy bagged 21 points.

Stretch Gregory's short jumper with 10 seconds left gave Wisconsin a 61-60 victory over visiting Northwestern and its first Big Ten conference triumph, snapping a five-game losing streak. Gregory led the Badgers with 15 points while Billy McKinney topped Northwestern with 29.

Greg Kesler's 24 points led host Michigan State 67-58 over Illinois, which got 20 points from Rich Adams. Spartans Coach Jud Heathcote benched his starting team for about five minutes in the first half, a move he claimed sparked his team to victory.

David Thompson tallied 22 points and Carlton Byrd 21 in Florida State's homecourt 97-74 win over South Florida, raising the Seminoles' record to 9-7. It marked the 200th coaching victory for FSU Coach Hugh Durham.

Robert Scrutchen scored 22 points as host Creighton overwhelmed Rockhurst 79-62, boosting its record to 13-2.

Eddie Jordan returned to his hometown of Washington, D.C., and helped Rutgers, 10-4, top George Washington 87-84 with a late steal and layup. Hollis Copeland scored 23 for Rutgers.

Charlie Brum poured in 22 second-half points to power Wichita State, 11-4, over Tulsa 68-48 in a Missouri Valley Conference contest at Wichita.

In other games, Virginia Military defeated Richmond 88-70; New Hampshire stopped Boston University 76-70; Wisconsin-Milwaukee routed Centenary 82-61; Utah State coasted over Denver 94-81 and Pepperdine beat Loyola of Los Angeles 69-57.

Sign Contracts

CHICAGO (AP) — Catcher Steve Swisher and three minor leaguers have signed with the Chicago Cubs for the 1977 season, bringing to six the number of players the team has under contract.

Swisher, first baseman Jerry Tabb, pitcher Dave Geisel and catcher Mike Gordon signed Thursday. They are the first players signed by Bob Kennedy, recently appointed vice president of baseball operations.

Check Return Carefully And Remember To Sign

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the fifth in a series of five articles entitled "Coping With Your Income Tax." They were written to help taxpayers prepare their 1976 tax returns.

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Although Congress made wholesale changes in tax laws last year, one thing is still the same. You have to file your federal tax return by April 15.

Here are some other reminders that might help:

—Be sure to sign and date your return. If you have a refund coming, the surest way to delay it is to forget the signature.

—Don't forget to attach your W2 form or other proof of earnings.

—Check to see that you have selected the proper filing status at the top of your return. Single persons should note that they do not qualify for head-of-household status just because they have their own home; you have to support a dependent to qualify.

—Be sure to use the proper column for filing status (single, married and filing a separate return, or married and filing a joint return) on the tax-rate table.

—If you had more than one job in 1976 and earned a total of more than $15,300, you may have had too much Social Security tax withheld. The maximum tax is $895.05. If your employers withheld more than that, you may claim the excess as a credit against income tax owed.

Remember those major itemized deductions: unreimbursed medical expenses, within limits spelled out in the tax instructions; state and local income, sales and gasoline taxes; interest expenses, including interest paid on charge accounts; contributions and union dues.

If you are accustomed to taking an itemized deduction for use of your home for business purposes, carefully read the instructions that accompany Form 1040. Congress sharply restricted this deduction; generally it will be allowed only if your home is your principal place of business and if a part of the home is used exclusively in your job.

This is an option, but you may earmark $1 of your taxes ($2 for couples filing a joint return) for the federal fund that finances the presidential campaign. But checking the "yes" box on Line 8 of your tax form will not increase your taxes or reduce your refund.

Don't forget to subtract from taxes owed the across-the-board tax credit. This allows you to cut your taxes by $35 for each dependent you claim or by 2 per cent of the first $9,000 of taxable income ($180 maximum) — whichever is larger. You get the credit whether or not you itemize deductions and whether you use the short form or long form.

Finally, don't throw away your records once you drop your return into the mailbox. Most tax records must be retained for three years; some, for longer periods.

Wealthy Recluse Dies Of Exposure

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police said a 72-year-old Cincinnati man, described as a wealthy recluse, apparently froze to death this week in his unheated home, rather than plug in an electric heater.

The victim was identified by police as George Melber. His body was found Tuesday in his kitchen, near a dust-covered collection of musical instruments.

"There was eight inches of water in the bathtub—frozen solid," a policeman reported. The only source of heat were two electric spotlights in his bathroom and living room.

More than $10,000 in uncashed municipal bonds were found nearby.

Relatives said Melber inherited large sums of money several decades ago, but spent little of it, living off the dividends.

"He had a lot of money, a couple hundred thousand, but he never talked about it much," said Bill Crawford, 72, a friend of Melber's.

Andrew Jackson was the first President to marry a divorced woman.

Bandstand
Plans 25th
Anniversary

NEW YORK (AP) — Remember Dick Clark's first guest star the day "American Bandstand" went national? It's a long time back — 20 years and more than 8,300 live performances ago.

The date was Monday, Aug. 5, 1957, hot and sticky in Philadelphia. And it was Billy Williams singing "I'm Gonna Sit Right Down and Write Myself a Letter."

"It was an innovation, it was an atrocity, it was terrible, it was great, it was a window on the youth world, it was called everything in the world. Mostly, it was called awful," Clark remembers two decades later. "Most adults didn't like kids to begin with, or mistrusted them, and the music was so bizarre it scared the hell out of them."

But within days of that first coast-to-coast broadcast on ABC-TV, "American Bandstand" was an American institution. Then, it was 90 minutes a day, five days a week, live. Today, "American Bandstand" is on once a week, on Saturdays, taped.

Clark, now 47, has assembled more than 100 of the industry's big names for a two-hour special on ABC-TV Friday night, Feb. 4. Clark calls "American Bandstand's 25th Anniversary" — it was telecast locally for five years before the network hookup — "a study of 25 years of popular music and some of the other things that went on."

Clark was a boyish-looking 25, a radio disc jockey in Philadelphia, when he took over the rock 'n' roll "Bandstand" in July 1956. The show, broadcast live from WFIL-TV, was "phenomenally successful," he recalls. "We had 67 per cent of the audience in Philadelphia. We were on a limited network then, in Pennsylvania."

ABC bought the idea the next summer, and, says Clark, "I was very confident, we would succeed. I was pretty sure it would catch on, though I had no idea it would last 25 years."

"American Bandstand" from coast to coast made an instant national figure of its host. At its high point, "American Bandstand" had an audience of 20 million a week and it was a trend-setter for the country's teen-agers.

"I mean, everything kids wore in Philadelphia they wore all over the United States," Clark remembers. "It was a very naive world, but there was a great deal of preplanning and knowledge of the audience that went into it. Tuning in on what their world was about and is about is the job."

"I'm 47 years old, and people say, 'How the hell do you know what's going on. It's a whole different world.' Well, it isn't. It's like a doctor or a lawyer or a professional."

The music of the discotheque is still very popular in the recording industry. It looks like it is here to stay.

Today we will look at Leo Sayer, Brass Construction and the group that is leaning toward disco sound — the Bee Gees.

Brass Construction is the newest of these disco groups to come on the music scene; and, their first album hit the charts in a big way. The group is described as part rhythm and blues, part funk and part jazz. In my opinion, they are a cross between Chicago because of their horns and Earth, Wind and Fire because of their vocals and rhythm.

Their latest album, "Brass Construction II" is pretty good and more refined than their first album. It has a little more vocals and not too much repetition within each cut.

"Ha Cha Cha" is their latest single and it is one of the best salsa disco cuts on the album. Horns come on strong on this one.

Other great cuts on the album are "Get To The Point," "Samba" and "What's On Your Mind."

Leo Sayer
We are now beginning to see a lot of British artists getting into the disco sound — Leo Sayer is one of them. Sayer, like the Bee Gees, fashions his sound with the high falsetto voice. In most cases, this has proven more effective — for Sayer it meant an overnight success.

The best thing that Sayer has going for him is his latest hit single, "You Make Me Feel Like Dancing." This single is

MR. GOODBAR

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Diane Keaton and Richard Gere will star in "Looking for Mr. Goodbar," the film based on Judith Rossner's bestselling novel, Paramount Pictures recently announced.

Miss Keaton will play the role of Theresa Dunn, the lonely New York school teacher who haunts the singles bars. Gere has been cast in the role of Tony, the man who murders her. Tuesday World has been selected to play Katherine, Theresa's sister, and William Atherton will appear as James Morrisey.

CHAC-MOOL SHOWING
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Chac-Mool from Chichen-Itza, a Maya-Toltec sculpture dating from the 10th to 12th centuries A.D., is on display at the Smithsonian's Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden through March 1977.

It is an official loan from the government of Mexico to commemorate the United States' Bicentennial. The reclining figure, found in the Yucatan peninsula in 1875, is considered to be the finest of its kind.

number 2 on the singles charts and has the great falsetto voice.

The worst thing Sayer has going for him is the album, "Endless Flight." Some of the cuts are old material. There just is not that much new material on the album except for the hit single. Therefore, the album is rated fair although it is not a smash success.

Bee Gees
Where as Sayer's album is a flop on the charts, the Bee Gees' latest, "Children of the World" is a smash success and has been in the top 20 for at least three months.

Barry, Robin and Maurice Gibb have a lot going for them on the album. For one thing, they have a great sound and secondly, they have three hit singles. The singles are "You Should Be Dancing," "Love So Right," and their latest single, "Boogie Child." "Love So Right" is the only hit single that is not really a disco cut.

"Boogie Child" may prove that the British just might outdo the blacks on soul sound.

Other good cuts on the album are "Subway" and "Can't Keep a Good Man Down."

It's No Joke

NEW YORK (AP) — Would you listen to a rock opera about the life of Eva Peron? No, it's not a joke.

Eva Duarte Peron, second wife of Argentine dictator Juan Peron, may be an unlikely subject for the idiom that produced Elvis and the Beatles, but how would a rock opera on the life of Christ strike you if you hadn't heard of "Jesus Christ Superstar?"

Well, the boys who brought you "Superstar" now bring you "Evita," a serious, entertaining, hard rock look at the woman who rose dramatically from less-than-respectable beginnings to the side of one of South America's most dominant figures.

"She's an extremely impressive person, a remarkable person," said Tim Rice, 32, who wrote the words for "Evita." "And that doesn't mean one admires her 100 per cent. I like to say most people are good and bad. She was very good and very bad."

The rock opera was unveiled in album form here this week for the media and selected trendsetters, including Sylvia Miles and Prince Egon von Furstenburg. A head-start single of one of the opera's most stirring songs, "Don't Cry for Me, Argentina," already has sold a quarter-million copies in England.

Rice caught the idea for "Evita" from a radio broadcast he heard in 1973, spent some time in Argentina "getting the facts and a feel for the country," then returned home to England to sell the idea to Andrew Lloyd Webber.

Rice got the facts — Eva Peron's mundane background, her career in motion pictures and on the radio, her marriage to then-Col. Juan D. Peron and the brief decade she spent as one of the world's most glamorous, powerful and beloved women. It ends with her death from cancer in 1952 at 33.

"I was not trying to make a political point," he said. "I was concerned with what made her tick. It wasn't going to be a deep, scholarly study."

Webber, 29, and Rice spent two years creating "Evita" from the sketchy biography.

"We were trying in a way," Rice said, "to get over in a piece of music in 1976 the kind of impact she had 25 or 30 years ago."

"Evita" from Webber and Rice is a striking and not always flattering portrait of a woman of unflinching energy, driven by a desire to improve the lives of the masses and revered as a saint by her "shirtless ones." She was hated by the army and Argentina's aristocracy and, after all, was the powerful wife of a powerful dictator.

Ford Trying To Get Golf Game 'In Shape'

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Private citizen Gerald Ford, who suddenly has a new set of priorities, is setting out "to get my golf game in shape" on his first full day out of the presidency.

Ford was partnered with Arnold Palmer in the Bing Crosby Pro-Am Golf Tournament here today after relinquishing the nation's highest office to Jimmy Carter.

As he flew from Washington to Monterey, Calif., after the Carter inauguration Thursday, Ford said he thought he had prepared himself well for the swift switch in power.

"We certainly took the attitude that our time had ended and President Carter's time had begun," Ford said, "and I said to him that we wished him the very best, that I was available to help."

But he said that his leave-taking was poignant anyway, and that he was moved when Carter began his inaugural address by thanking Ford on behalf of the nation.

"I thought it was good, I thought it hit the right tone," he said of Carter's inaugural address. "I naturally was very grateful for his opening comment and his very kind remarks."

Ford had spent 28 years in Washington as congressman, vice president and president, and, after the ceremonies, he asked his helicopter pilot to circle the city once before taking him to the airport.

At the airport he wiped away a tear or two as he climbed aboard the Boeing 707 that had been designated Air Force One whenever he boarded it as president.

"I don't deny I got a little sentimental," Ford said, "but tried not to expose it, to keep it within myself."

For about 10 minutes Thursday, as they rode along Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House to the Capitol, Ford and Carter chatted.

Because they had battled each other in the election, the subject of the chat might have been intriguing, but Ford said, "It was mainly just very nice pleasantries, small talk."

The former president said that he and Carter are friends, and that he will refrain from criticizing Carter for some time because "I'm going to be busy, he'll be busy, and I wish him the very, very best as he takes on some tough responsibilities."

Beginning with his State of the Union address last week, when he added a tantalizing "maybe" to a sentence that said it was his last speech there, Ford has implied he might seek office again.

"We've got a lot of things to do between now and then," Ford said Thursday. "I just want people to do a little thinking and speculating. I don't want anyone to move in and pre-empt the field without thinking they'll have a challenge from an old-timer who's got the good spirit."

Betty Ford said, "The only time that I really felt emotionally, perhaps upset was when we left the Capitol" where the inauguration ceremony was held.

"After all, Jerry and I were married in October (1948) and he was elected in November and our whole married life has been spent at the Capitol," she said.

Pricing For Best Profit

Without any doubt the most important element of selling a home is placing the right value on it. When you get right down to it, it's the price more than anything else which will dictate how fast (or slowly) it will sell.

What is the best selling price? National experience has proven conclusively that if your property is priced at inception within 5% above fair market value range the chance of making a clean, top dollar sale during the early stages is TEN TIMES greater than otherwise.

Buyers buy by comparison. Properties not competing favorably do not sell. Over-

Carter To Begin Work Without Three Of Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter will begin work without three of his Cabinet nominees who have to wait at least until next week to take office.

A few hours after Carter took the oath of office on the Capitol steps Thursday, the Senate confirmed by voice vote eight of his Cabinet choices and two nominees for top economic posts.

But several Republican senators demanded more time for debate and roll-call votes on the nominations of Joseph C. Califano Jr. to be secretary of health, education and welfare, Griffin B. Bell to be attorney general and F. Ray Marshall to be secretary of labor.

None of the nominations was considered in jeopardy. All 11 nominees previously won approval of Senate committees.

Califano's nomination will be voted on Monday after a debate limited to two hours. Sen. Robert W. Packwood, R-Ore., sought the delay in order to express opposition to Califano's stand against abortions.

On Tuesday, under an agreement to limit debate to eight hours, the Senate will turn to Bell.

Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., and others wanted time to review the extensive committee testimony on Bell's civil rights record.

After voting on Bell, the nomination of labor economist Marshall will be taken up, with no time limit yet set on debate. This is unlikely to be before Wednesday.

Some conservative Republicans, including Sens. Paul Laxalt of Nevada and Orrin G. Hatch of Utah, oppose Marshall as too pro-labor, particularly because he favors repeal of a federal law allowing states to ban the union shop.

The only Cabinet nominee acted on Thursday was those on which no senator asked for a roll call vote. Leaders agreed to the procedure to spare senators time to attend the inaugural festivities.

In order, the Senate confirmed: Secretary of Defense Harold Brown; Secretary of the Interior Cecil Andrus; Secretary of Treasury W. Michael Blumenthal; Secretary of State Cyrus Vance; Secretary of Commerce Juanita Kreps; Secretary of Housing and Urban Development Patricia Roberts Harris; Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland and Secretary of Transportation Brock Adams.

The Senate also approved Thomas B. Lance as director of the Office of Management

Persons May Still Enroll In Course

Persons may still register for the Spring Safe Boating and Seamanship Course being held each Tuesday from 7:00 to 9:00 p. m. at the Carr Health Building, Murray State University.

The cost will be $5.00 per person for registration and textbook fee with a reduced charge for each additional family member, according to officials of the Murray-Kenlake Flotilla 27-5 of the U. S. Coast Guard, sponsor of the class in cooperation with Murray State University. Classes will be held each Tuesday for fourteen weeks through April 19.

"During this emergency, all schools will begin one hour later each day, and buses will be making routes one hour later," he added. School will be dismissed in the afternoon at the regular time.

Each school has been instructed to revise its schedule so that the most productive and beneficial education plan may be continued for the students. Also, recess time, lunch hours, and other activities will be carefully evaluated.

The Murray Board of Education has also approved a minimum school day during the natural gas emergency, according to Fred Schultz, superintendent of Murray City Schools.

This shortened day began today, and will run through January 31, 1977. During this period of time the following schedule will be observed:

Carter Elementary and Murray Middle School will begin at 9:00 a. m. and dismiss at 2:30 p. m.

Robertson Elementary and Murray High School will open at 9:30 a. m. and dismiss at 3:00 p. m.

All buses will run one hour later than their regular schedules on their morning runs during this period of time. Afternoon bus schedules will remain the same.

Thermostats for class rooms and offices will be set at 68 degrees during this period and children should be dressed to be comfortable at this temperature. The cooperation of all school patrons will be greatly appreciated during this emergency, Schultz said.

Atkins To Investigate Purchase Of Orphanage

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky State Auditor George Atkins says he wants to know whether taxpayers got their money's worth when the state bought former orphanage property near Morehead in Rowan County.

The $685,000 purchase last year has been defended by the Department for Human Resources, which uses the three buildings and 17 acres for a juvenile treatment center.

But Atkins said Thursday he's not sure the state made a good buy, and his office will conduct a probe to find out.

"At this point, we're not talking about whether the transaction was legal or illegal," Atkins said. "We're talking about the proper management of state finances."

Was the transaction in the best interest of the taxpayers? Was it a good deal? These are the questions that need to be answered, he said.

Officials of the Finance and Administration Department, which approved the purchase, said they will not comment until officially notified of Atkins' investigation.

The former Baptist orphanage buildings and land had been leased to the state as a juvenile treatment center since 1971 for $20,000 a year.

In July, 1975, the Kentucky Baptist Child Care Board sold that property and an adjacent tract of about 100 acres to Larry Breeze of Morehead for $620,000.

He resold the entire property to Delbert Burchett, a Grayson developer, for $650,000.

Atkins criticized the transaction earlier this week in a column he writes for weekly newspapers.

The state, he said, "purchased only 17 acres of this property, along with the three dormitory units for $685,000, leaving the developer 100 acres, a residence and $35,000 more than he had paid for the entire piece of property in the first place."

He noted that Burchett has said he hopes, with development, to make the remainder of the property worth up to $3 million.

"That, to me, does not constitute a good deal for the state. . . it constitutes a good deal for the developer," Atkins said.

He said he would investigate the appraisal made before the state bought the property and also whether there were more economical alternatives, such as continuing to rent it, or buying it directly from the Baptists in the first place.

Then a public hearing will be held in mid-February, McGuffey said, to give any interested person an opportunity to comment.

McGuffey said the hearing will be advertised at least 10 days in advance, and that special invitations will be sent to all those who were active in hammering out the recent legislation.

Anyone wishing to comment or to cross-examine another witness must notify the Insurance Department 48 hours before the hearing, McGuffey said.

"I expect it to be a fairly long hearing," he said. "I expect more participation in this one than in any other workmen's compensation filing in the past."

McGuffey said public hearings on proposed rates will become standard procedure for the Insurance Department.
